Bradstreet's says: Trade conditions still favor the buyer. General fall demand, though fair in view of midsummer conditions, is still below expectations and below a year ago. Bank clearings are at the lowest for two years past, and failures are slightly more numerous, though no marked tendencies are perceptible. On the other hand, gross railway earnings hold the percentage of gain previously shown, and where prices are made low enough to satisfy buyers a heavy business is uncovered and readily booked, pointing to demand being still present and awaiting disposal. The crop situation as a whole is better, the outlook as to corn is for a 2,100,000,000-bushel crop. Spring wheat is turning out better in quality and quantity than expected, and there has been an unquestionable improvement in cotton crop conditions. The yield of apples will be the largest for many years, and fruits generally are yielding liberally and commanding good prices.

PRETTY FEET MAKE TROUBLE.

Claims of Rival Women at Oak Hill, Mo., Disrupt a Lodge.

The size of two women's feet has led to the disruption of the Oak Hill, Mo., lodge of the Royal Tribe of Joseph, and the members are quarreling among themselves as the result of a Cinderella party held at a summer garden. An aged shoemaker had the temerity to give a decision and selected Mrs. Adonis L. Camlin as the winner of the pretty pair of slippers. Another woman, who refused to take off her shoes before the public gaze, after the award insisted she had the smallest foot and those who had wagered on her as a winner took her part. The order for the shoes given Mrs. Camlin was countermanded and now there is all kinds of trouble growing out of the feet of the fair sex of Oak Hill.

CIRCUS TOUGHS CAPTURED.

Minnesota Militia Take Them to Cass Lake for Trial.

One hundred militiamen went from Duluth to Cloquet, Minn., to effect the capture of the circus followers who have been terrorizing the small towns in Northern Minnesota. They arrived there during the night and when the circus train pulled in quietly surrounded it and waited for daylight. The circus people knew nothing of their presence until they woke up in the morning. The sheriffs of Cass and Hubbard counties, who were assaulted by the toughs several days ago, were there and picked out the men they wanted, twelve in all. They were taken to Cass Lake. Most of them were armed, but offered no resistance to the large force of soldiers.

Four Killed in Collision.

A Monon passenger train collided with an engine running light at South Raub, Ind. Three passengers and James Hudlow, engineer of passenger train, were instantly killed, and a number of passengers severely injured. The names of the passengers who were killed are unknown. Henry Whitsell, the engineer of the light engine, was severely scalded.

Ate Toadstools for Mushrooms.

Mrs. Edith Norris, her daughter, Maud, 15 years old, and her son, Thomas, 13 years old, are dead at the Norris farm, near Harvey, Ill., as the result of eating poisonous toadstools mistaken for mushrooms. The father, J. A. Norris, two other daughters and a servant of the family are recovering from the poison.

Fatal Battle with Moonshiners.

As the result of a pitched battle with moonshiners near Johnson, I.T., one deputy marshal was slightly wounded and another, Schrimpsher, of Paul's Valley, is missing. The band escaped under cover of darkness. Schrimpsher is believed to have followed the band and been killed.

Starts an Anarchist Scare.

A bomb was accidentally exploded in a vault of the old City Hall, now used as a recorder's court, in Paterson, N. J. The report caused a sensation, and a rumor that anarchists had attempted to wreck the City Hall quickly became current.

King of Servia Marries.

King Alexander of Servia has wedded Mme. Draga Maschin, the ceremony being performed with great pomp. In honor of the event the king granted an amnesty, together with numerous political pardons.

Robber Steals Much Jewelry.

Twenty-five hundred dollars' worth of jewelry was stolen from J. W. Talbot's jewelry store in Nevada, Mo, while the proprietor and clerks were witnessing a circus parade. There is no clew to the identity of the robber.

Many Hurt in an Explosion.

A leaky gas pipe was the primary cause of an explosion at Scranton, Pa., which caused injury to nearly twenty-five persons, wrecked two buildings in the business part of the city and caused a property loss of upward of $150,000.

Appeal by Kruger and Botha.

President Kruger and Commandant General Botha have issued a proclamation promising to pay all damage done to the farms by the British, providing the burghers remain with the commandos.

Evasive Reply from China.

Li Hung Chang has replied evasively to the demands of Secretary Hay that Minister Conger be permitted to communicate direct with Washington.

Big Battle Fought.

Chinese troops were routed by 16,000 allies at Peitang. The allies lost 1,200 killed and wounded, chiefly Russians and Japanese.

Shut Down the Furnaces.

At a meeting of the Bessemer Association in Cleveland an important step was decided upon with the object of preventing a further decline in the price of pig iron. It was agreed that all the furnaces producing Bessemer pig should go out of blast on Sept. 1, with the exception of the furnace of the Brier Hill Iron and Coal Company and H. F. Andrews Hitchcock Company at Youngstown.

ALASKA'S GOLD BRINGS JOY.

Nebraska Couple, Parted by Adversity, United by Klondike Strike.

Thirteen years ago George H. Cutler and Miss Anna C. Hansen, both members of prominent families, were married at the home of the bride's parents not far from Greenwood, Neb. Cutler is the son of ex-Sheriff Cutler, who gave his son a small farm as a wedding present. Adversity, however, overtook the young couple and it became necessary to mortgage the farm and the struggle to lift the mortgage seemed to be more than Cutler could stand. In 1898 he scraped together all the money he could and started for the Klondike. From the time he left the confines of the United States no further tidings came from him. His wife came to the conclusion that he had died of disease or accident in the wilds of the Yukon country. Meantime Mrs. Cutler made heroic efforts to hold the farm, but it began to look as though she would soon lose her home. As a last resort her attorney advised her to sue for a divorce on the ground of desertion and ask the court to give her the farm as alimony. Finally the distressed woman permitted the attorney to file the suit for divorce. The decree was granted only a few weeks ago, and a few days after Mrs. Cutler received a letter from her husband dated at Cape Nome telling her that he had struck it rich in the placer diggings and had saved up $58,000 in gold. He said he was coming back to her. She at once wrote him the whole story. The truant husband replied and asked her if she still loved him and would be willing to marry him again. Mrs Cutler lost no time in answering the letter favorably. They arranged to meet at St. Paul, where they were married and with their sons left for Seattle to spend the coming winter.

TRIES TO KILL THE BRIDE.

Jilted Lover Attempts Murder at a Church at Pittsburg.

Isadore Stasiulis, a jilted lover, made an attempt to shoot Annie Rakaszis at St. Casimer's Church, at Pittsburg. The attempt was made near the church door just after the ceremony had been performed making Miss Rakaszis Mrs. John Kancewicz. Stasiulis claimed the girl had promised to marry him after keeping company with him nine years. As the newly wedded couple emerged from the door of the sacristy of the church Stasiulis pulled a revolver and attempted to shoot the young woman. Bystanders wrested the weapon from him. Stasiulis then said he would commit suicide in the Monongahela River.

Cruelty Prompts Parricide.

Fred Hines, 13 years old, has confessed that he poisoned his father at Fresno, Cal. The boy said his father treated him cruelly and had refused to allow him to drive his team. He concluded to kill him. He and his younger brother bought the poison, which Fred put in his father's coffee.

Manitoba's Wheat Crop.

The government crop bulletin places the total wheat yield in Manitoba at 11,000,000 bushels; 348,819 acres of wheat were completely destroyed by winds, drought, etc. The yield of wheat is estimated at seven and one-half bushels per acre.

Ohio Wheat Crop Small.

The Ohio crop report puts the wheat condition at 24 per cent of a full average crop, which means less than 10,000,000 bushels for the State. A fair crop of corn on a large acreage is promised.

Yellow Fever at Tampa.

One death and two cases of yellow fever are reported from Tampa, Fla. Although there is little fear of the disease spreading, Alabama and Georgia have established quarantine.

Little Girl Fatally Burned.

At Dunkirk, N. Y., Bertha Baldwin, 6 years old, was fatally burned. Her clothing was deliberately set on fire by a boy companion, who put a match to her dress.

Five Men Killed in Feud.

As a result of a fued existing between the Harris and Dooley families in St. Francis County, Missouri, five persons were shot and killed and a young girl severely wounded at a picnic at Doe Run.

Yacht Firemen Are Killed.

By the bursting of a steam pipe on the steam yacht Wacouta on Lake Superior two firemen were killed. They were standing near when the explosion occurred and both were scalded to death.

Full-Blood Governor Elected.

Reliable returns of the election for Governor held in the Choctaw nation show that Judge J. W. Dukes has been elected. Mr. Dukes ran on the full-blood ticket.

Milwaukee Shows Growth.

The census figures for Milwaukee, given out in Washington, give the total population as 285,315.

MARKET QUOTATIONS.

Chicago—Cattle, common to prime, $3.00 to $5.70; hogs, shipping grades, $3.00 to $5.40; sheep, fair to choice, $3.00 to $4.65; wheat, No. 2 red, 77c to 78c; corn, No. 2, 37c to 38c; oats, No. 2, 21c to 22c; rye, No. 2, 47c to 48c; butter, choice creamery, 17c to 19c; eggs, fresh, 9c to 12c; potatoes, 29c to 34c per bushel.

Indianapolis—Cattle, shipping, $3.00 to $5.65; hogs, choice light, $5.00 to $5.35; sheep, common to prime, $3.00 to $4.00; wheat, No. 2, 74c to 75c; corn, No. 2 white, 42c to 43c; oats, No. 2 white, 26c to 27c.

St. Louis—Cattle, $3.25 to $5.80; hogs, $3.00 to $5.40; sheep, $3.00 to $5.00; wheat, No. 2, 72c to 73c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 36c to 37c; oats, No. 2, 20c to 21c; rye, No. 2, 51c to 52c.

Cincinnati—Cattle, $3.00 to $5.40; hogs, $3.00 to $5.45; sheep, $3.00 to $4.50; wheat, No. 2, 76c to 77c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 40c to 41c; oats, No. 2 mixed, 23c to 25c; rye, No. 2, 55c to 56c.

Detroit—Cattle, $2.50 to $5.75; hogs, $3.00 to $5.40; sheep, $3.00 to $4.40; wheat, No. 2, 77c to 78c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 40c to 41c; oats, No. 2 white, 26c to 27c; rye, 52c to 53c.

Toledo—Wheat, No. 2 mixed, 77c to 78c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 40c to 41c; oats, No. 2 mixed, 22c to 23c; rye, No. 2, 51c to 52c; clover seed, prime, $5.05 to $5.40.

Milwaukee—Wheat, No. 2 northern, 73c to 74c; corn, No. 3, 39c to 40c; oats No. 2 white, 24c to 25c; rye, No. 1, 51c to 52c; barley, No. 2, 47c to 48c; pork, mess, $11.00 to $11.70.

Buffalo—Cattle, choice shipping steers, $3.00 to $5.80; hogs, fair to prime, $3.00 to $5.70; sheep, fair to choice, $3.25 to $4.75; lambs, common to extra, $4.00 to $6.25.

New York—Cattle, $3.25 to $6.00; hogs, $3.00 to $5.90; sheep, $3.00 to $4.75; wheat, No. 2 red, 78c to 79c; corn, No. 2, 44c to 45c; oats, No. 2 white, 27c to 28c; butter, creamery, 17c to 20c; eggs, western, 15c to 17c.

ULTIMATUM TO CHINA

AN EMPHATIC CABLE TO PEKIN FROM WASHINGTON.

Conger Message Results in Quick Action by United States Officials—Belief in Washington that the Country Is Near War with China.

Not only have imperial troops again attacked the international representatives at Pekin, but the Chinese government is reported as actually conniving to bring about their assassination. These facts were presented in the official cipher dispatch received by the State Department from Minister Conger. The message was telephoned to the President at Canton. Though the authorities have had every reason to believe that the Chinese government is responsible for the present conditions of affairs that prevail, it has apparently believed the polite fiction that a mob was in control in Pekin and that the imperial government was unable to regain control. Minister Conger's latest dispatch entirely dissipates any such belief. He states that the "Chinese government insisting upon our leaving Pekin, which would be certain death," and then that "rifle firing upon us daily by imperial troops." Taken in conjunction with previous information received by the authorities, there can be no longer any doubt that the Chinese government is directly responsible for the existing situation.

Taking everything into consideration, this message of Minister Conger contains more information in regard to the situation in Pekin, and the condition of the American citizens there, as well as the views of the Minister, than any message received from him since regular communication was shut off.

Acting Secretary Adee, who had been called to the department, communicated with Secretary Root, informing him that a dispatch from Minister Conger had been received, and by an appointment met that official at the White House. Before Secretary Root reached the White House the message from Minister Conger had been telephoned to the President.

There had been some talk between the President and Col. Montgomery, who talked for Mr. McAdee, regarding the international phase of the message of the minister, and when Secretary Root arrived the President talked with him as to the effect of the dispatch both upon this country and upon the other powers. For more than two hours these officials discussed the situation with the President and just before Secretary Root concluded the interview Adjutant General Corbin, who had been sent for, arrived to discuss the military aspect of the situation with the Secretary of War and through him with the President.

As a result of the conference between the President, Acting Secretary of State Adee, Secretary Root and Gen. Corbin, a cablegram was sent early Wednesday morning to Consul General Goodnow, including a copy of the dispatch from Minister Conger and advising him of the situation. He was directed to communicate this to Earl Li Hung Chang, to Sheng and to such viceroys as can transmit it to whatever government there is in the Chinese Empire. This cable contained what is said to be a very emphatic statement of the position of this government, saying that action is immediately necessary. While it is not, strictly speaking, an ultimatum, it is very close to it.

Reply Sent to Conger.

A reply has been sent to Minister Conger by the State Department to the message received from him. It advises him of the approach of the relief column and exhorts him to be of good cheer. The dispatch was sent direct to Minister Conger at Pekin, and a duplicate of it to Consul General Goodnow at Shanghai. Goodnow was directed to spare no pains or expense to get the message to Minister Conger.

PEI-TSANG A BLOODY BATTLE.

Bravery of Japanese Exposed Them to Murderous Cross Fire.

A dispatch from Chefoo says the allies attacked the Pei-tsang intrenchments on both sides of the Pei-Ho River Sunday morning and drove out the Chinese. When forced in from their outer works the Chinese blew up the bridge. The Japanese crossed the river exposed to a murderous cross fire, losing heavily. The fighting lasted from 3 o'clock until 11, with heavy losses on both sides. The Chinese retreated up the river pursued by the allies.

WHEAT CROP SHORT.

Less than Half That of 1899 in Minnesota and the Dakotas.

The yield of wheat in Minnesota and the Dakotas is now very accurately known. The fields have been gone over and inspected carefully until almost every field in the Northwest has been rated. The government report for 1899 placed the yield of wheat in Minnesota and the Dakotas at 157,710,550 bushels. In comparison with the season of 1899, taking the reports of about 400 correspondents of all classes, the present year's acreage shows scarcely any change over the previous year at the beginning of the season. The reports of correspondents, of elevator men, of farmers and of experts, in no instance concede more than half a crop for Minnesota. The reports from North Dakota are more positive. It is claimed that half of the wheat acreage was totally destroyed and that the remaining half was damaged 50 per cent. South Dakota appears to have fared better than her sister States. "With favorable conditions we will have 75 per cent of an average crop," say the best authorities. It is figured that there will be a shortage in the wheat crop of the three States of 82,862,951 bushels.

CONGER'S CABLEGRAM.

The following cablegram from Minister Conger was received Tuesday night by the State Department in Washington:

"To Secretary of State: Still besieged. Situation more precarious. Chinese government insisting upon our leaving Pekin, which would be certain death. Rifle firing upon us daily by imperial troops. Have abundant courage, but little ammunition or provisions. Two progressive yamen ministers beheaded. All connected with legation of the United States well at the present moment.

"CONGER."

MINISTER CONGER.

A TYPICAL CROWD OF CHINAMEN OF THE BOXER CLASS.

CONDITION OF CROPS.

Late Planted Corn in Several States Needs Rain Badly.

The crop report issued by the weather bureau gives the following summary of crop conditions: The week has been hot in the States of the Missouri and Upper Mississippi valleys, and while there was a general lack of rainfall over a large part of the country east of the Rocky mountains, excessively heavy rains fell in portions of the Gulf States and over portions of the Central Ohio, Upper Missouri, and Red River of the North valleys. Rain is generally needed in the Central Mississippi and Lower Missouri valleys, and in the Atlantic coast States from the Carolinas northward.

Corn, more particularly the late planted in the States of the Central Mississippi and Missouri valleys, would be greatly benefited by rain, but the early planted in these sections is generally beyond serious injury from drought. In the lake region and Ohio valley and generally in the Atlantic coast districts the crop has made good progress, but is beginning to need rain in the Middle Atlantic States.

The general absence of rain has been favorable to thrashing winter wheat, which is nearing completion in nearly all districts. Spring wheat harvest is nearly finished over the southern portion of the spring wheat region, where some thrashing has been done, and is well advanced in the northern portion. Portions of the Dakotas and Minnesota received heavy rains during the past week. In South Dakota late spring wheat experienced trying temperature conditions, and a larger part of the crop is being cut for fodder than was anticipated.

Over the northern portion of the central and western districts of the cotton belt the condition of cotton has improved, and while an improvement is reported from the Carolinas, the general condition of the crop in Georgia, Florida, and Louisiana is less promising, complaints of rust, shedding, and premature opening being numerous. The tobacco crop has made favorable advancement, and its condition is generally promising, although needing rain in Virginia. Some cutting has been done in Ohio, and cutting will soon begin in Indiana.

The week has been favorable for completion of the oat harvest and thrashing, the reports indicating good yields generally, especially in the State of the Ohio valley.

Plowing for fall seeding has made favorable progress, except in Missouri, where the ground is too dry.

CHARLES A. TOWNE WITHDRAWS

Declines Vice Presidential Nomination Tendered by Populists.

Charles A. Towne has formally withdrawn from the Populist national ticket. In a letter to the Notification Committee he declines the nomination for Vice President, saying in part:

"Everybody knows that either Mr. Stevenson or Mr. Roosevelt is to be the next Vice President of the United States. I am expected to take a laborious part in the campaign. I shall, of course, advocate the election of Bryan and Stevenson. The Democratic convention, before which I was a candidate, nominated Bryan and Stevenson. The silver Republican party, of which organization I was the official head for nearly four years, has nominated Bryan and Stevenson. In what light should I appear before the American people if, while advocating the election of one ticket, I should be going through the form of running on another? Nobody in the United States would think I had the slightest chance of being elected, and nobody would believe that I considered myself seriously as a candidate unless at the same time he believed me to be absolutely lacking in common sense."

"TOOTH FOR A TOOTH."

England Will Hold Chinese Government Personally Responsible.

England has notified the Chinese government that its members will be held personally responsible for the safety of the ministers and other foreigners in Pekin.

"An eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth," will be exacted. For every minister slain a Chinese official must die. Presumably the threat applies to the members of the royal family from the Emperor and Dowager Empress, through all the grades of princes of the blood royal, down to the Tsung Li Yamen.

This policy of restriction was announced in the House of Commons by Mr. Brodrick, parliamentary secretary of foreign affairs. He added that further information to the house would serve no useful purpose.

MUST STOP ATTACKS.

China Warned to Put Immediate End to Firing on Legations.

The State Department Thursday morning made public the text of the note addressed to the Chinese government through Minister Wu. The dispatch is not in the form or nature of an ultimatum. It insists, however, that the firing on the legations cease and that the imperial government, if it desires to show its friendliness, shall co-operate with the relieving column. Following is the text of note:

We are availing ourselves of the opportunity offered by the imperial edict of Aug. 5 allowing to the foreign ministers free communication with their respective governments in cipher, and have sent a communication to Minister Conger, to which we await an answer.

We are already advised by him, in a brief dispatch received Aug. 7, that imperial troops are firing daily upon the ministers in Peking. We demand the immediate cessation of hostile attacks by imperial troops upon the legations, and urge the exercise of every power and energy of the imperial government for the protection of the legations and all foreigners therein.

We are also advised by the same dispatch from Minister Conger that, in his opinion, for the foreign ministers to leave Peking, as proposed in the edict of Aug. 2, would be certain death. In view of the fact that the imperial troops are now firing upon the legations, and in view of the doubt expressed by the imperial government in its edict of Aug. 2 as to its power to restore order and secure absolute safety in Peking, it is evident that this apprehension is well founded, for if your government cannot protect our minister in Peking, it will, presumptively, be unable to protect him upon a journey from Pekin to the coast.

We therefore urge upon the imperial government that it shall adopt the course suggested in the third clause of the letter of the President to His Majesty the Emperor of China, of July 22, 1900, and enter into communication with the relief expedition so that co-operation may be secured between them for the liberation of the legations, the protection of foreigners and the restoration of order. Such action on the part of the imperial government would be a satisfactory demonstration of its friendliness and desire to attain these ends.

ALVEY A. ADEE,
Acting Secretary Department of State.
Washington, Aug. 9, 1900.

CANDIDATES ARE NOTIFIED.

Bryan and Stevenson Officially Informed of Their Nominations.

At Military Park in Indianapolis Wednesday afternoon William J. Bryan was notified that for the second time he had been chosen Democracy's candidate for President. And, for the second time in his life, Adlai E. Stevenson learned officially that his party had chosen him as its candidate for the second highest office within the gift of the people.

The crowd at the park was so dense that it was tedious progress for the procession that escorted the nominees. Along the line of march the throng surged forward and backward as they cheered for Bryan and Stevenson. Various estimates make the number of visitors in the city 20,000 to 30,000. In addition to these strangers all Indianapolis seemed to be on foot.

It was a sweltering but good-natured crowd. Clouds that obscured the sun early in the day were scattered by noon and the sun beat pitilessly upon the hosts. The thermometer registered over 90 degrees in the shade and in the sun, where the majority of sight-seers stood for hours, the temperature was over 100.

Military park was gay with flags and streamers; the walls of the Grand hotel, from where the parade started, were almost hidden by bunting and nearly every building along the line of march was decorated.

With the day's exercises the campaign of 1900 may be said to have opened. The addresses of Col. Bryan and Mr. Stevenson, in reply to the chairmen of the notification committees, sounded the keynote for the party that is seeking to secure the reins of government. It is anti-imperialism, [illegible] and [illegible] voted to this subject where ten are used for any other.

MOW DOWN CHINESE.

Russians Seize and Burn New Chwang After Slaughter.

The Russians, after a terrific battle with the Chinese at New Chwang, captured the city. The Russians carried the forts by storm and fought the Chinese in their trenches, which were constructed with great ingenuity. The defensive works of the Chinese were very formidable. They were also greatly superior in numbers to the attacking force, but were badly led and gathered in great masses, which were torn to pieces by the Russians' shells and mowed down by their rifle fire. After capturing the defensive works the Russians took possession of the native city and destroyed it by fire.

CHINA WAR NEWS.

The claim is made that the Chinese are using dum-dum bullets.

A large body of Boxers is gathering south of Tien-tsin.

Gen. Miles applied for sevice in China, but was turned down.

Chefu dispatch says the river is full of dead Chinamen, some decapitated.

Senator Teller declares the Chinese situation demands an extra session of Congress.

Cossacks are occupying the residence in Tien-tsin where Li Hung Chang received Gen. Grant.

The Governor of Mukden, Manchuria, in a proclamation, has urged his people to massacre Christians.

Americans and Japanese in Tien-tsin are said to have in their possession about 1,500,000 ounces each of Chinese bar silver.

Japs don't like British Admiral Seymour's visit to the Viceroy of Nanking, because he didn't advise them beforehand.

There is talk at Shanghai of an alliance between the United States and Russia to prevent the dismemberment of China.

Li Ping Heng is general of the troops in the north of the empire. He is intensely hostile to foreigners.

Aguin has again been taken by the Russians, after a stubborn fight. Chinese are being pursued in the direction of Tsitsikar.

The arrival of Li Ping Heng and Kang Yu prevented the Chinese at Tien-tsin from agreeing to peace after the city was taken.

A Berlin paper quotes Li-Hung-Chang as saying that under no circumstances must China cede any more territory to any power.

Members of the Tsung li Yamen, who were executed for friendliness to the foreigners, were not beheaded, but were cut in twain.

Chicago packers will furnish the government 2,000,000 pounds of meats within thirty days for the American soldiers in the Orient.

Russians who so roundly whipped the Chinese at Aigun captured a Celestial flag with the inscription, "The People of the Large Fist."

A Tien-tsin dispatch says the Chinese, seeing the large force of allies depart for Pekin, made an attack on the city, but were driven back.

INDIANA INCIDENTS.

RECORD OF EVENTS OF THE PAST WEEK.

Rocky Road to Matrimony—Boy Shoots Himself Rather than Reveal Marriage to His Father—Arrested for a Crime Thirty Years Old.

John W. Clemmons eloped at 2 a. m. with Miss Florence Jackson of Bridgeport, Ind. Muddy Fork creek, which the couple had to ford to reach the home of Magistrate Coombs, was bank full from rains, and when Clemmons waded in he was swept away, and had to swim for his life. He finally gained the bank and found Miss Jackson, who could not see him for the darkness. Putting her on his shoulders, he carried her across the creek, although they were both in danger of drowning at any moment. Magistrate Coombs married the couple, and, with their clothes still dripping, they went to the home of a farmer friend of Clemmons to borrow dry clothing. The farmer suspected burglars and fired on Clemmons, but missed him. Mrs. Clemmons screamed, and the farmer recognized his callers. He gave them dry apparel, and just as the sun rose served them a wedding breakfast.

Afraid to Tell His Father.

Otto Cottom, of Terre Haute, 17 years old, fatally shot himself because he could not summon courage to tell his father he had been forced to marry a woman 27 years old. He had been from home twenty-four hours, when his sister heard a pistol shot and saw her brother stagger into the house and fall on a bed. During occasional periods of consciousness Cottom told a story that a woman named Lou Chandler of National City, near Peoria, induced him to marry her on July. Several letters purporting to be written by the Chandler woman's father to Cottom were found, in which he threatened the youth with arrest unless he lived with his wife.

Wife Beater Fatally Hurt.

John Dowd was stabbed six times at Muncie, and probably will die. He was whipping his wife when Mrs. Larey Carey and her daughter interfered. Thereupon he struck them. Mr. Carey appeared and attacked Dowd with a knife, stabbing him six times in the face and three times on the body, one under his heart.

Arrested for an Old Crime.

Thirty years ago in a fight at Needmore, William Fleener killed John Cullon and escaped. A man named McClurg, who was mixed up in the brawl, served three years in prison. Recently Lafe Percifield, formerly a Columbus constable, but now living in Oklahoma, arrested Fleener on the Texas line.

State News in Brief.

New coal field will be opened at Riley.

Broom corn crop short; brooms will cost more.

Cigarette smoking prohibited in Winona park.

Miss Sarah Martin, 90, is dead in New Albany.

Whitestown is overflowing with counterfeit silver dollars.

Miss Laura Munsell, 60, New Albany, killed by suburban train.

Miss Florence Willing Gormly, Lafayette, will go on the stage.

Alois Kruk, 7, South Bend, beheaded while attempting to jump on cars.

Fred Todtenbier, 10, Connersville, killed by a pile of lumber falling on him.

Smith Duncan, Eureka, Ky., with $1,000 mysteriously disappeared from Evansville.

Mrs. Samuel Whetstone, aged 27, living near Elkhart, was found dead in her dooryard.

Elmer Colgan, Hartford City, is insane and thinks a mob is trying to steal his Bible.

Albert Spencer has gathered 1,300 gallons of blackberries from a farm near Portland mills.

An explosion of paints and oils started a fire that destroyed Welling's carriage factory, Sullivan.

Enos Phillips, Muncie, has gone to Cincinnati, to undergo an operation because he is double jointed.

Tillie Coyle, 20, Elwood, tried to kill herself with chloroform. Family troubles. Physicians saved her.

De Witt Simpson, Wabash, saved Richard Oswalt and Thomas Jones from drowning in the Wabash river.

Rev. E. F. Hasty, Muncie, is trying to raise $100,000 for infirm ministers and ministers' widows and orphans.

At Anderson Alex. Rogers, a lineman, took hold of a live wire while at the top of a pole and was electrocuted.

Fire gutted Simon J. Carroll's building at Logansport. Loss $12,000. Adjoining buildings were damaged $3,000.

Studebaker company, South Bend, has built twelve ammunition and ambulance wagons, to go with troops to China.

The horribly mutilated body of an unknown man was found on the Lake Shore Railway six miles west of South Bend. The body was cut in two. It is believed the man's name was Johnson and that recently he came from London, England. The indications are that he had been robbed.

Numerous melon growers in the famous Indiana melon districts report that there will be no crop this year. Many declare that they will not be able to realize sufficient to compensate them for the seed. Numerous producers claim that there are already symptoms of the dreaded rust, which is so detrimental to melons, and that if it spreads, as it invariably does, there will be absolutely no crop, as the melons will dry up before the arrival of harvest time.

A mass meeting at Logansport demanded that the Council grant no franchise to the Central Union Telephone Company that does not protect the people's rights.

Miss Laura Munsell, 60 years old, was struck by a Pennsylvania suburban train directly in front of her residence in New Albany, and received injuries which caused her death an hour later.

The body of Carrie Holdscraper, German, 20 years old, was found in a shallow pond near Somerville. The body had the appearance of having been in the water about twenty-four hours. She left her home to pick blackberries.

Miss Bessie Miles, aged 18, of Plymouth, is dead after a three years' illness. Her sickness is supposed to have been the result of swallowing a needle when she was a child.

Miss Edna Riggs, a young woman of Fontanet, shot and killed herself in a fit of jealousy. Miss Riggs quarreled with her sweetheart, Thomas Huly, and at the time threatened to take his life and then commit suicide.

At a church social given in Evansville nearly 400 people were poisoned by eating ice cream. Every physician in the city was busy all night. Some of the people were in a serious condition for a while, but all will probably recover.

THE PRAIRIE SCHOONER.

Slow was the weary, toilsome way
  Where creaked the heavy-laden wain—
Quaint follower of the speeding day
  Across the plain.

White canvas covers, bulging, fair,
  Inclosed fond hearts athrob with joy;
The builders of an empire there
  Found safe convoy.

Along its course child-voices sweet
  Marked all the strangeness of each scene,
While parents sought new homes to greet
  With vision keen.

No luxury or ease was here
  To lap the traveler into rest,
But stanch it bore the pioneer
  On toward the West.

Deserted now, its ragged sails
  Are furled—the port has long been won.
Sport of the boisterous, hurrying gales,
  Through cloud and sun.

Unused, forlorn, and gray, it stands,
  A faded wreck cast far ashore,
The Mayflower of the prairie lands,
  Its journey o'er.
—Overland Monthly.

BACK HOME.

A SMALL woman with rather bent shoulders and thin, gray locks stood on the kitchen porch. Below her, on the steps, was a young man whose shoulders were straight and broad, and whose locks were not gray. But his eyes were brown like the woman's and the line of his lips was modeled from the older feminine ones.

"Come, mother, I must look about the old place and you must go with me. It seems only yesterday, I left—things look so natural. Here's the corn a foot high—just as 'twas when I went away—the cherries tempting the robins just the same, and the clover smelling like honey. Come along, mother, now do! I want to see the spring house and the hen coops. Like as not they need some carpentering, though 'twas only yesterday, it seems like, they were good enough."

Yielding to her son's persuasion, and the delight of his return after many years' absence, the old woman descended the steps and walked by his side out through the barnyard into a lane leading to the pasture

"Seems like I ought to stay in and fix the fire for supper, David. Now I got you home again, I feel as though I'd kinder like to get a meal. You always made it worth my while to cook, David. Are you still partial to fried chicken and corn bread?"

"Am I? Do I look as though I'd pass by on the other side?"

The pair laughed with the harmless happy appreciation of a homely joke.

"Now here's the old board between the tulip poplars, by jing! Let's sit here, mother, and smell the hay. I want to hear all about your life while I was gone."

Slanting shadows fell over the meadow. The hay was piled in monster mounds in a corner, and through the June air came the fresh, clean scent of blooming elder. The old woman began:

"After you went west to seek your fortune, I was the forlornest woman in these parts. Father, he just moped, too, and how those first lonely days dragged I can't say. Everything seemed to mope, too. The hay was spoiled, the rust got into the wheat, and that year father had to put the first mortgage on the farm. Along about Christmas time I was as near discouraged as could be; I just pined for you, David. That's the time Ellie Martin's parents died, and the child had to be sent to the poorhouse. Never'll I forget the morning that little girl came a-running into my kitchen:

"'Oh, Mis' Allen,' she said, 'let me stay here with you. Don't let 'em take me to the poorhouse!'

"And the tears were running down her cheeks. She took hold of my apron and wiped her eyes with it, and looked at me so pitiful like I just couldn't keep from crying myself.

"'I'll be just as useful,' she said. 'I can skim milk, and feed the chickens, and, oh, lots of things.'

"I stood stock still there a minute, thinking how hard times were, and now the cows were sickening, and the chickens, too, for that matter. Then I looked at that orphan, and, thinks I, 'What if that was my David?' Father sat by the stove, and says he, 'Mother!' We looked at each other and then I took Ellie by the hand and says: 'Stay right here, Ellie; I guess we can manage.' The little thing was that happy she just hung on to me the rest of the day, and we hadn't any more tears from her till she went to Kansas last year."—

"Did you miss her much?" asked David.

"Miss her? Well, since she left, seems like father and me had grown old. I guess you couldn't understand what kind of a girl Ellie grew up to be. Why, she was the busiest, happiest child I ever saw. We never had cause to be sorry for keeping her out of the poor house. Father and I got to feel she was our own, and it went a long ways toward filling up that gap you left. And pretty! How that plain, little black-haired thing did blossom! Pity you never saw her, David."

"H'm," said David. "I've seen some mighty pretty girls out west."

"But not as pretty as our Ellie, sure. She promised to come back some day. You know how she came to go."

"Tell me that," said David. He leaned lazily back against the poplar and surveyed his mother.

"Well, you know her father's brother, who disappeared so many years ago? Well, he turned up and took the greatest kind of fancy to Ellie. He had a family out in Kansas, and nothing would do but Ellie must make them a visit. She was set against it, and wouldn't hear to leaving father and me. Harvest time was coming on and all the extra fall work. She shook her head every time going away was mentioned, but I noticed how keen she was to hear all the interesting stories her Uncle Reuben had to tell. Once I heard her sigh and say: 'It must be grand to see the world.' That settled me. I just made up my mind she'd got to go. I wasn't going to stand in the way when she had the chance to see something outside our cow pasture."

The old woman quietly wiped her eyes with the hem of her apron. David only smiled.

"You can't guess how lonesome we were, and how lonesome we feel to this day. No one bustling about and singing and chirking us up all day long." A long-drawn sigh, and then, looking fondly at her son, old Mrs. Allen said brightly: "But it is good to see you, David, and I only wish you had come to stay."

Dave Allen brought his palm down solidly on his knee and said:

"That's what I've done."

"You've come to stay?" quaveringly.

"Most emphatically," responded David. "I've prospered out west, but all the time I've hankered to come back to the old farm. Always, that was my idea. I've saved and laid aside, intending to come home and set the old place on its feet. I never got to feel at home anywhere else, and I've just dreamed of the pastures and that row of walnuts and the spring run, till it seemed I must get here if I ever wanted to be happy again."

The old mother wiped more tears with her apron, but looked anything but sad.

"The Lord bless you, David. There isn't anything else I need to make me happy."

"But I might as well own up my whole doing, mother, and confess I've brought home a wife."

The old woman started.

"A wife? Why haven't I heard this before?"

"Well, just listen a minute. As I had about made up my mind to start this way, I met a wonderfully pretty girl, and I just fell so deep in love it kept me waiting a little longer. You see, I had to give her time to return my sentiments. She wasn't a western girl, but had come to the town I was living in and was rather homesick herself. So we naturally were congenial, and in course of time she made up her mind to come home with me. It didn't take much coaxing. The idea suited her down to the ground."

David laughed aloud, and putting his arms around his mother's shoulder kissed her cheek.

"But where is she now?" asked the mother, looking rather dazed and uncertain.

"First promise to love her as well as you did Ellie Martin."

"In time, David, maybe in time; but I have to get used to changes first."

"Well, that's all any reasonable person could ask, I'm sure," said David, heartily. "As for wife, she's in the house. You see, I left her in the front room when I went to find you in the kitchen, and coaxed you out on purpose to let her get acquainted with father first."

Mrs. Allen started to her feet.

"Oh, I must hurry back to start the fire if we are to have company!"

"No hurry, not a bit of it," laughed David, but he rose and walked beside his mother. "Wife's getting supper. She said she would call us when 'twas ready."

Was the ground reeling under foot? The old woman's life had contained so little excitement that these crowding, astonishing events seemed like wild dreams. David drew her arm through his, saying gently:

"Don't you worry, mother! And look, there she comes! Isn't she pretty?"

A girl, light of form, with bright cheeks and shining eyes, was running toward them from the house. When she reached the couple she spread wide her young arms with a soft cry:

"Mother, I've come home again!"

And the old woman simply leaped to the girl's embrace, and in trembling tones murmured: "Ellie! Ellie!"—The Ledger Monthly.

"Contrabandista."

Sir Arthur Sullivan's first opera, "Contrabandista," was composed, scored and rehearsed within sixteen days from the time he received the libretto. Sir Arthur is the quickest composer on record; the overture to "Iolanthe" was commenced at 9 p. m. and finished at 7 a. m. the next morning. That to the "Yeomen of the Guard" was composed and scored in twelve hours; while the epilogue to the "Golden Legend," which for dignity, breadth and power—as a well-known critic once stated—stands out from among any of his choral examples, was composed and scored within twenty-four hours.

There is a story told of the composition of the overture to Mozart's "Don Giovanni." Mozart was always rather procrastinating, and the night before the public performance not a note of the overture had been put on paper, but then he set to work in earnest. Hour after hour he toiled without intermission, and by 7 o'clock in the morning the entire overture was in the hands of the copyists, and the same evening it was performed. Rossini's "Il Barbiere" was written in thirteen days. Donizetti, who wrote with even greater facility, is said to have composed the final act of "La Favorita" in an evening after dinner.

Wonderful Showers.

A wonderful dust shower fell in Hungary somewhere about four years ago. Analysis proved that this dust was identical with the sediment of the Nile. The dust was believed to have been brought by the wind all the way from Egypt, a pretty long journey for a dust shower to make. It must have been a high wind that brought a shower of wheat some years ago to the villagers in a place on the southern coast of Spain. The wheat fell like rain. There were so many witnesses of the occurrence that it was impossible to doubt it, but for some months it could not be accounted for. Then came the other side of the story. It was learned that shortly before this fall of wheat some farmers near the northern coast of Morocco had been threshing wheat with flails, when suddenly a tornado swept over the ground and carried all the wheat and chaff on the threshing cloth into the air. The cloth was swept away by the storm, and the farmers fell to the ground, but were not injured. When the storm had passed they were horrified at discovering that the result of their labors had disappeared. There seemed little doubt that the wheat which fell in Spain was that which belonged to the Morocco farmers. It had been blown clear across the Mediterranean.

A Generous Boy.

She had stopped on the sidewalk and was admiring the beautiful flowers in the garden.

"G'want some?" asked the mild lunatic, who was leaning against the fence.

"Oh, how good of you!" she cooed. "You live here, then?"

"Sure," he answered. "Jist go right in an' help yourself. The Lord made flowers free fer ev'rybody what I think; an' they ain't no use in bein' a hog, is they?"

She was still ecstatically thanking him when she entered the gate, but he had started off, merrily whistling on his way. Two minutes later, she was trying to explain to the angry gardener why she was there, and the angry gardener was giving her a detailed history of "that cussed Jones kid that lives in the next block."—Indianapolis Sun.

Paralyzing Figures.

A Jesuit priest now in South Africa writes to the boys in the New York college, where he was formerly a professor: "Nine in the blessed language is diheramanwanmngwahela, but this is nothing to 999, which is mashumiamagduamahna - manwanamanagwahela - anamashumihamahera - manwannaingovhalea - gowakadiheranamanwanamgwahela."

Lands in Siberia.

Up to the present time land in Siberia can be acquired only by farmers and settlers. During the last two years a large number of concessions for the purchase of land have been asked for by merchants, engineers and manufacturers, and the Russian ministry is now considering the question of making a change in the present system.

Suggestive.

George—When is the best time to speak to your father?

She—Oh, I should say when he is enjoying himself in slippers and smoking jacket in the library after dinner.—Philadelphia North American.

If a man is industrious and frugal, he can acquire a good deal of money without knowing much else.

Why is it that a married woman never has the joyous, happy look that distinguishes an unmarried woman?

The widower who goes to court a second time merely moves for a new trial.

BOXERS ENROLLING AT A MILITARY POST.

Along the roads of China are encountered great numbers of military posts at which small garrisons—about ten or fifteen soldiers in time of peace—are stationed. Close by is a look-out commanding an extensive prospect. The cones of brickwork and plaster are used to fire out a fierce combustible in time of alarm as a signal to the next post. They are also employed on all festive occasions. It is here that the Boxers now enroll themselves and are sworn in to form their semi-military corps. A government official belonging to the army presides at the table. He is, as the umbrella indicates, a mandarin of consideration.

PLAN A RUSKIN HALL.

ST. LOUIS TO HAVE ODD COLLEGE FOR WORKINGMEN.

Will Be Modeled After the Oxford, England, Institution—Place Where American Workingmen May Get Courses of Study at Home.

Two enthusiastic young Americans came over here, says a London correspondent, and put their time and money into the establishment of a novel institution that made a good many conservative Englishmen smile. The English workingmen, however, didn't smile at all, but concluded that the American idea was a good thing, and helped it along. It grew and grew until there was no doubt about its being a big success, and now, oddly enough, English workingmen are raising $20,000 in shillings and pennies to propagate in the United States the idea that originally came from there, and incidentally some of the English workingmen are kicking hard because their brethren are doing this thing.

The idea was to establish a workingmen's college, to which a man might go or from which he might get courses of study at home. That sounded rather dreamy, like some of the economic ideas of John Ruskin, in whose name the work was taken up. But it developed presently that it was not the intention to make struggling clerks and professional men out of well-paid laborers; also, that it was not the intention to give a foolish little smattering of culture, but merely to give workingmen of whatever age or condition such instruction in history, political economy, the principles of politics and the principles of labor movements, co-operation and similar things that would be of practical help to them in looking after their own interests.

The result was the establishment of Ruskin Hall at Oxford. A good deal was said about it at the time, but it was rather generally looked upon as a fad, and then forgotten except by those who had some personal interest in it. But the applications for residence in the hall at Oxford have from the first exceeded the limited accommodations, and two more halls have lately been established in Birmingham, another at Manchester and another at Birkenhead, and others are to be started soon. Furthermore, the number of students in the correspondence courses is already over 1,500, and is increasing rapidly.

To Begin in St. Louis.

Various English labor leaders fell in with the idea, and the suggestion seems to have come from some of them that it should be carried back to the United States. In consequence, the general secretary of Ruskin Hall, H. B. Lees Smith, and two trained assistants, will go to St. Louis to establish a Ruskin Hall there, of which Mr. Smith will be principal. They expect to branch out from there until in time every big city in the United States has a branch of this unique college. Two prominent English labor leaders—C. W. Bowerman, Secretary of the London Society of Compositors, and James Sexton, Secretary of the National Dock Laborers' Union—have gone to the United States to talk with the labor leaders there and prepare the way for their co-operation. The $20,000 required to start the college in America has already been guaranteed, and a good deal of it has been raised mostly from members of the correspondence class. It has been said that the British trades unions as a body have been backing the undertaking, but this is not the case.

The reason for making a beginning in St. Louis doubtless is that Walter Vrooman, who was the founder of the college and supplied the first of the money to start it, was a St. Louis man, and was at one time active in politics and business there. He and his wife, a Baltimorean, who is interested as much in the new movement as her husband, now live in Oxford, and give practically all their time to Ruskin Hall, of whose council Mr. Vrooman is President.

Plans for American Hall.

It is the intention to open a hall in St. Louis as much as possible like that in Oxford, and to begin at once a correspondence school. As soon as the number of corresponding students in any other city seems to warrant it a hall will be established there also, and so on until, for all that the originators can see to the contrary, every American workingman from Maine to California will have an opportunity to become an undergraduate.

And what are these halls to be like, and how is this monumental scheme to be managed? The best answer can be had through some account of the peculiar features of the Ruskin Hall at Oxford. It is housed in an unpretentious, four-story structure that was at one time the residence of the fifth Duke of Marlborough, and was afterward often visited by John Ruskin while a friend of his lived there. It is just beyond beautiful old St. John's College.

To any one who visits it after reveling in all the luxury of the ancient seats of learning scattered all around it, it looks bare indeed. Pine tables predominate, and not many of the accompanying chairs have backs. Workrooms and bedrooms are furnished in the utmost simplicity. They have to be, for the total cost of residence, including board and lodging, is $2.50 a week, and the tuition and tutors' fees are 60 cents a week more.

Perhaps the queerest feature of the whole thing, and a feature that is to be preserved in the United States, is that every student in the hall is expected to work two hours a day at cooking, housecleaning, etc., as no servants are kept, and there are no women about the place. That is how the cost of residence is kept down to such a low figure.

Although housework is not a part of the curriculum, the men soon become experts at it, and there is a growing suspicion at Ruskin Hall that a man can scrub a floor more effectively and more economically than a woman. I had rather counted on finding a man with a mop in one hand and a textbook on political economy in the other, but was disappointed, for the prevailing maxim is, "One thing at a time." Although many of the students are married and occasionally bring their wives to Oxford with them, the women have to live elsewhere.

What They Study.

If, as really seems possible, this experiment is going to have a marked effect on the British and American workingman, it becomes interesting to see what it is that they are being taught. The list of fourteen courses is made up of these branches: Sociology, in which special attention is given to the development of modern society and present social conditions; English constitution and political history, in which stress is laid on the origin and development of English government; English industrial history, covering land laws and the efforts of the workers to better their conditions; the industrial revolution, devoted to a consideration of the mechanical inventions and new industrial organizations, which changed England into a vast workshop.

The co-operative movement and the relation of co-operation to modern social and industrial problems. Trade Unionism. A short introduction into political economy. Principles of Politics, intended to give to the student an insight into the workings of modern political machinery and an understanding of the Constitution and self-government. The Labor Movement. Psychology especially as applied to habit, attention, reasoning, memory, emotion and instinct. Philosophy, based on the needs of an organic society rather than on the speculations of pedants. English Literature, especially with reference to essay writing. John Ruskin as the prophet of a new social order. Course for training and lecturing. There also are classes in English, French, German, mathematics and logic, as required.

The first Englishman to enlist in the new movement was the present general secretary, H. B. Lees Smith, who was at that time an Oxford undergraduate, but has since taken his degree, and will soon cut a figure in the United States as head of the movement there. He is a trim, energetic, smooth-faced young man, who talks like an American, although he never has been in the United States.

OXFORD RUSKIN HALL IN HOUSEHOLD DRESS.

RUSKIN HALL AT OXFORD.

ELOPEMENT A FAMILY TRAIT.

Descendants of Col. George Manning Have Followed His Example.

It is the latest dictum of science that acquired traits are not inherited. In the case of the Manning family, the disposition of the first member of whom there is any record must have been transmitted and the disposition has led to eight, if not nine, elopements.

George Manning was hired by Gen. Wheeler, of Steuben County, New York, many years ago to cut timber. He fell in love with Wheeler's daughter and she loved him, but her aristocratic father would not have it. They eloped and were married, going into Warren County, Pennsylvania, then a wilderness. Here Manning became very rich and was a colonel in the war of 1812. One of his daughters loved and was loved by one of his workmen named Sawyer. Manning would not consent, so they eloped. Three years later another daughter eloped and was married to a young doctor, Sullivan, who became rich and famous. Dr. Sullivan's daughter eloped with and was married to a young man who was objectionable to her father. Another daughter fell in love with a young man and this time, to prevent an elopement, the father gave his consent. Then the girl eloped with another lover.

Col. Manning, the first eloper, had a son, also named Jason. The young man fell in love with the daughter of one of his father's teamsters, which made Col. Manning furious. Jason eloped with and married the girl. To Jason were born a son and a daughter. The son loved a young woman and when his father opposed him he eloped with and married her. Jason's daughter loved a young lawyer, George McCormick, but her father would not allow her to receive him. So she eloped with him and they were married. Now Jason's son, who eloped, has a daughter, who recently eloped with George Burns, her mother's cousin. The person who gives all this information says another elopement is imminent.—Washington Post.

BEST WIVES IN THE WORLD.

A Country Where the Chivalry of Old Times Toward Women Survives.

The men in South America hold their women in highest respect. Not only do they accord them the polite distinction of outward deference, but they guard them with an earnest solicitude that protects them from every care, and they bear for them every burden that man can carry for woman. The chivalry of the olden time survives among these people, and that is doubtless one reason why the women are so contented with their lot. A charming senora assured me that the South American women make the best wives in the world, and I do not doubt it. After marriage the woman is as one lost to the world. Her career is finished so far as matters outside her domestic affairs are concerned. Her sphere of influence is henceforth inclosed within the triple courts of her husband's house, and consists in bringing up her children and in exercising a mild sovereignty in her domestic domain. There are no married flirts in South America, no scandals caused by unfaithful wives, no ambitious women pining in their secluded homes, so far as is known. There are no woman's rights conventions, no woman's temperance societies, no daughters', no mother's meetings. There is not even a woman's whist club in the whole country. The wife knows nothing of the family finances, and she is not consulted in the consideration of her husband's serious affairs. The question may well be asked by the women of the United States, What in the world do these women do with their time? and the answer is that their days are quite as full of activities, mental and physical, as they wish them to be. South American women do not crave the freedom and the publicity of life they see enjoyed by their sisters in this country. They prefer the seclusion with the protection of their own method of life. They are very charitable, too, and are kindness itself to the poor people in their neighborhood, as they send portions of bread and meat every day to their poor neighbors.—Woman's Home Companion.

Bronze Tablets in a Marsh.

Constantino Maes, the eminent Italian archaeologist, has submitted to his government a memorial in which he affirms that 3,000 bronze tables, constituting the records of ancient Rome, from its foundation to the time of Vespasian, are buried in the marsh at Ostia, near Rome. He says that the tables were carried to Ostia after having been rescued from the fire which destroyed the capital in the year 69 A. D. Signor Maes wants the Italian government to drain the marsh in order to recover these invaluable records, and a commission will be appointed to investigate the matter.

Coast Trade Moving Southward.

Quebec was originally the natural port of the Atlantic. It dropped down to Salem, to Boston, now to New York, and already New York business men are complaining of Norfolk, Charleston, Savannah, Pensacola, New Orleans and Galveston. Trade is finding its level, as the waters of the country debouch to the south. From wide areas east and west, and starting almost from the British-American line, the mighty Mississippi gathers trade as she flows to the Gulf.

Poor Uses for Fine Wood.

Rosewood and mahogany are so plentiful in Mexico that some of the copper mines there are timbered with rosewood, while mahogany is used as fuel for the engines.

Bird Hospital.

Chicago has a bird hospital, the only one of its kind in the world, where sick and wounded birds are received and cared for.

People who can see a woman in the moon ought to put their imaginations to some practical use. They own undeveloped gold mines.

LASSOED A GRIZZLY.

It Was a Tug of War Between the Bear and the Horse.

While in quest of the outlaws who killed two men near Thompson's Springs, Utah, recently the Sheriff's posse had an encounter with a grizzly bear that was almost as exciting and dangerous as would have been a battle with the human wild beasts sought. While at Brown's Park Hacking, Dennis and Dennis' son had just crossed on the ferryboat from the north to the south side of Green River, when a huge grizzly came over the hill in sight of the ferry. The Wyoming men saw the bear, opened fire on him across the river and succeeded in wounding him. At the same time two boys, one the son of B. F. Dennis and one the son of Mr. Jarvie, started on horseback, but without weapons of any kind, to follow the bear, and succeeded in getting him to turn and show fight.

SHERIFF LASSOS A GRIZZLY.

In a short time two of the Rock Springs party had saddled up their horses, ferried the river and had caught up with the boys and the bear. One of them threw a rope over him. Bruin took it coolly and, seating himself on his haunches, commenced to draw in the slack of the rope with his forepaws hand over hand. He was so strong that he drew the frightened horse right up to him, the rope being tied to the horn of the saddle, while the rider was peppering the bear's face with a 38-caliber revolver, which caused the bear to bat his eyes a little, but had no other effect.

The other boys, who stayed off a short distance, had a good laugh at the expense of the man who was being pulled in by the bear, but it soon began to look serious and the rider was calling for some one to shoot. Just as he was getting too close for comfort the horse made a desperate plunge and got back part of the rope. Bruin commenced to haul in again, but before he had accomplished this he changed his mind and, to the relief of the man with the lasso, he threw off the rope and started to run. The four horsemen circled around him and the two revolvers made life very unpleasant for the bear. While these scenes were being enacted two of Brown's Park men, hearing the shots, thought the fight with the outlaws was in progress and with Winchesters in hand rode up and assisted in despatching the unfortunate grizzly.

A MILLIONAIRE MINISTER.

Gives Up a Life of Luxury to Become a Soldier of the Cross.

Anson Phelps Stokes, the wealthiest clergyman in America and probably in the world, has accepted a call tendered him by St. Paul's Episcopal Church in New Haven, Conn. Rev. Mr. Stokes is a millionaire. His father was an enormously wealthy banker and his grandfathers were James Stokes and Isaac Newton Phelps. He owns a magnificent mansion in Fifth avenue, New York, and a manorial country house in Lenox; but these, with all their mean, have been given up by their owner in order that he may be near the poor and fill the function that his conscience tells him he is called upon to fill.

Ever since he was graduated from Yale five years ago he has set his heart on becoming a minister. After his college days Mr. Stokes went abroad for a year's observation and travel. After some months in the capitals and universities of the continent, his party made a journey to the Orient. The mission stations in India, China, Japan and Hawaii were visited, and everything he saw only increased his long and warmly cherished desire to enlist himself among the active soldiers of the cross.

REV. ANSON P. STOKES.

Returning to America he began his ministerial career as a student in the Episcopal Seminary at Cambridge, Mass. When his preparatory work was done he put on the white robe of a candidate for holy orders and his diaconate was followed by a call to the pulpit of St. Paul's.

The Stokes family are among the most aristocratic and conservative members of New York society. The country house at Lenox is one of the finest of its kind in America. It is surrounded by parterre and grounds 2,000 acres in extent. The former master of this demesne is only 28 years old, but his friends, who at first regarded his announced intention of joining the ministry as a joke, are now convinced that he was in earnest. From the mansion in Fifth avenue and the Lenox home, which cost $50,000, he has changed his residence to the old Pierpont house—a frame building on Elm street, New Haven.

No man is so poor that he can afford to have holes in his pockets.

AUBURN WEEKLY COURIER.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, postoffice as second-class matter.

THURSDAY.....AUGUST 16, 1900.

The Philippine War.

The secretary of war has recently issued the report showing how much the war in the Philippines has cost since the close of the fighting with the Spaniards and the surrender of Manila. This includes not merely the cost in money but in life.

COST IN MONEY.

The report shows this to be $186,678,000. We have also used a vast amount of stores, etc., we got from the Spaniards but at the same time, some of the above large amount would have been expended in foreign service any way. So the grand total may be safely put as the secretary has it, at about 187 millions. Add to this the twenty millions we paid for the islands, and we have a total of 207 millions.

LOSS OF LIFE.

The secretary reports:

Soldiers killed in action	533
Deaths from wounds	193
Deaths from disease and other causes	1,668
Total number of deaths	2,394
Total number wounded	2,073

It should be added that the secretary of war gets his cash figures from the secretary of the treasury.

Political Notes.

When the Waterloo Press attempts to sour the old soldiers on Congressman Robinson, it not only makes a mistake, but will signally fail. Mr. Robinson is too well known to be safely misrepresented. What he has done for the veterans is too well known. And we might add, that the democratic congressmen have done more for the old soldier, than have the republican members.

"Senator Hanna is a big hearted, honest, charitable and unassuming man," is an item going around in the republican papers. Well, he doesn't "assume" much. He only "assumes" to own President McKinley, body and breeches. McKinley dares not sneeze till he sees Hanna take snuff. While we are following the other English fads, why not double our names as they do? They have "Gen. Kelly-Kenney," "Gen. Baden-Powell," etc. And it would be "so English, you know" for us to say "President McKinley-Hanna.

Republicans must feel proud to have their opening campaign speech delivered by a man under indictment for murder. Taylor, who made the speech for them at Rome City on republican day, is the man. Several witnesses in the trial of the Goebel murderers, republicans all, swore Taylor, when he heard the fatal shot, ran and got his pistol. He had known of the plot, they say, and only objected when he found a negro was to do the "job." He said he would not give a cent if a "nigger" had a hand in it.

How Grover Ruined Us.

When President Grover Cleveland went out of office at the end of his second term he left the country no bigger than he found it. He had even refused to accept a free gift of Hawaii, on the ridiculous ground that the donor possessed no legal title to the property.

He left the country paramount on the whole continent, having made it so by the simple means of his Venezuelan message.

He left the regular army as small as it had been during his first term.

He is not remembered by a single war tax.

Not one revenue stamp exists as a souvenir of his administration.

In the eight years of his baleful rule he did not secure a single "sphere of influence" in Asia, Africa or the Antarctic.

Consequently there is not so much as a one-cent war tax on a telegraph message or express receipt, to attest his glory.

He had no "Destiny" to guide him.

And no Mark Hanna to guide the Destiny.

He did not know enough to buy into a bloody war, 7,000 miles away, for $20,000,000 entry fee and the privilege of spending half a million a day in developing it.

He did not confer benevolent assimilation on any black or brown race in the east or west.

He would not even know a benevolent assimilation if it appeared to him in its funeral garments.

He did not know that we had imperial interests on the continent of Asia which should be protected by our army and navy.

He had no conception of or responsibility for a world power in Guam.

He was a no-account old fogy, who wanted the country to keep within its means and its boundaries.

That is why and how he ruined his country.

And Bryan will be just as bad.—Boston Pilot.

For G. A. R. National Encampment.

The Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Ry. will sell tickets to Chicago and return at one cent per mile, each way, on Aug. 25, 26, 27, 28 and 29. They will be good for return until August 31, or by depositing tickets and payment of fee of 50 cents an extension of time for return until Sept. 30 can be had.

Further information from ticket Agents. a23

DR. DARBY FOR SENATOR.

Nominated on the Seventh Ballot at Waterloo Tuesday.

Dr. A. B. Darby of Waterloo won out on the seventh ballot in the joint senatorial convention at Waterloo today and will make the race as the representative of the republicans of DeKalb and Steuben for the upper house of the Indiana legislature. But it was by no means a walkaway.

The convention was called to order at 11 o'clock and Senator Gilbert was made chairman. On the first ballot Darby showed up in the lead with 12½ votes from DeKalb county, the Steuben vote being divided between Best, Melendy and Wickwire. On the succeeding ballots Darby made a steady gain and in the seventh received the twelve votes of Steuben and 13½ from DeKalb, Melendy receiving the odd ½ vote from this county.

At the conclusion of the balloting, after Dr. Darby had made a speech, adjournment was had for dinner, the delegates and defeated candidates being invited to dine at the Locke hotel at the expense of the winner. Though hotly contested the work of the convention is reported to have been harmonious and DeKalb seems to have won out only by having the largest delegate vote and only one candidate. The nominee was the candidate for representative two years ago.

The Committee Meeting.

The democratic committe met here yesterday, Aug. 8, having been called by Chairman Walters. But little was done at the forenoon session, but in the afternoon there was a general consultation and some speeches. Judge Allen Zollars of Fort Wayne was present as a sort of deputy in place of Parks Martin, the state chairman, who had expected to be present, but found himself unable to do so. He spoke briefly of the work to be done and of democratic prospects, and was followed by Congressman Robinson in the same line. Both are very hopeful, and say prospects never were brighter Much preliminary discussion was had and the meeting was well attended. All the townships but three were represented, and some townships had a dozen or so. Nearly all of the county candidates and many of the township candidates were present.

COUNTY COUNCIL.

On motion, Chairman Walter appointed a committee to propose seven candidates for county council. The selections were:

First District, Frank Gonser, Ashley; Second, John B. Mager, Garrett; Third, J. Y. W. McClellan, Auburn; Fourth, William Mutzfeld, Butler. At-Large—B. F. Cornelius, G. I. Patterson and J. E. Dermott.

A Comedy Success.

Speaking of the Chinese puzzle Mark E. Swan's latest farce "Whose Baby are You?" that makes its initial appearance at Henry's opera house for the opening of the regular season, Saturday. August 25, is a labyrinth or maze of complicated situations and side-splitting mistakes that would tak the subtle mind of a diplomat to unravel. "Whose Baby are You?" is a tangled skein of fun and frolic interwoven with laughter, wit, jokes, bright epigrams and everything in general that makes life worth living. It has a perfect plot and complete story constructed purely for the purpose of laughter only. A capable cast, a complete scenic equipment and several brilliant vaudeville features including the original Gibson girl, Miss Mabel Meredith, and a score of pretty girls have made this brilliant farce one of the greatest comedy successes on the road this season.

Latest News.

Sir Claude McDonald, British minister in Pekin, sends a dispatch dated August 6, saying they are in desperate straits, the food being nearly all gone.

Reports come from Shanghai that the allies are within twenty miles of Pekin.

At the capture of Yangtsun, the Americans made a brilliant charge and their losses were the heaviest, the 14th having 9 killed and 62 wounded. During the night the Russian and British batteries mistook the U. S. Fourteenth for Chinese and opened a heavy fire, by which ten of our men were wounded.

In the north, the Russians are putting down the Chinese rising, but are committing terrible atrocties, giving no quarter and even hunt up the wounded to kill them. Let us get out of this sort of campaign as soon as we can.

Prevented A Tragedy.

Timely information given Mrs. Geo. Long of New Straitsville, Ohio, prevented a dreadful tragedy and saved two lives. A frightful cough had long kept her awake every night. She had tried many remedies and doctors but steadily grew worse until urged to try Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle wholly cured her, and she writes this marvelous medicine also cured Mr. Long of a severe attack of Pneumonia. Such cures are positive proof of the merit of this grand remedy for curing all throat, chest and lung trouble. Only 50c and $1.00. Every bottle guaranteed. Trial bottles free at McCORD'S Drug Store.

CASTORIA.

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

Subscribe for the COURIER.

Letter from Venice.

By the kindness of A. C. Robbins, we publish today, a letter from Frank E. Eckhart. It was written at the Grand Hotel Vallombrosa, at Venice, a picture of the building being on the letter head, which shows a lovely scene, but scarcely looks like an American hotel. It says, also, that they have postal and telegraph service, and electric lighting. The letter reads:

July 22, 1900.

DEAR BERT:—I have just came from across the river where there is some kind of a church festival with illuminated streets, a large crowd and open shops and stands just like our towns an circus day. If there is any difference in Sunday and week days it is very small and I have failed to notice it and I have seen three Sundays on the continent. Sunday in England is more like in our own country, and on the Sunday spent in London we went to hear Dr. Parker in the morning at the Temple, and to services in Westminster Abbey in the evening.

The next Sunday was spent in Cologne and we were at the service in the cathedral. Last Sunday we attended the Passion Play and found that all the descriptions of the play that I had read were very weak indeed when compared with the play. You can imagine the interest in it when you know that not one that I met felt that the play was not better than they had expected and that we had to sit through two sessions of four hours each. For myself I never saw as uniformily good acting and while I would not have missed the play for anything, I would not see it again under any circumstances.

This Sunday was put in, in loafing and looking at the churches, monks cells, vestments and bibles of Savanarola, and tomorrow we will go to work in earnest to see the treasures of art in this city. From what we can learn they are the richest in the world.

We have had a nice time since landing, having seen the points of interest in Shakespeare's home, most of the interesting things in London, down through Rotterdam, The Hague, Amsterdam, Cologne, the Rhine, Berne, up the mountains and into the Elger glacier, then by lake and cog railroad over the Brunner Pass to Lucerne, and up to the top of Rigi to see the sun rise. The sun rose, but there were too many clouds for us to get the best effect, however, we had a good sight, as over 200 peaks are in view besides five or six lakes, a dozen towns, railroads and rivers, all laid out like a panorama.

After leaving Lucerne we went to Munich, and from there to Oberammergau. After two nights in a room next to the family cow, we drove over the mountains to Zirl to take the train for Innspruck, Austria. The drive was about forty miles over roads like pavement, and in scenery beyond my power of description, and the next day went to Venice. The first sight of Venice was disappointing but the town grows on one so that I was sorry to leave the place.

We went to and from the depot on a gondola, and one evening we took a gondola and went out to hear the serenade, something special in the way of colored lights and music. To say we were fully repaid, is too little. The sight is one I will never forget. The gondolas were packed tight, for I should think five acres, and in the pack was a man of war from England, the float on which the band and singers were, and a small steamer. The doge's palace on one side and two or three churches on the other side, were lighted up with red lights. The music, strange sights and people made an impression that I cannot describe.

I have thought of you and Hort a great many times since I traveled and wished you were with us but had to satisfy myself with the thought that sometime I might come over with you, and then the plans laid when we acquired the French language might be realized.

If there is no quarantine against Palestine and Egypt, we will sail for Alexandria or Athens on August 2, and will probably be out of reach of mail for 20 or 25 days, So if you are anxious you could write me and I would receive your letter at Paris, where my forwarding address will be. I am yours, —F. E. ECKHART.

For Assessor.

I wish to announce to my democratic friends of Butler Township that I will be a candidate for Assessor, subject to the democratic caucus to be held at Butler Center this coming summer; on account of the sad accident which happened to me last spring, which put me back so with my work on the farm, I will not be able to canvas the township but I hope you will consider the matter and do as you think best. I remain your's truly, John H. Benninghoff.

—For large or small farms to buy or exchange; for residence properties or vacant lots, desirably located—we have the best and cheapest on our list. Call in and look it over. da4wa16

SPROTT & KNAPP.

Nursing Mothers

dread hot weather. They know how it weakens and how this affects the baby. All such mothers need Scott's Emulsion. It gives them strength and makes the baby's food richer and more abundant.

50c. and $1. All druggists.

What is Dyspepsia?

Easier to Cure Than to Define it, says Dr. Stone.

Any form of stomach trouble has so many symptoms, and manifests itself so differently on different people that when we speak of dyspepsia it means something different to each sufferer. One case may be catarrh of the stomach, another inflammation, another, lack of gastric juice, another, too much acid secretion, etc. After thirty years successful treatment of these troubles, Dr. Stone is now able to prove that ninety per cent of the sevarious cases result from functionary derangement of the stomach which can be quickly and permantly corrected. His double remedy, known as Dr. Stone's New Dyspepsia Cure, overcomes all varieties of dyspepsia or indigestion. If you have stomach trouble you know it, even though it is accompanied by a score of symptoms, if you do have it you certainly wish to be cured. You can be cured more quickly than you now believe. Dr. Stone's New Dyspepsia Cure relieves almost from the first dose and a thorough cure soon follows. If it fails your druggist will refund your money. Price 50 cents. Sold by H. B. McCord.

John L. Davis Dead.

John L. Davis died last night at about 11 o'clock, passing peacefully away. He had been unconscious for some days more or less, and gradually growing weaker. It is not likely he suffered much, at least there was no appearance of suffering. But a few hours before his death, he was troubled again with difficulty of breathing as he had been in the earlier stages of his last illness.

The funeral will be at the home on Friday, August 17, at 2 p. m. under the auspices of the Masonic bodies, assisted by Rev. J. D. Brosy of the Lutheran church.

The casket will be open until 1:30 p. m. of Friday, and the friends can call at any time till then. But owing to the many from a distance, who will reach here about Friday noon, it will be advisable for the friends in town to call before noon of that day. But none will be excluded at any time up to the hour named.

Mr. Davis had reached the age of 65 years, 9 months and 11 days. He was one of the best known men in the county, a man of large heart, friendly disposition and of generous impulses. His death creates a vacancy in Auburn not easily filled.

OBITUARY.

Christena Fair was born in Miami county, Ohio, the 25th day of October, 1815, and died the 6th day of August, 1900, aged 84 years, 9 months and 11 days.

The deceased was united in marriage to Abraham Fair in the month of August, 1834, coming to Butler township, DeKalb county, in the spring of 1834, where they resided until his death which occurred on the 11th day of February, 1867, after which she moved to Auburn where she lived until 1886, when she removed to Montana and thence to Salt Lake City, Utah, where she died. The deceased was the mother of twelve children, seven girls and five boys, of which five girls and two boys survive. At the age of 12 years she became a member of the Presbyterian church of which she was a consistent member at the time of her decease, having lived a strictly religious and exemplary life and being one of the few survivers of the early pioneers of Butler township, DeKalb county. The funeral service was conducted from Cedar chapel last Sabbath at 11:30 a. m.; interment took place in Cedar chapel cemetery, Rev. J. D. Brosy officiating.

From Winona.

A letter from this popular resort after enumerating the various Bible conferences and mission conferences, and those who take part, adds: There are now two thousand people on the grounds, enjoying the excellent literary program, bathing, boating, fishing, golfing, tennis, etc., and the many other enjoyments to be found at this cool, delightful Chautauqua of the west, which is said to be the most beautiful natural park in all America. There are many a sylvan dell and cozy nook here, but the large, cool lake furnishes the greatest inducement for enjoyment.

The Winona summer girls are a happy lot. "Fudge" and "Up-Jenkins" parties are galore, while the boys scare up illuminated lake fleets, with big barges, etc., decorated, on which music furnishes enjoyment, moonlight bathing parties; floating parties to Warsaw, hay rides through the country and numerous other things which keep the young people busy enjoying themselves. The men now declare that they will have a men's shirt-waist club organized by the end of the week, thus furnishing another mild sensation for this great religious resort. J. C. R.

Red Hot From The Gun

Was the ball that hit G. B. Steadman of Newark, Mich., in the Civil War. It caused horrible Ulcers that no treatment helped for 20 years. Then Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured him. Cures Cuts, Bruises, Burns, Boils, Felons, Corns, Skin Eruptions. Best Pile cure on earth. 25 cents a box. Cure guaranteed. Sold by H. B. McCord, druggist.

☞—Have you seen Mrs. Austin's new dress?

Program for the Battalion.

The following is the program for the Battalion reunion of the G. A. R., to be held at Auburn, August 21, 1900:

FORENOON SESSION.

10:00 Called to order by O. H. Widney
Overture....Auburn City Band
Business meeting of Battalion
Election of officers for the year 1901.

12:00 Picnic dinner in Court House Park.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

1:30 Overture....Auburn City Band
Welcome Address
....Mayor Garwood
Response
....Comrade J. N. Wilson

During the afternoon the assemblage will be addressed by Rev. Musson of Ligonier; Hon. T. M. Eels of Albion; Dr. J. L. Gilbert of Kendallville; Rev. E. W. Erick of Spencerville; and possibly by David E. Beem, Department Commander G. A. R., after which an opportunity will be given for other speakers to be called upon for addresses.

EVENING SESSION.

Campfire in Henry's opera house commencing at 7:30.

Overture.....Auburn City Band.
America.....Chorus
Anthem.....Chorus
Address.....Hon. T. M. Eels.
Quartette.....The Fountain Mesdames Shull and Wise and Misses Knapp and Depew.
The Greek Mirth Drill (by request) Sidney Farmer and Helen Smith.
Address.....E. W. Erick.
Red, White and Blue.....Chorus
Recitation.....Maud Baker.
Address.....Dr. J. L. Gilbert
Hoosier Quartette.....Selected
Messrs. Bottenberg, Zimmerman, Quince and Warrick.
Recitation.....Mac Hamilton.
Address.....Rev. Geo. Musson.
A Horse Race; How Salvator Won
.....Sidney Farmer.
Star Spangled Banner.....Chorus
Jimmy Brown's Sister's Wedding
.....Helen Smith.
Recitation.....Sherman Baber.

Other numbers will be added if time permits.

Real Estate!

Partial List of Real Estate For Sale by Moody & Rickel, Auburn, Ind.

NO. 52. A large brick house, 2 lots, cistern, well, fruit and shade trees; will sell for ½ its value, $200 cash; balance on long time, ten years if necessary; low interest. This is a snap for someone who wants a good home.

NO. 55. A 6-room residence, wood house, cistern, well, cellar under the whole house, good chicken house, good fruit and shade trees, on Ensley's Ave. This will make a nice home—easy terms.

NO. 54. 64 acres of land, good buildings, 2½ miles from Auburn on gravel road; orchard, well, cistern, black and clay loam, all tiled; barn 45x55, L 24x36. This farm can be had at a bargain, part cash, balance on long time.

NO. 57. 0-acre farm 5½ miles from Auburn, ½ mile from Ry. station P. O., good 7-room house; barn 32x54 with L 14x44, wind-pump, hog pen, chicken house, out-cellar, good orchard. 45 acres cleared, cleared, ditched and tiled; balance good timber; was offered $1,000 for all timber over 18 inches 4 years ago when timber was low in price. Will sell this farm cheap on easy terms if taken soon.

No. 65. 8½ acres land 3 miles south of Butler, 3 acres timber, balance clear. Good land. Will sell at Bargain. Small payment down, balance on time.

No. 60—Residence, 10 rooms, in good town, well, cistern, fruit and shade trees, 4 lots; also 3 extra lots will trade for farm and pay difference. This is a good chance for some farmer who wants to quit farming and move to town.

No. 63. Brick residence; 8 rooms, two lots on 7th street, Auburn. Will sell on easy terms at a bargain.

No. 64. For rent, 240 acre of good, improved land, want first-class renter, to which will make desirable terms.

No . 80-acre farm 2½ miles from Auburn, large house, good barn and other buildings, 65 acres clear, under splendid cultivation, balance fair timber; good fence, good soil, good orchard, well, cistern, etc. 15,000 tile on this place. Will sell on easy payments, near school, good road to Auburn and Waterloo.

No. 69. A fine 80-acre farm, 8 acres timber, 5½ miles from Auburn, ½ mile from Ry station, postoffice, store, school and church. Land all tiled and drained, well fenced. House, rooms, large summer kitchen and wood house; 2 large barns, splendid new grainery, wagon shed and corn crib and other buildings; cistern and well; cellar cemented; nice fruit. This is as fine a farm as can be found in the country. Can be had at reasonable price, part cash, balance long time.

No. 70. 80 acre farm 2½ miles from Auburn, good house and barn, good fences, land all tiled, in splendid cultivation—at a bargain.

No. 71. Nicest building lot in Auburn at a bargain.

No. 72 A bargain, the best paying dry goods and grocery business in the county, together with the store room and a fine residence. Want to trade for a good farm. Will give or take the difference, or will sell the buildings and stock separate. Want a well improved farm; will trade right.

This is a partial list of property we have for sale, any of which can be had at a bargain. If you have property you wish to sell or trade, call and see us. We also have money on long or short time, with privilege of partial payments each year, collect rents, buy and sell notes. Call and see us if you need anything in our line. Office Cor. Main & 7th streets, Auburn, Ind.

MOODY & RICKEL.

THE GREAT

RAMBLER FACTORIES

were built up from a very small beginning, the increase of capacity keeping pace with the ever increasing confidence people have always had in the goodness of

Rambler BICYCLES

Price $40

"For the best Rambler ever built."

We ask you to call and examine the latest Ramblers, and notice the extra reinforced frames.

INTERESTING INFORMATION WILL BE FOUND IN THE NEW BOOKLET "JUST OF AGE," FREE.

Only too glad to show you the line.

XXXX

A large line of

Bicycle Sundries

Always carried in stock at Low Prices.

XXXX

Bicycle repairing promptly attended to.

XXXX

M. B. WILLIS, Jr.,

"The Rambler Man"

Huelsenbeck Building.

Up-To-Date

Hand Made
Bugg
Surrey or Heavy
Harness

Lap Dusters!

Neat Patterns in all grades from the Cheapest to the Best.

x x

Fly Nets!

Cotton and Leather Fly Nets, Stable Sheets and Covers at Bottom Prices.

Don't forget that we have Garden, Field and Lawn Grass Seed in bulk at very low prices.

Eberle & Freygang

Auburn, Ind.

Our fee returned if we fail. Any one sending sketch and description of any invention will promptly receive our opinion free concerning the patentability of same. "How to Obtain a Patent" sent upon request. Patents secured through us advertised for sale at our expense.

Patents taken out through us receive special notice, without charge, in THE PATENT RECORD, an illustrated and widely circulated journal, consulted by Manufacturers and Investors. Send for sample copy FREE. Address,

VICTOR J. EVANS & CO.,

(Patent Attorneys,)

Evans Building, WASHINGTON, D. C.

William's Kidney Pills

Has no equal in diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs. Have you neglected your Kidneys? Have you overworked your nervous system and caused trouble with your Kidneys and Bladder? Have you pains in the loins, side, back, groins and bladder? Have you a flabby appearance of the face, especially under the eyes? Too frequent desire pass urine? William's Kidney Pills will impart new life to the diseased organs, tone up the system and make a new man of you. By mail 50 cents per box.

WILLIAMS MFG. CO., Props., Cleveland, O.

Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM

Cleanses and beautifies the hair. Promotes a luxuriant growth. Never Fails to Restore Gray Hair to its Youthful Color. Prevents Dandruff and hair falling. 50c. and $1.00 at Druggists.

Auburn Band Excursion

to Defiance, Ohio, via B. & O railroad: On Sunday, August 19, the Auburn Band will run an excursion to Defiance, Ohio, via B. & O. railroad. Excursion tickets will be sold at rate of 90 cents for the round trip. Special train will leave Auburn Junction at 8:37 a. m. Returning train leaves Defiance at 9:00 p. m.

L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE—In Effect April 29, 1900.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Stations	Mail	Exp'ss	Fre'gt
Fort Wayne	11 45 am	5 00 pm	3 35 am
New Era	12 10 pm	5 20	4 40
Auburn Junction	12 20	5 42	7 10
Auburn	12 23	5 46	7 22
Waterloo	12 43	6 04	8 25
Summit	12 52	6 12	8 45
Steubenville	12 54	6 15
Pleasant Lake	1 03	6 23	9 10
Angola	1 12	6 33	9 34
Jackson	1 25	6 45	9 00

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations	Fre'gt	Exp'ss	Mail
Jackson....dp	6 10 am	11 55 am	7 40 am
Angola	11 00	2 19 pm	8 18
Pleasant Lake	11 35	2 39	10 00
Steubenville	....	2 36	10 14
Summit	11 59	2 39	10 20
Waterloo	12 43 pm	2 56	10 35
Auburn	1 20	3 05	10 44
Auburn Junction	1 25	3 07	10 47
New Era	1 54	3 15	10 56
Fort Wayne	2 50	3 50	11 25

For rates on tickets or freight to all points call on or address E. T. DeLAPP, Agent Auburn.

WABASH

GOING EAST.

No. 2.....6:11 am—Daily
No. 8.....8:30 am—Daily
No. 4.....5:03 pm—Daily
No. 70 (local freight)....2:05 pm—ex Su
No. 96.....11:30 am—ex Su
No. 98.....8:30 pm—ex Su

GOING WEST.

No. 1.....10:47 am—Daily
No. 9.....5:40 am—Daily
No. 3.....7:48 pm—Daily
No. 71 (local freight)....9:15 am—ex Su
No. 95.....3:05 pm—ex Su
No. 97.....7:48 am—ex Su

Nos. 8 and 9 do not stop at Auburn, but No. 9 stops at the Junction.

All these trains stop for passengers.

For rates, tickets, time tables, etc. apply to I. M. ZENT, Agent, Auburn, Ind

Chas. M. Hays, V. Pres. and Gen'l Manager.

G. S. Crane, Gen'l Pass'r and Ticket Agent

B. & O. R. R.

Schedule In Effect Nov. 22 '98

Leaves Auburn Junction.

WEST BOUND.

No. 3 Express, to Garrett only	9.12 p m
No. 5 Daily	4:10 a m
No. 7 Daily	4:14 p m
No. 17 Daily Except Suday	11:2 p m
No. 47	1:32 a m

EAST BOUND

No. 4 Express	4:25 a m
No. 6 Daily	8:05 p m
No. 8 Daily	2:30p m
No 16, Daily, except Sunday	12 41 a m

Trains Nos. 16 and 17 are the only ones that stop at Wawaseo. No. 7 makes no stop between Garrett and Chicago except a flag stop at Wawaseo.

F. D. UNDERWOOD, General Manager

D. B. MARTIN, Manager of Passenger Traffic.

G. H. YOUNG, Auburn Junction, Ind

THOS. H. SPROTT CHAS. H. KNAPP

DON'T BE DUPED

There have been placed upon the market several cheap reprints of an obsolete edition of "Webster's Dictionary." They are being offered under various names at a low price dealers, agents, etc., and in a few instances as a premium for subscriptions to papers.

By

Announcements of these comparatively

Worthless

reprints are very misleading. They are advertised to be the substantial equivalent of a higher-priced book, while they are all

Reprint Dictionaries,

phototype copies of a book of over fifty years ago, which was sold for about $5.00, and which was much superior to these imitations, being a work of some merit instead of one

Long Since Obsolete.

The Webster's Unabridged Dictionary published by our house is the only meritorious one of that name. It bears our imprint on the title-page and is protected by copyright from cheap imitation. As a dictionary lasts a lifetime will it not be better to purchase the

LATEST AND BEST,

Webster's International Dictionary

of ENGLISH, Biography, Geography, Fiction, etc. Size 10x13½x4½ inches.

This Book is the Best for Everybody.

STANDARD AUTHORITY of the U. S. Supreme Court, all the State Supreme Courts, the U. S. Government Printing Office and of nearly all the Schoolbooks. WARMLY COMMENDED by College Presidents, State Superintendents of Schools and many other eminent authorities.

Webster's Collegiate Dictionary,

Recently abridged from the International and next to it the best for the family and student. Size 7x10x2½ inches.

Specimen pages either book sent for the asking.

G. & C. MERRIAM CO., Springfield, Mass.

There is Money in Junk

for you if you save it for H. Greenburg who

PAYS BEST CASH PRICES

for rags, rubber, copper, brass, zinc, lead, scrap iron and all kinds of hides and furs. Also buys and sells second-hand material stoves and furnaces, etc. Persons having second-hand material to buy or sell it will be to their interest to see

H. GREENBURG,

North VanBuren St.,

Auburn, Indiana.

KIDNEY DISEASES

are the most fatal of all diseases.

FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE is a Guaranteed Remedy or money refunded. Contains remedies recognized by eminent physicians as the best for Kidney and Bladder troubles.

PRICE 50c. and $1.00.

BANNER SALVE,

the most healing salve in the world.

PRICES CUT IN TWO.

That's about what we are doing on all Summer Dress Goods.

Shirt Waists

We divide into two lots.

All $1.50, $1.25 and $1.00 waists while they last for.....69c
All 75c and 50c waists.....36c

Ladies Suits

All $10.00 Suits we mark.....$6.98
All 12.00 Suits we mark.....7.98
All 15.00 Suits we mark.....9.98

These suits come in the most fashionable shades and makes and are servicable the year round.

Summer Dress Goods

All 50c imported Tissues.....33c
All 25c fine Dimities.....15c
All 20c Cords.....12c
All 15c Dimities and Lawns.....9c

Clothing

We Sold an immense lot of cloihing during last Saturday's sale. We still have more of the same kind and are making the same prices to close every suit out if possible.

$7.00, $6.00 and $5.00 allwool suits.....$3.99
$10.00 and $9.00 all wool suits.....6.99
$12.00 and $14.00 all wool suits.....7.99

One Lot Boys 3 to 6 Years

$4.50, $4.00, $3.50 and $3.00 suits.....$1.99
$6.00, $5.50 and $5.00 suits.....$2.99

Straw Hats

Any straw hat in our stock at one-half regular price.

We have made especially heavy purchases for Fall and will need every inch of our room we can scare up. We think the prices we are making ought to and will close out our stock of light-weight goods completely.

We invite you to come often. What we sell you you can depend upon. We are saving you money.

SCHAAB & BRO,

Auburn, Indiana.

HERE is a medical lecture in a nutshell. The Kidneys drain water and impurities from the blood. The Liver makes bile and helps to drive off other waste. If these organs work badly the body becomes a cesspool and disease sets in. You must get them into healthy action or die.

Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver & Kidney Balm

is an old and unsurpassed remedy for Backache, Debility, Sleeplessness, Lost Appetite, Foul Tongue, Palpitations and all other symptoms of disease in those organs. It cures as well as prevents every serious trouble in Kidney, Liver or Bladder. At druggists, $1.00 per bottle.

THE DR. J. H. McLEAN MEDICINE CO. ST. LOUIS, MO.

For sale by F. E. Davenport.

Red Cross Tansy Pills

FOR Suppressed Menstruation, PAINFUL Menstruation. And a PREVENTIVE for FEMALE IRREGULARITIES. Are Safe and Reliable. Perfectly Harmless. Purely Vegetable. Never Fail.

The Ladies' Relief.

PRICE $1.00. Sent postpaid on receipt of price. Money refunded if not as we say. Yin de Cinchona Co. Des Moines, Iowa.

For sale by H. B. McCord, druggist

Attention Farmers.

The Auburn Handle Factory will pay the highest cash price for ash handle block delivered at their factory on the Lake Shore tracks, cut 58 inches long. Also want ash logs cut 9½, 14½ and 19½ feet long. All timber to be smooth and sound. Will also take basswood cut 4 feet long and 8 inches in diameter and up, left round with bark on. Will pay $3 percord.—J. M. CHERRY & Co

Fair and Beautiful Faces.

Impure blood is sure to cause pimples and roughness of the skin. Dr. Warner's Compound of Seven Cures, the great blood renewer, makes a rough skin smooth and fair. F. E. Davenport.

—Have you seen Mrs. Austin's new dress?

Half Rates to Mt. Vernon, Ohio.

August 14 to 22, inclusive, the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company will sell excursion tickets from all local stations in Ohio to Mt. Vernon, Ohio, at rate of one fare for the round trip, account Ohio State Camp Meeting. Tickets will be good for return until August 23, 1900.

For further information call or address nearest Baltimore & Ohio Ticket Agent, or B. N. Austin, General Passenger Agent, Chicago, Ill.

Chautauqua Meeting

At Mountain Lake Park, Md. Low rates Via Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

July 30 to August 30, inclusive, the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad will sell low-rate excursion tickets to Mountain Lake, Md., account above occasion.

Tickets will be good for return until August 31, 1900.

For further information call on or address nearest Baltimore & Ohio Ticket Agent, or B. N. Austin, General Passenger Agent, Chicago, Ill. A30

Half Fare Rate Excursions to Detroit, Mich.

On August 25 to 28, inclusive, the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railway will sell tickets to Detroit, Mich., and return at half rates, account Biennial Conclave Knights of Pythias. Tickets will be good to leave Detroit until Sept. 14, by depositing them. Particulars about this may be obtained from ticket agent.

This city is a delightful one to visit during the summer months and affords many opportunities for steamer and other excursions to a great number of fine resorts.

Low Excursion Rates

to Chicago, Ill. via Baltimore & Ohio Railroad. Account G. A. R. Annual Encampment.

August 25 to 29, inclusive, the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company will sell excursion tickets from all local stations west of the Ohio River to Chicago, Ill., at rate of one (1) cent per mile in each direction. Tickets will be good for return until August 31, but may be extended until September 30 by deposit with Joint Agent and payment of 50 cents.

For further information call on or address nearest Baltimore & Ohio Ticket Agent, B. N. Austin, General Passenger Agent, Chicago, Ill.

Butler Township Caucus.

The democrats of Butler township will hold their caucus at the Center on Saturday Aug. 18, at 1 p. m. to nominate a candidate for trustee, assessor, one justice of the peace, one constable and three members of the advisory board. Let all attend.—J. D. WILLIAMS, Committeeman.

Monday's Daily.

—Don't miss those salted peanuts at Had's.

—Have you seen Mrs. Austin's new dress?

—ATTENTION FARMERS:—For wheat special fertilizers see J. Y. W. McClellan. 34

—The number now on the pension rolls as shown by the July report, is 993,529.

—E. C. Kronz of Wilmington was a caller today and went into the COURIER ist of 1901.

—Miss Anna Masters spent the day yesterday with Frank Stoops and wife in the country.

—Don't forget the great lectures and evening entertainment at the teachers' institute next week.

—When you entertain your friends take them to Had's up-to-date restaurant for their meals.

—Wm. Miller and wife are happy in the arrival last evening of a big boy baby, as reported by Dr. Baxter.

—When you go to buy bluing, insist upon having Russ Bleaching Blue and not some of the many imitations. 35

—Cal. Husselman is busy sending out packages of samples of his seed wheat to farmers all over the country.

—Frank Cool, son of I. N. Cool of Paxton, Ill., is here for a visit, and is accompanied by a friend, Asher Sheldon.

—FOR RENT:—To parties without children, the first floor front rooms of Mrs. Ward's building, just north of COURIER office.

—Several prisoners confined at the Jeffersonville reformatory have recently been transfered to the Michigan City prison on account of bad conduct.

—You do not have to dry goods in the shade colored with Putnam Fadeless Dyes. They are fast to sunlight and washing. 10c per package. Sold by F. E. Davenport. 33

—A change of time went into effect on the B. & O. yesterday, the only trains affected being Nos. 16 and 17. No. now goes west at 12:40 p. m. and No. 17 goes east at 11:23 a. m.

—Before you buy lath see the fine stock of the Saginaw product at the lumber yard of A. Lewis & Co. They have reason to think they have about the best there is in the market. a1tf

—Rev. J. N. Wilson filled the pulpit at the Lutheran church yesterday morning in the absence of Rev. Brosy who was called to officiate at the funeral of Mrs. Christena Fair at Cedar chapel.

—FOR SALE:—Good residence property; six-room house, barn and other out buildings, fruit and good water, near central part of the city. Will be sold at a bargain. Inquire at this office, or address Lock Box 699, Auburn.

—Nicholas Ensley was taken quite sick Thursday evening. He had been down at the farm in Butler township and had probably overworked or exposed himself in the intense heat of that day. Dr. Baxter was called and has been treating him and he is now better.

—The record of Indiana volunteers in the Spanish-American war is about ready for distribution and every soldier in the volunteers is entitled to a copy. Capt. Lahnum will have charge of the distribution of the books and will notify the members of old company K as soon as they are received.

—Pennsylvania is going to reserve and save three great forests, one at the head waters of the Deleware, of the Ohio and of the Susquehanna rivers, each to contain about 40,000 acres. Where these trees have been cut away, new forests will be planted. These forests are to serve as great sanitariums or homes for consumptives.

—Our people should remember the excursion to Defiance next Sunday under the auspices of the Auburn band and an All-Star base ball team made up of the best independent players in northeastern Indiana. The train will leave the Junction at 8:37 a. m., and the fare for the round trip will be only 90 cents. See bill for full particulars.

—Few of our people know that there are four state officias who receive larger salaries than the governor. The auditor and the attorney-general each receive $7,500 per annum. The secretary of state and the treasurer receive $6,500 each. Clerk of the supreme court receives $4,500 and the income of the supreme court reporter is an even $4,000.

—The work of the state fee and and salary commission has come to a stand still on account of the census returns. It is not possible for the commission to figure out what the couty officers ought to receive till they get the returns from the last census so as to have a basis on which to work. The salaries of most of the county officers are fixed by a per capita rating.

—The dealers and shippers of poultry from Indiana and Ohio have made a vigorous protest against existing rates for that class of freight and have enlisted eastern dealers in the fight against the railways. The poultry men held a meeting at Richmond, Indiana, Friday, at which it was stated that the railway companies had organized against them and they (the dealers) did not propose to submit tamely to the injustice.

—There is a story told of a man in this town who has two legs of quite different length. On that one occasion when treating a party of friends he stood in front of the bar on the leg which made him look very short. When the barkeeper's back was turned he shifted to his long leg, making him look nearly six feet tall, and when the bar keeper turned around, demanded: "What became of that little cuss who ordered the drinks?" Nobody knew.—Logansport Reporter.

Tuesday's Daily.

—Have you seen Mrs. Austin's new dress?

—Democrats were pretty numerous in Auburn today.

—Are you going on the excursion to Defiance next Sunday?

—Daniel Lochamier and C. P. Hamman were among our visitors today.

—Good meals are good. Those are the kind you get at Had's restaurant.

—Judge Zollars of Fort Wayne attended the democratic meeting today.

—The lectures at the the institute next week, are all good. Don't miss any.

—Congressman Robinson was a caller at the COURIER office today while in town.

—J. A. Maxwell of Pleasant Lake is here visiting his daughter, Mrs. Lizzie Baxter.

—Mrs. T. C. Ford goes to Hicksville on the evening train, to visit her father G. W. Lewis, a few days.

—Mrs. Frank Myers of New Era is here for a few days' visit with her daughter, Mrs. U. S. Weaver.

—Meals furnished for parties, lodges socials, etc., from 25 cents a plate to as high as you want to go, at Had's restaurant.

—The Askew property north of Lutheran church for sale at a bargain. For particulars address Phil Plum, Waterloo, Ind. tf

—Wm. Leedy came up from Fort Wayne last evening for a visit and to join his wife and children who have been here for some time.

—Ask your grocer for Russ' Bleaching Blue, do not be deceived by fraudulent imitations. See that the name Russ appears on all packages.

—George May of Smithfield and Commissioner Shultz of Franklin were callers today. They came to attend the democratic committee meeting.

—Cal. VanAuken has been at Stroh for several weeks superintending his contract for the construction of about a mile of side track for the cement plant.

—The Shamrocks of Fort Wayne are all fine ball players. See the game between this team and the Auburn Reds at the ball park next Saturday.

—The ladies of the Lutheran church will serve ice cream and cake on the court house lawn next Saturday evening and invite all their friends to come.

—President Parsons of the State Normal will give three lessons each day, and Dr. Stevenson of De Pauw will give three each day at the institute.

—Thomas R. Marshall and wife and Joseph Ruch of Columbia City came up on the early train this morning and were driven over to Waterloo by Gene Trout.

—George Swanders, Norman Shaffer and the other members of the party who accompanied the Wabash excursion to Niagara Falls, returned home last evening.

—Mrs. Silberg had a severe fall down stairs last evening at the home of G. A. Bishop, sr., and though no bones were broken she was badly bruised and is confined to her bed.

—The infant child of Mr. and Mrs. E. Bottenburg died about midnight at their home just west of the city. The funeral will be held at the Lutheran church tomorrow afternoon at 3:30.

—WANTED:—A farm in DeKalb Co. Must be a bargain. Party will pay from $2,000 to $3,000 cash and assume some indebtedness if necessary. Enquire of Webster & Wartenbe, Butler, Ind. 36

—The following marriage licenses have been issued since our last report: Samuel D. Pomeroy and Bertha M. Metcalf; George Lay and May Baird; William E Oberholtzer and Myla Pearl Moer.

—Supt. Lewis has had men at work today making connections for the new fountains on the public square. The city pays the expense of setting the fountains and furnishes water free of charge.

—A special from Elkhart to the Indianapolis Press says local democrats are attempting to start a new democratic paper in opposition to the old organ that is owned by ex-Congressman C. G. Conn, who has come out for McKinley, as he did four years ago.

—The democratic headquarters for the campaign have been located in the second story of the COURIER office building. The room has been seated, and made comfortable so that meetings can be held there. It was the most convenient place that could be found in town.

—Will Huyler has purchased Lester Till's lunch room and will take possession in a short time. This has for several years been a popular eating house and Mr. Till has built up a fine trade which we hope to see Mr. Huyler retain. He is a worthy young man and entitled to his full share of patronage.

—The democrats of Franklin township have nominated the following ticket: Trustee, Daniel Lockamier; assessor, Amos Snyder; justices of the peace, Baylis Boyer and John Wagner; advisory board, Joseph Sewell, George Pierson and Adam Hamman, sr.; supervisors, Wm. Rench, A. C. Hamman, Fred. Schlosser, Samuel Noragon and E. H. Fisher.

—A deal was closed yesterday by which the Kline grocery on South Main street is sold to Lester Till, but the present proprietors will continue to conduct the business until about September 10. Mr. Till is well known to the majority of our people and has made many friends by his uniform courtesy and industry. The Kline grocery is well located and we hope Mr. Till will make a success of his new venture.

Wednesday's Daily.

—Take your meals at Had's restaurant.

—Have you seen Mrs. Austin's new dress?

—Levi Sechler of Newville was a business caller on the COURIER today.

—Mrs. Minerva Williams is sick at the home of her son-in-law, J. J. VanAuken.

—This hot weather give your wife a rest by taking your meals at Had's restaurant.

—The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Lochner has been quite sick for several days.

—Rev. W. H. Vaughn, a retired Baptist minister, died at Lagrange yesterday, aged 80 years.

—You'll see a game of ball Saturday afternoon that will lay over anything ever seen in Auburn.

—Miss Edith Feagler spent the day yesterday in the country the guest of Miss Nettie Olinger.

—Mrs. Leonard Grosh and little son are here from Fort Wayne visiting John Haines and family.

—The Nickel Plate excursion to Niagara Fall was run in six sections and carried over 2,100 passengers.

—A number of DeKalb county people will accompany the Lake Shore excursion to Niagara Falls tomorrow.

—HOUSE FOR RENT:—Good house at reasonable price. Inquire at H. Greenberg's, North VanBuren-st. Auburn.

—Oscar Hoffman, south of Bachtel's Mill, will grind all kinds of house cutlery, plow points, etc. in good style. Try him. tf —LOST:—Gold wire ring with five small diamond sets. Finder will be liberally rewarded by returning same to W. E Ryan.

—Mrs. Ann Davis has been here for several days, called by the illness of John R. Davis. She will remain until after the funeral.

—You can't afford to be without a meal ticket when you can get twenty-one meals for $3 at Had's restaurant—less than 15 cents per meal.

—Miss Florence Swarts and Miss Bertha Barnes who have been visiting Alva Sebring and family for several weeks, returned to Oak Shade, O., today.

—Nicholas Ensley has been appointed by Gov. Mount as one of the members of a commission to inspect and report on the placing of monuments on the Chickamauga battlefield.

—Indiana members of the G. A. R. have been informed that the Sherman House will be headquarters for the Hoosier veterans during the national encampment at Chicago.

—PARTNER WANTED:—In an established business with capital of $800 to $1,000. Meat man preferred. Big profits guaranteed. Address E. Klinknecht, Box 586, Auburn. a16

—WANTED:—About 25 or 30 cords of good body wood, 18 or 20 inches long, either beech, hard maple or hickory. No dosy or sour wood will be accepted, but must be cut from green timber.—J. C. HENRY.

—H. H. Haynes of Fort Wayne was nominated at that place last night by the social democrats as their candidate for congress from the Twelfth district. The convention was attended by about fifty people.

—Married at the residence of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Till, of Waterloo, by Rev. W. O. Butler, August 11, 1900, Charles F. Whitford of Kendallville and Miss Madge Haskins.

—The managers of Robison park are being criticised for permitting the sale of intoxicating liquors at that heretofore popular resort. This is the first season that anything of the kind has ever been permitted.

—Unclaimed letters remaining in the postoffice, week ending August 11, 1900. Mrs. Geo. Stevens, R. W. Corr, Com. Trav., Parry Shaffer, Eliga Bell, J. W. Bosse. Claimants will please call for letters in advertised list.—G. H. FORKNER, Postmaster.

—For stockings and mittens for the children, dye the wool with Putnam Fadeless Dyes, scarlet, cardinal or turkey red. Each time you wash them makes them brighter. Sold by F. E. Davenport. 33

—W. H. Zigler, agent for the Deering Harvester Co., has on exhibition at Moffet's feed yard in Auburn a new corn harvester which is conceded to be one of the best machines of the kind ever put on the market. It is built on correct principles and every farmer should call and take a look at it.

—Mrs. Clem Brandon died at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Myers, on the old McClellan farm south of town, about 1 o'clock yesterday, aged 31 years. As heretofore noted Mrs. Brandon has been a long and patient sufferer and her death had been expected for some time. The funeral services will be held at the Myers home Thursday at 10 o'clock, conducted by Rev. Brosy. Interment in Woodlawn cemetery under direction of G. S McCord.

Half Rates to Detroit, Mich.

Via Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, account K. of P. Biennial Conclave.

On August 25 to 28, inclusive, the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company will sell excursion tickets from all local stations west of the Ohio River to Detroit, Mich., at rate of one fare for the round trip account the Knights of Pythias Biennial Conclave. Tickets will be good for return until September 5, but may be extended until September 14 by deposit with Joint Agent and payment of 50 cents.

For further information call on or address nearest Baltimore & Ohio Ticket Agent, or B. N. Austin, General Passenger Agent, Chicago, Ill.

THE AUBURN LUMBER CO.

—Carry a Full line of—

Casings, Base Blocks for Inside Finish, Veranda Columns, Spindels, Tracery and Brackets for Veranda or Porch work.....

HOLLOW FOUNDATION BLOCKS,

Bulk Lime, Portland Cement,

And are always headquarters for Shingles, all the best grades cut from green timber.

The Auburn Lumber Co.

Auburn, Indiana.

Remember the Place.....Near Wabash Depot.

NOTICE!

TO THE USERS OF GASOLINE:

The price of Gasoline is on the decline. We are now selling it at 12 cents per gallon. Will deliver five gallon cans to any part of the city.

Culbertson & Boland.

What Can a Kodak Do? —The answer is found in

D. A. HODGE'S WINDOW.

See our line of Kodaks and Cameras. We have what you want in Supplies.

D. A. HODGE,

The Jeweler. Auburn, Ind.

BUTLER.

Real estate changes continue frequently.

Elias Kepler is reported dead this (Tuesday) morning.

Sam Miller's new dwelling is approaching completion.

George Jappen was reported very sick the first of the week.

The refreshing rains that fell last Sunday filled a much felt want.

One hundred degrees in the shade last week made many people tired.

Our new Fort Wayne editors seem to be making themselves at home.

Wes Wykoff, three miles east of town, is building a fine new residence.

Many Butler people will attend the old settlers' meeting at Angola this week.

The writer contemplates a visit either to New York or Michigan within the coming week.

Mrs. Charles W. Campbell nee Jones of Chicago, is visiting her mother and her husband's folks.

There are more acres of number one good corn in DeKalb county, than there ever has been at one time before.

William Pitt. Cather, son of James Cather, deceased, is in rather poor health. He lives on the old farm with his brother, neither of whom are married.

The last survey for the Butler-Fort Wayne railroad, strikes the old line one-half mile east of Broadway. This would mean a new depot at the east end of North street, about three-fourths of a mile from the present one.

Fairfield Picnic.

The annual picnic of the Fairfield township Sunday schools will be held in the grove at Oran Bair's, one mile north of the Center, on Saturday, Sept. 1. All possible will be done to make it a success.

H. H. SLAYBAUGH,
Township President.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

Foley's Kidney Cure makes kidneys and bladder right.

NOT A PLAYTHING.

But an instrument perfect in tone, appearance and construction. The KRANICH & BACH and FISHER Pianos are not manufactured by those who demand an enormous profit, therefore it can be sold at a reasonable figure. The mechanism is of the most recent design and the action is perfect. The tone, volume and range is equal to that of pianos costing nearly double.

FOR SALE BY

F. V. CUTLER,

AUBURN, INDIANA.

Also up-to-date Funeral Directors and Embalmers.

HUMPHREYS'

WITCH HAZEL

OIL

CURES

Piles or Hemorrhoids.
Fissures & Fistulas.
Burns & Scalds.
Wounds & Bruises.
Cuts & Sores.
Boils & Tumors.
Eczema & Eruptions.
Salt Rheum & Tetters.
Chapped Hands.
Fever Blisters.
Sore Lips & Nostrils.
Corns & Bunions.
Stings & Bites of Insects.

Three Sizes, 25c, 50c. and $1.00.

Sold by druggists, or sent post paid on receipt of price. HUMPHREYS' MED. CO., 111 & 113 William St., New York.

—Subscribe for the COURIER.

William J. Bryan's Indianapolis Speech.

HON. WILLIAM J. BRYAN, addressing the members of the Notification Committee at Indianapolis, said that at an early day and in a more formal manner he would accept the nomination which they tendered. At that time he promises to fully discuss the various questions covered by the Democratic platform, limiting his remarks before the committee to a few observations upon the general character of the contest, and upon the question which is declared to be of paramount importance in this campaign. Mr. Bryan spoke substantially as follows:

When I say that the contest of 1900 is a contest between democracy on the one hand and plutocracy on the other, I do not mean to say that all our opponents have deliberately chosen to give to organized wealth a predominating influence in the affairs of the government, but I do assert that on the important issues of the day the Republican party is dominated by those influences which constantly tend to elevate pecuniary considerations and ignore human rights.

The Democratic party is not making war upon the honest acquisition of wealth; it has no desire to discourage industry, economy and thrift. On the contrary, it gives to every citizen the greatest possible stimulus to honest toil, when it promises him protection in the enjoyment of the proceeds of his labor. Property rights are most secure when human rights are respected. Democracy strives for a civilization in which every member of society will share according to his merits.

Against us are arrayed a comparatively small, but politically and financially powerful, number who really profit by Republican policies; but with them are associated a large number who, because of their attachment to their party name, are giving their support to doctrines antagonistic to the former teachings of their own party. Republicans who used to advocate bimetallism, now try to convince themselves that the gold standard is good; Republicans who were formerly attached to the greenback are now seeking an excuse for giving national banks control of the nation's paper money; Republicans who used to boast that the Republican party was paying off the national debt, are now seeking for reasons to support a perpetual and increasing debt; Republicans who formerly abhorred a trust, now beguile themselves with the delusion that there are good trusts and bad trusts, while, in their minds, the line between the two is becoming more and more obscure; Republicans who, in times past, congratulated the country upon the small expense of our standing army, are now making light of the objections which are urged against a large increase in the permanent military establishment; Republicans who gloried in our independence when the nation was less powerful, now look with favor upon a foreign alliance; Republicans who three years ago condemned "forcible annexation" as an immoral and even criminal, are now sure that it is both immoral and criminal to oppose forcible annexation. That partisanship has already blinded many to present dangers is certain; how large a portion of the Republican party can be drawn over to the new policies remains to be seen.

Abandon Early Ideals.

In attempting to press economic questions upon the country to the exclusion of those which involve the very structure of our government, the Republican leaders give new evidence of their abandonment of the earlier ideals of the party and of their complete subserviency to pecuniary considerations.

But they shall not be permitted to evade the stupendous and far-reaching issue which they have deliberately brought into the arena of politics. When the President, supported by a practically unanimous vote of the House and Senate, entered upon a war with Spain for the purpose of aiding the struggling patriots of Cuba, the country, without regard to party, applauded. Although the Democrats recognized that the administration would necessarily gain a political advantage from the conduct of a war which, in the very nature of the case, must soon end in a complete victory, they vied with the Republicans in the support which they gave to the President. When the war was over and the Republican leaders began to suggest the propriety of a colonial policy, opposition at once manifested itself. When the President finally laid before the Senate a treaty which recognized the independence of Cuba, but provided for the cession of the Philippine Islands to the United States, the menace of imperialism became so apparent that many preferred to reject the treaty and risk the ills that might follow rather than take the chance of correcting the errors of the treaty by the independent action of this country.

I was among the number of those who believed it better to ratify the treaty and end the war, release the volunteers, remove the excuse for war expenditures, and then give to the Filipinos the independence which might be forced from Spain by a new treaty. I thought it safer to trust the American people to give independence to the Filipinos than to trust the accomplishment of that purpose to diplomacy with an unfriendly nation. The title of Spain being extinguished, we were at liberty to deal with the Filipinos according to American principles. The Bacon resolution, introduced a month before hostilities broke out at Manila, promised independence to the Filipinos on the same terms that it was promised to the Cubans. I supported this resolution and believe that its adoption prior to the breaking out of hostilities would have prevented bloodshed, and that its adoption at any subsequent time would have ended hostilities.

If the treaty had been rejected, considerable time would have necessarily elapsed before a new treaty could have been agreed upon and ratified and during that time the question would have been agitating the public mind. If the Bacon resolution had been adopted by the Senate and carried out by the President, either at the time of the ratification of the treaty or at any time afterwards, it would have taken the question of imperialism out of politics and left the American people free to deal with their domestic problems. But the resolution was defeated by the vote of the Republican Vice President, and from that time to this a Republican Congress has refused to take any action whatever in the matter.

Cowardly Evasion.

When hostilities broke out at Manila Republican speakers and Republican editors at once sought to lay the blame upon those who had delayed the ratification of the treaty, and, during the progress of the war, the same Republicans have accused the opponents of imperialism of giving encouragement to the Filipinos. This is a cowardly evasion of responsibility.

If it is right for the United States to hold the Philippine Islands permanently and imitate European empires in the government of colonies, the Republican party ought to state its position and defend it, but it must expect the subject races to protest against such a policy and to resist to the extent of their ability. The Filipinos do not need any encouragement from Americans now living. Our whole history has been an encouragement. Those who would have this nation enter upon a career of empire must consider not only the effect of imperialism on the Filipinos, but they must also calculate its effect upon our own nation. We cannot repudiate the principle of self-government in the Philippines without weakening that principle here.

Even now we are beginning to see the paralyzing influence of imperialism. Heretofore this nation has been prompt to express its sympathy with those who were fighting for civil liberty. While our sphere of activity has been limited to the Western Hemisphere, our sympathies have not been bounded by the seas. Three-quarters of a century ago, when our nation was small, the struggles of Greece aroused our people, and Webster and Clay gave eloquent expression to the universal desire for Grecian independence. In 1896, all parties manifested a lively interest in the success of the Cubans, but now when a war is in progress in South Africa, which must result in the extension of the monarchial idea or in the triumph of a republic, the advocates of imperialism in this country dare not say a word in behalf of the Boers. Sympathy for the Boers does not arise from any unfriendliness toward England; the American people are not unfriendly toward the people of any nation. This sympathy is due to the fact that, as stated in our platform, we believe in the principle of self-government and reject, as did our forefathers, the claims of monarchy.

HON. WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN.

Imperialism Not Expansion.

Our opponents, conscious of the weakness of their cause, seek to confuse imperialism with expansion, and have even dared to claim Jefferson as a supporter of their policy. Jefferson spoke so freely and used language with such precision that no one can be ignorant of his views. On one occasion he declared: "If there be one principle more deeply rooted than any other in the mind of every American, it is that we should have nothing to do with conquest." And again he said: "Conquest is not in our principles; it is inconsistent with our government."

The forcible annexation of territory to be governed by arbitrary power, differs as much from the acquisition of territory to be built up into states as a monarchy differs from a democracy. The Democratic party does not oppose expansion, when expansion enlarges the area of the republic and incorporates land which can be settled by American citizens, or adds to our population people who are willing to become citizens and are capable of discharging their duties as such. The acquisition of the Louisiana territory, Florida, Texas and other tracts which have been secured from time to time, enlarged the republic, and the constitution followed the flag into the new territory. It is now proposed to seize upon distant territory already more densely populated than our own country, and to force upon the people a government, for which there is no warrant in our constitution or our laws. Even the argument that this earth belongs to those who desire to cultivate it and have the physical power to acquire it cannot be invoked to justify the appropriation of the Philippine Islands by the United States, for if the islands were uninhabited American citizens would not be willing to go there and till the soil. The white race will not live so near the equator.

A colonial policy means that we shall send to the Philippines a few traders, a few task masters and a few office-holders, and an army large enough to support the authority of a small fraction of the people while they rule the natives.

If we have an imperial policy we must have a large standing army as its natural and necessary complement. The spirit which will justify the forcible annexation of the Philippine Islands will justify the seizure of other islands and the domination of other people, and wars of conquest we can expect a certain, if not rapid growth of our military establishment. That a large permanent increase in our regular army is intended by the Republican leaders is not a mere matter of conjecture, but a matter of fact.

Menace of a Big Army.

A large standing army is not only a pecuniary burden to the people and, if accompanied by compulsory service, a constant source of irritation, but it is ever a menace to a Republican form of government. A small standing army and a well-equipped and well-disciplined State militia are sufficient in ordinary times, and in any emergency the nation should in the future as in the past place its dependence upon the volunteers who come from all occupations at their country's call and return to productive labor when their services are no longer required—men who fight when the country needs fighters and work when the country needs workers.

The Republican platform assumes that the Philippine Islands will be retained under American sovereignty, and we have a right to demand of the Republican leaders a discussion of the future status of the Filipino. Is he to be a citizen or a subject? Are we to bring into the body politic eight or ten million Asiatics, so different from us in race and history that amalgamation is impossible? Are they to share with us in making the laws and shaping the destiny of this nation? No Republican of prominence has been bold enough to advocate such a proposition. The Democratic platform describes the situation when it says that the Filipinos cannot be citizens without endangering our civilization. Who will dispute it? And what is the alternative? If the Filipino is not to be a citizen, shall we make him a subject? On that question the Democratic platform speaks with emphasis. It declares that the Filipino cannot be a subject without endangering our form of government. A republic can have no subjects.

The whole difference between a monarchy and a republic may be summed up in one sentence. In a monarchy the king gives to the people what he believes to be a good government; in a republic the people secure for themselves what they believe to be a good government. The Republican party has accepted the European idea and planted itself upon the ground taken by George II, and by every ruler who distrusts the capacity of the people for self-government or denies them a voice in their own affairs.

Republicans Fear to Legislate.

The Republican platform promises that some measure of self-government is to be given to the Filipinos by law; but, even this pledge is not fulfilled. Nearly sixteen months elapsed after the ratification of the treaty before the adjournment of Congress last June, and yet no law was passed dealing with the Philippine situation. The will of the President has been the only law in the Philippine Islands wherever the American authority extends. Why does the Republican party hesitate to legislate upon the Philippine question? Because a law would disclose the radical departure from history and precedent contemplated by those who control the Republican party. The storm of protest which greeted the Porto Rican bill was an indication of what may be expected when the American people are brought face to face with legislation upon this subject. If the Porto Ricans, who welcome annexation, are to be denied the guarantees of our constitution, what is to be the lot of the Filipinos, who resisted our authority? If secret influences could compel a disregard of our plain duty toward friendly people, living near our shores, what treatment will those same influences provide for unfriendly people 7,000 miles away? If, in this country, where the people have the right to vote, Republican leaders dare not take the side of the people against the great monopolies which have grown up within the last few years, how can they be trusted to protect the Filipinos from the corporations which are waiting to despoil the islands?

What is our title to the Philippine Islands? Do we hold them by treaty or by conquest? Did we buy them or did we take them? Did we purchase the people? If not, how did we secure title to them? Were they thrown in with the land? Will the Republicans say that inanimate earth has value, and when that earth is molded by the Divine Hand and stamped with the likeness of the Creator it becomes a fixture and passes with the soil? If governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed, it is impossible to secure title to people, either by force or by purchase. We could extinguish Spain's title by treaty, but if we hold title we must hold it by some method consistent with our ideas of government. When we made allies of the Filipinos and armed them to fight against Spain, we disputed Spain's title. If we buy Spain's title we are not innocent purchasers. But even if we had not disputed Spain's title, she could transfer no greater title than she had, and her title was based on force alone. We cannot defend such a title, but, as Spain gave us a quit claim deed, we can honorably turn the property over to the party in possession.

Our Duty in the Philippines.

Some say that it is our duty to hold the Philippine Islands. But duty is not an argument; it is a conclusion. To ascertain what our duty is, in any emergency, we must apply well-settled and generally accepted principles. It is our duty to avoid stealing, no matter whether the thing to be stolen is of great or little value. It is our duty to avoid killing a human being, no matter where the human being lives or to what race or class he belongs. Everyone recognizes the obligation imposed upon individuals to observe both the human and moral, but, as some deny the application of those laws to nations, it may not be out of place to quote the opinions of others. Jefferson, than whom there is no higher political authority, said:

"I know of but one code of morality for men, whether acting singly or collectively."

Franklin, whose learning, wisdom and virtue are a part of the priceless legacy bequeathed to us from the Revolutionary days, expressed the same idea in even stronger language when he said:

"Justice is as strictly due between neighbor nations as between neighbor citizens. A highwayman is as much a robber when he plunders in a gang as when singly; and the nation that makes an unjust war is only a great gang."

Men may dare to do in crowds what they would not dare to do as individuals, but the moral character of an act is not determined by the number of those who join in it. Force can defend a right, but force has never yet created a right. If it was true, as declared in the resolutions of intervention, that the Cubans "are and of right ought to be free and independent," (language taken from the Declaration of Independence,) it is equally true that the Filipinos "are and of right ought to be free and independent."

Who will draw a line between the natural rights of the Cubans and the Filipinos? Who will say that the former has a right to liberty and that the latter has no rights which we are bound to respect? And, if the Filipinos "are and of right ought to be free and independent," what right have we to force our government upon them without their consent? Before our duty can be ascertained, their rights must be determined, and when their rights are once determined, it is as much our duty to respect those rights as it was the duty of Spain to respect the rights of the people of Cuba, or the duty of England to respect the rights of the American colonists. Rights never conflict; duties never clash. Can it be our duty to usurp political rights which belong to others? Can it be our duty to kill those who, following the example of our forefathers, love liberty well enough to fight for it?

It is argued by some that the Filipinos are incapable of self-government, and that therefore we owe it to the world to take control of them. Admiral Dewey, in an official report to the navy department, declared the Filipinos more capable of self-government than the Cubans, and said that he based his opinion upon a knowledge of both races. But I will not rest the case upon the relative advancement of the Filipinos. Henry Clay, in defending the rights of the people of South America to self-government, said:

"It is the doctrine of thrones that man is too ignorant to govern himself. Their partisans assert his incapacity in reference to all nations; if they cannot command universal assent to the proposition, it is then remanded to particular nations; and our pride and our presumption too often make converts of us. I contend that it is to arraign the disposition of Providence Himself, to suppose that He has created beings incapable of governing themselves, and to be trampled on by kings. Self-government is the natural government of man."

Some argue that American rule in the Philippine Islands will result in the better education of the Filipinos. Be not deceived. If we expect to maintain a colonial policy, we shall not find it to our advantage to educate the people. The educated Filipinos are now in revolt against us, and the most ignorant ones have made the least resistance to our domination. If we are to govern them without their consent and give them no voice in determining the taxes which they must pay, we dare not educate them, lest they learn to read the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States and mock us for our inconsistency.

The principal arguments, however, advanced by those who enter upon a defense of imperialism are:

First—That we must improve the present opportunity to become a world power and enter into international politics.

Second—That our commercial interests in the Philippine Islands and in the Orient make it necessary for us to hold the islands permanently.

Third—That the spread of the Christian religion will be facilitated by a colonial policy.

Fourth—That there is no honorable retreat from the position which the nation has taken.

The first argument is addressed to the nation's pride and the second to the nation's pocketbook. The third is intended for the church member and the fourth for the partisan.

It is a sufficient answer to the first argument to say that for more than a century this nation has been a world power. For ten decades it has been the most potent influence in the world. Not only has it been a world power, but it has done more to affect the politics of the human race than all the other nations of the world combined. The growth of the principle of self-government, planted on American soil, has been the over-shadowing political fact of the nineteenth century. It has made this nation conspicuous among the nations and given it a place in history such as no other nation has ever enjoyed.

The Commercial Argument.

The permanent chairman of the last Republican national convention presented the pecuniary argument in all its baldness, when he said: "We make no hypocritical pretense of being interested in the Philippines solely on account of others. While we regard the welfare of these people as a sacred trust, we regard the welfare of the American people first. We see our duty to ourselves as well as to others. We believe in trade expansion. By every legitimate means within the province of government and constitution, we mean to stimulate the expansion of our trade and open new markets."

This is the commercial argument. It is based upon the theory that war can be rightly waged for pecuniary advantage, and that it is profitable to purchase trade by force and violence. The Democratic party is in favor of the expansion of trade. It would extend our trade by every legitimate and peaceful means; but it is not willing to make merchandise of human blood. But a war of conquest is as unwise as it is unrighteous. A harbor and coaling station in the Philippines would answer every trade and military necessity, and such a concession could have been secured at any time without difficulty.

The pecuniary argument, though more effective with certain classes, is not likely to be used as often or presented with so much emphasis as the religious argument. If what has been termed the "gun-powder gospel" were urged against the Filipinos only it would be a sufficient answer to say that a majority of the Filipinos are now members of one branch of the Christian church; but the principle involved is one of much wider application and challenges serious consideration.

The religious argument varies in positiveness from a passive belief that Providence delivered the Filipinos into our hands, for their good and our glory, to the exultation of the minister who said that we ought to "thrash the natives (Filipinos) until they understand who we are," and that "every bullet sent, every cannon shot and every flag waved means righteousness."

We cannot approve of this doctrine in one place unless we are willing to apply it everywhere. Love, not force, was the weapon of the Nazarene; sacrifice for others, not the exploitation of them, was His method of reaching the human heart. Let it be known that our missionaries are seeking souls instead of sovereignty; let it be known that instead of being the advance guard of conquering armies, they are going forth to help and to uplift, having their loins girt about with truth and their feet shod with the preparation of the gospel of peace, wearing the breastplate of righteousness, and carrying the sword of the Spirit; let it be known that they are the citizens of a nation which respects the rights of the citizens of other nations as carefully as it protects the rights of its own citizens, and the welcome given to our missionaries will be more cordial than the welcome extended to the missionaries of any other nation.

The argument, made by some, that it was unfortunate for the nation that it had anything to do with the Philippine Islands, but that the naval victory at Manila made the permanent acquisition of those islands necessary, is also unsound. We won a naval victory at Santiago, but that did not compel us to hold Cuba. The shedding of American blood in the Philippine Islands does not make it imperative that we should retain possession forever; American blood was shed at San Juan Hill and El Caney, and yet the President has promised the Cubans independence. The fact that the American flag floats over Manila does not compel us to exercise perpetual sovereignty over the islands; that flag waves over Havana to-day, but the President has promised to haul it down when the flag of the Cuban republic is ready to rise in its place. Better a thousand times that our flag in the Orient give way to a flag representing the idea of self-government than that the flag of this republic should become the flag of an empire.

Solution of the Question.

There is an easy, honest, honorable solution of the Philippine question. It is set forth in the Democratic platform and it is submitted with confidence to the American people. This plan I unreservedly indorse. If elected, I shall convene Congress in extraordinary session as soon as I am inaugurated, and recommend an immediate declaration of the nation's purpose; first, to establish a stable form of government in the Philippine Islands, just as we are now establishing a stable form of government in the island of Cuba; second, to give independence to the Filipinos, just as we have promised to give independence to the Cubans; third, to protect the Filipinos from outside interference while they work out their destiny, just as we have protected the republics of Central and South America, and are, by the Monroe doctrine, pledged to protect Cuba. An European protectorate often results in the exploitation of the ward by the guardian. An American protectorate gives to the nation protected the advantage of our strength, without making it the victim of our greed.

Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen of the Committee: I can never fully discharge the debt of gratitude which I owe to my countrymen for the honors which they have so generously bestowed upon me; but, sirs, whether it be my lot to occupy the high office for which the convention has named me, or to spend the remainder of my days in private life, it shall be my constant ambition and my controlling purpose to aid in realizing the high ideals of those whose wisdom and courage and sacrifices brought this republic into existence.

I can conceive of a national destiny surpassing the glories of the present and the past—a destiny which meets the responsibilities of the to-day and measures up to the possibilities of the future. Behold a republic, resting securely upon the foundation stones quarried by revolutionary patriots from the mountain of eternal truth—a republic applying in practice and proclaiming to the world the self-evident proposition "That all men are created equal; that they are endowed with inalienable rights; that governments are instituted among men to secure these rights; that governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed." Behold a republic in which civil and religious liberty stimulate all to earnest endeavor and in which the law restrains every hand uplifted for a neighbor's injury—a republic in which every citizen is a sovereign but in which no one cares to wear a crown. Behold a republic standing erect while empires all around are bowed beneath the weight of their own armaments—a republic whose flag is loved while other flags are only feared. Behold a republic increasing in population, in wealth, in strength and in influence, solving the problems of civilization and hastening the coming of an universal brotherhood—a republic which shakes thrones and dissolves aristocracies by its silent example and gives light and inspiration to those who sit in darkness. Behold a republic gradually but surely becoming the supreme moral factor in the world's progress and the accepted arbiter of the world's disputes—a republic whose history, like the path of the just, "is as the shining light that shineth more and more unto the perfect day."

Character and personal force are the only investments that are worth anything.—Whitman.

SPEECH OF MR. STEVENSON

Accepting the Democratic Nomination for Vice President.

Hon. Adlai E. Stevenson, in his speech at Indianapolis accepting the Democratic nomination for Vice President, said in part:

I am profoundly grateful for the honor conferred upon me by my selection by the national Democratic convention as its candidate for the high office of Vice President of the United States. For the complimentary manner in which such action has been officially made known to me I express to you, Mr. Chairman, and to your honored associates of the committee, my sincere thanks. Deeply impressed with a sense of the responsibility assumed by such candidacy, I accept the nomination so generously tendered me. Should the action of the convention meet the approval of the people in November, it will be my earnest endeavor to discharge with fidelity the duties of the great office.

It is wisely provided in the constitution that at stated times political power shall return to the hands of the people. The struggle for political supremacy, upon which we are now entering, is one of deep moment to the American people. Its supreme importance to all conditions of our countrymen cannot be measured by words. The ills resulting from unjust legislation and from unwise administration of the government must find their remedy in the all-potent ballot. To it we now make our solemn appeal.

HON. ADLAI E. STEVENSON.

The chief purpose of the great convention whose representatives are before me was redress for existing wrongs and security against perils yet greater which menace popular government. Your convention, in language clear and unmistakable, has presented the vital issues upon which the pending contest is to be determined. To its platform I give my earnest assent.

After referring to the platform declarations on trusts, tariffs, Congressional extravagance, etc., Mr. Stevenson says: A question is yet to be discussed, to which all of these are of secondary importance. It is solemnly declared by our platform to be the paramount issue. Questions of domestic policy, however important, may be, but questions of the hour—that of imperialism—is for time. In the presence of this stupendous issue, others seem but as the dust in the balance. In no sense paltering with words, it is the supreme question of republic or empire.

Upon every phase of our foreign policy, the language of the Democratic platform is too clear to admit of misconstruction. It favors trade expansion by all peaceful and lawful means. We believe that liberty, as well as the Constitution, follows the flag. Democrats in common with many Republicans, oppose the Porto Rican law as a violation of the Constitution, and a flagrant breach of good faith toward a dependent people. It is imposing government without the consent of the governed. It is in conflict with that provision of the Constitution which declares that "Duties, imports and excises shall be uniform throughout the United States."

Deplores Spirit of Empire.

The Democratic platform condemns the policy pursued by the present administration toward the Philippine Islands. This policy—inspired by the greedy spirit of commercialism—has enbrolled our government in an unnecessary war, sacrificed valuable lives, and placed the American republic in deadly antagonism to our former allies in their efforts to secure their liberties. For the first time in our history we are boldly confronted with the question of "imperialism—the spirit of empire." This is, indeed, the supreme question to which all others are of secondary importance.

The Democratic party has ever been the advocate of wise territorial expansion. It was in control of the government during forty years of the first half of the present century. During that period new States were admitted into the Federal Union, and our Western border extended beyond the Mississippi. Out of the Louisiana country—acquired under the first Democratic administration—have been carved fourteen magnificent States. Under a later Democratic administration—and as the result of the treaty which terminated our war with Mexico—we acquired California and neighboring States and Territories, thus bringing under our flag, to remain forever, the vast expanse stretching to the Pacific.

The policy of aggressive expansion—of subjugation of distant islands—pursued by the present administration, finds no precedent in the peaceable cession of the Louisiana country by Napoleon, that of Florida by Spain, nor that yet later, of the vast Western area by Mexico. The territory acquired under Democratic administrations was, with favorable climatic conditions, the fit abode for men of our race. At the time of annexation it was peopled under the rule of the Anglo-Saxon, who carried with him our language and our laws. It was territory contiguous to our own, and acquired with the declared intention—when conditions and population would justify—of carving it into States. The result: Millions of American homes, our national wealth increased beyond the dream of avarice, and the United States chief among the nations of the earth. Can it be that the new policy of forcible annexation of distant islands finds precedent in the historic events I have mentioned? The answer is found in the bare statement of facts. The territory acquired under Democratic administrations is contiguous—the Philippine Islands 8,000 miles distant. The acquisition of territory upon our own continent added little to the national expense—to maintain permanent sovereignty over the distant islands necessitates immense expenditures upon our army and navy. More than that, it contemplates methods of administration that pertain, not to the republic, but to the empire. Can it be doubted that the attempt to stifle the spirit of liberty abroad will imperil popular government at home?

We stand 100 years from the hour when the political forces were gathering which were to result in the election of the first Democratic President. The anniversary of the masterful day in our history was wisely chosen for the assembling in convention of the representatives of the historic party whose founder was Jefferson—and whose platform is the Declaration of Independence. In the great struggle now upon us we invoke the co-operation of all who revere the memory of our fathers, and to whom this declaration is not unmeaning parchment—but the enduring chart of our liberties. Upon the supreme issue now in the forefront—and to the end that republican government be perpetuated—we appeal to the sober judgment and patriotism of the American people.

Governor Roosevelt Answered.

It is not easy to match in completeness of crushing effect his (Altgeld's) reply to Roosevelt's assertion that "to give independence to the Filipinos would be like giving independence to the wildest tribe of Apaches in Arizona." Gov. Altgeld asks if this is so why did Dewey arm these "Apaches" for war upon Spain and why did he and Gen. Anderson co-operate with them, when to arm savages and make common cause with them in war upon a civilized nation is infamous in international usage?—New York World.

The Cost of Imperialism.

Every list of killed and wounded that comes to us from the Philippines is a record of unjustifiable cruelty to our sons and adds to the long chapter of dishonor with which the McKinley administration has darkened our national annals.—Atlanta Journal.

ONE COMMON AIM.

Democracy Presents a United Front Against a Common Enemy.

Four years ago Mr. Bryan, amid scenes of great excitement and bitterness, was suddenly called to party leadership. This year he is summoned with deliberation and with unanimity to the same high place. Four years ago his nomination was resisted by nearly a third of the convention. There were many bolters from the convention. There was general dissensions among Democrats, which led to open rupture and the assembling of a convention that put in the field alleged Democratic opposition candidates. Now mark the difference. There is no evidence anywhere within the organization of protest or opposition. The convention was unanimous, and it was not a forced unanimity of elements hiding secret opposition, but of people who believed in the man and the cause he represents, and whose agreement on a unanimous nomination was the most sincere act of their political lives. The Chicago Chronicle, which four years ago opposed Mr. Bryan, now joining in hearty and vigorous support of his election, says: "It may be stated with emphasis that never in the history of the party has a Presidential candidate been placed in the field with greater unanimity or with more genuine cordiality on the part of his supporters." It is plain, therefore, that Mr. Bryan has been a growing man, and impressed himself upon his party and upon the country. His energy, his zeal, his sincerity cannot be questioned even by his most implacable foes. He is stronger to-day than ever before. He has a united party back of him, which he had not in 1896.—Pittsburg Post.

Conquest.

If there is one principle more deeply written than any other in the mind of every American it is that we should have nothing to do with conquest.—Thomas Jefferson.

Conquest. That is our object in the Philippines. The Filipinos. A people who gave up 50,000 lives to win their independence from Spain, and had beaten the Spanish soldiers back to Manila before Dewey entered the bay of Manila that morning in May, 1898.

Aguinaldo. The trusted leader of the Filipinos. A man imbued with the spirit of liberty, familiar with the Declaration of Independence and with the constitution of the United States, furnished with arms and used as an ally by Dewey, believing all the time that the defeat of Spain by the United States meant independence, not conquest, for the Filipinos. It was the devilish lust of conquest that made our administration, our government, play false to Aguinaldo and the Filipinos.

Neither our Declaration of Independence, nor our constitution, nor our traditions, nor our form of government contemplate conquest, which is neither more nor less than national piracy.—Helena Independent.

Another Civil War.

Shall the United States of America continue to be a free republic, and the friend of free and struggling republics everywhere, with equal privileges to all? Or shall the United States become imperial in fact if not in form, with special privileges for the few, the denial of the "consent of the governed," military rule over subject peoples and unwarrantable corporate or trust exactions from our own people? Shall we continue to stand upon the Declaration of Independence and a strict construction of the Constitution, or are they to become forgotten documents in a new-fashioned era of heavy armaments, great military budgets and vast military establishments to oppress the people of our colonies, or in time, perhaps, to overawe the people of our own land?

Republic or empire, which? That is the great question for the people to determine. It underlies and overshadows and exceeds in its vital importance all other issues of this last year of the nineteenth century.—Albany Argus.

Nullification of a Doctrine.

When the joint high commission failed to dispose of Canada's newly conceived and stubborn pretensions to territory that would give her a seaport for her Yukon province at the expense of the integrity of our own coast line, it was announced that Secretary Hay would take the controversy into his own hands, separating it from other questions in dispute with the dominion. This rumor of a "provisional, preliminary and temporary" recession from our previously undisputed frontier is the first news from that quarter.

It looks like a proposition put forth tentatively in order to ascertain whether public interest is so much engrossed in the Presidential campaign in affairs in China and in other matters at home and abroad that it will either tolerate with indifference a surrender of territory or acquiesce submissively in a practical nullification of the Monroe doctrine.—New York Sun.

Hauling Down the Flag.

The United States did not acquire possession of Alaska by conquest from natives who wanted independence, but by purchase from Russia. Nevertheless, our flag has been flying there for about thirty-three years. In the words of President McKinley, "Who shall haul it down?" President McKinley himself, through his Secretary of State, has hauled down the American flag on a considerable strip of that territory. He has done this at the instance of Great Britain. The British flag never floated over this territory until Mr. McKinley hauled down the American flag. When an impartial commission shall adjudge this territory to be outside the purchase which the United States made from Russia it will be time for the President, if duly authorized by Congress, to haul down the American flag. Until such time—hands off, Mr. McKinley and Mr. Hay!—Boston Post.

Maybury a Strong Candidate.

The Democratic party has given the people of Michigan a gubernatorial candidate of the older school—no brag, no bluster, no bossism, no bluffing, no intimidation, no fake "reforms." If the people of the State are dissatisfied with the reckless and corrupt manner in which the affairs of the commonwealth have been administered they have it in their own power to bring about a better state of things. If they desire a government that is not the plaything of demagogues on the one hand and corporate interests on the other, the opportunity is theirs. They can find no fault with the candidate. They can find no fault with the platform on which he stands.—Detroit News.

WILLIE AND HIS PAPA.

Don't be frightened, Willie. Papa will look out for you and Teddy. See what a big life preserver papa's got."—New York Journal.

Two Conventions Contrasted.

The convention at Philadelphia was as tame and insipid as a church social as compared with the convention in Kansas City. Indeed, without Roosevelt a lawn fete would have been tumultuous beside the affair in Philadelphia. The city of brotherly love is a dear, quaint old place, where everything is carried on by a system that has been vindicated by the experience and usage of more than 100 years. Kansas City is the place where things happen and where life pulsates through the streets. The Philadelphia convention was a well-ordered, decorous affair, but for real genuine snap and for power to excite popular interest the Kansas City convention has the late McKinley picnic beaten 1,000 miles.—Kansas City Star.

Why Not Divide China?

If imperialism is a good thing why not now join with the other "world powers" in the partition of China? We have much better reasons for seizing a slice of that empire than we had for taking the Philippines. It is a larger field, both for our trusts and for our missionary "statesmen." At the present rate of progress the Filipinos will soon all be civilized—that is to say, dead—but in China Hanna would have unlimited scope for "Christianizing" the heathen.—Columbus, Ohio, Press-Post.

Out of Their Own Mouths.

Webster Davis has been accused of using some of President Garfield's utterances in addressing a Democratic meeting. It is bad enough to condemn Republican doctrines without proving their error by quoting from the old leaders of the party. Democrats should be forbidden to quote from Lincoln or Garfield.—Peoria Herald-Transcript.

Will Support the Ticket.

The gold Democrats will be found for the most part in support of Bryan and Stevenson at the coming election. It is realized that the nation is confronted by immediate and vital issues that practically sweep from consideration the financial question.—Boston Traveler.

They Are Naturally Surprised.

That there were differences of opinion and discussions as to policy at Kansas City naturally excites the organs of the once free and independent Republican party, in whose conventions Hanna no longer tolerates any discussion.—Albany Argus.

Not Up to Date with Hanna.

To be sure, it hurts the Hanna crowd to have such a garrulous lot of old granny Republicans as Lincoln, Grant, Garfield, Sherman, Edmunds, Hoar, Carpenter, Seward and Stanton quoted in this campaign.—Omaha World-Herald.

Coated

Look at your tongue. Is it coated?

Then you have a bad taste in your mouth every morning. Your appetite is poor, and food distresses you. You have frequent headaches and are often dizzy. Your stomach is weak and your bowels are always constipated.

There's an old and reliable cure:

Ayer's Pills

Don't take a cathartic dose and then stop. Better take a laxative dose each night, just enough to cause one good free movement the day following.

You feel better the very next day. Your appetite returns, your dyspepsia is cured, your headaches pass away, your tongue clears up, your liver acts well, and your bowels no longer give you trouble.

Price, 25 cents. All druggists.

"I have taken Ayer's Pills for 35 years, and I consider them the best made. One pill does me more good than half a box of any other kind I have ever tried."
MRS N. E. TALBOT,
March 30, 1899. Arrington, Kans.

ABSOLUTE SECURITY.

Genuine

Carter's Little Liver Pills.

Must Bear Signature of

Brent Good

See Fac-Simile Wrapper Below.

Very small and as easy to take as sugar.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.
FOR HEADACHE.
FOR DIZZINESS.
FOR BILIOUSNESS.
FOR TORPID LIVER.
FOR CONSTIPATION.
FOR SALLOW SKIN.
FOR THE COMPLEXION
GENUINE MUST HAVE SIGNATURE.
Price 25 Cents. Purely Vegetable. Brent Good

CURE SICK HEADACHE.

A Skin of Beauty is a Joy Forever.
DR. T. FELIX GOURAUD'S ORIENTAL CREAM, OR MAGICAL BEAUTIFIER.

Removes Tan, Pimples, Freckles, Moth Patches, Rash, and Skin diseases, and every blemish on beauty, and defies detection. It has stood the test of 50 years, and is so harmless we taste it to be sure it is properly made. Accept no counterfeit of similar name. Dr. L. A. Sayre said to a lady of the hand-some (a patient): "As you ladies will use them, I recommend 'Gouraud's Cream' as the least harmful of all the skin preparations." For sale by all Druggists and Fancy Goods Dealers in the U. S., Canada, and Europe.
FERD. T. HOPKINS, Prop'r, 37 Great Jones St., N.Y.

Franklin College New Athens Ohio.
$125 a year. Catalog free, with plans to earn funds.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

HUMOR OF THE WEEK

STORIES TOLD BY FUNNY MEN OF THE PRESS.

Odd, Curious and Laughable Phases of Human Nature Graphically Portrayed by Eminent Word Artists of Our Own Day—A Budget of Fun.

Anxious Father—I suppose among other virtues you are training Frederick in economy?

Employer—He's pretty well up in that; you ought to see how careful he is about wasting steps!—Nashville American.

Table Talk.

She—That Mr. Boorisch, of Chicago, is a man of pronounced tastes, is he not?

He—Monotonously so. He makes the same sounds over his soup as he does over his meat or pie.—Philadelphia Press.

At the Summer Hotel.

"Who is that good-looking young waiter who is tossing the plates across the room? Is he a student, too?"

"Yes. He holds the record in Harvale for discus throwing."—Cleveland Plaindealer.

Family Pride.

Small Child (calling)—'Ere, Billy! Run and fetch ye bloomin' amberlance!

Billy (from distance)—Wot's up, ven?

Small Child—Muvver's met ve lydy wot pinched ar doormat.—Sketch.

Her Weakness.

"I don't suppose your wife will care to go to the lecture on 'Cannibalism' to-night?"

"Oh, yes, she will. She never neglects to go anywhere where they talk about things to eat."—Cleveland Plaindealer.

There Are Many Such.

Mrs. Hoon—You can believe very little that Mrs. Gabbleby says.

Mr. Hoon—No; the poor woman is sadly afflicted with palpitation of the imagination.—Puck.

In the Rhetoric Class.

Young Professor—Give me an example of sarcasm.

Sweet Junioress—The phrase, "Man's superiority to woman."—Somerville Journal.

A Real Vacation.

"You and your wife don't seem to talk to each other much when you travel."

"No; we agreed before we started that we'd get rested."—Chicago Record.

Rather Ambiguous.

Old Gentleman—How old are you, my little man?

Newsboy—Nearly 7, sir.

Old Gentleman—And how long have you been in the newspaper business?

Newsboy—Oh, ever since I was a kid.—Chicago News.

Needed No Help.

Sympathetic Friend—Won't you come down to lunch? Shall I bring anything up for you?

Seasick Sufferer—Thanks. No, I can do all that for myself.—Puck.

Wanted a Wife.

Miss Antique—You ought to get married, Mr. Oldchapp.

Mr. Oldchapp (earnestly)—I have wished many times lately that I had a wife.

Miss Antique (delighted)—Have you, really?

Mr. Oldchapp—Yes. If I had a wife she'd probably have a sewing machine, and the sewing machine would have an oil can, and I could take it and oil my office chair. It squeaks horribly.—New York Weekly.

Different.

"Did you ever enjoy a straw ride in the country?"

"No."

"By George, old man, you ought to go on one once!"

"I have. I said I never enjoyed one."—Puck.

Could Speak Feelingly.

"Her father, you say, gave you a pretty broad hit that he didn't want you coming there any more, did he?"

"No. 10, E width," brefly responded the young man.—Chicago Tribune.

Seemed Fair.

"I'd like to know, of course," said the new man, with some concern, "whether my job is to be permanent or not."

"Well," returned the employer, "you can stay as long as you please. That's fair, isn't it?"

"Certainly. I'm much ob——"

"On the other hand, I reserve the right to discharge you whenever I please. That's equally fair, isn't it?"

"Ye-es, I suppose so."—Chicago Tribune.

A Scandal Spoiled.

Miss Goussip—I haven't heard anything of Miss Pechia since I got back from abroad.

Miss Kidder—No, she's living under another name now.

Miss Goussip (scenting a scandal)—Aha! I thought that girl would come to that. She thought she was so handsome, and—— Miss Kidder—So did Mr. Milyuns. That's how she happened to become Mrs. Milyuns."—Philadelphia Press.

Midsummer Science.

"Pa, what is action and reaction?"

"Well, George, my white duck suits make me cool, and my laundry bills make me hot."

What He Paid to Learn.

"I waited three solid hours for that palm reader to get around to me."

"Well?"

"He told me I didn't get on in life because of my tendency to fool away time."

A Hot-Weather Error.

"Did Wiggs' garden party go off all right?"

"No; they took us all into the house and made us play euchre."

Diagnosed His Case.

He—I feel like a fool to-night.

She—So glad you've recovered.—Journal Four Tous.

A Good Suit.

Bobbs—Clothes do not make the man.

Dobbs—No, but many a lawyer has been made by a good suit.—Baltimore American.

Swelling the Lost Dog Column.

"Do you keep a dog?"

"Never more than a couple of days."—Cleveland Plaindealer.

An Explanation.

Mistress—Why, Jane, what in the world is the matter with the cream?

Jane—I don't see anything wrong with it, ma'am.

Mistress—But what makes it so pale?

Jane—I reckon that's because I nearly beat the life out of it when you ordered it whipped, ma'am.—Chicago News.

Egotistical.

She—I adore all that is beautiful, grand and noble.

He—Really, you flatter me.—Chicago News.

Recovered It.

"Mrs. Highsome did not seem to be in good voice at that musicale the other evening."

"She was after she got home. I heard her roasting Highsome for having insisted on her trying to sing."—Chicago Tribune.

Ask for What You Want.

"My dear, won't you give me a lock of your hair?"

"With pleasure, my darling."

"And a nice gold locket to keep it in?—Sondags-Nisse.

Parental Deduction.

Mrs. Homestead—Our son at Yale writes that he received our letter and immediately takes pains to reply.

Mr. Homestead—Thet don't surprise me any—the fust sight of anythin' resemblin' work allers gave that boy a pain somewhar or other.—Judge.

Too Wise to Let Go.

"Why can't you afford a vacation trip, Billy? You need a rest."

"A rest? When I go away for a week the other boys in the office pile up three weeks' work on me."—Chicago Record.

Their Deceit.

She—Appearances are deceitful.

He—Yes; a person can never tell just how much it is going to cost to keep them up.—Puck.

Built to Fit the Flat.

"Oh, Isabel, what a queer looking grandfather's clock!"

"Grandfather's clock! That's our ice chest."—Indianapolis Journal.

Premature.

"Well, old man, I am going down to the seashore to visit my fiancee."

"Who is she?"

"How do I know?"—Life.

The Cheerful Idiot.

"I can't see," said the shoe clerk boarder, "why a Scotchman should say 'hae' for 'have.'"

"It is his economical disposition. He saves a 'v' every time he does so," said the Cheerful Idiot.—Indianapolis Press.

Aging.

Miss Summit—That young Mr. Galloway doesn't know nearly as much as I thought he did.

Miss Palisade—You must remember he has been out of college fully two years now.—Life.

The Reply Unkind.

Leading Lady—What did you think of my facial expression?

Soubrette—I didn't notice any.—Harper's Bazar.

He Settled It.

It was in the 'bus.

"Let me pay your fare," the first girl said.

"No; let me pay yours," said the second.

"No; I insist on paying yours."

"No, you don't; I will pay yours."

"No; I will."

"I will!"

"I——"

There is no telling what might have happened had not an old meddler, who was seated opposite, leaned over and said:

"Listen, young ladies; do not lose your heads. I think I can settle this matter without blood being shed. Each of you pay for the other, neither for herself; that will make it right—neither of you out. Do you see?"

"Oh, how nice!" they both exclaimed, and when the conductor came round they did what the old meddler suggested. Both then sat pleased and magnanimous looking until the end of the ride.

The more a boy expects the less he seems to acquire.

The tripping feet—the sparkling eye—the graceful movement—belong not alone to the budding maiden.

These graces are the right—aye duty of every woman until the hair whitens—and regal dignity replaces them.

The mother who guards her strength has so much more to devote to the care and education of her dear ones. She should be a comfort—a cheer—always.

Yet how many feel that they have the strength to properly balance the home? The world is listless, weary and morbid. Its blood moves sluggishly and is full of impurities. It needs a kindling, invigorating tonic to set it afire—it needs Pe-ru-na,

THE ONE MEDICINE

in the world which women may rely upon positively. Pe-ru-na is good for everyone, but particularly for women. The various weaknesses which afflict their delicate organism spring from inflammation or catarrh of the mucous lining, and Pe-ru-na is a specific for catarrh in any organ of the body. Any congestion of a mucous membrane simply means catarrh of the organ affected. This is why Pe-ru-na cures all sorts of troubles where other remedies fail. If there is a catarrhal affection the matter with you anywhere Pe-ru-na will cure you.

LIBBY'S LUNCHEONS

We are meat cookers and canners. Our business is the largest of its kind in America. We have tried to learn everything that anybody knows about making cooked meat good. That is our business. We seal the product in key-opening cans. Turn a key and you find the meat exactly as it left us.

We put up in this way

Potted Ham, Beef and Tongue,
Ox Tongue (whole),
Veal Loaf,
Deviled Ham,
Brisket Beef,
Sliced Smoked Beef,

and two dozen other specialties. It is impossible for anybody to make luncheon meats any better.

Your grocer should have them.

Libby, McNeill & Libby, Chicago.

"How to Make Good Things to Eat" will be sent free if you ask us.

The Course of True Love.

She—There is one serious obstacle before us.

He—Your parents?

She—No; but my little brother is unalterably opposed to our attachment.—Harlem Life.

Try Grain-O! Try Grain-O!

Ask your Grocer to-day to show you a package of GRAIN-O, the new food drink that takes the place of coffee. The children may drink it without injury as well as the adult. All who try it like it. GRAIN-O has that rich seal brown of Mocha and Java, but it is made of pure grains, and the most delicate stomach receives it without distress. ¼ the price of coffee. 15c and 25c per package. Sold by all grocers.

Public Lighting in Munich.

Munich has replaced its electric lamps with 7,000 Welsbachs.

Hall's Catarrh Cure
Is a constitutional cure. Price 75 cents.

The foundation of every state is the education of its youth.—Dionysius.

The Bluest Blue makes the whitest white, that's Red Cross Ball Blue.

There are no elevators in the tower of success.

Attention! Comrades.

The Nickel Plate Road will sell tickets to Chicago for the 34th Annual Encampment of the G. A. R., Aug. 25th to 29th, inclusive, at one cent a mile traveled, good returning until Aug. 31st, inclusive, or by deposit until Sept. 30th, inclusive. Write, wire, 'phone or call on nearest agent, or. C. A. Asterlin, T. P. A., Fort Wayne, Ind.

Homeseekers' Excursions Via Chicago and Eastern Illinois Railroad.

On the first and third Tuesdays of June, July and August the Chicago and Eastern Illinois Railroad will place on sale Homeseekers' Excursion tickets to various points in Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Indian Territory, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee and Texas.

One fare (plus $2.00) for the round trip. Tickets are limited on going trip fifteen days from date of sale, with stopover privileges in Homeseekers' Territory. Returning, tickets are limited twenty-one days from date of sale.

Remember that we now have in service a new wide-vestibuled train between Chicago and Waco and Fort Worth, Texas, leaving Chicago daily at 1:50 p. m. Through Pullman sleeping cars and free reclining chair cars. For further particulars call on or address any agent Chicago and Eastern Illinois Railroad, or C. L. Stone, G. P. & T. A., Chicago.

If you want the Best there is, tell your Job Printer to use Eagle Linen for your Letter Heads and Envelopes.

G. A. R. Encampment

At Chicago. Excursion tickets via the Nickel Plate Road on sale Aug. 25th to Aug 29th, inclusive, good returing until Aug. 31st, inclusive, or by deposit until Sept. 30th, inclusive, at one cent a mile traveled. Write, wire, 'phone or call on nearest agent, or C. A. Asterlin, T. P. A., Fort Wayne, Ind.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children teething; softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25 cents a bottle.

Feminine Curiosity.

"Mr. Dolley, won't you let me look at your watch a little while?"

"Certainly, Miss Flypp. Do you want to consult the time?"

"No," replied the girl, as she opened it and examined its case and works. "I was curious to see if water tarnished gold, or had any effect on the watch's delicate mechanism."

"Water? What do you mean?"

"Well, Mr. Hunker told me you were in the habit of soaking your watch. What is the object of such treatment, Mr. Dolley?"—Harlem Life.

BEST FOR THE BOWELS.

No matter what ails you, headache to a cancer, you will never get well until your bowels are put right. CASCARETS help nature, cure you without a gripe or pain, produce easy natural movements, cost you just 10 cents to start getting your health back. CASCARETS Candy Cathartic, the genuine, put up in metal boxes, every tablet has C. C. C. stamped on it. Beware of imitations.

Over the Line to Reno.

A peroxide Juno interviewed a San Francisco fortune teller on the usual subject. "Lady," said the seer, "you will visit foreign lands and the courts of kings and queens. You will conquer all rivals and marry the man of your choice; he will be tall, dark and distinguished looking." "Young?" "Yes, and very rich." The fair visitor rose and in her eagerness grasped the fortune teller by both shoulders. "How, oh, how shall I get rid of my present husband?"—San Francisco Wave.

Buy stock in a producing Gold Mine at 10 cents per share; limited amount only for sale. Controlled by representative men not promoters. An opportunity seldom offered. For full information write Xenia Mining Co., P. O. Box 32, Denver, Colo.

A Gloomy Outlook.

First Professional North Pole Explorer—You look worried, comrade.

Second Professional North Pole Explorer—Yes; I fear that some day one of those relief expeditions is going to discover the pole.—Puck.

What Do the Children Drink?

Don't give them tea or coffee. Have you tried the new food drink called GRAIN-O? It is delicious and nourishing, and takes the place of coffee. The more Grain-O you give the children the more health you distribute through their systems. Grain-O is made of pure grains, and when properly prepared tastes like the choice grades of coffee, but costs about ¼ as much. All grocers sel lit. 15c and 25c.

About the Size of It.

Little Willie—Say, pa, what does "M. D." mean on a doctor's card?

Pa—It means "money down," my son.—Chicago News.

The Nickel Plate Road

Offers the low rate of one cent a mile traveled to Chicago for the Annual Encampment of the G. A. R. Tickets on sale Aug. 25th to 29th, inclusive, good returning until Aug. 31st, inclusive, or by deposit until Sept. 30th, inclusive. Write, wire, 'phone or call on nearest agent, on C. A. Asterlin, T. P. A., Fort Wayne, Ind.

It is estimated that the number of Germans and their descendants in the United States is 15,000,000.

What Shall We Have for Dessert?

This question arises in the family every day. Let us answer it to-day. Try Jell-O, a delicious and healthful dessert. Prepared in two minutes. No boiling! no baking! simply add a little hot water and set to cool. Flavors:—Lemon, Orange, Raspberry and Strawberry. At your grocers. 10 cts.

The moment between the young man's question and the girl's answer is a momentous time.

Do Your Feet Ache and Burn?

Shake into your shoes Allen's Foot-Ease, a powder for the feet. It makes tight or new shoes feel easy. Cures Corns, Bunions, Swollen, Hot and Sweating Feet. At all druggists and shoe stores, 25c. Sample sent FREE. Address Allen S. Olmsted, LeRoy, N. Y.

Stamps.

The varieties of stamps now current in the world number 13,811.

Lane's Family Medicine

Moves the bowels each day. In order to be healthy this is necessary. Acts gently on the liver and kidneys. Cures sick headache. Price 25 and 50c.

Statistics show that women marry later in life than they used to.

Piso's Cure is the best medicine we ever used for all affections of the throat and lungs.—Wm. O. Endsley, Vanburen, Ind., Feb. 10, 1900.

Men don't always have to climb to fame—the bridge jumper, for instance.

Red Cross Ball Blue makes clothes whiter than snow; 2 oz. package 5 cents.

Memory is the treasurer and guardian of all things.—Cicero.

The Nickel Plate Road.

Will sell excursion tickets to Chicago for the 34th Annual Encampment of the G. A. R. at one cent a mile traveled. Good going from Aug. 25th to 29th, inclusive, and returning until Aug. 31st, inclusive, or by deposit until Sept. 30th, inclusive, on any one of our Peerless Trio of Daily Express Trains where scheduled to stop. Write, wire, 'phone or call on nearest agent or C. A. Asterlin, T. P. A., Fort Wayne, Ind.

A Limited Stockholder.

Passenger (indignantly)—Why don't you run more cars on this line?

Conductor—Why, to tell the truth, I only own half a million of the stock of this line, so I don't have much to say about it.—Judge.

Passing of the Horse.

So soon as nature sees an improvement there is a change. The candle gave way to electricity and the horse to the automobile. The fact that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters has been sold for over half a century, proves its value. There is nothing to equal it for stomach or liver trouble. Be sure to give it a trial.

Called Down.

"One more kiss," pleaded the departing lover.

"Here!" cried her father, who was the manager of a continuous-performance house, "your act is limited to twenty-five minutes, and you are already ten minutes over time!"—Philadelphia North American.

Jell-O. The New Dessert, pleases all the family. Four flavors:—Lemon, Orange, Raspberry and Strawberry. At your grocers. 10 cts.

A scientific person asserts that bagpipe-playing in the vicinity of a cowshed causes the cows to yield more milk.

Air Cushion Rubber Stamps—the Best—the Cheapest. Send your orders to Lock Box 210, Fort Wayne, Ind.

The 34th Annual Encampment

Of the G. A. R. at Chicago. For this occasion the Nickel Plate Road will sell tickets at one cent a mile traveled on Aug. 25th to 29th, inclusive. Good returning until Aug. 31st, inclusive, or by deposit until Sept. 30th, inclusive, on any one of our Peerless Trio of Daily Express Trains where scheduled to stop. Write, wire, 'phone or call on nearest agent, or C. A. Asterlin, T. P. A., Fort Wayne, Ind.

"MY OWN SELF AGAIN."

Mrs. Gates Writes to Mrs. Pinkham, Follows Her Advice and is Made Well.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—For nearly two and one-half years I have been in feeble health. After my little child came it seemed I could not get my strength again. I have chills and the severest pains in my limb and top of head and am almost insensible at times. I also have a pain just to the right of breast bone. It is so severe at times that I cannot lie on my right side. Please write me what you think of my case."—MRS. CLARA GATES, Johns P. O., Miss., April 25, 1898.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as advised and now send you a letter for publication. For several years I was in such wretched health that life was almost a burden. I could hardly walk across the floor, was so feeble. Several of our best physicians attended me, but failed to help. I concluded to write to you for advice. In a few days I received such a kind, motherly letter. I followed your instructions and am my 'old self' again. Was greatly benefited before I had used one bottle. May God bless you for what you are doing for suffering women."—MRS. CLARA GATES, Johns P. O., Miss., Oct. 6, 1899.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

In Use For Over Thirty Years

CASTORIA

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

WABASH

HOME SEEKERS' EXCURSIONS

To Western Points.

AUGUST 21, 1900.

On the above dates the WABASH will sell from its principal stations East of Chicago and Toledo, Ill., LOW RATE HOME SEEKERS' EXCURSION Tickets to points West, South and Southwest, granting a liberal return limit. A postal card addressed to any Wabash Ticket Agent or to either of the following Passenger Representatives will bring you prompt and explicit information regarding rates, routes, time of trains, through car service, condition of tickets, etc., etc.

REMEMBER

The WABASH is the only line east of Chicago and St. Louis giving its patrons seats without extra charge, in ELEGANT RECLINING CHAIR CARS running through to St. Louis and Kansas City without change.

This is your chance to go West cheap. Communicate with us.

P. E. DONBAUGH, P. & T. A., Toledo, Ohio.
R. J. THOMPSON, P. & T. A., Fort Wayne, Ind.
A. F. WOLFSCHLAGER, P. & T. A., Detroit, Mich.
L. S. MCCLELLAN, D. P. A., St. Louis, Mo.
GEO. D. MAXFIELD, D. P. A., Indianapolis, Ind.
F. A. PALMER, A. G. P. A., Chicago, Ills.
O. S. Crane, G. P. & T. A., St. Louis, Mo.

The man who smokes

Old Virginia Cheroots

has a satisfied, "glad I have got it" expression on his face from the time he lights one. He knows he will not be disappointed. No matter where he buys one—Maine or Texas, Florida or California—he knows they will be just the same as those he gets at home—clean—well made—burn even—taste good—satisfying!

Three hundred million Old Virginia Cheroots smoked this year. Ask your own dealer. Price, 3 for 5 cents.

Correct.

Cleverton—Miss Peterkin is going to be married. What shall I send her, appropriate for a wedding present?

Dashaway—Oh, anything she doesn't want.

NEBRASKA THE LAND OF PLENTY

I wonder why it is that so many men spend their days working hard on rented farms, barely making enough to get along, with no great prospect ahead of owning their own homes, when within a few hours' journey is a land of plenty, —Nebraska—where all kinds of grain and fruit can be raised with the least amount of labor; where cattle and hogs fed on corn bring a handsome profit; where the climate is healthful and churches and schools abound; where land is cheap and can be bought on very easy terms.

Think of this, and if you want information about the country send to me for "The Corn Belt," a beautifully illustrated monthly paper that tells all about Nebraska, and also for "The West Nebraska Grazing Country," an interesting illustrated booklet containing a large sectional map of Nebraska.

On the first and third Tuesdays of each month during the balance of this year cheap excursion tickets will be sold over our road to Nebraska, so that people may go and see for themselves. Ask your ticket agent about this.

P. S. EUSTIS,
Gen'l Pass'r Agt. C. B. & Q. R. R.
CHICAGO, ILL.

ONE DAY DANDRUFF CURE

Will positively make hair grow on the baldest head in from three to four months. Should your head be smooth and free from fuzz you cannot recover your hair. Cures all skin diseases on the head or person. It is clean and clear as water. Eight ounce trial bottle prepaid to any address, 50c. Manufactured by BLOUNT & EGBERT, Wabash, Ind.

DROPSY NEW DISCOVERY; gives quick relief & cures worst cases. Book of testimonials and 10 DAYS' treatment FREE. Dr. H. H. Green's Sons, Box B, Atlanta, Ga.

When Writing to Advertisers please say you saw the Advertisement in this paper

If afflicted with sore eyes, use Thompson's Eye Water

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but Experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is Pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. It cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. It relieves Teething Troubles, cures Constipation and Flatulency. It assimilates the Food, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

GENUINE CASTORIA ALWAYS
Bears the Signature of
Chas. H. Fletcher.

The Kind You Have Always Bought
In Use For Over 30 Years.
THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine.

Rotary Motion and Ball Bearings.

Porter Depew, Agent.

CHICHESTER'S ENGLISH PENNYROYAL PILLS

Safe. Always reliable. Ladies, ask Druggist for CHICHESTER'S ENGLISH in Red and Gold metallic boxes, sealed with blue ribbon. Take no other. Refuse dangerous substitutions and imitations. Buy of your Druggist, or send 4c. in stamps for Particulars, Testimonials and "Relief for Ladies," in letter, by return Mail. 10,000 Testimonials. Sold by all Druggists.
CHICHESTER CHEMICAL CO.
2100 Madison Square, PHILA., PA.
Mention this paper.

Mott's Nerverine Pills

BEFORE AND AFTER USING.

The great remedy for nervous prostration and all nervous diseases of the generative organs of either sex, such as Nervous Prostration, Failing or lost Manhood, Impotency, Nightly Emissions, Youthful Errors, Mental Worry, excessive use of Tobacco or Opium, which lead to Consumption and Insanity. $1.00 per box by mail; 6 boxes for $5.00.
MOTT'S CHEMICAL CO., Prop's, Cleveland, Ohio.
Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

MOTT'S PENNYROYAL PILLS

They overcome Weakness, Irregularity and omissions, increase vigor and banish "pains of menstruation." They are "Life Savers" to girls at womanhood, aiding development of organs and body. No known remedy for women equals them. Cannot do harm—life becomes a pleasure. $1 per box by mail. Sold by druggists.
MOTT CHEMICAL CO., Cleveland, O.
Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

PATENTS DESIGNS TRADE-MARKS AND COPYRIGHTS OBTAINED
ADVICE AS TO PATENTABILITY Notice in "Inventive Age" Book "How to obtain Patents" FREE
Charges moderate. No fee till patent is secured. Letters strictly confidential. Address, E. G. SIGGERS, Patent Lawyer, Washington, D. C.

PILES Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment will cure Blind, Bleeding and Itching Piles. It absorbs the tumors, allays the itching at once, acts as a poultice, gives instant relief. Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment is prepared for Piles and Itching of the private parts. Every box is warranted. By druggists, by mail on receipt of price, 50 cents and $1.00. WILLIAMS MANUFACTURING CO., Props., Cleveland, Ohio.
Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

Foley's Honey and Tar heals lungs and stops the cough.

Sheriff's Sale.

By virtue of an execution issued on a transcript of a judgment filed in the office of the clerk of the DeKalb circuit court on the 22d day of April, 1895, and to me directed by the clerk of said court, I will offer for sale at public auction and outcry, to the highest bidder, at the door of the court house in Auburn, DeKalb county, Indiana, on

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 1, 1900,

between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m. and 4 o'clock p. m. of said day, the rents and profits for a term not exceeding seven years of the following described real estate, situated in DeKalb county, in the state of Indiana, to-wit;

Lot numbered seventy-two [72] in Ensley's second addition to the town of Auburn.

And in case the rents and profits fail to bring the amount demanded to satisfy the judgment and decree aforesaid, interest and costs, together with all accruing costs thereon; and also in case the rents and profits of said property fail to bring the additional amount demanded to satisfy the judgment and decree, interest and costs, together with all accruing costs due Moody & Rickel on a judgment rendered in the DeKalb circuit court on the 21st day of May, 1895, for $108.02, and to me directed by the clerk of said court; and also, if the rents and profits of said property fail to bring the additional amount demanded to satisfy the judgment and decree, cree, interest and costs, together with all accruing costs due Moody & Rickel on a judgment rendered in the DeKalb circuit court on the 16th day of March, 1895, for $109 75 and to me directed by the clerk of said court, I will at the same time and place, and in like manner as aforesaid, offer for sale, at public auction and outcry, to the highest bidder, all the right, title, interest and estate in fee simple of Grant Owens and John C. Owens at his death and now holden by his heirs, in and to the above described real estate, or so much and such part thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the judgments and decrees aforesaid, which are in favor of Solomon Shilling and Moody & Rickel, and against Grant Owens and John C. Owens.

Said real estate will be sold without relief from valuation or appraisement laws, and subject to the redemption laws of the state of Indiana.

JOHN H. HATHAWAY,
Sheriff of DeKalb County, Indiana.
Moody & Rickel, Attorneys for Plaintiff.
August 6, 1900.

A 20-Pound Baby

can take Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin with as much safety and beneficial results as an adult. It is a mild, liquid laxative and children thrive upon it. Syrup Pepsin assists nature in cleansing the system, and its use is not attended with any of the unpleasant griping and nauseating effects caused by the use of pills or so called cathartics. Try a 10c size bottle (10 doses 10 cents.) Also sold in 50c and $1 sizes by H. B. McCord.

—James Heath of Crawfordsville was jailed for beating his son, aged 12, because he would not give up $60, earned by selling papers and blacking shoes. The lad had saved the money with which to go to school. Heath wanted to gamble with it, it is said.

It is a Curse.

Constipation is a curse, and afflicts too great a portion of the American people. There is no excuse for it either, as we sell a remedy that will banish the curse, and with moderate use will keep you well. It is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Sold in 10c, 50c and $1.00 sizes. For sale by H. B. McCord.

—A three-year-old child fell from a car window of the Lake Shore fast train the other day and when the train was stopped the little one was found to be only slightly injured.

CLAY CITY, IND., Jan. 14, 1897.
Dr. W. B. Caldwell, Monticello, Ill.
SIR:—I have used Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin for dyspepsia and constipation with great benefit to myself. Some days I was not able to do my office work. I had run down to only 135 lbs. After taking several bottles of your wonderful medicine I now weigh 185 lbs. I now feel like a new man. I have recommended Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin to my friends and will answer any and all letters of inquiry I may receive as to the merits of your medicine. Yours respectfully,
WM. H. SHIRELY, Prop. Kline Hotel.
H. B. McCord.

Thursday's Daily.

—Fred Funk is doing the stone work for John Zimmerman.

—Mrs. F. M. Boyer of Muncie is here for an extended visit with relatives and friends.

—Chris. Ashelman left over the Wabash this morning for Montreal on his way to Europe.

—Mrs. J. P. Kandel of Muncie is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Husselman.

—Sheriff Hathaway was at Butler yesterday attending the funeral of ex-Sheriff John W. Boyle.

—Mrs. Martha Kniss and her granddaughter, Miss Ethel Summers of Ligonier, are visiting M. S. Osbun and family.

—WANTED:—Black Walnut logs for timber. Highest cash prices paid for same. Address, The Sanders & Egbert Co., Goshen, Ind. 8

—Surveyor Krontz came down from Butler this morning accompanied by a Saratoga trunk. The latter contained his baseball uniform.

—Mrs. Sol Beight was sent for this morning to go to the bedside of her mother, Mrs. Christian Smith, at Leo, as she is critically ill.

—Messrs. J. P. Kandel and F. M. Boyer have disposed of their buggy business at Muncie and will establish a glass factory at Daleville.

—Married by Rev. A. E. Gaff at his residence August 4, 1900, Mr. Hugh J. Dawson of Corunna, and Miss Florence E. Weimer of Decatur, Ind.

—The county commissioners today granted liquor licenses to the following persons: Alva C. Widmer and John H. Richmond, Garrett; John L. Black, Butler; Andrew Coy, Auburn.

—The people of Springfield township, Allen county, will hold an election September 18 to vote on the question of giving a subsidy of $10,000 to the proposed Fort Wayne & Butler railroad.

—Goshen Democrat:—Mrs. Nettie Harter, of this city, is arranging for the purchase of a lot at Pickwick, Wawasee, and will erect a cottage this fall. Pickwick is one of the most beautiful landings at the resort.

—What most people want is something mild and gentle, when in need of a physic. Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets fill the bill to a dot. They are easy to take and pleasant in effect. For sale by H. B. McCord.

—A son of David Wasson of Concord township suffered the amputation of one of his legs Sunday, the operation being caused by a diseased bone. Nathan Johnson, who called on the young man yesterday, reports him doing nicely.

—Waterloo Press:—Dr. J. E. Showalter accompanied Earl Maxon to Long Cliff Hospital, at Logansport yesterday. They drove to Auburn and took the Wabash train. The friends of Mr. Maxson are anxious that treatment may restore his mind to a normal state.

—County Clerk Long and wife drove to Butler this morning where they spent the day cleaning house. They expect to return to Butler next week to make their home, after four years pleasantly spent in Auburn during Mr. Long's incumbency of the clerk's office.

—Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Ensley of Indianapolis are here, visiting the relatives, including Mr. Zent's, Mr. Stafford's and William Ensleys and others in Butler township. Besides he still has property interests, that take his attention. They may make a visit in Ohio before going home.

—Many of our people will remember Rev. J. M. Driver who preached at Fort Wayne, Columbia City and Marion. A recent telegram says: James O. Driver, son of the Rev. J. M. Driver of Mankato, Minn., was killed in battle in the Philippines July 21 He enlisted from Mount Vernon, Ill., in Company B, 30th Infantry.

—"My baby was terribly sick with the diarrhœa," says J. H. Doak of Williams, Oregon. We were unable to cure him with the doctor's assistance, and as a last resort we tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa remedy. I am happy to say it gave immediate relief and a complete cure." For sale by H. B. McCord.

—Secretary William Wilkins, of the state fee and salary commission, is at work on a plan for paying township trustees on a per capita basis, similar to the plan by which the county officers are paid under the new law. It is the intention to frame the results of the pending investigation into a law during the coming session of the legislature.

—The laws of health require that the bowels move once each day and one of the penalties for violating this law is piles. Keep your bowels regular by taking a dose of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets when necessary and you will never have that severe punishment inflicted upon you. Price, 25 cents. For sale by H. B. McCord.

—A. P. Green has written to the proper committee at Chicago to see if free quarters had been reserved for the DeKalb county G. A. R. at Chicago, and has received answer that none have been reserved, and that the Indiana quota has been exhausted. But they say if they are furnished with the names of posts and commanders they will still make an effort to secure free quarters.

—At the rooms of the officiating minister in Auburn, Samuel D. Pomeroy, son of Mr. and Mrs F. M. Pomeroy, and Miss Bertha M. Metcalf, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Metcalf, were united in marriage at twilight August 8, 1900, by Rev. W. L. Meese. The bride is the estimable daughter of one of DeKalb county's pioneer families and has chosen an excellent young man for her husband. We wish them a long and happy married life.

Friday's Daily.

—John A. Schaab of Paulding, Ohio was here on business this week.

—James McDowell left this morning for Eaton Rapids, Mich., making the trip on his wheel.

—Goshen is to have an ordinance requiring that shade trees be planted in front of every lot in the city.

—John Doty has traded his farm south of Ashley for the Ashley flouring mills and will take possession next week.

—The fifteenth annual reunion of the Forty-sixth Indiana regiment will be held at North Manchester, September 4 and 5.

FOR SALE:—A team of good work horses, with wagon and harness; also a good, fresh milch cow. See John Groscop. d1wtf

—The dread of people with weak lungs who suffer with stubborn coughs is consumption. Foley's Honey and Tar, if taken in time, cures incipient consumption. H. B. McCord.

—Jack Emerick and wife and Mrs. Lucinda Miltrout of Fairfield township were callers yesterday. They say they begin to need rain up that way.

—The state fair management has secured Joe Patchen, Searchlight and Anaconda, for a race at the coming fair. Horsemen will all be there.

—Everybody is coming to the battalion reunion on the 21st of this month. Good weather is the only thing now needed to make the affair a success.

—Mr. Hadermann's injuries became painful last night, and he got no sleep till this morning. He is feeling pretty well used up, but we hope to see him all right in a few days.

—The greatest skin specialist in America originated the formula for Banner Salve. For all skin diseases, all cuts or sores, and for piles, it's the most healing medicine. H. B. McCord.

—J. Y. W. McClellan received a telegram last evening, from J. C. Sommers, Pueblo, Colo, that Mrs. Sommers will arrive here this evening over the Wabash for a visit with relatives and friends.

—American capitalists have taken one half of the British war loan. We get five million pounds, or twenty-five million dollars. We send over the gold for it, which is greatly needed in England now.

—Miss Mabel Moore drove over from Butler this morning with her grandmother, Mrs. Moore, who is 88. She stood the journey well. After resting with the Keeran sisters today, they go to visit at Angola.

—Frank Campbell has moved with his family to Cromwell in Noble county. There he will devote a good deal of his time to teaching a band that is organized there. His wife is also a teacher of the piano and organ.

—For cold in the head, cold in the throat, cold in the chest, cold in any part of the body, Krause's Cold Cure is an absolute cure and it only costs 25 cents to prove it in your own case. Sold by H. B. McCord.

—Mr. Eckhart came home from Rome City last evening and tomorrow goes to Columbia City and then on to Logansport and towns in that direction. He will be absent for a long time, making his canvass of the state.

—Mrs. Christena Fair, mother of David and Wm. Fair, died this week at Salt Lake, Utah, where she had lived with her daughter, Mrs. Lee Goetechius. She will reach Auburn at 2 p. m. tomorrow and the funeral will be on Sunday at Cedar Chapel.

—Mrs. C. W. Campbell formerly Miss Mary Jones came down from South Chicago yesterday and stopped off between trains. She went on to visit her people at Butler. Her father who has been sick for about two months is able to be out, and on the road again.

—Don't be bulldozed by our envious competitors into believing that it requires a special dye for wool and a special dye for cotton. They want to sell you two packages when one would do, that is if that one was Putnam Fadeless dyes. 10c per package. Sold by F. E. Davenport. 33

—For quickly relieving that distressed feeling after eating, a single dose of that gentle acting Krause's Little Liver Pills is all that is required They are a certain cure for Constipation, that prolific cause for so much suffering. Krause's Little Liver Pills are warranted. Sold by H. B. McCord.

—The tragedy near Churubusco, mentioned briefly in yesterday's Courier, occurred in Green township, Noble county. Solomon Bair, an aged farmer, became deranged through illness, and while his nurses were absent secured a loaded shotgun. The son tried to take the gun from him but was shot in the abdomen, receiving wounds which caused his death in a few hours.

—YOUNG MEN WANTED:—With fair education and good character, to learn telegraphy, railroad accounting and typewriting. This is endorsed by all leading railroad companies as the only perfect and reliable institution of its kind. All our graduates are assisted to positions. Ladies also admitted. Write for free catalogue. Fall term opens August 15th.—Globe Telegraph College, Lexington, Ky. tf —"Through the months of June and July our baby was teething and took a running off of the bowels and sickness of the stomach," says O. P. M. Holliday of Deming, Ind. "His bowels would move from five to eight times a day. I had a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy in the house and gave him four drops in a teaspoonful of water and he got better at once. Sold by H. B. McCord.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY.
Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure E. W. Grove's signature is on each box. 25c.

What Will Bryan's Plurality be in Indiana?

76 Guesses

$1,000 To The Winners

$1,000

IN PRIZES to 76 subscribers to THE INDIANA STATE SENTINEL who come nearest guessing the plurality Indiana will give Bryan over McKinley.

The publishers of The Indiana State Sentinel will award seventy-six prizes to seventy-six subscribers, who at any time before the close of the polls Tuesday, Nov. 6, correctly estimate or come nearest doing so, Bryan and Stevenson's plurality over McKinley and Roosevelt in Indiana.

First prize	$300.00
Second prize	200.00
Third prize	100.00
Fourth prize	75.00
Fifth prize	50.00
Sixth prize	25.00
5 prizes of $15 each	75.00
5 prizes of $10 each	50.00
10 prizes of $5 each	50.00
25 prizes of $2 each	50.00
25 prizes of $1 each	25.00
	1,000.00

NOTE—The result will be decided from the vote cast for the head of the democratic electoral ticket.

If the unexpected should happen and Mr. Bryan not carry the state, then the lowest plurality guess, or the one nearest the result, will get the prize.

Where two or more guesses are the same, the first one received will be awarded the prize.

Guessers should be careful to write name and address plainly, and also state whether they are an old or new subscriber.

Conditions.

Any subscriber, old or new, is entitled to one guess on payment of 50 cents—one year's subscription—received at this office before the close of polls on election day—Tuesday, Nov. 6, 1900. The name of subscriber remitting the money will be recorded with the figures of his guess. The receipt of money, as well as his estimate of Bryan and Stevenson's plurality over McKinley and Roosevelt in Indiana, will be acknowledged, and should be laid aside by him until the official vote of Indiana shall have been ascertained, when the names of prize-takers will be duly announced in these columns.

If your subscription is not paid in advance pay it now and participate in this great distribution of actual money. If your subscription is paid in advance, send us 50 cents for another year and give a guess. You stand a chance of getting $300 for 50 cents, and if you do not hit a prize you have your money's worth in The Indiana State Sentinel, the greatest family newspaper in the West.

SEND in your 50 cents with your guess at once. Your judgment is as likely to be correct at this time as it is the day before election. Be careful to date your guesses, and remember you can have as many guesses as you take subscriptions to The Indiana State Sentinel.

CUT THIS OUT AND SEND TO INDIANAPOLIS SENTINEL CO.
INDIANAPOLIS, IND.

SENT BY .....
P. O. .....
COUNTY..... STATE.....
My Guess Bryan and Stevenson's plurality over McKinley and Roosevelt in Indiana will be..... Enclosed find 50 cents for which send THE INDIANA STATE SENTINEL for one year
TO .....
.....

If The Indiana State Sentinel is already going to this address send for one year from date present subscription expires.

Saturday's Daily.

—Miss Ada Smith has returned to her home in Jackson township after a pleasant visit with her sisters in this city.

—H. E. Coe took his little son Earl, to Fort Wayne yesterday expecting to have an operation performed upon his ear.

—Geo. H. Dunn and wife had a fine boy baby added to their household this week. Dr. Casebeer reports all doing well.

—Charley Powers, the well-known Angola printer, was married a few days ago to Mrs. Thirza A. Fast of that place.

—Mrs. Sam Stewart of Kendallville and Mrs. L. D. Nelson of Concord, went up to Richland township on a visit today.

—Master Waldo Seiler has been suffering for several days with his old complaint, hay fever, and Mrs. Seiler is arranging to accompany him to Bay View, Mich., next week.

—Miss Etta Showalter of Waterloo spent several days in Auburn this week visiting friends. She has been caring for Mrs. Dr. Allen who is at the home of Mr. Sparks at Waterloo.

—V. B. Conklin, Bowersville, O., says: "I received more benefit from Foley's Kidney Cure than from months of treatment by physicians." Take no substitute. H. B. McCord.

—W. H. Shinn of Lagrange, was nominated for senator of the democrats of Noble and Lagrange counties at Rome City yesterday. Mr. Shinn was formerly editor of the Lagrange Democrat.

Walk, Ala., Feb. 4, 1899.
I am doing well with Dr. J. H. McLean's medicines. I gave the Strengthening Cordial to a child of mine and the cure was complete. I would not be without it at any cost. J. A. Mundy. For sale by H. B. McCord.

—An assault and battery case in which two Garrett men were the principals was tried in Esquire Walter's court yesterday afternoon before a jury. The case went to the jury at 6 o'clock and at 3 o'clock this morning a verdict of guilty was rendered, the defendant being fined $1 and costs.

—About seventy-five members of the A. O. U. W. and Degree of Honor made a visit at the home of Amos Walsworth in the country last evening and despite the warm weather all were of the opinion that it was a most enjoyable affair. Ice cream, cake and apples were served to the guests.

—Edon Independent:—Mahlon Luke and the editor drove to Auburn last Saturday, a distance of 24 miles, tore off the shingle roof of a 14x18 ft. wing of the latter's house, re-shingled it and drove back home the same day. How's that for high, considerin' its bein' the latter's first offense with shingles, and the day an extremely hot one?

—"I am a switchman," writes A. J. Jeneesse, of 9201 Butler St., Chicago, "and am out in all kinds of weather. I took a cold which settled in my kidneys and was in very bad shape. I tried several advertised medicines with no benefit until I was recommended to take Foley's Kidney Cure. Two-thirds of a bottle cured me." H. B. McCord.

DEMOCRATS!

The Struggle Is On!

EVERY LITTLE HELPS—WILL YOU DO YOUR SHARE?

HOW? Have a picture of our great leader,
WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN,
where all can see it, and get your friends to do likewise.

Send us three two-cent stamps to cover costs and we will mail you an elegant phototyve picture of W. J. BRYAN. We want you to display them in your home. Or if you will give twenty away to your friends to display, we will send you one of them beautifully framed in Oak, with glass front, suitable for office, home or club, and also 20 of the phototyves to distribute to your friends, for One Dollar—cash or stamps.

Don't delay. Time is short and our opponents are working hard. The Democratic Party needs your help now. Push the good work along.

SOUTHERN REVIEW OF COMMERCE—* * * A work of art * * * It should be widely distributed.

BOND INVESTMENT FIELD—* * * A masterpiece * * * Flood the country with them. A little effort and the victory is ours.

NATIONAL DEMOCRATIC ADVANCEMENT LEAGUE,
Headquarters Suite 31, Selves Building,
CINCINNATI, OHIO.

MONEY TO LOAN
At 5 %

We are prepared to place loans on farm property in DeKalb county in sums of $700 and upwards for 5 years at 5 per cent with the privilege of paying the same in payments of $100 or any multiple thereof at any interest pay day.

RICHARDS & BIRDSALL,
Hicksville, Ohio.

—The lack of energy you feel, the backache and a run down condition generally, all mean kidney disorder. Foley's Kidney Cure will restore your strength and vigor by making the kidneys well. Take no substitute. H. B. McCord.

—The total receipts of the ball game yesterday were $38.90 and as the expenses were light the band and G. A. R. netted a neat sum. It goes without saying that they fully appreciate the efforts of all concerned to make the affair a success.

THE AUBURN COURIER.

Volume XXX | Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana, Thursday, August 23, 1900. | Number 34.

The Farmers Bank of Auburn,

Uunder State Supervision and Control.

Capital and Surplus..... $50,000.00

Assets at Last Official Statement..... $346,278.95

Pays interest on deposits if left four months; Loans money and transacts a general banking business.

YOUR BUSINESS IS SOLICITED!

ALBERT ROBBINS, President;
A. C. ROBBINS, Cashier

The McClellan Bank,

AUBURN, IND

Certificates of deposits issued, drawing interest if left six months. County and Town Orders bought and sold. Money Loaned on Farms, Personal Security, or Live Stock. Notes bought.

C. A. O. McCLELLAN, ESTATE
CHARLES McCLELLAN
D. A. GARWOOD,
ISAAC HAQUE. } C. A. BENEDICT, Cashier

Physicians and SURGEONS

D. J. Swarts, M. D
Vesta W. Swarts, M D

Office at Auburn Sanitary Baths, corner Main and Sixth Streets,

Professional Calls Promptly Answered.

'PHONES: Western..... No. 19
Central Union..... No. 19

Sprott & Knapp,

Abstracters of Titles to Land and Lots,

AUBURN, IND.

Office in Gandy Block, North of Court House.

J.E. Graham, D.D.S.

DENTIST

Over Davenport's Drugstore, Auburn. Ind.

CROWN AND BRIDGE WORK A SPECIALTY.

All Work Guaranteed } Gas Administered.

CENTRAL 'PHONE 513.

Will be at Waterloo each Wednesday in Dr. Darby's Office

DENTIST F. W. HOFFMAN,

Auburn, Ind,

Office in Gandy Building, Northeast Corner of Court Square.

WESTERN 'PHONE 103.

Crown and Bridge Work a Sprcialty.

DR. Z. H. STAMETS,

Physician & Surgeon

Office on Main street opposite Swinefotd Hotel.

Western 'Phone 104

Special attention given to all diseases of stomach and kidneys, and to chronic and obscure diseases; surgery and diseases of women and children. Calls answered at all hours. Office apart from residence.

J.W. Y. McCLELLAN,

AGENT,

Auburn, Ind.

Attention Farmers —AND— Horse Breeders!

Having purchased the Pure Bred Clydesdale Stallion, "Gallant Foe," who weighs 1,700 pounds, and is a first-class horse in every respect; in connection with my Cleveland Bay Stallion, who weighs 1,350, I respectfully invite you to look them over before breeding. Will make the season at my Livery and Feed Barn in Auburn, Ind.

D. N. MYERS.

The Davis Funeral.

Friday's Daily.

All this forenoon, the friends were calling at the residence to take a last look of one who had so long been a citizen and a neighbor. The embalmer's art is wonderful, when a man who had suffered and wasted away so long, can be made to look so natural. It surely takes at least a little from the saddness of the death chamber and is a great consolatson to the friends.

There were banks of lovely flowers and floral emblems of great beauty, but the most beautiful as well as the most admirable, was that by the Order of Elks at Fort Wayne. It was the head of an elk, made of appropriate flowers, and so mounted that it appeared to be looking over from the other side of the casket. With its eyes and antlers it had an appearance of almost startling reality.

The body lay in state all the forenoon, and this afternoon was especially set aside for the friends at a distance, though all were welcome. The service by the orders was very impressive and solemn and the sermon by Mr. Brosy, especially suitable to the solemn occasion.

At noon came up the Masons and Elks from Fort Wayne, and just before 2 p. m. the Knights-templar formed in front of the Hollister House. They were in full uniform and made an imposing appearance. The other Masons formed and preceded them in march, the order of Elks coming last. All then marched to the residence.

The attendance was very large and the ceremonies quite long. The music was by a quartet, Mrs. Cuppy, Miss Trover, Dr. Baxter and A. M. A. Miller, with Mrs. Garwood as pianist.

At the close, the procession moved to the Evergreen cemetery where the last ceremonies took place.

There were many members of the orders from Garrett, Waterloo, Ligonier, Kendallville and Fort Wayne, and perhaps other towns, and a full attendance of the Auburn members.

W. C. T. U. NOTES.

A HORSE SESUM.

These are days of serums. The latest is an anti-alcoholic serum said to have been devised by two French physicians. In a paper just read before the Paris Academy of Medicine, the discoverers describe the preparation of such a serum extracted from the brain of a horse primarily rendered alcoholic by artificial means. "It appears," the report goes on to say, "that the serum confers on dipsomaniacs an unconquerable distaste for alcoholic drinks." The injection of horse sense instead of horse serum, would, in our opinion, be a preferable operation on the weak brethren known as drunkards.—Mida's Criterion (liquor paper.)

***

BLOOD MONEY.

And again I sez, "The two waz in partenership together and they got the man to do the murder," sez I. "Most all the murders that are done in this country are done by that firm—the Government and the saloonkeeper—and when their poor tools, that they have whetted up for bloodshed, swing out through their open doors and cut and slash and mow down their ghastly furrows of crime and horror, who is to blame?"

And I sez, when Josiah was apraisin' up the saloonkeeper's zeal, and how the officers had told him, I sez, "It is a pity the officers don't hold him in the first place, and then all the horror and tragedy might have been saved."

And the Government of the United States hung him (the murderer), the same Government that was in partenership with the saloon up in Zoar, and took part of the pay for makin' this man murder that innocent child.—Josiah Allen's Wife.

***

Surgeons of the New York hospital have had a number of cases recently which caused quite a sensation. Several men have gone there for treatment with one or more fingers rotted off. They were bartenders, and in drawing the stuff called beer, their hands were kept wet by the overflow. The poisonous drugs used in its manufacture were so deadly to human flesh, as to literally rot the fingers until they would drop off.

***

For a man to contract the drink habit means failure in life from a business view point. This was never so true as it is today, and especilly laboring people. Leading business firms and corporations will no longer employ men who drink.

***

At Bayonne, N. J., twenty saloons were refused renewal of license and closed.

The W. C. T. U. column has found a place in the pages of "The Manila Freedom," published in the Philippines, due, no doubt, to the energy of Mrs. Cornelia Moots, our W. C. T. U. worker there.

E W Grove

This signature is on every box of the genuine Laxative Bromo-Quinine Tablets the remedy that cures a cold in one day

Pekin Taken.

The latest news from China is that Pekin was captured by the allied army, on Wednesday, August 15, toward evening, and at once surrounded the part in which the foreigners were barricaded, forcing the Chinese to keep away. Details are not given, but it is supposed that when the allies reached the city, they asked to have a strong force let into the city, which has a massive wall. It is believed the Chinese were foolish enough to refuse this and the attack at once began. At the east gate, it is supposed guncotton was used to blow in the great gate, and the allies swarmed in, the Japs being in advance. It was too late to take the foreigners out that night, and it is supposed the allies protected them till morning. It is believed all are safe. Had the Chinese let the allies enter without a fight, it is possible we would have left the city in a short time. It looks now as if the allies will stay till a better government can be set up. Possibly their best known statesman, Li Hung Chang, may be sent for and put at the head of affairs.

A Minister's Good Work.

"I had a severe attack of bilious colic got a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy, took two doses and was entirely cured," says Rev. A. A. Power of Emporia, Kan. My neighbor across the street was sick for over a week, had two or three bottles of medicine from the doctor. He used them for three or four days without relief, then called in another doctor who doctored him for some days and gave him no relief, so discharged him. I went over to see him the next morning. He said his bowels were in a terrible fix, that they had been running off so long that it was almost bloody flux. I asked him if he had tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy and he said, 'No.' I went home and brought him my bottle and gave him one dose; told him to take another dose in fifteen or twenty minutes if he did not find relief, but he took no more and was entirely cured." For sale by H. B. McCord.

Made a Capture.

Sheriff Hathaway yesterday received a letter from G. W. Cliffe, sheriff of Wyandot county, Ohio, asking him to look out for Jesse Wells and S. C. Kerns, who had stolen two bicycles at Upper Sandusky Tuesday evening and were known to have come this way. Wells and Kerns had been in that city but a few days before the theft was perpetrated, and it seems that they came direct to Auburn, as the sheriff caught them this morning. Kerns denied any knowledge of the theft, but after taking dinner at the jail himself and Wells accompanied Sheriff Hathaway to the Junction and took the B. & O. train for Upper Sandusky, waiving the formality of a requisition. The description furnished by Sheriff Cliffe fitted the two men, and there seems to be no doubt of their guilt.

Judicial Convention.

Through an annoying oversight yesterday the COURIER failed to contain a report of the republican judicial convention, held at Waterloo Tuesday afternoon. The convention was organized by the selection of James H. Rose as chairman and L H. Higley, editor of the Butler Record, secretary. There were three candidates—Willis Rhoads and Clyde Carlin of Angola and Frank L. Welshimer of Auburn. The latter led from the start, and as in the senatorial convention the Steuben county vote was divided, Mr. Welsheimer winning on the fourteenth ballot. Steuben had a chance to secure both nominations, but failed to do so by not concentrating their votes upon one candidate.

Two Horses Killed.

A peculiar accident occured on the B. & O. grade east of town this morning which resulted in the killing of a team of horses belonging to the Wraggs Teaming Co. The team was at work cutting down the grade of the old overhead bridge east of the Magginnis farm and just as a freight train was passing, the horses slid down the bank, which is quite high at that point, and under the cars. The driver of the team, in his effort to save them, came near being caught under the train.

Pocket Map of China.

Latest indexed map of Chinese Empire, with enlarged map of portion of China where difficulty exists, and information relating to present cresis, mailed on receipt of four cents in postage by W. B. Kniskern, 22 Fifth avenue, Chicago, Ill. 35

For Whooping Cough.

"Both my children were taken with whooping cough," writes Mrs. O. E. Dutton, of Danville, Ills. "A small bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar gave such relief that I used a 50c bottle, which saved me a doctor's bill." H. B. McCord.

From Fort Snelling.

Mrs. E. W. Guilford is in receipt of a letter from her brother, Samuel Ankney, who since returning from Cuba has been with his regiment, the Eighth U. S. Infantry, at Fort Snelling, Minn. We are permitted to make some extracts from the letter that may interest our readers:

FORT SNELLING, Minn, Aug. 12.

DEAR SISTER:—Since reaching Fort Snelling we have been having a pretty good time, but we will not stay here very long; the Third battalion leaves here Wednesday, and we go about the last of the month. The companies that leave here for the far east are E. F. G. and H. of the Second battalion and I. K. L and M of the Third. Companies A, B, C and D are of the First or home battalion. Brother Al has transferred to Company G and he and I are now in the same company. Each company now has 128 men. We thought we would be sent to China, but are going to the Philippines, and I am not sorry, as most of the fighting in China seems to be over and we would not see anything worth while.

I have had along journey since I wrote you last, but have still another one ahead of me—from here to San Fransisco and then thirty days on the water. It is almost enough to make a fellow desert to think of being on a government for that length of time, but the regulars are better fed and cared for than the volunteers. Myself and a couple of comrades went up to St. Paul and had our pictures taken and I will send you one of them. Was glad to receive the pictures of yourself and Emma. But it is time to close. With regards to all I remain your true-blue brother—SAMUEL ANKNEY, Co. G, Eighth U. S. Infantry, Fort Snelling, Minn.

OBITUARY.

Meda (Myers) Brandon was born September 10, 1869, in Eaton county, Michigan. She lived with her parents until January 15, 1887, when she was joined in marriage to Clement V. Brandon. To them was born one son, who survives his mother. After several months of untold sufferings she passed away peacefully at the home of her parents at the age of 30 years, 11 months and 4 days. Mrs. Brandon was a dutiful and affectionate daughter, a faithful and self-sacrificing wife and mother. The life she lived at home and among her friends is an enduring monument that shall perpetuate her memory in the coming years. Each life speaks for itself and tells of its worth to God and society. During the last months of her illness she gave her heart to Christ and was happily converted to God. She lived longer during the last two months, than in all th rest of her life, because she was living for God, and her life was hid with God in Christ. She trusted in God for eternal salvation and passed away quietly and peacefully to be at rest forever with Him who saved her from her sins. Thanks be unto God which giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ. Mrs. Brandon leayes to mourn her death a father and mother, a husband, one son, three sisters and one brother, besides a host of friends. The funeral service was conducted from the house, two miles south of Auburn, Thursday at 10 a. m.; interment took place in Woodlawn cemetery, J. D. Brosy officiating.

Notice to Farmers.

The South End flouring mills will this year confine its business strictly to the accommodation and interest of farmers, thereby enabling us to give each customer the best flour his wheat will make, which is not usually the case in custom and merchant mills where flour is shipped out. We have also arranged to grind your grist and give flour from your own wheat in grists of not less than ten bushels, flour all guaranteed. Chop and meal ground while you wait.—THE AUBURN CITY MILLS, South End. 35

Fatality Follows Failure

to use Foley's Kidney Cure in time. If taken in earlier stages of Bright's disease and diabetes, it is certain cure. You have noticed the high death rate from these diseases, and it is not to ignore early symptoms when a medicine like Foley's Kidney Cure can be had. H. B. McCord.

MICA
makes short roads.
AXLE
and light loads.
GREASE
Good for everything that runs on wheels.
Sold Everywhere.
Made by STANDARD OIL CO.

Our Saturday Evenings.

CHAPTER XLIV.

Thursday, we were again reminded and that very forcibly, that the pioneers were passing away.

One of the oldest pioneer associations in the old "Territory Northwest of the Ohio" is the "Maumee Valley Pioneer and Historical Association." It is a district association and its territory comprises 16 counties; 11 in Ohio, three in Indiana and two in Michigan. In other words, the counties of DeKalb, Allen and Adams in Indiana; Lenawee and Monroe in Michigan; Williams, Fulton, Lucas, Defiance, Wood, Henry, Paulding, Allen, VanWert, Putnam and Hancock in Ohio, though we believe the five named last have not been actively identified with the association.

This association and its sister organization, the Monument Association of the Maumee Valley, have met once or twice a year for many years. It is the monument association that has been pushing congress to save from desecration, and to properly mark the historic battle fields of the valley.

The Pioneer Association had fixed its summer meeting at Bowling Green, Wood county, Ohio, on August 16, and the meeting was largely attended. Bowling Green and Wood county furnished a large crowd, there were many from Defiance, Toledo, Delta, Bloomdale and many other points. There was no one from Fort Wayne and only the writer from Auburn.

The meeting was in the public hall of the city building and was called promptly at 10 a. m., and a president selected. Prayer was offered and excellent speeches of welcome and responses were delivered. The minutes were read and it came out that the society has a book printed each year, in which are published such matters of pioneer interest as may be got together during the year.

The first set address was by Dr. Charles E. Slocum of Defiance. He will be remembered by COURIER readers, as one of the officers of the Frances Slocum Monument Association that unveiled the monument at June at Peru. He is a man of great learning, especially in all matters of a scientific character. He is especially well versed in geologic lore, and can tell everything about the glaciers that once covered this valley. His paper, however, dealt largely with the historic and prehistoric tribes that occupied this country before the White came.

In treating of the mound builders, he showed great study and research. He has examined all the chief mounds and earth works in DeKalb county, and surprised the writer by giving accurately the size of the earth circle in Smithfield township, and the one near Hudson. He can tell exactly the limits of a prehistoric lake, "Lake Whittlesey," that covered a county or two not far from Defiance—east of it, the shores of which are certainly plain to be followed. He was very interesting especially what related to DeKalb county.

EX-GOVERNOR FOSTER.

The chief address in the afternoon was by Ex-Governor Charles Foster, of Fostoria. He was secretary of the treasury under President Harrison. He was originally a merchant, selling goods first in his father's store, and later in his own. He said he believed that at one time he knew every one of the early pioneers in the three or four Maumee Valley counties in that section. He alluded to them and their sterling qualities in feeling terms, and then drew a comparison between conditions then and now.

Sixty and seventy years ago, all the mail in northwest Ohio, was carried by one man twice a week, making the trip from Bucyrus to Perrysburg, the latter being the county seat of Wood county. Postage varied from 10 cents to 25 cents, according to the distance a letter was carried.

When the first railway went out of Toledo, it met the same objections as the first one farther east. There was almost a riot. People said it would ruin the stages. They declared the hot vapor from the steam boilers to be poisonous, and that horses would become valueless and their owners ruined. Oats and hay could find no market.

The speed of railway trains as first contracted for, was to be twice the speed of a stage coach, and this, it was agreed would be dangerous to people and to stock. Then we had but a few miles of railway, and poor at that. Now we have over 200,000 miles, and a letter goes all over North America for two cents. Even as late as when the speaker was in congress, he had opposed the law that gave letter carriers and free delivery in cities, as he thought it would cost too much. But he had lived to see it pay and to see free rural delivery a success. In 1800 the post-office department receipts were $280,000 Now our annual receipts in this department exceed 100 millions. He alluded to the wonderful development of the telegraph, the telephone and electric power and light, all of which had sprung into existance since the pioneer days. Then we had to make laborious journeys on foot or horseback. Now we can go 500 miles a day in luxury, or can talk to our friends twice that distance.

The machinery we are using in the United States today, is greater than the combined strength of 300 millions of men. He spoke of the calico we could now buy at 3 cents a yard, that he once sold for 25 cents. And we have we have "bargain days" for about every month. But in 1820 the stores in Paris, France, would be opened once a year, when ladies would rush for the latest styles. He spoke of the introduction of watches, needles and machinery, referring to his own experience as a farmer boy, turning the grindstone and carrying the jug—the latter sometimes full of whisky. America has made ten times more inventions than the rest of the world.

Mr. Foster has much of his old-time fire and is an easy talker, full of old-time memories, and can make a valuable speech. He, however, disgusted many of his hearers by closing in a political tirade that hurried many out of doors. Whether he was right or wrong in saying "Trusts have come to bless us," it was in bad taste and all the pioneers regretted it.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

No other aid so great to the housewife, no other agent so useful and certain in making delicious, pure and wholesome foods, has ever been devised.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

There are imitation baking powders, sold cheap, by many grocers. They are made from alum, a poisonous drug, which renders the food injurious to health.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 100 WILLIAM ST., NEW YORK.

Endorsed by Clergymen.

Gentlemen:—Some personal experience enables me to heartily recommend the use of Henry & Johnson's Arnica and Oil Liniment. For external applications in cases of sprains and bruises it is unquestionably excellent. It takes hold and gives relief. This is not a guess, but a word of testimony.

EDWARD HAWES, D. D.

Dr. Hawes was for many years pastor of the First Church, Burlington, Vt. His testimony is the testimony of all who use the Arnica and Oil Liniment. It never fails to give satisfaction. Sold by all druggists at 25 and 50 cents a bottle. E. M. Fischler, F. E. Davenport and H. B. McCord. 1d&W

Chautauqua Meeting

At Mountain Lake Park, Md. Low rates Via Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

July 30 to August 30, inclusive, the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad will sell low-rate excursion tickets to Mountain Lake, Md., account above occasion.

Tickets will be good for return until August 31, 1900.

For further information call on or address nearest Baltimore & Ohio Ticket Agent, or B. N. Austin, General Passenger Agent, Chicago, Ill. A30

It is a Curse.

Constipation is a curse, and afflicts too great a portion of the American people. There is no excuse for it either, as we sell a remedy that will banish the curse, and with moderate use will keep you well. It is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Sold in 10c, 50c and $1.00 sizes. For sale by H. B. McCord.

You Owe It to All

your friends to tell them of the curative power of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. I'll bet half of 'em have stomach trouble. Send for 10c, 50 or $1 bottle to H. B. McCord.

Has 3,000,000 Members.

The Christian Endeavor society now in the nineteenth year of its existence, has 80,000 local societies and 3,000,000 members, representing forty denominations, in every country of the world.

OBITUARY.

Mardel Lavon, infant daughter of Elmer and Anna Bottenberg, was born May 26, 1900, and departed this life August 13, 1900, at the tender age of 2 months and 19 days. She leaves to mourn her early death a father and mother, six sisters and one brother. Thus another little life precious and beautiful, has been taken from the home on earth to the heavenly and eternal home above. Dear friends, lift up your hearts unto him who careth for you. You weep not as those who have no hope. Comfort yourselves with the anxious thought that if faithful unto death you shall receive your treasure back again where there shall be no partings. The funeral service was conducted from the Lutheran church yesterday at 3:30 p. m.; interment took place in Woodlawn cemetery Rev. J. D. Brosy officiating.

SUFFERED FOR YEARS.

WITH KIDNEY TROUBLE—A CASE THAT BAFFLED THE BEST DOCTORS.

WINDSOR, ONT., Jan. 13, 1900.

I make the following statement for the benefit of people in advanced years: I have used Dr. C. D. Warner's Compound of Seven Cures with the best possible results. I am sixty-five years old and have suffered more or less with my kidneys for over three years. After taking eight bottles of your Seven Cures I feel like a new man. I can truthfully recommend it as one of the greatest remedies of the age. Yours respectfully,

B. STICKLE.

F. E. Davenport.

Low Excursion Rates

to Chicago, Ill. via Baltimore & Ohio Railroad. Account G. A. R. Annual Encampment.

August 25 to 29, inclusive, the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company will sell excursion tickets from all local stations west of the Ohio River to Chicago, Ill., at rate of one (1) cent per mile in each direction. Tickets will be good for return until August 31, but may be extended until September 30 by deposit with Joint Agent and payment of 50 cents.

For further information call on or address nearest Baltimore & Ohio Ticket Agent, B. N. Austin, General Passenger Agent, Chicago, Ill.

A 20-Pound Baby

can take Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin with as much safety and beneficial results as an adult. It is a mild, liquid laxative and children thrive upon it. Syrup Pepsin assists nature in cleansing the system, and its use is not attended with any of the unpleasant griping and nauseating effects caused by the use of pills or so-called cathartics. Try a 10c size bottle (10 doses 10 cents.) Also sold in 50c and $1 sizes by H. B. McCord.

Best Way To Cure Backache.

Backaches are caused by disorder in the kidneys. Foley's Kidney Cure will make the kidneys right. Take no substitute. H. B. McCord.

Stops The Cough and Works off the Cold.

Laxative Bromo-Quinine Tablets cure a cold in one day. No Cure, no Pay. Price 25 cents.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, - Publisher.

1900. AUGUST. 1900.

Su	Mo	Tu	We	Th	Fr	Sa
•	•	•	1	2	3	4
5	6	7	8	9	10	11
12	13	14	15	16	17	18
19	20	21	22	23	24	25
26	27	28	29	30	31	•
•	•	•	•	•	•	•

F. Q. 4th. F. M. 10th. L. Q. 17th. N. M. 24th.

EVENTS OF INTEREST

THAT OCCURRED DURING THE PAST WEEK.

Tersely Told Telegraph Tales in Brief Paragraphs—Many Casualties—A Few Crimes—Some Fires—Political and Religious News.

Mob's Work.

A mob of several hundred persons formed in front of the home of Policeman Brobert J. Thorpe, 37th street and Ninth avenue, New York, to wreak vengence upon the negroes of that neighborhood, because one of their race had caused the policeman's death.

The mob, which grew with great rapidity, raged through the district and all negroes, regardless of age or sex, were indiscriminately attacked. Scores were injured. It took the combined efforts of the reserves with as many policemen on regular patrol duty in the four precints to restore order. Clubs were used until the policemen were almost exhausted. Revolvers were emptied into the air and one or two instances, fired at the upper stories of the negro tenements, from which the negroes defensively fired bricks, paving stones and other missiles.

Dynamiter Arrested.

Maurice Brennan, who is under arrest at St. Louis, charged with being a dynamiter, was identified as one of the men connected with the blowing up of the street cars in the southern section of the city, several weeks ago. It is stated that enough is known at police headquarters to justify the statement that the dynamiting of the cars of the Transit Company has been done by members of a regularly organized committee, under plans formulated by councils, held at fixed places, by persons inimical to the Transit Company. The men selected, it is asserted, were provided with the dynamite and practically compelled to carry out the work as ordered by the committee.

Corn Popped by the Sun.

Dawson (Ga.) special: The hottest weather ever experienced here has made the people of this section uncomfortable for the past several days. Last week the thermometer reached a fraction over 100 degrees. As an evidence of the heat, W. T. Everett, one of Terrel County's most prosperous farmers, had on exhibition an ear of pop corn whose kernels were snowy white, the corn being popped as nicely as if it had been done over a fire, and this was done by the heat of the sun, the corn having been exposed to Old Sol's rays for several hours.

Britain's Proud Army.

Viscount Wolseley, field marshal and commander in chief of the British army, delivered, according to the London Daily Mail, the most scathing condemnations ever heard at Aldershot after witnessing the late maneuvres. He declared that the 30,000 men who participated were utterly unfit to send abroad, being badly led and badly taught.

Many distinguished officers listened to these remarks, among them General Montgomery Moore, formerly in command in Canada, but now commanding at Aldershot.

To Thank the Kaiser.

Berlin special: The foreign office says that Emperor William will receive early in September, the delegation from the Brooklyn Sangerbund, which desires to thank him for the prize given by him to that organization. The emperior had hoped to receive the delegation sooner but his engagements have interfered.

Sir Robert Hart Leaves Pekin.

Hong Kong special: It is reported that the Canton custom department has received a dispatch saying that Sir Robert Hart, director general of Chinese imperial maritime customs, accompanied by his staff, has left Pekin under Chinese escort, and that a cruiser will be sent to meet him on his reaching the coast.

Drank Cistern Water.

In the Moore family, on the Bailey plantation, four miles from Elkton, Ky., are now fourteen cases of typhoid fever. There have been two deaths. It is believed the disease was produced by cistern water.

The British Out-Witted.

According to a dispatch to the London Daily Express, from Lorenzo Marquez, it is reported there that the Boer General DeWet has succeeded in joining hands with Commandant Delarey.

To Watch Anarchists Here.

Fifteen Italian detectives, according to the Rome correspondent of the London Daily Mail, have sailed for New York to shadow the movements of anarchists in the United States.

Murder and Suicide.

At Jamestown, Ohio, A. G. Binghampton killed his wife and his son-in-law, James Bradley, and then committed suicide. The tragedy was the result of family troubles.

Five Thousand Are Stricken.

Gen. MacArthur has cabled the war department a brief statement concerning the health of the troops in the Philippines. The number of sick in the hospitals is set down at 8,868, and in quarters at 1,261; making a total of 5,129 sick soldiers, or 8.47 per cent. of the entire army in the archipelago.

Over Two Million.

The population of old New York City according to the twelfth census is 2,050,600. The count of Greater New York is unfinished.

Lives Lost at Janesville.

The Janesville-Milwaukee local on the Milwaukee road while pulling out of Janesville collided with a switch engine which was pulling five loaded cars of coal. Burt Schlatter, engineer, of Janesville, and Gus A. Bondrath, fireman, both on passenger train, were killed.

Destroyer Sent to the Bottom.

During the maneuvers of the French fleet off Cape St. Vincent a collision took place between the first-class battle-ship Brennus and the torpedo-boat destroyer Frame. The Frame sank immediately. Of the Frame's crew of fifty-six men fourteen were saved.

ENGLAND'S CHIEF JUSTICE DIES.

Baron Russell of Killowen Succumbs to Attack of Gastric Catarrh.

All England was shocked when the news was flashed through the isles that the lord chief justice, Baron Russell of Killowen, was dead as the result of an operation performed to afford him relief from gastric catarrh, a disease which had afflicted him for many years. In the practical prime of life—he was but 67 years of age, which is not old for an Englishman—the late chief justice had, apparently, at least a decade of usefulness before him, and although the fact of his illness was known, no one anticipated a fatal result. He was entirely a self-made man, although not of lowly birth, being the son of Arthur Russell of Newry and Seafield House, Rostrevor, Ireland. His birthplace was Newry, and he first saw the light in 1833; was educated at Trinity College, Dublin, and began the practice of law at Belfast; was called to the bar at Lincoln's Inn in 1859 and became a bencher there in 1872. Without family influence and disdaining to resort to the petty political tricks and schemes which have benefited so many, he rose by reason of merit alone, and finally attained the most dignified and greatest legal office in all England—something unprecedented—as a recognition of his ability, worth and true greatness.

COUNTERFEITERS ARRESTED.

Two Men, a Woman and a Coining Outfit Taken by Detectives.

The plant of a gang of counterfeiters was found by United States secret service agents and Detectives Frank Kovicki and Patrick Nolan in Chicago. The men were acting under orders of Police Inspector Kalas and Capt. Porter of the United States secret service. Axel Morks, his wife, Winifred Morks, and Thomas Kelly, alias Jones, who were found in the building, were arrested. The two men are said to have had some of the alleged spurious money when arrested and also letters showing that they had confederates throughout the country, who sold the money after it left the counterfeiters' plant. When surprised by the police the men endeavored to destroy plates, acids and tools, but were prevented from doing so. The capture is declared by Capt. Porter to be among the most important made in recent years. Passing of the money among merchants to provide for the ordinary necessities of life for the local members of the gang led to the arrest of the three people. The method was to turn $2 bills into $10 notes and make $5 notes from $1 bills. The trio under arrest came seven months ago from Minneapolis.

DUN'S REVIEW OF TRADE.

Makes Report on Business Situation from the Financial Point of View.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: "Speculation is cautious, but investment hoidings are being increased rather than diminished, and operators cannot see that their hesitation on the ground of politics is echoed any more in general business circles than two months ago. The money market is untroubled by the financing of the foreign loan, though the volume of new commercial loans is well sustained. Loss of the Chinese market has put coarse brown cottons in a bad position, other grades being less seriously affected. Failures for the week were 177 in the United States, against 136 last year, and 23 in Canada, against 29 last year."

Jumped from a Moving Train.

Near Anniston, Ala., W. T. Turner, wife and 3-months-old baby jumped off a Southern railway train while it was running at the rate of forty miles an hour. Turner was killed, and the wife and baby are thought to be fatally injured. They had never been on a train before.

Bold Robbery in New York.

Mrs. Bessie Krulewitch, wife of a well-to-do New York real estate dealer, while riding in a street car had a diamond earring valued at $700 torn from her ear by a ruffian, who then sprung from the car to the street and mixed in with the crowd.

Badly Wrecked by Tornado.

Almost the entire plant of the Pittsburg Reduction Company's aluminum works at New Kensington, Pa., was destroyed by a tornado. The loss is estimated at not less than $100,000 and it will entail the closing down of the works for an indefinite period.

Wills Estate to a Friend.

In remembrance of the kindness and friendship of Lina Graf, who had befriended and cared for him in his old age, the late Nathan H. Knapp, St. Louis capitalist, in his will, bequeathed Mrs. Graf all his estate with the exception of $5, left to the testator's daughter.

Negroes Kill Two White Men.

At Sylvania, Ga., R. F. Herrington and Milton Mears were shot and killed by two negroes named Alexander, as a result of a quarrel caused by the buggy in which the negroes were riding colliding with that in which were Herrington and Mears.

Explosion Kills Three.

Three men were killed and two were injured by an explosion in the boiler-house at the plant of the Portland, Me., Gas Light Company. One man, who attempted to rescue a victim, was seriously burned.

Elope, Then Take Poison.

In Kansas City Charles Dunbar and Mrs. Nora Bradley of New Albany, Ind., attempted suicide at a boarding house by taking morphine. Dunbar and Mrs. Bradley eloped six weeks ago and have been living there as man and wife since.

Stockmen Held Up and Shot.

Frank Craig and Joseph Philpot, wealthy stockmen of Nodaway, Mo., who had made a large sale of cattle in St. Joseph, were held up near home by two men. They resisted and both were fatally shot.

End of Two Train Robbers.

Robbers of a Union Pacific train near Hugo, Col., were surrounded on a ranch near Goodland, Kan., where one was burned to death in a house in which he fought a posse and another was shot to death.

Crime of a Jealous Husband.

S. C. Reighard, of Toledo, Ohio, shot his wife in her confectionery store, then walked to his family home and shot himself through the heart. The woman expired in less than five minutes. He was insanely jealous of her.

Thirteen Injured in Wreck.

The Southern train from Augusta was wrecked at Tennille, Ga., and thirteen people were hurt badly. Several others were injured less seriously. The train broke in two on a steep grade and the two sections collided.

Four Killed by Lightning.

Lightning at New York strikes nine persons who had sought refuge under a tree and bushes to avoid a storm. Four of them died.

Lucretia Borgia Recalled.

An attempt was made to poison the Chinese minister at Paris by means of poisoned flowers.

Slay Messenger and Rob Safe.

When Panhandle train No. 8 from the west pulled into the Union depot at Columbus, Ohio, shortly after 10 o'clock the other night, Charles Lane, the express messenger, was found dead in the car with eight bullets in his body. The safe was blown open and $45,000 is said to have been secured by the robbers.

MASKED MEN ROB CONDUCTOR.

Electric Car at Council Bluffs Held Up by Bandits.

Motor No. 79 of the Omaha and Council Bluffs Railway and Bridge Company was held up and the conductor robbed by two masked men about midnight the other night. The hold-up took place at the Wabash crossing, near the corner of 6th street and 19th avenue, Council Bluffs, as the motor was southward bound for Lake Manawa. As the motor stopped for the crossing, and the conductor started to alight to go ahead, two men rose from the darkness at the side of the track and boarded the car. One covered the conductor and the other the motorman with their weapons and commanded them to throw up their hands. The order was obeyed with alacrity. One of the robbers then took from the conductor his gold watch and his cash, amounting, it is estimated, to about $50. A $20 gold piece was overlooked. The robbers then jumped from the car and disappeared in the darkness. There were only a few passengers aboard, and they were not disturbed.

DIE RATHER THAN SEPARATE.

Two Young Persons Unable to Marry Take Poison Together.

Farmer Jones and Bonnie Turner, two young people living near Coal, Mo., were found in a dying condition in a buggy by the roadside. They died about two hours later from the effects of morphine which they had taken. Jones was 22 years old and Miss Turner was 18. They had been keeping company for over a year and had intended to marry, but unfortunately Jones was kicked by a horse this summer, necessitating the expenditure of the money he had saved to marry on. As soon as he recovered he found it necessary to leave home in search of work, and the young folks decided that they would rather die together than be separated.

TRAIN FALLS IN THE RIVER.

Bridge on the Big Four Road, Near Mound City, Ill., Gives Way.

The bridge over the Cachee river, one mile south of Mound City, Ill., on the line of the Big Four Railroad, broke down under an engine and caboose and precipitated the train into the river, a fall of thirty feet. Nim Whalen, a brakeman, was killed instantly and John Inglis, the conductor; Grant Lafferty, engineer, and Fred Arnold, brakeman, were injured fatally. The wreck will entail a loss of $30,000.

Lost His Life Giving an Alarm.

While ringing the fire bell at Gatewood, Mo., on the occasion of a fire, Rufus Forshee was instantly killed. The heavy clapper, weighing several pounds, broke loose and fell thirty-five feet down the belfry.

Russians Fire on Americans.

A terrible mistake occurred at the taking of Yang-tsun. Russian artillery opened fire on the American troops. Before the mistake was discovered many American soldiers had been killed or wounded by the Russian shells.

Killed by a Blow on the Chin.

In Toledo, Ohio, Thomas Rosenberg, while engaged in a game of dice, quarrelled with Charles Pfeifer, who struck him a terrible blow on the point of the chin. Rosehberg never regained consciousness.

Battle with Two Bandits.

A pitched battle ocurred near Graham, New Mexico, between a posse under Deputy Sheriff W. K. Foster and two bandits, who robbed a store in Graham in broad daylight. One of the robbers was killed.

Air Brakes Refuse to Work.

A head-end collision occurred on the Rio Grande railroad at Monument, Colo., resulting in the death of two persons and the injury of several others. The air brakes refused to work.

Indianapolis Has Grown.

The official returns of the twelfth census will show Indianapolis to have a population of 168,915, an increase of 63,479 people in the last ten years, or a gain of 60.2 per cent.

$40,000 Fire in Rochester.

An explosion in a paint store at Rochester, N. Y., started a fire which did $40,000 damage, and for a time threatened the business part of the city.

Gus Ruhlin Is Defeated.

Gus Ruhlin was knocked out in the sixth round of his fight with ex-Champion Bob Fitzsimmons in New York.

College Destroyed by Fire.

Fire destroyed Holbrook normal college in Knoxville, Tenn. Loss, $30,000; insurance, $13,000.

Appointed by China to End Conflict.

Li-Hung-Chang has been named by China to negotiate with the powers for peace.

Postmaster at Nome.

J. H. Wright has been appointed postmaster at Nome, Alaska.

THE MARKETS.

Chicago—Cattle, common to prime, $3.00 to $5.90; hogs, shipping grades, $3.00 to $5.25; sheep, fair to choice, $3.00 to $4.35; wheat, No. 2 red, 75c to 76c; corn, No. 2, 37c to 38c; oats, No. 2, 23c to 24c; rye, No. 2, 48c to 49c; butter, choice creamery, 18c to 20c; eggs, fresh, 9c to 12c; potatoes, 29c to 33c per bushel.

Indianapolis—Cattle, shipping, $3.00 to $5.70; hogs, choice light, $5.00 to $5.42; sheep, common to prime, $3.00 to $4.00; wheat, No. 2, 74c to 75c; corn, No. 2 white, 41c to 42c; oats, No. 2 white, 26c to 27c.

St. Louis—Cattle, $3.25 to $5.80; hogs, $3.00 to $5.35; sheep, $3.00 to $4.50; wheat, No. 2, 70c to 71c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 36c to 37c; oats, No. 2, 20c to 21c; rye, No. 2, 48c to 49c.

Cincinnati—Cattle, $3.00 to $5.10; hogs, $3.00 to $5.50; sheep, $3.00 to $4.25; wheat, No. 2, 76c to 77c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 40c to 41c; oats, No. 2 mixed, 23c to 25c; rye, No. 2, 55c to 56c.

Detroit—Cattle, $2.50 to $5.70; hogs, $3.00 to $5.45; sheep, $3.00 to $4.50; wheat, No. 2, 77c to 78c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 41c to 42c; oats, No. 2 white, 24c to 25c; rye, 51c to 52c.

Toledo—Wheat, No. 2 mixed, 77c to 78c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 39c to 40c; oats, No. 2 mixed, 21c to 22c; rye, No. 2, 50c to 51c; clover seed, prime, $5.05 to $5.40.

Milwaukee—Wheat, No. 2 northern, 74c to 75c; corn, No. 3, 39c to 40c; oats, No. 2 white, 24c to 25c; rye, No. 1, 50c to 51c; barley, No. 2, 47c to 48c; pork, mess, $11.00 to $11.70.

Buffalo—Cattle, choice shipping steers, $3.00 to $5.80; hogs, fair to prime, $3.00 to $5.55; sheep, fair to choice, $3.25 to $4.75; lambs, common to extra, $4.00 to $6.00.

New York—Cattle, $3.25 to $5.95; hogs, $3.00 to $5.85; sheep, $3.00 to $4.75; wheat, No. 2 red, 81c to 82c; corn, No. 2, 42c to 43c; oats, No. 2 white, 28c to 29c; butter, creamery, 17c to 20c; eggs, western, 15c to 17c.

COST OF A CAMPAIGN.

BIG SUMS SPENT BY THE TWO GREAT PARTIES.

Political Spellbinders, Literature and Canvassers Are the Committees' Most Expensive Items—Modern Campaign Work and Methods.

Chicago correspondence:

Few people realize the enormous amount of money that will be expended in electing a President of the United States this year. In the campaign of 1896 upward of $25,000,000 was used and it is believed that more money will be expended this year. Unless one could get behind the scenes and account for the bulk of this vast sum few probably would believe that so many millions could be used by the politicians in so short a time. With each succeeding Presidential election it has become easier and easier for for the managers on both sides to use money bounteously. This does not mean that there is to be a wholesale debauchery of voters. No one knows just what proportion of the $25,000,000 will go to purchasable voters. It is known, however, that only a comparatively small part of the total will be used in this way. All kinds of politicians agree that the two National Committees had at least $5,000,000 to spend in the fight four years ago, and the same authorities are unanimous in declaring that the two committees will have fully as much this year. For every dollar that the National Committees spend it is a conservative estimate that the State Committees of the two parties will spend four, and this will make up the total of $25,000,000 that the election will cost.

Where So Much Money Goes.

To show where so much money goes, a study of the cost of campaign speeches alone is very instructive. Each National Committee spends at least $500,000 for speeches, and the State Committees spend ten times as much more. This is one item of $1,000,000. The Republican National Committee this year will send out 2,500 speakers from the New York headquarters and 3,000 speakers from the headquarters in Chicago. The Democrats will send out an equal number. These speakers cost on an average $110 a week, that sum including salaries to the spellbinders and an expense allowance of $8 a day. Some of the campaign speakers receive salaries as high as $250 a week, while other are content with $25 a week and their expenses. The average cost of the speakers to the committee is $110 a week, and they are on the stump eight weeks. While the National Committee of each party thus will have 5,500 speakers out, the various State Committees will have ten times as many more on the stump. The salaries of speakers engaged by the State Committees may be less than those paid by the national managers, but the State Committees have to pay the rental of all the buildings in which campaign meetings are held. This item adds tremendously to the total.

One of the most expensive items in the campaign next to the speakers is that of printing and stationery. For this each National Committee spends at least $500,000. The number and size of documents sent out have increased with each campaign, until this year it is expected that the McKinley and the Bryan managers each will send out no less than 100,000,000 documents. Before the Garfield-Hancock campaign was half over the Republican and Democrats had sent more than 12,000,000 documents, and this style of campaigning has become more popular with each Presidential contest. The bulk of this matter is sent by express to the chairmen of the various State Committees for distribution. A great deal of it goes free, being franked from Washington. Speeches delivered in Congress by Republicans and Democrats constitute a large part of the campaign matter, and Republicans and Democrats alike take advantage of this opportunity to get to the voters speeches favorably to their side of the contest. Each National Committee sends out 5,000,000 buttons and 5,000,000 lithographs, all of which are distributed through the State chairmen of the two parties.

Work of National Chairmen.

Senator Hanna and Senator Jones, the respective chairmen of the two great political parties, are organizing machinery for the campaign of 1900 as complete and substantial as though they expected never to do anything else but elect Presidents. If they were organizing hundred-year Presidential clubs they could not be more thorough and systematic. The national chairman maps out the work and divides great responsibilities among his immediate assistants. They in turn divide their work so that a dozen or twenty or one hundred men will look after the details. These men in turn assign important tasks to hundreds of party workers under them. After the campaign is well under way the minor workers report to their superiors as a lieutenant in the army reports to his captain. The captain in turn reports to his major, the major to his colonel and the colonel to his general, Senator Hanna or Senator Jones, as the case may be. When a situation arises down the line that threatens trouble Senator Hanna or Senator Jones hears of it and devises some plan for diverting the danger. He then directs his subordinates to see that the plan is tried and requires full explanations for failure. While the national chairmen are very busy devising plans for success, they also find time to raise the bulk of the campaign funds. They delegate to others the task of selecting and sending out campaign literature, engaging and assigning speakers, receiving callers and answering correspondence and studying reports on conditions in the various States. Speakers are told the subjects on which they may talk, and they are directed as to how they shall handle their subjects. If it is found that a certain line of argument is received with disfavor in a certain State the speakers in that State are warned to shift their arguments in accordance with new instructions.

No feature of the campaign is watched by the national chairmen more closely than the preliminary and final canvass of the voters. Both parties will soon have under way a canvass of every voting precinct. This will show in a general way how many of the voters favor Bryan and how many favor McKinley. It will also show who of the voters are doubtful, who are inclined to favor Bryan and who lean toward McKinley. The taking of this canvass costs a tremendous sum of money, but the party managers must have it in order to gauge the outlook. They soon discover where their own lines are weakest and where those of their adversaries are strongest. While steps are being taken to insure success at one point and to avert disaster at another, a second and final canvass is begun. This usually is completed two weeks before election. By that time a large proportion of the doubtful voters have taken sides and can be classified. The result is a canvass which shows with fair clearness the probable result of the election. Once again the managers of the parties search for the important weak spots, deciding the points at which to do the hardest work in the closing days of the campaign.

THE TWO OPPOSING POLITICAL GENERALS.

SENATOR MARK A. HANNA. Manager of the Republican national campaign.

HON. JAMES K. JONES. Manager of the Democratic national campaign.

Some New Methods This Year.

Some novel campaign methods will be resorted to by the two parties this year. The Republicans already have adopted the plan of sending out a large number of phonographs, which will be used in small places. Eloquent party speakers, like Representative Dolliver, of Iowa, and Representative Dalzell, of Pennsylvania, have been making speeches into these machines. The Democrats, on the other hand, will make free use of stereopticons. James K. McGuire, chairman of the Democratic State Committee of New York, already has arranged to give Democratic stereopticon exhibitions all over the State. He will send out these shows on a schedule in every respect similar to that made by a theatrical manager who puts a show "on the road."

As the campaign develops it is certain that other novel features will be adopted. Flags, maps, watchcharms, pins, and other articles are under consideration by both campaign committees. But, as heretofore, the chief dependence will be placed in the eloquence of the "spellbinders" and the convincing logic of cold type.

Told in a Few Lines.

A young man in Auburn, Me., to play a joke on his barber, paid him thirty-five old-fashioned cents. Later the barber sold one of the coins for $35.

Many Boers have been ruined by placing reliance in President Kruger's assertions that paper money of the South African republic was as good as Bank of England notes.

During the last five years more than 500,000,000 baby lobsters were hatched by the fish commission, and "planted" in New England waters. The cost of hatching and planting 100,000,000 young lobsters is about $10,000.

Sheriff Garrett, of McDonald County, Missouri, was killed by George Fisher. Fisher was under arrest and the sheriff had permitted him to enter his home to procure some clothing. The prisoner secreted a pistol and shot Garrett.

Sheep roaming over the hills in Morgan and Summit Counties, Idaho, have stampeded swarms of squirrels from their usual haunts, and the little rodents have descended on the farmers' crops of cereals and vegetables.

RESCUE IS REPORTED.

ALLIES SAID TO HAVE SAVED THE ENVOYS.

Troops Are Declared to Have Entered the City of Pekin and Relieved the Beleagured Legations After Weeks of Trials and Suspense.

A dispatch to the New York Journal and Advertiser from Chefoo quotes Edwin Wildman, the correspondent, as follows: "I learn from a thoroughly trustworthy Chinese source that the army of the allies reached Pekin on Monday. I have every reason to believe that the army forced an entrance and that the envoys and their friends were rescued. They are probably now safe with the Christian army."

The Chinese minister in Washington Thursday morning received a belated cable dispatch from Minister Conger, in the American cipher, addressed to the State Department. He delivered it to Acting Secretary Adee. The department also has received an appeal from Li-Hung-Chang, the Chinese peace envoy, to have the allied army stop their advance at Tung-Chow, at which place, he says, they will be met by high officials of the Chinese Government, who will be empowered to negotiate an armistice. This is in response to the demands of our Government in its communication to Li-Hung-Chang. This Government will reject Li-Hung-Chang's proposal for an armistice. It will stand on the proposition heretofore announced.

DEATH OF VON KETTELER.

How the German Ambassador at Pekin Was Slain by "Boxers" in China's Capital—From Le Journal Illustre, Paris.

The dispatch from Minister Conger and the appeal of Li-Hung-Chang were turned over to Secretary Root, who took them to the White House and laid them before the cabinet. The message from Minister Conger is the first one that has been received showing that cablegrams sent him by this Government have reached him. A portion of his dispatch of Thursday morning is an answer to inquiries made of him. The dispatch also contains the names of the marines who were killed in the assaults on the legations.

PROPHESIES LONG WAR.

The predictions of T. H. Storts, of Van Buren, Ind., have been fulfilled to a remarkable degree so far. In the year of 1894 he prophesied that the United States troops would be called into the field of battle in 1898, and that our government would not cease from war for seven years, and that in the year of 1900 we would be embroiled in a war with all the leading nations of the earth. He also predicted that when this war ended there would be no more use for the sword and bayonet. He further says that when the powers have subdued China the swords will be turned toward each other, and a great destruction shall befall the nations. He urges that this government should make great preparations for the near future, and declares that the United States and England will have to stand in the same position that China does at this day. All this he gathers from his reading of the Revelations of the Apostle John, and says that we are very close to the "last days."

T. H. STORTS.

In China, twelve miles from Lion Chek, there is a mountain of alum which yields 100 tons yearly.

Russia, in Europe, has a forest area of about 500,000,000 acres. One-third of the country is forest.

Under British rule the cotton crop of Egypt has doubled and now amounts to 500,000,000 pounds a year.

The Newfoundland sealing season has been the largest in twenty-five years, 375,000 seals having been captured.

For painting the words, "I am a Boer," on the gate of a nurseryman's place in Wick, Miss Dorothy Chute was fined $20 in London.

Tolstoi's "Czar Feodor Joannowitch" is the first play that has reached as many as 100 performances in a Russian city within two years.

Recent floods in upper, central and southern Italy, which threatened the lines of railway, have brought to the attention of the Government the necessity of replanting forests on the hillsides.

The last enumeration of the people of Roumania shows that in a population of nearly 6,000,000 nearly 4,000,000 can neither read nor write and that only 1,000,000 have any education worthy of notice.

JOHN J. INGALLS DEAD.

Succumbs at East Las Vegas, N. M., After Long Illness.

Ex-United States Senator John J. Ingalls died in East Las Vegas, New Mexico, early Thursday morning. His death was caused by an affection of the throat, from which he had been suffering for more than a year.

Mr. Ingalls' illness dates from March, 1899, when his throat began troubling him. Ten months ago he sought change in climate, traveling through New Mexico and Arizona. Two months ago Mrs. Ingalls joined her husband in Las Vegas, and she has since remained at her husband's side. Senator Ingalls leaves a widow and six children.

Senator Ingalls was seized with the grip in 1898 while on a lecturing tour in South Dakota, and was compelled to leave the field in the fall of that year. He returned to his home in Atchison, Kan., shortly afterwards going to Washington, and at that place the first emphatic symptoms of the fatal throat disease were made apparent.

JOHN J. INGALLS.

Ex-Senator Ingalls was born in Middleton, Essex County, Mass., in 1833. He was graduated from Williams College in 1855, and received the degree of LL. D. in 1884. He was admitted to the bar in 1857, and removed to Kansas in October, 1858. He was a delegate to the Wyandotte constitutional convention in 1859; secretary of the territorial council in 1860; secretary of the State Senate in 1861; member of the State Senate of Kansas from Atchison County in 1862; major, lieutenant colonel and judge advocate Kansas volunteers in 1863-65.

Mr. Ingalls was elected to the United States Senate from Kansas as a Republican to succeed S. C. Pomeroy, Republican, took his seat March 4, 1873, and was twice re-elected. His term of service expired March 4, 1891. Since leaving the Senate he devoted his time to literary work and the lecture platform.

MYSTERIOUS CHINESE NAMES.

Their Significance Plain When Once They Are Understood.

The mysterious names appearing in the Chinese dispatches become familiar enough when translated, thus: Tung means east; si, west; nan, south; pei, north; while tsin, kin or king stands for capital or metropolis, as in Pekin (northern capital) and Nankin (southern capital).

Tien means heaven, so Tien-tsin signifies heavenly metropolis. Ho or kiang means river, so Pei-Ho is north river; Si-kiang, west river. Che means seven, so Che-kiang is seven rivers. Shan is a mountain, and Shan-tung, east mountain, and Shan-si, west mountain. Pai is white, and Pai-shan, white mountain.

Hai is sea, and kwan stands for gate, so Hai-kwan (the maritime customs) is gate of the sea, and Shan-hai-kwan, mountain and sea gate. Shang is a city, and Shanghai, city by the sea.

Yang means ocean, and Tse, son; hence, the Yang-tse river is son of the ocean, and Tien-tse, son of heaven (the Emperor).

Ku or kow is a mouth or pass, and Ta, big or great, so Ta-ku means a big mouth (of Pei-Ho), while Nan-kow stands for south pass (from Mongolia).

Hu is a lake; ling, a hill; hsiang, a village; hsien, a tax district. Fu is a prefecture; tai, a governor; tao, a circuit or group of administrative departments; so tao-tai is a governor of a circuit, and fo-tai is a governor of a prefecture.

Chao or kiao is a bridge; li a Chinese mile; pa, eight; and thus Pa-li-kiao is the eight-mile bridge. Cho or chow is a depot or stopping place; hence Tung-chow (eastern depot of Pekin). Shen is a province, and Shen-si is the western province.

Yamen is a police station or official residence, and Hui, a secret society or club. Ta'ing means pure or clear, so Ta'ing-kiang is clear river, while Ta Ts'ing means great pure (name of present dynasty) and kwo being a kingdom or empire, Ta-Ts'ing kow signifies the empire of the great pure (China).

Ta Mei-Ka is the name applied by the Chinese to the United States, and means great America.

The Reporter's Correction.

"Look here!" thundered the distinguished Chinaman, as he entered the newspaper office, "your reporter has terribly misquoted me in an interview."

"How's that?" asked the editor.

"It says here in the paper that I said the Chinamen were 'rightly in the hole.'"

"Well?"

"I never said it. I told your reporter that the Chinamen were 'wholly in the right.'"

"I see," said the editor. "The reporter has probably heard that Chinamen always do things backward, and he thought you had twisted your words around. He was simply trying to correct it, you know."—Indianapolis Sun.

Sparks from the Wires.

Brooklyn, N. Y., is threatened with a water famine.

Ex-Gov. Wolcott has accepted the ambassadorship to Italy.

Work for the new navy now under way will cost $92,000,000.

Marie Danton, mimic, London stage favorite, is coming to America.

Yellow fever is epidemic all along the Mexican ports and at Panama.

A British cruiser burned 22,000 tons of coal going from England to Australia.

So scarce is the Paris water supply that private service is cut off between 11 p. m. and 6 a. m. every night.

The suggestion that the name of Pretoria should be changed to Victoria is said to be receiving wide support.

GREEN BUSHES.

The green bushes when first I loved you,
When we met and my heart approved you,
Tossed the gold and the scarlet high,
Gold and scarlet went drifting by.
Ochone, the wind and the weather!
Days when you and I were together;
Much we heeded the leaf on the tree;
'Twas hearts' springtime to you and me.

The green bushes when we were married
White rose and red rose carried,
When you drew me your threshold o'er,
Rose and white for our wedding floor.
Ochone, the days that are over!
I beloved, and you my lover,
Little we cared what the world might say,
You and I on our wedding day.

The green bushes grow thin and shiver,
You and I we are lovers ever;
Cheek to cheek and heart to heart,
Still true lovers that none can part.
Ochone, winter goes sighing,
Love in a world of care and dying;
Ah, forget that I made you sad,
Yet remember I made you glad.

The green bushes grow gay and vernal,
Spring comes back and Love is eternal;
In your arms come kiss, forgive me;
Had you ever the heart to grieve me,
Ochone?

CANAL TRAVEL IN CHINA.

Travel in China is principally by canal, the greatest of which is the Imperial or Grand canal, connecting Canton and Pekin. Innumerable branches passing through countless cities, towns and villages connect the utmost limits of the empire with this main artery of waterways. To overcome the difference of level between two canals, a peculiar and ingeniously constructed glacis, sloping at an angle of 45 degrees, is used, and by means of a capstan or two the boat is drawn over until, having passed the point of equilibrium, it is launched into the lower canal. To prevent the boat shipping too much water, a screen of wickerwork is fixed at the bow. The rivers and canals are the real highways of China, and by these the hordes of Boxers from the inland provinces flock to the coast towns and foreign settlements. The illustration shows a band of Boxers on the way to fight the "foreign devils."

A QUEER BLUNDER.

THE morning sun brightened the gilt letters on the sign above the entrance to the stanch old warehouse, but its radiance was lost on the young man with keen, gray eyes who stood at the office door and hesitated before he turned the knob. In that brief moment he tried to recall the directions that Emily Quarles had given him.

"Father is peculiar," she had said. "You must know him before you can appreciate him." And Spencer Grant wondered how long it would be before this appreciative stage could be reached. He hadn't met this peculiar father, and here he was standing on the doormat of his office mustering up courage to go in and ask him for his daughter.

What else had Emily said? "Do not contradict father. Do just what he tells you to do. Let him have his own way. If he blusters and fumes, wait quietly. He will soon cool down. Father's gruff manner is largely assumed. If you have tact you will discover the way to handle him. Tell him truthfully, if you have a chance, how we met at Aunt Stanhope's, and that as soon as we were quite assured that we were all in all to each other, which, you must add, came to both of us as a complete surprise, I sent you directly to him. I will prepare him as far as I think judicious for your coming. Keep up a stout heart and guard your temper."

Spencer turned the knob and went in. There were several clerks writing in the outer office, but they did not look up as he passed along the narrow space before the high railing to the door marked "private." He knocked at this door, and a gruff voice bade him come in. Spencer summed up all his resolution and entered.

A sharp-featured old man with heavy eyebrows was seated at a desk, with his bushy gray head bent above a handful of papers.

"Sit down," he said, without looking up.

Spencer obeyed, and after a little the old man raised his head, glanced at the clock, and then gave the young man a long, searching glance. As he did so he drew a letter toward him and glanced at a page of it. Again he stared at Spencer.

"Well," he said abruptly, "you are exactly on time. You were to be here precisely at 10. This argues well for your early training. You have made a good impression on me to start with."

Spencer murmured his pleasure at this favorable comment, but the old man interrupted him.

"Your father says here that you resemble him. He writes that the resemblance is so strong that I couldn't help but know who you were if I chanced to meet you elsewhere. I don't agree with him, though there is a family resemblance. You are much better looking than he ever dreamed of being."

"Did my father say that?' inquired Spencer hastily. He knew the thing was quite impossible. Emily's father was laboring under some queer delusion. But he didn't mean to contradict him.

"Yes, he did," chuckled the old man, with a grim smile. "Fathers with but one child are apt to be asses." Then his tone changed. "What can you do? Can you write shorthand? Do you understand typewriting? Can you compose a good letter? Can you spell?"

"I think," said Spencer, quietly, "that I can best answer that by saying that I have a pretty thorough business training that was picked up in four years of practical work. I've been hard at it, in fact, ever since I left college."

"Your father doesn't make any such claim," said the old man, referring again to the letter. "All he says is 'Try him.' I will. I've made a place for you. I am going to indulge in the luxury of a private secretary. Ha, ha, ha! Here, take these letters. See what answers they need. Answer 'em. That's your little side room there. Leave the door open—I may want to call you."

Spencer smillingly took up the letters and without a trace of hesitation went into the little room assigned him. He found the conveniences he needed, and with his amused smile deepening he went at his task.

Presently he heard the outer door of the office open and shut, and a moment later the following dialogue came to him through the half-closed door:

"So you have come," growled the old man.

"Yes, sir," said a mild voice with a little quaver in it.

"Well," said the old man, with a dangerous rising inflection, "I want to tell you that it can never be!"

"Do you mean that I won't do?" inquired the mild voice.

"That's just what I mean," snarled the old man. "Your comprehension does you credit."

"But how can you tell till you've tried me?" protested the mild voice.

"Tried you!" roared the old man. "What do you mean by that?"

"I mean, sir," said the mild voice hurriedly, "that I hardly think it's fair to condemn me unheard and untried. I was led to think you would show me more consideration."

"Oh, you were, were you?" snapped the old man. "Well, sir, you have been falsely led. I know my daughter much better than you do, sir!"

"Your daughter, sir?"

"Yes, my daughter. And don't you dare to mention her name."

"I—I had no intention of doing so, sir."

"Eh? Coming to your senses, are you? That's right. She's only a foolish, headstrong girl. In a month she'll forget your existence."

"But I don't see what your daughter has to do with it. She is nothing to me, sir."

"Spoken like a sensible youth. I thought I'd convince you. There, there, let the whole thing drop."

"And you positively refuse to give me a trial?"

"Confound you, there you go again! Do you take me for an idiot?"

"I—I wouldn't go as far as that, sir. You don't seem to understand that I was led to believe you would give me an opportunity to show my worth. I am greatly disappointed, sir."

"Heavens, man, are we going over all that again?"

"Try me for a month, sir."

"Not for a minute!"

"For a week."

"Leave the room, sir! Go, sir! Go to the idiot asylum and marry somebody in your own mental class."

"I'm going, sir. My father will be greatly surprised at your unreasonable treatment."

"Your father! Who cares for your father? Why doesn't he keep his weak-minded children at home?"

"Good day, sir."

The door closed with a sharp bang, and there was a brief silence.

"I wonder what the deuce he meant by saying he'd tell his father?" Spencer heard the old man mutter. "Who's his father? Well, whoever he is, his son shall never marry my daughter. What in the world could she have seen in such an unbalanced fellow?"

His heavy step sounded on the floor, and when Spencer looked up the old man was gazing down at him from the doorway. His face was very red and his white hair still bristled with indignation.

"Well, Mr. Secretary," he said, "how are we coming on?"

"Very well, sir," replied Spencer. "I'll lay these replies upon your desk in a few moments."

"Good," said the old man.

"By the way," said Spencer, "what do you want me to say to Van Annam & Co.? They make an offer for your stock of cochineal, you know."

"Accept it and tell them we'll ship the stuff to-morrow."

"I wouldn't do that," said the secretary.

"Eh!" cried the astonished old man.

"You don't seem to know that there is a corner forming in dyestuffs," said Spencer, with a slight smile. "Wait a minute, and I will telephone for the latest quotations."

He arose as he spoke and stepped into the outer office and entered the telephone box.

"It is just as I supposed," he said as he rejoined the old man. "Cochineal jumped 34 per cent at the opening of the market this morning."

The old man turned and went back to his desk without a word. A moment later he looked in again.

"That means $2,735 to the good," he said. "Guess you'll earn your salary all right." Then he slowly added: "And I guess I'm getting old."

The sound of an opening door drew his attention. A radiant vision appeared in the doorway. It was Emily.

"Well, papa?" she cried, as she stepped forward.

The old man's lips tightened. "I sent him packing," he said rapidly. "A most reprehensible young fellow. You didn't know him, my dear."

Before she could indignantly reply an astonishing apparition appeared in the doorway of the inner room. It was Spencer—it was Spencer, bareheaded, with a pen in one hand and a bundle of letters in the other. As he caught her eye he put his finger to his lips, shook his head at her over the old man's shoulder, and drew back."

"Oh, father," was all Emily could say.

"Don't feet bad, my child," said the old man, with a little tenderness in his tone. "You will soon forget him." He lowered his voice. "I've got a young fellow inside here"—he jerked his thumb toward the inner door—"who is just the man for you. Smart, splendid family, good-looking, bright as a new dollar. Saved me $2,735 this very morning! Hadn't been at work twenty minutes. Wait a little, and I'll introduce him."

"Let me have a look at him!" cried Emily, and she darted to the door.

"Good morning," she said to Spencer.

"Good morning," answered that smiling youth, with an eloquent grimace.

Emily turned to her astonished parent.

"He'll do," she said. "Come out here, sir,' and they came forward hand in hand.

"Bless my soul!" cried the paralyzed father.

"You are quite right, papa," said Emily. "He is just the man for me. In fact, I've thought so for some time, and yet I don't believe you really know who he is. You are getting reckless, daddy. Tell him who you are, Spencer?"

The young man gravely straightened his face.

"I am Spencer Grant, of Spencer Grant & Co., importers of dyestuffs and druggists' supplies, and entirely at Mr. Richard Quarles' service."

"Spencer Grant & Co.!" gasped the old man, as a look of horror came over his face. "Then who was the other fellow?"

"I'm afraid," said Spencer gently, "that it was the highly-recommended son of your old friend."

"Awful!" groaned the old man. "I was right when I said fathers with one child are asses. How can I explain?"

"Suppose you leave the explanation to your new secretary," said Emily.

"Let me suggest," said Spencer, with a happy smile, "that you leave it to the junior member of the new firm of Quarles & Grant."

And then the grim old man chuckled.
—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

THE COURAGE OF HORSES.

They Become as Oblivious to Danger as a Man.

It has often been remarked that by constant association the horse readily imbibes many of the characteristics of his master. Nowhere has this been more manifested than in the armies of the world. In times of war the horses seem to take as deep an interest in battles as do their riders.

One of the most curious sights to be seen in a cavalry charge is the various riderless horses galloping in the line in perfect order. At the charge of Balaclava the front rank of one regiment was composed to a great extent of riderless animals, their masters having dropped one by one. It would seem that in the excitement of the moment the horses lose all conception of what is happening around them and probably fail to notice the fall of their riders. The return of riderless horses to camp is an almost certain sign of defeat. When a cavalry charge is successful the horses will, as I have said, all keep together, even though they have lost their riders. But when a force is routed the first news of ill omen to those in the rear will be the return of the horses with empty saddles and stirrups dangling free. To illustrate the callous feeling these animals have under fire, a case which happened at Ladysmith during the siege may be cited. A farrier sergeant was engaged in sheeing an officer's horse in the open ground behind the stables of a hotel, and had already put one or two nails in the shoe when a shell came screaming through the air. The next moment the missile burst five or six yards away from where the sergeant and the horse were standing and the splinters flew around both, but failed to touch either. When the smoke had cleared the horse was to be seen with its foot still in the man's apron, quite undisturbed by the incident.—Pearson's Magazine.

ARMY HORSES HAVE NO FEAR.

Inconceivable Speed of Light.

Between the ticks of a watch a ray of light could move eight times around the globe.

You think you owe your friends nothing. Don't you owe something to A for not repeating what you said about B, and something to B for not carrying your opinion to A?

A woman is not a real sincere admirer of her preacher unless she knows of three other towns that want him.

MEN IN THE TOWERS.

RAILWAY CROSSING WATCHERS HAVE THEIR TROUBLES.

Thrilling Experiences Where Many Lives Were Jeopardized — Story of Billy Goat that Jumped Aboard a Locomotive—Fine Work of Coaning Men.

"Say, drive that goat off the track there," yelled the man in the signal tower at the side of the railroad track as he leaned out of his little window and waved one arm at two boys half a block away and another at a tall, lank billy goat with twisted horns that was standing squarely between the two rails. The goat had wandered from no one knew where down the track of one of the railroads running south from the heart of the city. He was nowhere near a crossing, so there was no gateman who could be appealed to. The tower man saw the animal about fifty yards down the track, standing and looking with great nonchalance at a passenger train flying toward him from the north. The man couldn't leave his signal station, and, with visions of a wrecked train before him, he called upon the two boys for help.

"Hustle up, there, boys, and drive that billy out of the way," shouted the signal man.

"Aw, dat goat's all right," answered the boys, not budging an inch.

RAILROAD TOWER MEN AND THEIR DUTIES.

"But there's a train coming from town full tilt and there might be trouble."

"Go on; don't le dat worry ye. Dat goat'll take care of hisself all right."

"Who gives a —— for that mangy, old, moth-eaten goat. Get it off that track or a train load of people may be killed."

"Wat's de matter wid ye, anway? Dat goat never killed anybody in his life. He won't hurt yer train. We've knowed him for a long time, and he never did nuthin' but butt over a few folks."

The man in the tower swore at the boys in his most expressive railroad dialect, but the boys declined to make a hostile move toward the goat. Then the train tore by with a rush. The tower man was glad to note that the train didn't jump the track and smash itself into kindling wood at the side of the rails. Then he began inspecting the track closely for pieces of little hoofs, twisted horns, slices of goat meat and patches of hair intermixed with blood. But there was neither hide nor hair of the goat. He had vanished as completely and as suddenly as if he had been thrown into the clouds. The railroad man scratched his head and rubbed his eyes and looked at the track again, but it seemed that not even the characteristic odor of the patron saint of the livery stable remained. Then the switch turner nodded his head in an "Oh, yes" manner, which was as much as to say that he had fathomed the mystery. He had decided that the train had hit the goat so hard that it had been tossed up to the top of the pilot dead and thus been carried away.

The signal tower man needed one more guess, however. The boys, who had stood far enough down the track to see what had happened, could have enlightened him if they had been so inclined, but they didn't feel under the obligation. When the train approached the goat had simply made a spring for the pilot, where he landed safely, nothing the worse for the jump, with the exception of a terrific knock on his forehead just below his horns. His forehead, however, is built for receiving hard jolts, and only a slight shake of the head betokened the fact that this blow was just a little bit "strong." The goat rode to Homewood, where it jumped off and, it is said, went to a stable which was its old home before it ventured toward the heart of the city. It is supposed that the goat simply decided to take the train as being the quickest means of reaching the old homestead, to which it wished to return. The tower man declines, however, to vouch for the latter part of the story of the goat's adventure.

"I tell you, I thought once I was going to be the witness of the most horrible explosion that ever blew out lives and mangled human bodies," said another old tower man. "It was during the hottest days of the old American Railway Union strike and all kinds of bad rumors were floating through the air. Once in a while some of us fellows who were doing night work in the switch towers would get a little bit nervous over the prospect of being blown up, of having our tower-houses fired or of being assaulted, bound and gagged while criminal hands grasped the switch levers and threw trains and passengers to destruction and death. So I suppose sometimes we were in a pretty feverish state. One night I had my head poked out of the window looking for a train that was due to pass my tower at about 2 o'clock in the morning. It was heavy freight, and sometimes came past a minute or two late. It was not quite time yet for the headlight to be in sight, and as I was peering into the darkness for it pictures of strikers overturning cars, tearing up tracks and so on danced through my mind. The headlight of the freight finally split open the darkness and afforded me a little relief. The engine passed, and but for the tiny caboose lights away at the end of the long train all was darkness outside again. I tried to penetrate the blackness and see more clearly the big black cars as they rolled along past me below the tower window.

"The train was rumbling along monotonously enough when suddenly there was a little flash of light from below. I involuntarily shut my eyes, expecting to be blown forty feet into the air the next second. But for some reason the explosion failed to come off, and I opened my eyes just as the caboose with its little green light was passing the tower. That flash of light worried me more than I cared to own even to myself, and I didn't rest until the train and its crew got back to Chicago again. I hastened to make guarded inquiries of the conductor and the brakeman as to all the happenings that transpired near Chicago that particular night. I found out that when the train reached Englewood the trainmen had caught a tramp comfortably stowed away between two cars smoking a pipe. That settled my scare, much to my disgust. The tramp had struck a match to light his pipe just as he was passing my tower window."

At the interlocking switch tower just out of the Northwestern station the switchmen and signal men say they are too busy to see anything but trains, switches, targets and semaphores. There are but two tracks in front of this tower, one for ingoing and one for outgoing trains, and over these two tracks must pass every one of the 250 trains which go in and out of the Northwestern station every day, making an average of one train in less than every six minutes for the entire day. Of course at night time there are comparatively few trains. In the busy hours of morning and night when the suburban trains are coming and going thick and fast there are times when several trains pass the tower and are piloted to the right tracks every few minutes. It is supposed that these two tracks are the busiest in Chicago, if not in the entire world. When a thick fog fills the atmosphere so that the switchmen cannot see where they have sent trains a unique device is brought into use. In a small glass case are eleven tiny red semaphores to correspond to the eleven tracks of the Northwestern's thirteen on which are sent most of the trains destined for no further a run than the Wells street station. By a mechanical device the arms of the toy semaphores are thrown up when the track is occupied, and when they are empty the arms fall.

By original signals the trainmen make known to the switchmen in the tower the track upon which they are to be thrown. Two of the tracks are lettered A and B and the others are numbered from one to nine. Placing the hands above the head in V shape means track A. Putting one hand on top of the head means track B. Tracks one, two and three are signified by placing the hands quickly together and then quickly removing them, one, two or three times. Four is signaled by placing the hand in the air and holding the thumb with the other hand. Five is signified by simply throwing one hand with the five fingers spread out into the air. The rest of the signals are made by combining these properly.—Chicago Chronicle.

To Start Conversation.

"The preliminary stages of conversation offer the principal difficulty—'the dread of silence makes us mute,'" writes Mrs. Burton Kingsland, in the Ladies' Home Journal. "The weather seems to have perennial interest. Why may not one treasure a few bits of stories apropos of that much-worn topic, to be brought out upon occasion? For instance, some one speaks of the variability of the weather, whereupon one might tell of the lady, whose physician advised for her change of climate 'Why, Doctor, you forget that I am a New York woman. I never have anything else!' was her rejoinder. At least, it is better than mere acquiescence, and when people have laughed together the ice is broken. It is possible to have at one's tongue's end some trifling things of interest on various subjects—but the supply needs frequent renewal. There are moments when the embarrassment of silence is relieved by the knowledge that nothing but the veriest commonplaces are expected. When a hostess has paired her guests before a dinner and each man seeks the lady assigned to him, he usually says, 'I believe that I am to have the pleasure of taking you in to dinner,' and she has but to bow and smile while accepting his arm, and may say in a voice of perfunctory politeness, 'I am very glad.' It is usually the man who takes the initiative and the woman who bears the burden of the conversation."

Home Feeling.

As Swiss love their mountains, so the Eskimos of Alaska love their bleak, desolate country. The supply of food is limited, and the natives are at times in danger of starving. As they number about five thousand, and could be stowed in half a dozen emigrant ships, it has been proposed to send them to a land in which it is fit for human beings to live.

The proposal overlooks the fact that the Eskimos think they are living in the most beautiful country in the world, and therefore would not go to another. Dr. Field, in his narrative of travel through "Our Western Archipelago," tells a pathetic story illustrative of their love of their native land.

Now and then one or two Eskimos are brought to the United States, but how downcast and miserable they look! Our climate is intolerable to them. They pant in the heat like polar bears, and long to get back to their more "temperate" zone. One who came here some years since was stricken with consumption and set out to return, and every morning his first question was, "Have you seen ice?" If he could only get a glimpse of an iceberg, he could die in peace.

A people who have such a home feeling are entitled to respect.

Charm of the Crimea.

In the late Charles A. Dana's "Eastern Journeys," there is a fine word picture expressive of the charm of the Crimea, and the delight it has in store for travelers, who are not too much in a hurry:

"Starting in the morning from Sebastopol, and driving with one or two changes of horses, we traversed the southern projection of the peninsula, and at about 2 oclock in the afternoon passed through the Gates of Baidar, as the passage through the Iaila Mountains is called, and looked down upon one of the noblest spectacles in the world. Immediately before us lay the boundless sea, the shore rocky and broken, with villages, churches, castles, and little seaports, all made accessible by the great road cut into the mountain side here and there, and then built out upon walls over some abyss or valley below, alone enough to make the name of Prince Michael Woronzoff forever memorable in all southeastern Russia. The vegetation of the mountain slopes toward the sea is wonderfully varied and interesting. The prevailing trees are oaks and beeches, with pinion pines, cypresses, myrtles, mulberry trees, and occasionally fig trees mingled among them.

Fish Eggs Hatched by Hens.

The hens of China lead busy lives. When not engaged in hatching out a brood of their own kind they are put to the additional and novel task of hatching fish eggs. Chinese cheap labor collects the spawn of fish from the water's edge, put it in an empty eggshell, which is then hermetically sealed with wax and placed under the unsuspecting and conscientious hen. In a few days the eggshell is removed and the spawn, which has been warmed into life, is emptied into a shallow pool. Here the fish that soon develop are nursed until strong enough to be turned into a lake or stream. Then the hen that hatched them may catch them if she can.

The Leisure Class.

Lord Sayvan-De Livrus—Ah! but your leisure class in this country have no titles.

Miss Sharpe—Nonsense! What's the matter with 'hobo,' 'Weary Willie,' 'Dusty Rhoads,' and so on?"—Philadelphia Press.

Excusing Railroad Conductors.

The Supreme Court of Michigan recently held that a conductor is not bound to give women and children assistance in alighting from the cars.

Every one should accumulate so much money that when he retires from active life he may hope to be heard of in connection with raising some new kind of mushroom or orchid.

Suspect not a friend's words, but rather his meaning.

TAKES NO CHANCES.

"Yes, sir, I don't take any chances with them pigs. Sunlight is hard on their eyes. Why, they tell me there's lots of blind ones in Chicago."—Chicago News.

RECORD OF THE WEEK

INDIANA INCIDENTS TERSELY TOLD.

Many Trolley Roads Are Planned, but None Are Built—A Tornado Strikes Marion—Frenzied Farmer Threatens Wife's Life—Drown in White River.

Of nearly 1,000 miles of electric railways connecting points in Northern Indiana, projected since last fall, not a mile has been built, notwithstanding capital is cheap and abundant. The most important line of all, and the one which more nearly approached success, is the Logansport, Rochester and Northern, from Logansport to Kendallville, 101 miles. It has been announced almost monthly since last winter that the funds were all provided for this road and that work would commence at once, and though the surveys were long ago completed not a shovel of earth has been turned and there is no probability that work will commence this year. Dozens of trolley schemes have been hatched in the last two years in the northern half of the State and some of them will materialize later, but promoters say that no roads will be built this year, owing to the unsettling influences of the election, and that it is doubtful whether they will be built next season, if iron prices are high. Most of the projectors of lines have franchises running five years and right-of-way options for a similar period so they can be revived later.

Tornado Hits Marion.

A tornado passed over the southern part of Marion and wrecked everything in its path. It covered only a narrow track, but the suction caused a great deal of damage far on each side of it. The residence of Raynard Floyde was wrecked and the family slightly injured. The residence and buildings of Francis T. Mills were wrecked and Mrs. Mills seriously injured. The State Normal College was unroofed and badly wrecked. The Methodist Church and Fifth ward school building were partly unroofed and the windows broken. The new amphitheater of the Marion Driving Association was wrecked and a half-mile of fence blown away.

Dinner Bell Stops Murder.

Ed Haines, aged 60, living in Waltz township, attempted to kill his wife and would perhaps have succeeded had he not been crippled with rheumatism so that he failed to overtake her. He became angry with the woman over a trivial matter and chased her about the premises with a knife. Her screams and the cries of the children were not heard, but she finally seized hold of the rope of the dinner bell and rang it so wildly that the neighbors rallied and suppressed the frenzied man.

Rescuer Gives Up His Life.

Miss Alma Osborne and Melville M. Wood, a school teacher, were drowned in White river southeast of Washington. They were with a party of campers. Miss Osborne, who had gone in wading, stepped into a sink hole and went under. Mr. Wood jumped into the water to rescue her, and in the struggle both were drowned.

Start Glass Factory Fires.

The fires were placed under the tanks of the American Window Glass Company's No. 3 factory at Hartford City, preparatory to a start Sept. 1. The order is a general one, and fires were started in all the tank factories belonging to this corporation, and thousands of workmen will return to work.

State News in Brief.

John Tolle, 15, living near Windfall, struck in the eye by foul ball and may die.

Bob Mansfield, consul to Zanzibar, is at his home in Marion, on leave of absence.

New Albany council granted the street railway company a 30-year franchise. City gets $200 a year.

Joseph A. Wollaw, living near Owensburg, found $250 that he had placed among tax receipts, years ago, and forgotten.

Charley Loss, a Swiss bell ringer, was probably fatally stabbed by Dr. Masters while giving an entertainment at Stilesville.

Cattle in the northern part of the State are afflicted with specific apthalma, one of the most contagious diseases stock raisers have to deal with.

Seven-months-old son of Earl R. Churchill, Rushville, fell from his bed, catching his head between the side rail and guard and choked to death.

Elkhart railroad man nearly swallowed a large, decayed tooth, but it stuck in his throat for several days, causing no end of worry for him and the physicians.

Little Tommie Scott, Greenfield, tumbled into a rainbarrel head first, but managed to turn over, and when his parents found him, he was standing neck deep in water.

Ella Sage, 16 and Roy Gordon, 17 years old, eloped from Elkhart and are believed to be in Chicago. The youngsters had been lovers for over a year, but gave no sign of their intent to wed.

Fires will be started in the three window-glass factories in Muncie of the American Window Glass Company preparatory to the early resumption in September. The Yorktown and Matthews plants will also be started earlier than usual.

Logansport police were startled when Mary Albright, a 14-year-old girl, appeared at headquarters and said that while berry-picking she found the body of a lad, probably 9 years old, in a field. She told two men who were near and they took the body and placed it in their buggy and drove away toward the country. The officers believe that a murder has been committed.

Rev. Samuel L. Hamilton died in Buffalo, N. Y., and was buried at Lebanon. He was Lebanon's first mayor.

Luther Phillippi, Bicknell, wants $50,000 damages from Morten Ruble who stabbed him in a dispute over an oats crop.

McMurty & Butler, commission merchants, estimate that 1,333 gallons of berries were consumed at Rockville in two weeks.

The Goshen milling company ground 740,000 bushels of wheat last year, more than 300,000 bushels being purchased from farmers nearby.

Miss Amanda Vierheller, formerly of Hobart, is causing a sensation in Berlin theatrical circles by her soprano voice.

Voorhees McCullough and James Stigler, farmers, Asherville, fought over the hauling of gravel, and McCullough was shot and may die.

While working on the Evansville and Terre Haute Railway bridge across the Patoka River at Patoka, Joseph Duncan, aged 18 years, fell off and was instantly killed.

While passing through the public square of Shelbyville William Henry attempted to adjust a saw log on his wagon, the log falling off and crushing his body in sight of several hundred people.

AUBURN WEEKLY COURIER.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, postoffice as second-class matter.

THURSDAY.....AUGUST 23, 1900.

Why Not American Teachers.

Last week five U. S. transports brought over to our shores, 1380 Cuban teachers free of charge and will take them back free. While here six weeks they will be guests of Harvard University which will give them free rooms and board and free tuition, a subscription having been raised for the purpose. They will have free boat rides, railway excursions, trolley parties, lectures and a free trip to the city of Washington. All this is very nice for the Cuban teachers, but what have they ever done to deserve all this? Are there not thousands and thousands of American teachers who would be delighted and benefited by half as much? What right has our government to use the public money to bring five of its ships home and back for such a purpose? If it has the right to do this why has it never been done for our own over-worked, poorly paid and kept at home teachers? If any one has an explanation, these columns are open.

The Great Bob Hanna.

All the Hannas can't run things like Mark Hanna. Republican papers all over the district are doing the silliest we ever knew them to do. They are claiming that Bob Hanna, their candidate for congress, established the free mail rural delivery routes. Every man along these routes knows they were established and runnning long before Bob was even a candidate. Bob Hanna had about as much to do with our mail routes as Li Hung Chang or Oom Paul Kruger, and will have about as much to do with them in the future. They were all established under the congressional term of J. M. Robinson, during his five years of service, and would have established more, but further money was refused by the McKinley-Hanna administration, although they keep telling us the surplus cash on hand is several millions.

Political Pointers.

Republican prosperity everywhere.

Where there was not a cricket two years ago, now there are millions. They stopped a train up in Michigan last week. You can't walk without stepping on them. They never prospered so under any previous administration.

What an abundant crop of oats McKinley has sent us, and of corn, and of wheat. All done by McKinley and the gold standard.

Why don't the republicans send out circulars giving the amount of silver dollars, this administration has made and palmed off on the people. Every dollar of these millions is a 16 to 1 dollar. And yet they will tell us a 16 to 1 dollar is a 50-cent dollar. They know better. But if they can scare the ignorant, they can get their votes. That's all there is in the 50-cent dollar trick.

Democratic Meeting.

The first democratic meeting of the campaign in the Twelfth district will held in Auburn Thursday evening, August 30, when Hon. Frank B. Burke, who set the democratic convention at Indianapolis wild with enthusiasm, will speak.

Mr. Burke is the candidate for congress in the Indianapolis district, ranks as one of the best orators in the country, and all who believe in upholding a republican form of government as against an empire should hear him.—COMMITTEE.

Joint Convention.

The democratic voters of DeKalb and Steuben counties and all others who desire to affiliate with them are hereby called to meet in joint convention in the opera house at Waterloo on Wednesday, September 5, 1900, at 1 o'clock, p. m., to nominate a joint senator and a prosecutor for said counties.

In said covention the counties will be entitled to the same number of votes as in the congressional convention.

CYRUS C. WALTER,
Chairman DeKalb Co.
GEO. W. YOUNG,
Chairman Steuben Co.

Sentinels All Right.

Several subscribers seem to think the year has expired on the Indianapolis State Sentinel. This is a mistake. The year will not expire till Nov. 15, and the paper is paid up to that date. All subscribers to the Weekly COURIER in DeKalb County have it paid up till the date named. After that you can stop or continue, as you choose. If you continue, you will be expected to pay at an agreed price, which will be low.

Richland Caucus.

The democrats of Richland township will meet at the school house in Corunna on Saturday, August 25, 1900, at one o'clock p. m., for the purpose of nominating candidates for the different township officers. A full attendance is desired.

LEVI HEWITT
A. E. FOLTZ } Com.

From China.

There is now a report that we entered Pekin the evening of August 14 instead of the 15th as first reported. The date however, is not important and will be settled in a day or two. It appears that when the allies reached the city in the morning, the Chinese refused them peaceful entry, and then the fighting began. By evening, the Russians and Japanese blew up the east gate and the British and Americans forced an enterance at the south gate and at once all marched to the interior of the city where the foreigners were barricaded.

It now is believed that the dowager empress, who is the real head of the government, did not leave the city but is held there by the better element of the Chinese. She is in what is called the 'inner city," which has walls of its own

Why we shell the inner city, no one seems to know. It looks like an unwise thing.

Pekin is in two principal parts, the south part or Chinese City, and north part or Tartar City. A wall sixty feet high and forty to sixty feet thick surrounds them. Inside, there is a lighter wall between the two cities, and inside the Tartar city is a smaller one, called the Imperial City, and inside that a small one called the Forbidden City in which reside the royal families. The British legation in which the foreigners defended themselves is in the south part of the Tartar City, near the Chinese City. It might be added that the reigning royal family is Tartar and has been for many years, and the most of the leading government official are Tartars although the great bulk of the people of the nation is of pure Chinese.

An Adventure.

Three smart young men and three nice girls
All lovers true as steel—
Decided in friendly way,
To spend the day a-wheel.
They started in the early mourn,
And nothing seemed amiss;
And when they reached the leafy lanes
They in like
Rode twos this!
They wandered by the verdant dale,
Beside the rippling rill;
The sun shone brightly all the while;
They heard the song bird's trill.
They sped through many a woodland glade,
And when they rested in the shade
Theysat intwos likethis;
The sun went down and evening came,
A lot too soon, they said:
Too long they tarried on the way,
The clouds grew black o'erhead.
Down dashed the rain; they homeward flew
Till one unlucky miss
Slipped sidewise—Crash! Great Scott!
Weareallmixeduplikethis!

County Estimates.

Estimates for the supplies and funds needed for the county for the year 1901 to be presented before the County Council at their regular meeting, September 4, 1900, have been filed in my office, as follows:

Auditor's office, including assessors' books and supplies.	$ 4,037 00
Plat books	500 00
Clerk's office	3,655 00
Court expenses	6,811 00
Insanity inquests	780 00
Treasurer's office	2,326 50
Recorder's office	1,606 00
Sheriff's office	2,375 50
Surveyor's office	1,621 00
County Superintendent	1,397 50
Truant officer	390 00
County Commissioners	24,229 99

Witness my hand this 20th day of August, 1900.

FRANK P. SEILER, Auditor.

OBITUARY.

Pauline M. Stonebreaker was born December 6, 1899, and died August 12, 1900, aged 8 months and 6 days. Although permitted to stay with us but a few short months, little Pauline had, by her loving smiles won a place in our hearts, yet we bow in humble submission to God's will, believing that little Pauline has only been transplanted from this world of sin and sorrow to a world of joy and happiness. May the blessing of God rest upon all of the surviving relatives and may they put their trust in Him that one day they may meet little Pauline to enjoy her loving smiles forever and forever. Funeral services were held at the U. B. church at Corunna on Tuesday, August 14, Rev. A. E. Gaff officiating.

A Statement.

In view of the fact that statements have been made reflecting upon Sheriff Hathaway in connection with the attempted recovery of the horses stolen from Fremont Smith, the following statement is published in justice to Mr. Hathaway:

AUBURN, Ind., Aug 20, 1900.

I, Fremont Smith, hereby state that John H. Hathaway, Sheriff of DeKalb county, did everything in his power to recover my team, paid his own expenses and made no charges for the work done. I make this statement freely and voluntarily.—F. D. SMITH.

SCROFULA

thin blood, weak lungs and paleness. You have them in hot weather as well as in cold. SCOTT'S EMULSION cures them in summer as in winter. It is creamy looking and pleasant tasting.

50c. and $1.00; all druggists.

IN MEMORIAM.

A Tribute to One of Auburn's Best-Known Citizens.

John Leonard Davis was born at Black Rock, now within the present limits of the city of Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 3d, 1834, where he resided with his parents until nineteen years of age. In the spring of 1853 he came to Wabash, Indiana, and began at the tinner's trade, working in the hardware store of his elder brothers, Wm Kirby and Lewis B. Davis.

In the autumn of 1854, he returned to Buffalo, N. Y., and spent the following two years amid the surroundings of his boyhood days.

On Dec. 1st, 1856, he was married to Louisa Havenstein, also a native of Erie county, N. Y.

To this union have been born two sons and two daughters, only one of whom, Edna, who with a devoted mother, survives to mourn the death of an indulgent father.

The first six years of his married life were spent upon a farm in his native county not far remote from Buffalo. This six-year attempt at getting ahead in the world, by one wholly unacquainted with agricultural pursuits and having no "burning desire" to become "a tiller of the soil," has often been made the subject, by himself, of much grotesque good humor, or as he has been wont to say, it was "the standing joke of his life."

On October 16, 1862, he located in Auburn, Indiana, and became an employe of his brother, Joseph D. Davis, as clerk and general utility man in the Pioneer Hardware store, established by his brother Joseph in 1852.

Upon the death of his brother Joseph, in April, 1865, he became his successor in the hardware business, and for 35 years his genial and affable manner has ever increased the popularity of the Pioneer Hardware store of Auburn, Indiana.

In the season of 1868 he built on the corner of Main and Eighth streets what is known as the Davis block, which now stands, and we trust will stand for many years, as a monument to his executive ability.

In 1868 and 1869 he took an active part in securing for Auburn its first railroad facilities, the construction of the Fort Wayne, Jackson and Saginaw railroad, an event which seems to have settled the hitherto vexatious question of the location of the county seat of DeKalb County.

In 1873 or 74 he again took an active part, giving freely of his time and money, to secure for Auburn the great additional improvements made by the construction of the Detroit, Eel River and Illinois and the Baltimore and Ohio railroads.

The transformation of the "Stage Coach Town" of 600 souls to a thriving city of 3500 populations With excellent Rail Road facilities and public utilities is a sufficient reward for the dead and zealous co-workers. The living owe to them a debt of gratitude. For with frugal hands they sowed the seeds of prosperity that we who follow after them—

May gather as our own
The golden harvests, which
The dead had sown.

During the decade that followed 1875 he became interested in the prosperity of our neighboring city of Garrett, buying real estate and building two commodious business rooms, one of which he occupied with a hardware store and bank, conducting a bank and hardware store at the same time at Auburn.

In 1886 he was elected to the office of county treasurer and filled that responsiable position with rare ability for three years and a half; turning over to his successor in cash every penny due the county.

To every improvement calculated to benefit the community, he stood ready to assist with willing hands and open purse. To attempt an enumeration of his benefactions to the public would require many hours.

Sufficient for this day, to say, that he will live in memory and by tradition as long as a just public deals generously with the dead.

Such a citizen has little need of a marble monument to perpetuate his memory or commemorate his good deeds.

In the panic from 1890 to '93 he suffered in common with many other men whose previous success and unflagging energy had caused them to expand their business ventures beyond a safe limit in time of financial distress. But thrice happy are his many friends, that his life was spared to see the sifting of the clouds of business gloom—the dawn of the new century bringing for him and others the glorious financial sunshine of former days.

His first serious illness began about christmas 1899 and lasted until April 6th, 1900—during which time his condition was the subject of deep solicitude among his many friends. From April 6th to July 23rd he was able to spend a part of the time at his store. July 24th began his final sickness which lasted until August 14th at 11 P. M. when—

Thank Heaven, his lingering illness
Was broken at last
And this Fever called living
Forever had passed.

In politics he was always a Republican, casting his first vote Nov. 4th, 1856 for the "Pathfinder" John C. Fremont, and his last vote as he believed for the "Prosperity" finder William McKinley.

In religion, he was like many business men, more practical than theoretical. He seemed to believe that if kindness, sympathy, generosity and unalloyed friendship would soothe the pathway of human life that they would certainly soothe the pathway of the soul to the haven of eternal rest.

He was as gentle and affectionate as a child, studiously avoiding the infliction of pain upon another. During his long sickness, not wishing to excite alarm among his friends, he had but one answer to their daily questions as to his condition, that answer was "I am better now." Perhaps that answer was prompted by the intuitive knowledge of his soul, and though he has passed within the silent tent whose curtain never outward swings, let us hope that he is "better now."

In his domestic relations he was quiet, kind, forbearing, loving and generous, always providing for his family the best within his means, The environs of his home speak more eloquently than any words of the care he bestowed in providing for his own.

One trait of character which endeared him to so large a circle of friends was his congenial nature. Age did not diminish it, for it wore a glow as ardent at sixty as at twenty, The poet must have had such a nature in mind when he wrote

Gray temples at twenty,
Yes white if you please,
Where the snowflakes fall thickest
It scarcely will freeze.

Another trait of character which bound him with links of love to a large circle of friends was his unswerving fealty to friendship. This trait was a burning flame, to which his friends might come and gather the glowing embers with which to rekindle the famished fires of devotion to friendship upon the alter of their own hearts.

Friends and fraters, that glowing flame has been extinguished, and no hand may relight it save the hand of the great Master of us all.

These traits of character would naturally lead him to seek membership in the great fraternal orders, endear him to his brethren and cause them to follow, with sorrowing hearts, his funeral cortage to the silent city of the dead.

Such a nature could not be limited by orders or creeds, and for this reason the members of so many orders and creeds are gathered here today to pay the last tribute of respect to the memory of a man whose lodge and church was the world and "to do good" his religion.

Father, Friend, Frater, we bid you not a long last farwell
"That would fill our hearts with Sorrow,
"For in a bright clime we will meet again
"And we will greet you there good morrow."

His funeral was largely attended by his friends and acquaintances not only of the city of his home but from neighboring towns and cities of this part of the state, but also from Detroit, Mich., Toledo, Findlay and other cities. The Scottish ceremonies were rendered by Sir Knight Wm. Geake, of Ft. Wayne, in an eloquent manner. The music was very appropriate and finely rendered by Mrs. Shull, Miss Trover, Dr. Baxter and Mr. Miller as a quartett with Mrs. Garwood pianist. Rev. J. D. Brosy, pastor of the Evangelical Lutheran Church preached the sermon in an eloquent manner, following his sermon with a very fine tribute to the deceased.

The funeral closed at the grave by the beatiful Knight Templars' burial ceremonies by Apollo Commandery No. 19, K. T., Kendallville, Ind., of which the deceased was a member, there were 38 swords in line which with DeKalb Lodge No. 214, F. and A. M. and Wm. Hacker Chapter, No. 63, R. A. M., preceeded the Knights Templar; the Elk Lodge, No. of Ft. Wayne at the post of honor with the citizens on foot and in carriages, and the suspension of all business in the city, showed the respect and esteem the deceased was held in the community in which he lived.

The expressions of love, sympathy and esteem in which the deceased was held was expressed by many very fine flowers not only in set pieces of the orders of which he was a member but also choice cut flowers from immediate friends of the deceased and the family as well.

The family and immediate relatives desire to express their appreciation and their sincere thanks to all for the many kindnesses and favors extended to them and sympathies expressed in this time of sorrow and berevement.

HERB is a medical lecture in a nutshell. The Kidneys drain water and impurities from the blood. The Liver makes bile and helps to drive off other waste. If these organs work badly the body becomes a cesspool and disease sets in. You must get them into healthy action or die.

Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver & Kidney Balm

is an old and unsurpassed remedy for Backache, Debility, Sleeplessness, Lost Appetite, Foul Tongue, Palpitations and all other symptoms of disease in those organs. It cures as well as prevents every serious trouble in Kidney, Liver or Bladder. At druggists, $1.00 per bottle.
THE DR. J. H. MCLEAN MEDICINE CO. ST. LOUIS, MO.
For sale by F. E. Davenport.

IT STANDS TO REASON

No. 669.—Cut-under Surrey; has long distance axles, brass bushed rubber head springs, broad cloth trimmings, lamps, curtains, sun-shade, pole or shafts; same as retails for $25 to $35 more than our price. Our price, $116.

that there is money saved in buying direct from the Manufacturer

The profits between the manufacturer and consumer are large.

We Save You these Profits

No. 81.—Pneumatic Wagon with No. 1 two inch Pneumatic Tires; 34 and 36-in. wheels, full ball-bearing axles, Bailey body loops and shaft couplers, fine Whipcord trimmings and high grade finish; is as fine as retails for $75 more than our price. Our price, complete with high bend shafts, $115

We are the largest manufacturers of Vehicles and Harness in the world selling to the consumer exclusively. For 27 years we have conducted business on this plan. We give you better quality for the same money, or the same quality for less money than the dealer, jobber or supply agent.

No. 707.—Extension Top Surrey with double fenders, lamps, curtains, storm apron, pole or shafts; is as fine as retails for $30 more than our price. Our price, $90.

We Ship Anywhere For Examination.

We make 178 styles of vehicles and 65 styles of harness.

This advertisement will appear only a few times—you may be reading the last insertion.

Our Large Catalogue

shows every Vehicle and Harness we make and gives prices.

IT'S FREE.

No. 897.—Fancy Dogcart with figured plush trimmings. Is complete in every way and as fine as retails for $35 more than our price. Our price, with shafts, $55.

Elkhart Carriage and Harness Manufacturing Co.
ELKHART, INDIANA.

Fine Old Battalion.

The finest battalion meeting we have attended was that held here today. The attendance was good, about 200 veterans being present, representing every post in the county. There were many of the W. R. C. but numbers of them were kept at home for fear of rain.

The meeting was held at the band stand and was called to order by the colonel, O. H. Widney. There was prayer by Rev. J. N. Wilson, followed by the report of Adjutant Waterman and that by Quartermaster Geo. N. Sparks. A committee of two from each Post was then appointed to select a place for next year's meeting and also to suggest names for next year's officers. The committee are: G. W. Gordon and Joseph Rainler of Auburn; J. J. Lightner and J. C. Brand of Waterloo; A. G. Jones and Gabriel Miller of Butler; David Andrews and John Y. Davis of St. Joe; R. A. Cox and G. W. Crossley of Ashley; E. W. Miner and Caleb Branch of Garrett.

After these retired speeches were called for and responded to by John Provines of the 30th, by Capt. Griffith, Mr. Hirsh and Mr. Fuller of the 44th; Gen. Blair of the 88th; Judge Hartman of the 100th and perhaps others. The speeches were all bright and witty and served to call up many memories of "the days that tried men's souls."

In the afternoon the first was the welcome address by Mayor Garwood, and response by Chaplain Wilson, both fine productions. Then came the address of Rev. Musson of Ligonier, one of the finest specimen's of eloquence we ever listened to. This was followed by an able address by T. M. Eells of Albion.

The committee reported St. Joe as the place for next year's meeting. The officers next year are: O. H. Widney, Colonel; E. W. Miner, Lieut. Colonel; A. G. Jones, Major; G. W. Gordon, adjutant; G. W. Sparks, quartermaster; W. O. Butler, chaplain.

It is probably one of the most successful and satisfactory meetings the battalion has ever had.

FAIRFIELD CENTER.

Alice Barkey visited in the place over Sunday.

Simon Burkhart moved into John Shipes' house Monday.

W. H. Crane and wife were the guests of David Shooks Sunday.

H. G. Bower is attending the institute at Auburn this week.

The communion service held here Sunday was well attended.

Chas. Martin has been painting for Philip Gushwa the past week.

Clarence Hovarter has been building fence through here the past week.

Frank McNabb visited with the family of Fred Dellebaugh on Sunday.

Wm. Echert and family were the guests of Joseph Huett and family Sunday.

During the electrical storm Saturday morning a sheep barn belonging to Mrs. Ernest was burned to the ground.

A Frightful Blunder

Will often cause a horrible Burn, Scald, Cut or Bruise. Bucklen's Arnica Salve, the best in the world, will kill the pain and promptly heal it. Cures Old Sores, Fever Sores, Ulcers, Boils, Felons, Corns, all Skin Eruptions. Best Pile Cure on earth. Only 25 cts. a box. Cure guaranteed. Sold by H. B. McCord, the Druggist.

Attention Farmers.

The Auburn Handle Factory will pay the highest cash price for ash handle block delivered at their factory on the Lake Shore tracks, cut 58 inches long. Also want ash logs cut 9½, 14½ and 19½ feet long. All timber to be smooth and sound. Will also take basswood cut 4 feet long and 8 inches in diameter and up, left round with bark on. Will pay $3 per cord.—J. M. CHERRY & Co.

CASTORIA.

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

Real Estate!

Partial List of Real Estate For Sale by Moody & Rickel, Auburn, Ind.

NO. 52. A large brick house, 2 lots, cistern, well, fruit and shade trees; will sell for ½ its value, $200 cash; balance on long time, ten years if necessary; low interest. This is a snap for someone who wants a good home.

NO. 55. A 6-room residence, wood house, cistern, well, cellar under the whole house, good chicken house, good fruit and shade trees, on Ensley's Ave. This will make a nice home—easy terms.

NO. 54. 64 acres of land, good buildings, 2½ miles from Auburn on gravel road; orchard, well, cistern, black and clay loam, all tiled; barn 45x56, L 24x36. This farm can be had at a bargain, part cash, balance on long time.

NO. 57. 0-acre farm 5½ miles from Auburn, ¼ mile from Ry. station P. O., good 7-room house; barn 32x54 with L 14x44, wind-pump, hog pen, chicken house, out-cellar, good orchard. 45 acres cleared, cleared, ditched and tiled; balance good timber; was offered $1,000 for all timber over 18 inches 4 years ago when timber was low in price. Will sell this farm cheap on easy terms if taken soon.

No. 65. 8½ acres land 3 miles south of Butler, 3 acres timber, balance clear. Good land. Will sell at Bargain. Small payment down, balance on time.

No. 60—Residence, 10 rooms, in good town, well, cistern, fruit and shade trees, 4 lots; also 3 extra lots will trade for farm and pay difference. This is a good chance for some farmer who wants to quit farming and move to town.

No. 58—40 acre farm, 10 acres fine timber worth $400, good house, cost $1500; fine barn 36x60, good orchard, good cellar, good fences, soil the best, cleared land all tiled, 1-4 mile from school, 3 miles from good town.

No. 63. Brick residence; 8 rooms, two lots on 7th street, Auburn. Will sell on easy terms at a bargain.

No. 64. For rent, 240 acre of good, improved land, want first-class renter, to which will make desirable terms.

No . 80-acre farm 2½ miles from Auburn, large house, good barn and other buildings, 65 acres clear, under splendid cultivation, balance fair timber; good fence, good soil, good orchard, well, cistern, etc. 15,000 tile on this place. Will sell on easy payments, near school, good road to Auburn and Waterloo.

No. 69. A fine 80 acre farm, 8 acres timber, 5½ miles from Auburn, ¼ mile from Ry station, postoffice, store, school and church. Land all tiled and drained, well fenced. House, rooms, large summer kitchen and wood house; 2 large barns, splendid new grainery, wagon shed and corn crib and other buildings; cistern and well; cellar cemented, nice fruit. This is as fine a farm as can be found in the country. Can be had at reasonable price, part cash, balance long time.

No. 70. 80 acre farm 2½ miles from Auburn, good house and barn, good fences, land all tiled, in splendid cultivation—at a bargain.

No. 71. Nicest building lot in Auburn at a bargain.

No. 72 A bargain, the best paying dry goods and grocery business in the county, together with the store room and a fine residence. Want to trade for a good farm. Will give or take the difference, or will sell the buildings and stock separate. Want a well improved farm; will trade right.

This is a partial list of property we have for sale, any of which can be had at a bargain. If you have property you wish to sell or trade, call and see us. We also have money on long or short time, with privilege of partial payments each year, collect rents, buy and sell notes. Call and see us if you need anything in our line. Office Cor. Main & 7th streets, Auburn, Ind.

MOODY & RICKEL.

Walk, Ala., Feb. 4, 1899.

I am doing well with Dr. J. H. McLean's medicines. I gave the Strengthening Cordial to a child of mine and the cure was complete. I would not be without it at any cost. J. A. Mundy. For sale by H. B. McCord.

Only too glad to show you the line.

A large line of

Bicycle Sundries

Always carried in stock at Low Prices.

Bicycle repairing promptly attended to.

M. B. WILLIS, Jr.,
"The Rambler Man"
Huelsenbeck Building.

Up-To-Date

Hand Made
Buggy
Surrey or Heavy
Harness

Lap Dusters!
Neat Patterns in all grades from the Cheapest to the Best.

Fly Nets!
Cotton and Leather Fly Nets, Stable Sheets and Covers at Bottom Prices.

Don't forget that we have Garden, Field and Lawn Grass Seed in bulk at very low prices.

Eberle & Freygang
Auburn, Ind.

William's Kidney Pills

Has no equal in diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs. Have you neglected your Kidneys? Have you overworked your nervous system and caused trouble with your Kidneys and Bladder? Have you pains in the loins, side, back, groins and bladder? Have you a flabby appearance of the face, especially under the eyes? Too frequent desire pass urine? William's Kidney Pills will impart new life to the diseased organs, tone up the system and make a new man of you. By mail 50 cents per box.
WILLIAMS MFG. CO., Props., Cleveland, O.

Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

EARLY FALL BUYERS

Perhaps you are thinking of taking a journey. You need something new in wearing apparel. You think it is getting late to buy light weight goods. We agree with you. You think you want the new Fall Styles. Certainly you do and we are here to help you out. We have just received an immense lot of

New Fall Clothing
Dress Goods, Cloaks and Underwear

We ordered these goods early to accomodate those who wish to purchase early. Are you one of them? We invite you to call.

SCHAAB & BRO.
Auburn, Ind.

THE AUBURN LUMBER CO.
—Carry a Full line of—

Casings, Base Blocks for Inside Finish, Veranda Columns, Spindels, Tracery and Brackets for Veranda or Porch work.....

HOLLOW FOUNDATION BLOCKS,
Bulk Lime, Portland Cement,

And are always headquarters for Shingles, all the best grades cut from green timber.

The Auburn Lumber Co.
Auburn, Indiana.

Remember the Place.....Near Wabash Depot.

There is Money in Junk

for you if you save it for H. Greenburg who

PAYS BEST CASH PRICES

for rags, rubber, copper, brass, zinc, lead, scrap iron and all kinds of hides and furs. Also buys and sells second-hand material stoves and furnaces, etc. Persons having second-hand material to buy or sell it will be to their interest to see

H. GREENBURG,
North VanBuren St.,

Auburn, Indiana.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
Cleanses and beautifies the hair. Promotes a luxuriant growth. Never Fails to Restore Gray Hair to its Youthful Color. Prevents Dandruff and hair falling. 50c. and $1.00 at Druggists.

Cold Steel Or Death.

"There is but one small chance to save your life and that is through an operation," was the awful prospect set before Mrs. I. B. Hunt, of Lime Ridge, Wis., by her doctor after vainly trying to cure her of a frightful case of stomach trouble and yellow jaundice. He didn't count on the marvellous power of Electric Bitters to cure Stomach and Liver trouble, but she heard of it, took seven bottles, was wholy cured, avoided surgeon's knife, now weighs more and feel better than ever. It's positively guarnteed to cure Stomach, Liver and Kidney troubles and never disappoints. Price 50c at McCord's drug store.

—"If anybody asks you how I'm feeling these warm days," said Indiana's growing corn—the most amazing maize—"just tell them in the language of the late Major McClusky, I'm 'leven ears to every hill, and feeling pretty husky."

A Monster Devil Fish.

Destroying its victim, is a type of Constipation. The power of this murderous malady is felt on organs and nerve and muscles and brain. There's no health till it's overcome. But Dr. King's New Life Pills are a safe and certain cure. Best in the world for Stomach, Liver, Kidneys and Bowels. Only 25c at McCord's Drug Store.

Monday's Daily.

—Have you seen Mrs. Austin's new dress?

—Mike Kiplinger came down from Waterloo today.

—Don't forget Had's restaurant for a good lunch or meal.

—ATTENTION FARMERS:—For wheat special fertilizers see J. Y. W. McClellan. 34

—Trustee Kelham of Keyser was the first trustee on hand at the institute today.

—Jerry Carmer has returned form his trip to Niagara Falls. Also George Bishop and Frank Depew.

—T. C. Elson is here from Berlen Springs, Mich., for a visit with his daughter, Mrs. Simps Johnson.

—The Auburn Lumber Co. have just unloaded another car of the famous Washington red Cedar shingles. a25

—Wesley Johnson of this place and James Wallace of Moores are among the latest new names on our Weekly list.

—Shingles! shingles!! shingles!!! The place to buy shingles is of the Auburn Lumber Co. near the Wabash depot. a25

—Meals furnished for parties, lodges socials, etc., from 25 cents a plate to as high as you want to go, at Had's restaurant.

—The Askew property north of Lutheran church for asle at a bargain. For particulars address Phil Plum, Waterloo, Ind. tf —William F. Christlieb and Miss Florence E. Burke, both of Noble county, were united in marriage recently by Rev. Henry Steckley.

—Before you buy lath see the fine stock of the Saginaw product at the lumber yard of A. Lewis & Co. They have reason to think they have about the best there is in the market. altf

—WANTED:—A farm in DeKalb Co. Must be a bargain. Party will pay from $2,000 to $3,000 cash and assume some indebtedness if necessary. Enquire of Webster & Wartenbe, Butler, Ind. 36

—We want you to use Putnam Fadeless Dyes because they color more goods, make faster and brighter colors and cost you more than others. 10c per package. Sold by F. E. Davenport.

—Both the candidates for surveyor, Mr. Hamman and Mr. Thrush, are in attendance at teachers' institute. In case of defeat either can get a job teaching, both having the ability and education.

—Have you seen Mrs. Austin's new dress?

—Among the teachers who came down on the forenoon train were Maud Myers of Summit, Florence Kittredge and Almeda Oster of Hamilton, and M. Belle Cooper and Blanche Goodrich of Ashley.

—WANTED:—About 25 or 30 cords of good body wood, 18 or 20 inches long, either beech, hard maple or hickory. No dosy or sour wood will be accepted, but must be cut from green timber.—J. C. HENRY.

—Unclaimed letters remaining in the postoffice. week ending August, 18, 1900, Mrs. James McThurly, G. H. Barney, K. Zimmerman. Claimants will please call for letters in advertised list. G. H. FORKNER, Postmaster.

—Col. A. A. Powell, the tallest traveling salesman on the road, is here on his semi-annual trip. He still represents Church & Co., manufacturers of the Arm and Hammer brand of soda, and is as good-natured as he is tall.

—William Sheffer drove to Fort Wayne yesterday to visit his wife who was operated upon for hernia by Dr. Porter at Hope hospital a few days ago. She is doing nicely but will be compelled to remain at the hospital for some time.

—Herman Brown's friends have been wondering at his strange actions today, but they will know the reason when they learn that himself and wife are the happy parents of a fine son, born this morning. All are doing well, including Mr. Brown.

—Low rates to Southern Michigan Conference and Camp Meeting at Montgomery, Mich., August 24 to Sept. 2nd. The Lake Shore will sell tickets Aug. 24th and 25th to Montgomery, good returning until Sept. 3. $1.40 for round trip.

—Mrs. Judge McClellan started yesterday for an extensive trip over Ohio and farther east, as she has an extensive aquaintance, including old time friends and relatives. A part of the time will be devoted to a visit with her broteer, S. E. Long, at Richmond, Va.

—"I am a switchman," writes A. J. Jennesse, of 9201 Butler St., Chicago, "and am out in all kinds of weather. I took a cold which settled in my kidneys and was in very bad shape. I tried several advertised medicines with no benefit until I was recommended to take Foley's Kidney Cure. Two-thirds of a bottle cured me." H. B. McCord.

—Ida Smith of the COURIER office and her mother go to Ohio this week where a reunion of the Fetterhoff family and their connections will be held at Nova on Thursday. Quite a number of Steuben and DeKalb folks will attend. Miss Smith also takes her summer vacation now and the COURIER folks hope it may be a pleasant one.

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

—Have you seen Mrs. Austin's new dress?

Tuesday's Daily.

—Have you seen Mrs. Austin's new dress?

—Try the salted peanuts at Had's. Fresh all the time.

—Mrs. Joe Brown at Waterloo is lying at the point of death.

—Don't forget the place when in Auburn. It's Had's restaurant.

—The Indiana fruit display at the Paris exposition carried off second premium.

—W. G. Proyines is home for a few days. He is attending the University of Chicago.

—Buy shingles cut from green timber of the Auburn Lumber Co. near Wabash depot. a25

—The place to get your money's worth in the way of a good meal is at Had's restaurant.

—Excursions to Chicago, Aug. 25, 26, 27, 28 and 29 at one cent per mile each way over Lake Shore Ry. a23

—Buy a Low-Down Deering Corn Binder, a practical machine in the field.—W. H. Zigler, Agent. 36

—The Shamrocks will be here next Saturday for another game with the Auburn Reds, It will be a fine game.

—Mrs. Amos Fitch and two daughters of Butler township are visiting Dr. Fitch and family and other friends in Auburn.

—Mr. and Mrs. Newton Henderson and little Walter came up from Leo today, and were guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Ford.

—FOR RENT:—To parties without children, the first floor front rooms of Mrs. Ward's building, just north of COURIER office.

—Lake Shore Ry. sells tickets to Chicago and return at one cent per mile each way, Aug. 25, 26, 27, 28 and 29. Particulars from agents. a23

—The preparations for the Indiana state fair, which is to be held this year from Sept. 18th to 22nd, have nearly all been completed as far as possible.

FOUND:—East of Waterloo, near the Kelley farm, hat which owner can have by calling on Frank Trowbridge, Auburn, proving property and paying for this notice.

—The Sunday school of Salem Reformed church will hold a picnic at Collingwood next Saturday, August 25 Everybody is invited to join the school for the day's outing.

—PARTNER WANTED:—In an established business with capital of $800 to $1,000. Meat man preferred. Big profits guaranteed. Address E. Klinknecht, Box 586, Auburn. a16

—The Church of God Sunday school picnic will be held in the grove near the Morningstar bridge northeast of town, on Saturday, August 25. Let all take notice and be present if possible.

—Mrs. Lillie Eby, Nappanee, died in convulsions as the result of being frightened by a joke. A large doll dressed in her baby's clothes, with its eyes closed as though dead, was handed to her.

—David Shook of Corunna came down on his wheel this morning to attend the institute. He found hard traveling. We might mention that all the Shook boys, five of them, were or will be, teachers.

—The opening attraction at Henry's opera house next Saturday is a new three-act farce entitled "Whose Baby are You?" written by Mark E. Swan. It is considered one of the funniest farces on the boards this season.

—For large or small farms to buy or exchange; for residence properties or vacant lots, desirably located—we have the best and cheapest on our list. Call in and look it over. da4wal6
SPROTT & KNAPP

—The lack of energy you feel, the backache and a run down condition generally, all mean kidney disorder. Foley's Kidney Cure will restore your strength and vigor by making the kidneys well. Take no substitute. H. B. McCord.

—The time is coming when there will be but one job open for the boy who smokes cigarettes, remarks an exchange. That will be to kill potato bugs with his breath. No man wants him any nearer the house than the potato patch.

—Have you seen Mrs. Austin's new dress?

—Other parts of the country seem to have been afflicted with a storm of crickets similiar to the one which struck Auburn Saturday evening. Various theories are advanced but no one seems to know where all the insects came from.

—The Low-Down Deering Corn Harvester, which is built on scientific principles, is in practical use by thousands of influential farmers throughout the country. See the Deering Corn Harvester before you purchase.—W. H. Zeigler, Agent. 36

—Surveyor Krontz' office is busy today. The John W. Ducsler ditch is being fixed up by the viewers who are Frank Teeters, W. H. McGiffin and Gust Helmuth. Also the Haverstock ditch, the viewers being, Jacob Christoffel. Joseph Wilson and Fred Bunge.

—There is a toll war on near Logansport. The people refuse to pay toll on the pikes and the owners of the roads are hiring men to defend the toll gates. The trouble is no doubt caused by the county offering to buy the roads at $212 a mile while the county assessor has them rated at $1000 a mile.

Fair and Beautiful Faces.

Impure blood is sure to cause pimples and roughness of the skin. Dr. Warner's Compound of Seven Cures, the great blood renewer, makes a rough skin smooth and fair. F. E. Davenport.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

Opening of the Annual Meeting of DeKalb's Pedagogues.

The teachers of DeKalb county met in annual session in the M. E. church Monday morning at 10:30. Although they must assemble from all parts of the county and from neighboring towns outside the county, the attendance at the opening session reached almost 100, while up to Monday evening the enrollment had reached 135. This speaks the professional interest of the teachers, and their appreciation of the efforts of Supt. Coe to make the institute week a real intellectual and literary feast. Both the regular instructors were present at the opening session, Pres. W. W. Parsons of the Indiana State Normal having broken the Sabbath somewhat by Sunday travel in order to be on hand, and Dr. Andrew Stephenson of DePauw University—well, what had he not done to get here! Some seven or eight days ago he was still in Old England. How ever he got across the Atlantic, down the St. Lawrence, over the Great Lakes and here in Auburn in so short a time only testifies to the obliteration of space in these days. But Dame Fortune always modifies her favors, and so she tossed the Dr. about in a great storm upon the deep, and moreover, caused him to lose his trunk. But he was present at the opening session, and in good spirits as was everyone else.

Mr. C. C. Woodcox has charge of the music for the week. Mr. Cutler, our enterprising new music dealer, has put in a fine piano for the use of the teachers. Our popular florist, Teneyck has beautified the church with graceful ferns. The Auburn Art League have added to the attractions of the week by placing a collection of the celebrated Copley prints on display in the lecture room and parlor, all free of charge and at their own expense. They say they want the teachers and citizens to come and look at their pictures and then come again. Although it was Monday and the first day of the Institute, yet many of the Club ladies and other citizens were in attendance.

Pres. Parsons announced that he would give nine talks or addresses of the fifteen for which he is due upon the Science of Education or General Pedagogy. Then he will give three in a discussion of what he considers one of the greatest pieces of literature The Book of Job. Going to the extreme he will discuss in two talks Shakspeare's, "As you like it". This afternoon he will give a thirty or forty minute interpretation of Da-Vincio's great masterpiece "The Last Supper," the famous painting in the old convent of Milan.

Dr. Stephenson, after making some pleasant remarks, said that he would talk upon but one subject during the week, and that would be The Steps of Our National Civilization—He said: History is evolution. From the time that man got down out of the tree and began his ascent toward God some advance had been made—but not much. Looking back over 4000 years the ascent looked like a smooth inclined plane. but that was because we could not see the depressions, the risings and fallings. The record of these is History. History is unity in variety. The Dr. as well as the Pres. illuminate their truths with many amusing illustrations and anecdotes, so that in spite of the excessively hot weather the interest of the teachers remains unabated.

Last evening, owing to the fact that the regularly announced lecture of Dr. Stephenson was in that lost trunk instead of in his head, as one would expect, he entertained his audience by a rambling, off-hand talk, which he dubbed "A Quest for the English Nightingale," but which was really a delightful, free-and-easy description of part of his summer's trip abroad, and of his impressions of our English cousins. No one was sorry in the least that the Dr. lost his trunk, and especially so when it leaked out that if the trunk came in time we could have the lecture anyhow some afternoon during the week.

Miss Mayme Buckley delighted all by an airy rendering of the song by Schleiffarth, "Merrily I Roam," Mrs. D A. Garwood playing the accompaniment.

CASTORIA.
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

SEDAN.

O. L. Wheaton is still laid up with a broken rib.

J. D. VanLear made a trip to Garrett Sunday.

Brown Albright has his new barn enclosed and is now putting on a coat of paint.

The Thomas exchange telephone line is being extended to Hudson.

CASTORIA.
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

Is a Notary.

Samuel J. Tarney of Jackson has received his commission as notary public, and is now prepared to do all kinds of business in that line, such as deeds, mortgages, pension papers and all legal instruments. He will be found to be a handy man to have in the neighborhood, for he has also been justice of the peace, having retired last spring after a service of twelve years.

Foley's Kidney Cure
makes kidneys and bladder right.

Reduction in Prices...

In order to close out our Lawn Mowers we have reduced the price as follows:

16 inch New Delight Mowers; former price $3.50, close out price.....$2.98
16-inch Monarch Mowers; former price $3.00, closing out price.....$2.46

We carry a full line of good Rubber Hose that we are selling cheap.

CULBERTSON & BOLAND.

What Can a Kodak Do? —The answer is found in D. A. HODGE'S WINDOW.

See our line of Kodaks and Cameras.

We have what you want in Supplies.

D. A. HODGE,
The Jeweler. Auburn, Ind.

BUTLER.

The writer left Butler on the 16th for a short vacation among the sand knobs and fertile plains of Michigan and attended the old settlers' meeting at Angola which like the ones preceding it proved a grand success. The crowd was immense and the best of order seemed to prevail everywhere. I drove about fifteen miles north-east of Angola and remained over night. On Friday morning started to Battle Creek, a distance of about fifty miles; passed Coldwater and Union City, both very nice Michigan towns. New roads are always long and these distances seemed to strech out interminably. I passed over some of the finest Michigan farm centers and saw an enormous corn crop maturing. The apple crop is immense, and we do not know what can be done with all of them. The roads were good until we neared Battle Creek, when steep sand hills became frequent and caused our horse to labor quite hard. We reached the city of thrashing machines, postum cereals and sanitariums about sunset, and after a confusing search found our son, who lives here and had a good night's rest. Remained in the city until near evening on the 18th. The city is quite a business center. The streets are irregularly laid out and a stranger soon becomes confused and loses his bearings. The place had a population of 33,000 ten years ago and probably reaches 40,000 now. We found it much more difficult to get out of the city, than to get in, and after driving nearly two hours found ourselves only four miles from town and sixteen miles from the place where we had planned to stay over Sunday. The road for many miles was a repetition of sand hills and hollows while the sun was sinking more rapidly than the mile posts were showing up. We reached Assyria Center about sunset, and then had ten more long, sandy miles before reaching our stopping place, but persistence over comes everything and about 9 o'clock found us knocking at the door of welcome hospitality. More anon.

OBITUARY.

Died at his home four miles northwest of Butler, August 16, 1900, in the 69th year of his age after a lingering illness of many weeks, Elias Kepler.

Mr. Kepler was born in Stark county Ohio, January 4, 1832. Came to Indiana with his parents when five years ld, who settled on section 27, Franklin township, this county. His father bought 480 acres of land, a part of which formed the homestead of the deceased. On Febuary 5, 1854, he was married to Eliza Deems, who together with seven children, three sons and four daughters survive him. His funeral took place from his residence on the 16th, Rev. Frech of the M. E. church officiating. He had been a member of the church for many years. Mr. Kepler was a man of sterling integrity, hardworking, frugal and industrious, and by diligence and care had amassed a comfortable competence. His death leaves a vacancy in the family that cannot be filled.

A Night Of Terror.

"Awful anxiety was felt for the widow of the brave General Burnham of Machias, Me., when the doctors said she could not live till morning" writes Mrs. S. H. Lincoln, who attended her that fearful night. "All thought she must soon die from Pneumonia, but she begged for Dr. King's New Discovery, saying it had more than once saved her life, and cured her of Consumption. After three small doses she slept easily all night, and its further use completely cured her." This marvelous medicine is guaranteed to cure all Throat, Chest and Lung Diseases. Only 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free at McCords drug store.

Subscribe for the COURIER.

NOT A PLAYTHING.

But an instrument perfect in tone, appearance and construction. The KRANICH & BOCH and FISHER Pianos are not manufactured by those who demand an enormous profit, therefore it can be sold at a reasonable figure. The mechanism is of the most recent design and the action is perfect. The tone, volume and range is equal to that of pianos costing nearly double.

FOR SALE BY

F. V. CUTLER,
AUBURN, INDIANA.

Also up to-date Funeral Directors and Embalmers.

HUMPHREYS' VETERINARY SPECIFICS

A. A. CURES FEVERS, Long Fever, Milk Fever.
B. B. CURES SPRAINS, Lameness, Rheumatism.
C. C. CURES EPIZOOTIC, Distemper.
D. D. CURES WORMS, Bots, Grubs.
E. E. CURES COUGHS, Colds, Influenza.
F. F. CURES COLIC, Bellyache, Diarrhea.
G. G. Prevents MISCARRIAGE.
H. H. CURES KIDNEY & BLADDER DISORDERS.
I. I. CURES MANGE, Skin Diseases.
J. J. CURES BAD CONDITION, Staring Coat.

50c. each; Stable Case, Ten Specifics, Book, Sp. $5. At druggists or sent prepaid on receipt of price. Humphreys' Medicine Co., Cor. William & John Sts., New York. VETERINARY MANUAL SENT FREE.

NERVOUS DEBILITY,
VITAL WEAKNESS

and Prostration from Overwork or other causes.

Humphreys' Homeopathic Specific No. 28, in use over 40 years, the only successful remedy.

$1 per vial, or 5 vials and large vial powder, for $5. Sold by Druggists, or sent post-paid on receipt of price. HUMPHREYS' MED. CO., Cor. William & John Sts., New York.

DON'T BE DUPED

There have been placed upon the market several cheap reprints of an obsolete edition of "Webster's Dictionary." They are being offered under various names at a low price

By

dealers, agents, etc., and in a few instances as a premium for subscriptions to papers. Announcements of these comparatively

Worthless

reprints are very misleading. They are advertised to be the substantial equivalent of a higher-priced book, while they are all

Reprint Dictionaries,

phototype copies of a book of over fifty years ago, which was sold for about $5.00, and which was much superior to these imitations, being a work of some merit instead of one

Long Since Obsolete.

The Webster's Unabridged Dictionary published by our house is the only meritorious one of that name. It bears our imprint on the title-page and is protected by copyright from cheap imitation. As a dictionary lasts a lifetime will it not be better to purchase the

LATEST AND BEST,

Webster's International Dictionary

of ENGLISH, Biography, Geography, Fiction, etc. Size 10x12¾x4¼ inches.

This Book is the Best for Everybody.

STANDARD AUTHORITY of the U. S. Supreme Court, all the State Supreme Courts, the U. S. Government Printing Office and of nearly all the Schoolbooks. WARMLY COMMENDED by College Presidents, State Superintendents of Schools and many other eminent authorities.

Webster's Collegiate Dictionary,

Recently abridged from the International and seems to be the best for the family and students. Size 7x10x2¾ inches.

Specimen pages either book sent for the asking. G. & C. MERRIAM CO., Springfield, Mass.

Topics of the Times

In ten years the descendants of two rabbits will number 70,000,000.

William S. Jennings, nominated by the Florida Democrats for Governor, is a cousin of William Jennings Bryan, and a native of Illinois.

When traveling Tolstoi takes the slowest train he can find, because he holds that the charm of traveling is inversely proportioned to its rapidity.

Dr. Murray, of the new English Dictionary wants early instances of the use of "intentions" in the sense of wishing to marry. He has been unable to trace the word further back than 1884.

Tito-Mattei, the song composer, is in the bankruptcy court for the third time in seventeen years. The cause for his troubles in speculating in stocks on "tips for good things" which his friends gave him.

The British Association of Teachers of Dancing has honored Baden-Powell by naming the latest dance after him. It is known as the "B-P. Schottische," and the music for it includes "Rule, Britannia."

Siam's Crown Prince, who is studying at Oxford, is bound to be an up-to-date potentate like his father. He recently developed appendicitis, and enjoyed the modern operation for that misfortune.

A regular business carried on in France by ladies of the highest standing is to secure rich American brides for penniless men of title. These matrimonial agents receive heavy fees when they are successful.

A lawyer received a letter from a client the other day urging him to hasten a certain collection. "I am hard up," concluded the writer, "and I need the money bad. Hoping this will find you the same, I am yours," etc.

The establishment of parks in cities is becoming an advance of settlement nowadays. A park of forty acres in the eastern district of Brooklyn, seven miles from Prospect Park, is now proposed, and will no doubt be laid out.

England is looking up new names for its Boer conquests. "Chamberlainia" and "Robertsland" are suggested by the St. James Gazette, which, however, would prefer something made up from the name of the future ruler of England, Edward VII.

London is luxuriating in a new street phrase, "There's 'air," which excites mirth whenever and wherever employed. The newspapers are trying hard to find out what it means and where it was first used, but have been unsuccessful so far.

Mrs. Roosevelt is said to object to official life in Washington because her husband's income from his private fortune is only $8,000 a year, and a salary of $8,000 additional would give the family only $16,000 annually—not enough for a Vice President, with six children.

Charles V. Cusachs, of New Orleans, the instructor in the French and Spanish departments of Harvard University, who has just been appointed to the chair of Spanish at the United States Naval Academy, is only 25 years old. Mr. Cusachs was graduated from the University of Barcelona in 1892.

A great scheme of sanitation is on trial at Simla, which, if successful, is likely to have far-reaching results in connection with the sanitation of Indian cities. Instead of constructing large sewers and carrying the sewage to the stream, it has been decided to apply the bacterial treatment to the sewage.

A Chinese window is a quaint subterfuge for obscuring the light of day. It is an intricate pattern of woodwork in straight lines, with pieces of glass stuck on the surface, and filled up with strong, yellowish paper. Its principal use is in sealing up an apartment against any inrush of fresh air by normal ventilation.

Copake, N. Y., comes to the front with a decided novelty in the way of social diversion. The citizens organized a "tombstone bee" and, going out to the graveyard, straightened up all the toppling monuments and headstones. Following out their original streak, they then returned to town and wound up the evening with a dance.

A case in the courts of Russia is supposed to hold the record in age, making the celebrated case of Jarndyce vs. Jarndyce an infant of a few days in comparison. It is a claim for some land alleged to be illegally included within the bounds of a Russian city, and though it was begun in 1400, it is still in progress, a veritable legal Methuselah, aged 500 years exactly.

The Rhine has enjoyed a novel sensation from the visit of a flotilla of German torpedo-boats, which the Kaiser sent up the river in order to show the inlanders a sample of the new navy that is costing them such a pretty penny. The flotilla made frequent stops and the officers and men were entertained handsomely at every town they came to in their cruise of several hundred miles.

GYPSIES IN EUROPE.

Race Is Increasing, Not Disappearing. Nor Are All Wanderers.

It has been commonly supposed that the gypsies of Europe, like the Indians of North America, were becoming an extinct race, and the conditions of their existence are not such as would seem to insure longevity. But a recently published official report of the English government shows that the number of gypsies in England, so far from declining, is actually on the increase, and the same is true of some other European countries from which figures are at hand.

By an authentic computation made recently there are 35,000 gypsies in Great Britain, 7,000 more than at the time of the last previous enumeration, though, perhaps, that may have been somewhat imperfect. There are in the whole of Europe nearly 750,000 gypsies, the figures being: Great Britain, 35,000; Spain, 40,000; Russia, 25,000; Germany, 45,000, and Austria, Turkey and the Balkan countries, 200,000 each. Gypsies, who are known as zingari in Italy, gitanos in Spain, zigeuner in Germany, cziganyok in Hungary, tsigani in Slavic countries, tchinganch in Turkey and bohemians in France, are considered to be of Asiatic origin, though the name "gypsies" is generally acknowledged to be a corruption of the word Egyptians, and in Scotland a gypsy is called an Egyptian, as readers of the "Little Minister" are aware. In the United States there are few gypsies, for the reason, perhaps, that they meet with great competition in the pursuits which in European countries furnish them their chief revenue—fortune telling, divination and soothsaying. In Europe, though it is popularly supposed that they are mere wanderers, the pariahs of civilization, driven from place to place as popular sentiment or resentment may dictate, the fact is that many of the gypsies are permanently located in towns of their own, maintaining stable administration and prospering to a considerable extent. This is especially true in the districts on or near the lower Danube, and the gypsy population of Transylvania, in Hungary, is not only large, but also quite influential. Hungarian gypsies have long been known everywhere on account of their appreciation of music, and gypsy bands have visited the United States from time to time and with usually good success. The aptitude of gypsies in acquiring knowledge of music has always been marked, and Franz Liszt has borne testimony to this quality by saying:

"Indifferent to the minute and complicated passions by which educated mankind is swayed, callous to the panting, gasping effects of such microscopic and supercultured vices as vanity, ambition, intrigue and avarice, the gypsy only comprehends the simplest requirements of a primitive nature. Music, dancing, drinking and love, diversified by a childish and humorous delight in petty thieving and cheating, constitute his whole repertoire of passions, beyond whose limited horizon he does not care to look.

The gypsies of England are found chiefly in the northern countries.

HOUSE BUILDER'S TRIALS.

Amateur Architect Who Thinks Certain Facts Should Be Taught.

"I believe that there should be some kind of a university or night school to teach men how to buy lots and build houses," declared a citizen who is finally settled in his new home. "More than that, there should be a law making this kind of an education compulsory and a searching examination before anyone be given a license to spend his money in land and building.

"I've been through it and I'm talking by the card. After I had purchased my lot I was jumped on for some back taxes, had to settle with an heir that hadn't joined in the deed, and pay a paving assessment. I was advised by a friend that my best scheme was to make a separate contract for each kind of work to be done and then be on hand as much as possible to see that nothing was neglected. The result was that I lost a whole summer, took care of two or three rows a day, listened to expensive suggestions and in the end paid out $1,000 more than my most liberal calculation had provided for. Then I wasn't nearly as well satisfied as with my original plans.

"While the moving vans were unloading at the door, my wife was bustling about in one of woman's most delightful occupations and the children were rolling under the trees in the back yard, along came a man who called me aside and informed me that I had built on his lot.

"As I was not armed he escaped with his life and we called each other names across the street till I cooled down sufficiently to hold a peaceful parley. He was right. My pretty new house adorned his lot. I was a squatter. He had me just because I had carelessly ignored the abstract man and the surveyor. I would have heard from him sooner, but he had been away. He was white and gave me a deed to the lot in exchange for a deed to the next lot, which I had really purchased."—Detroit Free Press.

CROSSED THE OCEAN,

But Couldn't Land Until She Became a Wife.

Adolf Yuengling, whose father is a wealthy butcher of Berlin, arrived here on the St. Paul. His father gave him 15,000 marks to come here and start a butcher's business in Chicago. Adolf brought with him an attractive young woman to be his housekeeper. He was much perturbed when the immigration officials told him that he might land, but that Carolina Krombach could not unless he made her his wife. Adolf said that she had been his housekeeper in Berlin, and so good a one that he had determined to bring her with him, but, as she was quite beneath his social position, he could not marry her. He did not leave to go to a hotel, however, but hung about the Barge Office, loath to part with her. She had 8,000 marks just before she left Berlin, but some enterprising broker prevailed upon her to accept in exchange some Mexican bonds, which on arrival here she found were not easily convertible into cash. She said she had an uncle in Memphis, and the officials said that if he would become responsible for her she might land. The uncle was telegraphed to, and he wired back: "Send my niece here."

This apparently settled matters, but Adolf now came forward and said that he loved the young woman and they did not wish to be separated. There was some talk, a walk across Battery Park to the house of Pastor Berkmeier, and when the party, including Adolf, Carolina and government inspectors, left the pastor's house there was a new bridal couple in town, and Carolina will continue to be Adolf's housekeeper.—New York Times.

What She Was.

She was bread in old Kentucky
She was cake in New Orleans,
She was pretzels in Milwaukee,
But in Boston she was beans.

Tubing.

The lightest tubing ever made is of nickel aluminum. Three thousand feet of this tubing weighs only one pound avoirdupois.

No matter how bright and sensible a man is, if the gossips discover he is going crazy, the world remarks that he will not have far to go.

CYCLISTS TO GUARD ENGLAND.

Gen. Maurice Evolves a Plan for Use of Wheel in War.

All sorts of suggestions have been made from time to time as to the use of the bicycle in war, but up to the present time the wheel has not gone beyond the experimental stage in the army. There is a tendency among the officials in the war departments of the different countries to ridicule the introduction of the bicycle into military tactics. But now one of England's noted generals, a man old and experienced in the art of war, comes forward with a scheme for the repelling of an invading force from England's shores, and one of the most important factors of the plan is the bicycle. The officer who conceived the scheme of thus utilizing the wheel in war is Gen. Frederick Maurice, commandant of the military arsenal and training ground.

SIR FREDERICK MAURICE.

Sir Frederick Maurice's position and his remarkable war record, which began with Ashanti, continued through the Zulu wars, and ended, as active service, with particular lustre in the Soudan and in Egypt, would be sufficient to center expert as well as public attention in any military plan suggested by him. The idea of an unofficial defensive force of armed cyclists came to him through noticing how those of his men who are cyclists overcame what is one of the greatest difficulties of military training in England, the distances between the army headquarters and the rifle ranges. These men, he observed, slung their rifles over their shoulders, spun over to Bisley, or even to Brighton from Woolwich, had their practice and reported back again in what seemed him incredible time, and the matter set him a-thinking. The idea reached a further stage when the general discovered that many cyclist clubs about Woolwich were in the habit of competing among themselves in rifle shooting as well, taking out arms of their own, traveling to some safe place on the seacoast, and shooting at targets. His plan, as it stands at present, is to demonstrate his idea to the public at Brighton, using, however, only the military cyclists, then to try to persuade the various cycle clubs of England to take up rifle shooting, and so eventually branch out until every cyclist in England who will consent is mustered into the service. How best to train them will, of course, come afterward.

CYCLIST SCOUTS CROSSING A DRIFT IN SOUTH AFRICA.

BRITISH CYCLE CORPS WHEEL.

The general is to give a practical demonstration of his plans at Brighton within a short time. He will endeavor to show the special facilities presented by England for the use of a large body of rifle cyclists for defensive purposes. A force of infantry, supposed to be that of an invader newly landed at Brighton, will start on the march toward London, and the duty of the cyclist force then will be to act as scouts and pass detailed reports of the enemy's movements to a mythical force supposed to be gathering in the interior, to show how obstacles could be placed in his path and natural supplies, such as cattle, etc., could be removed from it; testing to what extent his force could be surprised and ambushed by well-trained corps of rifle cyclists; demonstrating not only how much an invader could be delayed until an adequate force could be marshaled to meet him, but how swiftly the cyclist army could cope with the ordinarily difficult matters of support, relief and fresh supplies of ammunition.

CARRIED A CANE.

It Kept Him from Leaving and Losing His Umbrella.

"You wonder why I always carry a cane except when I am carrying an umbrella," remarked a well-known Philadelphian the other afternoon. "Well, I don't mind telling you. It's all on account of umbrellas."

"Can't see the connection," rejoined the friend to whom he was talking.

"Don't suppose you could. But you will when I have explained. You lose an umbrella every once in a while, don't you? Put it down somewhere and walk off and leave it?"

"Yes, I have had that happen to me frequently."

"Well, I used to, but not since I took to carrying a cane. An acquaintance out in Chicago put me on to the scheme. 'Get a cane of some kind,' he said to me one day, 'and carry it every day and every night that it doesn't rain. By that means you become so accustomed to having something in your hand you are lost without it. Then, when a rainy day or evening comes and you are compelled to carry an umbrella about with you the benefit comes in. Say you have gone into a restaurant and when you come out the rain has stopped. You walk out into the street without your umbrella. Presto; after you have taken perhaps a dozen steps you miss something. Your cane-carrying hand is minus the burden it usually bears. Back go your thoughts to your umbrella and back go your steps to get it. Simple? Of course it is, but the simple things oftentimes prove the most valuable."

With this sage remark the well-known Philadelphian walked off down the street swinging his bamboo stick with a well-satisfied air.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

CIGAR STUBS OF CRIMINALS.

They Have a Generic Similarity of Value to the Detective.

According to Professor Hans Gross of Berlin valuable clews toward the detection of criminals may be obtained through an examination of cigar tips. Of course this applies to those who smoke cigars, the tips of which they carelessly throw away in the street or elsewhere.

"If you pick up any tip," he says, "and examine it closely the chances are that you will be able to learn something as to the personality and social position of the man who threw it away. In the case of criminals the first point to be considered is the manner in which it was cut off from the cigar. If a knife or any other instrument was used for this purpose, then this instrument will doubtless be found on the criminal. If, on the other hand, it was bitten off with the teeth, a thorough examination of the tip will show what kind of teeth were used for this purpose.

"A man with a row of even teeth will bite off the end of his cigar squarely and evenly, whereas one with jagged, uneven teeth will bite it clumsily and in such a manner as to leave clearly visible the marks of his incisors. By comparing the marks on cigar tips with the teeth of suspected criminals prosecuting officers and detectives will be able to obtain much information which they could not possibly obtain any other way."

"Jericho, All Out!"

This is the cry, according to a tourist's letter from the east in the Kleine Zeitung, which is now resounding on the sacred banks of the Jordan. On the river where St. John the Baptist once baptized his penitent hearers, a steamboat is now plying with religious pilgrims and gay pleasure-seekers for its passengers. The present passenger steamer is really the second of its kind. About two years ago the intelligent Abbot Pachomius, the head of the monastery of St. John, near Jericho, made an attempt to navigate the Biblical stream with a little steamer of his own. The experiment proved so successful that a new passenger steamer, of modest size and power, was placed upon the river last year. It starts regularly from the bridge near Jericho, and steams to the southern end of the Dead Sea.—Glasgow Herald.

The manner in which some women, who are apparently friends, abuse each other scares the men.

Honesty never contributes anything to the white man's burden.

Sheet music—children crying in bed.

"How absurd," remarked the cabman, "for that man to swear merely because he lost the train."

"But wouldn't you do the same thing in his place?" replied the gatekeeper.

"Very like," said the cabman; "but I wasn't thinking of that. I was only thinking how luckily for me it was that he lost his train. He will have to hire me to take him down town, don't you see?"—Boston Transcript.

An Authority on China.

Husband—I'd like to know what is to become of China.

Wife—I guess the hired girl can tell you.

Magnanimity.

Laundress—One o' my customers 'ad the cheek ter compline as a sheet come 'ome in four bits!

Sympathetic friend—Well, I never! Wot did yer sye?

Laundress—Sed as I'd only charged fer it as one harticle!—Sketch.

She Was Satisfied.

Captious Mother—What do you want to marry that young man for? He doesn't know enough to set the world on fire.

Sensible Daughter—Maybe not, but he says he knows enough to set the kindling wood in the kitchen range on fire.—Somerville Journal.

"Our cook was going to leave yesterday, but my wife's diplomacy saved the day."

"Is that so?"

"Yes; when the cook gave notice, my wife, with great presence of mind, said: 'That's too bad, Bridget, but I'm not surprised. Several of the neighbors' girls predicted that you would leave because you knew you wouldn't have any show with the handsome new policeman who is shortly to be assigned to this beat.'"—Philadelphia Press.

The Awakening.

Crawford—Did he learn anything by visiting the Paris Exposition?

Crabshaw—Well, he found out that he'd wasted a lot of money having his daughters instructed in boarding-school French.—Judge.

Doesn't Know It All Now.

"Higgins, I've come to you for advice. What ought a man of my capabilities and opportunities to do in order to achieve the greatest success in life?"

"Gurney, I wish you had come to me with that question about five years ago. I could have told you all about it then. I was just out of college."—Chicago Tribune.

Always to Be Trusted.

Hoax—Is Hardluck the sort of fellow one could trust?

Joax—Well, if you trust him once you'll trust him forever.—Philadelphia Record.

Had Given Up Trying.

"It's strange," remarked the sentimental young Benedict, "how Fate throws different people together. By the way, how did you come to know your wife?"

"I don't," replied the old married man, "and I never expect to."—Philadelphia Press.

A Favorite with the Ladies.

"The census man was so kind; he didn't ask me how old I was."

"He didn't!"

"No; he just asked me what year I was born in."—Chicago Record.

BOTH IN THE SAME LINE.

Umbrella Mender to Golf Player—Hello, partner! How's business?—Chicago Inter Ocean.

A Clear Case.

"What do you mean by saying music injured your health?"

"Why that girl next door pounds her piano so late that we have to go to bed with all our windows shut."

A Safety Clause.

He—I think I'll eat a third slice of watermelon.

She—So will I.

He—No, you don't; if we both get sick who's to go for the doctor?—Indianapolis Journal.

A Jostled Effect.

Nan—Kitty, what does the new bookkeeper look like?

Kitty—Well, he looks like a man who always had to put on his necktie while running to catch a train.—Indianapolis Journal.

Sold the Same Old Way.

Customer—How do you sell eggs?
Grocer—In the shells, mum.

A Justified Pun.

"My mother-in-law has gone to the mountains."

"You look pleased."

"Yes; she'll have to admit she has found something that she can't walk over."—Indianapolis Journal.

Sympathetic.

"Hen—ry," gasped Mrs. Peck, "I w—wish you wou—ld go f—or the doc—tor. I c—can't hard—ly b—breathe."

"Don't try, my dear, if it hurts you," calmly replied Henry.—Chicago News.

Sure Thing.

Edith—I would be willing to marry the man I loved even if he wasn't capable of earning over $10 a week.

Ethel—So would I! Such men as that almost always come of rich and influential families!—Puck.

Mental Effort in July.

"You are very quiet to-night, Charlotte."

"Yes; I read something to-day, and I wanted to talk to you about it, but I can't think what it was."

Interrupted.

"Eliza, you'll never again get me out at 4 o'clock to cut the grass."

"David, I wanted you to do it before it got hot.'

"Well, Eliza, it got hot in just three minutes. I hadn't cut five strokes before the people on both sides of us threw two bird cages and four alarm clocks at me."

A Useful Song.

"What shall I sing, Clarence?"

"Sing that lovely old-time song, 'Lorena.'"

"Oh, I see; you're fixing to get a good long nap."

Eggs and Eggs.

"Pa, out to gran'ma's we had real hen's eggs."

"Well, what other kind of eggs are there, Dicky?"

"Why, pa, you said all th' eggs we get in town are cold storage eggs."—Indianapolis Journal.

Faith in Her Ways.

"Cousin Dorothy's train gets in at 5:30."

"Well, I'll be at the station at 6:30."

"6:30?"

"Yes; Dorothy is always an hour late whatever she does."—Life.

Oh, the Flatterer!

A Somerville young man is getting to be very popular with the young ladies. When he meets one he says at the first opportunity:

"Oh, by the way, I've got a pretty picture here that I want to show you."

Then he takes a little round mirror out of his pocket and holds it up for her to look in it.—Somerville Journal.

Came, Saw, and Was Conquered.

A Scotch farmer, celebrated in his neighborhood for his immense strength and skill in athletic exercises, very frequently had the pleasure of contending with people who came to try their strength against his. Lord D., a great pugilistic amateur, went from London on purpose to fight the athletic Scot. The latter was working in an inclosure at a little distance from his home when the noble lord arrived. His lordship tied his horse to a tree and addressed the farmer.

"Friend, I have heard marvelous reports of your skill, and have come a long way to see which of us two is the better wrestler."

The Scotchman, without answering, seized the nobleman, pitched him over the hedge, and then set about working again. When Lord D. got up:

"Well," said the farmer, "have you anything to say to me?"

"No," replied his lordship, "but perhaps you'd be good enough to throw me my horse!"—Golden Penny.

Some people use religion as a cloak and some use it as an umbrella.

GREAT BATTLES OF HISTORY.

Victory Not Always on the Side of the Heaviest Battalions.

When Napoleon said "Providence is always on the side of the strongest battalions" he proved the falsity of his own precept on his last battlefield. It is not without interest to see how this applied in some of the world's great attles. At Marathon there were 200,000 Persians confronting 11,000 Greeks. The Persian army was routed and the invasion of Greece was ended.

Xerxes moved on Greece with his army of millions. Leonidas with his immortals met them at Thermopylae and held the Persians in check, but not until the heroic Spartan and his followers were killed. Subsequently, at Salamis, Themistocles met the Persians in a naval battle. Xerxes watched the struggle from a distance and wept over the destruction of his army. Under Hezekiah Jerusalem was menaced by 185,000 Assyrians who threatened to ruin the city. Not one Assyrian soldier saw Jerusalem. At Gaugamela Alexander the Great, with 47,000 men, fought 1,000,000 Persians under Darius. The Persians were routed and Darius assassinated by one of his satraps.

The siege of Jerusalem was the gloomiest event in the history of mankind. In A. D. 70 the temple of Herod was just completed. The Jews were never so haughty and so patriotic. They were never so disorganized. Innumerable factions divided them. But the feast of the Passover and the common danger enabled Vespasian and Titus to shut them up in the city. John and Simon, their partisan leaders, hated each other as cordially as they hated the Romans. When their followers were not fighting one another during the siege they were opposing the Romans. Vespasian and Titus cast trenches about the city, not one stone was left upon another of their beautiful temple, as the Savior predicted, and 1,100,000 Jews perished in that awful holocaust.

In the Russian campaign Napoleon lost 475,000 men. His legions melted and died under the falling snowflakes.

The naval battle of Lepanto between the Christians and Don John of Austria and the Turks was one of the fiercest contests of the middle ages. The Christians numbered 80,000 and the Turks 120,000 men. The Turkish fleet was destroyed, its commander killed and the Moslem naval power was crushed on the Mediterranean.

At Waterloo Wellington had 70,000 men and 159 cannon. Napoleon confronted him with 72,000 men and 246 cannon. Napoleon claimed he had Wellington in his grasp. But he was facing destiny. A rainstorm of the night before wrought havoc with the movements of his artillery. Grouchy failed to come up. According to Victor Hugo, the sunken road of Oham ruined the charge of Napoleon's cavalry. When the night came Napoleon was a fugitive.

In the Boer war the battles of Tugela will be considered memorable. Joubert, with 7,000 Boers, defeated Buller, with 55,000 British, and drove them across the Tugela River three times. This is one of the most notable battles of our time and denoted the invincible genius of the South African general.

A Colossal Image of Buddha.

A most extraordinary piece of work is the colossal image of Buddha at Kamakura, one of the ancient capitals of Japan. The image is constructed of copper, tin and gold, and where it has been burnished by contact, the metal is a ruddy brown, but the general surface is weather-stained with incrustations of green mould where the massive parts were welded together. The height is 49 feet, 7 inches; the circumstances of the head, 97 feet; the width of th face from ear to ear 19 feet, and its length, from the tip of the chin to the edge of the curling hair, 9 feet 9 inches. The eye is 4 feet long, the ear 6 feet 6 inches, the nose 3 feet 9 inches, and the mouth 3 feet 2 inches. There are 830 curls on the head. The circumference of the thumb is 3 feet. The eyes are of pure gold, and weigh 30 pounds each. The idol was erected in 1195, and within the image is a temple over 40 feet in height, with an altar and other accessories of worship. The Kamakura image is worshipped annually by millions of Buddhists from India, Burma, China, and Corea, as well as by those in Japan.

Georgie's Condensed Prayer.

Just ahead of me in the train the other morning sat two men who were telling the stories, that are never old, about the bright sayings of children. One of them, however, had a brand-new one about his 4-year-old Georgie. This youngster had been safely tucked in bed after a day of the most fatiguing play. He yawned while being undressed, and was all but asleep by the time that he found himself between the sheets. His mother none the less insisted upon his repeating the prayer of childhood. He started sleepily, requiring prompting at the beginning of every line. Drowsiness had nearly won the mastery by the time that he had obediently got as far as "take my soul."

"God bless——" prompted the mother.

Georgie has a long list of relatives. There was a flutter of his sleep-laden lids as he lumped them all together.

"God bless the whole shooting match."

And he was asleep at last.—Boston Transcript.

Hit in the Face.

In one of Mr. Chauncey M. Depew's stories, he tells of meeting a man as funny as himself.

"One day," said Mr. Depew, "I met a soldier who had been wounded in the face. He was a Union man, and I asked him in which battle he had been injured.

"'In the first battle of Bull Run, sir,' he replied.

"'But how could you get hit in the face at Bull Run?' I asked.

"'Well, sir,' said the man, apologetically, 'after I had run a mile or two I got careless and looked back.'"

Full of Splinters.

Little 4-year-old Fannie had been given a piece of bony shad for breakfast, but left it untouched upon her plate.

"Why, Fannie," asked her mother, "what is the reason you don't eat your fish?"

"Because," was the reply, "dis piece is all full of splinters."—Chicago News.

Pale and Weak Women

Beauty and strength in women vanish early in life because of monthly pain or some menstrual irregularity. Many suffer silently and see their best gifts fade away.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

helps women preserve roundness of form and freshness of face because it makes their entire female organism healthy. It carries women safely through the various natural crises and is the safeguard of woman's health.

The truth about this great medicine is told in the letters from women being published in this paper constantly.

A Bucolic Slur at Chicago.

It was a beautiful day, even in Chicago. The sun shone. A great calm prevailed. Save for the occasional sound of a sandbag, and the purling of the drainage canal, all was still.

"And you will go to the circus?" whispered Fitzmaurice, gazing into the eyes of the woman he loved.

"Yes," faltered Gwendolin.

"My darling! Afternoon or evening?"

"Afternoon. Full dress is such a bore in summer!"

With one mad, clinging embrace, he strode away to buy tickets.

Manufacture of Mummies.

Several enterprising French citizens are now extensively engaged in the manufacture of mummies, which they are shipping to all parts of the civilized world. They closely resemble the genuine dried up cadavers they are represented to be, but it is not likely that first-class antiquarians will be caught napping and accept them as descendants of the kings, nobles and citizens generally of the ancient lands the mummy merchants represent them to be.

Sarcastic.

Weary Willie—Will that dog bite a poor old tramp?

Mrs. Giles—Just as quick as a rich young one.

One Day Dandruff Cure
WILL GROW HAIR ON THE BALDEST HEAD!
Cures All Skin Diseases of the Head.
Eight Ounce Bottle prepaid to any address for 50c. Give it a trial.
BLOUNT & EGBERT, Wabash, Ind.

WANTED Agents to handle a strictly legitimate article; easily introduced; 1 sale makes several others; hustlers make $5.00 a day. Mention this paper. GOEBEL, 114 W. 34th street, New York.

DROPSY NEW DISCOVERY; gives quick relief & cures worst cases. Book of testimonials and 10 DAYS' treatment FREE. Dr. H. H. Green's Sons, Box B, Atlanta, Ga.

PENSION JOHN W. MORRIS, Washington, D. C. Successfully Prosecutes Claims. Late Principal Examiner U.S. Pension Bureau. 3 yrs in civil war 15 adjudicating claims, atty since

CHICAGO TO OMAHA
ILLINOIS CENTRAL — CENTRAL MISSISSIPPI VALLEY ROUTE — RAILROAD
Double Daily Service
New line via Rockford, Dubuque, Waterloo, Fort Dodge and Council Bluffs. Buffet-library-smoking-cars, sleeping cars, free reclining chair cars, dining cars. Send to the undersigned for a free copy of Pictures and Notes En-Route illustrating this new line as seen from the car window. Tickets of agents of I. C. R. R. and connecting lines. A. H. HANSON, G. P. A., Chicago.

NEBRASKA THE LAND OF PLENTY

I wonder why it is that so many men spend their days working hard on rented farms, barely making enough to get along, with no great prospect ahead of owning their own homes, when within a few hours' journey is a land of plenty —Nebraska—where all kinds of grain and fruit can be raised with the least amount of labor; where cattle and hogs fed on corn bring a handsome profit; where the climate is healthful and churches and schools abound; where land is cheap and can be bought on very easy terms.

Think of this, and if you want information about the country send to me for "The Corn Belt," a beautifully illustrated monthly paper that tells all about Nebraska, and also for "The West Nebraska Grazing Country," an interesting illustrated booklet containing a large sectional map of Nebraska.

On the first and third Tuesdays of each month during the balance of this year cheap excursion tickets will be sold over our road to Nebraska, so that people may go and see for themselves. Ask your ticket agent about this.

P. S. EUSTIS,
Gen'l Pass'r Agt. C. B. & Q. R. R.
CHICAGO, ILL.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

AGRICULTURAL

Sanitary Dairy Appliance.

The thorough cleansing of milk cans by hand is a difficult operation, and yet the cans must be carefully attended to each day or the milk will sour quickly. Chadles Marwitz, of Oak Park, Ill., has designed a portable washer, which can be readily transferred to each can and operated by hand, a cut of the device being shown below. The object of the invention is to provide a scrubbing brush which will fit closely to the interior of the can and be easily rotated from the exterior, and at the same time be folded to permit insertion and removal from the can. A clamping mechanism is provided to center the vertical shaft in the neck of the can, and the upright rod extending above the gearing is used to turn the brushes opposite each other, after they have reached the interior. The brush frames interlock and grip the shaft, which is rapidly revolved by the gearing to force the brushes to scrub the interior, the can being filled with water previous to the operation.

IMPROVED MILK-CAN WASHER.

Alfalfa Roots.

Of course I have always dimly realized that in its subterranean habits alfalfa differed from most other plants, but the full extent of this difference was never fully brought home to me until last fall while excavating for a cellar in alfalfa sod. The soil in question is a light loam, with occasional thin streaks of clay. It had been well plowed in the fall of 1897, and the winter frosts left it in prime shape for seeding in early May. I used twenty pounds of seed per acre, which proved to be rather too much, considering the fine condition of the soil, as it gave a probable average of twenty plants per foot. The excavation was made five and one-half feet deep. Much to my astonishment, one square foot of the cellar bottom showed twenty-two of the tough, white tap-roots shooting straight down into the unknown depths below, while over the whole area an average of thirteen or fourteen was maintained. In six months' growth two-thirds of these plants had sent their tap-roots more than five and one-half feet in quest of water.—F. M. Crane, in Farmer's Advocate.

Bag Holder.

The Farm Journal shows a bag holder that is adjustable to all sizes of bags, and is easily made. A piece of steel rod has one end flattened and punched with a half dozen or more holes. The tip of the other end is turned over and drawn out to fit these holes. The rod is then bent into a circle, the ends lapping and a bent support welded to it. By the side of each grain, apple or potato bin a hole can be bored in which to insert this support. Any blacksmith can make it.

ADJUSTABLE BAG HOLDER.

Work of Agricultural Colleges.

The work of the agricultural college does not consist altogether in sending its students back to the farm in condition to become better tillers of the soil or better breeders of stock than their fathers were, says the American Cultivator. This is but a small part of what we should expect of them. They should send out many who are qualified to instruct others by becoming teachers themselves. It is not all of a teacher to understand his subject, but he must be able to impart his knowledge to others so that they will understand it. One of the best teachers we ever knew was not what would be called an educated man, but what he knew he could explain so that almost the simplest intellect could learn from him. There are others so highly educated that they speak in terms that are as "unknown tongues" to those whom they desire to instruct. They cannot teach those who are more than one degree below them in attainment. They need an interpreter. Some such have written for agricultural papers, and we have even seen some bulletins from colleges and experiment stations that we thought were written by such learned ignoramuses, whose writings were of little use to farmers seeking information. Then there are others whose college education and natural abilities fit them to be always students. They will investigate carefully and with much painstaking, perhaps, only in the end to find that they have but proven scientifically facts that the practical man learned long ago by costly experience. Yet many of their investigations lead to a knowledge of new facts, which practical men make useful. The investigations of Franklin into the nature of electricity, apparently useless at the time, opened the way for the inventions of Morse, Bell and Edison. One investigator or one teacher may accomplish more in the line of agricultural improvement than a hundred sent back to labor with their hands or even their brains in the every day duties of a farmer's life, therefore let us not think the work of the college is in vain because all its graduates have not gone back to the farm.

Topdressing After Haying.

There are many cases where an application of fine, well-rotted manure directly after the first crop of grass is taken off will do much to start a good second growth, but this year it has been so dry in this section that there seems little benefit would have been found by such a topdressing. We would wait until after the cutting of the second crop, if there is any, or until about October, and apply it then, not considering it so important to have the manure fine, as it will become so before next spring, or can quickly be made so by the use of a light harrow or brush. But if manure is all needed for hoed crops, do not make the mistake of applying commercial fertilizer this fall. Wait until early spring and then make a mixture 1,200 pounds of raw bone, 400 pounds each of nitrate of soda and muriate of potash, or in that proportion, and use from 250 to 400 pounds per acre, according to whether you want a heavy or very heavy crop. For a clover field one-half that amount of nitrate of soda would be enough, or on land which has been lately heavily manured with stable manure.—Exchange.

Water for Cows.

The cow needs water to digest her food, to keep the body in running order, to wash out the products of digestion and for the milk supply, and if all these are to be kept in their normal condition water must be supplied or the milk flow suffers. It takes four pounds of water for every pound of dry matter in the food, or, if the cow is on dry food, it will require nearly 100 pounds of water to enable the cow to work up her daily ration. For every pound of milk given the cow requires 4 3-5 pounds of water, or 115 pounds of water for twenty-five pounds of milk. What between the food and the milk supply a cow needs an abundant supply of good, clean water, and if that cannot be obtained she will endeavor to make up the deficiency at the nearest mudhole, a place that is neither good for the health of the animal, her udder, nor the cleanliness of the milk. Mudholes for watering cows have been responsible for much ropy milk, gassy curd and poor flavored butter, to say nothing of the liability of disease bacteria invading the udder.—Hoard's Dairyman.

Value of Garden.

The market garden business is a very good business usually when one makes it his entire business. Yet there are always failures and disappointments in it. Some crops fail to grow well, and others yield abundantly and cannot be sold at a satisfactory price. But the family garden, a little larger than needed for the home supply, well manured and well cared for, is never a disappointment. If some crop is a partial failure it may not have any surplus over the home demand, but there will be something else to substitute for it. If another is over abundant and low priced it can be used freely, and will taste just as good as if the price were twice as high. If there is a market for the surplus and it is sold, it seems almost like finding money, and if it cannot be sold there are some who find much pleasure in supplying the wants of poorer neighbors who cannot afford to pay the price asked by retail dealers. Plan each year to have a good garden, and trust to luck only for the market.—American Cultivator.

Poultry in the South.

A large poultry farm is being developed near Hamilton, Va. Throughout nearly all sections of the South poultry is receiving more attention than heretofore. This is particularly true of the nearby southern sections, which are sending poultry in carload lots to this and other markets in larger quantities than ever before. The quality of the poultry is much improved over what it was in previous years and shows that the standard is steadily being raised in all the leading producing sections.—Southern Field.

Trolley Roads Helping Farmers.

Many of the farmers of the neighborhood surrounding the city of Toledo have had special wagons built for sending the produce to market. The wheels of these wagons are fitted to run on electric lines. The farmers load the wagons and drive them up to the nearest trolley line, when a motor car picks them up, one after another, and hauls them to the city. The City Council of Toledo has granted the right to run these rail wagons over the city street railway tracks. As the hauling is done mostly in the night time, it interferes very little with city traffic.—Exchange.

At the imperial court of Austria the chef of Emperor Francis Joseph estimates that of $250,000 expended on the tables every year, the "unused" represents about $100,000.

About 30 cities in Wisconsin are supplied with water from artesian wells.

THE HOUSEHOLD

Woman's Labor-Saving Apparatus.

The clothes boiler pictured here is the invention of Ella E. Hunter, of Rockport, Mo., and her intention is the production of a durable boiler provided with an openwork clothes receptacle, which can be raised and lowered by a simple mechanism carried from the exterior of the boiler, and calculated to facilitate the draining and removal of the clothes. When the clothes have boiled sufficiently the crank is revolved to wind up the cable, which passes underneath the basket, elevating the latter and draining out the water, when the garments cool rapidly and can be lifted out with the hands. The crank is fitted with a pawl which locks the basket in its elevated position until it is emptied, when the pawl is released, to allow the basket to fall back into the boiler again.

CLOTHES STEAINER AND LIFTER.

Currant Jelly.

To make currant jelly, wash the fruit and drain it in a colander. Then put the fruit in a dish and mash it thoroughly, after which squeeze the juice from it through a double piece of new cheese cloth. Measure the juice and an equal quantity of sugar. Put the juice into a preserving kettle and boil it for twenty minutes, skimming it frequently. Put the sugar on plates in the oven and heat it through, but do not brown it. At the end of the twenty minutes add the sugar to the juice and boil for five minutes. Try a spoonful on a plate, and if it jellies it should be removed from the fire. Fill into glasses and seal them tightly.

To Test Purity of Water.

So much sickness is attributed to the use of impure water that it would sometimes save suffering—and doctors' bills—if tests were occasionally made of the drinking water. A simple and safe test, well known by chemists, is as follows: Draw a tumblerful from the tap at night, put a piece of white lump sugar in it and place it where the temperature will not be under 60 degrees. In the morning the water, if pure, will be perfectly clear; if contaminated by sewage or other impurities, the water will be milky.

Cucumber and Tomato Salad.

Peel the cucumbers and cut in thin slices, let stand in salted water five minutes. Take the same amount of ripe tomatoes, peel and slice thin. In a glass dish place a layer of the cucumbers and then a layer of the tomatoes, alternating until the dish is full. Make a dressing of vinegar, olive oil or melted butter, one teaspoon to one cup vinegar, season with salt and pepper, and turn over the cucumber and tomato, enough to nearly cover. Let stand five minutes and serve.—A. R. Annable.

Furniture Polish.

Raw linseed oil and spirits of turpentine, in the proportions of two-thirds oil and one of turpentine, make the model furniture reviver. The woodwork should be first carefully wiped off with a dry, soft cloth and the dust thoroughly removed from corners and carvings. The best article to accomplish this is a large paint brush, usually called a painter's duster. The oil may then be applied with a smaller brush, wiping off with a soft cloth and rubbing thoroughly dry.

The Kitchen Table.

The cook's table is usually misplaced. It should be stood directly before the range so that the cook can turn from range to table without taking a single step. The table should be zinc and have a two barred rack in the center, running its entire length, from which all small cooking implements should be hung well within reach of the cook's hand. The condiments should stand on the table in distinctly different looking dredges.

Delicate Potatoes.

Chop very fine one quart of cold boiled potatoes, put them into a saucepan with one cup of cream, two tablespoonfuls of butter, a little salt and pepper, stir until hot, then turn into a baking dish, cover with bread or cracker crumbs, and bake brown in a brisk oven.

Useful to Know.

A sprinkling of coarse salt on the sidewalks and driveways will destroy grass and weeds.

The best remedy against ants is cayenne pepper. Spread it on the shelves of the store closet under the paper that covers them.

If brass or copper, after cleaning, is rubbed with old soft newspapers it will look much brighter and keep clean much longer.

Add a little turpentine to the water with which the floor is scrubbed. It will take away the close smell and make the room delightfully fresh.

Marks that have been made on paint with matches can be removed by rubbing first with a slice of lemon, then with whiting, and washing with soap and water.

Lemons may be kept for a long time, even months, under glass. If you are not going to use them immediately, lay them on a flat surface and invert a goblet over each one.

HOW JIM CAPTURED HIS GIRL.

Had to Do It by Taking in Two Burly Thieves.

"There is only one girl in this world for me," is the motto a police sergeant at the Harrison street police station kept in his mind over two years. Had it not been for the sergeant's handsome features and his bravery in capturing two desperate thugs in Michigan avenue, near 12th street, who had held up and robbed a saloon and were making their escape in a carriage in the avenue, it is feared he would not now enjoy calling his "only girl" his wife. But such is the case. It was a very hot day that the sergeant and his "only one girl," as he termed her, were walking along Michigan avenue. He had just proposed to her and had been rejected. He was downhearted, as he had staked his life that he would not be jilted, as he termed it. But his heart gave a bound when a shot rang out and a carriage attached to two maddened horses being lashed by their driver came tearing north in the avenue and pursued by a policeman.

"Oh, Jim," said the frightened girl, "protect me!" Giving the girl a squeeze and telling her to be brave, the handsome sergeant drew his revolver and leaped into the street in front of the fast approaching carriage. Grabbing the bridle of one horse, the sergeant hung on for dear life, while his sweetheart, who had almost shunned him before, began to cry, "Jim, don't get hurt, for I love you." Just as the girl uttered the words the robbers in the carriage leaped out of the vehicle. As they were about to make their escape they were confronted by the brave Jim, who held his revolver at their heads and made them surrender. This they did in a hurry when they caught sight of the revolver.

That evening Jim called again at the home of his sweetheart and was accepted by the girl. Six months later they were married, and now very often the sergeant's "only one girl in this world" will tell her handsome husband of the bravery he showed in capturing the robbers and she makes him happy by telling him that when he captured the bold criminals he also captured her heart.—Chicago Chronicle.

$25,000 for Flying Machines.

Our Government is to devote $25,000 for experimenting with flying machines for use in the army. This is a large sum and yet it cannot compare with that spent by those who experiment with so-called dyspepsia cures. Take Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. It is made expressly to cure constipation, dyspepsia and all stomach disorders.

Origin of Greenhouses.

William Watson, of Kew, says that the first greenhouse erected in England was in the Apothecaries' Garden at Chelsea in 1684. It merely had glass sides, and was heated by a kind of oven. In 1717 a glass-roofed house was built by the Duke of Rutland at Belvoir Castle for foreign grapes, heated by furnaces placed under the floor of the house. Steam was first used in 1788, and hot water soon afterward was applied to a small house in the Jardin des Plantes at Paris.—Meehan's Monthly.

BEST FOR THE BOWELS.

No matter what ails you, headache to a cancer, you will never get well until your bowels are put right. CASCARETS help nature, cure you without a gripe or pain, produce easy natural movements, cost you just 10 cents to start getting your health back. CASCARETS Candy Cathartic, the genuine, put up in metal boxes, every tablet has C. C. C. stamped on it. Beware of imitations.

Another Life Wrecked.

He—I love you with all my heart, with all my mind, my every thought, my——

She (interrupting)—Yes, I know, but all that means so little!—Punch.

Have you seen Mrs. Austin's new dress?

Nothing more completely baffles one who is full of trick and duplicity than straightforward and simple integrity in another.—Colton.

Hall's Catarrh Cure

Is taken internally. Price 75 cents.

Luncheon between meals or nibbling at food from time to time is said by physicians to be one of the most harmful practices that can be indulged.

What Do the Children Drink?

Don't give them tea or coffee. Have you tried the new food drink called GRAIN-O? It is delicious and nourishing, and takes the place of coffee. The more Grain-O you give the children the more health you distribute through their systems. Grain-O is made of pure grains, and when properly prepared tastes like the choice grades of coffee, but costs about ¼ as much. All grocers sel lit. 15c and 25c.

Descendants of missionaries in the Hawaiian Islands constitute about one-twentieth of the white population, exclusive of the Portuguese.

Do Your Feet Ache and Burn?

Shake into your shoes Allen's Foot-Ease, a powder for the feet. It makes tight or new shoes feel easy. Cures Corns, Bunions, Swollen, Hot and Sweating Feet. At all druggists and shoe stores, 25c. Sample sent FREE. Address Allen S. Olmsted, LeRoy, N. Y.

A girl at Marion, Kan., died from a wound on the hand made by the barb on the back of a catfish.

What Shall We Have for Dessert?

This question arises in the family every day. Let us answer it to-day. Try Jell-O, a delicious and healthful dessert. Prepared in two minutes. No boiling! no baking! simply add a little hot water and set to cool. Flavors:—Lemon, Orange, Raspberry and Strawberry. At your grocers. 10 cts.

The Orange Free State's area is about 72,000 square miles, and the number of farms is over 7,000.

Lane's Family Medicine

Moves the bowels each day. In order to be healthy this is necessary. Acts gently on the liver and kidneys. Cures sick headache. Price 25 and 50c.

The capacity of the stomach is varied greatly by age and habits of eating.

Have you seen Mrs. Austin's new dress?

Melted butter requires three and a half hours for digestion.

G. A. R. Encampment

At Chicago. Excursion tickets via the Nickel Plate Road on sale Aug. 25th to Aug 29th, inclusive, good returing until Aug. 31st, inclusive, or by deposit until Sept. 30th, inclusive, at one cent a mile traveled. Write, wire, 'phone or call on nearest agent, or C. A. Asterlin, T. P. A., Fort Wayne, Ind.

Fight Your Liver

if you want to. But look out, or it will get the start of you. If it does, you will have dyspepsia, indigestion, biliousness, sick headache, poor blood, constipation.

Perhaps you have these already. Then take one of Ayer's Pills at bedtime. These pills gently and surely master the liver; they are an easy and safe laxative for the whole family; they give prompt relief and make a permanent cure. Always keep a box of them in the house.

25 cents a box. All druggists.

"I have raised a family of eleven children, all living at the present time, and I would not think I could keep house without Ayer's Pills. I have used them for twenty years, and there is no family laxative their equal."—S. C. DARDEN, Myrtle, Miss., May 22, 1900.

COWBOYS PASSING AWAY.

Picturesque Characters of the Western Plains Are Seldom Seen Now.

"A picturesque figure in American life is rapidly passing away," said L. Hatfield, of Texas, who is registered at the Ebbitt. "I refer to the cowboy of fiction, the man with the big sombrero, the bucking broncho and the shooting irons that he used to operate with reckless disregard for consequences as he rode at breakneck speed through some frontier town, yelling the while at his loudest. Such was the cowboy of dime novel fame, and, though the assertion has often been denied, he has existed and does exist yet in limited numbers. It is this class of the cowboy that is rapidly disappearing.

"The cowboy of practical existence, or 'cow puncher,' as he is known in the vernacular of the plains, is an important factor in Western life. He wears a sombrero and can sit a bucking broncho with all the grace of his more romantic brother, but his shooting irons are for use in guarding his herd from cattle thieves rather than the terrorization of peaceful citizens and he is as hard worked and industrious a citizen as you will met with in a day's travel. Instead of leading the wild life of a nomad, he is more likely to have a wife and several young hopefuls at the ranchhouse. He works hard, because he has to, and if his guns are ever taken from his holsters it is for the same reason. We have a great many more undesirable citizens in this country than the Texas cow puncher."—Washington Post.

Have you seen Mrs. Austin's new dress?

Reason for His Description.

"What do you think of my new bicycle skirt?" she asked.

"It is one of the wittiest I have seen," he replied.

"Wittiest!" she exclaimed.

"Certainly," he answered. "Brevity is the soul of wit, is it not?"—Chicago Evening Post.

The Nickel Plate Road

Offers the low rate of one cent a mile traveled to Chicago for the Annual Encampment of the G. A. R. Tickets on sale Aug. 25th to 29th, inclusive, good returning until Aug. 31st, inclusive, or by deposit until Sept. 30th, inclusive. Write, wire, 'phone or call on nearest agent, on C. A. Asterlin, T. P. A., Fort Wayne, Ind.

Business Lace and Ribbons.

"We have a society typewriter girl."

"What kind is that?"

"Why, she comes down to work dressed up as if she were going to a party."—Indianapolis Journal.

Piso's Cure cannot be too highly spoken of as a cough cure.—J. W. O'Brien, 322 Third avenue, N., Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 6, 1900.

Motor Fire Engine in Paris.

The new motor fire engine of the Paris municipality is doing excellent work. It carries six men and travels at the rate of thirteen miles an hour.

Every Boy and Girl should learn to write with Carter's Ink, because it is the best in the world. "Inklings in Ink," free. Carter's Ink Co., Boston.

Many circus performers are born to the circuses; many of them have never known another life.

Have you seen Mrs. Austin's new dress?

The population of Edinburgh is now within about 1,000 of 300,000.

If you want the Best there is, tell your Job Printer to use Eagle Linen for your Letter Heads and Envelopes.

The 34th Annual Encampment

Of the G. A. R. at Chicago. For this occasion the Nickel Plate Road will sell tickets at one cent a mile traveled on Aug. 25th to 29th, inclusive. Good returning until Aug. 31st, inclusive, or by deposit until Sept. 30th, inclusive, on any one of our Peerless Trio of Daily Express Trains where scheduled to stop. Write, wire, 'phone or call on nearest agent, or C. A. Asterlin, T. P. A., Fort Wayne, Ind.

French Express Trains.

Improvements in the speed of certain trains on the Northern Railway of France are attracting attention in Europe just now. The distance between Calais Pier and the Nord Station in Paris is 185.5 miles. Some trains make the trip in less than four hours, or at the rate of fifty or more miles an hour. One, which runs only four days a week, the Mediterranean train de luxe, covers the distance in three hours and a quarter, which is equal to fifty-seven miles an hour. This run is made without a stop. The fastest time made on a daily train on the Northern Railway of France is three hours and a half, or fifty-three miles an hour. One of the London newspapers, referring to the topic, says that the nearest approach to this speed in England are these two: The trip is made from Paddington to Exeter, 194 miles, in three hours and forty-three minutes, or at the rate of 52.2 miles an hour, and from Euston to Liverpool, 193½ miles, in three hours and three-quarters, or at the rate of 51.6 miles an hour. It is interesting to compare with these figures the running time of the Empire State express. This train covers 444 miles in eight hours and a quarter, which represents an average speed of 53.8 miles an hour.

Try Grain-O! Try Grain-O!

Ask your Grocer to-day to show you a package of GRAIN-O, the new food drink that takes the place of coffee. The children may drink it without injury as well as the adult. All who try it like it. GRAIN-O has that rich seal brown of Mocha and Java, but it is made of pure grains, and the most delicate stomach receives it without distress. ¼ the price of coffee. 15c and 25c per package. Sold by all grocers.

Talking About Weeds.

"She's a mighty pretty girl and has a lot of money. Wonder what her father is? Must be a landed proprietor, for he's always talking about hay and straw and such things."

"Cigar manufacturer, probably!"—Heitere Welt.

Have you seen Mrs. Austin's new dress?

Stair Climbing.

A well-known physician declares that stair-climbing is the very best thing for the health, when performed in the proper manner.

Attention! Comrades.

The Nickel Plate Road will sell tickets to Chicago for the 34th Annual Encampment of the G. A. R., Aug. 25th to 29th, inclusive, at one cent a mile traveled, good returning until Aug. 31st, inclusive, or by deposit until Sept. 30th, inclusive. Write, wire, 'phone or call on nearest agent, or. C. A. Asterlin, T. P. A., Fort Wayne, Ind.

Vinegar taken with food greatly delays and sometimes entirely prevents proper digestion.

Jell-O. The New Dessert,

pleases all the family. Four flavors:—Lemon, Orange, Raspberry and Strawberry. At your grocers. 10 cts.

The frying pan is said by physicians to do almost as much harm as the beer mug.

Have you seen Mrs. Austin's new dress?

Salt and soda are excellent for bee stings and spider bites.

Air Cushion Rubber Stamps—the Best—the Cheapest. Send your orders to Lock Box 219, Fort Wayne, Ind.

The Nickel Plate Road.

Will sell excursion tickets to Chicago for the 34th Annual Encampment of the G. A. R. at one cent a mile traveled. Good going from Aug. 25th to 29th, inclusive, and returning until Aug. 31st, inclusive, or by deposit until Sept. 30th, inclusive, on any one of our Peerless Trio of Daily Express Trains where scheduled to stop. Write, wire, 'phone or call on nearest agent or C. A. Asterlin, T. P. A., Fort Wayne, Ind.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children teething; softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25 cents a bottle.

F. W. N. U. - - No. 34—1900.

When Writing to Advertisers please say you saw the Advertisement in this paper

Cigar Dealers Like to have their regular customers smoke

Old Virginia Cheroots

because they know that once a man starts smoking them he is "fixed," and that he will have no more trouble with him trying to satisfy him with different kinds of Five Cent cigars.

Three hundred million Old Virginia Cheroots smoked this year. Ask your own dealer. Price, 3 for 5 cents.

EXACT COPY OF WRAPPER.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

In Use For Over Thirty Years

CASTORIA

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine.

Rotary Motion and

Ball Bearings.

Porter Depew, Agent.

CHICHESTER'S ENGLISH PENNYROYAL PILLS

Safe. Always reliable. Ladies, ask Druggist for CHICHESTER'S ENGLISH in Red and Gold metallic boxes, sealed with blue ribbon. Take no other. Refuse dangerous substitutions and imitations. Buy of your Druggist, or send 4c. in stamps for Particulars, Testimonials and "Relief for Ladies," in letter, by return Mail. 10,000 Testimonials. Sold by all Druggists.

CHICHESTER CHEMICAL CO.
2100 Madison Square, PHILA., PA.
Mention this paper.

Mott's Nerverine Pills

BEFORE AND AFTER USING.

The great remedy for nervous prostration and all nervous diseases of the generative organs of either sex, such as Nervous Prostration, Failing or lost Manhood, Impotency, Nightly Emissions, Youthful Errors, Mental Worry, excessive use of Tobacco or Opium, which lead to Consumption and Insanity. $1.00 per box by mail; 6 boxes for $5.00.

MOTT'S CHEMICAL CO., Prop's, Cleveland, Ohio.

Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

MOTT'S PENNYROYAL PILLS

They overcome Weakness, Irregularity and omissions, increase vigor and banish "pains of menstruation." They are "Life Savers" to girls at womanhood, aiding development of organs and body. Be known remedy for women, equals them. Cannot do harm—life becomes a pleasure. $1 per box by mail. Sold by druggists.

MOTT CHEMICAL CO., Cleveland, O.

Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

PATENTS DESIGNS TRADE-MARKS AND COPYRIGHTS OBTAINED FREE

ADVICE AS TO PATENTABILITY
Notice in "Inventive Age"
Book "How to obtain Patents"

Charges moderate. No fee till patent is secured. Letters strictly confidential. Address, E. G. SIGGERS, Patent Lawyer, Washington, D. C.

PILES Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment will cure Blind, Bleeding and Itching Piles. It absorbs the tumors, allays the itching at once, acts as a poultice, gives instant relief. Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment is prepared for Piles and Itching of the private parts. Every box is warranted. By druggists, by mail on receipt of price, 50 cents and $1.00. WILLIAMS MANUFACTURING CO., Props., Cleveland, Ohio.

Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

Foley's Honey and Tar heals lungs and stops the cough.

Sheriff's Sale.

By virtue of an execution issued on a transcript of a judgment filed in the office of the clerk of the DeKalb circuit court on the 22d day of April, 1895, and to me directed by the clerk of said court, I will offer for sale at public auction and outcry, to the highest bidder, at the door of the court house in Auburn, DeKalb county, Indiana, on

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 1, 1900,

between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m. and 4 o'clock p. m. of said day, the rents and profits for a term not exceeding seven years of the following described real estate, situated in DeKalb county, in the state of Indiana, to-wit;

Lot numbered seventy-two [72] in Ensley's second addition to the town of Auburn.

And in case the rents and profits fail to bring the amount demanded to satisfy the judgment and decree aforesaid, interest and costs, together with all accruing costs thereon; and also in case the rents and profits of said property fail to bring the additional amount demanded to satisfy the judgment and decree, interest and costs, together with all accruing costs due Moody & Rickel on a judgment rendered in the DeKalb circuit court on the 21st day of May, 1895, for $108.02, and to me directed by the clerk of said court; and also, if the rents and profits of said property fail to bring the additional amount demanded to satisfy the judgment and decree, cree, interest and costs, together with all accruing costs due Moody & Rickel on a judgment rendered in the DeKalb circuit court on the 16th day of March, 1895, for $109 75 and to me directed by the clerk of said court, I will at the same time and place, and in like manner as aforesaid, offer for sale, at public auction and outcry, to the highest bidder, all the right, title, interest and estate in fee simple of Grant Owens and John C. Owens at his death and now holden by his heirs, in and to the above described real estate, or so much and such part thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the judgments and decrees aforesaid, which are in favor of Solomon Shilling and Moody & Rickel, and against Grant Owens and John C. Owens.

Said real estate will be sold without relief from valuation or appraisement laws, and subject to the redemption laws of the state of Indiana.

JOHN H. HATHAWAY,
Sheriff of DeKalb County, Indiana.
Moody & Rickel, Attorneys for Plaintiff.
August 6, 1900.

CLAY CITY, IND., Jan. 14, 1897.
Dr. W. B. Caldwell, Monticello, Ill.
SIR:—I have used Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin for dyspepsia and constipation with great benefit to myself. Some days I was not able to do my office work. I had run down to only 135 lbs. After taking several bottles of your wonderful medicine I now weigh 185 lbs. I now feel like a new man. I have recommended Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin to my friends and will answer any and all letters of inquiry I may receive as to the merits of your medicine. Yours respectfully,
WM. H. SHIRELY, Prop. Kline Hotel.
H. B. McCord.

—The population of Greater New York, which includes Brooklyn and the two nearest counties, Queens and Richmond is about 3,287,000, showing a heavy gain in ten years.

—"Through the months of June and July our baby was teething and took a running off of the bowels and sickness of the stomach," says O. P. M. Holliday of Deming, Ind. "His bowels would move from five to eight times a day. I had a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy in the house and gave him four drops in a teaspoonful of water and he got better at once. Sold by H. B. McCord.

—Gov. Mount has proclaimed September 3, as Labor Day this year, and has asked that it be "observed by appropriate ceremonies and by the closing of all places where labor finds employment."

—The laws of health require that the bowels move once each day and one of the penalties for violating this law is piles. Keep your bowels regular by taking a dose of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets when necessary and you will never have that severe punishment inflicted upon you. Price, 25 cents. For sale by H. B. McCord.

—Three hundred employes of the Indiana Iron Company, Muncie, are idle because 20 bolt makers refuse to submit to a 15 per cent reduction in wages.

Wednesday's Daily.

—Miss Edith Feagler spent the day yesterday in the country the guest of Miss Nettie Olinger.

—Gwenevere and Vinita Stamets of Fort Wayne are visiting in the family of their uncle, Frank Stamets of East Auburn.

—Joseph Sweeney, aged twenty and a son of the state fish commissioner, was drowned while bathing in White river at Columbus last Tuesday.

—Nicholas Ensley has been appointed by Gov. Mount as one of the members of a commission to inspect and report on the placing of monuments on the Chickamauga battlefield.

—H. H. Haynes of Fort Wayne was nominated at that place last night by the social democrats as their candidate for congress from the Twelfth district. The convention was attended by about fifty people.

—Married at the residence of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Till, of Waterloo, by Rev. W. O. Butler, August 11, 1900, Charles F. Whitford of Kendallville and Miss Madge Haskins.

—Isaac Brown of Waterloo has filed suit in the circuit court against the Lake Shore railroad company, asking $5,000 damages for the death of his son Emmett, who was killed by a train at that place several weeks ago.

—The accident to Mrs. Silberg, mentioned in yesterday's Daily, was more serious than at first reported. We learn today that one hip was fractured and that on account of her age Mrs. Silbern is in a rather serious condition.

—A letter from S. Z. Dickinson at Emerald, Mich., brings a year's subscription to the Weekly. It was dated Aug. 13, and that being his birthday, he concluded he would do all the good he could. We are glad he is putting in the summer so pleasantly. He says the farmers up there are still cutting oats and hay. Their crops are all excellent except wheat, which has been partly a failure.

—Fort Wayne Sentinel—The civil engineers of the new Fort Wayne and Butler railroad company left the city early this morning to survey a new short line that will have for its object the reaching of all the towns along the St. Joe river. The new survey will pass north just west of Cedarville and Leo, comes in close proximity to Hursh, and strikes the former survey abrut seven miles north of the starting point. If the new route proves practicable it may be adopted.

—Mrs. Clem Brandon died at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Myers, on the old McClellan farm south of town, about 1 o'clock yesterday, aged 31 years. As heretofore noted Mrs. Brandon has been a long and patient sufferer and her death had been expected for some time. The funeral services will be held at the Myers home Thursday at 10 o'clock, conducted by Rev. Brosy. Interment in Woodlawn cemetery under direction of G. S McCord.

Thursday's Daily.

—Miss Flora Hoffman and Miss Lydia Teeters visited friends at Pleasant Lake today.

—The old regulators of Noble county will hold their annual reunion at Albion August 29.

—The reunion of the Thirteenth Indiana will be held at Cromwell Sept. 20, instead of the 12th.

—When you go to buy bluing, insist upon having Rues Bleaching Blue and not some of the many imitations. 35

—The new fountains on the public square are now in use and furnish plenty of water for both man and beast.

—Several DeKalb county hay buyers have been in Baltimore this week attending the national hay buyers' convention.

—LOST:—Gold wire ring with five small diamond sets. Finder will be liberally rewarded by returning same to W. E. Ryan.

—WANTED:—Black Walnut logs for timber. Highest cash prices paid for same. Address, The Sanders & Egbert Co., Goshen, Ind. 8

—V. B. Conklin, Bowersville, O., says: "I received more benefit from Foley's Kidney Cure than from months of treatment by physicians." Take no substitute. H. B. McCord.

—John Lape and Miss Salome Wilkes both of Jackson township, were united in marriage by Esquire Walter at his office on Wednesday evening. The newly wedded pair will make their home in Jackson township.

—"If anybody asks you how I'm feeling these warm days," said Indiana's growing corn—the most amazing maize—"just tell them in the language of the late Major McClusky, I'm leven ears to every hill, and feeling pretty husky."

—The democrats of Grant township have nominated the following ticket: Trustee, Harry Reed; assessor, Fred Ahrendt; supervisors, John Wymer, John Frick, Joseph Wildason and Joseph Stahl; advisory board, Henry Rohm, R. N. Crooks and Wm. H. Fisher.

—Joe Hartman has moved the barn which stood back of Eberle & Freygang's harness shop to Harry Draggoo's property in the south part of town where it will be used by Mr. Mr. Draggoo as a stable for his running horses. Joe is a hustler at almost any kind of work.

—"My baby was terribly sick with the diarrhœa," says J. H. Doak of Williams, Oregon. We were unable to cure him with the doctor's assistance, and as a last resort we tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa remedy. I am happy to say it gave immediate relief and a complete cure." For sale by H. B. McCord.

Friday's Daily.

—Have you seen Mrs. Austin's new dress?

—J. M. Carmer and wife left on the Niagra Falls excursion last night.

FOR SALE:—A team of good work horses, with wagon and harness; also a good, fresh milch cow. See John Groscop. d1wtf

—F. M. Powers, H. F. Carpenter and several other Angola Masons were here this afternoon to attend the funeral of J. L. Davis.

—Ask your grocer for Rues' Bleaching Blue, do not be deceived by fraudulent imitations. See that the name Rues appears on all packages.

—Mrs. T. C. Ford came back from Hicksville last evening with as nice a lot of big pears as were ever seen in one basket. It was the gift of her father, G. W. Lewis.

—Mr. and Mrs. Aldrich of Hudson, Mich., are here, visiting relatives and friends, idcluding the family of Wm. Ashelman. They were guests yesterday of Mr. and Mrs. Teneyck.

—It is announced that the democratic campaign will be opened in Indiana September 1, with a meeting in every district, except the Seventh, where the campaign will be opened August 31.

—Mr. Barns reached home last night over the B & O. Some account of the Maumee Valley Pioneers' meeting will be given tomorrow and will likely be of special interest to DeKalb pioneers.

—The greatest skin specialist in America originated the formula for Banner Salve. For all skin diseases, all cuts or sores, and for piles, it's the most healing medicine. H. B. McCord.

—Among those at the Davis funeral were E. B. Gerber of Ligonier, J. S. Conlogue of Kendallville, Geo. Strayer of Ashley, W. H. Less of Waterloo and L. J. Gengler and Frank Kircher of Garrett.

—Rev. Frank Colvin came over from Cassopolis yesterday to join his wife and Master Waldo who have been visiting friends here for the past week. Rev. Colvin has been visiting his mother in eastern Ohio.

—What most people want is something mild and gentle, when in need of a physic. Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets fill the bill to a dot. They are easy to take and pleasant in effect. For sale by H. B. McCord.

—Edward M. Mongomery left Hillsdale, August 10, and has not been seen or heard from since. Montgomery is 47 years old and has been despondent for some time. A reward will be paid for information leading to his whereabouts.

—Mrs. Silberg is almost totally helpless as a result of her fall down stairs a few evenings since, and owing to her advanced age will hardly recover. She is being given the best of attention, but her physicians regard the case as serious.

—Several thousand people attended the old settlers' reunion at Angola yesterday and the weather was all that could be desired. The program was carried out as advertised, but some of the meeting places were uncomfortably crowded.

—J. D Ferrall of Lagrange was nominated for judge of the Elkhart-Lagrange circuit at Shipshewana yesterday on the second ballot. The convention was attended by several thousand people and with five candidates in the field was a lively affair.

—J. E. Pomeroy has received from the Klondike poultry farm at Waveland a turkey cock and two hens which are as fine birds as were ever seen in this part of the country. Mr. Pomeroy has placed them on his farm east of town for breeding purposes.

—S. C. Snyder went to St. Joe yesterday to care for the car of horses he had shipped there. He will put them on his big farm this side of Newville. He has already raised a fine lot of cattle there, and expects to make it the leading stock farm in the county.

—C. A. Picker and Alex. Guilford began today on the brickwork on John Zimmerman's house. They were out at Ol. Grogg's yesterday and laid 1,400 tile on his foundation, and have just completed the brickwork for the first three of the McClellan houses in East Auburn.

—The COURIER is in receipt of a copy of the Lawton memorial and program of the Thirtieth Indiana Veterans' reunion to be held at Cromwell September 20, through the courtesy of Philip Noel, vice president of the association. It is a neat and well illustrated pamphlet printed in the office of the Ligonier Leader.

—By an agreement between the petitioners and remonstrators in the Bilger joint ditch between Noble and DeKalb counties, the commissioners have granted leave to amend the original petition by striking out lateral No. 1, and changing the starting point of the main ditch. Further considerations will be made in September.

—YOUNG MEN WANTED:—With fair education and good character, to learn telegraphy, railroad accounting and typewriting. This is endorsed by all leading railroad companies as the only perfect and reliable institution of its kind. All our graduates are assisted to positions. Ladies also admitted. Write for free catalogue. Fall term opens August 15th.—Globe Telegraph College, Lexington, Ky. tf

While waiting for a change of cars at Galatea, Ohio, yesterday, we had quite a visit with Harry Stafford who has a position with both roads there. The B. & O. and the Toledo and Ohio Central cross at that point, and Harry has charge half the time of the switch tower and interlocking switches and telegraphing. He is looking well and evidently doing well, and seems to stand high with the people there.

What Will Bryan's Plurality be in Indiana?

$1,000

IN PRIZES to 76 subscribers to THE INDIANA STATE SENTINEL who come nearest guessing the plurality Indiana will give Bryan over McKinley.

The publishers of The Indiana State Sentinel will award seventy-six prizes to seventy-six subscribers, who at any time before the close of the polls Tuesday, Nov. 6, correctly estimate or come nearest doing so, Bryan and Stevenson's plurality over McKinley and Roosevelt in Indiana.

First prize	$300.00
Second prize	200.00
Third prize	100.00
Fourth prize	75.00
Fifth prize	50.00
Sixth prize	25.00
5 prizes of $15 each	75.00
5 prizes of $10 each	50.00
10 prizes of $5 each	50.00
25 prizes of $2 each	50.00
25 prizes of $1 each	25.00
	1,000.00

NOTE—The result will be decided from the vote cast for the head of the democratic electoral ticket.

If the unexpected should happen and Mr. Bryan not carry the state, then the lowest plurality guess, or the one nearest the result, will get the prize.

Where two or more guesses are the same, the first one received will be awarded the prize.

Guessers should be careful to write name and address plainly, and also state whether they are an old or new subscriber.

76 Guesses

$1,000 To The Winners

Conditions.

Any subscriber, old or new, is entitled to one guess on payment of 50 cents—one year's subscription—received at this office before the close of polls on election day—Tuesday, Nov. 6, 1900. The name of subscriber remitting the money will be recorded with the figures of his guess. The receipt of money, as well as his estimate of Bryan and Stevenson's plurality over McKinley and Roosevelt in Indiana, will be acknowledged, and should be laid aside by him until the official vote of Indiana shall have been ascertained, when the names of prize-takers will be duly announced in these columns.

If your subscription is not paid in advance pay it now and participate in this great distribution of actual money. If your subscription is paid in advance, send us 50 cents for another year and give a guess. You stand a chance of getting $300 for 50 cents, and if you do not hit a prize you have your money's worth in The Indiana State Sentinel, the greatest family newspaper in the West.

SEND in your 50 cents with your guess at once. Your judgment is as likely to be correct at this time as it is the day before election. Be careful to date your guesses, and remember you can have as many guesses as you take subscriptions to The Indiana State Sentinel.

CUT THIS OUT AND SEND TO INDIANAPOLIS SENTINEL CO.
—INDIANAPOLIS, IND.—

SENT BY .....

P. O. .....

COUNTY..... STATE.....

My Guess Bryan and Stevenson's plurality over McKinley and Roosevelt in Indiana will be..... Enclosed find 50 cents for which send THE INDIANA STATE SENTINEL for one year

TO .....

.....

If The Indiana State Sentinel is already going to this address send for one year from date present subscription expires.

Saturday's Daily.

—Mrs Nettie Harter is expected here Monday to oversee some repairs on her house.

—Daniel Myers, living on Dutch Ridge in Allen county, had three horses killed this morning by lightning.

—E. Zimmerman and wife are at St. Joe attending the funeral old Mr. Leighty, the father of J. D. Leighty.

—HOUSE FOR RENT:—Good house at reasonable price. Inquire at H. Greenberg's, North VanBuren-st. Auburn.

—Sam Galloway and wife have returned from their visit in Ohio and are now visiting their relatives, Braid Kail and wife.

—Oscar Hoffman, south of Bachtel's Mill, will grind all kinds of house cutlery, plow points, etc. in good style. Try him. tf

—Miss Laura Keeran has gone to Summit to nurse Mrs. Martin Jackman, who has been ill since the death of her husband.

—Albert Penland who has been in the employ of Mrs. Lorena Kuhlman for some time, returned to Pleasant Lake yesterday.

—John Weaver has a letter from his daughter, Delain, Idaho, saying she has shipped them some peaches, and saying she and Mr. Koons are well.

—UPHOLSTERING and repairing furniture neatly done. Call on me next door south of Pickering's Photo gallery Jackson street.—Wm. Hyler.

—An official report from San Juan says that the exchange of Porto Rican money for that of the United States was accomplished on August 1.

—Geo. Hurni reached here today for a week's visit with his mother. His wife remains at their home at Brookville, Ind., where they are evidently prospering.

—PARTNER WANTED:—In an established business with capital of $800 to $1,000. Meat man preferred. Big profits guaranteed. Address E. Klinknecht, Box 586, Auburn. a16

—The annual reunion of the Twelfth Indiana regiment will be held at Fortville, September 18. Gen. Reub. Williams of the Warsaw Daily Times is president of the association.

—The dread of people with weak lungs who suffer with stubborn coughs is consumption. Foley's Honey and Tar, if taken in time, cures incipient consumption. H. B. McCord.

—HUSTLING YOUNG MAN can make $60 per month and expenses. Permanent position. Experience unnecessary. Write quick for particulars. Clark & Co., Fourth & Locust sts., Phil., Pa. tf

—S. Z. Dickinson who is spending the summer in Michigan is now working his way toward the great peach belt. Just like him. He will for a time be at Douglas in Allen county. He goes from there to Chicago for the National encampment.

—John Shugers returned yesterday from a week's visit in Ashland and Wayne counties, Ohio, which were the scenes of his early years. He says while some parts look natural and home-like, others seem to be going back and farms neglected and in a state of decay. Crops there are good except wheat which was a total failure.

DEMOCRATS!

The Struggle Is On!

EVERY LITTLE HELPS—WILL YOU DO YOUR SHARE?

HOW? Have a picture of our great leader,

WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN,

where all can see it, and get your friends to do likewise.

Send us three two-cent stamps to cover costs and we will mail you an elegant phototyve picture of W. J. BRYAN. We want you to display them in your home. Or if you will give twenty away to your friends to display, we will send you one of them beautifully framed in Oak, with glass front, suitable for office, home or club, and also 20 of the phototyves to distribute to your friends, for One Dollar—cash or stamps.

Don't delay. Time is short and our opponents are working hard. The Democratic Party needs your help now. Push the good work along.

SOUTHERN REVIEW OF COMMERCE—* * * A work of art * * * It should be widely distributed.

BOND INVESTMENT FIELD—* * * A masterpiece * * * Flood the country with them. A little effort and the victory is ours.

NATIONAL DEMOCRATIC ADVANCEMENT LEAGUE,
Headquarters Suite 31, Seives Building,
CINCINNATI, OHIO.

MONEY TO LOAN

At 5%

We are prepared to place loans on farm property in DeKalb county in sums of $700 and upwards for 5 years at 5 per cent with the priviledge of paying the same in payments of $100 or any multiple thereof at any interest pay day.

RICHARDS & BIRDSALL,
Hicksville, Ohio.

I have found relief in BARNES KIDNEY & BLADDER CURE

—The state fair this year will be one of the largest and best ever held, a number of new attractions having been secured.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY.
Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. E. W. Grove's signature is on each box. 25c.

—While twenty-six prisoners were being transferred from Jeffersonville to Michigan City yesterday two men named Turner and Miller jumped from the train near Otis and escaped. The men were chained together but it is supposed one of them managed to saw off his shackles.

THE AUBURN COURIER.

Volume XXX. Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana, Thursday, August 30, 1900. Number 3.

The Farmers Bank of Auburn,

Uunder State Supervision and Control.

Capital and Surplus.....$50,000.00
Assets at Last Official Statement.....$346,278.95

Pays interest on deposits if left four months; Loans money and transacts a general banking business.

YOUR BUSINESS IS SOLICITED!

ALBERT ROBBINS, President;
A. C. ROBBINS, Cashier

The McClellan Bank,

AUBURN, IND

Certificates of deposits issued, drawing interest if left six months. County and Town Orders bought and sold. Money Loaned on Farms, Personal Security, or Live Stock. Notes bought.

C. A. G. McCLELLAN, ESTATE
CHARLES McCLELLAN
D. A. GARWOOD,
ISAAC HAGUE.
} C. A. BENEDICT, Cashier

Physicians and SURGEONS

O. J. Swarts, M. D
Vesta W. Swarts, M. D

Office at Auburn Sanitary Baths, corner Main and Sixth Streets.

Professional Calls Promptly Answered.

'PHONES: Western..... No. 1; Central Union..... No. 19

Sprott & Knapp,

Abstracters of Titles to Land and Lots,

AUBURN, IND.

☞ Office in Gandy Block, North of Court House.

J.E. Graham, D.D.S.

DENTIST

Over Davenport's Drugstore, Auburn, Ind.

CROWN AND BRIDGE WORK A SPECIALTY.

All Work Guaranteed } { Gas Administered.

CENTRAL 'PHONE 513.

Will be at Waterloo each Wednesday in Dr. Darby's Office.

DENTIST F. W. HOFFMAN,

Auburn, Ind,

Office in Gandy Building, Northeast Corner of Court Square.

WESTERN 'PHONE 103.

Crown and Bridge Work a Sprcialty.

DR. Z. H. STAMETS,

Physician & Surgeon

Office on Main street opposite Swinefotd Hotel.

Western 'Phone 104

Special attention given to all diseases of stomach and kidneys, and to chronic and obscure diseases; surgery and diseases of women and children. Calls answered at all hours. Office apart from residence.

J.W. Y. McCLELLAN,

AGENT,

Auburn, Ind.

Attention Farmers —AND— Horse Breeders!

Having purchased the Pure Bred Clydesdale Stallion, "Gallant Foe," who weighs 1,700 pounds, and is a first-class horse in every respect; in connection with my Cleveland Bay Stallion, who weighs 1,350, I respectfully invite you to look them over before breeding. Will make the season at my Livery and Feed Barn in Auburn, Ind.

D. N. MYERS.

A School Idyl.

Ram it in, cram it in;
Children's heads are hollow.
Slam it in, jam it in;
Still there's more to follow—
Hygiene and history,
Astronomic mystery,
Algebra, histology,
Latin, etymology,
Botany, geometry,
Greek and trigonometry.
Ram it in, cram it in;
Children's heads are hollow.

Rap it in, tap it in;
What are teachers paid for?
Bang it in, slam it in;
What are children made for?
Ancient archaeology,
Aryan philology,
Prosody, zoology,
Physics, clinictology,
Calculus and mathematics,
Hoax it in, coax it in;
Children's heads are hollow.

Scold it in, mold it in;
All that they can swallow.
Fold it in, mold it in;
Still there's more to follow.
Faces pinched and sad and pale,
Tell the same undying tale—
Tell of moments robbed from sleep
Meals untasted, studies deep;
Those who've passed the journey through,
With aching brow will tell to you
How the teacher crammed it in,
Little sandball chaps, forlorn;
Then v.ew heads were hollow.

The bride carried lilies of the y and her only ornament was a t of pearls.—From the French.

KITCHEN WATER MOTOR.

Chicago, July 22. A. H. Nelson.

The Meanest Hotel Man.

"The meanest specimen of a white man I ever met was a fellow who ran a hotel, had inherited his father's miserly character and had been discharged by the local baseball club, for whom he had officiated as official umpire, because he was to stingy too give a man his base on balls.

"I arrived at the hotel one evening and was assigned to a room. I expected to meet two friends at the place in the morning, and we were all to travel together to Boston. After breakfast I found that the morning newspaper was kept behind the hotel counter and given to guests on request; the washroom was locked tightly, the key in possession of the clerk, and the hotel pens and ink were kept locked up until asked for, for fear of waste. My friends arrived about ten o'clock that morning, and we were to leave on the 11 o'clock train. We sat in the office to while the hour away, and a discussion arose between my two friends, whose watches varied a few moments. Pulling forth their timepieces they compared them with the hotel office clock. I noticed that the father and son, proprietor and clerk of the hotel, were holding an animated whispered conversation and in a mo ment the father approached my friends and said:

"Excuse me, but are you gen'l'men stopping at this house?"

"No," said my friend, "just waiting for a train."

"Put her up, Jabe," commanded the old man.

"And the son solemnly mounted a chair and hung the following sign, which he had hastily prepared with a marking brush, on the wall underneath the clock:

THIS CLOCK
IS FOR THE USE OF GUESTS OF THE HOTEL ONLY.

Her Birthday.

Yesterday was Julia Cartwright's sixth birthday, and her mother planned a surprise by inviting a number of her little friends and cousins. They were: Mamie and Florence Dancer, Flora and Robbie Hensinger, Mamie and Roy Garrett, Charley Richards, Hazel Dickinson, Minnie Hensinger, Grace Lockwood. About five o'clock after they had played all afternoon, ice cream and cake was served; after that came the supper, and then after a few more games were played they left for home wishing Julia many more such happy birthdays.

It is a Curse.

Constipation is a curse, and afflicts too great a portion of the American people. There is no excuse for it either, as we sell a remedy that will banish the curse, and with moderate use will keep you well. It is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Sold in 10c, 50c and $1.00 sizes. For sale by H. B. McCord.

You Owe It to All

your friends to tell them of the curative power of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. I'll bet half of em have stomach trouble. Send for 10c, 50 or $1 bottle to H. B. McCord.

DYSPEPTICIDE
The greatest aid to DIGESTION.

Court House Wrecked.

An explosion occurred Tuesday morning in the court house at Medina, O., and badly injured Henry Jones, the janitor. The explosion occurred at 8:10 o'clock when few others were in the building. Jones was cleaning out a dark closet and came upon a heavy 16 by 18 inch box, which he placed with rubbish and paper in a wheelbarrow. The paper became ignited from a candle he carried and blazed up. Jones ran to a hydrant in the building for water and had just started back when the dynamite let go with a roar. The surrounding partitions were demolished and Jones was hurled back against a wall, receiving severe injuries. All the windows were blown out and doors and furniture were reduced to bits. The building is of brick and was shattered from roof to basement. The dynamite had been taken as evidence in a case in 1895 and had since remained in the closet.

He is Going East.

We received a telegram yesterday stating that Leroy L. Smith, a nephew, would pass through Auburn Junction over the B & O going east at 8:05 p. m. yesterday. Mr. and Mrs. Barns met him at the train and had a two-minutes visit. He is in fine health and spirits and going to New York City, where he expects a position as reporter on one of the great dailies. That is his profession. He is one of the two reporters who started in a canoe last year from the extreme source of the Mississppi to go to the gulf reporting as they went. Early in the journey, they were wrecked and lost everything, but managed to get out of the wilderness alive. Now, he goes east, to grow up with the country.

Hotter than Indiana.

So far as we have heard the sun has not started any fires here through the hot weather. But word comes from Burtinton, Iowa, of a queer accident. It says: The terrible heat that has oppressed this region for over three weeks culminated this afternoon in a startling spectacle in Jefferson street, the business thoroughfare of the city. A farmer was riding on a load of flour, when an umbrella he was holding over his head burst into flames and was consumed. The sight was witnessed by dozens of persons. It is thought the umbrella was an old one and might have had gasoline or some inflammable grease on it which the sun's rays ignited.

Notice to Farmers.

The South End flouring mills will this year confine its business strictly to the accommodation and interest of farmers, thereby enabling us to give each customer the best flour his wheat will make, which is not usually the case in custom and merchant mills where flour is shipped out. We have also arranged to grind your grist and give flour from your own wheat in grists of not less than ten bushels, flour all guaranteed. Chop and meal ground while you wait.—THE AUBURN CITY MILLS, South End. 35

Pupils get Medals.

The township trustees of Pulaski county will give gold medals to the best pupils in the public schools in all the townships. It will take about 250 to go around. The state superintendant, Pres. Parsons of the State Normal and Prof. Dennis of Earlham will be present and assist in the exercises. This is a new departure in school work and should certainly encourage the pupils and teachers of Pulaski.

For Whooping Cough.

"Both my children were taken with whooping cough," writes Mrs. O. E. Dutton, of Danville, Ills. "A small bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar gave such relief that I used a 50c bottle, which saved me a doctor's bill." H. B. McCord.

A Horrible Example.

The case of Jerry Simpson but goes to show how a good man may be ruined by wearing socks.—Washington Star.

A DEKALB GOLD MINE.

But it Was Already Worked up into Jewelry when Discovered.

About the strangest find ever recorded in DeKalb county, is that of Peter Loutzenheiser and his son Clarence. They have been cutting wood on Mrs. Walborn's farm about three miles west of town and about three weeks ago, Mr. Loutzenheiser saw something shining in the dirt and rubbish near an old, decared log. He scraped away the stuff and picked up a gold bracelet. This he took home, and his wife easily scoured it as bright and glittering as new. The place where he found it, was near the creek, at a sort of offset in the ground where cattle and hogs had torn it away some, and the men had loosen still more dirt while working there. This week on Tuesday, they were out there again, and Clarence, was going out by the same spot, and Mr. Loutzenheiser told him to take another look at that place as he went by, and perhaps they would find something more. He examined the ground slightly, and sure enough more gold came in sight. They at once dug up the ground thoroughly and found the iron frame of what had once been a sachel, in which apparantly the jewelry had been carried. All but the frame had disappeared, as had also the cards on which the pieces are usually fastened. In all they found fifteen or twenty bracelets, a lot of watch chains, rings, cuff and collar buttons, ear rings, pins, broaches, etc. The rubber in the bracelets made with rubber inside had all decayed, but those with link fastenings are in good shape and have been cleaned and most of them are bright as ever. It hardly seems possible that they have been in the ground so long. They were down about a foot in the ground, and roots had grown over them. The rings are mostly the kind with two hearts for the face, such as were in use about twenty years ago. Mr. Loutzenheiser could almost start a jewelry store. It is likely that some thief had looted a jewelry establishment and hastily threw the stuff into a sachel and got away. He may have buried it to enable him to get away, and come back for it later. But this is only conjecture. No one will ever be able to throw any light on it probably.

Surprised.

Mrs. O. E. Clay of this city, on returning home from Garrett yesteaday about noon, was made the victim of surprise by finding forty of her relatives and friends gathered at her home with well filled baskets to remind her of her 28th birthday anniversary.

The exercises for the day were enjoyable. and consisted of songs, prayers, dinner, supper, presenting gifts, selections from a phonograph, and a general good time.

Among the guests were Rev. Watkins and wife of Edgerton, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Clay, Mr. and Mrs. Jake Thomas and other friends from Bryan, Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Bowers, Mrs. Cyrus Olinger and others from this city.

Eleventh Indiana Battery.

The seventeenth annual reunion of the Eleventh Indiana Battery will be held at the City Hall in Fort Wayne, on Wednesday, Sept. 12, 1900. Business meeting at 9:30 a. m. All are requested to be ready to parade with the Union Veteran Legion at 2:00 p. m. Grand encampment of Union Veteran Legion meets at Fort Wayne, Sept. 11, 12, 13, 14, and a good time is anticipated. Would like to have you and your family attend.—John Otto, President.

A 20-Pound Baby

can take Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin with as much safety and beneficial results as an adult. It is a mild, liquid laxative and children thrive upon it. Syrup Pepsin assists nature in cleansing the system, and its use is not attended with any of the unpleasant griping and nauseating effects caused by the use of pills or so-called cathartics. Try a 10c size bottle (10 doses 10 cents.) Also sold in 50c and $1 sizes by H. B. McCord.

Yearly Meeting.

The yearly meeting of the Christian church will be held in Corunna, beginning Friday, August 31, and continuing three days. Saturday Prof. Fairfield will be there and help over Sunday. The Sunday meetings will be in the Brumbeck grove. There will be excellent speakers and all are invited.

Fatality Follows Failure

to use Foley's Kidney Cure in time. If taken in earlier stages of Bright's disease and diabetes, it is certain cure. You have noticed the high death rate from these diseases, and it is not to ignore early symptoms when a medicine like Foley's Kidney Cure can be had. H. B McCord.

Now It's the Lady Tramp.

A lady tramp was seen in our neighborhood last week.—Mount Morris (Ill.) Index.

Our Saturday Evenings.

CHAPTER XLV.

Cal Husselman is one of the best known men in the state. In fact he begins to admit that if he were not quite as well known, it would be as satisfactory and as profitable.

Mike Schumm is a Dutchman,
Of credit and renown,
And now he is a citizen
Of famous Auburn town.

The above improvement on Cowper's famous John Gilpin poem, comes in very handy. It is also partly owing to Cal that Mike is a citizen here. Mike had met Mr. H. at some farmers' institute and become acquainted, we believe, in that way, and later on he heard of the fertility of DeKalb county farms and made up his mind that he would leave the attractive town of Anna, Ind., and settle near Auburn. That is probably the way a great message came to reach Mr. H. a few days ago saying, "Meet me at the Lake Shore evening train on Saturday. I am coming up to stay over Sunday."

As the train slowed up Cal saw a sturdy figure rise in the car and soon after the car was still, a strong man stepped to the platform with a bundle under each arm. It was Mike Schumm with two babies, and he called out cheerily, "This isn't all of 'em. There are eight in all and my wife is here too." And they kept coming out and down, and when Mike Schumm und Frau Schumm und Fraulein Schumm und Yakob Schumm und Hermann Schumm und Hans Schumm und Bertha Schumm und Reinold Schumm und die kleine Gretchen und der kleinste Fritz, all lined up on the platform, they formed the cutest set of stairs in Auburn. But there were stares of another sort. Cal Husselman and Cal VanAuken both stared. But the former was in for it, and his friend VanAuken, volunteering assistance, the Schumm family was divided into two equal parts as nearly as could be, and the two loads started up through town. They stopped long enough to telephone to Mrs. Husselman that she could prepare for ten guests instead of one.

So Cal and his wife had company over Sunday.

The Schumms are now located in Auburn, and will, without doubt, be useful citizens. And Yakob and Hans will be bankers. Such things have happened.

* * * *

The finding of that lot of jewelry the other day, as noted in yesterday's Daily set people to recalling old days, and probably a clue has been found.

It was over twenty years ago when Allen Weyer was at his best, or rather, his worst. He was the youngest of the Weyer boys. and a general, all-around degenerate, for as far as we know, the rest of the family were all right. But Allen couldn't help being mean. He is credited with setting fire to the woolen mill that burned about that time; also with burning the school house, and a barn near Newville. It is well known that he sent a decoy letter to his father that took him up town where a certain lawyer could tell him about a fortune that was waiting for him in the old country. As soon as the father was fairly out of sight of the house, young Weyer got ud into the attic and started a blaze. It was discovered, and by prompt means, the building was saved. He was the fellow that stole and carried off the contents of the show case in J. L. Davis' hardware store, and hid his booty in the dye house of the woolen mill. He was suspected and watched and when he was moving it down in the creek bottom near where George Swanders now lives John Sommers followed and arrested him. He got two years in the pen, and we believe, has never been back here.

It was about the same time a jewelry store in Auburn missed a lot of goods, and it was generally believed that Weyer knew where they had gone. But they were never found and it looks probable that he was the fellow who left them where Mr. Loutzenheiser discovered them the other day.

Stops The Cough and Works off the Cold.

Laxative Bromo-Quinine Tablets cure a cold in one day. No Cure, no Pay. Price 25 cents.

The mark of QUALITY

On Silver Plate can only be determined after long years of actual service unless you purchase ware bearing a well known trade-mark. For over half a century Spoons, Forks, etc., stamped

"1847 Rogers Bros."

Have been in use and given perfect satisfaction. They are sold by leading dealers everywhere. For catalogue No. 252, of new designs send to the makers

INTERNATIONAL SILVER CO., Meriden, Conn.

Take no substitute Remember 1847

Royal BAKING POWDER Absolutely Pure

Makes light, flaky, delicious hot biscuits, rolls, muffins and crusts. Makes hot bread wholesome. These are qualities peculiar to it alone.

I have found the Royal Baking Powder superior to all others.—C. GORJU, late Chef, Delmonico's.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 100 WILLIAM ST., NEW YORK.

A Minister's Good Work.

"I had a severe attack of bilious colic got a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy, took two doses and was entirely cured," says Rev. A. A. Power of Emporia, Kan. My neighbor across the street was sick for over a week, had two or three bottles of medicine from the doctor. He used them for three or four days without relief, then called in another doctor who doctored him for some days and gave him no relief, so discharged him. I went over to see him the next morning. He said his bowels were in a terrible fix, that they had been running off so long that it was almost bloody flux. I asked him if he had tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy and he said, 'No.' I went home and brought him my bottle and gave him one dose; told him to take another dose in fifteen or twenty minutes if he did not find relief, but he took no more and was entirely cured." For sale by H. B. McCord.

$31.50 Round Trip to Denver, Colorado Springs and Pueblo,

From Chicago via Chicago, Union Pacific and North-Western Line, August 21, September 4 and 18, good returning until October 31. Also very low rates given on the same dates to Glenwood Springs, Ogden, Salt Lake City, Hot Springs, Deadwood and Rapid City, S. Dak., Casper, Wyo. Quickest time. Best service. All agents sell tickets via Chicago and North Western R'y. for full particulars address, A. H. Wagner, 22 Fifth avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Mr. Eckhart Busy.

The Terre Haute Express give Chas. Eckhart a nice report of the meeting he held there the 22nd. It says he gave them a talk straight from the shoulder no abuse nor harsh words, but a plain statment of the principles on which his party is founded. The speech was from the court house steps and greatly pleased his hearers. He had at that time been in twenty-five counties and was going south. At the Ohio river he will turn north again, He makes one two speeches a day. Today he is at Arney, tomorrow at Elletsville in the afternoon, and Bloomington in the evening. Monday at Bedford. Tuesday at Loogootee, Wednesday at Washington in the afternoon and Elmora in the evening, Thursday at Freelandsville, and Friday he starts into the First District till Sept. 6 and then into the Third to Sept. 15, and so on.

Small Wheat Yield.

Reliable grain dealers from all parts of the state of Indiana, says a Chicago dispatch, have collected statistics showing the total yield of wheat in Indiana for the present year. The figures indicate that the production is the smallest for many years; and not exceeding 8,000,000 bushels, against from 25,000,000 to 40,000,000 bushels for several years in succession prior to 1899. The crop is a practical failure, there being but little more than enough grain raised for seeding, and leaving a shortage for bread and seed of at least 1,000,000 bushels.

W. C. T. U. NOTES.

HOME VS. THE SALOON

Ours is the great and sacred cause of the home versus the saloon. I would like to summon here into the witness-box a saloon keeper, in an honest hour, to testify to us. We want to find out what he proposes to add to the firm's capital stock—the great firm of We, Us and Company.

The saloon keeper finds it a conundrum not easy to be solved. Perhaps he will say, "I am a middleman between the brewer and distiller and the people. I do not deliberately desire to do harm, but I must keep my patronage recruited, because if I do this I am sure to become a rich man after a while. That is the reason why I am in the business. I must pay my tax out of somebody's fireside, somebody's cradle, out of somebody's dearest and best. In order to succeed I must take the little fellow from his mother's side, bait for him with cigarettes and cider, music, cards and young company, drawing him away gradually, until after a while I will change the boy's ideas so greatly that he who loved the songs of home and sanctuary shall far better love the bacchanalian ditty of the saloon; he who used to breathe God's name in prayer, shall hiss out that name in curses, and I will so change his face that his mother would not know him, and his soul that God would not recognize it."

It is because these things are true that womanhood has been aroused at last, to protect her children is the dearest and most sacred instinct of a woman's heart. She has learned something about the weapons of the enemy. He is brewing beer; she is busy brewing public sentiment. He is busy distilling whisky, she is busy distilling facts and arguments. He is busy rectifying spirits; she means to be busy rectifying the spirit of manhood. Do you recall the splendid conduct of Conductor Bradley, whose heroic story Whittier has made immortal? Rounding a curve, Conductor Bradley saw another train bearing down upon his own at fearful speed. Bending to the brakes with might and main "he did his duty as a brave man should," but in the collision he was crushed and mangled with those whom he tried to save. Taken from the wreck a short time after, the hero spoke no word about himself or friends, but murmured, brokenly, in dying anguish: "Put on the signals for the other trainin."

SUFFERED FOR YEARS.

WITH KIDNEY TROUBLE—A CASE THAT BAFFLED THE BEST DOCTORS.

WINDSOR, ONT., Jan. 13, 1900.

I make the following statement for the benefit of people in advanced years: I have used Dr. C. D. Warner's Compound of Seven Cures with the best possible results. I am sixty-five years old and have suffered more or less with my kidneys for over three years. After taking eight bottles of your Seven Cures I feel like a new man. I can truthfully recommend it as one of the greatest remedies of the age. Yours respectfully,

B. STECHLE.

F. E. Davenport.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, - Publisher.

1900. AUGUST. 1900.

Su	Mo	Tu	We	Th	Fr	Sa
•	•	•	1	2	3	4
5	6	7	8	9	10	11
12	13	14	15	16	17	18
19	20	21	22	23	24	25
26	27	28	29	30	31	•
•	•	•	•	•	•	•

F. Q. 4th. F. M. 10th. L. Q. 17th. N. M. 24th.

NEWS IN BRIEF GUSTS

BLOWN IN FROM ALL PARTS OF THE EARTH.

An Important Record of the Week As Told by the Telegraph—Latest from Foreign Shores—Crimes, Casualties, Fires, Etc.

Important Decision.

Comptroller Tracewell, of the Treasury, has rendered a decision in which he holds that the Hawaiian Islands, under the act of May 26, 1900, constitute an integral part of the United States, and therefore, of course, the navy therein are serving within the realm or dominion of the United States, and consequently are not beyond seas within the meaning of Section 13 of the navy personnel act. It follows that such officers are not entitled to the same pay and allowances as officers of the army similarly situated, and therefore must be paid at the regular rates for officers of their grade, without the increase given by the act of May 26, 1900, to army officers.

No More Troops For China.

The important development in the Chinese situation Friday was the decision of the government not to send any more troops to China. All the troops now at sea, amounting to about 4,000, together with those under orders for service in the far east, which have not sailed amounting to about 3,000 more will be sent to Manila. These troops will sail on the same route, and upon touching at Nangasaki, will go on to Manila, unless there are developments in China, now not expected, which would make their presence in that country necessary.

Must Show Germany.

Official cable dispatches have been received at Washington stating that the German government had taken action substantially similar to that of the United States in rejecting China's peace proposal. The German foreign office delivered the answer to the Chinese minister at Berlin. Germany insists that no negotiations can be conducted with Li Hung Chang until his credentials make plain that he has authority from the responsible heads of the Chinese government.

Kentucky Cases Postponed.

Georgetown (Ky.) special: Judge Cantrell, being satisfied that Henry Youtsey is not in proper physical condition to stand trial for alleged complicity in the Goebel murder, continued the case until the next term of court. Owing to the illness in the family of one of the attorneys for Coombs, Whitaker and Davis, these cases were also postponed to the October term. It was so ordered and the accused will be admitted to bail in the sum of $3,000 each.

Duels Increasing in Italy.

The Rome correspondent of the London Daily Mail says: "During the past few weeks duels have caused a perfect slaughter in Italy. As many as four duelists were killed in different towns. During the last year 2,400 duels have been fought in Italy, and 480 deaths have resulted. Most of these combats were between army officers and based on the most trival pretexts."

Omaha Loses in Population.

The population of the city of Omaha, Neb., according to the official count of the returns of the twelfth census is as follows: Omaha City, 102,555 for 1900, against 140,452 in 1890. These figures show, for a city as a whole, a decrease in population of 37,897, or 26.98 per cent. from 1890 to 1900. This is the first decrease in population so far shown in the enumeration of the cities.

Will Rescue Gold Hunters.

Seattle (Wash.) special: General Randall has received authority to send back the indigent sick and destitute from the Nome gold district at the expense of the government. He has received over 3,000 applications for passage and there are still several thousand who are penniless and who will eventually be compelled to ask the government to assist them.

Kills Wife and Himself.

Frank Wallace, a farmer, living west of Popular Bluff, Mo., while insane, cut his wife's throat with a razor and killed himself by drawing the blade across his own throat.

Murder at Evansville.

Ed Patton of Knoxville, Tenn., killed Walter Williams of Nashville, at Evansville, Ind., and tried to kill Patrolman Cooper who arrested him.

No New Trial For Powers.

Georgetown (Ky.) special: Judge Cantrill has overruled the motion for a new trial in the case of Former Secretary of State Caleb Powers.

Twelve People Injured.

A Cleveland suburban car was wrecked at Chagrin Falls, Ohio, by the breaking of a brake rod. Twelve people were injured, none of them fatally.

Sun Sets a Parasol On Fire.

As a spectacular feature of the hot weather at Burlington, Iowa, a parasol in the hands of a farmer who was driving up Jefferson street suddenly burst into flames under the intense rays of the sun. Many people witnessed the accident. It is believed that the umbrella had grease or oil on it which caused the combustion.

Grain Elevator Burns.

Fire in the elevator of the American Cereal Company at Akron, Ohio, caused a loss of $75,000. Fire and water practically ruined 120,000 bushels of grain.

Hurls Lad from a Window.

A most brutal assault occurred in Philadelphia when Montreal Bethel, 33 years old, threw 7-year-old William Pierce from a third-story window. The boy was taken to the Polytechnic hospital in a serious condition. Bethel was drunk and quarrelsome.

Prof. Erwin Ferry Weds.

Miss Ruth Mary White, daughter of Andrew Dickson White, ambassador to Germany, was married to Erwin Sidney Ferry, formerly of Mount Vernon, N. Y. The wedding took place in the White mansion on Cornell campus, Ithaca, N. Y.

SMITHFIELD SWEPT BY FIRE.

Incendiaries Start Flames that Destroy a Dozen Buildings.

Smithfield, Ill., a town of 1,500 inhabitants, was visited the other night by a very disastrous fire, which threatened for a time to entirely destroy the place. As it was, a dozen buildings were burned and the loss, it is estimated, will aggregate $50,000 to $75,000. With the exception of two stores all of the buildings and stock burned were covered by insurance. The fire was discovered about midnight in the rear end of Robertson's grocery store and spread rapidly both up and down North Main street, consuming the grocery where it started, Dr. Newberry's drug store, the Odd Fellows' hall, Deers' grocery, Mulverton's general store, Rigg's dry goods store, McLean's harness shop, Moody's furniture house, Carvin's general store, Carvin's residence, the Central Union Telephone exchange, the Sun office and Republic Hall. The village has no fire department, but the citizens attached garden hose to the town pump and did what they could in this manner and with buckets. Their efforts, however, were of no avail and the fire burned until it had consumed the entire block. The fire was of incendiary origin, the match having been applied by men who afterward tried to rob the homes of the villagers. They were discovered in two or three houses, but made their escape. They left town in a wagon.

TRAIN IN SANDUSKY BAY.

Lake Shore Fast Mail Thrown from Track by Broken Rail.

While running at full speed the Lake Shore fast mail west bound was wrecked at Bay Bridge, near Sandusky, Ohio, shortly after midnight the other night. Not a life was lost, but the escape of the 200 passengers was miraculous. The train struck a broken rail at Bay Bridge. The engine and two mail cars crossed the bridge safely, but the wheels of the third car struck the broken rail joint and the car left the track. This also was a mail car and carried with it the mail car following and a combination smoking and baggage car. The three cars piled up in twenty feet of water in Sandusky bay, imprisoning the mail clerks and the passengers in the combination car. The sleepers, parlor cars and chair cars composing the palatial Lake Shore Limited left the track, but did not go over the bridge. The passengers received a severe shaking up and a few were cut by broken glass, but the conductor's report states that all are accounted for. The cars which took to the water are each sixty feet long and two of them standing partially on end allowed an escape for the clerks and passengers in the thrilling situation.

MERCHANTS EAGER TO BUY.

New York and Other Cities Dispose of Many Goods—Prices Weak.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: "After a great wave of advancing prices optimism as to business is generally dangerous. But the top was reached the middle of March, since which time reaction has come in every great industry, so that consumers are asking whether in some directions the decline may not have been reasonably large, as was the advance, and whether buying on the present basis of prices is not fairly sure. There are further evidences of weakness in raw materials, notably the break in structural iron, but each one is availed of to place heavy contracts. New York is welcoming buyers from all over the country in larger numbers than for many years at this season, in dry goods, in groceries, in jewelry and in hardware. Reports from other important points of distribution show the same eagerness to buy. Failures for the week were 161 in the United States, against 156 last year, and 24 in Canada, against 24 last year."

Assassination Plot Nipped.

A bold attempt to assassinate President McKinley was frustrated by the United States secret service department. Two Italians, said to be anarchists, on their way to this country with the avowed intention of killing the President, were arrested on the Kaiser Wilhelm as the big boat was nearing New York harbor. The men are Natalie Moresca and Michael Guida.

To Discontinue Suspensions.

An important innovation relative to the operating employes of the Union Pacific Railroad Company will be inaugurated Sept. 1. It will be the introduction of the system of discipline by record, and after its operation begins the suspension of employes from duty with consequent loss of time will be discontinued.

Fifty Hurt in a Picnic Riot.

Doolittle Mills, Ind., was the scene of a riot at a picnic in which fifty or more took part with clubs, knives and stones. The trouble was caused by a mob from St. Croix, which harbored an old grudge and went to the picnic to stir up a fight.

Tragedy in Minnesota.

Theodore Wallart, a farmer living three miles from Arlington, Minn., killed his wife, a boy of 19, a girl of 16 and a baby. He then set fire to his barns, destroying the stable with nine horses, a corn crib and a full hay barn.

Conviction of Caleb Powers.

Caleb Powers, ex-Secretary of State of Kentucky, was convicted at Georgetown of being an accessory before the fact to the murder of Gov. Goebel, the jury fixing the punishment at imprisonment for life.

Outmaneuvered by De Wet.

Gen. De Wet is reported to have captured 4,000 British and seven guns, crippling the forces of Kitchener and Buller. He joined Delarey, then turned on his pursuers and completely outmaneuvered them.

Minnesota Mines Flooded.

Owing to the recent heavy rains most of the steam shovel and open pit mines at McKinley, Minn., have been compelled to suspend on account of being flooded. All the rivers are high and loggers will have no further trouble in logging.

Hand is Severed to Save Life.

John Rankin of Hickory Corners, Pa., cut off his 8-year-old son's hand with a knife to save the boy's life. The child had been running about in the bushes, gathering handfuls of berries, and was bitten by a rattlesnake.

Jail Prisoner Attempts Suicide.

John Allen, 21 years old, who is in jail at Kansas City on a charge of horse stealing, attempted suicide by hanging himself with a strip of cloth. His cell mates said he had been despondent since his wife visited him the other day.

Storm Sweeps Over Wisconsin.

A terrific windstorm swept over Wisconsin, doing great damage to fruit and corn. At Sheboygan eight large buildings and over 200 dwelling houses were wrecked, and the pecuniary loss in that city alone is estimated at $300,000.

Smallpox in Erie, Pa.

Seven cases of smallpox have developed in Erie, Pa., several more are suspected and the people of fully one-half of one ward have been exposed.

Rob Bank by Tapping Wires.

Two telegraph operators, Jack Reif and C. E. Fisher, tapped the Western Union wire just outside the town of Uvalde, Texas, and through forged messages secured the sum of $4,500, with which they fled into Mexico. Fisher presented a draft for that amount on the bank of J. Woods & Son of San Antonio, while Reif presided over the tapped wire and vouched for Fisher's standing with the San Antonio bank.

OHIO COURTHOUSE WRECKED.

Explosion of Dynamite Which Had Been in Store Since 1895.

An explosion of dynamite wrecked the court house at Medina, Ohio, and badly injured Henry Jones, the janitor. The explosion occurred at 8:10 a. m., when few others were in the building. Jones was cleaning out a dark closet and came upon a heavy 16 by 18 inch box, which he placed with rubbish and paper in a wheelbarrow. The paper became ignited from a candle he carried and blazed up. Jones ran to a hydrant in the building for water and had just started back when the dynamite let go with a roar. The surrounding partitions were demolished and Jones was hurled back against a wall, receiving severe injuries. All the windows were blown out and doors and furniture were reduced to bits. The building is of brick and was shattered from roof to basement. The dynamite had been taken as evidence in a case in 1895 and had since remained in the closet.

KILLS FATHER OF FIANCEE.

Texan Resents Refusal to Permit Him to Wed a Young Girl.

James McGann shot H. R. Chipley to death in the street at Blooming Grove, Texas, while Chipley was talking with a large party of villagers in front of a church. Neither the assassin nor his victim spoke a word to each other. McGann fired five times, each bullet hitting Chipley. One bullet passed through the head, another broke the neck and the other three lodged in Chipley's breast. Death was instantaneous. City Marshal Dodd arrested McGann and hurried him off to jail at Corsicana to save him from being lynched. Both were well-educated men and of good standing. Chipley was 40 years old and married. McGann is 33 years old and unmarried. He killed Chipley because he refused to permit McGann to marry his 14-year-old daughter, to whom the slayer was engaged.

HERO GIVES LIFE IN VAIN.

Attempts to Save Women from Drowning, but Fails.

Ellen Young, Salina Newhouser and Albert J. Schwab, all of Philadelphia, were drowned in the surf at Cape May Point, N. J. They were bathing and got beyond their depth. Schwab made a noble effort to save his companions, holding their unconscious bodies above the water for some time. Just as a boat which went to their resque reached his side he loosened his grasp on the women and sank out of sight. The women were taken ashore, and although the usual methods for resuscitating drowned persons were resorted to for two hours they could not be brought back to life.

To Prison for Forty Years.

Private Chester A. Boakes of the Fourth infantry was convicted by court martial at Imus, P. I., of deserting in the face of the enemy and of joining the force of the enemy, and also of advising other soldiers to desert. He was sentenced to be dishonorably discharged, forfeiting all pay and allowances due or to become due, and to be confined at hard labor for a period of forty years.

Cattleman Shot Dead.

Mr. Huff, a cattleman and farmer, was shot dead in his own home in Custer County, Oklahoma, by some one who fired through an open window. The herd law there is said to be the cause of the crime.

Yacht Capsized in a Squall.

The yacht St. Francois while on a pleasure trip from Tadousac to River de Loup was caught in a squall and capsized off White Island. Two persons are missing and were probably drowned.

Cuba Receives 140 Prizes.

The island of Cuba, with her exhibit at the Paris exposition, has achieved a notable success. The exhibit received 140 prizes.

Twenty Killed in a Wreck.

Twenty persons were killed and injured in a railway smash-up near Plevna, Bulgaria. Among the killed is M. Petroff, brother of the former minister of war.

Enginemen Killed in a Wreck.

A disastrous wreck at Maxwell, Va., occurred the other day, resulting in the death of two men and the wounding of seven others.

Chicago Has 1,698,575.

The population of Chicago, according to the official count of the returns of the twelfth census, is 1,698,575.

Minneapolis Leads St. Paul.

The census bureau announces the population of Minneapolis, Minn., as 202,718, and St. Paul, Minn., as 163,632.

Allied Troops Reach Pekin.

The allies have entered Pekin without fighting, the legations are relieved and the foreigners are liberated.

Well Caves In on Six Men.

At Guthrie, O. T., six men lost their lives by the caving in of a well.

THE MARKETS.

Chicago—Cattle, common to prime, $3.00 to $5.90; hogs, shipping grades, $3.00 to $5.35; sheep, fair to choice, $3.00 to $4.15; wheat, No. 2 red, 73c to 74c; corn, No. 2, 38c to 39c; oats, No. 2, 21c to 22c; rye, No. 2, 48c to 49c; butter, choice creamery, 18c to 20c; eggs, fresh, 10c to 13c; potatoes, 39c to 41c per bushel.

Indianapolis—Cattle, shipping, $3.00 to $5.75; hogs, choice light, $5.00 to $5.35; sheep, common to prime, $3.00 to $4.00; wheat, No. 2, 74c to 75c; corn, No. 2 white, 41c to 42c; oats, No. 2 white, 23c to 24c.

St. Louis—Cattle, $3.25 to $5.70; hogs, $3.00 to $5.35; sheep, $3.00 to $4.25; wheat, No. 2, 68c to 69c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 38c to 39c; oats, No. 2, 20c to 21c; rye, No. 2, 47c to 48c.

Cincinnati—Cattle, $3.00 to $5.10; hogs, $3.00 to $5.35; sheep, $3.00 to $4.50; wheat, No. 2, 75c to 76c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 40c to 41c; oats, No. 2 mixed, 22c to 23c; rye, No. 2, 52c to 53c.

Detroit—Cattle, $2.50 to $5.70; hogs, $3.00 to $5.45; sheep, $3.00 to $4.50; wheat, No. 2, 77c to 78c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 40c to 41c; oats, No. 2 white, 24c to 25c; rye, 50c to 51c.

Toledo—Wheat, No. 2 mixed, 74c to 75c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 42c to 43c; oats, No. 2 mixed, 21c to 22c; rye, No. 2, 50c to 51c; clover seed, prime, $5.05 to $5.40.

Milwaukee—Wheat, No. 2 northern, 72c to 73c; corn, No. 3, 39c to 40c; oats, No. 2 white, 24c to 25c; rye, No. 1, 49c to 50c; barley, No. 2, 47c to 48c; pork, mess, $11.00 to $11.15.

Buffalo—Cattle, choice shipping steers, $3.00 to $5.85; hogs, fair to prime, $3.00 to $5.55; sheep, fair to choice, $3.25 to $4.25; lambs, common to extra, $4.00 to $5.75.

New York—Cattle, $3.25 to $5.80; hogs, $3.00 to $5.75; sheep, $3.00 to $4.35; wheat, No. 2 red, 78c to 79c; corn, No. 2, 44c to 45c; oats, No. 2 white, 28c to 29c; butter, creamery, 18c to 21c; eggs, western, 15c to 17c.

NOTES OF THE PUBLIC EYE

Kansas is just now claiming recognition because of numerous freak election bets. As a result, one of these bets, so the story goes, the union of two Kansas hearts depends upon the election of W. J. Bryan to the presidency. If reports are true, a Kansas father has wagered his daughter that President McKinley will be re-elected President of the United States. Here are the parties to this alleged wager: Miss Mary Johnson, a pretty farmer girl, the stake; J. B. Johnson, a wealthy wheat grower, who bets his daughter that President McKinley will be re-elected President of the United States; James Howard, an aspiring lover, wagers a bride on the election of W. J. Bryan.

MISS JOHNSON.

The Duke of Albany is to succeed Prince Alfred as the Duke of Coburg. All over Germany there is great objection to placing an Englishman on a German throne. Prince Leopold's friends believe that he is rightly entitled to the dukedom.

DUKE OF ALBANY. PRINCE LEOPOLD.

Ex-Gov. Roger Wolcott of Massachusetts, has been appointed ambassador to Italy, to succeed Mr. Draper, who has resigned and whose resignation will go into effect in a few weeks. The appointment is a happy one and one that gives general satisfaction. Ex-Gov. Wolcott comes from one of the old and honored families of the Bay State and is in the prime of life. He is a fine specimen of physical, intellectual and moral manhood. His political life began in the State Legislature. In 1892 he was elected Lieutenant Governor. In 1893, '94 and '95 he was re-elected and on the death of Gov. Greenhalge in February, 1896, he became acting Governor. In 1896 he was elected Governor. He now enters the ranks of diplomacy.

ROGER WOLCOTT.

Lieut. Col. C. A. Coolidge, who has been assigned to the command of the Ninth United States infantry, now in China, vice Col. Liscum, who was killed in action at Tien-tsin, has been an officer for thirty-six years in the Seventh infantry. He served in the civil war, in various wars with the Indians, and in the war with Spain. Upon his return from Cuba he was assigned with the Seventh at Fort Brady, was later transferred to Fort Sheridan, and was then sent to the Philippines, where he joined the Ninth. He is a brave soldier and bears scars of seven wounds.

LIEUT. COL. COOLIDGE.

Early in September President and Mrs. McKinley will go to Somerset, Pa., to attend the marriage of Miss Mabel McKinley to Dr. Hermanus Baer. Mabel McKinley is the President's niece, the daughter of Abner McKinley, and is noted for her wit, beauty and musical talent. The Abner McKinleys have long called Somerset their summer home. There Miss Mabel met her fiance, who has recently graduated at a Philadelphia medical college. President McKinley has three pretty nieces on the McKinley side.

MISS M'KINLEY.

Ernesta Cravello, a worker in the silk mills of Paterson, N. J., is called the queen of anarchists. She is without education, but has a singular intelligence and is beautiful. Her employers say she is faithful and can always be relied upon. The young woman does not believe in religion, government nor marriage, but through all her talk one is impressed with her childlike innocence. It is as if a child blasphemed without understanding the omnipotence of the Creator. She came from Italy at the age of 15.

ERNESTA CRAVELLO

Telegraphic Brevities.

Seattle, Wash., will have a world's fair in 1904.

There has been a terrible flood in New South Wales.

Frank Layman, Tannersville, N. Y., was burned to death in a forest fire.

Company of soldiers is being organized in Honolulu for service under Uncle Sam in China.

Edmond Rostand, the distinguished young dramatist, has been decorated with the officers' cross of the Legion of Honor at Paris.

A Chicago firm has set up a line of automobiles to transport passengers between its store and one of the railroad stations for 5c.

The free rural mail delivery service now established in the vicinity of Denver is increasing the value of land along the way $5 an acre.

Antiquarians have unearthed between Bland and Espanola, N. M., a building containing 1,500 rooms and much rich pottery and several smelters. It is one of the remains of the cliff dwellers.

ALLIES NOW IN PEKIN.

CONGER SAYS HELP ARRIVED JUST IN TIME.

Americans and British Were First to Enter the Chinese Capital—Trouble Spreading to Southern China—Americans at Swatow Ask for Warship.

By cable via Shanghai a Pekin correspondent tells of the entrance of the allies into the Chinese capital. Contrary to the agreement of the allied commanders, the Russians advanced and occupied the first door of the east gate early in the morning of the 14th, but failed to force the second door. At 2 o'clock on the afternoon of the 14th the British and Americans entered the gate near the legations and met with only slight resistance. The Japanese met more serious opposition at the upper east gate all day. At midnight on the 14th they blew up the gate and entered the city. Many Chinese were killed.

The people in the legation were well, but somewhat starved. Minister Conger said: "They tried to annihilate us the day before you got in. Prince Ching, president of the Tsung-li-Yamen, sent word that his officers had received orders to cease firing on us under pain of death. At 7 o'clock in the evening of the same day the Chinese opened fire, and this continued all day. If the relieving column had not arrived when it did we should probably have succumbed. The Americans lost seven marines killed and fifteen wounded, and one child died. The whole movement is purely a governmental one. The Boxers are only a pretense, having no guns. The confidential adviser of the Empress was the leader of the imperial troops here. In eleven days over 200 shells fell among us. The American marines, under Captain Meyers, held a position on the wall throughout the siege. Upon the allies passing the wall the Chinese retreated. The imperial family left four days ago for Shan-si province. It is estimated that the strength of the Pekin garrison was 10,000 men. The legation was urged to leave the city under an escort of Chinese troops, but refused, fearing treachery. The Chinese in the imperial city made a stout resistance. After shelling them the allies succeeded in forcing the gate and entering the city about noon on the 15th. The American loss in this action was the greatest. Captain Reilly of the Fifth artillery was killed."

In an interview Sir Claude MacDonald, the British minister, states: "The Chinese broke every engagement with the foreign ministers. There is no truth in the story that the imperial palace supplied the legations with food. They sent vegetables, which were refused. The total casualties during the siege of the legations were sixty-seven killed and 120 wounded."

Serious trouble is now threatened in the neighborhood of Canton. The Americans at Swatow, according to the London Chronicle's Shanghai correspondent, applied for a warship in consequence of serious rioting. It is believed that if the inner city is satisfactorily reduced it is probable that the powers will agree not to push military operations further than is necessary to effect the punishment of those directly responsible for the disorders, to secure indemnity for injury to the persons and property of their subjects, and to re-establish a stable government.

MOAT AND CITY WALL, PEKIN.

A Shanghai dispatch states that, according to Chinese official news, three more imperial officials have been decapitated. These are: Hsu Tung, president of the civil board; Yi-Lien-Yuan, a member of the ministry, and Li-Shan, a member of the imperial household. The first two were anti-foreign, while Li-Shan was pro-foreign. Prince Ching has imprisoned Yung-Hi.

The Yokohama correspondent of the London Mail says there is elation there over the relief of the legations, which is ascribed chiefly to the Japanese contingent, but there is also a keen anxiety regarding the final settlement. The Japanese distrust Germany, and Russia is equally suspected of ulterior designs.

The newspapers urge that Japan, having borne the chief burden in the operations, must see that the future of China is not determined merely by the pleasure of the western continental powers. A contemplated loan of $100,000,000 and other facts show that the Government is preparing for emergencies. There is generally a pessimistic feeling, but it is the opinion of the Japanese generally that Great Britain, the United States and Japan will avert the danger arising from the ambition of continental Europe.

Pekin comprises four cities in one. In an area the size of New York, four segments of it are the Chinese city, the Tartar city, the Imperial city and the Forbidden city. The last "inner" city mentioned in Admiral Remey's dispatch is the residence of the Emperor and the seat of the imperial court. Nobody is allowed within its massive walls except by special permission of the Emperor or Empress Dowager. Foreigners who have entered its gates are comparatively few. The imperial city is occupied only by the highest Chinese officials, members and attaches of the imperial court.

The cabinet on Tuesday decided to reject the appeal from Li-Hung-Chang for a cessation of hostilities. The reply was communicated to the Chinese Government with a statement of the reasons for the action of this Government. The rejection is based on the non-compliance of the Chinese Government with the specific provisions of the declaration of the United States under date of Aug. 12.

The following are the important features of the Chinese note: When the prevailing trouble began the several powers landed troops and officially declared that the purpose of such action was to accomplish the liberation of the ministers. The allied troops having entered Pekin and found the ministers safe, it is proper to request the powers to direct that hostilities cease and commence negotiations for the restoration of peace. So therefore Li-Hung-Chang requested the United States Government to appoint an envoy, with full powers, or to designate the minister now in Pekin, who is well acquainted with the question at issue between China and the powers, to conduct the negotiations.

Li-Hung-Chang's note did not ask for the intervention of the United States, but merely that it appoint a representative to confer with him.

MOB RULE IN AKRON.

ATTEMPT TO LYNCH A NEGRO IN AN OHIO TOWN.

Lockup, County Jail and City Building Successively Stormed by the Crowd—Scenes of Riot and Bloodshed in Which Two Persons Are Killed.

A mob of several thousand frenzied persons in Akron, Ohio, infuriated over an assault upon the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Maas by Louis Peck, a colored man, searched the city prison, the county jail and the old court house for the negro, engaged in a battle of bullets with officers of the law, set fire to Columbia Hall, adjoining the city building, and threatened to destroy the latter structure.

Peck was arrested Wednesday and murmurs of gathering trouble caused the sheriff secretly to transfer the prisoner to Cleveland. The report that he had confessed spread rapidly and the mob gathered soon after dark.

It was about 8:30 o'clock when the mob surged down the street to the city prison. With a shout from the leaders the doors were battered down and a rush made for the prisoner. The officers offered no resistance and to satisfy the mob that Peck had been removed piloted a committee in a search of the cells and building.

The search was fruitless and with a yell, "Now for the county jail; give us the nigger and we will deal with him!" a rush was made for the latter building and it was soon in the hands of the frenzied crowd. After a thorough search of the private apartments the mob started to batter down the big iron doors. Deputy Sheriff Stone mounted a chair in front of the prison doors and implored the crowd to disperse, giving his word that Peck was not within. He offered to allow a committee to make a search from top to bottom, and this satisfied the crowd that the negro had been smuggled away.

Then the mob rushed across the street and forced open the doors of the county court house. The building was soon packed and all rooms searched except those of the treasury department. A start was made to [illegible] the iron doors of the [illegible] soon [illegible] back to [illegible] of [illegible] the [illegible] that the negro was there somewhere.

[illegible] Indian Chief.

[illegible] is a full-blooded Osage In[illegible]. He is worth more than [illegible] his own name and is the heir [illegible] more. He was born out on [illegible] Reservation, near Wichita,

Mayor W. E. Young hastened to the building, and mounting the steps called upon the crowd to disperse, pledging his word that the prisoner had been escorted out of town. Cries of indignation greeted the executive's announcement and he was denounced on all sides for allowing the colored man to escape the clutches of the mob.

At 10 o'clock the mob began to attack the city prison for the third time. In the excitement someone fired a shot which was followed by a fusillade. The officers in the building appeared at the windows and began to shoot over the heads of the people. A man armed with a shotgun leveled his weapon at the officers and they were soon made the target for the mob's fire. An indescribable scene followed. Several of the policemen fell wounded, others were struck by bricks and other missiles hurled by the mob and the return fire of the law's officers wrought havoc in the ranks of the mob. It is certain that thirty or forty persons were wounded in the melee and two are known to be dead.

Following the shooting, Columbia Hall was set on fire and within a short time had burned to the ground. This building adjoined the city prison and the flames were soon communicated to the jail. Not content with firing the buildings, the mob determined to prevent the firemen from attempting to stay the progress of the flames. The hose was cut at every opportunity and one fireman was shot.

CONGER INDICTS CHINA.

Says Imperial Cavalry Bombarded the Legations.

A long dispatch from Minister Conger was received at the State Department in Washington Monday night giving a detailed report of the condition of affairs in Pekin since June 20. Mr. Conger said that a few days after the fall of Taku forts the Tsung-li-Yamen broke off communication with the foreign ministers and gave orders that the diplomats leave the city. Believing that to do this meant certain massacre, Mr. Conger goes on to state, the ministers refused to vacate, thereupon the imperial government ordered the imperial forces to attack in force the legations.

He says that failing to take the legations by infantry attack the Chinese troops brought artillery into play, and for over three weeks the legations were subjected to continued heavy bombardment. The Pekin imperial army made repeated and determined attacks and attempted to carry the legation defenses and it was only through the gallant and heroic stand of the marine guards that the Chinese failed to capture the legations. The portion of the message outlined above was suppressed by the department.

The Government has been anxiously waiting to hear from Mr. Conger and, while the revelation he makes is startling, the officials were prepared for just what they got. Mr. Conger's statement that the Chinese made a desperate attempt to exterminate the foreigners the night before the relief army arrived indicates that the Chinese knew the foreign army would take the city in a few hours and that they wanted to destroy all evidence of their duplicity by killing the foreigners. As the imperial government directed the attacks on the legation which constituted a declaration of war, it is said that no peace overtures will be accepted which do not embody a complete surrender.

Odds and Ends.

Mabel Bouton, a young actress, New York, is insane.

Lawrence Turjanic, Cleveland, Ohio, killed Anthony Strauss.

Wm. Doepke and one of his children were killed by a train in Cincinnati.

Camden, N. J., patrolmen will be allowed to wear shirt waists while on duty.

Dr. James E. Kieler, director of Lick Observatory, San Francisco, died suddenly from apoplexy.

While the British cruiser Charybdis was casting anchor in the Straits of Belle Isle Boatswain's Mate Inglis was caught in the anchor chain and torn to pieces.

Kansas, in celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of her admission into the Union as a territory, purposes to hold in 1904 at Topeka, her capital city, an interstate exposition.

A New York swindler, in trying to evade the officers, sprang from a second-story window of the Hoffman House, and used an umbrella for a parachute. He alighted on an awning. Thence he jumped to the ground, but was quickly seized by porters and held until the police arrived.

INDIANA INCIDENTS.

RECORD OF EVENTS OF THE PAST WEEK.

Tornado Works Damage at Bremen—Mob Pursues Keith—Marries Man Who Slew Her Lover—Small Wheat Crop—State Prisoners Escape.

Bremen was visited by a disastrous wind storm at 3 o'clock the other afternoon that developed into a tornado. Telephone and electric light wires were blown down and the streets were strewn with uprooted shade trees. The huge new smokestack that was erected but a few days ago on the electric light plant was blown 200 feet. Houses were unroofed and windows blown in. The grain elevator of J. E. Dietrich was partly unroofed and moved from its foundation. The loss to property will reach several thousand dollars and cause delay at the various factories.

Indiana's Light Wheat Crop.

Reliable grain dealers from all parts of the State have collected statistics showing the total yield of wheat in Indiana for the present year. The figures indicate that the production is the smallest for many years and not exceeding 8,000,000 bushels, against from 25,000,000 to 40,000,000 for several years in succession prior to 1899. The crop is a practical failure, there being but little more than enough grain raised for seeding, and leaving a shortage for bread and seed of at least 10,000,000 bushels.

Mother Dies from Joke.

Mrs. Lillie Eby of Nappanee, 20 years old, died under peculiar circumstances. While in Chicago with her sister-in-law the latter played a joke on Mrs. Eby, wrapping a big doll, with eyes that closed and opened, in the clothing of Mrs. Eby's infant. Presenting the doll, which had its eyes closed as though dead, to Mrs. Eby, she remarked, "Here is your baby." Mrs. Eby took one glance, exclaimed, "My, how you frightened me!" and was attacked with convulsions which shortly resulted in her death.

Mob Hunts Alleged Slayer.

Joseph D. Keith, the alleged murderer of Nora Kifer, whose body was found in Pigeon creek three months ago, was taken from the Booneville jail to the Evansville jail. A mob of 300 farmers was forming near Booneville, and Judge Gough ordered the prisoner moved to Evansville at once. The mob reached the jail just as the sheriff was leaving with the prisoner, and there was a hot chase to the depot: The prisoner was got on board the train just in time to prevent lynching.

Weds Her Lover's Slayer.

After six years of waiting Mrs. Jennie Y. Bean and James Van Hoak of Charlestown have been married. The event was fixed for June, 1894, but several tragic incidents prevented the ceremony being performed. Emil Schaeffer was in love with Mrs. Bean and persisted in paying her attention, until one day in an altercation he was shot through the heart by Van Hoak and killed. A sensational trial resulted in the acquittal of Van Hoak.

Prisoners Leap from a Train.

Twenty-six prisoners from the State reformatory were transferred to the Michigan City State's prison as incorrigibles. They were chained together two in a seat. As the train was leaving Otis two prisoners, Turner and Miller, grand larceny men, sentenced from two to fourteen years, jumped from the window and escaped. Excitement among the other prisoners was quelled. The other two are still at large. It is supposed one sawed his manacles on the train.

Shoots Brother's Accuser.

Huston Manis, living near Anderson, shot and killed instantly Irvin Lawson. Manis and his brother had been there attending the trial of Marshal Lawson, a brother of Irvin Lawson, for threatening to kill Manis. After the trial on the way home Irvin Lawson tried to pull Manis out of his buggy, when Manis shot him twice.

State News in Brief.

Unknown man killed by a freight train at Ingalls.

Riley Martin, 40, Martinsville, drowned in White river.

Miss Sadie Gaither, Odon, died from opium poisoning.

The baby of Isaac Roe, Bargersville, suffered a stroke of paralysis.

Ward Cherry, only 15, has been appointed L. E. & W. agent at Castleton.

Thirty-nine independent window glass companies have combined to fight the trust.

South Bend has 100 saloons, 30 churches and 21 patent medicine factories.

John T. Sinclair, old citizen of Putnam County, killed by Vandalia train at Reelsville.

State Fish Commissioner Sweeney is again after game law violators in Kankakee marsh.

An old flour mill at South Bend, built nearly seventy years ago, toppled over into the river.

Abe Oliver, 64, farmer near Greencastle, fell from a ladder and died instantly from the shock.

B. W. Bowen, Delphi's millionaire banker, bought three head of shorthorn cattle, paying $5,535.

Storm did considerable damage in Hancock County. In Greenfield, two walls of new brick block collapsed.

Edward Price, formerly of Charleston, but now of Denver, is on his way to England to claim a $35,000,000 fortune.

The W. B. Holton Manufacturing Company, maker of agricultural implements at Indianapolis, assigned. It is said all creditors will be paid in full.

Lessie Shoup, 16, Millgrove, joined Buffalo Bill's wild west show. In a wreck, a week later, he lost all his clothes and returned home in a sweater and a pair of overalls.

It has been discovered that Henry Overmire, Yorktown, who tried to kill himself, put five bullets, instead of three, into his head. Two were removed and he may recover.

A young boy passed a counterfeit half-dollar thirty years ago on John Gore, an Elkhart peanut vender. Last week a well-dressed stranger gave Gore $1 as conscience money.

Dan Moore of Huntington has received from his cousin, an official in Sing Sing, a curio made by a convict. It is a narrow necked bottle, inside of which is a full-rigged ship of burnt matches.

Clyde Carter was drowned in the St. Joseph river, near Bristol. His two brothers went to his assistance, and he grasped them in a vice-like grip, nearly drowning them. They were forced to see him sink.

As a Lake Shore train was nearing North Amherst, near Elkhart, Thursday, a 30-months-old boy fell from a car window. The train was backed and the boy was found walking up the track, without even a scratch.

THE MOON-BABY.

There's a beautiful golden cradle,
That rocks in the rose-red sky;
I have seen it there in the evening air,
When the bats and beetles fly;
With little white clouds for curtains,
And pillows of fleecy wool,
And a dear little bed for the Moon-Baby's head,
So tiny and beautiful.

There are tender young stars around it,
That wait for their bath of dew
In the purple tints that the sun's warm prints
Have left on the mountain blue;
There are good little gentle planets,
That want to be nursed and kissed,
And laid to sleep in the ocean deep,
Under silvery folds of mist.

But the Moon-Baby must slumber,
For he is their proud young king;
So, hand in hand, round his bed they stand,
And lullabies low they sing.
And the beautiful golden cradle
Is rocked by the winds that stray,
With pinions soft, from the halls aloft,
Where the Moon-Baby lives by day.
—Pall Mall Gazette.

HEART OF PEARLS.

A LOUD burst of applause greeted the famous singer Olympia as she finished the queen's song at the Gaiety Theater.

Of Olympia's origin nothing was known, though there were many stories circulating about her. The one which gained most general credence portrayed her as a great lady who had been drawn irresistibly from a high social position to the stage, and thereupon disowned by her family. The only certainty felt about her was that her reputation was irreproachable and that she kept the scores of adorers constantly rotating about her at a respectful distance.

When the song ended the queen retired to a throne to receive the homage of the subjects in the play. It was a sumptuous procession which passed before her in gorgeous costume. Each subject as he passed his queen stopped, bowed and then moved on to make room for the next. One among the number had excited her interest and her sympathy. He seemed different from the others; his bearing was dignified, his manners perfect. That he had suffered some misfortune she felt as sure as that he was worthy of something better than a humble part in a fairy opera.

When the play was over she pointed him out to the manager.

"Who is that man?" she asked.

"A poor devil named Chatelain," replied the manager. "There are hundreds like him, doing this kind of work for 3 francs a day."

The manager was mistaken. His "poor devil Chatelain" was in reality a Spanish gentleman named Juan Rodriguez de Penafior. Born in Madrid, raised in the midst of luxury, he had inherited at his parents' death an enormous fortune.

Through bad management and extravagance this had gradually been reduced until only a small part remained. This Juan thought to use in the only way he knew as a means of redeeming the whole, at the gaming table, and here he lost all that was left to him.

It was at this time and under these circumstances that he fell in love with Olympia. The very hopelessness of his passion deepened it, and he worshiped her as a Greek might have worshiped a goddess. It was through his love that the greatest temptation of his life came to him.

On one of the most frequented boulevards in a jeweler's window he had noticed an exquisite piece of jewelry—a heart of pearls—and from the moment his eyes fell upon it he had longed to possess it in order to present it to his queen as a token of his adoration.

One day the heart was gone from the window, and Juan could see it inside the shop, lying with many other pieces, on the counter. He stepped inside, where several people stood looking at all sorts of beautiful things displayed by the jeweler.

The heart of pearls was pushed a little away from the others; the people were not looking his way; his hand stole out and slowly moved toward the cherished object. He turned cautiously to make sure he was unobserved and looked straight into the face of Olympia, the singer, who was standing just behind him.

"I saw you and followed you in," she continued. "I have wanted to speak to you for a very long time. I am sure that you can find something better than your present position at the Gaiety. If you will take my card to Roberts, the theatrical agent, I am sure he can find you something more suited to you," and she drew a card from her pocketbook and wrote an address on it with a little gold pencil and handed it to Juan.

He managed to stammer his thanks, and she left him without knowing what she had saved him from.

Sleep did not come to Juan that night. Looking over his next morning paper his eyes fell upon the following announcement:

"Don Jaime de Penafior, who died recently at Madrid, has left his entire fortune to his nephew, Juan Rodriguez de Penafior, who left Spain some years ago. Every effort is being made to find him." * * *

The beautiful singer Olympia had just returned to Paris from a successful tour through Europe and every seat in the house was sold for the opening night.

When the actress opened her dressing-room on the table lay a large bunch of lilies of the valley, and beside them a small jeweler's box. She opened it and saw lying on white velvet a beautiful heart of pearls of exquisite workmanship. The name on the card was strange to her—"Don Juan de Penafior."

After her last triumphant appearance that evening a card was brought to her bearing the same name.

"I will see him," she said to the boy.

When he came she recognized him instantly and it was her turn to be confused.

"You are not M. Chatelain?" she said.

"No, mademoiselle; I have come to my own again," he replied, simply; "but I have never forgotten your kindness."

"I must thank you for your gifts," said Olympia. "The flowers I will keep, but the pearls I must ask you to take, as I cannot accept them. They are much too precious for a singer who thinks only of her art."

"If Olympia cannot accept them as a singer, can she not do so as the promised wife of the Marquis de Penafior?"

At the close of Olympia's Paris engagement a simple wedding took place at a little suburban chapel, covered ivy. The bride carried lilies of the valley and her only ornament was a heart of pearls.—From the French.

ITALY'S NEW MONARCH.

King Victor, in his military character riding at the head of his troops.

KITCHEN WATER MOTOR.

Destined to Prove Itself a Handy Household Article.

The little water motor to beat eggs, whip cream and perform similar culinary work illustrated herewith should prove itself a handy household article, and with its use the operation of beating eggs would be turned into a pastime instead of labor. The inventor is John D. Brotherston, of Buffalo, N. Y., and he states that the invention can be made comparatively cheap and is a practicable device for its purpose. It consists of a small wheel mounted in casing and provided with pockets around its periphery, the casing being mounted on a base which is adapted to hold a bowl or glass. The connection between the beater and motor is made through a knuckle joint. When it is desired to use the utensil the faucet is inserted in the opening at the top of the casing and the spring wire is hooked over the spindle. This forms a watertight joint, and when the faucet is opened a stream issues from the obliquely arranged nozzle and impinges upon the curved buckets, rotating the beater and whipping the contents of the glass. Besides whipping cream and beating eggs the machine will stir mayonnaise sauce and beat cake batter, and it is probable that still other uses can be found for it.

AUTOMATIC EGG-BEATER.

JOHN CLARK RIDPATH.

Noted American Historian Who Died in New York Recently.

John Clark Ridpath, the historian, who died recently in New York, was born in a log cabin in Putnam County, Ind., in 1841. He attended the district school, and at the age of 15 was its principal. His family was poor and it was not until he was 18 that his father was able to send him to Asbury (now De Pauw) University at Greencastle, where he completed a six years' course in four years, graduating with first honors. After serving as principal of an academy at Thorntown, Ind., and as superintendent of public schools at Lawrenceburg, he was called in 1869 to the chair of English literature at De Pauw. He was transferred later to the chair of history and political philosophy. He became a conspicuous figure in the college world.

J. C. RIDPATH.

In 1875 he published his first book, an Academic History of the United States. It was an immediate success, and still holds its place as a text book in many schools. In 1876 he published his Popular History of the United States, a large octavo volume, which has been published also in German. He wrote the Life and Work of Garfield, of which 85,000 copies were sold. His Cyclopaedia of Universal History was published in 1885 in four large octavo volumes.

In 1885 he resigned his professorship in De Pauw and the vice presidency of the university in order that he might devote his whole time to authorship. In 1893 he published the Life and Work of James G. Blaine, and in 1894, his most comprehensive and philosophical work, entitled Great Races of Mankind, in four volumes. He was engaged for ten years in preparing the material, and four years in writing this work. In 1898 he published the Life and Times of Gladstone, and a supplement to the History of All Nations for Webster's Dictionary. He was for a time editor of the Arena magazine of Boston. His monographs are numerous. In 1896 he consented unwillingly to run for Congress on the Democratic ticket in his home district in Indiana. Though he ran ahead of his ticket he was defeated by a small majority. In recent years he had been engaged in the preparation of a complete and elaborate history of the United States.

KANSAS' FIRST CAPITOL.

It Was Erected in 1855, and Has an Interesting History.

In the State of Kansas there are seven capitol buildings, including the present handsome structure at Topeka, not yet completed, but none has a more romantic history than the Statehouse which was first erected in Pawnee Township. Efforts are now being made by the people of Kansas to preserve from the ravages of time this ancient relic. It is one of few reminders of early days left standing there and it was built when the settlement of the West was just beginning. It stands near Fort Riley in the central part of the State, and is all that is left of the town of Pawnee, the first capital of the State. The town was started by boomers who "stood in" with the territorial Governor, A. H. Reder, who owned land there and was a good deal of a speculator.

The town association built the capitol, a stone structure, two stories high and 40x80 feet in outside dimensions. It laid out the streets and boarding-houses were made ready for the first meeting of the Legislature. Then, in 1855, the Governor called the Legislature to meet there, and the solons decided that they would not assist him. They went from Eastern Kansas in prairie schooners, a long procession that wound its way 150 miles out on the prairie, the travelers growing more angry that the Governor had selected so distant a place. They had provisions for the trip, and when they reached Pawnee not one of them went to the boarding-houses as had been expected, but they cooked in their wagons and lived on the edge of the town site.

On the day for the opening of the Legislature they went to the new stone building and held a session, which consisted of organizing and adjourning to

KANSAS' FIRST CAPITOL BUILDING.

Shawnee Mission in the eastern part of the State, where, despite all the efforts of the Governor, the remainder of the session was held.

Pawnee did not make a town. The cholera broke out the next year at Fort Riley and the people fled. The Statehouse stands out on the plain, deserted, the roof gone and the interior a place for the hiding of coyotes and sandhill owls. The State has been asked to purchase the old ruin and preserve it for future generations, who will doubtless appreciate it as a reminder of the efforts of the first-comers to make this a great city, and for a time it seemed likely that they would succeed.

Reproving an Umbrella Fiend.

The citizens of Berlin have a summary method of stopping the dangerous practice of carrying sticks and umbrellas horizontally. As soon as a man tucks his umbrella under his arm he will promptly feel a quick blow on it from behind. There is no use in his getting angry with the person who strikes the blow, because public opinion sanctions his conduct.

Average Man at Social Functions.

The average man seldom attends a social function beyond acting as a pallbearer when a friend dies, and when his wife finally coaxes him to attend a party he acts very much as he acts at a funeral, where his only experience was acquired.—Atchison Globe.

Where Running Is Impossible.

It is impossible to run at an altitude of 17,000 feet above the sea.

The rain falls, but it gets up again in dew time.

SHAFT MENDED AT SEA.

Exciting Experience in Midocean of the Steamer Border Knight.

Kipling's "dour Scotch engineer," McAndrews, could hardly have acquitted himself more creditably than did Mr. William Gerrie, chief engineer of the British steamer Border Knight, which arrived at New York a few days ago after an exciting experience in midocean. The Border Knight is a steamer of the genus tramp, a nomadic freighter that set out from Natal in ballast for New York. All went well with her until one afternoon, when there was a sudden jar and a shock, a whirring of machinery and a hiss of steam.

"Shaft's broke," explained Third Engineer Findlay briefly, as he closed the throttle on racing engine.

Examination showed that his diagnosis was correct. For no ascertainable cause the tail shaft, a twelve-inch length of steel, had snapped just outboard of the sleeve, releasing the eight-ton propeller, which went spinning to the bottom. The ship lost her headway, and, having no sail power to give her steerage way, sat provokingly a-rocking in the sea, biding the outcome of the misadventure. The usual procedure in such cases is to haul fires and hoist your flag upside down, by way of a distress signal, by day, and to burn blue lights at night. But these men of the Border Knight did nothing of the sort. The engineer went manholing on his back to the end of the tail shaft, and then came back with an idea which the captain gave him permission to put into effect.

The first step was to uncouple the intermediate shaft, and to do this expeditiously a battering ram was improvised from the anchor stocks. The coupling bolts forced out, the intermediate shaft was lowered clear of the fractured tail shaft, and that piece of metal was knocked from the opening in the stern. A wooden plug the exact size of the shaft was forced into the hole, and then a spare tail shaft was lifted into position and coupled onto the intermediate. All this work occupied three full days. With both shafts in place again the work of fitting on a spare propeller, which the vessel carried, was commenced. To lift the stern out of the water all of the water ballast was pumped into the forward hold. This lifted the stern until the opening was within four feet of the surface.

REPLACING THE SCREW AT SEA.

Meanwhile the six-ton propeller had been lowered over the port quarter, suspended from a cargo boom and guyed with heavy tackle. Chief Engineer Gerrie and Chief Officer Mathie then took positions on the rudder pintles and, standing waist deep in water, guided the big piece of metal to its place on the tail shaft. The massive nut which was to hold it in place was then screwed tightly on by a giant spanner, worked by tackles from the quarters.

The work of the two men in the water was made somewhat entertaining by the active presence of several sharks that played around the stern of the ship. Mr. Mathie was once washed overboard and nearly drowned before being rescued. But that was only an incident, as Messrs. Gerrie and Mathie explained, neither making much of it.

AN OLD VIRGINIA CHURCH.

In It Pocahontas Is Said to Have Been Baptized.

One of the most interesting religious buildings in the United States is the Bruton Parish Church, at Williamsburg, Va., the first pastor of which was Rev. Rowland Jones, an ancestor of Martha Washington. Erected in 1640, it is now in a good state of preservation, and the antique bell still rings out its message, calling all who hear it to attend divine services beneath its time-honored roof. Bruton Old Church is well worth a visit.

The church has the triple-story tower of which our English colonies were so fond. It can still boast of mahogany pews. The aisles were paved with flagstones. On the walls are some quaint mural tablets reciting the virtues and piety of worthies of the old dominion. Williamsburg was the ancient capital of Virginia, and in the quiet churchyard of Bruton Old Church the tombs of the Parke Custis family and those bearing well-known Virginia names of Page, Burwell, Lyttleton, Savange and Nelson are found.

BRUTON PARISH CHURCH, ERECTED 1640.

Burton Parish Church houses three antique communion services, one presented by "good Queen Anne," who did her duty as defender of the faith by equipping infant colonial branches of the Church of England with ecclesiastical silver. A second communion service was bestowed upon the parish by George III., but the most interesting of the three is the venerable set known as the old Jamestown service, fraught with reminiscences of the wonderful building of the colony.

This set, made in 1686, is of silver gilt. It consists of a paten and an exquisite specimen of goldsmith's work, a double-headed cup ornamented with leaves. Another service of three pieces bears the royal arms and the motto, "Honi soit qui mal y pense," with date 1764.

The church organ is very old. It is thought to be the first brought to this country.

Visitors are shown a gray marble font in which local tradition declares that Pocahontas was baptized. An ancient clock without a face and with stiffly immovable hands is yet to be traced upon the steeple. The bell of Bruton Old Church was presented by an English nobleman.

Daniel Parke Custis was the first husband of the lady best known to American history as Martha Washington, and his ancestor, Daniel Parke, was an early vestryman of Bruton Parish Church.

Outside of the edifice, but within consecrated ground, sleep noted men of colonial Virginia, keeping guard over the church. Two executives of the old dominion, Gov. Nott and Gov. Farquhar, two councillors, three Secretaries of State and a noted lawyer of early days, one Edward Barradale, lie buried here.

LAZIEST PEOPLE ON EARTH.

Caucasus Tribe Which Lives in Indescribable and Antiquated Filth.

The laziest and dirtiest people in the world have recently been discovered in the Caucasus. They live in an inaccessible mountain range between the Black Sea and the Caspian Sea, and as they were 2,500 years ago, so they are to-day. Seen from without there is a certain picturesqueness about a Svanetian village, although it merely consists of miserable stone hovels without any attempt at form or adornment. Within the houses are inconceivably filthy. They are filled with rags, vermin and dirt of every description. They possess no fireplace or chimney. All the cooking, in fact, is done over a hole scooped out in the middle of the floor. In these houses men and women and children are huddled together; during the long winter months they are shut in for days at a time, the cattle often sharing their quarters. Every aperture has to be closed on account of the cold. This long imprisonment is, perhaps, the cause of the degradation of the people. Horrible diseases result from it, which are aggravated by abnormal consumption of arrack, the strong distilled drink of the Asiatics.

Besides this, it is an invariable rule to make four days a week holidays, with saints' days as extras. Since they have adopted the holidays of every other country with which they have been in contact, it is not surprising that the men find little time for work. Farming, bee culture and cattle breeding are the only industries of these people, while throughout their territory there is not a single manufactured article.—New York Ledger.

He Mixed His Terms.

A daily observation of that part of the community that from either poverty or weakness gives employment to the criminal courts, furnishes opportunities for the study of humanity that few can enjoy, says the Louisville Commercial. These people usually have very limited education, many of them have none; yet the natural shrewdness of the race, sharpened by experience and by suffering, develops some extremely keen minds. What they learn, they learn "by ear," as it were; wherefrom some very amusing occurrences arise.

A lawyer friend of mine, who is a close observer, said: "Some time ago I talked with a French negro from New Orleans, who was a prisoner in the county jail. This was when the police were charging persons who were arrested on suspicion, as 'suspected felons.' He was to be presented in the Circuit Court for indictment. I said: 'What are you in jail for?' He answered: 'They say I am a "respected fellow!"' 'Well, when do you get a trial?' 'I don't know,' he said, 'I go to the Circus Court to-morrow!'"

Wonder what the grave judges would think of that?

A Remarkable Colony.

There is a colony of Jews in Toledo, Spain, who were allowed to remain in that country when the remainder of their race were expelled by Ferdinand and Isabella, because they showed satisfactory evidence that they were descended from a priest of the court of Caiaphas, who alone of the sanhedrim of priests and elders protested against the crucifixion of the Savior. It is said that the evidence upon which they were exempted from the edict of expulsion was accepted by the hierarchy at Rome as genuine and truthful. It is supposed to be now on file among the archives of the vatican. This little colony of Jews has grown and prospered, until now it is one of the wealthiest and most influential communities on the Spanish peninsular. Several of the members in times past have achieved high rank and reputation under the Spanish government.

A New Light from Science.

An illustration of the new lights which science throws upon old questions is the modern explanation of an experiment made nearly three centuries ago by the French physician, Van Helmont. In a pot of earth weighing 200 pounds he planted a willow branch weighing five pounds. He kept the plant well watered, and in five years the willow had gained 164 pounds in weight, while the earth in the pot had lost only two ounces. Van Helmont inferred that the plant's gain was due only to the water which had been supplied. Modern botanical science proves that the gain was in a great measure due to the carbon absorbed from the air.—New York Herald.

Prevents Sunstroke.

In Florida sunstroke is entirely unknown, although the temperature often reaches 110 degrees Fahrenheit. This is attributed to the extreme moisture of the atmosphere.

Sacred Temple in China.

Many Chinese temples have windows made from the white mother-o'-pearl found in oyster shells. The material is perfectly transparent, and looks like opal glass.

"Pa, please gimme 'nother nickel?" "What for, Tommy?" "Well, pa, 'f I go t' th' picnic with ma I want t' hire a'm' other boy t' carry th' basket."—Indianapolis Journal.

A woman's recollections of her girlhood days seem to be devoted entirely to accounts of her sisters borrowing her clothes.

BASKET OF BABIES TRAVELING.

Curious Bunch of Humanity Shown by Utah Woman at a Station.

A basket of babies. It was quite an ordinary clothes basket, bought brand new for the occasion, and two bouncing baby boys, whose ownership was decided just a little previous to the occasion. The babes were tucked snugly away in a mass of pillows and wraps, and as they first appeared at the Union depot gate, with the fond mother grasping one handle of the basket and the negro porter on the Denver and Rio Grande the other, the rush of tourists dropped their other business and made a fine procession to the waiting room, toward which the curious-looking group was proceeding. There was a perfect rush made by the women and children as the basket with its living freight was deposited on the floor of the waiting room, says the Denver News, and even a few men summoned enough courage to reach the outskirts of the crowd and peep over the mass of millinery toward the center of attraction.

"How many are there?"

"Are they alive?"

"How old are they?"

"What is she going to do with 'em?"

These and various other interrogatory exclamations were poured forth in a stream as the proud mother lifted one after another from the basket and exhibited to the curious.

The mother, Mrs. W. M. Phillipi, of Montenebo, Utah, a plain-looking little woman, clad in a brown dress and a Quaker-looking bonnet, did not seem to appreciate the grounds on which she and her basket attracted so much attention.

"I am going to Galba, Kan., on a visit," she said, "and this was the only way I could manage to bring them. They are only 3 months old, and I couldn't leave them with their father. My other little girls that I have with me are 3 and 5 years old."

The lady said that her husband was a school teacher.

RICH INDIAN HEIRESS.

She Is Won by Tall Elk, a Full-Blooded Indian Chief.

Tall Elk is a full-blooded Osage Indian chief. He is worth more than $500,000 in his own name and is the heir to as much more. He was born out on the Osage Reservation, near Wichita, Kan., and was educated at the Indian schools and at an academy. He stood high in his studies, wore civilized clothing, and was a favorite in police society. But he was first of all an Indian, and after a while he came back to the Osage country, discarded coat and trousers, and became an Indian in costume as well as in heart. Then he fell in love with Mary Red Eagle, daughter of one of the richest chiefs of the Osage nation, and the Osages are easily the richest Indians in the world. Old Red Eagle and Tall Elk's father had been bitter enemies, and the father of the pretty squaw, whose fortune is estimated at $2,000,000, would not allow him around the wigwam. But Tall Elk was persistent, and he finally forced the reluctant father to give his permission.

TALL ELK AND HIS RICH BRIDE.

The wedding, celebrated after the Indian fashion, was the event of the year in the Osage capital, Pawhuska. Tall Elk paid over forty-five ponies, the price which Red Eagle exacted for his daughter, and the girl's mother brought her out to the center of the public square mounted on a little pony and clad in gorgeous red and blue robes. She dismounted from her pony, which was turned loose to become the prize of the brave who could catch it. Then Tall Elk appeared riding like mad in the direction of his bride. Her mother took off the splendid robes and left her standing alone, clad only in a simple rough dress. The bridegroom, without dismounting, threw about his bride's shoulders a handsome blanket and carried her off to his tepee on the front of his saddle. That completed the ceremony.

"Boxer" Societies in England.

There are plenty of people now living who can remember all too vividly how the "Luddites" terrorized Derbyshire, Lancashire, Yorkshire, Nottinghamshire and other English counties. For the space of two whole years, in the affected areas, no man's life was safe from the vengeance of "King Ludd" and his henchmen, and it was only after sixty-four of them had been executed in one gigantic batch that the horrors came to an end. Thirty years later occurred the curious "Rebecca" riots, mostly in Wales, the special object of the rioters being the destruction of all turnpikes throughout the principality.—New York Times.

High-Speed Electric Car.

The high-speed electric car tested in in Connecticut made sixty-five miles an hour. It is to be run on the seventeen-mile road between Providence and Fall River, and make the distance in fifteen minutes.

Giving Them a Chance.

"Then you don't believe in prestige derived from ancestors?"

"Not a bit; I believe in fixing things so my ancestors will derive prestige from me."—Chicago Record.

Religion in German Knapsack.

German soldiers each carry a four-ounce religious book with the rest of their personal equipment.

The savage worships a demi-god; civilized man worships a demijohn.

SERMONS OF THE WEEK

Nature.—One of the most interesting of studies is the productiveness and preservation of nature.—Rev. F. Talmage, Presbyterian, Chicago, Ill.

The Measure.—The measure of manhood and womanhood is the compass, and purity and splendor of one's desires.—Rev. D. N. Beach, Congregationalist, Denver, Colo.

The Just.—The just, and the just only, enjoy interior peace and contentment, for they have the joy of a good conscience.—Rev. Mr. Carraher, R. C., San Francisco, Cal.

Theology.—Theology is a progressive science because man is a progressive being and there is a human side to theology.—Rev. Geo. H. Thever, Methodist, Milwaukee, Wis.

Home Work.—We ought to get out and do missionary work right here for the field is a very broad one and the work needed.—Rev. F. D. Leete, Methodist, Rochester, N. Y.

Alms of the Rich.—No nation, no city, is ever made prosperous by the alms of the rich. It is not our duty to set a premium upon idleness.—Rev. A. Lazenby, Unitarian, Chicago, Ill.

The Highway.—The church that closes its door against the Christ of the poor man becomes the highway to hell rather than the highway to heaven.—Rev. R. H. Moore, Methodist, Indianapolis, Ind.

Spiritual Growth.—To grow spiritually is to increase health, harmony and happiness, for that which improves the mind must likewise improve the body.—Rev. F. E. Mason, Spiritualist, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Begin to Live.—It was part of the divine plan from the beginning that, while enveloped in the natural body, man can do but little more than begin to live.—Rev. F. W. Miller, Universalist, Chicago, Ill.

Righteousness.—We have emancipated ourselves from false conceptions and in the hearts of men there is a real hunger and thirst after righteousness.—Rev. Dr. Harris, Congregationalist, New Haven, Conn.

Religion.—Religion must be born of God and tend to make man more like the great ideal. True religion has existed for nineteen centuries and the system has grown.—Rev. J. H. W. Blake, Episcopalian, Akron, Ohio.

A Religious Community.—We form to-day merely a religious community, and as such look forward to the salvation of the individual and of the human family from all forms of sin.—Rev. J. Silverman, Hebrew, New York City.

Community of Knowledge.—There must be a community of knowledge. People associate with those who are like-minded. We must learn the mind of God as revealed in his word.—Rev. F. E. Smiley, Presbyterian, Denver, Colorado.

The Highest Results.—You can never achieve the highest results in your work unless you love it, and we will never make success out of our work if we desire to get away from it.—Rev. Dr. McDowell, Methodist, Baltimore, Maryland.

Redeemed.—Take comfort in this thought: If you were not redeemed you could not have this distress; the unregenerate cannot have it. Your "hungering" and "thirsting" are proof of your love of God.—Rev. T. H. Rice, Presbyterian, Atlanta, Ga.

Faith in Jesus.—There are bright stars in the Christian firmament. Money was never so freely given for religious purposes. The great mass of the people have faith in Jesus Christ, though not church members.—John Thresher, Evangelist, Pittsburg, Pa.

Defiance of the World.—Outcast and outlawed is the man who so dresses either his body or his thoughts or his deeds as in defiance of the world. But for the most of us there is little danger of this.—Rev. B. A. Jenkins, Independent, Indianapolis, Ind.

Human Limitation.—Christ gave himself for the lost world. He gave the glory that he had from the foundation of the world with the Father, crown, scepter, association, throne exchanged for human limitation.—Rev. L. L. Sieber, Lutheran, Indianapolis, Ind.

Act of Prayer.—Is it not true that nowhere in all human experience is such earnestness, such longing, such wholesouled concentration of mind and will and affections to be found as in the act of prayer.—Rev. William T. Brown, Congregationalist, Rochester, N. Y.

Outside and Inside.—It is not easy for a man nowadays in good society to break with impunity the common canons of morality. And yet are we not sensible that it is a good deal easier to be good outside than inside.—Rev. H. P. Dewey, Congregationlist, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Greater Things.—Jesus himself declared that he had greater things to say and do than men could "bear" when he was on earth, some of which he said and did in the days of the apostles, some of which he could not say and do until our own day; for instance, emancipation and prohibition.—Rev. Dr. Crafts, Presbyterian, Washington, D. C.

Protestant Idea.—The Protestant idea is that any religion that does not fit a man for the necessary business of life and for the life of the home is not the best brand, and that he is the best Christian who, like Jesus, can mingle daily with all sorts of people, going about doing good, yet keeping himself unspotted from the world.—Rev. C. M. Cobern, Episcopalian, Denver, Col.

Family Averages.

The average number of children per family in European countries is lowest in France, with 3.03; Switzerland, 3.94; Austria and Belgium, 4.05; England, 4.08; Germany, 4.10; Holland, 4.22; Scotland, 4.46; Italy, 4.56; Spain, 4.65; Russia, 4.83; while Ireland is highest, with an average of 5.20 children in each family.

After a man becomes old he has a hard time to keep his head cool in summer. Did you ever notice that an old man walks along carrying his hat in his hand?

AUBURN WEEKLY COURIER.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, postoffice as second-class matter.

THURSDAY.....AUGUST 30, 1900.

Political Notes.

Don't forget the democratic meeting in Auburn Thursday evening, August 30 Mr. Burke speaks. All come.

Teddy Roosevelt has been building a reputation on his ability to ride a wild bronco and throw the lasso, and expects thereby to carry the Mountain states. But a cowboy out that way will spring a surprise on him when he reaches North Dakota. He is going to challenge Teddy to a trial of skill in bronco riding and lassoing. It will be a new experience for a candidate for vice-president.

At the meeting of the Maumee Valley pioneers we heard the speech of Charles Foster, ex-governor and ex-secretary of the treasury. He said among other things, "Trusts have come to bless," so the common people believe this. We are paying a third more for very many things we are obliged to use, simply because the trusts please to make it so. For a five gallon can of gasoline we recently paid 60 cents, now we pay 70 cents. This is about a dollrr a year extra off of each family in summer or many millions a year clear gain to the trust. The cost of production is no more than before. They use the same wells and machinery and labor. There is no excuse for a raise in the price. The trusts have us by the neck. It is the same with many others. Shall we keep trusts by keeping in Hanna and McKinley? Ask your neighbors how they like the trusts.

For over two years we have been paying heavy war taxes and still the wars go on. When will the burden be lifted? The conditions in the Philippines are deplorable to say the least. All attempts by the administration and by Gen. Otis to conceal or deny have not prevented the truth getting out. A well known and responsible man, W. E. Johnson, has been sent there by the New Voice to report. He has made close inspection and says that vice and immorality are doing more to kill our soldiers than the war proper. Out of the total 60,000 treated at the various hospitals since we first landed, at least 10,000 are shown to have been the result of drink and vice and at least 800 lives lost due to these causes. Houses of ill fame are licensed and protected, the details of which are not fit to publish. All over Manila and other towns saloons are crowding out other business. All this could be prevented as there is no limit to the power of military rule. Instead, however. it is encouraged andsprotected. We are paying a dear price in millions on millions to have our young men ruined. The same tales are told by others equally reliable, for example Lieut. N. E. Guyot of the first Colorado, now at home. And still no republican has spoken for that party in Northern Indiana, except Taylor of Kentucky, who is under indictment for murder,

Must be a Bad Egg.

Yesterday the jail sentence of Harry Carter, the young fellow who stole the watch at Mr. Wasson's residence near St. Joe, expired and in the afternoon he left for the Junction to take a train home. But he did not go. He is back in jail on the charge of assisting prisoners to escape, and from present indications will have a hard row to hoe. Shortly after Carter left the jail yesterday it was discovered that the remaining prisoners had in some way got possession of several wrenches and a saw, presumably to use in breaking out of jail. Sheriff Hathaway soon found that there had been a preconcerted plan in which young Carter was used as a stool pigeon to procure the tools, part of which were stolen from Russel Guilford's shop in the basement of the power house, and Carter was caught and brought back. He practically confessed that he was guilty and charged that he had been hired by John Lamphere, in jail for beating his wife, to get the tools. Carter made friends by his good conduct while out as a "trusty," but this case shows that he is a very bad boy and he will probably find himself in a serious predicament, as will the instigator of the plot.

His Life Was Saved.

Mr. J. E. Lilly, a prominent citizen of Hannibal, Mo., lately had a wonderful deliverance from a frightful death. In telling of it he says; "I was taken with Typhoid Fever, that ran into Pneumonia. My lungs became hardened. I was so weak I couldn't even sit up in bed. Nothing helped me. I expected to soon die of Consumption, when I heard of Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle gave me great relief. I continued to use it, and now am well and strong. I can't say too much in its praise." This marvelous medicine is the surest and quickest cure for all Throat and Lung Trouble. Regular size 50 cents and $1. Trial bottles free at H. B. McCord's Drug Store! every bottle guaranteed.

Horses Killed.

Henry Porter on the old John Wyatt place on the Allen county line, had a heavy loss by lightning in the storm of August 20. The lightning killed a valuable stallion, and a good sow with her pigs. There was no insurance so the loss is all on him.

Letter From Italy.

MILAN, Sunday, Aug. 12 1900.

DEAR FATHER:—I have intended to write you for several days but could not get time, but will now do so. We reached Milan last night at 10 p. m. from Genoa. This place is in northern Italy where the King had been staying at the time of his assassination, although it did not occur here but at a small town near here. It occurred two weeks ago today. This King was very much beloved by the people, as he was much interested in the welfare of the common people and mingled with them a great deal. At one time a few years ago when there was cholera at Naples he went there and personally helped to care for them and gave 100,000 lira, equal to $20,000 and at various other times did similiar acts that endeared him to the people and the common expression was, "Good King, too good!"

You, of course have learned before this of our disappointment in our proposed Oriental trip. We then concluded to spend more time in Naples and return to Rome to see the King's funeral for we had not had as much time there as we desired. The King was buried last Thursday A. M We secured a window at a cost of 50 lira, some paid 100 lira or more. We had a good view of the procession which was quite imposing. The casket was carried on a gun carriage. The King of Montenegro (this king is the new king's father-in-law) rode a horse in front carrying the dead King's sword and the new King on his left walking. In the rear of the casket was led the King's horse covered with black crape and following were all the notables on foot in promiscuous order. Contrary to the custom with us, every one walks, mourning friends never ride. The Queen widow was not in the procession she and the new Queen went direct to the Pantheon where he is laid near his father, Victor Emanuel. During the time of the parade there were several scares that started stampedes that came very near being frightful. The Italian people are very excitable and they were not without fear that the anarchistic element might not try to make some further demonstration, and the least thing starts them. At one time, the King of Montenegro drew his sword and the notables gathered around the King; the first alarm occured quite near us so that we saw the effect. There was a perfect pandemonium for a short time. The procession was 2 hours, 30 minutes passing us; it commenced at 6.50 A. M. The Pantheon is an old church, built 28 or 30 years B. C. and at one time was very fine, but in past ages it was robbed of all the marble covering and now looks very plain. Although large, it has no windows, simply a large round hole in the top of the dome affords light. As a matter of course the floral decorations were profuse, some of the wreaths were nearly fifteen feet long, the average was at least eight feet. There were a great many delegations from all over Italy. The panorama that the soldiers produced by their many styles of uniform was beautiful.

I just think of the name of the place he was slain, "Monza": it lies nearly east from Milan. He was there presenting prizes to students and had completed the program, had shaken hands with the boys to whom he had made the presentation and was stepping into his carriage when he was shot. You of course know the assasin came from New Jersey. The new King, his son, was crowned yesterday. We would have liked to have seen it but probably could have seen nothing and then did not have time. We went to Genoa last Friday evening and spent Saturday sight seeing. We hired an English speaking guide and made good time. We first visited the cemetery which impressed me very much; I will tell you about it when at home, then we visited churches, picture galleries, public buildings and last we went to see the house in which they claim Columbus was born. The lower room was used as a shoemaker's shop and the upper part living rooms. The house is probably 10 or 12 feet wide and is simply part of a row of rooms in the block; the street was not over twelve feet wide, shops on both sides; no horses are allowed on it. In the afternoon we took a carriage and went to take a bath in the Mediterranean Sea which we enjoyed very much, then we drove around the upper part of the city overlooking the city and sea. This is quite a shipping port and there were many large vessels in the port. This city (like nearly all sea coast cities in this province) is built on the side of hills and gives them a very picturesque appearance. We will leave here tomorrow, taking a trip through Lake Conia and several others to Palanza and then via Simplen Pass by carriage to Zermatt in Switzerland where we expect to stay until the 20 or 21 and then go to Paris where we will stay until September 1. From there we go to London and probably will spend a few days in Scotland before sailing for home on the 8th. We are now counting the days before we will start home, Should any one write after you get this, address us at London, care of Thomas Cook & Son,s Ludgate Circus, London. It is no use to write after the 25, as it would hardly reach us. You will be surprised to know, as we were, that we are not experiencing any inconvenience from heat more than we would at home and I judge from reports not so much as you are at home.

Give my regards to all and my love to Mother, Bessie and other members of the family. Your son,

FRANK.

—Mrs. Austin's new dress is as fine as silk.

The Institute.

WEDNESDAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

Rev. Broay led the morning devotional exercises and C. A. Woodcox conducted the song service. After this Mr. Coe announced formally that Pres. Parsons had received a telegram at 6:30 the previous evening, calling him home, his wife's mother having died. Although confessing sympathy with Pres. Parsons, he rejoiced that he was able to fill his place with an able man, Prof. W. E. Smyser of the Department of Literature in Wesleyan University, Delaware, Ohio.

Dr. Stephenson took up his line of work the first hour, followed by Prof. Smyser, who announced that he would discuss Tennyson because he believed him to be a great poet, and a typical poet of the Victorian age. In defining poetry he said: "Poetry is not written for the ear alone, but for the soul. Poetry must wake the soul." In comparing Tennyson with Wordsworth he said: "Tennyson found beauty in nature. Wordsworth pierced the external form and found an all-pervading Spirit-found God."

During the third hour Dr. Stephenson entertained the teachers and citizens present with a description of some of the old cathedrals and churches of England which he had seen.

In the afternoon Prof. Smyser continued his talks on Tennyson, then they rested while Miss Helen Smith recited and Mr. Frank Hart of this city, sang a solo and responded to an encore.

Dr. Stephenson continued his talks upon History, introducing the Anglo-Saxon race. He impressed the immense stature and ruggedness of build of these men upon his audience. Dr. Stephenson gives his word for it, that in proportion as a man's girth measure is, so is his political power.

At the last hour Prof. Smyser discussed the nature of Tennyson's more mature poems, and announced for Thursday morning a discussion and analysis of "In Memoriam."

In the evening the W. C. T. U. furnished Rev. Selah W. Brown in his lecture, "The Old Times and the New." Mrs. Rose Shull and Misses Inez Knapp and Belle Depew sang a soft, sweet trio, and the Methodist male quartette favored the audience with a selection.

THURSDAY.

The morning session opened by the singing of "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name." Prof. Smyser read Corinthians 13, and led in prayer.

The secretary read the names of the standing committees on resolutions, obituary, auditing and nominations.

Prof. Smyser used his two addresses of this session to interpret Tennyson's "In Memoriam." He calls this a great "soul drama" and says that in this Tennyson traces his own soul experience or moods through the sanctuary of sorrow to a sublimer faith, a grander conception of God. The expression of this is embodied in a number of lyrics composed during a period of seven years. The immediate occasion was the death of his friend, Arthur Hallam. Afterward the lyrics were unified and the dramatic action made to center around three Christmases, or to cover a period of two and one-half years. About the time he wrote this a great revolution was going on in the church. He was trying to reconcile the teachings of science and the church. He saw that life is a contest for the survival of the fittest. Man as a race, must pass away, it seems; Tennyson's solution to the demands of the soul for immortality, and individuality in immortality is hope. The soul is like a child crying in the night—crying for light, feeling that father is near. We are still in the childhood of the race. We are working out the beast. The poem teaches the evolution of the soul.

The second hour of this session was occupied by Dr. Stephenson. He developed further the evolution of "our folks" through the Anglo-Saxon childhood.

Miss Sydney Farmer gave a recitation "The Race." She responded to an encore by "The Photograph Album."

At the first hour of the afternoon session Dr. Stephenson continued the history of the development of our institutional life through the Anglo-Saxon race. He does not believe a boy or girl under 12 years can appreciate or study history properly because he cannot understand senstient, passionate man. He called attention to and urged the emulation of the conservative self-assertive spirit of the Anglo-Saxon race that spirit which has made it the ruling spirit wherever it has gone in the world. He urged the reading by everybody of Charles Kingsley's "The Roman and the Teuton."

Miss Annis Warcup sang a solo to the great delight of all.

Prof. Smyser continued his talk on Tennyson's "In Memoriam."

At the last hour Rev. Theo. F. Frech of Butler, gave his popular lecture, "Tramps, Cranks and Dudes."

In the evening Prof. Smyser lectured, giving an interpretation of the Book of Job from a literary standpoint. The address was literary, pleasing and instructive, and was a timely subject, appreciated by an intelligent audience.

Mr. Samuel Harper added to the evening's entertainment by singing the hyma "Recessional" by Kipling, set to music by DeKoven.

A ladies' quartette, under the management of Mrs. Rose Shull, sang a beautiful "Serenade."

FRIDAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

Devotional services on this morning were led by Rev. Frech of Butler.

Following Dr. Stephenson discussed the teaching of history in the High School, and recommended a list of books which he approved, among which were Green's Short History of the English People, 3 vols; Macaulay's History of England; Gibbon's Rome; and Gardiner's Student History of England. The first three he recommended for teachers, the last for class use.

Sup't Coe appointed Prof. Keep of Waterloo and Miss Husselman of Ashley to fill vacancies in the Nominating Committee. He also announced the dates of the township Institutes as follows: (see report.)

Prof. H. G. Brown, president of the Teachers' Association announced the names of Miss Madge Jackman, and Prof. E. E. Zollar to fill vacancies on program committee of Association.

Prof. Smyser then took the floor. He says the way to teach literature is to read literature. Teachers must be full of the subject. The power of expression is to be acquired. The study of literature pervades every branch of school work. He began an interpretation of Tennyson's "Idylls of the King." In the beginning of this address he said: This poem is a collection of twelve tales told of King Arthur and his Court. The poem was contemplated twenty years before it was actually begun, and having been begun Tennyson took thirty years to complete it, so that it may be considered the flower and fruitage of his life. The poem is not an allegory—the characters are not personifications of moral qualities, but live people. The author himself was opposed to an allegorical interpretation yet back of it is a mystical meaning. The poem suggests the reality of the unseen, to which the author would have us hold fast. In his talk he said: Poetry is like shot silk of many glancing colors. Each man's interpretation will depend upon his relation to, or power of appreciation of, the author. Art can only suggest. Poetry as well as all the other arts has always been the handmaiden of the Christian religion.

The committee on nominations reported as follows:

For president, county sup't., H. E. Coe.
" vice " H. H. Keep, Waterloo.
For Secretary, Ella M Richards, Auburn.
For Treasurer, H. G Brown, Auburn.

The president is to have power to fill all committees. The report was adopted as read and the officers declared elected.

Dr. Stephenson again took up his theme. In this talk he said the real center of History, the underlying motive or thread, was political principle.

A large percentage of the teachers remained for the afternoon hour which was concluded by a timely address by Mrs. Mary Ehlers; Prof Smyser concluded his talks upon Tennyson, and Dr. Stephenson rounded out his theme for the week. Both gentlemen said much in appreciation of the interest and careful attention afforded them by the teachers and others who attended. No better talent has ever been brought to the County and the very evident success of this Institute attests the superior ability of Sup't Coe in his management of the educational problems of the county.

The teachers enrolled for this session are as follows:

AUBURN.

H. L. Brown	W. H. Zeigler
Mary E. Baxter	Lila Baker
Margaret Buckley	Mrs. Lizzie Baxter
Mayme Buckley	Nellie Buckley
Della Boren	Mrs. Jennie Clifton
Ebben Carnahan	Chas. C. Cook
Robert N. Coe	B. Wesley Carper
Frank L. Dawson	Mary E. Essig
Cormie A. Gibford	Stella M. Hague
Maude Link	John F. Moudy
Della Maginnis	Lois Metsker
Mae Provines	Scott Rhoads
Carrie VanAuken	Mae Welch
Grace Zimmerman	Ella M. Richards
H. G. Brown	Frank Baxter
Ida Bottenberg	Nettie Hoff

ASHLEY.

Inez M. Bonebrake	Letta Bonebrake
Mrs. Maude Duncan	Blanche Goodrich
Alma Husselman	Prof. J. W. Johnson
Chas. F. Kettering	Howard Long

ALTONA.

H. D. Dick	Mattie Dick

ARTIC.

Floy Weitz	A. L. Cornelius
Sadie Bryant	Clara Cornelius

BUTLER.

Samuel F. Haverstock	Pearl Huyck
Mayme Huyck	Ella Imhoff
Orris Imhoff	Lucy Hatch
Atlanta Kester	Mrs. Eva Kenestrick
Sadie McCurdy	Prof. C. W. Kimmel
W. C. Miller	A. A. Martz
Mrs. Letitia Potter	Faye Shatto
Winnie Swaysgood	Nellie Noragon
Cora R. Weeks	Laura Wilson
Dessa M. Duncan

CORUNNA.

Francis Wiltrout	E. C. Maxwell
W. E. Aldrich	Perry A. Foote
O. M. Foote	Wilbur Haller
Archie Hewitt	John H. Oster
Frank Shook

CEDAR.

Philip Hollman	Edw. M. Hanson
C. W. Heitz

COLLINGWOOD.

Herman Klopfenstein

FAIRFIELD CENTER.

H. G. Bower	Homer Martin
Chas. M. Reinoehl	David Shook
John H. Urey	Isaiah Wort

CONCORD.

A. E. Shilling

GARRETT.

Will Franks	Geraldine Bevard
Ada F. Chew	Minnie Childs
Maude Childs	A. P. Foltz
Almeda Oster	Supt. E. E. Lollar
Bertha Schelter	Georgia Van Fleit

KICKSVILLE.

E. W. Poinee	Roy Davis

HUNTERTOWN.

Annis Warcup

HELMER.

W. F. Krehl

HAMILTON.

Ora Lautzenheiser	Florence Kittridge
Olivia Eddy	Crissie Dirrim

MOORE.

Alfred Moudy	E. A. Eakright

NEW ERA.

Mary Pepple

NEWVILLE.

A. E. Chapman	A. C. Koeppe
Jennie Dirrim	Hattie Benninghoff

LAOTTO.

Elva S. Simon

SPENCERVILLE.

B. L. Bailey	F. C. Walker
Frank Baltz	George Beams
Milton Kimes	W. W. Fischer
Pearl Goldsmith	W. C. Henderson
Mabel Henderson	Kittie Henderson
Frank M. Kimes	W. C. Lake
J. H. Lake	John Koch

SCIO.

Mrs. Ann Akins	Vernon Frank

SUMMIT.

A. M. Kiplinger	Elvena Kiplinger
Maude Myers	Milton Barnes
Isaac Barker

SEDAN.

T. C. Benson

SWAN.

Louis Damand

ST. JOE.

Ross Abel	Clara M. Burley
Constance Burley	Maude Culbertson
Frank Culbertson	John Dilley
M. J. Hadsell	Bertha Hollabaugh
Clyde Hart	Chas. Hart
Mae Hamilton	Henry Krabill
Chas. O. Krise	Addia Widney
C. A. Woodcox	Lina Sheffer
B. F. Walter	Lee O. Tustison

WATERLOO.

Anna Bevier	C. P. Hamman
Clyde L. Hine	Lulu Hine
J. A. Husselman	Madge Jackman
Sadie O. Jackman	Supt. H. H. Keep
Nellie Newcomer	Lulu Rempis
Olive Rempis	Prof. M. D. Smith
A. L. Shultz	Clara Snyder
Hattie Smith	Ethel Waterman
Mae Waterman	Edson Beard
M. Belle Cooper

ALBION.

Maude Miller

No Right To Ugliness.

The woman who is lovely in face, form and temper will always have friends, but one who would be attractive must keep her health. If she is weak, sickly and all run down, she will be nervous and irritable. If she has constipation or kidney trouble, her impure blood will cause pimples, skin eruptions and wretched complexion. Electric Bitters is the best medicine in the world to regulate the stomach, liver and kidneys and to purify the blood. It gives strong nerves, bright eyes, smooth velvety skin, rich complexion. It will make a good-looking, charming, woman of a run-down invalid. Only 50 cents at H. B. McCord's Drug Store.

Birthday Party.

On Thursday evening, twenty-third of this month, about forty young people gathered at the home of Miss Berenice Case near Fairfield Center to celebrate her sixteenth birthday. The young people engaged in the good, old-fashioned plays used at play parties until about half past eleven o'clock, when light refreshments in the shape of ice-cream and cake were served, after which the plays were resumed and it seemed that every one did try to observe the good old rule, "We went go home till morning." Every one reports a good time and all unite in recommending the hospitality of Mr. Case and family.—ONE WHO WAS THERE.

E. W. Grove

This signature is on every box of the genuine Laxative Bromo-Quinine Tablets the remedy that cures a cold in one day

IT STANDS TO REASON

No. 680.—Cut under survey; has long distance axles, brass bushed rubber head springs, broad cloth trimmings, lamps, curtains, sun-shade, pole or shafts; same as retails for $50 to $75 more than our price. Our price, $110.

that there is money saved in buying direct from the Manufacturer

The profits between the manufacturer and consumer are large.

We Save You these Profits

We are the largest manufacturers of Vehicles and Harness in the world selling to the consumer exclusively. For 27 years we have conducted business on this plan. We give you better quality for the same money, or the same quality for less money than the dealer, jobber or supply agent.

No. 81.—Pneumatic Wagon with No. 1 two inch Pneumatic Tires; 34 and 36-in. wheels, full ball-bearing axles, Bailey body loops and shaft couplers, fine Whipcord trimmings and high grade finish; is as fine as retails for $75 more than our price. Our price, complete with high-bend shafts, $115

No. 907.—Extension Top Surrey with double fenders, lamps, curtains, storm apron, pole or shafts; is as fine as retails for $30 more than our price. Our price, $80.

We Ship Anywhere For Examination.

We make 178 styles of vehicles and 65 styles of harness.

This advertisement will appear only a few times—you may be reading the last insertion.

Our Large Catalogue

shows every Vehicle and Harness we make and gives prices.

IT'S FREE.

No. 891.—Fancy Buggy with figured plush trimmings. Is complete in every way and as fine as retails for $35 more than our price. Our price, with shafts, $55.

Elkhart Carriage and Harness Manufacturing Co.

ELKHART, INDIANA.

DON'T BE DUPED

There have been placed upon the market several cheap reprints of an obsolete edition of "Webster's Dictionary." They are being offered under various names at a low price

By

dealers, agents, etc., and in a few instances as a premium for subscriptions to papers. Announcements of these comparatively

Worthless

reprints are very misleading. They are advertised to be the substantial equivalent of a higher-priced book, while they are all

Reprint Dictionaries,

phototype copies of a book of over fifty years ago, which was sold for about $5.00, and which was much superior to these imitations being a work of some merit instead of one

Long Since Obsolete.

The Webster's Unabridged Dictionary published by our house is the only meritorious one of that name. It bears our imprint on the title-page and is protected by copyright from cheap imitation. As a dictionary lasts a lifetime will it not be better to purchase the

LATEST AND BEST,

Webster's International Dictionary

of ENGLISH, Biography, Geography, Fiction, etc.

Size 10x12¾x4½ inches.

This Book is the Best for Everybody.

STANDARD AUTHORITY of the U. S. Supreme Court, all the State Supreme Courts, the U. S. Government Printing Office and of nearly all the Schoolbooks. WARMLY COMMENDED by College Presidents, State Superintendents of Schools and many other eminent authorities.

Webster's Collegiate Dictionary,

Recently abridged from the International and next to it the best for the family and student.

Size 7x10x2½ inches.

Specimen pages either book sent for the asking.

G. & C. MERRIAM CO., Springfield, Mass.

There is Money in Junk

for you if you save it for H. Greenburg who

PAYS BEST CASH PRICES

for rags, rubber, copper, brass, zinc, lead, scrap iron and all kinds of hides and furs. Also buys and sells second-hand material stoves and furnaces, etc. Persons having second-hand material to buy or sell it will be to their interest to see

H. GREENBURG,

North VanBuren St.,

Auburn, Indiana.

HERE is a medical lecture in a nutshell. The Kidneys drain water and impurities from the blood. The Liver makes bile and helps to drive off other waste. If these organs work badly the body becomes a cesspool and disease sets in. You must get them into healthy action or die.

Dr. J. H. McLean's

Liver & Kidney Balm

is an old and unsurpassed remedy for Backache, Debility, Sleeplessness, Lost Appetite, Foul Tongue, Palpitations and all other symptoms of disease in those organs. It cures as well as prevents every serious trouble in Kidney, Liver or Bladder. At druggists, $1.00 per bottle.

THE DR. J. H. McLEAN MEDICINE CO. ST. LOUIS, MO.

For sale by F. E. Davenport.

Fair and Beautiful Faces.

Impure blood is sure to cause pimples and roughness of the skin. Dr. Warner's Compound of Seven Cures, the great blood renewer, makes a rough skin smooth and fair. F. E. Davenport.

A HOME COMPANION

The FARRAND-VOTEY Parlor Organ certainly deserves this name. Compact, handsome, well made, it is capable of producing the finest music. Excels in sweetness and beauty of tone. No better instrument made or sold at such reasonable prices. We invite inspection of our line of

ORGANS.

Many handsome instruments at very low prices.

FOR SALE BY

F. V. CUTLER,

AUBURN, INDIANA.

Also up-to-date Funeral Directors and Embalmers.

Up-To-Date

Hand Made
Buggy
Surrey or Heavy
Harness

Lap Dusters!

Neat Patterns in all grades from the Cheapest to the Best.

Fly Nets!

Cotton and Leather Fly Nets, Stable Sheets and Covers at Bottom Prices.

Don't forget that we have Garden, Field and Lawn Grass Seed in bulk at very low prices.

Eberle & Freygang

Auburn, Ind.

William's Kidney Pills

Has no equal in diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs. Have you neglected your Kidneys? Have you overworked your nervous system and caused trouble with your Kidneys and Bladder? Have you pains in the loins, side, back, groins and bladder? Have you a flabby appearance of the face, especially under the eyes? Too frequent desire pass urine? William's Kidney Pills will impart new life to the diseased organs, tone up the system and make a new man of you. By mail 50 cents per box.

WILLIAMS MFG. CO., Props., Cleveland, O.

Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM

Cleanses and beautifies the hair. Promotes a luxuriant growth. Never Fails to Restore Gray Hair to its Youthful Color. Prevents Dandruff and hair falling. 50c. and $1.00 at Druggists.

Preparations

We are now preparing for Fall business. Our preparations are being made on a much larger scale than ever before. We hope to do from one-fourth to one-half more business this coming season than we've done in any previous season. Dray load after dray load of boxes have been unloaded in front of our store during the past three weeks—stacks of new goods are now on the way. Our buyer is now in the city selecting the finishing touches. When these goods arrive, which will be late this week or early next, we promise you the most complete stock of

Dry Goods
Clothing
Carpets

ever shown in Auburn or DeKalb county

We have a few summer goods left which we are anxious to clean up. We have bunched our $1.50, $1.25, $1.00 75c and 50c Shirt Waists and give you your choice at 36c. All other Summer Goods at equally low prices.

We invite you to call often. We are saving you money.

Schaab & Bro,
Auburn, Ind.

Superior Disc Drill

When buying a Drill why not buy the best. THE SUPERIOR SINGLE DISC DRILL will do more work and do it better with less labor than any other grain drill yet offered the farmer. It will work in all kinds of ground no matter how trashy or hard. Try one of them and be convinced. Sold by

CULBERTSON & BOLAND,
Auburn, Ind.

Only too glad to show you the line.

XXXX

A large line of

Bicycle Sundries

Always carried in stock at Low Prices.

XXXX

Bicycle repairing promptly attended to.

XXXX

M. B. WILLIS, Jr.
"The Rambler Man"
Huelsenbeck Building.

What Can a Kodak Do? —The answer is found in

D. A. HODGE'S WINDOW.

See our line of Kodaks and Cameras.

We have what you want in Supplies.

D. A. HODGE,
The Jeweler. Auburn, Ind.

Monday's Daily.

—Mrs. Austin's new dress is fine as silk.

—Try the salted peanuts at Had's. Fresh all the time.

—Amos Rohm came in today and added his name to our weekly list.

—The Defiance ball team plays here Thursday and the South Bend Greenstockings on Saturday.

—Buy a Low-Down Deering Corn Binder, a practical machine in the field.—W. H. Zigler, Agent. 36

—Wm. Fretz of Richland, will move to town tomorrow and take a residence in the north end. We welcome him as a citizen.

—Oscar Hoffman, south of Bachtel's Mill, will grind all kinds of house cutlery, plow points, etc. in good style. Try him. tf

—Dr. Baxter reports that a daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. William Guilford, near the Allen Caunty line, last night.

— Miss Olivie Eddy of Hamilton and Miss Nora McFadden of Waterloo were guests of Geo. W. Kuhlman and wife last week.

—The Askew property north of Lutheran church for sale at a bargain. For particulars address Phil Plum, Waterloo, Ind. tf

—Ask your grocer for Russ' Bleaching Blue, do not be deceived by fraudulent imitations. See that the name Russ appears on all packages.

—All persons indebted to the Pioneer Hardware company are requested to call at as early a date as possible, as it is desired to close up the books. 6dw1

—Mrs. G. C. Ralston of Paxton, Ill., and her sister Mrs. Lee Goetschius of Salt Lake are here yet, but the former expects to go home in a few days.

—Miss Bessie Kaley of Carey, Ohio is here, and will go west with her brother C. W. and wife, who start tomorrow, we believe for their home at Rek Cloud, Nebraska,

—V. B. Conklin, Bowersville, O., says: "I received more benefit from Foley's Kidney Cure than from months of treatment by physicians." Take no substitute. H. B. McCord.

—Mrs. A. G. Lodewick, at her home north of the city, entertained a party of ladies Saturday afternoon in honor of Mrs. C. W. Kaley of Red Cloud, Neb., and Miss Bessie Kaley of Carey, O.

—Before you buy lath see the fine stock of the Saginaw product at the lumber yard of A. Lewis & Co. They have reason to think they have about the best there is in the market. a1tf

—We want you to use Putnam Fadeless Dyes because they color more goods, make faster and brighter colors and cost you more than others. 10c per package. Sold by F. E. Davenport.

—The funeral of Mrs. Henry Showers, whose death occurred at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Lanning, east of town, Saturday evening was held at the church of God this forenoon.

—WANTED:—About 25 or 30 cords of good body wood, 18 or 20 inches long, either beech, hard maple or hickory. No dosy or sour wood will be accepted, but must be cut from green timber.—J. C. HENRY.

—Dr. J. W. Lopp of Columbus and Mrs Laura Windell of Titus are here at the bedside of their mother, Mrs. Lopp, who is quite sick at the home of Dr. Baxter. Mrs. Lopp is slightly better today.

—Helen Garwood stepped on a darning needle at the residence of W. R. Vann yesterday. The needle was broken in three pieces, but all were removed by Dr. Vesta Swarts and no serious results are feared.

—The lack of energy you feel, the backache and a run down condition generally, all mean kidney disorder Foley's Kidney Cure will restore your strength and vigor by making the kidneys well. Take no substitute. H. B. McCord.

—Bartlett and May's performance of "A Woman in the Case" will be particularly interesting to women and children, as it is absolutely free from any suggestiveness ordinarily seen and heard in entertainments of a similiar character. At Henry's opera house Saturday evening.

—Michigan City News:—Mrs. B. A. Davis at Hatch's Mills is gaining quite a reputation as fruit grower, especially in the line of plums. She has now under cultivation some seventeen varieties, among which she refers to the Bradshaw as her favorite. Her success with the species of the plum, she says. warrants her in the statement that the Bradshaw can be very successfully grown in this vicinity as well as in northern Michigan, where it receives so much attention.

Dr. Humphreys'

Specifics act directly upon the disease, without exciting disorder in other parts of the system. They Cure the Sick.

NO.	CURES.	PRICES.
1	Fevers, Congestions, Inflammations.	.25
2	Worms, Worm Fever, Worm Colic...	.25
3	Teething, Colic, Crying, Wakefulness	.25
4	Diarrhea, of Children or Adults.....	.25
7	Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis.....	.25
8	Neuralgia, Toothache, Faceache.....	.25
9	Headache, Sick Headache, Vertigo..	.25
10	Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Weak Stomach.	.25
11	Suppressed or Painful Periods....	.25
12	Whites, Too Profuse Periods.....	.25
13	Croup, Laryngitis, Hoarseness.....	.25
14	Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Eruptions..	.25
15	Rheumatism, Rheumatic Pains.....	.25
16	Malaria, Chills, Fever and Ague.....	.25
19	Catarrh, Influenza, Cold in the Head	.25
30	Whooping-Cough.....	.25
27	Kidney Diseases.....	.25
28	Nervous Debility.....	1.00
30	Urinary Weakness, Wetting Bed...	.25
77	Grip, Hay Fever.....	.25

Dr. Humphreys' Manual of all Diseases at your Druggists or Mailed Free.
Sold by druggists, or sent on receipt of price. Humphreys' Med. Co., Cor. William & John Sts., New York.

Tuesday's Daily.

—Mrs. Austin's new dress is fine as silk.

—Mrs. G. C. Ralston goes back to Paxton Thursday.

—Don't forget Had's restaurant for a good lunch or meal.

—J. H. Maxwell of Pleasant Lake is visiting his daughter, Mrs. Lizzie Baxter.

—Horace Hoffman and family returned yesterday to their home at Bloomington.

—The place to get your money's worth in the way of a good meal is at Had's restaurant.

—G. O. Lahnum was on the street today looking rather thin after an attack of bilious fever.

—Adam Weirich of Fairfield was here yesterday and called on friends, including Mr. and Mrs. Troyer.

—Mrs. P. V. Hoffman and daughter Athens went to Chicago this morning to visit a few days with friends.

—Democratic speaking at Auburn on Thursday evening, August 30. All come out and hear the first gun.

—When you go to buy bluing, insist upon having Russ Bleaching Blue and not some of the many imitations. 35

—The biggest peaches so far are reported by Mrs. Trover. Some of those at their home measured ten inches around.

—Will Clark is expected home this week, the ship in which he left Manila having reached San Francisco. He has had an abundant experience.

—A cablegram received from Dr. D. J. Swarts says he has started home from Europe, sailing from Havre, France. He returns by way of New York.

—Auditor Seiler and family left for Petosky yesterday, where Mrs. Seiler will remain for about a month. Mr. Seiler will be absent about a week.

—Mr. Riley and family went to Newark, Ohio, today and expect to make that city their home. The old reliable COURIER will give them the news from Auburn.

—A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Perry Long of East Auburn yesterday afternoon. Dr. Swarts was the attending physician and reports all doing well.

—Mesdames G. C. Ralston, Laura Goetschius, J. C. Summers, Etta Ryan and Jas. McClellan were entertained at dinner today by Mrs. J. Y. W. McClellan.

—The corn show at the state fair, says the Indiana Farmer, is likely to be the biggest of the kind ever attempted in the state. The corn will not be to blame if it is not.

—Grace and Florence the two daughters of Theron Hogue, of Lincoln, Neb., are expected here this week after a visit with their grandmother, Mrs. Hogue of Butler township.

—George Hurni went to his home at Brookville yesterday but will return in about three weeks to remain permanently, having accepted a position in the Crew & Koons cigar factory.

—The greatest skin specialist in America originated the formula for Banner Salve. For all skin diseases, all cuts or sores, and for piles, it's the most healing medicine. H. B. McCord.

—Jesse Myers was here today on some business with the surveyor. He is willing to compare year-old pigs with any man. He has one that was a year old August 26 and it weighs 370 pounds.

—WANTED:—A farm in DeKalb Co. Must be a bargain. Party will pay from $2,000 to $3,000 cash and assume some indebtedness if necessary. Enquire of Webster & Wartenbe, Butler, Ind. 36

—The tenth annual reunion of the 162d Ohio regiment will be held at Sparta, Stark county, September 12. John S. Barns and perhaps others of this county were members of this regiment.

—Mike Schumm, who occupies the second story of the Greenberg residence, has secured work at $1.75 a day. He may, however, rent a farm of Harry Draggoo in a short time. He is evidently an industrious man.

—Among the distant relatives who attended the funeral of Mrs. Kelley, were Edson Marvin and Wm. Marvin of Findlay, Ohio, the latter a brother; J. L. Marvin of Plymouth, Ind., and W. E. Smith of Nappanee, Ind.

—Recorder Herrick has moved to town and is comfortably situated in McIntyre addition in one of A. Lewis' houses. We welcome him and his family to Auburn. He will enter on his office about the first of November.

—Unclaimed letters remaining in the post office, week ending August 25, 1900. John Otering, Guy A. Cheney. Thomas Mason, Wm. Pelts, B. F. Pence and Geo. Powers. Claimants will please call for letters in advertised list. G. B. FORKNER, Postmaster.

—We are glad to learn that J. P. Randel and F. M. Boyer are succeeding in their new venture in the gas belt. They are in a glass making business at Daleville and feel that it is going to pay better than the buggy factory, although we believe that paid them well.

—The Low-Down Deering Corn Harvester, which is built on scientific principles, is in practical use by thousands of influential farmers throughout the country. See the Deering Corn Harvester before you purchase.—W. H. Zeigler, Agent. 36

—The following marriage licenses have been issued since our last report: John Lape and Salome Wilks; Charles C. Cook and Mary A. Grimm; William E. Campbell and Addie Metcalf; Samuel Freed and Elizabeth Smith; Frank A. Lippert and Helen Groves; Louis G. Barbeau and Mary E. Butler; Henry Luce and Elva Getz; William M. Keek and Ada Howl.

Wednesday's Daily.

—Mrs. Austin's new dress is fine as silk.

—Wm. Wise went onto our 1901 list of the Weekly yesterday.

—Don't forget the place when in Auburn. It's Had's restaurant.

—Miss Carrie Kelley will make her home for the present at least, with her foster-brother, Mr. Dedrich.

—Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Zonker were callers yesterday, and he payed way up ahead on his COURIER as usual.

—The old 44th Indiana regiment will hold its annual reunion this year at Ligonier, the dates being October 16 and 17.

—Miss Mary Loveland, who has been with A. Lewis and family for some time, has returned to her home near Newville.

—Hon. W. J. Bryan will be at Fort Wayne on September 13, during the national encampment of the Union Veteran Legion.

– The cider mill in Stamets addition, Auburn, is now running every day in the week except Saturdays. Bring on your apples. J. E. Baker. 37

—Tanks! tanks! tanks!!! Hand made and made on honor, the best that are made. Call at Grogg's, just east of the J. L. Davis residence, Auburn. s3

—Peter Dittmar reports pretty good wheat this year and thinks old DeKalb is the county after all. Men like him who keep their paper paid ahead, generally prosper.

—The following Waterloo people composed the choir which sang at the funeral service of Mrs. Amy Kelley yesterday: Messrs. Dennison and Seary and Mrs. Sinclair and Miss Yager.

—The Grove Bethel martial band will give an ice cream social at the McGinnis school house on Saturday evening, September 1. There will be singing by a male quartet and other attractions. Everybody is cordially invited.

—Dr. E P. Elson, formerly a dentist of this city, wife and daughter arrived at St. Joe Saturday and passed through this place yesterday on his way to visit his brother, J. H. at Fairfield Center. Since living in Canton, Ohio, he has grown stout.

—Campaign song book, title: "Freedom Songs" by E. W. Crane. Adopted by the state central committees of the Fusion Forces of Neb. Single copy 25 cents, $1.75 per dozen, $1.00 per half dozen. Address all orders to E. W. Crane, Box 1520, Lincoln, Nebraska.

– On last Sunday Sherman Dickinson and wife and daughter, Hazel, John Larkin, wife and family of New Era, Squire Jackman, wife and her sister of Huntertown, Miss Dores, Mr. and Mrs. Lane of Garrett and Samuel Heilbranner of Fort Wayne spent the day at Robinson Park.

—There are a number of threshing gangs in DeKalb county but none contains a more lively and hustling set of men than that of Esselburn and Wallace. The boys report a big yield of good oats, and occasionally a good turnout of wheat. They have work ahead that will keep them busy until late in the fall.

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

Obituary.

Esther Marie, infant daughter of James F. and Florence Ferguson, was born April 7, 1900, and died of cholera infantum August 25, 1900, at the tender age of 4 months, 18 days.

Little Esther, although very delicate, was the pride of the home. She leaves to mourn her early death a father, mother and grandparents, besides many friends. Their sorrow cannot be measured in words and they will have the deepest sympathy of all in this sore affliction which has fallen upon them.

"There is no flock however watched and tended
But one dead lamb is there;
There is no fireside howsoe'er defended
But has one vacant chair."

The funeral service was conducted from the house two miles south of Auburn yesterday at 2:30 p. m. Interment took place in Woodlawn cemetery. Rev. J. D. Brosy, officiating.

DeKalb Peaches.

The finest peaches we have seen this year were DeKalb county peaches, and Auburn peaches at that. This forenoon J. F. Mott, who has charge of the Mott farm just at the north edge of town, brought to this office some lovely specimens raised from a young tree. It was the first crop, though the tree had half a dozen or so last year. It bore this time over a bushel all fine, large and luscious. He does not know the name, but it is believed to be of the white globe variety. It is remarkable too, that though the fruit is perfect, the trees were not sprayed. He has several other trees that bore some, but these are the finest.

Don't Stop

taking Scott's Emulsion because it's warm weather. Keep taking it until you are cured.

It will heal your lungs and give you rich blood in summer as in winter. It's cod liver oil made easy.

50c. and $1. All druggists.

THE AUBURN LUMBER CO.

—Carry a Full line of—

Casings, Base Blocks for Inside Finish, Veranda Columns, Spindels, Tracery and Brackets for Veranda or Porch work.....

HOLLOW FOUNDATION BLOCKS,

Bulk Lime, Portland Cement,

And are always headquarters for Shingles, all the best grades cut from green timber.

The Auburn Lumber Co.

Auburn, Indiana.

Remember the Place.....Near Wabash Depot.

A New Stomach.

You can't Buy One, but You Can Build One.

Your stomach has to digest materials that go to rebuild the tissues of the body, including the tissues of the stomach itself. When the stomach fails the whole body suffers. The liver is always immediately affected and the kidneys soon suffer. Dr. Stone's reputation as a specialist is due to the fact that he early realized that a sound stomach is the basis of all health. He treated the stomach, endeavoring to build it up, strengthen it and increase its digestive power. Years of experience enabled him to do this with certainty. The remedies that he finally came to rely upon are combined under the name of Dr. Stone's New Dyspepsia Cure. The results from this treatment have been remarkable, but they should be, for this remedy is the result of a lifetime of experience. Dr. Stone's New Dyspepsia Cure will banish all the evils of indigestion. It enables you to eat well, sleep well, and work well. With sound digestion restored, you will enjoy life better than you may have done done for years. This remedy is guaranteed; your money back if it fails. Price 50 cents. Sold by H. B. McCord.

How is This.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., June 10, 1900.
Barnes Botanic Drug Co.
Tullahoma, Tenn.

Gentlemen:—I have been using your Barnes Kidney & Bladder Cure according to directions, and find it has benefitted me more than any medicine I have ever taken. It has relieved me of all pains in the back, shoulders and legs and headache such as I used to have continually. In fact it has made a new man of me. I cannot praise Barnes Kidney & Bladder Cure too highly.

Yours truly,
a30 CHAS. U. CROSSFIELD.

Mrs. Kelley Dead.

Mrs. Amy R. Kelley died Saturday afternoon at her home on North Main street after a lingering illness of a year or so. She had for several months been confined to her bed, her disease being consumption. The funeral will be at the Presbyterian church on Tuesday afternoon, leaving the home about one o'clock. The interment will be in the cemetary at Waterloo, where the late James D. Kelley is interred.

Sheriff's Sale.

By virtue of an execution issued on a transcript of a judgment filed in the office of the clerk of the DeKalb circuit court on the 22d day of April, 1895, in favor of Solomon Shilling, amounting to $142.43, and to me directed by the clerk of said court, I will offer for sale at public auction and outcry, to the highest bidder, at the door of the court house in Auburn, DeKalb county, Indiana, on

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 1, 1900,

between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m. and 4 o'clock p. m. of said day, the rents and profits for a term not exceeding seven years of the following described real estate, situated in DeKalb county, in the state of Indiana, to-wit;

Lot numbered seventy-two [72] in Ensley's second addition to the town of Auburn.

And in case the rents and profits fail to bring the amount demanded to satisfy the judgment and decree aforesaid, interest and costs, together with all accruing costs thereon; and also in case the rents and profits of said property fail to bring the additional amount demanded to satisfy the judgment and decree, interest and costs, together with all accruing costs due Moody & Rickel on a judgment rendered in the DeKalb circuit court on the 21st day of May, 1895, for $180.02, and to me directed by the clerk of said court; and also, if the rents and profits of said property fail to bring the additional amount demanded to satisfy the judgment and decree, cree, interest and costs, together with all accruing costs due Moody & Rickel on a judgment rendered in the DeKalb circuit court on the 16th day of March, 1895, for $109.75 and to me directed by the clerk of said court, I will at the same time and place, and in like manner as aforesaid, offer for sale, at public auction and outcry, to the highest bidder, all the right, title, interest and estate in fee simple of Grant Owens and John C. Owens at his death and now holden by his heirs, in and to the above described real estate, or so much and such part thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the judgments and decrees aforesaid, which are in favor of Solomon Shilling and Moody & Rickel, and against Grant Owens and John C. Owens.

Said real estate will be sold without relief from valuation or appraisement laws, and subject to the redemption laws of the state of Indiana.

JOHN H. HATHAWAY,
Sheriff of DeKalb County, Indiana.
Moody & Rickel, Attorneys for Plaintiff.
August 6, 1900.

SUPERLATIVE QUALITY--ABSOLUTE PURITY.

ROYAL GARDEN TEAS

Sold only in Bour's celebrated Bond-Linen Package, with the Blue Strip Seal. Accept no substitute.

ASK YOUR GROCER

Open Air Services.

The Evangelical Reformed churches of Auburn and Garrett will hold joint open air missionary meetings at Lind's Grove two and one half miles southeast of Auburn next Sunday. The services beginning at 10:30 a. m. and being interposed with preaching and singing in the English and German languages, will continue during the day. Rev. Winter of Huntington and Rev. Vornbolt of Berne, Indiana, who speak both languages fluently will conduct the services. Fill your baskets with a noonday lunch and enjoy, beside this a feast on missionary topics. Conveyances will leave the Reform church at 9:15 a. m. In case of rain there will be services at the Reformed church at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

A Powder Mill Explosion.

Removes every thing in sight; so do drastic mineral pills, but both are mihty dangerous. Don't dynamite the delicate machinery of your body with calomel, croton oil or alloes pills, when Dr. King's New Life Pills, which are gentle as a summer breeze, do the work perfectly. Cures Headache, Constipation. Only 25c at McCord's drug store.

Volcanic Eruptions

Are grand, but Skin eruptions rob life of joy. Bucklen's Arnica Salve, cures them, also Old, running and Fever Sores, Ulcers, Boils, Felons, Corns, Warts, Cuts, Bruises, Burns, Scalds, Chapped Hands Chilblains. Best Pile cure on earth. Drives out Pains and Aches. Only 25 cents a box. Cure guaranteed. Sold by H. B. McCord the Druggist.

CASTORIA.
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

LIKE A BIG STAMPEDE

WESTERN VOTERS ENTHUSIASTIC FOR BRYAN.

Unmistakable Indications that the Democrats Are on the Straight Road to Victory—Tide Is Helped Along by Republican Apathy and Disgust.

Washington correspondence:

"Begins to look like a stampede for our ticket," remarked a prominent Democrat who dropped into congressional headquarters the other day after a trip through the Middle West. If energy and enthusiasm are any indication, the Democrats are on the road to victory. There never was known a campaign when there was such a clamor for campaign literature. The Democratic congressional committee has applications for more than 4,000,000 documents of various sorts. These applications come directly from the voters. The most frequent request is, "Send everything you have on imperialism and trusts." The congressional committee is sending out thousands of documents every day, but is unable to keep up with the demand.

On the other hand, Mark Hanna and the Republicans are complaining of the apathy of the voters. The campaign fund has been gathered. The circus is ready, the feast has been spread, and there are no guests to be entertained. Of course Hanna and his assistants will leave no device untried to arouse interest and enthusiasm for McKinley, and the Democrats, knowing this, are going at the campaign with as much energy and perseverance as though they were leading a forlorn hope instead of a victorious army of voters.

The Democratic campaign handbook will be out in a few days. It devotes considerable space to the dangers of imperialism and militarism. It has also a chapter on industrial matters and calls special attention to the fact that the last Congress, with its clear Republican majority in both houses, did absolutely nothing in the way of labor legislation. The report of the official committee of the American Federation of Labor gives some caustic comment on this point.

The Bureau of Statistics looks like an adjunct of the British home office. Its weekly bulletins are devoted to admiring reprints of British opinions in regard to our policy in various directions. Now, it is the report of the British consul at Havana, which is quoted to the effect that for the past two years the Cubans have been importing nearly all their food, liquors and clothing instead of utilizing the agriculturing and manufacturing facilities which the island affords. The British consul goes on to say that there has been no large amount of tools, industrial machinery or material for public works introduced, and that the greater amount of the excess importation was covered by the sales of railway rights and cigar factories to British capitalists last year.

The report concludes that Cuba is about to pass through a period of great poverty and cannot expect to recover until it has adopted a policy of cultivating its lands and raising its own food supplies. This gives an interesting side light on the willingness of the administration to haul down the flag in Cuba and get out, leaving the natives to their own resources.

We took Cuba impoverished by a long and bitter guerrilla warfare. Our postal frauds and municipal mismanagement of every sort have already drained the island of revenues. In the last two years Cuban revenues have been used by conscienceless carpetbaggers instead of being expended in public improvements, and the restoration of industry to its normal state. McKinley will haul down the flag in Cuba and leave its impoverished and starving natives to the mercy of British capitalists. Verily the hand of the Imperial William has been heavy upon the unfortunate Cubans.

The Bureau of Statistics is disseminating this information from British sources in order to prepare the country for the announcement of general distress in Cuba. Each week brings some new fact which shows that imperialism has been anything but beneficial to our "colonial subjects."

Surgeon General Sternberg reports to the War Department that there are 30,000 lepers in the Philippines, and that bubonic plague is raging in Manila. That is one side of the question. Here is another: The War Department admits a total expenditure of $186,678,000 in carrying on the Philippine war. Our entire exports to the Philippines last year were only a little over two millions and a half, and most of that consisted of supplies for our army. Obviously the Republican contention of commercial advantage from holding the islands is not sustained by the facts.

At least 45 per cent. of our army is incapacitated by wounds or disease. The death list grows alarmingly. The mothers who mourn the loss of their sons in this war will not be comforted by the Republican praise of imperialism. And in face of all this and in face of the danger to our own institutions from imperialism the Republicans try to tell us that there is no such issue.

The Republicans are not happy in their choice of subjects on which to preach to voters. The Republican handbook contains a statement on pensions which is intended to soothe the G. A. R. by showing that McKinley has allowed 52 per cent. of all claims, while Cleveland allowed only 31 per cent. The pension roll constitutes an enormous drain on our revenues, and is being increased by the claimants from the Spanish and Philippine wars. There is no objection to just and liberal pensions, but many are now on the rolls who have no right there.

The G. A. R., however, is wrathy at Pension Commissioner Evans, and nothing will allay the resentment of this organization except the removal of the obnoxious official. McKinley has had his resignation in hand for some time, but with characteristic hesitancy cannot make up his mind whether or not to accept it.

McKinley is sorely puzzled as to what he shall say in his letter of acceptance. Bryan put the issue of imperialism so it cannot be dodged, and from all over the country comes ringing assertions from those who were Republicans in 1896 that they intend to vote for Bryan this time because he is against imperialism. It is generally recognized that even the fancied danger of disturbance to the financial legislation of the country would be very much less than the menace of imperialism. The Republicans are having no success in trying to put 16 to 1 forward as the issue. The Chinese complications have emphasized the danger of meddling in affairs outside this continent.

Resorting to Desperate Means.

It (the Republican national machine) is undertaking by every means to disturb the business of the country, to undermine confidence and to create a state of public sentiment which might, under certain conditions, lead to panic. It is doing this without sufficient cause, simply to gain a party advantage and without regard to the consequences which may follow. It is apparently endeavoring to work up a panic, to unsettle finances and to promote a feeling of distrust which may prove disastrous. This is the Republican policy in 1900—a policy which involves a wicked disregard of the business interests of the country—a narrow and selfish policy which would withhold prosperity from the nation unless the Republican party is retained in power.—Baltimore Sun.

Labor and the Pension List.

Pension abuse was one of the causes which led the American people to undertake the war of the revolution. If imperialism is to be the policy of the government of the United States for the next four years we shall have a pension list whose taxes will stagger labor. No American citizen objects to pensions as a reward for defense of the country. Such pensions always ought to be and always will be paid gratefully. Pensions for imperialism will always be a reminder of the gravest error in the history of the American people.—Chicago Chronicle.

Militarism and the Workingman.

The cost of these (army and navy) will aggregate over $50,000,000—nearly four times as much as our government ever spent for the same purpose in any year before Mr. McKinley became President. Apparently, at the present rate of progress, the American workingman will soon be called upon to carry not only a soldier but a sailor upon his back and out of his earnings spend enough to feed, clothe and support the two while they are living and pension their families when they are dead.—Baltimore Sun.

HARRISON, HOAR AND REED.

Trio of Eminent Republicans Wholly Out of Sympathy with McKinley.

If the average observer were asked to name the three ablest and most respected Republicans now living, whom would he name? William McKinley, Mark Hanna and Theodore Roosevelt? Not if he were honest and thoughtful. Or would he name Thomas C. Platt, "Matt" Quay and Henry Cabot Lodge?

Undoubtedly, a thoughtful observer would select ex-President Harrison, ex-Speaker Reed, and Senator Hoar of Massachusetts, if called upon to decide. These men, although widely different, are the representatives of the best ability and character in the Republican party of to-day.

General Harrison was his own man every minute that he occupied the White House. There was no Hanna over him. He impressed himself greatly upon his fellow-citizens as a man of sincerity and force of character. Quite naturally, General Harrison has little respect for McKinley, for whose administration the ex-President scarcely attempts to conceal his contempt. The other day, talking to an interviewer, Gen. Harrison said that he "did not think that the Republican party had pursued the rightful course with regard to the trust question, and thought the administration was playing fast and loose with the people on the matter. He regards the administration, however, as having been a wise one for the most part, but admits that several grievous mistakes have been made in handling the reins of government." When not talking for publication he has damned the present administration with much fainter praise. He is known to take no stock in the Philippine and Porto Rico business.

Thomas B. Reed, the brilliant ex-Speaker, whose equal in mental equipment the McKinley outfit cannot produce, is notoriously out of sympathy with McKinleyism, and left public life rather than be compelled to defend the weak administration for which he feels so hearty a contempt.

Senator Hoar, the "old man eloquent," is constrained, by affection for the party whose cradle he rocked, to stand by the ticket; but everybody knows that neither his heart nor his brain is in the cause.

How can McKinleyism, distrusted if not despised by the best minds in the Republican party, expect the support of the people, or—most ridiculous of all—appeal for Democratic support on "patriotic" grounds?—Albany Argus.

Intelligence of Democracy.

Somebody has brought together a lot of census figures designed to show that the Bryan Democracy is of "a lower order of intelligence, education and law-abiding disposition" than Mr. McKinley's party. This is not helpful argument for the latter party, nor is it harmless argument for the country. It is calculated to increase class feeling and provoke party resentment. It did not avail when employed against the Jefferson party in 1800, which then carried the country and held the government continuously for forty years. The rank and file of the Democracy is largely the same now as in Cleveland's day, and yet it was then deemed a safe investment for orderly government by very conservative men.—Springfield, Mass., Republican.

Honors Stolen from Colored Men.

The regiment that won the honors of the day (at San Juan) was not Roosevelt's. It was one that had gone into the war without exciting wonderful prophecies of what it would perform. It was a colored regiment, the Twenty-fourth Infantry. The down-trodden colored men made the actual fight on which Colonel Roosevelt's martial glory rests. All the prestige that has come to him from the war, all the military glory that is his, has been filched from the unassuming black soldier.—Denver Post.

McKinley's Vulnerable Record.

The confident declaration of administration adherents that the record of William McKinley as President is the one great absorbing issue of the campaign is not as frightening in its effect as it was expected to be. Altogether, the record of President McKinley is one that the Republicans—or so many of them as stand by the President—will have to defend. The Democrats, under the leadership of William J. Bryan, are on the aggressive.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

FOUNDERED.

—Denver News.

SOME BIG WESTERN "AUTOMOBILES."

The "automobile" of the California wheat fields is a wonderful engine, used to harvest the crops upon the immense farms, which in some instances cover thousands of acres. The traction engines used for plowing, cultivating, seeding and harvesting these enormous crops are the largest ever built. They are of fifty-horse power, with driving wheels sixty inches in diameter and flanges sixty inches in width.

MAMMOTH HARVESTER—CUTTER, 26 FEET WIDE; CAPACITY, 75 ACRES PER DAY. THE WHEAT IS HEADED, THRASHED, CLEANED AND SACKED BY THIS MACHINE IN ONE CONTINUOUS OPERATION.

They draw over the fields sixteen ten-inch plows, four six-foot harrows, and a press drill to match, plowing, harrowing and seeding from forty-five to seventy-five acres at one operation each day. Their use explains why the vast crop of California, covering millions of acres, can be planted and cultivated in a country where the supply of labor is not great enough to plant a crop one-tenth part as large. In the harvest time, by the aid of one of those enormous harvesters, whose cutters are twenty-six feet wide, the wheat is at once headed, thrashed, cleaned and sacked, ready for market, the machine in one day gathering the crop of seventy-five acres.

TRACTION TRAIN, WITH FIFTY-HORSE POWER ENGINES.

To observe one of these enoromus machines traveling over the upeven surface of these fields, crossing wide ditches, or crawling along the side hills, surmounting every obstacle with the most perfect ease, and automatically gathering in the ripened grain, sacked ready for market, is a sight of the rarest description.

These mechanical prodigies are adapted only for countries like California, with seasons of wet and dry, well defined, where cereals ripened by hot suns easily fall from the husks. For the moist lands of the great North these harvesters have not proved an entire success.

NOTED RAILWAY MAN

CAREER OF THE LATE COLLIS P. HUNTINGTON.

Great Financier Started in Life Penniless and Rose to Be a Multi-Millionaire—Chiefly Instrumental in Building the Central Pacific Road.

The death of Collis P. Huntington, president of the Southern Pacific Railroad, which occurred at his camp, Pine Knot Lodge, in the Adirondack mountains, removed one of the most powerful figures in railway and financial circles in this country. Collis P. Huntington sprang from the ranks of the common people. He was born in the little town of Harwinton, Litchfield County, Conn., 78 years ago. He passed the first fourteen years of his life on his father's farm and then his school days ended and he was given his freedom. He was at this time nearly six feet in height and of tremendous muscular development. In his first year of self-support he earned $84, his board and clothes being included in the contract, and he saved every cent of it. The business years of Mr. Huntington's minority were spent in the South, where he added to his store of knowledge in the school of experience and gained a deep insight into human character. At 21 he formed a partnership with his brother in a general merchandise store at Oneonta, N. Y., and remained there until 1848, when the gold fever broke out and he started for the Pacific coast. He left the East with $1,200, but had increased this amount to $5,000 before reaching California. He was detained for three months on the isthmus and devoted this time to buying and selling merchandise. He opened a general store in San Francisco, and there branched into the hardware business. He took into partnership with him Mark Hopkins and it was not long before they became rich.

The importance of a railroad to connect the East with California was a theme of discussion in and out of Congress in the early '60s. Mr. Huntington had long before seen the need of such a road and he succeded in interesting three other men of means who were not afraid to invest their money in the gigantic undertaking. His associates were Leland Stanford, Charles Crocker and Mark Hopkins. In spite of the physical obstacles, apparently insurmountable, that confronted them and the timidity of capital these bold men, who were laughed at for their hair-brained scheme, pushed ahead, sank their money, time, energy and faith into the undertaking. On May 10, 1869, a historic gathering of sturdy men on the plains of Utah witnessed the last spike which completed the Central Pacific Railway, joined the East with the West, and heralded the dawn of a vast empire. Mr. Huntington's fame as a railroad builder became world-wide. Next he and his associates constructed the Southern Pacific Railroad from San Francisco eastward through Los Angeles, Arizona, New Mexico and Texas and did not stop until they had a continuous line from Portland, Ore., to New Orleans, a distance of 3,200 miles.

COLLIS P. HUNTINGTON.

Innumerable branches were built from time to time and other lines in Texas, in old Mexico and in Guatemala were constructed until at the end of 1890 a total of over 9,000 miles of track had been built and twenty-six corporations had been merged in one great parent organization known as the Southern Pacific Company.

While these huge enterprises were being carried through in the West, Mr. Huntington was evolving a vast scheme in the East, independently of his associates. The State of Virginia had been trying to finish the Chesapeake and Ohio Road and several sets of contractors had been ruined in the attempt. Mr. Huntington completed it and then went on building westward through West Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee and Mississippi, until at last he had the unique satisfaction of riding in his private car over his own tracks from the gateway of the old Dominion on the Atlantic to the Golden Gate on the Pacific coast. He was also the founder of the city of Newport News, Va., and the owner and builder of a huge shipyard there which employs nearly 4,000 men, likewise the Huntington Industrial Works at Hampton, Va.

HUNTINGTON'S NEW YORK PALACE.

Mr. Huntington was a man of wide philanthropy and did much to benefit the condition of his workingmen. He impressed upon them the importance of owning their own homes and erected school houses for the instruction of their children. His tastes were quiet and simple and he cared little for society, although his daughter married a prince. He had crossed the country more times than any other man and none were better acquainted with its topography. His wealth is estimated at $25,000,000. He built a magnificent mansion on Fifth avenue, New York City, a few years ago, but it is said he never cared to live in it.

LORD PLAYFAIR'S ASSURANCE.

Induced Prince of Wales to Ladle Molten Lead with His Hand.

One of the most honored and conspicuous figures in the public life of Great Britain during the last half century was Lord Playfair. The vast sanitary improvements which have taken place in England within thirty years and the evolution of the whole system of scientific and technical instruction are due to Playfair more than to any other man, says the North American Review. He originally suggested the adoption of open half-penny letters, now known as post cards, and he was largely instrumental in suggesting the basis of an equitable agreement betwen Great Britain and America when President Cleveland's Venezuelan message had brought the two countries into dangerous antagonism. Among Playfair's students at the University of Edinburgh was the Prince of Wales, of whom a curious anecdote is told.

"It was while the Prince of Wales was living in Edinburgh, as Playfair's pupil in the application of science to industry, that an interesting incident occurred. The two were standing near a caldron containing lead, which was boiling at a white heat. 'Has your royal highness,' asked Playfair, 'any faith in science?' 'Certainly,' was the reply. Playfair then carefully washed the Prince's hands with ammonia to get rid of any grease that might be on them. 'Will you now place your hand in this boiling metal and ladle out a portion of it?' said Playfair. 'Do you tell me to do this?' asked the Prince. 'I do,' was the answer. The Prince instantly put his hand into the caldron and ladled out some of the boiling lead without sustaining any injury. It is a well-known scientific fact that the human hand, if perfectly cleaned, may be placed uninjured in lead boiling at white heat, the moisture of the skin protecting it under these conditions from any injury. Should the lead be at a temperature perceptibly lower the effect would be, of course, very different."

MEN THE CHEAPEST.

Animal Hire in Russia Exceeds That Paid for Human Labor.

In Russia the wages of a horse are higher than those of a man, and hence, of course, very much higher than the wages of women. Thus, in the Nishni-Volga section, we find the average pay of man and horse to be about 72 cents per day; of man alone, 34 cents; that is, 38 cents for a horse, and 34 cents for man. The women receive from 10 to 20 cents. In the central agricultural region the average is: Horse, 23 cents; man, 29 cents; woman, 13 cents. In the southern steppe: Horse, 36 cents; man, 25 cents; woman, 16 cents.

This is an interesting commentary on the standard of living of Russian agricultural laborers. Its meaning is simply that human beings are cheaper than draught animals. In other words, it costs less to keep them alive. In the southern steppe five women can be employed more cheaply than two horses. Is it difficult to imagine the condition of home life, the dearth of refining influences, the sodden, hopeless stagnation that such a state of affairs reflects? Is it any wonder that the products of such a wage status as this are individual degradation, social barrenness, meager education, political despotism, religious intolerance, and, generally, a type of civilization scarcely above barbarianism?

Treaty Rights of Missionaries.

Apropos of current events in China, it may not be inopportune to recall the various steps by which the position of English missionaries in the Yellow Empire was secured. First came clauses—in the English treaty of Tien-tsin, in 1858, guaranteeing the personal safety of missionaries, and declaring that if they acquired land at the treaty ports and certain other places the agreement should be made "without exactions on either side." The French treaty of 1858 protected French missionaries traveling peaceably and with duly authenticated passports in the interior, and also by a clause—said to have been surreptitiously interpolated—permitted them to purchase land and erect buildings "in the provinces." Of this clause English missionaries came in time to get the conventional benefit, and the imperial seal to their status and that of the missionaries of other countries was given by an edict in 1891, which, after declaring "the right of foreign missionaries to promulgate their religion in China," directed the authorities under the strongest sanctions to protect them and their converts.—Law Journal.

The Eclipse in India.

When the Hindoos along the Ganges began to notice the recent eclipse of the sun they watched with terror what they supposed to be the overpowering of their beloved dignity by the demon of darkness. Besides fasting and praying the native population along the shores bathed in the sacred river in thousands. The people at the top of the bank knelt down and prayed, shouting: "Hori bol!" (God, I cry!) Some covered themselves with dust and others washed themselves in the river. They were all mixed together—men, women and children—and all were in a frantic, excited state lest the sun should be altogether swallowed by the demon and never shine any more.

A baby is a rose without thorns. The thorns gradually appear as it reaches maturity.

Gifted Angelina.

"Angelina tells me she cuts all her shirt waists without a pattern."

"She does. How do they look?"

"Oh, they look like shirt waists cut without a pattern."—Indianapolis Journal.

From War to Peace.

Two cannon from the civil war are to be melted and cast into a statue representing peace. What a contrast—as great in a way as the change Hostetter's Stomach Bitters will bring about in the health of any who use it. It cures constipation, dyspepsia or weak kidneys. Try it.

Insurance Collectors.

"What good are you?" said the farmer as he found a dusty pilgrim yawning in his hay.

"What good are we?" echoed the knight of the road. "Why, if we didn't smoke butts in farmers' barns dey'd never git insurance money to pay de mortgages off de res' ob de farm."—Chicago News.

Ten Years Pain

"I am a school teacher, have suffered agony monthly for ten years.

"My nervous system was a wreck. I suffered with pain in my side and had almost every ill known. I had taken treatment from a number of physicians who gave me no relief.

"One specialist said no medicine could help me, I must submit to an operation.

"I wrote to Mrs. Pinkham, stating my case, and received a prompt reply. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and followed the advice given me and now I suffer no more. If any one cares to know more about my case, I will cheerfully answer all letters."—MISS EDNA ELLIS, Higginsport, Ohio.

ABSOLUTE SECURITY.

Genuine

Carter's Little Liver Pills.

Must Bear Signature of

Brent Good

See Fac-Simile Wrapper Below.

Very small and as easy to take as sugar.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS. FOR HEADACHE. FOR DIZZINESS. FOR BILIOUSNESS. FOR TORPID LIVER. FOR CONSTIPATION. FOR SALLOW SKIN. FOR THE COMPLEXION

Price 25 Cents. Purely Vegetable. Brent Good

CURE SICK HEADACHE.

$3.00 W. L. DOUGLAS SHOES $3.50 UNION MADE

The modern, easy-fitting, economical shoes for progressive men are the W. L. Douglas $3 and $3.50 shoes. Perfect shoes that hold their shape and fit until worn out. Over 1,000,000 satisfied wearers.

Established in 1876.

A TRIAL WILL CONVINCE YOU

Why do you pay $4 to $5 for shoes when you can buy W. L. Douglas shoes for $3 and $3.50 which are just as good.

A $5 SHOE FOR $3.50. A $4 SHOE FOR $3.

The real worth of our $3 and $3.50 shoes compared with other makes is $4 to $5. We are the largest makers and retailers of men's $3 and $3.50 shoes in the world. We make and sell more $3 and $3.50 shoes than any other two manufacturers in the United States.

Having the largest $3 and $3.50 shoe business in the world, and a perfect system of manufacturing, enables us to produce higher grade $3 and $3.50 shoes than can be had elsewhere.

THE REASON more W. L. Douglas $3 and $3.50 shoes are sold than any other make is because THEY ARE THE BEST. Your dealer should keep them; we give one dealer exclusive sale in each town.

Take no substitute! Insist on having W. L. Douglas shoes with name and price stamped on bottom. If your dealer will not get them for you, send direct to factory, enclosing price and 25c. extra for carriage. State kind of leather, size, and width, plain or cap toe. Our shoes will reach you anywhere. Catalogue Free.

W. L. DOUGLAS SHOE CO., Brockton, Mass.

AGENTS WANTED

in every city, town or village. No special experience is required. The Cosmopolitan, in starting out for the fall subscription season of 1900, is prepared to pay handsomely for work. Arrangements are being made to give every possible aid to agents, and any person with a little perseverance can largely increase his income by this work, even if spare moments only are utilized. Write today for Special Fall Offer. Address

THE COSMOPOLITAN MAGAZINE,

Agents Department, Irvington-on-Hudson, N. Y.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

BALD SPOTS

With, out help, a bald spot never grows smaller. It keeps spreading, until at last your friends say, "How bald he is getting."

Not easy to cure an old baldness, but easy to stop the first thinning, easy to check the first falling out. Used in time, baldness is made impossible with — Ayer's Hair Vigor

It stops falling, promotes growth, and takes out all dandruff.

It always restores color to faded or gray hair, all the dark, rich color of early life. You may depend upon it every time. It brings health to the hair.

$1.00 a bottle. All Druggists.

"I have used your Hair Vigor and am greatly pleased with it. I have only used one bottle of it, and yet my hair has stopped falling out and has started to grow again nicely."
JULIUS WITT,
March 28, 1899. Canova, S. Dak.

Write the Doctor.
If you do not obtain all the benefits you expected from the use of the Vigor, write the Doctor about it.
Address, DR. J. C. AYER,
Lowell, Mass.

Millet in Russia.

Millet has in some parts of Russia taken the place of wheat as an article of staple food. Millet can be grown on soil unfavorable to other grains, but it cannot resist the effect of cold. From 1892 to 1896 the average annual production of millet seed in Russia was 6,000,000 bushels, but in 1896 it ran up to 9,500,000 bushels, and is remaining more or less at this figure.

Don't Answer Impertinent Questions

Impertinent questions are to be met with firm and dignified politeness. Any question about another's personal affairs, about the price of one's clothing, the amount of one's earnings, the reasons one has for entirely private conduct, is impertinent. Would I answer such questions? Not at all. Usually, by a little tact, one can settle such questioners. If there is no other way, I counsel a plain but courteous sincerity—a simple refusal to answer. One may just say: "Pardon me, I prefer not to give any information whatever on this matter."—Ladies' Home Journal.

BEST FOR THE BOWELS.

No matter what ails you, headache to a cancer, you will never get well until your bowels are put right. CASCARETS help nature, cure you without a gripe or pain, produce easy natural movements, cost you just 10 cents to start getting your health back. CASCARETS Candy Cathartic, the genuine, put up in metal boxes, every tablet has C. C. C. stamped on it. Beware of imitations.

Deep Water Conference.

"You are not a real fish; you are only an imitation," said the flying fish. "You can stay under water only an hour or two, and then you have to come to the surface to breathe."

"That's all right," retorted the whale. "You are only an imitation bird. I can live under the water longer than you can live out of it."

This, dear children, teaches us that those who dwell in water should not try to put on airs.—Chicago Tribune.

Try Grain-O! Try Grain-O!

Ask your Grocer to-day to show you a ackage of GRAIN-O, the new food drink that takes the place of coffee. The children may drink it without injury as well as the adult. All who try it like it. GRAIN-O has that rich seal brown of Mocha and Java, but it is made of pure grains, and the most delicate stomach receives it without distress. ¼ the price of coffee. 15c and 25c per package. Sold by all grocers.

No Fun at All.

May—You didn't go to the theater with your cousin Tom, after all. I thought your fiance had no objection.

Mabel—He hadn't. That's why I didn't go.—London Judy.

Do you like Mrs. Austin's new dress?

Electric ambulances are to be used in St. Louis. They will run, when possible, on the lines of the street tramways.

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

Spotless Town and Its People.

This is the Mayor of Spotless Town,
The brightest man for miles around.
The shining light of wisdom can
Reflect from such a polished man,
And so he says to high and low:
"The brightest use SAPOLIO."

The Cook of Spotless Town you see
Who takes the cake, as you'll agree.
She holds it in her fingers now.
It isn't light—but anyhow
'Twill lighten her domestic woe—
A cake of plain SAPOLIO.

This is the Butcher of Spotless Town,
His tools are bright as his renown.
To leave them stained were indiscreet,
For folks would then abstain from meat,
And so he brightens his trade, you know,
By polishing with SAPOLIO.

This brilliant man walks up and down
Upon the streets of Spotless Town.
The glitter of his shining star
Arrests attention from afar.
It lights the beat and goes to show
That naught can beat SAPOLIO.

This is the Maid of fair renown
Who scrubs the floors of Spotless Town.
To find a speck when she is through
Would take a pair of specs or two.
And her employment isn't slow,
For she employs SAPOLIO.

This lean M. D. is Doctor Brown,
Who fares but ill in Spotless Town.
The town is so confounded clean
It is no wonder he is lean.
He's lost all patients now, you know,
Because they use SAPOLIO.

OUR BUDGET OF FUN.

HUMOROUS SAYINGS AND DOINGS HERE AND THERE.

Jokes and Jokelets that Are Supposed to Have Been Recently Born—Sayings and Doings that Are Old, Curious and Laughable—The Week's Humor.

"My man," said an old lady, a notorious busybody, to a pitman whose dog was trotting on before him with lolling tongue, "your dog is not safe, and ought not to be at large. His tongue hanging out so is a sure sign of rabies."

"Nae, ma'am," replied the pitman, "its tongue's owre big for its mooth, same as some old ladies' tongues."

English as She Is Writ.

The following notice was lately affixed to a church door in Hertfordshire, and read in the church:

"This is to give notice that no person is to be buried in this churchyard but those living in the parish; and those who wish to be buried are desired to apply to the parish clerk."

Rural Sarcasm Wasted.

"Hey, mister, yer orter enter that boss in the races. There's a crazy man here that'll bet on 'im."

The Substitute.

Mr. Jones—Is your wife ever at a loss for a word to express her feelings?

Mr. Smith—Oh, yes; especially when arguing with me.

Mr. Jones—Ah! And how does she get around it?

Mr. Smith—Oh, she simply throws something.—Judge.

Off at Last.

"Have you ever loved before?" she asked, gazing at him tenderly.

"Oh, yes," replied the racing young man. "I've had four false starts. But this is a sure go now."—Philadelphia North American.

There Are Many Such.

Little Elmer—Papa, what is a politician?

Prof. Broadhead—A politician, my son, is a man who hungers and thirsts to sacrifice himself for his country in times of peace.

Fortunate.

Census Man—Are you married?

Happy Dad—You bet!

Census Man—Have you a family?

Happy Dad—Yes, siree! And, say! It's awful lucky you came to-day instead of yesterday!

Census Man—Eh? Why?

Happy Dad—'Cause I hadn't any yesterday.—Puck.

His Need.

Friend—The doctors don't seem to be able to do anything for you?

Dyspeptic (gloomily)—No; I guess I need a constitutional amendment.—Puck.

At $1 Per.

"What was the trouble at that house where the complaint came from yesterday?" asked the superintendent of the gas company.

"Nothing much," replied the inspector. "I found a centipede in one of the pipes."

"Ah! an extra hundred feet. See that they're charged for that."—Philadelphia Press.

An unpleasant surprise.

A Generous Boy.

"Johnny, you must give little sister part of your doughnut."

"Yes, ma. I'm jest goin' t' eat th' edge off an' then give her th' hole of it."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

What He Was After.

"He is a man after my own heart, pa," said Julia, reverting to her Charles Augustus.

"Nonsense," said Old Practical; "he is a man after the money your uncle left you."

And then all was quiet.

More Practical.

May—Don't you think a girl looks graceful holding a guitar?

Tom—Yes, but a man looking for a wife would rather see a girl holding a bread pan.

Judged by Her Deeds.

"That slender Miss Simpson looks like a very delicate girl."

"Oh, I don't know; she must have a good deal of strength to squeeze her waist in like that."—Chicago Record.

Census Pleasantry.

Census Taker—You live here, do you? Well, what relation are you to the head of the house?

Citizen—See here, now, don't get too funny or I'll go and call her in.—Indianapolis Journal.

Where the Mistake Was.

"What's the meaning of this?" asked the farmer's wife. "You say you went to town on business, and here in this very paper I see you were fined in a police court for being drunk."

"It is a reporter's mistake."

"The prisoner bore your name, Henry Adolphus."

"Yes, that's the mistake. I gave another name.

Two Farmers.

"This," said the city man who had taken up farming, "this is my herbarium."

"Your what?" asked the farmer born to the business.

"My herbarium—collection of herbs, you know."

"Oh! And ain't you goin' to build no hogarium, too?"—Indianapolis Press.

Congratulated Himself, Too.

Employer—I congratulate you on that new baby of yours, Higgins.

Higgins—Thank you, sir.

Employer—And I have no doubt that hereafter you will be waked up early enough mornings to get to the office every day on time.—Somerville Journal.

Preliminary Inquiry.

Citizen—Off'shere! can you (hic) tell me where I (hic) live? I'm (hic) Councilman Bigboddy, you know.

Officer—What's yer cook's name?

Citizen—Mary Ann (hic) O'Brady.

Officer—Four streets down and two doors to yer right.

Not His Fault.

Jack's Mamma—There were three slices of cake in the cupboard, Jack, and now there are only two. How does that happen?

Jack—It was so dark in there, mamma, that I didn't see the others.

A Kindly Act.

Farmer Greene—They say a bunko-steerer has run off with Josh Medder's wife!

Farmer Browne—Ya-as! Josh says he always knew them bunko-steerers wuz good fellers at heart.—Judge.

Quite a Difference.

Mamma (to daughter)—You should not play with your brother's toy soldiers; besides, you are getting too old to play with such toys.

Daughter—I am not playing with the common soldiers, mamma. I am playing with the officers.

Had Heard of Them Before.

Teacher—Yes; the Constitution was adopted in 1789. Now, Johnny, can you tell us anything about the principles of American liberty?

Johnny—Gee! I should say I could! Pap's been running fer office ever since I kin remember.

Another Week's Wait.

Bingo—I went into the antique furniture dealer's to-day to get that Chippendale chair you admired so much, and he had just sold it.

Mrs. Bingo—How unfortunate!

Bingo—Yes. He said it would be at least a week before he could turn out another like it.

A Touch of Sympathy.

Rooster—Say, old man, let's kick; I'm getting tired of being henpecked myself.

Their Use.

Little Enoch—Paw, what are fools good for, anyhow?

Farmer Flintrock—To teach us the results of blowin' into unloaded shotguns, buyin' gold bricks, guzzlin' patent medicines, lightin' the fire with coal oil, goin' up in balloons, skatin' on thin ice, tryin' to beat other people at their own games, indorsin' our friends' notes, thinkin' we know it all, flirtin' with grass widows, and so on and so forth, my son!—Puck.

Good Definition.

"What is a sanguine disposition, Uncle Christopher?"

"Sanguine disposition? Well, it's your mother, Bobby, thinking she can drive a picture nail into the wall with a banana."

Too Well Known.

Bill—I understand Gayboy is one of the best known men in your town?

Jack—Why, he's so well known that he has to go out of town to borrow money.

It's an Ill Wind, Etc.

Mae—Little brothers are a nuisance. They are always about when they are not wanted.

Ethel—Yes, but then they sometimes come in very handy as witnesses in breach of promise suits.—San Francisco Examiner.

Getting at the Facts.

He—How I envy that man who just sang the solo!

She—Why, I thought he had an exceptionally poor voice!

He—Oh, it isn't his voice I envy; it's his nerve!—Chicago News.

Mean Human Nature.

"Jones always wants his vacation the last man in the office."

"What's that for?"

"He gets a keen relish out of the fact that we are all working with nothing to look forward to while he is joyously idle."

A Rural Bargain.

"You say them shoes is wuth $1, but you'll take 75c ef I pay cash, won't you?"

"Yes."

"Then you'll fling in a pair of woolen sox, I guess?"

"Rekin so."

"Hold on; them shoes hain't got no strings, have they?"

"I'll give you a pair."

"Better make hit two pair; one will soon wear out."

"All right, here they are."

"Looks like you might gimme a pair of suspenders fer good measure."

"Well, rather than miss a trade I'll do it. What else?"

"When a feller buys a bill you allus set 'em up, don't you?"

"Yes, what'll you take?"

"Two segars an' a pound o' cheese."

The safest person to confide in is one who has troubles of his own and, consequently, seldom takes enough interest in other people's troubles to talk them over.

SHREWD TRICKS BY SMUGGLERS

Extraordinary Devices to Evade the Vigilance of the Customs Officers.

The great field for diamond smugglers is the United States, as the duty upon them here is high and the demand always great. On one occasion a fashionable and gracious young woman, possessing one of the sweetest of little Japanese spaniels, managed to make herself popular with every one on board, as did also her little dog. Information arrived in New York before her, however, that she had bought some select and precious gems in Paris and the officials were warned to be on the lookout for her. On her declaring after arrival that she was in possession of nothing dutiable she was therefore detained. She was gracious, begged a young woman who had taken quite a fancy to the spaniel and was going to the same hotel she intended stopping at to take care of the little fellow until she came, a request in which the young woman readily acquiesced, and then gave herself and her luggage over to the customs officials entirely.

They searched thoroughly, sparing neither pains nor the young woman's feelings, but were not able to discover hair nor hide of any stones and had to confess that either their information had been incorrect or they had been bilked. Accordingly they had to let her go. The next day the little spaniel died.

As the customs officials afterward somehow managed to find out, on the morning of the ship's arrival, the lady, who had previously starved her dog for nearly twenty-four hours, gave him some dainty morsels of fat, in each piece of which was stowed a diamond. It is seen how ingeniously she managed to get the dog out of the way, and the next day, without any compunction, she poisoned the little creature and then secured the diamonds.

Another smuggler used to pack his gems in a cork box, or carefully in an ordinary bottle, and then on entering port he threw them overboard to be picked up by a confederate in a rowboat who would come out to meet the ship.

One man made a point of buying a lot of champagne during the voyage and for souvenirs used to keep all the corks. These he secretly cut and managed to stow from one to three diamonds in each. On the day of their arrival in port, pretending to have become drunk, he afforded the male passengers, and even some of the customs officials themselves, with much amusement by pelting a rather green looking boatman alongside with them. Though he never missed his aim, the boatman took it in good part, so the passenger afterward threw him half a dollar. The man then pulled away for the shore and the trick had been carried through successfully.—Utica Observer.

Gold Medal Awarded Walter Baker & Co.

Paris, Aug. 20.—The judges at the Paris Exposition have just awarded a gold medal to Walter Baker & Co. Ltd., Dorchester, Mass., U. S. A., for their preparations of cocoa and chocolate. This famous company, now the largest manufacturers of cocoa and chocolate in the world, have received the highest awards from the great international and other expositions in Europe and America. This is the third award from a Paris exposition.

Sarcastic.

Wife (reading)—Another mysterious suicide—unknown man throws himself from a cliff.

Husband (thoughtlessly)—Bet his wife was at the bottom of it.

Wife—Charles!

Husband (hurriedly)—Of the cliff, my love; not the suicide.—Collier's Weekly.

Public Health

And Public Morals are always enhanced and improved, and Disease, Sickness, Poverty and Misery ameliorated or annihilated, and doctors' bills avoided by educating the public; especially the young men on subjects of vital importance concerning their physical well-being. The Peabody Medical Institute, No. 4 Bulfinch street, Boston, Mass., has done noble work for mankind through their great medical publications, which have been read and indorsed by many, very many, thousands of people. Their last unique 94-page pamphlet, for men only, entitled "Know Thyself," should be read by all the men throughout the land. Sent free, sealed, on receipt of 6 cents for postage. Send for it to-day.

Lane's Family Medicine

Moves the bowels each day. In order to be healthy this is necessary. Acts gently on the liver and kidneys. Cures sick headache. Price 25 and 50c.

Wood Pulp Spun Into Yarn.

A Hungarian has discovered a method of spinning wood pulp into yarn, so that it can be woven into a fabric that may be converted into various articles of clothing.

Majesty.

The title of "Majesty" was first given to Louis XI. of France. Before that time sovereigns were usually styled "Highness."

What Do the Children Drink?

Don't give them tea or coffee. Have you tried the new food drink called GRAIN-O? It is delicious and nourishing, and takes the place of coffee. The more Grain-O you give the children the more health you distribute through their systems. Grain-O is made of pure grains, and when properly prepared tastes like the choice grades of coffee, but costs about ¼ as much. All grocers sel lit. 15c and 25c.

A Lazy Man.

A record book 125 years old at Woodstock, Vt., has this entry: "Abe Hoes, the laziest man in Woodstock, watered his sap to save gathering more."

Do you like Mrs. Austin's new dress?

Many circus performers are born to the circuses; many of them have never known another life.

What Shall We Have for Dessert?

This question arises in the family every day. Let us answer it to-day. Try Jell-O, a delicious and healthful dessert. Prepared in two minutes. No boiling! no baking! simply add a little hot water and set to cool. Flavors:—Lemon, Orange, Raspberry and Strawberry. At your grocers. 10 cts.

Hollow steel spheres are in use in Sweden for billiard balls.

Do you like Mrs. Austin's new dress?

The Nickel Plate Road

Will sell excursion tickets to Fort Wayne, Ind., on Sept. 9th to 12th, inclusive, account of the National Encampment of the Union Veteran Legion, at one fare for the round trip; good returning until the 18th, inclusive, on any one of our Peerless Trio of Daily Express Trains where scheduled to stop. Write, wire, 'phone or call on nearest agent or C. A. Asterlin, T. P. A., Fort Wayne, Ind.

THE DEWEY HOMESTEAD.

The above picture shows the house where George Dewey was born December 26th, 1837. It was occupied by the Dewey family until after the death of the Admiral's father. It then came into the possession of Captain Edward Dewey, who sold it to its present owner and occupant, T. R. Gordon, Esq., in the summer of 1860. Mr. Gordon moved it to its present site in the following February, 1890, and has occupied it until the present time. Mr. and Mrs. Gordon are unfailing in their courtesy to the thousands who visit this shrine, the birthplace of Admiral Dewey.

A recent letter from T. R. Gordon to the Peruna Drug M'f'g Co., Columbus, O., reads as follows:

"It is with great satisfaction that I find myself able, after an extended trial to write you in this emphatic manner of the good your Peruna has done my wife.

"She has been troubled with catarrh from childhood, and whenever she has a cold, or any unusual condition of the weather it was worse than usual, and seemed more than she could bear. The dropping in her throat at night prevented refreshing sleep, in fact, we had come to look upon it as incurable, and from the many remedies used in vain, we had reason to.

"We are thankful and happy to say that your "Peruna" has been of great benefit to her, and I confidently look for a complete and entire cure. High praise is not too much to bestow upon your remedy." T. R. Gordon.

Address The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, O., for free book on catarrh.

If you will buy three

Old Virginia Cheroots

and smoke them to-day you will get the greatest amount of comfort and satisfaction that 5 cents will buy in a smoke, and get it three times over! You haven't any idea how good they are and cannot have until you try them. Try three to-day instead of a 5c. cigar.

Three hundred million Old Virginia Cheroots smoked this year. Ask your own dealer. Price, 3 for 5 cents.

The Welcome Guest.

The guest was at the summer hotel for his health, but he kicked just the same on the bill.

"Here, by Jove," he said, angrily, to the landlord, "your bill is simply outrageous."

"Hold on, hold on," protested the landlord, "you forget I am not at this hotel for the same reason you are."

The Douglas Shoe.

The best advertised and consequently the best known shoe in the world to-day is undoubtedly made by the W. L. Douglas Shoe Co. of Brockton, Mass. The one idea of this company has always been to sell a shoe for $3.50 which equals in every way the $5 shoes of any other concern. They are able to do this on account of there being no middle man's profit, as the goods are sold direct from the factory to the wearer. In sixty of the principal cities of the country they have their own retail stores. The goods are made in all sizes and widths, and few shoes equal them for style and durability.

The factory at Brockton employs over 1,100 hands, and all labor troubles are settled by the State Board of Arbitration. Nothing but union labor is employed, and pay about the best average wages of any shoe workers in the United States. The factory pay roll amounts to $17,435 per week. This company makes shoes for men only, and it is their proud boast that over one million men wear them.—Denver (Colo.) Post.

A Piazza Storm Center.

"Julia and I have organized a lovely conversation club."

"What do you call it?"

"The Hub-bub Club."

"Gracious! What does that mean?"

"Oh, we meet around in the mornings on each other's porches and all talk at once."—Indianapolis Journal.

PUTNAM FADELESS DYE produces the fastest and brightest colors of any known dye stuff.

Up Against the Real Thing.

"Your friend, the seance medium, moved out of that old house in a hurry."

"What was the matter?"

"She found out it was haunted."

Hall's Catarrh Cure

Is a constitutional cure. Price 75 cents.

Vast Food Supplies of an Army.

For an army of 30,000 men and 10,000 horses for three months it is estimated that 11,000 tons of food and forage are necessary.

I do not believe Piso's Cure for Consumption has an equal for coughs and colds.—John F. Boyer, Trinity Springs, Ind., Feb. 15, 1900.

The largest ocean-going vessels can voyage up the River St. Lawrence as far as Montreal, over 1,000 miles from the Atlantic ocean.

Do you like Mrs. Austin's new dress?

The Sultan of Turkey has been presented with a sumptuously equipped horseless carriage.

Jell-O. The New Dessert,

pleases all the family. Four flavors:—Lemon, Orange, Raspberry and Strawberry. At your grocers. 10 cts.

Nearly one-third of the beer consumed in the world is brewed in Germany.

Do you like Mrs. Austin's new dress?

Why isn't the way of the transgressor the road to wealth—for the lawyer?

If you want the Best there is, tell your Job Printer to use Eagle Linen for your Letter Heads and Envelopes.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children teething; softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25 cents a bottle.

Of the cotton crop of the world, four-fifths are produced in the United States.

Do you like Mrs. Austin's new dress?

Texas has 30,660,772 acres of unimproved land.

Air Cushion Rubber Stamps—the Best—the Cheapest. Send your orders to Lock Box 219, Fort Wayne, Ind.

We take the finest dried beef and slice it as none can do by hand. Then we seal the wafer slices in key-opening cans. They come to you with all their tempting freshness marked

LIBBY'S
PEERLESS WAFER SLICED
DRIED BEEF

That's but one of Libby's thirty varieties of canned luncheons that your grocer should have for you. He will get them if you ask. There are no others like them.

Libby, McNeill & Libby, Chicago.

Write for our free booklet, "How to Make Good Things to Eat."

NEBRASKA THE LAND OF PLENTY

I wonder why it is that so many men spend their days working hard on rented farms, barely making enough to get along, with no great prospect ahead of owning their own homes, when within a few hours' journey is a land of plenty—Nebraska—where all kinds of grain and fruit can be raised with the least amount of labor; where cattle and hogs fed on corn bring a handsome profit; where the climate is healthful and churches and schools abound; where land is cheap and can be bought on very easy terms.

Think of this, and if you want information about the country send to me for "The Corn Belt," a beautifully illustrated monthly paper that tells all about Nebraska, and also for "The West Nebraska Grazing Country," an interesting illustrated booklet containing a large sectional map of Nebraska.

On the first and third Tuesdays of each month during the balance of this year cheap excursion tickets will be sold over our road to Nebraska, so that people may go and see for themselves. Ask your ticket agent about this.

P. S. EUSTIS,
Gen'l Pass'r Agt. C. B. & Q. R. R.
CHICAGO, ILL.

DROPSY NEW DISCOVERY; gives quick relief & cures worst cases. Book of testimonials and 10 DAYS' treatment FREE. Dr. H. H. Green's Sons, Box B, Atlanta, Ga.

F. W. N. U. - - No. 35—1900.

When Writing to Advertisers please say you saw the Advertisement in this paper

If addressed with this cut, use Thompson's Eye Water

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but Experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is Pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. It cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. It relieves Teething Troubles, cures Constipation and Flatulency. It assimilates the Food, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

GENUINE CASTORIA ALWAYS

Bears the Signature of

Chas. H. Fletcher.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

In Use For Over 30 Years.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine.

Rotary Motion and Ball Bearings.

Porter Depew, Agent.

CHICHESTER'S ENGLISH PENNYROYAL PILLS

Safe. Always reliable. Ladies, ask Druggist for CHICHESTER'S ENGLISH in Red and Gold metallic boxes, sealed with blue ribbon. Take no other. Refuse dangerous substitutions and imitations. Buy of your Druggist, or send 4c. in stamps for Particulars, Testimonials and "Relief for Ladies," in letter, by return Mail. 10,000 Testimonials. Sold by all Druggists.

CHICHESTER CHEMICAL CO.
2100 Madison Square, PHILA., PA.
Mention this paper.

Mott's Nerverine Pills

BEFORE AND AFTER USING.

The great remedy for nervous prostration and all nervous diseases of the generative organs of either sex, such as Nervous Prostration, Failing or lost Manhood, Impotency, Nightly Emissions, Youthful Errors, Mental Worry, excessive use of Tobacco or Opium, which lead to Consumption and Insanity. $1.00 per box by mail; 6 boxes for $5.00.

MOTT'S CHEMICAL CO., Prop's, Cleveland, Ohio.

Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

MOTT'S PENNYROYAL PILLS

They overcome Weakness, Irregularity and omissions, increase vigor and banish "pains of menstruation." They are "Life Savers" to girls at womanhood, aiding development of organs and body. No known remedy for women equals them. Cannot do harm—life becomes a pleasure. $1 per box by mail. Sold by druggists.

MOTT CHEMICAL CO., Cleveland, O.

Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

PATENTS DESIGNS TRADE-MARKS AND COPYRIGHTS OBTAINED

ADVICE AS TO PATENTABILITY FREE
Notice in "Inventive Age"
Book "How to obtain Patents"

Charges moderate. No fee till patent is secured. Letters strictly confidential. Address, E. G. SIGGERS, Patent Lawyer, Washington, D. C.

PILES Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment will cure Blind, Bleeding and Itching Piles. It absorbs the tumors, allays the itching at once, acts as a poultice, gives instant relief. Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment is prepared for Piles and Itching of the private parts. Every box is warranted. By druggists, by mail on receipt of price, 50 cents and $1.00. WILLIAMS MANUFACTURING CO., Props., Cleveland, Ohio.

Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

Foley's Honey and Tar heals lungs and stops the cough.

Sheriff's Sale.

By virtue of an execution issued on a transcript of a judgment filed in the office of the clerk of the DeKalb circuit court on the 22d day of April, 1895, and to me directed by the clerk of said court, I will offer for sale at public auction and outcry, to the highest bidder, at the door of the court house in Auburn, DeKalb county, Indiana, on

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 1, 1900,

between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m. and 4 o'clock p. m. of said day, the rents and profits for a term not exceeding seven years of the following described real estate, situated in DeKalb county, in the state of Indiana, to-wit;

Lot numbered seventy-two [72] in Ensley's second addition to the town of Auburn.

And in case the rents and profits fail to bring the amount demanded to satisfy the judgment and decree aforesaid, interest and costs, together with all accruing costs thereon; and also in case the rents and profits of said property fail to bring the additional amount demanded to satisfy the judgment and decree, interest and costs, together with all accruing costs due Moody & Rickel on a judgment rendered in the DeKalb circuit court on the 21st day of May, 1895, for $108.02, and to me directed by the clerk of said court; and also, if the rents and profits of said property fail to bring the additional amount demanded to satisfy the judgment and decree, cree, interest and costs, together with all accruing costs due Moody & Rickel on a judgment rendered in the DeKalb circuit court on the 16th day of March, 1895, for $109 75 and to me directed by the clerk of said court, I will at the same time and place, and in like manner as aforesaid, offer for sale, at public auction and outcry, to the highest bidder, all the right, title, interest and estate in fee simple of Grant Owens and John C. Owens at his death and now holden by his heirs, in and to the above described real estate, or so much and such part thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the judgments and decrees aforesaid, which are in favor of Solomon Shilling and Moody & Rickel, and against Grant Owens and John C. Owens.

Said real estate will be sold without relief from valuation or appraisement laws, and subject to the redemption laws of the state of Indiana.

JOHN H. HATHAWAY,
Sheriff of DeKalb County, Indiana.
Moody & Rickel, Attorneys for Plaintiff.
August 6, 1900.

—"Through the months of June and July our baby was teething and took a running off of the bowels and sickness of the stomach," says O. P. M. Holliday of Deming, Ind. "His bowels would move from five to eight times a day. I had a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy in the house and gave him four drops in a teaspoonful of water and he got better at once. Sold by H. B. McCord.

—In 1870 our state university at Bloomington had an enrollment of 66. The year just closed shows 1296.

—The laws of health require that the bowels move once each day and one of the penalties for violating this law is piles. Keep your bowels regular by taking a dose of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets when necessary and you will never have that severe punishment inflicted upon you. Price, 25 cents. For sale by H. B. McCord.

—The annual meeting of Defiance county Pioneers' association will be held at the Hicksville fair grounds, September 9.

Walk, Ala., Feb. 4, 1899.

I am doing well with Dr. J. H. McLean's medicines. I gave the Strengthening Cordial to a child of mine and the cure was complete. I would not be without it at any cost. J. A. Mundy. For sale by H. B. McCord.

—The central passenger association has granted a rate of one fare for the round trip for the meeting of democratic league clubs at Indianapolis, October 3 and 4.

—"I am a switchman," writes A. J. Jennesse, of 9201 Butler St., Chicago, "and am out in all kinds of weather. I took a cold which settled in my kidneys and was in very bad shape. I tried several advertised medicines with no benefit until I was recommended to take Foley's Kidney Cure. Two-thirds of a bottle cured me." H. B. McCord.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY.

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. E. W. Grove's signature is on each box. 25c

Wednesday's Daily.

—Mrs. Tillie Elson of Fairfield is visiting friends in Auburn.

—Bernard Pullman of Kendallville was here today on business.

—Mrs. Arthur Swayze of Columbia City is visiting her peole the family of H. Cupp.

—FOR SALE CHEAP. Five thousand feet inch sheating lumber.—J. C. Lochner. n 23

—Born, a son to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Myers of South Auburn. Dr. Vesta Swarts reports all doing well.

—Mrs. Amy Kelly seems to be failing quite rapidly, and her step-son and Mrs. Maggie Brandaberry are here.

—Just as the afternoon session of the institute closed, Mr. Parsons received a telegram that his wife's mother had died, and he at once started home, going over the Wabash road.

—The dread of people with weak lungs who suffer with stubborn coughs is consumption. Foley's Honey and Tar, if taken in time, cures incipient consumption. H. B. McCord.

—Rev. George Musson, the speaker who made such an eloquent address to the Battalion, is pastor of the Christian church in Ligonier. He also is a lecturer having a number of them, which to judge from the titles and his ability must be worth hearing.

—Surveyor Krontz' office is busy today. The John W. Duesler ditch is being fixed up by the viewers who are Frank Teeters, W. H. McGiffin and Gust Helmuth. Also the Haverstock ditch, the viewers being, Jacob Christoffel. Joseph Wilson and Fred Bunge.

—Elder J. N. Wilson was called on to perform a wedding ceremony at his office yesterday afternoon, the contracting parties being Henry Luce of Waterloo and Mrs Elva Getz of the same place. They attended the reunion and incidentally celebrated the occasion by doubling up.

—The second annual encampment of the 157th Indiana Volunteer Infantry association, "Studebaker's Tigers," will be held at Fort Wayne, September 11 to 14. This reunion has been postponed so many times that the soldiers themselves do not know "where they are at," remarks the Goshen Democrat.

—J. H. Riley, who was for seven years has been manager of the Pottal telegraph office in this city, has received a well earned promotion and after September 1 will have charge of the office at Akron, O. He will be succeeded here by Mr. W. R. Spencer of Zanesville, O. While regretting to see Mr. Riley and family leave Auburn the COURIER congratulates him on his promotion and wishes him success in his new location. He will doubtless dispose of his property here.

CASTORIA.
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

Thursday's Daily.

—C. H. Brown of Leo was here today on business.

—James McDowell and family have returned from their visit with friends in Michigan.

—A boy baby was added to the household of Leonard Yingling yesterday as reported by Dr. Casebeer.

—A cement walk is being constructed around the drinking fountain on the west side of the court park.

—Prof. Horace Hoffman, who is dean of the state university at Bloomington, came yesterday to attend the institute.

—Mr. and Mrs. E. T. DeLapp were at New Haven over Sunday, visiting the family of her brother, John G. Ashley.

—O. H. and Mervin Widney and Chas. Kagey have purchased the Case & Culbertson hardware and lumber business at St. Joe.

—The democrats of Illinois refused to send Adlai Stevenson to Kansas City, as a delegate. And yet he was nominated for vice-president.

—Edward McKennan, the Garrett attorney, has announced himself as a candidate for prosecutor before the democratic convention.

—Frank Jarrett and wife of Jackson township are the parents of a nice young daughter, born this morning. Dr. Baxter reports all doing well.

—J. H. Stahl has been re-elected superintendent of the St Joe schools for the ensuing year. His assistants will be M. J. Hadsell, C. C. Woodcox and Miss Addie Widney.

—Miss Lena Groscop is here visiting her relatives. She is a daughter of Wm. Groscop of Buckhammon, West Virginia. She has been in Cleveland for a week or two and may return there.

—Mrs. Malen of Tiffin, Ohio is here, and has her art work, water colors and china displayed at G. H. Yesbera's. The exhibit is beautiful and has attracted an admiring growd all the afternoon.

—A barn belonging to John Hovarter in Fairfield township was struck by lightning and burned on Saturday morning. The farm machinery and part of the contents belonged to the tenant, Mr. Deetz.

—Master Will Hebel, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hebel, fell out of a buggy on Main street this morning and was badly shaken up although no bones were broken. He was out af breath for a minute or so, but is now all right again.

—Cyrus Snyder of Pierceton, Indiana was a caller today. He and his wife, formerly Miss Lucinda Smith, drove over across the country yesterday Making the forty-five miles between six a. m. and 3:30 p. m. They will visit at Norman Shaffer's, Mr. Able's, and E. M. Bishop's here, and at Henry Shaffer's near Spencerville, all being relatives.

Friday's Daily.

—Miss Stella Hague has returned from her stay at Winona.

—Prof. Harrison returned yesterday from his visit at his old home in Ohio.

FOR SALE:—A team of good work horses, with wagon and harness; also a good, fresh milch cow. See John Groscop. d1wtf —Will H. Willennar, the court reporter, and Miss Vera Field were married at Angola, Tuesday. Both are excellent young people and worthy of the good wishes of their wide circle of friends.

—Miss May Coulter of Hicksville came up Wednesday to attend the garden party at Ed Baker's residence that evening. She has recently spent a couple of weeks with her friend Mrs. J. P. Collett at St. Mary's, Ohio.

—What most people want is something mild and gentle, when in need of a physic. Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets fill the bill to a dot. They are easy to take and pleasant in effect. For sale by H. B. McCord.

—M. B. Masters had a close call for the cost of an eye yesterday. He was working at the forge when for some cause a coal popped out, a piece of which struck him in the eye. It was a hot dose, but the injury will not probably be permanent.

—Mr. Kaley, who has been here for a week or two, reports Milo Martin doing very well out at Red Cloud. He recently sold Mr. Martin a good eighty-acre farm, and as he already had an eighty adjoining, the friends out this way will see that Milo is still on top.

—S. G. Flint a prominent citizen of Newville died Thursday and was buried today. He had some affliction of the spleen and had been at Ann Arbor in May for treatment, but could obtain no relief. He was township trustee many years ago, and always highly respected.

—The United States has bought the two islands south of the other Philippines known as Cibitu and Cagayen. They were outside the boundary line of the original treaty, as the men who represented our side were not well enough posted to act intelligently. Now we pay $100,000 for them.

—"My baby was terribly sick with the diarrhœa," says J. H. Doak of Williams, Oregon. We were unable to cure him with the doctor's assistance, and as a last resort we tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa remedy. I am happy to say it gave immediate relief and a complete cure." For sale by H. B. McCord.

—YOUNG MEN WANTED:—With fair education and good character, to learn telegraphy, railroad accounting and typewriting. This is endorsed by all leading railroad companies as the only perfect and reliable institution of its kind. All our graduates are assisted to positions. Ladies also admitted. Write for free catalogue. Fall term opens August 15th.—Globe Telegraph College, Lexington, Ky. 1f

—Those who contemplate moving from one township to another must remember that should they move after September the 6th that they lose their votes. If they move from one precinct to another after October 6th they lose their vote. To be a legal voter one must have resided in the state six months, in the township sixty days and in the precinct thirty days. The election this year comes on Tuesday, November 6th.

—Butler Record:—The building of the Fort Wayne & Butler railrood is now believed to be a certainty, even by people who heretofore thought it would not be built. Chief Engineer Lincoln, of the Wabash Ry., came up to Butler from St. Louis, Wednesday, and with a party with rigs drove over the route between here and Fort Wayne. He gave it as his opinion that they would connect with the old line east of town near the target and build a new depot at the east of North street.

—Baxter's Mandrake Bitters Tablets are easy to take. Sure in effect. They act gently on the Bowels, Liver and Kidneys, effectually cleanse the system from all impurities, beautify the complexion, prevent Headaches and Fevers cure indigestion and dizziness, overcome habitual constipation, and restore bloom and vigor of youth. Sold by all druggists, in tablets or liquid at 25 cents per box or bottle. Warranted to cure constipation. E. M. FISCHLER, F. E. DAVENPORT, HOWARD MCCORD.

—A little man, only six years old, the other day detained a huge ocean steam-ship at New York for twenty-four minutes after the hour for sailing had arrived. His grandmother, a very old lady, had disappeared, and the child, fancying that she had gone ashore, rushed out upon the pier himself and resisted every attempt to carry him on board again, until his relative was finally found. The disproportion between the size of the midget and the bulk of the vessel, between a baby's will and the tremenduous authority of a steamer's captain, made the incident sufficiently amusing to be chronicled.

Pocket Map of China.

Latest indexed map of Chinese Empire, with enlarged map of portion of China where difficulty exists, and information relating to present crisis, mailed on receipt of four cents in postage by W. B. Kniskern, 22 Fifth avenue, Chicago, Ill. 35

Supplementing His Work.

Mr. Hanna will send somebody, of course, to follow up Gov. Roosevelt and explain that Mr. McKinley is a candidate, too.—Detroit News.

CASTORIA.
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

What Will Bryan's Plurality be in Indiana?

76 Guesses

$1,000 To The Winners

$1,000

IN PRIZES to 76 subscribers to THE INDIANA STATE SENTINEL who come nearest guessing the plurality Indiana will give Bryan over McKinley.

The publishers of The Indiana State Sentinel will award seventy-six prizes to seventy-six subscribers, who at any time before the close of the polls Tuesday, Nov. 6, correctly estimate or come nearest doing so, Bryan and Stevenson's plurality over McKinley and Roosevelt in Indiana.

First prize	$300.00
Second prize	200.00
Third prize	100.00
Fourth prize	75.00
Fifth prize	50.00
Sixth prize	25.00
5 prizes of $15 each	75.00
5 prizes of $10 each	50.00
10 prizes of $5 each	50.00
25 prizes of $2 each	50.00
25 prizes of $1 each	25.00
	1,000.00

NOTE—The result will be decided from the vote cast for the head of the democratic electoral ticket.

If the unexpected should happen and Mr. Bryan not carry the state, then the lowest plurality guess, or the one nearest the result, will get the prize.

Where two or more guesses are the same, the first one received will be awarded the prize.

Guessers should be careful to write name and address plainly, and also state whether they are an old or new subscriber.

Conditions.

Any subscriber, old or new, is entitled to one guess on payment of 50 cents—one year's subscription—received at this office before the close of polls on election day—Tuesday, Nov. 6, 1900. The name of subscriber remitting the money will be recorded with the figures of his guess. The receipt of money, as well as his estimate of Bryan and Stevenson's plurality over McKinley and Roosevelt in Indiana, will be acknowledged, and should be laid aside by him until the official vote of Indiana shall have been ascertained, when the names of prize-takers will be duly announced in these columns.

If your subscription is not paid in advance pay it now and participate in this great distribution of actual money. If your subscription is paid in advance, send us 50 cents for another year and give a guess. You stand a chance of getting $300 for 50 cents, and if you do not hit a prize you have your money's worth in The Indiana State Sentinel, the greatest family newspaper in the West.

SEND in your 50 cents with your guess at once. Your judgment is as likely to be correct at this time as it is the day before election. Be careful to date your guesses, and remember you can have as many guesses as you take subscriptions to The Indiana State Sentinel.

CUT THIS OUT AND SEND TO INDIANAPOLIS SENTINEL CO.
INDIANAPOLIS, IND.

SENT BY .....

P. O. .....

COUNTY..... STATE.....

My Guess Bryan and Stevenson's plurality over McKinley and Roosevelt in Indiana will be..... Enclosed find 50 cents for which send THE INDIANA STATE SENTINEL for one year

TO .....

.....

If The Indiana State Sentinel is already going to this address send for one year from date present subscription expires.

Saturday's Daily.

—Mrs. Lopp, mother of Mrs. Dr Baxter, has been very ill at her home with Dr. Baxter.

—Joseph Butler of Steuben county is talked of as a candidate for prosecutor before the democratic convention.

—The regular monthly examination of applicants for teachers' license was held at the high school building today.

—Amos Smith, a prominent and influential farmer north of Ashley, died Thursday of dropsy, and was buried yesterday.

—Mrs. Nicholas Ensley, who is a guest at the home of I. M. Zent, is suffering from a severe attack of muscular rheumatism.

—WANTED:—Black Walnut logs for timber. Highest cash prices paid for same. Address, The Sanders & Egbert Co., Goshen, Ind. 8

—It is announced that Hon. John W. Kern, democratic candidate for governor, will speak at the joint convention at Waterloo, September 5.

—Wilson and Lester Feagler, whose travels through Europe have been described in the COURIER, arrived home on the early B. & O. train this morning. They had a pleasant and profitable journey.

—John H. Benninghoff of New Era, was in town today and brought reports of the caucus they held last Saturday. Noah A. Lung is the nominee for trustee, J. H. Benninghoff for assessor, M. L. Hoffman for justice and D. S. Knott for constable, Milford Clark and Joseph Weller are two of those chosen for advisory board.

—Married, at the home of Freeman Hensinger on south Main street, this morning at 9:30, by Rev. J. D. Brosy, William M. Kech and Ada Howe. Both are from Garrett, Ind. They drove to Cedarville where they will take dinner with the bride's mother, and from there they go to Fort Wayne to visit friends. Mr. Kech is employed in the B. & O. shops at Garrett, and will make his future home there.

—Mr. and Mrs. Kaley expect to start west on Tuesday next to return to their home at Red Cloud, Nebraska. They have spent the summer in this state and Ohio and made trips farther east. They were fortunate in having good crops in Nebraska this year, and as Mr. Kaley is paying a good deal of attention to his several farms, this is a part of the good fortune that has always followed them. Mrs. Kaley is a daughter of J. P. Widney, a sister to Mrs. A. Lewis, Mrs. Lodewick and Morris Widney, and both have many friends over the county.

CLAY CITY, IND., Jan. 14, 1897.
Dr. W. B. Caldwell, Monticello, Ill.
SIR:—I have used Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin for dyspepsia and constipation with great benefit to myself. Some days I was not able to do my office work. I had run down to only 135 lbs. After taking several bottles of your wonderful medicine I now weigh 185 lbs. I now feel like a new man. I have recommended Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin to my friends and will answer any and all letters of inquiry I may receive as to the merits of your medicine. Yours respectfully,
WM. H. SHIRELY, Prop. Kline Hotel.
H. B. McCord.

DEMOCRATS!

The Struggle Is On!

EVERY LITTLE HELPS—WILL YOU DO YOUR SHARE?

HOW? Have a picture of our great leader,

WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN,

where all can see it, and get your friends to do likewise.

Send us three two-cent stamps to cover costs and we will mail you an elegant phototyve picture of W. J. BRYAN. We want you to display them in your home. Or if you will give twenty away to your friends to display, we will send you one of them beautifully framed in Oak, with glass front, suitable for office, home or club, and also 20 of the phototyves to distribute to your friends, for One Dollar—cash or stamps.

Don't delay. Time is short and our opponents are working hard. The Democratic Party needs your help now. Push the good work along.

SOUTHERN REVIEW OF COMMERCE—* * * A work of art * * * It should be widely distributed.

BOND INVESTMENT FIELD—* * * A masterpiece * * * Flood the country with them. A little effort and the victory is ours.

NATIONAL DEMOCRATIC ADVANCEMENT LEAGUE,
Headquarters Suite 31, Seives Building,
CINCINNATI, OHIO.

MONEY TO LOAN

At 5%

We are prepared to place loans on farm property in DeKalb county in sums of $700 and upwards for 5 years at 5 per cent with the priviledge of paying the same in payments of $100 or any multiple thereof at any interest pay day.

RICHARDS & BIRDSALL,
Hicksville, Ohio.

Best Way To Cure Backache.

Backaches are caused by disorder in the kidneys. Foley's Kidney Cure will make the kidneys right. Take no substitute. H. B. McCord.

Here's an Important Question.

All ladies are anxious to know what the dowager empress wore when she jinrickshawed away from Pekin town.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

THE AUBURN COURIER.

Volume XXX | Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana, Thursday, September 6, 1900. | Number 36.

The Farmers Bank of Auburn,

Under State Supervision and Control.

Capital and Surplus ----$50,000.00
Assets at Last Official Statement.....$346,278.95

Pays interest on deposits if left four months; Loans money and transacts a general banking business.

YOUR BUSINESS IS SOLICITED!

ALBERT ROBBINS, President;
A. C. ROBBINS, Cashier

The McClellan Bank,

AUBURN, IND

Certificates of deposits issued, drawing interest if left six months. County and Town Orders bought and sold. Money Loaned on Farms, Personal Security, or Live Stock. Notes bought.

C. A. O. McCLELLAN, ESTATE
CHARLES McCLELLAN
D. A. GARWOOD,
ISAAC HAGUE.
C. A. BENEDICT, Cashier

Physicians and SURGEONS

O. J. Swartz, M. D
Vesta W. Swartz, M D

Office at Auburn Sanitary Baths, corner Main and Sixth Streets,

Professional Calls Promptly Answered.

'PHONES: Western..... No. 19
Central Union..... No. 19

Sprott & Knapp,

Abstracters of Titles to Land and Lots,

AUBURN, IND.

Office in Gandy Block, North of Court House.

J.E. Graham, D.D.S.

DENTIST

Over Davenport's Drugstore, Auburn, Ind.

CROWN AND BRIDGE WORK A SPECIALTY.

All Work Guaranteed | Gas Administered.

CENTRAL 'PHONE 513.

Will be at Waterloo each Wednesday in Dr. Darby's Office

DENTIST F. W. HOFFMAN,

Auburn, Ind,

Office in Gandy Building, Northeast Corner of Court Square.

WESTERN 'PHONE 103.

Crown and Bridge Work a Sprciality.

DR. Z. H. STAMETS,

Physician & Surgeon

Office on Main street opposite Swinefotd Hotel.

Western 'Phone 104

Special attention given to all diseases of stomach and kidneys, and to chronic and obscure diseases; surgery and diseases of women and children. Calls answered at all hours. Office apart from residence.

There is Money in Junk

for you if you save it for H. Greenburg who

PAYS BEST CASH PRICES

for rags, rubber, copper, brass, zinc, lead, scrap iron and all kinds of hides and furs. Also buys and sells second-hand material stoves and furnaces, etc. Persons having second-hand material to buy or sell it will be to their interest to see

H. GREENBURG,

North VanBuren St.,

Auburn, Indiana.

L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE—in Effect April 29, 1900.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Stations	Mail	Exp'ss	Fre'g
Fort Wayne.....	11 55 am	5 00 pm	5 55 am
New Era.....	12 10 pm	5 20	6 40
Auburn Junction.	12 20	5 43	7 10
Auburn.....	12 25	5 46	7 20
Waterloo.....	12 40	6 01	8 05
Summit.....	12 52	6 12	8 55
Stroebenville.....	12 54	6 15
Pleasant Lake.....	1 08	6 23	9 20
Angola.....	1 18	6 35	9 35
Jackson.....	2 25	8 45	5 00

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations	Fre'g't	Exp'ss	Mail
Jackson.....dp	6 10 am	11 45 am	7 40 am
Angola.....	11 00	2 10 pm	9 05
Pleasant Lake.....	11 35	2 30	10 00
Stroebenville.....		2 32	10 10
Summit.....	11 50	2 38	10 20
Waterloo.....	12 45 pm	2 55	10 55
Auburn.....	1 20	3 05	10 44
Auburn Junction.	1 25	3 08	10 47
New Era.....	1 14	3 18	10 58
Fort Wayne.....	2 00	3 60	11 55

For rates on tickets or freight to all points call on or address E. T. DELAPP, Agent Auburn.

Letter From Switzerland.

The COURIER is in receipt of the following letter from Rev. T. M. Guild, dated at Zermatt, Switzerland, August 18

DEAR MR. BARNS:—I presume we should give an account of ourselves at least once through the chief medium of communication of our city. We have not been silent because of indifference to the wish expressed, but from necessity—too much to see in too short a time. Our own personal friends and loved ones demanded our first attention, and we have tried to fulfil our duty as best we could under the circumstances.

Since landing at Liverpool, June 28, we have been very busy traveling and sight seeing. Our health has been good; neither of us has missed a single meal when within reach. The cooking has not always been to our liking, but we have no complaints along that line. The only complaint has been not enough meals in a day. There has been a scarcity of one American commodity, and that is pie. We have not caught sight of a pie since we left the boat. Frank Eckhart said today. the first thing he would do when he arrived at New York, after finding out the first train for home, would be to fill up on pie. It would be presumptious in me to even undertake to give you an account of our trip, at least in one short article. Some of the cities we have visited in our itinerary of England and the Continent are as follows: Liverpool, Chester, Stratford-on-Avon, Warwick, Oxford, London, Rotterdam, The Hague, Amsterdam, Cologne, Mayence, Heidleberg, Basle, Bern, Interlaken, Lauterbrunnen, Lucerne, Zurich, Munich, Oberammergau, Innsbruck, Venice, Florence, Rome, Naples, Pisa, Genoa, Milan, Menaggio, Palanza, Como, Gravalona, Dom d'Olega, Brieg, Visp, Zermatt, and many other places worthy of mention. Each of these cities and surroundings offer attractions for the traveler, and we have worked hard to see every thing within reach. Each city has its places of interest and should be especially noted, but time forbids. I may speak of the "Eternal City," Rome. We were agreeably surprised with Rome, a clean, well governed, progressive city. It has had its perilous days, and probably is the most historic spot in the world; and a student of history viewing the ruins of its once ancient glory cannot help but be impressed that behind it all men of genius and consummate skill wielded the scepter of power. Upon the ruins of that ancient city a new Rome is being builded. Naples is a great city but not so clean, especially in some quarters. It is beautiful for situation, the waters of the bay of Naples are delightful. The farther south we went the less of thrift and cleanliness. We saw some boys of five or six years old walking the streets with only the covering nature gave them, save made brown by the southern sun. These scenes were few however.

We would speak of the peoples we have met but time and space forbids. As we have mingled most with the Italians of them we will make a passing notice. We have changed our opinion of the Italian race. We can no more judge the Italian people by the few who have gone to America than we can ours by the street loafer or the lower class. A brighter day has dawned upon Italy since the 20 of September, 1870, when Victor Emanuel marched triumphantly into Rome and separated church and state. There are three menaces to Italy, her priests, her soldiers and her beggars. Her life and progress depend upon how she solves the problem. We were at Rome when King Humbert fell victim to the assassin's bullet, and saw with our eyes and heard with our ears expressions of real sorrow. He was greatly loved by the liberal party, and even respected by the church party. Many said he had only one fault, "He was too good." We had the privilege of assisting at his funeral, as the Italians put it with our presence. The funeral procession was formed at the station in the morning at 6:30 o'clock It was an imposing spectacle. It was made up of officials of army and navy, and of the municipalities of Rome and other cities, societies of all kinds from the whole of Italy, ambassadors from many governments, etc., all on foot in broken order save the cavalry It took two hours and twenty minutes to pass a given point. The new King promises well.

The Swiss people are a mixture of Italian, French and German, a hardy, liberty-loving race. No country like Switzerland for magnificent mountain scenery; no tongue nor pen can do justice to it's tall mountains and picturesque valleys. Her people, country folk, are a hardy, genial class, content with little and obtain that little with difficulty. We had heard of fields standing on edge, we have seen them by the score on the mountain sides of Switzerland. Their farming is very primitive. They turn their soil by means of a large hoe; no plows, no cultivators; could not use them. Their fields are too steep. The grain is gleaned with scythe or sickle, and carried down upon the back; much is carried by the women. Cows and goats, which are pastured high up on the mountain, are their chief means of a living.

We have been over the Alps three times, twice by carriage, once by train, on the tops of many of the lesser ones. The little village from which I write is surrounded by mountains. The Matterhorn looks down on us from the southeast; the Breithorn, Castor and Pollux, the Lyskamm and Monte Rosa bound us on the south and southeast; the Rimpfishhorn, Domtrachhorn and Nadelgrat on the east; the Weltshorn, Rothhorn and Gabelhorn on the north. These and others not mentioned, all snowcapped, make the atmosphere decidedly cool. We have had splendid weather the whole of our trip, scarcely a night that we did not need covering. A few days in Florence, Rome and Naples that the midday was quite warm, but otherwise we have not suffered one particle with the heat. Our sympathies have gone out for you people in Indiana that have been engaged in trying to keep cool, and judging from our experience in former summers have made a signal failure.

We have had an interesting experience with the money of the countries through which we have passed. We have had to do with pounds, shillings, pence, guldens, marks, pfenning, lira, centesimi, francs. We get along with all easily, but England, which was a puzzle for a time. My traveling companions are expert accountants, and it took us all about two hours to divide correctly the expense bill for two days. Speaking of money, give us good, old United States money, the best on earth; goes at a premium throughout the continent, the only trouble is to keep it. I was wise enough to keep a two dollar bill just to look at. Occasionally I bring it forth and we all feel of it and feast our eyes on it, and be glad to handle it continuously if we have any left. As to our conduct,—well, I guess I had better not speak, suffice it to say, we recognize the Alseeing eye is ever upon us, though the eyes of our friends are not, and to Him we must give an account. Two more companionable, and gentlemanly men no man has had for traveling companions than myself. We leave here for Paris Monday, where we will spend a few days seeing the big show and bigger city, thence to London for a final visit, and on September 8 will start (D. V.) from Southhampton on the Steamship, City of New York for the land of the Stars and Stripes, where our loved ones and interests are. 'Till then adieu.

Respectfully and cordially,
T. M. GUILD.

Johnnie's Complaint.

Mom says that I need a trimmin',
All the time a goin' swimmin'
That's the way it is with wimmin,

Allus want a kid to stay
In the house the whole blamed day
Never git a chanct to play

Hate to have him climin' trees
Wearin out his stockin' knees
Gee, but wimmin's hard to please!

What they'd like a boy to do
Jes' set still an' not say "Boo"
What'd you think if it was you?

But Jim Williams, me an' him
Go most every day to swim-
He's a crackerjack, is Jim.

Does the dog and overhand,
Side strokes jes to beat the band,
Dives twelve feet and brings up sand;

I kin swim, too, you can bet,
Not like Jim tho' jes as yet
Say, feel if my hair is wet.

Wish there never was no school
Nothin' but the swimmin' pool,
Where you git a chanct to cool,

Splash an' dive an' then jes' run,
Lie an' dry out in the sun!
Bet your boots that's lots of fun.

Guess you can count me an' Jim in,
Any day I'd like a trimmin'
Sooner than not go a swimmin'.

—Kennett F. Harry.

Owned Hamilton Lake.

Our people will remember that a few years ago, the Fort Wayne Water Power Co, bought the feeder canal and a lot of other property including 800 acre at Hamilton together with the lake and mill. They intended to convey water to Fort Wayne, for power and water supply. Now, they are bankrupt and being sued for $300,000. Their schemes appear wild, yet wilder ones have succeeded in larger cities.

WERE NO NOVICES IN CRIME.

Boys Confined in the Auburn Jail Wanted for a Burglary in Michigan.

Later developments prove conclusively that Harry Carter, the young fellow returned to jail Tuesday for stealing tools and furnishing them to fellow prisoners, and his partner, Charles Steenstra, are no novices in crime and that the robbery at the Wasson residence was not the first unlawful act they had committed. After the boys had been put in separate cells at the jail following their captuge at the Junction, Sheriff Hathaway began a little "pumping" process which brought out the fact that previous to the Concord job Carter and Steenstra, with young Howarth who was arrested with them here, had burglarized a house near Niles, Mich., securing a number of articles including a fine camera, clothing, shoes and jewelry. Part of the clothing and shoes were and are still worn by the two young thieves, and the other articles had been disposed of, Carter says, at Chicago. The young fellows told where the goods had been stolen and described the manner in which the work was done. Sherig Hathaway at once wrote the sheriff there giving him the statements made, and this morning received a telegram signed by Joseph Bell, under-sheriff, to hold the prisoners and that he would come after them at once.

During their stay at the jail the boys were models of good behavior, and were allowed the freedom of the residence and court park where they performed a number of light duties for the sheriff and his family. By their conduct they had excited considerable sympathy, but the stealing of the tools and subsequent developments in the Michigan affair show them to be a smooth pair of young crooks and it is very probable that they will get a chance to serve the Wolverine state for several years It is fortunate that these young fellows have been stopped thus early in their criminal career, and it is hoped they will profit by the lessons learned.

Obituary.

Amy R. Marvin was born in Hancock county, Ohio, July 23, 1833; was married to James D. Kelley December 15, 1855, died August 25, 1900. Taken as a foster son in the year 1856 was George W. Deitrick and also born to this union were seven children, six daughters and one son; first two buried in infancy, third child, Rebecca Jane, Isaac Douglas, Carrie E, Nettie M. and Mary E., all of whom except Carrie E and George W. Deitrich preceeded her to the better world. The subject of this sketch had six grandchildren. James Douglas and Freeman Cloyd Deitrick, Walker J., Marvin and Amy R. Kelley, and Harry E. Shull, all of whom except Marvin Kelley remain to mourn her loss. She lost her husband by death January 15, 1882, since which time she has had the stern responsibilities of the rearing of the family interspersed with the stern vicissitudes of death and filling up a depth of sorrow and mourning almost unparalleled. She united with the Presbyterian church of this city some four years ago, of which she remained a consistent member up to the day of her death. The funeral services were conducted by her former pastor, Rev. Frank C. Colvin, of Cassopolis, Mich. Interment at Waterloo cemetery.

From dawn of life
Thy goodness we have shared,
And still we live to sing thy praise
By sovereign mercy spared.
There is an hour of hallowed peace,
For those with cares oppressed,
When sighs and sorrowing fears shall cease,
And all be hushed to rest.

CARD OF THANKS.

By special request of Mrs. Kelly, we return her thanks to all the friends and neighbors as well as relatives for the constant kindness and care bestowed on her during her long illness. Her thoughtfulness for all around her and her natural friendly and grateful disposition prompted this request, with which we gladly comply She wished them to know that their care was appreciated.

His Georgia Gold Mines.

The Fort Wayne Journal gives an interview with Hon. S. S. Shutt in regard to the gold mines he is interested in at Dahlonega, Georgia. His company has two great properties there, and are using the latest machinery, and run 120 tamps. The product is about $700 a day. While the ores are low grade, improved machinery and treatment make the working profitable. The mines there have been worked a little off and on for nearly 100 years, mostly by individual miners.

Mrs. Beaber Dead.

Mrs. Beaber, who lived at John Keeran's, died yesterday afternoon and will be buried tomorrow. The friends will meet at the home of John Keeran at 1 p. m. and there will be prayer, then they drive down to Butler township, at 3:30 the services will be held at Cedar Creek Chapel and interment will be there, beside her husband. The services will be conducted by Mr. Meese and Mr. Brosy.

Our Saturday Evenings.

CHAPTER XLVI.

We spoke of strange things found in last weeks "Saturday" and the fact that Mr. Loutzenheiser keeps finding a little more jewelry, now and then, keeps up the interest.

A few years ago, there was a valuable "find" at Hamilton, when an old can with several hundred dollars in genuine gold coin was found in making some changes in the mill at that place.

A less valuable find was one made up in Lagrange county about the same time. But though less valuable in cash, it was more far reaching in its connection with local pioneer history. We refer to the bogus silver dollars, found in between the lath and the siding of one of the houses; that was in the section of country once made famous by the crimes of counterfeiters horse thieves and rough border characters. The coins were pretty poor imitations but could no doubt be passed in early days much easier than now. But when such dollars got into circulation they were soon discovered and their circulation stopped. In fact the making and circulating both came to an abrupt end when the "Regulators" got after the rascals. Of course nearly all these criminals escaped, but the hanging of McDougall and sending several ringleaders to the pen had a good effect. It was a case where law had little or no value, for lawyers judges and jurymen were in terror, for they knew it would be an easy matter, and quite the thing to be expected, that any effort they might make to bring one of these fellows to justice, would bring the torch to their property or a shot from a rifle in passing some lonely spot. It is not so long ago, that several eminent attorneys were living, who for a fee defended these outlaws, ably, in the courts. So the Regulators filled a long felt want and deserve all credit for their work.

A people who lived here before the Indians, and when our forests were small trees, or the country open, have been lost, and no history of them will ever be known. The little we think we know is all guess work, the result of finding certain articles they lost. Many are familiar with the articles of out stone found in all parts of DeKalb county. Some of these implements were made by this early race, no doubt, and the mounds south of Auburn and north of Waterloo, and near Hudson, were no doubt the work of the "Mound Builders" as we choose to call them. And that is the extent of our knowledge. The pottery we find in their mounds and the cut stones, are probably in many cases their work. But the same pottery is found on the surface, especially at well known Indian camps or villages. It was found in abundance in the cultivated fields used by Indians and recently by white men, at the ancient Indian village of the "Kekiongas" or Miamis at Fort Wayne, just below the junction of the cities, on the ground now occupied by the addition called Riverside.

It is well known too, that cut stone implements are still in use in the far west, where the blanket Indian still may be found. It is well known, too, that not many years ago, they made arrow and spear points of glass and obsidian and probably of flint

The making of the flint points was long considered a lost art. But a man in Chicago made up his mind he could do it. And we have seen one he made, that was in no way inferer to the real Indian or Mound Builder brand.

But we have probably lost the art of tempering copper, an art possessed by several ancient people, besides those of America. Some unknown races carried on extensive mining in copper in the Lake Superior country, as many shallow mines, many stone hammers and partly mined metal attest. They probably made and sold the implements we find in various parts of the country. For we know the early people hereabouts had no copper.

True, many pieces of native copper ore have been found in Northern Indiana, but it was all found in locations, where we find the glacial stones that have drifted this way from the northwest.

But there is no need to feel sad over the "lost art" or lost lakes and rivers. We are the better for thir loss. The prehistoric lake east of Defiance. known to scientific students as "Lake Whittlesey," furnished several hundred fine farms, worth a thousand times more than a lake.

When the south end of Lake Michigan receded from its first bank of sand hills about ten miles from its present shore, it left for the Hoosier state, some of the finest of our farmes. What the natives lost in fish grounds, we gained in grain, fruit, cattle and intelligent people.

The chief value of much that is past and lost is in the moral lessons to be drawn therefrom.

No Relief for Twenty Years.

"I had bronchitis for twenty years," said Mrs. Minerva Smith of Danville, Ill., "and at times have been bedfast. I never got relief until I had taken Foley's Honey and Tar. It is pleasant and gives quick relief, and is a sure cure for throat and lung diseases." Take nothing else. H. B. McCord.

ROYAL Baking Powder

The strongest, purest, most efficient and wholesome of leavening agents. Not lowest in price, yet the most economical; indispensable to all who appreciate the best and most healthful food.

Our country is enjoying prosperity almost unsurpassed in its history.

For every one there is money enough to buy that to eat which is pure, sound, good, wholesome.

Why should we use cheap, impure, unhealthful articles of food? There is no economy in them; they endanger the health, they may cost life. There are reported almost daily cases of sickness caused by eating cake, puddings or biscuit made with the cheap, alum baking powders.

In all articles for food buy and use only the best. The good health of the family is of first consideration.

Alum is used in many baking powders because it makes them cheap. It costs less than two cents a pound. Alum is a corrosive poison. Think of feeding it to children! Yet the manufacturers of well-known alum powders are actually denying that their goods contain it.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 100 WILLIAM ST., NEW YORK.

OBITUARY.

Elizabeth Walter, was born in Snyder county, Pa., June 12, 1824, and departed this life at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John Keeran, on South Jackson street, Auburn Indiana, last Thursday evening, Aug. 30, 1900, at the ripe age of 76 years, 2 months and 18 days. She was united in marriage to Nathaniel Beber, on the ninth day of Dec. 1845. To this happy union were born fifteen children, three of whom died in infancy. She was permitted to see the remaining twelve children united in marriage, of whom eleven are yet living. In the year 1856 they moved to this state, near Avilla, Noble county, where they resided until the year 1872 when they moved to Allen county Indiana, where they lived until the death of Mr. Beber, which occured in 1894. Since his death Mother Beber has been living with her children, until two years ago, when she came to Auburn to live with her youngest daughter Anna, where she died. When quite young she became a christian, and united with the Lutheran church, where she continued her membership until they moved to Noble county when she united with the Evangelical church, at Avilla Ind., where she was a member at the time of her death. Mother Beber always tried to live a faithful christian life, and when death came, he found her waiting for the Master. The last words she was heard to utter, were, "I want my Savior." Mother Beber leaves to mourn her death eleven children, fifty-four grand-children, 25 great-grand children, one great-great-grandchild, three brothers and three sisters, besides many other friends. The funeral service was conducted from Cedar Chapel this afternoon at 2:30. Interment took place in Cedar Creek cemetery, J. D. Brosy officiating, assisted by Rev. W. L. Meese.

Fatal Accident.

Tuesday evening about dusk as Frank Culbertson was riding northward from town on his wheel he collided with a rig and was painfully injured. Frank was riding at a pretty good speed and did not notice the approaching rig until he hit it. The thill entered his arm just above the wrist and cut a deep gash nearly to the elbow. James McDaniel, who was the driver of the rig, immediately brought him to town, and Dr. Sheffer dressed the injury. The wheel was pretty, badly demolished.—St. Joe News.

Blood poison developed and twice it was found necessary to amputate the arm The second operation was performed Friday, but the young man only survived a few hours, dying about 4 o'clock in the afternoon. He was a son of Richard Culbertson.

CASTORIA.

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

W. C. T. U. NOTES.

THE CANTEEN IN THE PHILIPPINES FROM A LEGAL STANDPOINT.

It is not our purpose to criticise any political party for the sake of securing advantage of any other. We are not here to favor any party, and whatever party may be successful in the next campaign, the canteen question will have to be settled, and what we say in this column is not in the interest of any party, but in the interests of the young men of America who have left their homes in defense of their country's flag.

Just before the adjournment of Congress this summer, the Secretary of War appeared before a committee to whom was referred the canteen bill, and argued in favor of the canteen, alleging that after all the canteen was a restrictive institution, and that having the sales of liquor within the camp, the business was kept under control; whereas if the sale was not within the the camp and under control of the officers, the young men would visit low doggeries that would locate in the vicinity of the camp, and the sale would be unrestricted and unchecked, and the damage much more disastrous than when the sales were made within the camp. If this be true, then there is some force in this argument, and we desire to place upon it as good a construction as can be possibly placed. But, as applied to the Philippines, this argument has less support in law than the argument that supported the infamous Dred Scott decision. If there is any government in the Philippines at this time it is a military government, and the Philippines are today under a military law. Being under military law, the territory without the camp is as much under the control of the Commander-in-Chief of the army as the territory within the camp is under the control of its commander. His word is law on every foot of soil in the Philippines now held by the United States of America, and the army need not be harrassed by the low doggeries near the camp nor at any other point in islands.

IS IT POSSIBLE

That one-half the riots and fights in our city are due to the saloon?

That the drink habit furnishes two-thirds of the inmates of our insane asylums?

That the licensed saloon is making a hundred thousand confirmed drunkards annually?

That many Christian business men who know the saloon is a curse are, nevertheless, afraid to work against it? —The California Searchlight.

Foley's Kidney Cure

is a pure medicine, and contains in concentrated form, remedies recognized by the most skillful of the medical profession as the most effective agents for the cure of kidney and bladder diseases. H. B. McCord.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, - Publisher.

1900. SEPTEMBER. 1900.

Su	Mo	Tu	We	Th	Fr	Sa
•	•	•	•	•	•	1
2	3	4	5	6	7	8
9	10	11	12	13	14	15
16	17	18	19	20	21	22
23	24	25	26	27	28	29
30	•	•	•	•	•	•

F. Q. 2nd. F. M. 9th. L. Q. 15th. N. M. 24th.

EVENTS OF INTEREST

THAT OCCURRED DURING THE PAST WEEK.

Tersely Told Telegraph Tales in Brief Paragraphs—Many Casualties—A Few Crimes—Some Fires—Political and Religious News.

United States and Russia Agree.

The course of the United States in the pending Chinese negotiations is made more clear by an important note, embodying a communication from Russia and advising the powers of the action taken by this government. The Russian declared the interdiction of Li Hung Chang's communication with the Chinese government was "inexplicable" and asked that the powers direct their commanders to vacate the order. The United States concurs with the position of Russia, and informs the powers that instructions have been sent to our representative in China in the spirit of the Russian note.

The G. A. R.

The Thirty-fourth National Encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, in session at Chicago, elected the following officers:

Commander-in-Chief—Leo Rassieur, St. Louis.

Senior Vice-Commander—E. C. Milliken, Maine.

Junior Vice-Commander—Frank Seamons, Tennessee.

Chaplain-in-Chief—A. Grahms, California.

The national encampment of 1901 will be held at Denver, Col.

Thieves Loot a Postoffice.

Over $5,000 in cash, stamps and postal cards was stolen from the postoffice at St. Joseph, Mich., by professional cracksmen. The robbers entered the federal building through a skylight, lowered themselves down the elevator shaft to the second story and cut through the floor below. A whole was bored into the vault and the combination lock forced. They cleaned the vault out completely and for several hours next day there was a stamp famine in the city. There is no clue.

Killed in a Collision.

A construction train carrying 125 men collided with a yard cut train at North Vernon, Ind. James Anderson, laborer, of that city, was killed. The injured are: M. C. Black, fireman, of Seymour; Robert Laffey, engineer, Louisville; Charles Cole, Cold Springs; Joe Stroud, cranesman; Vincennes: Robert Woddall, Nashville; Curt Stewart, Seymour; Walter Lemmon, engineer, Louisville; John S. Sollea, New Albany; Morrison Kelly.

Chaffee to be Promoted.

There is no doubt that General Chaffee will be appointed Brigadier General in the regular army upon the retirement of Gen. Joseph Wheeler. It is stated at the War Department that the services which General Chaffee has rendered in China entitle him to this consideration. General Chaffee will continue to hold the rank of Major General of Volunteer while in command of the troops in China.

Germany Interferes in South Africa.

Berlin special: The delegation of German subjects who recently arrived from the Transvaal to lodge a complaint with the German foreign office regarding the treatment of Germans there by the British has already been received by the foreign office. After investigating the grounds of the complaint, the foreign office will bring the matter to the attention of Great Britain.

German Warships in China.

In response to an appeal from the Germans in Hankow, Emperor William wired the German consul there as follows: "Tell the German trading community, in answer to their telegram, that protection for the Yang Tse valley will be provided on the arrival of nine warships now on the way to China."

Bold Train Robbery.

Four masked men held up the Union Pacific "overland flyer," near Tipton Wyoming, and blew up the express car and looted the safe. The express company says the losses are not great. A posse is in pursuit of the robbers, and the express company has offered $1,000 reward for their capture.

Bresci Sentenced for Life.

Bresci, the anarchist who shot and killed King Humbert of Italy, at Monza, at the time his majesty was returning from a gymnastic exhibition, was pronounced guilty, after a trial at Milan, and was sentenced to imprisonment for life.

Knights of Pythias.

San Francisco was chosen as the place of meeting for the next Knights of Pythias encampment. O. H. Fethers was elected Supreme Chancellor by 88 votes to the present Chancellor Sample's 59.

Fort Wayne Masonic Temple Attractions.

Sept. 5.—"Where Is Cobb."

Sept. 6, 7 and 8.—Holden Comedy Company.

Indian Tribes Increasing.

Pawhuska (Okla.) special: The census of the Osage and Kaw Indian tribes shows an increase in population over 1899, which is probably true of most Indian tribes in Oklahoma. The statistics, just compiled by O. A. Mitschner, Indian agent, are as follows: Osages, total in 1900, 1,783; in 1899, 1,768. Kaws, total in 1900, 217; in 1899, 208.

Corbett Beats McCoy.

James J. Corbett knocked out "Kid" McCoy in the fifth round, in their fight at Madison Square Garden, New York City.

Robbed by Highwaymen.

Dr. Joseph Bannelt and Mrs. Flora M. Betts, both of Denver, while driving in the suburbs late the other night, were held up by masked men, who secured over $7,000 in cash and diamonds. Mrs. Betts was beaten into insensibility and Dr. Bannelt was very roughly handled.

Great Floating Dry Dock.

Application has been made by the Risdon iron works of San Francisco for space on the water front, near the Risdon plant, for a great floating dry dock which is intended to be the largest of its kind on the coast and one of the best in the world.

ELDER'S AID WAS FATAL.

Mormon Tried to Help a Boy Off a Train and Let Him Fall.

Elder Aaron S. Hawkins, a Mormon missionary, was arrested at the union station in St. Louis by detectives on a telegram from Mount Vernon, Ind., which stated he had deliberately killed a 5-year-old boy there by throwing him under a fast-moving train. Advices from Mount Vernon, received during the day, corroborated the prisoner's statement that he was in no way responsible for the death of the child, and he was released. The child was Clarence Furor, the 5-year-old son of Mrs. George Furor of Mount Vernon, Ind. Elder Hawkins, whose home is in Colorado, told the story of the boy's death as follows: "At Mount Vernon I went on to the platform to view the place. A woman came out with two children. One was in her arms, and the other walking by her side. She also carried a large bundle. I sprang to the ground and lifted the boy down. I released my hold and turned to assist the woman to alight. The boy seemed half-asleep, staggered a step or two and to my horror fell under the wheels. The train was moving." The train was just leaving the station, and the elder sprang aboard. He was going home, and did not wish to be detained.

TRAGEDY IN A NEW YORK HOTEL.

One Chicagoan Shoots Another and Then Commits Suicide.

H. H. Stridiron, a lumber merchant of Baltimore, was shot in the back of the head and through the eye at the Hotel Vendome, in New York, by H. J. Ford, who registered from Boston. Ford then committed suicide by blowing out his brains. The clerk of the hotel says Ford had been in the hotel for several days, but had never registered until Stridiron came to the house. The men breakfasted together and then went out. They returned and went to Stridiron's room. A few minutes later an elevator boy ran to the office and said that there was trouble in the room, and shots were heard immediately afterward. Stridiron was taken to the hospital in a critical condition. When Stridiron became conscious in the hospital he said that Ford was not the correct name of the suicide. He said the man was John Seffon, 45 years old, and that he was salesman living in Chicago. Stridiron gave his own residence as 119 Seeley avenue, Chicago.

LED A DUAL LIFE.

Aristocratic Resident of Toledo Is Charged with Horse Stealing.

B. F. Landis, who lives in one of the handsome residences in the aristocratic Collingwood avenue district of Toledo, Ohio, was arrested by detectives on a charge of wholesale horse and vehicle stealing. The chief of detectives has already uncovered a number of cases in that section of the country, and five stolen animals were traced to Landis, and three of them, after having been stolen and sold, returned to the owners. Mrs. Landis gave some information to Chief Hall to the effect that her husband had served two terms in a Western penitentiary, one for safe-blowing and the other for horse stealing. Officials from four counties are after Landis, and it is a question where he will go first for trial. He and his wife and two children lived elegantly, and the family was supposed to be aristocratic and respectable.

HEAT A DRAWBACK TO TRADE.

West Particularly Affected—Crop Advices Favorable.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: "The sky is not cloudless, but there has been no backward movement of business this week. The chief drawback of the week has been the intense heat in some sections of the West, which was more efficient in retarding business than the lower temperature East was in stimulating it. Crop advices continue as cheerful as at any time lately, and the labor situation shows no important changes in working forces. Failures for the week were 171 in the United States, against 163 last year, and 29 in Canada, against 16 last year."

CRIES TWO YEARS FOR A BRIDE.

Mother of Johnny Ray Yields to His Tears and Consents to a Wedding.

Seventeen-year-old Johnny Ray of 1435 North Twelfth street, St. Louis, cried for a wife for two years and got her. When 15 years old Johnny fell in love with Miss Lulu Gordon, two years his senior, and because his mother would not consent to the wedding he cried every time the subject was broached. At last his mother yielded to his tears and the wedding took place the other night.

Charley Ross Has Been Found.

Jailed for vagrancy in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., is a tramp who startled the recorder's court by asserting that he is Charley Ross, kidnaped from his parents at Philadelphia nearly twenty-eight years ago. Ross carries with him a picture of young Ross taken just before the kidnaping. There is a strong similarity between the photograph and the tramp's face.

His Life the Forfeit.

Pretoria advices state Lieut. Cordua, formerly of the Boer army, was shot by a squad of British soldiers in the public square. Cordua was found guilty of conspiracy to kidnap Lord Roberts and assassinate the British officers in the Transvaal capital and was sentenced to death by a military court.

Child Rescued by a Woman.

By saving the life of 2-year-old baby Pfeiffer Miss Agnes Cox has had her name added to the list of St. Louis heroines. Miss Cox bravely rescued the child from being ground to death by a suburban car on the Union avenue branch.

Louis Boothroyd Takes Poison.

Louis Boothroyd of Manchester, England, died at El Paso, Texas, the result of a dose of cyanide of potassium taken with suicidal intent. Boothroyd was known as a relative of the Duke of Manchester.

Wrecked on African Coast.

Information has been received in Philadelphia of the stranding during a hurricane of the new British steamer Indra, which sailed with a cargo of sugar from Samabaya, Java, for Philadelphia. Nine lives are believed to have been lost.

Actor's Wife Tries to Die.

Despondency is said to have been the cause for Mrs. Effie Allen attempting suicide at the Waverly House, Charlestown, Mass. She fired three shots from a 32-caliber revolver, all of which took effect in her left breast.

People's Party Picks Stevenson.

The national committee of the People's party has named Adlai E. Stevenson to succeed Charles A. Towne as the vice-presidential nominee of the party.

North Dakota Grain Damaged.

The grain in shock in North Dakota is in deplorable condition. Much grain has sprouted in the shock and all is discolored.

Feeds Through His Nose.

Seven-year-old John Fockenstock of Williamsburg, N. Y., while playing in a stable near his home, was kicked in the face by a horse. His mouth was badly mangled, and when he was received at the Eastern District hospital it was found that on account of the injury it was not possible for him to swallow anything. The food is forced into the stomach by passing a tube through the nose into the throat.

CYCLONE WORKS WILD HAVOC.

Two Persons Injured and Many Houses Wrecked at Sedalia, Mo.

A terrific wind and rain storm, approaching the violence of a cyclone, swept over a portion of Sedalia, Mo., wrecking a number of business houses, unroofing a score or more of residences and destroying hundreds of trees. Two persons were seriously injured by falling buildings. The buildings partially destroyed are: The Blocker building, owned by N. W. Leonard of Fayette, Mo., second story demolished; Wood's Opera House, part of roof carried off and west wall damaged; A. P. Morey building, rear and east walls wrecked; Whiprecht grocery building, partially wrecked; hall of Sons and Daughters of Charity, completely destroyed; Estes' grocery store, front blown out; Hayes building, partially unroofed and walls damaged; Charles E. Leftwick's blacksmith shop, front torn down; grand stand in front of race track at Liberty park, totally destroyed.

EXPLOSION CAUSES A PANIC.

Mysterious Subterranean Disturbance Occurs in West Virginia.

The people at Horton, W. Va., were badly frightened the other night. There was a loud rumbling, followed by a terrific explosion, back on the mountain, that made the earth heave. Many of the villagers thought the world was coming to an end, and fell on their knees and began praying. Some of those who were not too badly frightened went out to investigate. When they reached the locality whence the report seemed to come, the ground was found to be so hot that it almost burned their feet, while the air was filled with stifling smoke. The opinion prevails that the mysterious occurrence was the result of a subterranean disturbance.

TO TEST FRANCHISE LAWS.

Negroes Plan to Attack Recent Legislation in the South.

Giles B. Jackson, a negro lawyer of Richmond, Va., acting for the national council of the Constitutional Rights Association, has employed ex-Attorney General A. B. Hillsbury of Boston and W. C. P. Breckinridge of Lexington, Ky., as his counsel in proceedings which will be instituted for the purpose of bringing before the Supreme Court of the United States the question of the legality of the recently enacted statutes, laws and constitutional amendments in some of the Southern States which, it is claimed, tend toward the disfranchising of the negro. The case will probably be brought before the courts of Massachusetts and will be carried to the Supreme Court.

Killed by Her Sweetheart.

Miss Zellinska, 18 years old, daughter of Jacob Zellinska, living six miles from Ashton, Neb., was shot through the heart by John Schrall, her lover. She was out picking plums. Schrall was hunting in the timber. He saw something moving in the bushes, and, without waiting to find out what it was, fired, killing the girl.

Wheat Yield Much Reduced.

As returns come in from the thrashers in the grain belt of eastern Washington they show a reduced yield of wheat. From present indications the crop from the State will not be above 18,000,000 or 20,000,000 bushels.

Four Prisoners Escape.

A wholesale jail delivery occurred at Red Lodge, Mont. Parties on the outside pried off a jail window bar with the beams of an old hangman's scaffold and opened the cells with skeleton keys. Four prisoners got safely away.

Heavy Fighting at Machadodorp.

Heavy fighting is reported to have occurred at Machadodorp, South Africa. The Boers are said to have been defeated with great loss, leaving their guns and ammunition in the hands of the British.

Allied Admirals Put Li Under Restraint.

It is stated that Li-Hung-Chang is being held by the allied admirals at Shanghai as a hostage, or, in diplomatic language, has been interdicted against communication with his Government.

Thirty Thousand Veterans in Line.

Thirty thousand veterans marched in the great G. A. R. parade in Chicago, and 700,000 persons were in the crowd that viewed the spectacle.

Forest Reserve Swept by Fire.

Ten square miles of forest reserve in the San Gabriel reservation of California have been swept by fire and still the flames are devouring the timber.

Hailstones Kill Birds.

Hailstones as large as walnuts fell at Larned, Kan., for half an hour, beating fruit and leaves off the trees and killing many birds and small animals.

Ice Cream Poisons Scores.

One hundred persons were poisoned by eating ice cream from cankered tin cans at Odd Fellows' picnic at Glendale, Ind.

THE MARKETS.

Chicago—Cattle, common to prime, $3.00 to $6.00; hogs, shipping grades, $3.00 to $5.35; sheep, fair to choice, $3.00 to $3.65; wheat, No. 2 red, 73c to 74c; corn, No. 2, 39c to 40c; oats, No. 2, 20c to 21c; rye, No. 2, 50c to 51c; butter, choice creamery, 18c to 21c; eggs, fresh, 13c to 16c; potatoes, 37c to 39c per bushel.

Indianapolis—Cattle, shipping, $3.00 to $5.75; hogs, choice light, $5.00 to $5.45; sheep, common to prime, $3.00 to $4.00; wheat, No. 2, 71c to 72c; corn, No. 2 white, 41c to 42c; oats, No. 2 white, 23c to 24c.

St. Louis—Cattle, $3.25 to $5.80; hogs, $3.00 to $5.35; sheep, $3.00 to $4.00; wheat, No. 2, 70c to 71c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 38c to 39c; oats, No. 2, 20c to 21c; rye, No. 2, 47c to 48c.

Cincinnati—Cattle, $3.00 to $5.10; hogs, $3.00 to $5.35; sheep, $3.00 to $3.75; wheat, No. 2, 72c to 73c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 44c to 42c; oats, No. 2 mixed, 21c to 22c; rye, No. 2, 50c to 51c.

Detroit—Cattle, $2.50 to $5.70; hogs, $3.00 to $5.45; sheep, $3.00 to $4.00; wheat, No. 2, 76c to 77c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 42c to 43c; oats, No. 2 white, 24c to 25c; rye, 52c to 53c.

Toledo—Wheat, No. 2 mixed, 76c to 77c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 39c to 404c; oats, No. 2 mixed, 21c to 22c; rye, No. 2, 50c to 51c; clover seed, prime, $5.80 to $6.15.

Milwaukee—Wheat, No. 2 northern, 74c to 75c; corn, No. 3, 40c to 41c; oats, No. 2 white, 24c to 25c; rye, No. 1, 51c to 52c; barley, No. 2, 49c to 50c; pork, mess, $10.85 to $11.00.

Buffalo—Cattle, choice shipping steers, $3.00 to $5.80; hogs, fair to prime, $3.00 to $5.75; sheep, fair to choice, $3.25 to $4.00; lambs, common to extra, $4.00 to $6.25.

New York—Cattle, $3.25 to $5.95; hogs, $3.00 to $6.00; sheep, $3.00 to $4.30; wheat, No. 2 red, 80c to 81c; corn, No. 2, 44c to 45c; oats, No. 2 white, 25c to 26c; butter, creamery, 19c to 22c; eggs, western, 16c to 18c.

PARADE OF HEROES.

CIVIL WAR VETERANS TREAD CHICAGO'S STREETS.

Thirty Thousand Old Soldiers in Line and Fully Half a Million Onlookers Crowd Along the Line of March—An Imposing Spectacle.

Chicago Correspondence:

Off with your hats as they go by,
Cheer for the patriots who wear the blue!
Crippled and scarred and out of breath,
These were the heroes of '62!

They swung down Michigan boulevard—those steel men of the Grand Army—in a martial review more impressive than any of the century's military spectacles. Their steps a trifle halting, their eyes a trifle dim, but their wrinkled cheeks aflame with never-dying patriotism, a great host of the soldiers who choked secession in an awful war marched under battle flags with bloody histories behind commanders who led them into revels of death and carnage, and between banks of uncounted humanity who looked and learned a lesson. There were men scarred and maimed, in that parade; there were men bent with age. But they trudged along under the August sun as full of fire and enthusiasm as when they stormed ramparts and charged redoubts a third of a century ago. Thirty thousand of them marched

The spectacle of gray-haired old fighters trying vainly to straighten the bent shoulders that once were square and strong, and to keep step to war tunes and battle hymns, and their feeble efforts to fight fatigue, put pathos into a scene that was already pathetic, and told the story of the army's last retreat before Father Time. Some dropped from the ranks before the march was over; others leaned on comrades' shoulders and gamely tramped to the finish, and still others pushed along, heads up, steps firm, fit for battle with any foeman that ever lived. They all saluted brave old "Black Jack" on his bronze charger down on the lake front. Flags dipped and canes were waved at the fiery figure of Atlanta's hero from every post that marched, and few veterans there were who did not shout a greeting to Illinois' dashing son.

FROM THE REVIEWING STAND.

Gen. W. Keifer. Gen. Miles. Mayor Harrison. Col. D. B. Henderson. Commander Shaw. Senator Cullom.

Soon after the sunrise gun was fired Tuesday bands began to play and the post commanders began to lead their companies to the rendezvous at Randolph street and Michigan avenue. Around the Illinois Central station and in the thoroughfares adjacent thereto were thousands and thousands of blue-coated veterans. There was much wheeling and countermarching in response to commands, much cavorting of spirited horses and much brassy blare from scores of bands. Finally a troop of mounted policemen formed a line clear across the street, Col. James H. Wood, chief marshall, and his aids cantered in behind them and the procession was under way. A shout all along the line of march heralded the approach of the column's head.

The white banner of peace and the Stars and Stripes led the column, as, heralded by twelve trumpeters, it marched south through the army arch and into the Court of Honor. First there was the "Pageant of Patriotism," Gen. Daniel E. Sickles of New York commanding. Escorting him was the famous Lafayette Post of New York, and then came the Old Guard Post of Washington, whose members lost limbs in the civil war.

The guests of honor were next, among them being Gen. Nelson A. Miles, the Duke and Duchess de Arcos and the presidents of the Woman's Relief Corps, the Ladies of the G. A. R. and the Army Nurses' Association. Thus the column approached the reviewing stand. There was a brief stop to allow the noted guests to take their seats. Then the flag of the G. A. R. was hung out, the Stars and Stripes and the banner of peace moved forward again, and the long, tedious march was fairly under way.

Col. Joseph H. Wood, grand marshal of the day, led the column, escorted by the citizens' committee, mounted, 100 strong, and then came Wisconsin, leading the veterans of the Grand Army. The bands played "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp, the Boys Are Marching," and there was a swelling of hearts in the breasts of the thousands of onlookers as the little handful of survivors of the famous Iron Brigade marched by, led by Gen. Edward S. Bragg.

The veterans of the Badger State were followed by those from Pennsylvania, their old battle flags attracting much attention. Ohio made a magnificent showing in the second division, and was followed by New York, the Bidwell-Wilkeson Post of Buffalo having the honor of escorting the commander-in-chief. Next came posts from Massachusetts, Connecticut, New Jersey, Maine, California, Nevada, Rhode Island, New Hampshire, Vermont, Virginia, North Carolina, Maryland, Michigan, Nebraska, Iowa and Indiana. Indiana had the honor of having more men in line than any other of the visiting States. Following it were the veterans from Colorado and Wyoming, Kansas, Delaware, Minnesota, Missouri, Oregon, Kentucky, West Virginia, South Dakota, Washington, Arkansas, Tennessee, Mississippi, Texas, Idaho, Arizona and other States, Illinois, with the battle flags of the State, bringing up the rear of the parade.

The signal gun for the start of the procession was fired shortly after 10 o'clock, and the parade was nearly five hours in passing the reviewing stand.

The veterans marched twelve abreast. There were no divisions in the parade and it moved as a compact mass, the States and posts being distinguished by guidons and banners. Because of its simplicity, the ranks were formed and moved away with little difficulty. Only 196 posts in the United States were unrepresented in the procession.

In the reviewing stand were Commander-in-chief Shaw and his staff, the Duke and Duchess D'Arcos, Grand Army, city and encampment officials and prominent Chicagoans.

SCENE IN THE STREET PAGEANT OF THE GRAND ARMY REUNION AT CHICAGO.

ADJUTANT GENERAL'S REPORT.

Total Membership of the Grand Army of the Republic Is 287,981.

The report of Adjt. Gen. Thomas J. Stewart stated that the total membership of the Grand Army of the Republic in good standing June 30, 1899, was 6,905 posts, with a membership of 287,981, while on June 30, 1900, it was 6,778 posts, with a membership of 276,662. The gain and losses for the twelve months ending June 30, 1900, were as follows:

Members in good standing June 30, 1899		287,981
Gain by muster in	8,901
Gain by transfer	4,123
Gain by reinstatement	11,937
Gain from delinquent reports	6,515
Total gain		31,476
Aggregate		319,457
Loss by death	7,790
Loss by honorable discharge	983
Loss by transfer	3,958
Loss by suspension	18,189
Loss by dishonorable discharge	174
Loss by delinquent reports	10,956
Loss by surrender of charter	745
		42,795
Members in good standing June 30, 1900		276,662
Members remaining suspended June 30, 1900		29,474
Total borne on rolls		306,136

Reports received from the various departments show 9,609 members were dropped from the rolls, having been previously suspended. The percentage of loss by death in the year ending June 30, 1900, was 2.8 per cent. This is the largest per cent of any year in the history of the organization, excepting 1896, when it was 2.91 per cent.

The report of the Adjutant General shows that the four largest departments are as follows:

New York	32,106
Pennsylvania	29,819
Ohio	23,897
Illinois	23,037

The high-water mark of membership was reached in 1890, with 409,489 members. The present members number 276,662. During the last year $129,279.26 was expended for the relief of veterans.

SIZE OF THE PARADE.

Estimates Place the Number of Men in Line at Fully 30,000.

The total size of the parade was placed at 30,000 men, not only by careful counting of the sections and estimates based upon it, but also by Maj. Gen. Miles and by Commander-in-chief Shaw, whose experience in conducting and reviewing parades makes their estimates much more than guess work. The following estimate was made of the length of time which it took for the biggest departments to pass a given point and of the number of men in those departments:

	Minutes.	Number of men.
Wisconsin	15	1,500
Pennsylvania	15	1,500
Ohio	34	3,500
New York	8	1,000
Michigan	17	1,700
Iowa	11	1,100
Indiana	21	2,100
Missouri	10	1,000
Illinois	60	7,000

Col. Samuel Moody, Adjutant General of Pennsylvania, who has attended every Grand Army reunion, made the following statement of the time the parades have taken to pass a given point:

	Hrs.	Min.
Chicago, 1900	4	24
Philadelphia, 1899	4	15
Washington, 1892	4	10
Pittsburg, 1894	3	45

VAST THRONGS IN CHICAGO.

Railroads Entering the City Worked to Their Utmost Capacity.

Conservative estimates made by passenger officials of all the railroads terminating in Chicago show that nearly 300,000 people came from a distance, on account of the G. A. R. encampment, during the three days. This total does not include suburban passengers during that time

Between 1,400 and 1,500 veterans were unable to find beds Monday night, although nearly 5,000 cots, provided by those in charge of the encampment, were unoccupied. At the Second regiment armory, Washington boulevard and Curtis street, no less than 405 of the 1,000 cots provided free of charge, with breakfast included, were unoccupied, and, with a few exceptions, the beds in the school houses in every portion of the city which had been intended for the use of the veterans were without occupants.

The condition of the hotels Monday night has been unequaled since the World's Fair. All the rooms were occupied at an early hour, and cots were being placed in the halls and corridors.

Pension Statistics.

Many statistics were given by Gen. Shaw in his address regarding the pension situation. They showed that 991,519 pensioners were on the rolls on July 1, 1899, and that 45,338 new names were added during the year ending July 1, 1900, making a total of 1,036,863. During the year there were 43,334 names dropped from deaths, remarriages and other causes, leaving the roll at present 993,529. This is a net gain of 20,010 during the last year. At present there are 437,104 claims pending.

Made His Last March.

Death claimed one of the veterans while in the parade. Charles Beckwith, 65 years old, of Algansee, Mich., who was marching in the ranks of Sheridan Post, No. 4, of the department of Michigan, dropped dead of heart disease and exhaustion.

Thousands View Stock Yards.

Fully 25,000 veterans and their friends visited the stock yards Wednesday. Not since the best days of the World's Fair have the stock yards proper and the packing house district been so crowded with visitors.

CHOOSE RASSIEUR AS CHIEF.

Grand Army Selects St. Louis Man for Commander.

Maj. Leo Rassieur of St. Louis will be in command of the Grand Army of the Republic during the coming year. At the session Thursday of the thirty-fourth annual encampment in Studebaker Hall his name was presented and received the unanimous support of the delegates The election of officers was made a special order of business for 9 o'clock. Post Commander-in-chief Maj. William Warner of Kansas City presented the name of the Missourian, and Adjt Gen. Stewart of Pennsylvania seconded the nomination.

Maj. Rassieur's election was by acclamation, Adjt. Gen. Stewart casting the ballot. The new commander-in-chief was immediately escorted to the platform, where, after making his speech of acceptance, he was installed in his new office. Studebaker Hall was crowded, as nearly every one of the 1,500 delegates was in his place and the galleries were packed with veterans not delegates who were interested lookers-on.

JUDGE LEO RASSIEUR,

The New Commander-in-Chief of the Grand Army.

E. C. Minniken of Maine was elected senior vice-commander. Frank Seaman of Tennessee was chosen junior vice-commander. John A. Wilkins of Ohio was elected surgeon general. A. Drahms of California is the newly chosen chaplain-in-chief. It is a respected custom not to re-elect any to these national offices. The offices pass around in rotation. The appointive national offices are usually filled by reappointment.

COMMANDER SHAW'S ADDRESS.

Reviews Many Subjects of Importance to Old Soldiers.

In his address the commander-in-chief reviewed the work of the organization since his election, called attention to the pension question, giving data from the pension office and discussing the necessity for a pension court of appeals. In speaking of the trouble between the veterans and H. Clay Evans, commissioner of pensions, Gen. Shaw referred to it as "an unhappy irritation," and, continuing his reference to the proposed pension court of appeals, he concluded: "With it peace and concord and full justice in pension cases would be secured; without it no end of heartburnings and irritations will continue."

Gen. Shaw discussed the necessity for providing the veterans with positions in the public service, and said no pension can compensate for want of employment. He recommended legislation which would provide employment for veterans in the Government service.

Gen. Shaw referred to the incident in the "Dewey day" parade in New York City, when the G. A. R. refused to march because assigned a rear position in the parade. He spoke of the affair in part as follows: "Your commander-in-chief fully indorsed the right action of Department Commander Kay and desires to thank the comrades for their object lesson of loyalty to the Grand Army, and to the dignity and honor of the saviors of the republic. Unless survivors of the great war march at the front in all such pageantries, they should not consent to appear in line. No sophism as to troops 'carrying arms' can have force, in the light of the glorious services of the veterans of the Union, so far as a place in the line is concerned."

The commander-in-chief's reference to Memorial Day was an urging that Sunday be the date hereafter, as it would largely tend to preserve it from the desecrations which now pervert the tender associations of this unique memory day from its original signification. He spoke of the Woman's Relief Corps, the Ladies of the Grand Army and mentioned the Sons of Veterans as the nearest approach to privileged sons of the soil. His recommendation, a practical consolidation of the sons and the fathers, was approved later, when a committee was appointed to consider the subject of closer affiliation. In conclusion he quoted from the report of the Adjutant General, showing that the membership June 30, 1900, was 276,662. The net loss for the year from all causes is 11,319, including 7,790 comrades who died since the last encampment.

Told in a Few Lines.

John Drew will play Richard Carvel this season.

Fireman H. Hall was killed in a wreck near Spokane, Wash.

A new cable is being laid to Chefoo and Shanghai from Taku.

Rev. Charles M. Sheldon, Topeka, Kan., has returned from London.

Parrott Mining Company, Butte, Mont., had a $125,000 loss by fire.

T. O. Purcell, Marshall, Mo., gets thirty years for murdering C. C. Bailey.

RESOURCES OF THE ORDER.

Figures as to Strength and Resources of the Various Departments.

Figures as to the strength and resources of the departments in the various States were given in the report of Inspector General M. J. Cummings. The essential facts are contained in the following summary:

Departments—	Number of posts.	Members in good standing.	Money in relief fund.
Alabama	8	193	.....
Arizona	9	187	.....
Arkansas	22	817	$25.89
California, Nevada	90	5,118	11,217.51
Colorado, Wyo'ng.	76	1,898	1,416.33
Connecticut	68	4,950	42,478.19
Delaware	22	657	31.21
Florida	26	274	98.59
Georgia	16	502	21.25
Idaho	11	570	25.00
Illinois	522	22,811	12,647.87
Indiana	358	16,615	3,776.28
Indian Territory	13	374	46.75
Iowa	351	11,529	4,069.65
Kansas	293	10,481	861.87
Kentucky	84	2,092	131.12
Louisiana & Miss.	33	1,025	63.00
Maine	154	6,996	5,231.25
Maryland	58	2,675	829.80
Massachusetts	211	19,734	136,740.64
Michigan	278	12,393	1,521.76
Minnesota	135	6,862	1,350.95
Missouri	205	8,482	10,692.37
Montana	13	348	55.72
Nebraska	159	4,424	293.81
New Hampshire	90	3,685	9,275.00
New Jersey	108	5,875	27,828.32
New Mexico	5	147	10.00
New York	639	33,619	84,852.86
North Dakota	26	567	653.18
Ohio	580	28,575	7,401.47
Oklahoma	28	1,163	151.78
Oregon	43	1,488	391.22
Pennsylvania	565	30,295	24,327.82
Potomac	18	2,808	1,820.69
Rhode Island	26	1,961	8,437.96
South Dakota	93	2,118	264.00
Tennessee	33	910	108.17
Texas	28	769	94.90
Utah	5	208	332.46
Vermont	109	1,900	2,823.28
Virginia and N. C.	45	1,051	105.65
Wash'ton, Alaska	71	2,339	.....
West Virginia	89	1,423	292.69
Wisconsin	281	10,376	616.97
Totals	6,045	278,277	$403,733.88

The report of Surgeon General William H. Baker contained a number of interesting statistics showing the rate at which the old soldiers are being gathered to the great majority of their comrades. During the past year 7,857 deaths occurred, 363 of them from wounds received while in service, and 2,269 from disease contracted in service. The equivalent of $36,199.09 was spent in medical attention and supplies for free treatment of veterans, 1,677 cases being attended.

BOER WAR NEARS END.

Both Wings of Botha's Main Position Carried by Buller's Force.

A dispatch from London says there is a very buoyant feeling in the city, the clubs and the public offices and in fact in London generally, due to the prevailing impression that the South African war is running out to its last dregs. Lord Roberts' last dispatch shows that the salient points on both wings of Gen. Botha's position have been carried in Buller's advance. The troops occupied Machadodorp, President Kruger's most recent capital, on Tuesday. The Boers evacuated this place with great precipitation, but this was probably due to knowledge of French's movements.

The British cavalry general had worked right around the north of the Boer lines and was almost opposite Buller's position and a few miles away from him at Elandsfontein. Thus, unless the Boers had decamped hastily, they would have found themselves caught between two British columns and could scarcely have saved their guns and transport.

Whether they will yet be able to accomplish their escape seems very uncertain. They were facing Buller's troops in the rocky position called Helvetia, but they cannot stay there long without being surrounded, as the English divisions come up. If their intention is to prolong resistance further, their only hope seems to be to retire to the mountainous Lydenburg region and subsequently to the northern Transvaal. There are, however, persistent reports that the capture of the Delagoa Bay Railway by Lord Roberts will be accepted by them as final proof of defeat.

Earnings of the Wisconsin Central for the second week in August were $103,404.

The Lake Chautauqua business of the Erie road is heavier this summer than for many seasons past.

Nearly all roads terminating in Kansas City are now borrowing freight cars to handle the traffic offered.

A new through sleeping car service between Chicago and Mason City, Iowa, has been inaugurated by the Northwestern line.

A clever little booklet has recently been issued by the passenger department of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois road. It is entitled "En Route to the Southland."

Eight miles of rails were laid on the Grand Trunk road on a recent Sunday without the least interruption to traffic. This is believed to be the world's record for relaying track.

Officers of the Chicago and Northwestern road are of the opinion that their roundhouse in Clinton, Iowa, is the largest in the world. It accommodates fifty locomotives at one time.

DIFFICULTIES OF A LAND JOURNEY IN CHINA.

The Overland Route Between Tien-tsin and Pekin, Over Which the Allied Army Marched.

The country between Pekin and Tien-tsin overcome by the allied forces on their advance upon the capital, is in summer time a stretch of quagmire and mud. No traveler who has made the experience of a Pekin cart will ever desire to repeat the experiment. There is no such thing as a road as we understand it. It goes anywhere and everywhere, and it is only used by the inhabitants for travel between town and town for local traffic. The waterway, by canal and river, is the usual mode of travel. The ancestral tombs are scattered all over the country, and arches erected to the memory of great men dot the landscape. All sorts of carts, beasts of burden and foot travelers are the adjuncts to the scene. Note the nearer of the two foremost figures, who is clothed in a waterproof of oiled straw. Literally he is a "thatched man."

TWO LOVERS.

Whose baby is loveliest?
Mother's own.
All round the world—north, south, east, west—
Hers alone!
For whether it be a Chinese tot,
With eyes asiant and a shaven crown,
Or a dear little girl of the Land of the Free,
Or a toddling Prince in Londontown,
Or the one rare treasure a Soudan slave
Hugs to her heart, all wee and brown—
Each in its mother's gentle pride
Is fairer than all the world beside.

Whose mother is loved the best?
Baby's own.
She whose cheek was first caressed—
She alone.
For whether she be an Eskimo,
Or colored mammy, or stately queen,
Or a wandering organ-grinder's wife,
Jingling and beating her tambourine,
In every land where children are
The baby eyes from their deep, serene
Gaze, rapture-bound by the tender grace
In the mother's bended, love-lit face.
—Woman's Home Companion.

At the Eleventh Hour.

"BUT he's so old, papa," protested Barbara Bessinger.

"A man should be several years the senior of his wife," declared Quintus Bessinger.

"And he has a glass eye!"

"One less with which to observe short-comings, my dear!"

"And has false teeth."

"So have I. Now, Barbara, be sensible, and think it over."

Barbara thought it over, and decided that if being sensible meant marrying Giles Ferguson she must persist in being foolish. The next time her father returned to the charge he put his plea on personal grounds. His pathetic representation of his position was rather effective. The improvements in his office building had cost much more than he had fancied they would. An Eastern firm, on whose leniency he had relied, were pressing him for immediate payment of a heavy account. Ferguson had practically refused him further advances because Barbara had declined to marry him. He could find better use for his money than loaning it to the man whom he was anxious to accept as a father-in-law.

"I wouldn't urge you," concluded Bessinger, "if I thought you cared for any one else. There isn't any one else—eh, Barbara?"

Barbara was eighteen. She had a round, trim young form, a brunette face full of life and sparkle, arch hazel eyes, and a lovely scarlet mouth.

"No one else, papa!" There was no doubting the frank sincerity of the reply. "Give me two weeks more to consider. Then—I'll say yes, if I can—for your sake—you poor, dear old worried thing!"

Bessinger made the most of Barbara's concession. Ferguson was profoundly gratified. His one movable eye expressed his happy anticipation.

"Tell her," said he, "that I have never married because my ideal was so lofty. Never until I met Miss Barbara did I meet any woman possessing every perfection."

"Tell her yourself," advised Quintus. "Girls don't like to be courted through their parents."

So Ferguson called every evening. His deliberate compliments and languishing glance set her wild with resentment. Two weeks! Why hadn't she said two months? Surely the hours were racing by. It seemed to her the days fairly galloped out of sight. Her father grew more haggard—more depressed. She used to catch him watching her furtively. Ferguson would stave off failure, would build up his business, would put his credit on a firm basis, if only—— He had been a good father to her. She would probably never fail in love anyway. Perhaps she ought to do as he wished—there she shuddered.

The fateful day of her decision arrived. A glorious day it was, crisp and golden, with a rollicking wind skurrying along State street and playing pranks at the corner where towers the Masonic temple. Just there it swirled a girl's skirts around her slender ankles, and—not content with this audacity—snatched off her veil and flirted it out of reach. But a tall man in a gray suit gave prompt pursuit. "O, thank you!" cried Barbara Bessinger, blushing, when he stood before her, hat in hand, returning the truant trifle. "You are very kind!"

A murmured depreciation, a longerting, eloquent look of admiration, a deep bow, and he was lost in the crowd. Barbara went home in a strange state of exhilaration. Some little ones at her gate offered her roses. She took the roses and kissed the children. She had never thought flowers and child faces so beautiful before. She found herself singing as she ran up-stairs. She was startled by the loveliness of her own reflection in the glass. Why did she feel so happy, why—Suddenly she seemed to see again the homage of those flashing blue eyes. No! She surely was not so silly as that! In delicious, girlish shame she pressed her slim fingers over her eyes to shut out those others. But they would not be barred. They gazed into her still! All at once a dreadful thought thrilled her.

To-night Giles Ferguson would come for his answer!

A sharp sense of repulsion overwhelmed her. She could not marry him! She would not. She bathed, coiled her dark hair afresh, went down to dinner in a gown of rosy lawn. At 8 o'clock the hopeful suitor made his appearance. He wore a brand-new suit, and was apparently prepared for conquest. He and Bessinger talked. At 10 Barbara was to give her final decision. She watched the clock in an agony of nervousness. Half-past 8! The hands were moving around the dial with appalling speed. Nine! She did not know the bell had rung—that a visitor was shown in. He was young, tall, good-looking. With a start she recognized the agile captor of her veil.

"The small gentleman is Mr. Ferguson," she heard the servant say.

WHITE AS A LILY, BARBARA CAME FORWARD.

The stranger walked straight up to Barbara's suitor.

"How do you do, father?" he said.

"What's that?" screamed the old man. He had turned ghastly.

"My name is Robin Ferguson. I only arrived yesterday from California. Your man told me I would find you here. My mother died three months ago. Dying, she told me the story of your desertion of her when I was a little lad. She made me promise to look you up. For her sake I've done it. I can prove all I say."

"I—I—I can't discuss the matter with you here—now!" His teeth chattered so he feared they would drop out. "Even if—if it were so—I'd not give you a cent!"

The new-comer burst out laughing. "I'll never ask you for one. My mother's brother left all his property to me, and there's a rattling lot of it, too."

"O!" gasped Ferguson, senior. This gave matters a new aspect. But—there was Barbara. The clock struck 10.

"Barbara," said Bessinger, rising, "you agreed to tell Giles Ferguson at this hour whether or not you would marry him."

White as a lily Barbara came forward. The young fellow stared in delighted surprise, as turning, he faced her.

"Never! You would not wish me now, papa, to do so. He has deceived me. At any rate, I could never love him." Then she bowed slightly and took herself and her peach-bloom gown from the room.

But soon Barbara learned how easy it was to surrender one's whole heart when the one destined lover came. Out of confidential talks grew reconciliation between father and son. The former came to the wedding.

"Lord, what an old fool I was!" he said. "Things are only as they ought to be! Bessinger and I are going into partnership. Together we'll make the business pay. And Rob, would you—have you—any objection if I were to—to kiss the bride?"

"No, indeed!" cried the groom, heartily.

"No, indeed!" echoed the bride sweetly, as she held up her glowing cheek.

Fortune in a Truck Farm.

There are over 600 acres of Philadelphia land under cultivation south of Porter street, in the district known as the Neck, and there is now living in Germantown a man who has amassed a fortune of $500,000 in raising early vegetables in that locality. His two sons are still engaged in truck farming, although they have not the same chances as their father had during the civil war, when spinach sold for $8 a barrel and onions brought $12 a barrel. The father, with his half million, has removed to a handsome country seat near Germantown, where he lives in opulence.

He was an orphan and at the age of 21, having been bound to a trucker, he went with another man to work a farm on shares. In two years he was able to take a farm of his own and success crowned his efforts. In those days the farmer took his own produce to market and sold it direct to the consumer without the aid of the commission merchant. Then, too, there was no competition from the South in the matter of early vegetables. The labor of boys could be had for $2 or $3 a week, but all this is now changed. On Porter street between Thirteenth and Sixteenth there are two large public school houses, and the boys who used to work on the farms now attend school. The farmers are consequently obliged to employ men and pay them $9 a week.—Philadelphia Record.

Fish Preserved in Ice.

State Fish and Game Commissioner Johnson is one of the oldest cowboys in the State. He is an exceptionally entertaining talker and a man who in past years has been considered modest, truthful and kind to those easily induced to believe stories concerning the beasts of the field and the fishes of the sea.

But he has apparently changed. This morning he claims to have seen a man who saw a fish frozen in the ice in the perpetual glacier on the north side of Long's Peak.

"The story is a true one," said Mr. Johnson, "for the man who told it to me is a scientist and 'one of the most prominent men in the country.' His discovery will be announced to the department at Washington and a scientific investigation may follow. He tells me the fish appears to be about eighteen feet in length, as nearly as one could estimate looking through a field glass."

"But there are no fresh-water fish of such proportions," was ventured.

"'Tisn't a fresh-water fish. It's a salt-water fish."

"But how did it get there?"

"Easily enough to a fish man. That fish has been frozen in the ice glacier there ever since the time of the flood, when all this land was inundated. That is the reason the find is an important one."—Denver Times.

Never Noticed It.

A traveller in Corsica says that although Porto Vecchio is so filthy that one would like to dip it in the Mediterranean for a thorough wash, it is wonderfully lovely at a distance. Its white granite houses with red-tiled roofs and fragments of old walls, with the blue sky above and the green knoll beneath and about, make up as alluring a southern picture as ever haunted a northerner's memory. But do the southerners appreciate it? If one may judge by comparison, apparently not. Says a writer in Travel:

They do not seem a deeply intelligent folk on this east coast. I stopped in a very hot part of the road to ask a man the name of a certain noble mountain peak inland, with veins of snow upon it.

"I do not know," said he, heavily.

"Ah, then you do not live here?"

"Yes, I am of these parts."

"But you were not brought up here?"

"Yes, I was born here."

"And you do not know the name of that very high mountain?"

"I know nothing about it."

He spoke conclusively. The most conspicuous object in his daily landscape had, in his eyes, no significance whatever.

Preferences.

Business men who are accustomed to write standing before a high desk will appreciate the following story:

Prof. Simon J. Brown, the astronomical director of the naval observatory at Washington, was standing, as usual, before his desk, when a colleague came into his office.

"Is it possible," said he, "that you work in that way? I can't stand standing."

"That's odd," replied the professor; "it's different with me. I can't stand sitting."

The difference between raising boys and raising girls is that the mother of boys doesn't stop being scared to death when they have cut their teeth.

SUPPOSE WE SMILE.

HUMOROUS PARAGRAPHS FROM THE COMIC PAPERS.

Pleasant Incidents Occurring the World Over—Sayings that Are Cheerful to Old or Young—Funny Selections that Everybody Will Enjoy.

"Don't you enjoy the gentle zephyrs and the sweet music of the season?" asked the poetic youth.

"I should say so," answered the youth who is not poetic. "I have just been downtown to buy an electric fan and a bundle of coon songs."—Washington Star.

Cause for Suspicion.

"How did you know that barber played a job on you?"

"I was next."

Boy's Excuse.

"What did Freddy say when you caught him coming out of the pantry with his hands stained red?"

"He told the truth by saying that he had jammed his fingers."—Pittsburg Evening Bulletin.

Exactly.

"Jaysmith is a sharp man," said Bloobumper.

"I should use the comparative degree instead of the positive," said Spatts.

"How's that?"

"I should call him a sharper."—Exchange.

A Family Matter Now.

"Collar buttons don't worry me any more."

"Why don't they?"

"Well, when I lose one on the floor I just steal one from my wife."—Indianapolis Press.

Contrary Insomnia.

"Doesn't your husband's insomnia get any better?"

"No; the only sleep he ever gets is when I think I hear a burglar downstairs."—Chicago Record.

Herr Boom-Boom's Way to Keep Cool.

1. "It is hot, eh? Aber mein invention vill geep me cool like soda vasser, yet!"

2. "Poom—poom—how is dot?—poom—poom—der more I yorks der cooler I gets!"—New York World.

Bored.

"I have discovered," remarked the boarder with the pink suspenders, at the evening meal, "where we can obtain cheap board."

Everybody looked up anxiously and waited for him to continue.

"Where?" eagerly asked the boarder with the green striped shirt, speaking for his fellow-sufferers.

"At a lumber yard," cruelly replied the heartless wretch.—Philadelphia Call.

At the Hop.

"You seem to be very much interested in that couple in the middle of the floor."

"Yes; you look at them and see if you can figure out which it is that can't dance."

What They Wanted.

"William, those people next door want to borrow our cow while we are away."

"Well, that's all right."

"Yes, but they want us to lend them feed for her, too."

Crowded Out.

"What are our sins of omission?"

"The sins we don't get time to commit, I suppose."

Poetry at Cape Nome.

Bimly—Nine-tenths of the crazy crowd that went to Cape Nome on a gold chase are down on the shore waiting for ships and quoting poetry.

Timly—Poetry—and in such a place?

Bimly—Yes, it goes like this, short and sweet:

Nome;
Home.

Dimes to Offset Dollars.

"I can always tell when Harry has indulged himself in an extravagant luncheon down town."

"How do you tell?"

"He always comes home and wants to treat me to a trolley ride."

Reprimanded.

"What would you do if I should kiss you?" he asked.

"Coward!" she cried scornfully.—Chicago Post.

Anticipated.

Tramp—Lady, I am a man with a history——

Mrs. Nogo—Well, I won't talk to any book agents.—Chicago News.

His Method.

"Amelia, when a letter came from you while you were away I did not read it for a day at least."

"What was that for, Edgar?"

"Don't you see? I saved one day's interest on the money you asked for."

Suburban Athletics.

"How you must enjoy getting out to your country home and casting dull care to the winds after your hard day's toil in the hot and dusty city!"

"Casting dull care to the winds! Oh, say, now, you wouldn't call it dull to chase a runaway cow three miles after dark, would you?"

Lotus-Laden Zephyrs.

Tommy the Tough—Say, pard, wat's dat smell?

Sammy the Soak—Oh, ain't dat lovely? It's de wind blowin' right from de brewery.

How It Was.

"Did he marry her for her money?"

"No, he married her money in spite of it."

Its One Blessing.

"Hot weather is a great help after all."

"What do you mean?"

"When it is hot we feel justified in putting off unpleasant work till it grows cooler."—Chicago Record.

Economy.

Billtop—You must be doing mighty well, old man, to be able to charter a yacht.

Capton—Not at all. I'm doing it to save money.

"How's that?"

"I'm going to keep my wife at sea for a whole month."—Harper's Bazar.

Easier.

"Don't you think every man is master of his own destiny?"

"Oh, I don't know; he gets out of a lot of blame by letting somebody else boss things."—Chicago Record.

Flattered Him.

"So Skinflint paid the doctor's bill without a murmur?"

"Yes. He was pleased to find somebody who placed so high a value on his life."—Life.

Barred from Summer Attire.

"Why do you always wear black? I should think you'd wear light clothes in summer."

"I can't. I write with a fountain pen."

At Variance.

"I shall not pay any further attention to these criticisms, until my accusers agree upon a charge," said Senator Sorghum.

"Haven't they done so?"

"No, sir. Some of them say I got all my money by holding lots of offices, and others say I held all my offices by having lots of money."—Washington Star.

A Bright Youngster.

"I suppose you expect him to grow up to be a bright boy?" said the friend patronizingly.

"Well," answered the young father, "I think I detect tendencies in that direction. He wants to eat the quicksilver off my pocket mirror and succeeded in making a meal off a package of stove polish."—Washington Star.

Eternal Vigilance.

"Eliza, why do you write so many letters in such hot weather?"

"Well, David, if I don't keep all our relatives posted on the awful heat here they will be landing on us to visit."—Indianapolis Journal.

Not Full.

Stories about the doings of newly appointed postmasters in the rural districts of the far West continue to accumulate. Here is one, borrowed from Harper's Bazar:

A new postoffice was established in a small village away out West, and a native of the soil was appointed postmaster. After a while complaints were made that no mail was sent out from the new office, and an inspector was sent to inquire into the matter.

He called upon the postmaster, and stating the cause of his visit, asked why no mail had been sent out. The postmaster pointed to a big and nearly empty mail-bag hanging up in a corner, and said:

"Well, ain't sent it out 'cause the bag ain't nowhere nigh full yet!"

Some wives, like watches, have pretty faces, delicate hands, and are good to look upon—but somewhat difficult to regulate.

Reform is an airship that is always on the verge of starting.

DECLINED A CROWN.

MANY HAVE DONE SO SINCE JULIUS CAESAR'S TIME.

Some of the Persons Who Have Refused to Become Kings—Throne of Greece Went Begging for Some Time—Similar Experience in Roumania.

It is no mean distinction to have refused a crown. There is probably not one man in a million who would decline a kingdom if it were offered him, in spite of the restless nights and fearful days that are commonly supposed to be the lot of a King. Even Cromwell is said to have refused the crown of England more from fear of others than from any other motive.

But there have been many men since Cromwell who have refused to wear a monarch's crown. Thirty-five years ago, when the throne of Greece was vacant, more than one great English statesman might have ruled over the destinies of that classic country, but the difficulties in the way were formidable. Mr. Gladstone's name was freely mentioned in connection with the crown of Greece, though, as Mr. Gladstone was a member of the government at the time, the proposal never took definite shape.

The late Lord Derby, however, who had strong sympathies with Greece, was offered the crown and refused it, throwing away £50,000 a year and a kingdom. It was not the first time a man had declined to sit on the throne of Greece—Prince Leopold, the father of the present King of the Belgians, having refused the crown when Greece was declared a kingdom, in 1830. Prince Leopold's reason for refusing the crown was that the boundaries of the country were insufficient, the exclusion of Crete especially influencing his decision.

One of Queen Victoria's sons, the Duke of Edinburgh, has also been offered the Grecian crown. He was appealed to in the '60s, at the time Lord Derby declined the crown, but was compelled to refuse the office, owing to the attitude of the powers, who strongly declared their opposition to Prince Alfred being crowned King of the Greeks. The throne was then offered to the present King, on whose behalf it was accepted by his father, the King of Denmark.

The crown of Austria-Hungary was refused in the middle of the century by the Archduke Franz Karl, the father of the present Emperor. King Ferdinand I. abdicated in December, 1848, the throne then descending in the ordinary course to Archduke Franz Karl. The Archduke, however, declined the crown, which he handed over to his son, who still wears it.

Another crown which has been more than once refused is the crown of Roumania. When Roumania was declared a kingdom it was settled that the throne should descend to Prince Leopold, the eldest brother of the then reigning King. The Prince, however, voluntarily yielded his rights to the crown in favor of his son, Prince Wilhelm, the renunciation being registered in the Senate in October, 1880. Prince Wilhelm remained heir apparent for eight years, but toward the end of 1888 he formally refused to accept the crown, and his brother became heir apparent, being now Prince of Roumania. The Prince has since married Princess Marie, a granddaughter of Queen Victoria.

Not many years ago a nephew of the great Napoleon died in exile, after refusing a crown. Prince Napoleon, nicknamed "Plon-Plon," son of a brother of Napoleon Bonaparte, was invited to sit on the throne of Roumania as the first King of that country, but he declined the offer, believing at the time that he might ascend the throne of France. So the bird in the hand flew away, and the bird in the bush was never caught. The man who had hoped to be crowned King of France died out of that country in solitary exile. He had sacrificed one crown in the hope of receiving another, and lost both.

Early in the present century Ferdinand VII. renounced the crown of Spain in favor of his father, who again refused it in favor of Napoleon. The great conqueror had to face a nation in arms, however, and never took the throne.

The story of Lord Beaconsfield's golden crown provides us with another instance, though there was no throne with this strange crown. The man in whose brain the idea of crowning Lord Beaconsfield originated is now dead, but as long as he lived he never recovered from the blow of Lord Beaconsfield's refusal of this tribute. Tracy Turnerelli received subscriptions from 50,000 people toward his gold laurel wreath, but in June, 1879, when he formally offered the crown to his idol, it was refused.—Philadelphia Times.

About Paderewski.

That superb pianist, Ignace Jan Paderewski, who has had the honor of playing before the Queen, owns one of the most beautiful homes in the world at Riond Bosson, on the borders of the lake of Geneva in Switzerland. As he says, it is too beautiful for work, but, none the less, it was here he composed and orchestrated the greater portion of his opera, which is to be produced at Dresden. By birth he is a Russian-Pole, having first seen the light of day at Podolia on Nov. 6, 1860. After studying at Warsaw and Berlin he became a music teacher, and in 1884 he decided on his life career as a virtuoso. He first went to London in May, 1890, when he played at St. James' Hall.

Fruit Kept from Apprentices.

In the sixteenth century there was a curious law in England, whereby street hawkers were forbidden to sell plums and apples, for the reason that servants and apprentices were unable to resist the sight of them and were, consequently, tempted to steal their employers' money in order to enjoy the costly delicacies.

Number of Persons in Schools.

The entire number of pupils in all American schools last year was 16,687,643. There are 101,058 in the universities and colleges, 54,231 in schools of law, medicine and theology, 67,588 in normal schools, 70,950 in business schools, 97,737 in kindergartens.

SERMONS OF THE WEEK

Life.—Life is a training, and it is only by looking upon it as such that we can appreciate its true value.—Rev. J. Tigert, Methodist, New Orleans, La.

Christ.—Christ has come to live in the hearts of men, and by that presence he makes them priests unto himself.—Rev. H. I. Rasmus, Methodist, Chicago, Ill.

Love.—Love is a most potent agency in destroying sin and in continuing its work until the sinner is saved.—Rev. M. Crossley, Universalist, Indianapolis, Ind.

A Beacon Light.—Our lives should shine like the beacon light to lead men about us into a higher and better living.—R. B. Gruelle, Spiritualist, Indianapolis, Ind.

Desire of Our Hearts.—Truth, purity, righteousness must become the object of our thoughts and the desire of our hearts.—Rev. F. E. Smiley, Presbyterian, Denver, Col.

Christianity.—Christianity is not material progress, not iron and steel and wood. It is made of moral forces. Christianity is Christ.—Rev. Wm. Rader, Congregationalist, San Francisco, Cal.

Tabernacle of God.—The tabernacle of God was with men, and he is to be their God and they his people. He will make all things new and dwell with them.—Rev. W. H. Phillips, Baptist, Philadelphia, Pa.

Real Heart Life.—The true life is not written with pen and ink. Real heart life is not often made known by the lips. There is no one who uncovers all of his heart to others.—Rev. E. M. Wood, Methodist, Pittsburg, Pa.

Nearer Home.—The Chinese question is not the only question. The one near home may be just as important for us, and the sin of China might be frightened at the sulphur of Coney Island.—Rev. Cortland Myers, Baptist, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Satan.—Satan's presence in the church produces a critical spirit on the part of the people. It engenders pride in the hearts of the members. It develops a spirit of skepticism in the pulpit and pew.—Rev. D. A. Blose, Congregationalist, Akron, Ohio.

Free Choice.—We know that the will is free, and it is as unnecessary to speak of the free will as of wet water, sweet sugar or sour acid. Moreover, we are conscious of free choice in all the affairs of life.—Rev. F. M. Bristol, Methodist, Washington, D. C.

Faith.—Faith discovered America, is the parent of every invention, planted Christianity in every heathen country, cheers the whole world and reaches out strong but invisible hands from the future for us to grasp and hold.—Rev. Dr. Lee, Methodist, Asbury Park, N. J.

Immortality.—You have stood beside the fading form of a loved one, sorrow has made you speechless; you question, and the stillness and silence of death mocks the inquiry; the thought comes that there is an immortal life.—Rev. Geo. P. Perry, Baptist, Troy, N. Y.

Close to Christ.—We must endure everything to be close to Christ. We must even endure him, for Christ has promised that he will be a tribulation to his dear ones. This faith, this charity and this endurance is the church.—Rev. P. C. Yorke, R. C., San Francisco, Cal.

Repudiated Responsibility.—In the multiform associations of men there are frequent exhibitions of repudiated responsibility. If asked about their brother's welfare, they curtly reply, "Am I my brother's keeper?"—Rev. Geo. Adams, Methodist, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Brotherhood.—No man can use the evasive answer of Cain without depriving himself of doing much good. Charitable institutions and all forms of Christian philanthropy are the expressions of acknowledged brotherhood.—Rev. Geo. Adams, Methodist, Brooklyn, N. Y.

An Unseen Spirit.—What are these exterior forms compared with the unseen forces upon which they depend for existence? All the laws and manifestations of nature and life are upheld by an unseen spirit to which we give reverence.—Rev. Chas. A. Shatto, Boston, Mass.

Existence.—The life that is beyond is one and the same life that is here. There are not two lives, a present and a future; there are not two worlds, seen and unseen; there are not two states, a here and a hereafter—there is one life, one world, one state.—Rev. Dr. Newton, Episcopalian, New York City.

Having a Pull.—Securing a position and achieving success in life does not depend upon having a pull, but upon one's being thoroughly equipped for the position which he seeks or fills, which carries with it technical knowledge, tact, push and gumption.—Rev. Dr. Vosburgh, Baptist, Denver, Col.

The Ultimate Reverence.—The ultimate reverence is the reverence for your fellowman; the ultimate relation is that which binds you to your fellows, and the saving and final grace that comes to the religious soul is that which gives him a love for humanity.—Rev. J. L. Jones, Independent, Chicago, Ill.

The Jewish Household.—In the Jewish household was the mainspring, the pure fountain of love and virtue. In fact, each Jewish household was a temple and each father and mother the priest, the teacher of piety, preacher and practicer of religion and humanity.—Rev. Dr. Schneeberger, Hebrew, Baltimore, Md.

Chinese by Telegraph.

The curious part of the Chinese telegraph system is the fact that even in the interior, where there are no foreigners, all the telegraph blanks are printed in English. The Chinese language being idiographic, having a character for each word, it is impossible to transmit it by the ordinary Morse signals. It is, therefore, necessary to telegraph either in a foreign language or by using Arabic numerals. By the latter method a Chinese dictionary is taken and a number given to each word at all likely to be used in a telegraph dispatch.

AUBURN WEEKLY COURIER.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, postoffice as second-class matter.

THURSDAY....SEPTEMBER 6, 1900.

To Democratic Clubs.

TO THE DEMOCRACY OF DEKALB COUNTY:

Having been appointed by the executive committee, chairman of the democratic clubs to be organized in DeKalb county, and believing as I do, in organization as the embodiment of strength, I have adopted a plan by and through which I hope to perfect the best organization of democratic clubs ever attained in the county or state. I will give to the largest marching club organized in the county, a handsome flag with pole and equipments complete, the value of which will not be less than $50 to be contributed from my own funds. The flag will be awarded at a meeting in Auburn about the middle of October upon the following conditions or points:

FIRST. To the township having the largest number of members in line of march on said day according to the vote cast for W. J. Bryan in 1896.

SECOND. Conduct of members on day of competition.

Each member must wear a badge indicating the club to which he belongs.

Seven judges will be selected to award the flag, one from each of the following towns: Auburn, Garrett, Butler, Waterloo, Ashley, Corunna and St. Joe. This flag can only be held for a period of two years, when it again must be put up for competition. All organizations are requested to be completed at once and report the names of the president and secretary to me.

DR. W. H. NUSBAUM,
Chairman of Club Organization.

In connection with the above statement, I desire to say that I have assurances from the state organization that we will be furnished with two speakers of national reputation for the above event to be taken from the following list:

W. J. Bryan, Adlai E. Stevenson, Henry M. Teller, Charles A. Towne, Webster Davis, David B. Hill, Benjamin F. Shively, John W. Kern and others. I will also furnish speakers to townships to deliver addresses at times when clubs are organized, upon application.

CHARLES M. BROWN,
Chairman of Speaking.

I indorse all of the above and I earnestly ask the co-operation of all who are interested in the election of W. J. Bryan, and all liberty loving people.

CYRUS C. WALTER,
County Chairman.

Hon. James M. Robinson.

If ever a man served the people, the common people well and faithfully it is Hon. James M. Robinson, our present popular congressman. From the day of his election the first time he has set his heart and given his time and energies to the task of doing the things that only a congressman can do, and which the greater number of them never try to do. When kept down and back by an adverse majority in Congress he was not discouraged but labored all the more outside of the sessions to serve his friends. He has been particularly fortunate for a member of the minority in obtaining favors. He has been especially fortunate in regard to his efforts for worthy veterans, and his success is due largely to his persistent efforts. He has spared neither strength, time, nor even money to get for them what he believes is their due from a country both able to pay and grateful enough to be willing. If any man, of any party can give a good reason why a new congressman should be given Mr. Robinson's place, we would like to hear it.

Millions Given Away.

It is certainly gratifying to the public to know of one concern in the land who are not afraid to be generous to the needy and suffering. The proprietors of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, have given away over ten million trial bottles of this great medicine; and have the satisfaction of knowing it has absolutely cured thousands of hopeless cases. Asthma, Bronchitis, Hoarseness and all diseases of the Throat, Chest and Lungs are surely cured by it. Call on H. B. McCord, druggist, and get a free trial bottle. Regular size 50c and $1. Every bottle guaranteed or price refunded.

Democratic Caucus.

The democrats of Union township will meet in caucus at the democratic headquarters in Auburn on Saturday, September 15, 1900, at 2 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of nominating candidates for trustee, assessor, one justice of the peace, two constables, three members of the township advisory board, and supervisors, to be voted for at the coming general election, November 6.—MILES BAXTER, Chairman.

Attention Farmers.

The Auburn Handle Factory will pay the highest cash price for ash handle block delivered at their factory on the Lake Shore tracks, cut 58 inches long. Also want ash logs cut 9½, 14½ and 19½ feet long. All timber to be smooth and sound. Will also take beswood cut 4 feet long and 8 inches in diameter and up, left round with bark on. Will pay $3 per cord.—J. M. CHENEY & CO.

BRYAN AT FORT WAYNE.

The Democratic Leader to be in Fort Wayne Sept. 13.

Col. W. J. Bryan, democratic candidate for the presidency, will be the guest of Fort Wayne Thursday, Sept. 13. Colonel Bryan goes to Fort Wayne as the guest of the city and the Union Veteran Legion, which organization holds its sixteenth national encampment there Sept. 11th to 14th. At the same time the members of One Hundred and Fifty-Seventh regiment and the Twenty-eighth battery, Indiana volunteers in the Spanish war will hold their annual reunions.

There will be a great military and civic parade on that day and it will be reviewed by Colonel Bryan, who will also deliver an address.

As this is likely to be Colonel Bryan's only visit to northern Indiana during the present campaign it will be an opportunity everybody will wish to embrace to see the democratic leader.

There are low excursion rates offered on all railroads during the duration of the encampment.

Political Notes.

R. M. Lockhart ought to see the court house lawn now. It never looked so beautiful. At the republican county convention he made that freshly leveled, bare lawn his chief political plank. But he leaned on a broken reed, and the commissioners have proved, as in all other cases, that they were practical business men and knew what they were doing.

The present board of commissioners found the county burdened by a heavy debt that had hung over the taxpayers' heads for many years. They put their shoulders to it, and the burden is rolled away. Buy a county order now if you can. That will settle all doubts as to a county debt. The voters of this county are not to be fooled into kicking out men who have served them so well, and take unexperienced and untried men in their places. A new man may prove incompetent. The old board is known to be capable.

Phelps-Kruse.

Mr. Emmett Phelps of Hillsdale, Michigan and Miss Hannah Kruse of this city were united in marriage at the home of the bride's brother, Mr. and Mr. Henry Kruse, at high noon Sunday, Sept. 2, by Rev. G. M. Hirsh. Those present were Mr. Will Kruse who acted as best man, Miss Anna Miller who acted as bride's maid, both of this city; Miss Tillie Grosh of Fort Wayne, Mr. David Hesher of Bluffton. After which we partook of a fine dinner. Mr. and Mrs. Phelps leave Monday on the 12:20 train for Angola where they will spend a few days with relatives, from there they go to Hillsdale to spend some time with Mr. Phelps' parents. The many friends of the young couple wish them a long and happy life.

A Birthday Party.

On Tuesday, Sept. 4, relatives, neighbors and friends to the number of forty or more met at the home of James McDannel to commemorate the 72nd birthday of his wife.

She received many a kindly grasp of the hand and expression of affection, as earnest as well deserved. Under a canvas awning before a long table filled with rich food supplied by relatives, the visitors as from time immemorial celebrated the occasion in a feast supplemented by red-cored melons in plenty.

A brief program conducted by Rev. W. L. Meese followed. There was singing, recitations by young people, a presentation by W. H. McIntosh in behalf of the donors, of a nice rocker, and other presents, and responses by Rev. Meese and Mrs. Celestine Rose.

The assembly was in part a mere family reunion and was a fit recognition, of rightful esteem for Mr. and Mrs. McDannel who have been married fifty-one years and who since 1854 have been numbered among the best settlers of Wilmington township.

The following are the names of those present:—Mrs. and Miss Goldsmith, Mr. and Mrs. I. B. Bowen and daughter, Lulu, Mrs. Rose and Miss Shaw, Mr. and Mrs. Pomeroy, Mr. and Mrs. Koch and daughter, Edna, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Moore, son and daughter, Mrs. Florence Colgrove, Mrs. Emma Welch, Mr. and Mrs. Platner and two daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Meese and grandson, Mr. and Mrs. Magginis, two daughters and son, James Coleman, Blanche and Verdi Barnhart, Mr. and Mrs. F. Cosper and two sons, Mr. and Mrs. J. McDannel and daughter; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. McIntosh, Rev. Meese.

Cuts and Bruises Quickly Healed.

Chamberlain's Pain Balm applied to a cut, bruise, burns, scald or like injury will instantly allay the pain and will heal the parts in less time than any other treatment. Unless the injury is very severe it will not leave a scar. Pain Balm also cures rheumatism, sprains, swellings and lameness. For sale by H. B. McCord.

Working Night and Day

The busiest and mightiest little thing that ever was made is Dr. King's New Life Pills. Every pill is a sugar-coated globule of health, that changes weakness into strength, listlessness into energy, brain-fag into mental power. They're wonderful in building up the health. Only 25c per box. Sold by H. B. McCord's druggists.

County Candidates.

E. R. Shoemaker and Allen Shultz, now serving to the satisfaction of the people are candidates for re-election. They deserve increased majority.

Dr. Hines the present treasurer is as good a treasurer as the county ever had and no one has ever been able to urge a word against him. The office is important. Keep good men there if you want to avoid trouble. Make Mr. Hines' majority 800.

John H. Hathaway has made a grand record as sheriff. He has done his duty without fear or favor, calmly and with judgment. The people had faith in him before he was elected and gave him a tremendus majority. Their faith was built largely on the good opinion the COURIER had of him and we feel proud to say our opinion was right. The people realize we have a real sheriff, a real peace officer, and the criminals also realize it. Give him as nearly his old majority as possible.

C. P. Hamman for surveyor, just fills the bill for that office. He is a young man of education and ability and the people will not regret the big vote we feel sure they will give him.

Charles Comeskey for coroner is one of the pioneers of the county and a big hearted man, who has put in many of the best years of his life in helping to make DeKalb what all agree it is, the garden of the state. The people will show their appreciation of such a man.

About the Court House.

The county commissioners met in regular monthly session Monday and most of the time since has been devoted to the examination and allowance of claims.

Today several ditch matters came up for consideration. The first was the Haverstock ditch in Franklin township, in which a remonstrance had been filed against the report of the viewers. The remonstrance was granted and the following gentlemen appointed as reviewers: B. F. Cornelius; Gus Helmuth and Frank Teeters.

The following marriage licenses have been issued since our last report; Jacob Prosler and Harriet A. Shreves; Michael Schlosser and Jennie Pefferhorn; Karl D. Peterson and Catherine Marie Loomis; Claude J. Coombs and Rossie M. King; LeRoy White and Mary E. Bradfield; Frank Reesch and Anna Masters; John W. Thomas and Bertha Lahnum; Emmet Phelps and Hannah Kruse; Charles W. Seibold and Myra L. VanAuken.

Brave Men Fall

Victims to stomach, liver and kidney troubles as well as women, and all feel the results in loss of appetite, poisons in the blood, backache, nervousness, headache and tired, listless, run-down feeling. But there's no need to feel like that. Listen to J. W. Gardner, Idaville, Ind. He says: "Electric Bitters are just the thing for a man when he is all run down, and don't care whether he lives or dies. It did more to give me new strength and good appetite than anything I could take. I can now eat anything and have a new lease on life." Only 50 cents at H. B. McCord's drug store. Every bottle guaranteed.

Smithfield Township Caucus.

The democrats of Smithfield township are requested to meet at the Center school house, Saturday, Sept. 8, 1900, at 1 p. m., for the purpose of nominating candidates for the following offices:

One trustee, two constables, two justices of the peace, one assessor, four supervisors and three members of the advisory board.

JOHN HOFFELDER }
D. E. GONSER } Com.

Red Hot From The Gun

Was the ball that hit G. B. Steadman of Newark, Mich., in the Civil War. It caused horrible Ulcers that no treatment helped for 20 years. Then Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured him. Cures Cuts, Bruises, Burns, Boils, Felons, Corns, Skin Eruptions. Best Pile cure on earth. 25 cents a box. Cure guaranteed. Sold by H. B. McCord, druggist.

Trading Stamps.

Many false rumors are afloat concerning our giving away premiums by the use of trading stamps. Some are circulating that we no longer give them to our customers. Such is not a fact, however, for we have not stopped giving them and will continue so to do until we advertise thoroughly a discontinuance of the stamp business. No extra charge on goods no matter what the price. Stamps given and competition always met. Largest line of fine shoes in Auburn—Wilson, Shoeman.

How Bright's Disease Starts.

Indigestion, biliousness, blood poison with urea and uric acid (which should have been excreted by the kidneys), rheumatic pains in nerves and joints, causing irritation of the kidneys, then pains over the small of the back, mark sure approach of Bright's disease. Do not delay taking Foley's Kidney Cure, for it makes the kidneys right. Take no substitute. H. B. McCord.

A Great Blood Renewer.

Windsor, Ont., Jan. 4, 1900.

Dr. C. D. Warner. Dear Sir:—Having used your Compound of Seven Cures in my family, will say it has no equal; as a blood purifier and for building up the system it is unsurpassed.—Yours respectfully, Mrs. M. Short. For sale by F. E. Davenport.

Michigan Letter.

KENDALL, MICH., Aug. 25, 1900.

DEAR COURIER:—In my items last week I left the readers at a point near Nashville, Mich., where we remained over Sunday. On Monday we visited about that place, witnessed a small Michigan hurricane. On Tuesday morning we started for the point at which I now write, and taking a course as near west as we could, we passed over some as fine a country as one often sees, and over some of the roughest of high, sandy hills. Deep valleys succeeded one another, until one tires of them. We crossed one very large swamp, on what seemed to be a natural bridge, a hard clay bank very narrow and about ten feet higher than the swamp level, quite a distance was spanned by a floating bridge. This led us into the new town of Delton. After about seven hours ride we reached Plainwell, a nice little town on the Kalamazoo river. We approached this place over very nice graveled roads. From Plainwell to Kendall the roads are level and good, except the big swamp and one very much out-grown hill.

After a visit of one day we again continued our trip, going northwest to Glenn, in Allegan county, distant from Kendall about forty miles. This stretch of country is also almost level but extremely hard to travel when dry. Heavy and frequent rains made the roads unusually good, and what had been heretofore a hard day's drive, we covered in about half a day. This took us into the heart of the peach belt, and peach orchards were plenty on every side. The clusters of red, ripening fruit among the green foliage is a natural picture of unsurpassed beauty. Peaches are going to market by the boat load. The extremely hot weather and unusual humidity has caused them to rot on the trees rapidly, and unless a change comes soon the crop will be materially shortened. While here I witnessed a thunderstorm on Lake Michigan. The strange feature of it was the deep, detonating sound of the thunder on the water.

The rush of "Resorters" to their shore this year exceeds all former seasons. Every place is full, and scores of black-tanned women and children are seen in every nook.

In my last letter I gave the population of Battle Creek at 30,000 to 40,000; I should have said from 10,000 to 15,000. The weather has been extremely warm since we have been out, and for the past week unusually wet. The result is not only a loss of peaches, but almost a total loss of the plum crop.

We started home on Monday and had a pleasant home journey, passing Kalamazoo, Vicksburg, Mendon, Colon, Sturgis and other smaller towns and all in all had a very pleasant trip.

CASTORIA.
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

Utah Items.

—Mrs. Lee Goetschins is an enthusiastic advocate of woman sufferage. Having resided several years in Utah where they have female suffrage she has had experience to enable her to give an opinion. She says she votes regularly, and is also an officer, being the registrar for her precinct. This office makes her a member of the election board, and she does her full part with the rest of the board. She is not alone, even there, for another lady is a clerk on the board. She likes her duties and is going home soon to be there to assist in registering the voters. They have the Australian ballot law there, as we have, but also a registration law. Each voter must be registered, and in case of moving from one place or precinct to another he or she must get a transfer from the old location to the new. Mrs Goetschinus is an uncompromising republican, and has never divided her vote, though she says if Lee gets the nomination for the legislature he is now seeking she has promised to vote for him. Lee says he is inclined not to believe her, but she insists she will keep her word. He is an unswerving democrat, but she says they never quarrel. She has a fund of valuable information in regard to the past and present of Utah, and it is a pleasure to hear her explain many things about which people know so little.

A Great Discovery for Cancer.

Windsor, Ont., Jan., 24, 1900.

Dr. C. D. Warner. Dear Sir:—I have used your Compound of Seven Cures, the great cancer cure and blood purifier with excellent results. I do not hesitate to recommend it for the purposes for which it is used. Its effects are in a short time so manifest that it cannot fail to give the best of satisfaction.—Jas. Cummings. For Sale by F. E. Davenport.

Low Rate Excursion.

On Sunday, Sept. 16 the B. & O. will sell excursion tickets to Chicago, Ill. at rate of $1.25 for the round trip, account Order of Railway Conductors' Excursion. Special train leaves Auburn Junction at 5:25 a. m. Tickets good for return on special train leaving Chicago at 8:00 p. m., Sept. 16th; also a special train leaving Chicago at 8:00 p. m., Monday Sept. 17, 1900.

Ice Cream Festival.

There will be an ice cream festival at the Brethren church at Auburn Junction on the evening of September 8. Ice cream at 5 cents or 10 cents a dish. A cordial invitation is extended to all. M. L. HOFFMAN.

IT STANDS TO REASON

No. 698.—Cut under surrey; has long distance axles, brass bushed rubber head springs, broad cloth trimmings, lamps, curtains, sun-shade, pole or shafts; same as retails for $50 to $75 more than our price. Our price, $110.

that there is money saved in buying direct from the Manufacturer

The profits between the manufacturer and consumer are large.

We Save You these Profits

No. 31.—Pneumatic Wagon with No. 1 two inch Pneumatic Tires; 34 and 36-in. wheels, full ball-bearing axles, Bailey body loops and shaft couplers, fine Whipcord trimmings and high grade finish; is as fine as retails for $75 more than our price. Our price, complete with high bend shafts, $118

We are the largest manufacturers of Vehicles and Harness in the world selling to the consumer exclusively. For 27 years we have conducted business on this plan. We give you better quality for the same money, or the same quality for less money than the dealer, jobber or supply agent.

No. 707.—Extension Top Surrey with double fenders, lamps, curtains, storm apron, pole or shafts; is as fine as retails for $50 more than our price. Our price, $80.

We Ship Anywhere For Examination.

We make 178 styles of vehicles and 65 styles of harness.

This advertisement will appear only a few times—you may be reading the last insertion.

Our Large Catalogue

shows every Vehicle and Harness we make and gives prices.

IT'S FREE.

No. 591.—Fancy Buggy with figured plush trimmings. Is complete in every way and as fine as retails for $35 more than our price. Our price, with shafts, $55.

Elkhart Carriage and Harness Manufacturing Co.
ELKHART, INDIANA.

No More Dyspepsia.

Nine-tenths of All Cases Can Be Relieved in a Week.

Anything that Dr. Sylvester Stone about the stomach troubles has the weight of authority, because no other specialist has had so great success in curing them. Dr. Stone's claim that most cases can be cured in a week, deserves attention, for you can easily test the matter for yourself. This specialist's experience, covering a third of a century of practice, has enabled him to devise two simple remedies that will always completely cure when used faithfully. These two prescriptions are put up in one package under the name of Dr. Stone's New Dyspepsia Cure. You are asked to test them with the distinct understanding that if the remedy fails, your druggist will refund the money. What can any sufferer from stomach troubles say to a proposition like that? Price 50 cents. Sold and guaranteed by H. B. McCord.

—One lone mosquito, flying about alone in a dark bed room at night and crooning its favorite air over its prospective prey, can cause a man more anguish of soul than could be crowded into his life in the same length of time by any other engine of misery in existence.

One-half the News

Comes from our neighbors. A neighbor of Joe Crook's of Bridgton, Ind., told him of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. He is cured of a case of indigestion that kept him down 12 years. Mr. Crook wishes us to refer anyone to him who doubts the wonderful cure he found in Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which has gained an honorable foothold as a true remedy for constipation, indigestion, sick headache and stomach trouble. H. B. McCord.

—An observing exchange has discovered that a man cannot do two things at a time, but a woman will broil a steak, and see that the coffee does not boil, and watch that the cat does not steal the remnant of meat off the kitchen table, and dress the youngest boy, and see to the toast, stir the oatmeal and give orders to the butcher, and she can do it all at once and not half try.

When Your Heart Flutters.

That is not heart disease. That is no terrible heart failure; that is indigestion, the prime cause of all short breath and sudden jumping of the heart which so frequently follows an exertion of any kind. Go to the drug store. Get a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. No more need be said for after you use it once, you will never fail to keep it in the house. H. B. McCord.

—A lawyer of Arcadia, Ind., is preparing a bill, which will be introduced at the next session of the legislature, providing for the establishment of the whipping post in Indiana. The offences for which this drastic punishment is to be administered are: Habitual drunkenness, abuse of family, profanity or vulgarity in the presence of women, disturbing public meetings and insulting in the streets or other public places.

Quickly Done.

NASHVILLE, TENN., June 1, 1900.
BARNES BOTANIC DRUG CO.,
TULLAHOMA, TENN.

GENTLEMEN:—I was taken with a severe pain in my back and to my best knowledge it was caused by my kidneys. I tried local applications to my back without relief. One bottle of your Barnes Kidney & Bladder Cure gave me relief. Very respectfully,

M. W. ELLIS.

—Democratic women of Tipton opened the campaign. Speeches were made by Miss Margaret Ingles, Kentucky, and Mrs. Helen Gougar, Lafayette.

Application for License.

Notice is hereby given to the citizens of the City of Auburn in Union township, DeKalb county, Indiana, that the undersigned, a male inhabitant of the said city of Auburn, being over the age of twenty-one years, will make an application to the board of commissioners of said county at their next regular session in October, 1900, for a license to sell spirituous, vinous and malt liquors in quantities less than a quart at a time, with privilege of allowing the same to be drank on the premises where sold; the same to be sold in the front room of the ground floor of the one-story frame building situated as follows: Commencing twelve (12) feet east of the southwest corner of lot number sixty-five (65), original plat of the city of Auburn, Indiana; thence east twenty-two (22) feet; thence north fifty-six [56] feet; thence west twenty-two [22] feet; thence south fifty-six [56] feet to the place of beginning, said room being nineteen [19] feet wide east and west by thirty [30] feet long north and south and fronting on Eighth street in the Second Ward of said city.

I also desire to sell lunch in the same room.

WILLIAM E. RYAN.

Executors Sale.

Notice is hereby given that pursuant to the provisions contained in the will of Amy E. Kelley, deceased, in that behalf enabling, I, Freeman Kelley, executor of said will, will, on the real estate to be sold, on Saturday, the 6th day of October, 1900, at the hour of two o'clock in the afternoon of said day, proceed to sell at public sale, the following described real estate, situated in DeKalb County, State of Indiana, to-wit: Lot numbered eighty-five [85] in the original plat of the City of Auburn, in said county; also lot numbered one hundred forty-eight [148] in the original plat of said city. Said real estate will be sold at not less than two-thirds of the appraised value thereof, and in all things subject to the approval of the DeKalb Circuit Court, and upon the following terms, to-wit: One-third of the purchase money cash in hand at the date of sale; one-third on or before twelve months, and one-third on or before eighteen months after date, with the privilege to the purchaser to pay more than one-third cash at his option, the deferred payments to be evidenced by the purchaser's notes bearing six per cent interest from date, waiving relief from valuation laws, and secured by a mortgage on the real estate sold.

FREEMAN KELLEY,
Executor.

August 21, 1900.

HERE is a medical lecture in a nutshell. The Kidneys drain water and impurities from the blood. The Liver makes bile and helps to drive off other waste. If these organs work badly the body becomes a cesspool and disease sets in. You must get them into healthy action or die.

Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver & Kidney Balm

is an old and unsurpassed remedy for Backache, Debility, Sleeplessness, Lost Appetite, Foul Tongue, Palpitations and all other symptoms of disease in those organs. It cures as well as prevents every serious trouble in Kidney, Liver or Bladder. At druggists, $1.00 per bottle.

THE DR. J. H. McLEAN MEDICINE CO. ST. LOUIS, MO.

For sale by F. E. Davenport.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy a Great Favorite.

The soothing and healing properties of this remedy, its pleasant taste and prompt and permanent cures have made it a great favorite with people everywhere. It is especially prized by mothers of children for colds, croup and whooping cough, as it always affords quick relief, and as it contains no opium or other harmful drug, it may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. For Sale by H. B. McCord.

Stop a Minute,

And consider if the pills (no matter what kind) you have taken for your constipation have really done you any good. Are you not more and more liable to this trouble? Try Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin if you want sure relief, 10 doses 10 cents, also in 50c and $1.00 sizes at H. B. McCord's.

Some Points About the—Piano are exactly similar to those in hundreds of other pianos but there are some which are distinctly their own.

There is no piano sold at the same price in which the mechanical construction is so strong, durable and perfect.

And the tone, range and volume are not one bit inferior to that in instruments costing double that money. The KRANICH & BOCH and FISHER pianos are remarkable instruments, sold at a remarkable price.

FOR SALE BY

F. V. CUTLER,
AUBURN, INDIANA.

Also up-to-date Funeral Directors and Embalmers.

Up-To-Date

Hand Made
Buggy
Surrey or Heavy
Harness

Lap Dusters!
Neat Patterns in all grades from the Cheapest to the Best.

Fly Nets!
Cotton and Leather Fly Nets, Stable Sheets and Covers at Bottom Prices.

Don't forget that we have Garden, Field and Lawn Grass Seed in bulk at very low prices.

Eberle & Freygang
Auburn, Ind.

William's Kidney Pills
Has no equal in diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs. Have you neglected your Kidneys? Have you overworked your nervous system and caused trouble with your Kidneys and Bladder? Have you pains in the loins, side, back, groins and bladder? Have you a flabby appearance of the face, especially under the eyes? Too frequent desire pass urine? William's Kidney Pills will impart new life to the diseased organs, tone up the system and make a new man of you. By mail 50 cents per box.
WILLIAMS MFG. CO., Props., Cleveland, O.

Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court, of the State of Indiana, executor of the will of Amy A. Kelley, deceased, late of said County.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

FREEMAN KELLEY,
Executor.

Aug. 30, 1900.

NOW READY.

Our Fall stock of

DRY GOODS,
CLOTHING,
LADIES' WRAPS,
AND CARPETS

is now complete. Never before have we shown so large a variety. Ask for what you will and ninety-nine chances out of a hundred we will have it for you. All this immense stock bought on the guarantee. Bought to protect you in every sense of the word. We guarantee satisfactory wear and lowest prices as well. We buy the new styles here as soon as they are shown in the larger cities. Doesn't this make our store an ideal store in which to trade? The fine increase in business we are getting goes to prove that it is.

We wish to see you often during the coming season and will do everything in our power to make your visits a pleasure to you whether you purchase or not.

We are Saving You Money.

Schaab & Bro.

Auburn, Indiana.

Superior Disc Drill

When buying a Drill why not buy the best. THE SUPERIOR SINGLE DISC DRILL will do more work and do it better with less labor than any other grain drill yet offered the farmer. It will work in all kinds of ground no matter how trashy or hard. Try one of them and be convinced. Sold by

CULBERTSON & BOLAND,

Auburn, Ind.

Only too glad to show you the line.

xxxx

A large line of

Bicycle Sundries

Always carried in stock at Low Prices.

xxxx

Bicycle repairing promptly attended to.

xxxx

M. B. WILLIS. Jr.,
"The Rambler Man"
Huelsenbeck Building.

Jewelry
..and..
Watches.

Our fall stock is coming in —all new and up-to-date.

D. A. Hodge, The Jeweler.

Monday's Daily.

—Fine line of cream candies at Had'n

—L. J. Marvin was here from Edon over Sunday.

—Always good, but better than ever this year, the Kendallville fair.

—There is nothing new under the sun except Mrs. Austin's new dress.

—The Williams county fair is held at Montpelier Sept. 11 to 14. Reduced rates on all railroads.

—Mrs. Joseph Brown died at her home in Waterloo. She had been a sufferer for some time.

—The Askew property north of Lutheran church for sale at a bargain. For particulars address Phil Plum, Waterloo, Ind. tf

—The cider mill in Stamets addition, Auburn, is now running every day in the week except Saturdays. Bring on your apples. J. E. Baker. 37

—Tanks! tanks!! tanks!!! Hand made and made on honor, the best that are made. Call at Grogg's, just east of the J. L. Davis residence, Auburn. s3

—Allen Halverson of West Prairie, Wis., says: "People come ten miles to buy Foley's Kidney Cure," while J. A. Spero of Helmer, Ind., says: "It is the medical wonder of the age." H. B. McCord.

—Don't forget if you use Putnam Fadeless Dyes you don't have to send for a package for wool and one for cotton. Each package colors all fibers. F. E. Davenport. 37

—The entire democratic state ticket in Arkansas was elected yesterday by about 60,000 majority. Remmel, the republican candidate for governor, was formerly a resident of Fort Wayne.

—Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Rowland and son Alfred went to Huntertown yesterday to attend the funeral of Mrs. Rowland's uncle, Nathaniel Fitzsimmons, whose death occurred suddenly last Friday.

—A. B. Wildeson, trackmaster of the C., H. & D. railroad at Chillicothe, O., and Frank Wildeson of Idaho are visiting Charles Rugman and family and other relatives and friends of DeKalb county.

—When you want a pleasant physic try the new remedy, Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. They are easy to take and pleasant in effect Price, 25 cents.—Samples free at H. B. McCord's drug store.

—MARRIED:—At the residence of the bride's parents and by her father, Rev. W. O. Butler Aug. 30th, 1900, Mr. Louis G. Barbeau of Tiffin, O., to Mary Emily Butler of Waterloo, Ind. They left on Sept. 1 for their future home in Tiffin, O.

—Mrs. Carrie Kelley Shull, moves this week to the home of Geo. Deitrick in Smithfield, where her mother, Mrs. Amy Kelley had arranged for a home for her. It will be a pleasant home for her, Mr. Deitrick being a member of the family by adoption, and a good, reliable man.

—Have you a sense of fulness in the region of your stomach after eating? If so you will be benefited by using Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. They also cure belching and sour stomach. They regulate the bowels too. Price, 25 cents.—Sold by H. B. McCord.

—Marriek at the bride's parents', last evening at 9 o'clock in East Auburn, by Rev. J. D. Brosy, Frank Reesch and Anna E. Masters. Both are Auburn young people, and may their future life be happy and successful. They will not commence house keeping until this fall. We extend them our best wishes.

—Mrs. Sarah Smith and daughter Ida of this city, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mortorff of Jackson township, have returned from Ashland county, Ohio, where they attended a reunion of the Fetterhoff family. There were twenty-three visitors in all from DeKalb and Steuben, and one from Dover, Mich., and all had a most enjoyable trip. The reunion was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Smith, and was attended by over one hundred relatives.

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling all about it, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper.

Home of Swamp-Root.

E. W. Grove

This signature is on every box of the genuine Laxative Bromo-Quinine Tablets the remedy that cures a cold in one day

Tuesday's Daily.

—Homemade candies will soon be the go at Had'n.

—Great in every way this year—the Kendallville fair.

—F. L. Welsheimer was at Hudson yesterday on legal business.

—There is nothing new under the sun except Mrs. Austin's new dress.

—One good second hand phaeton for sale cheap.—Culbertson & Boland.

—Mrs. Harter is giving her house a coat of white paint. It looks fine.

—FOR SALE.—Good coal stove. Inquire of Mrs. Mary Nagle, Van Buren street.

—The Ladies Reading Club will meet Mrs. G. H. Yeebern Wednesday afternoon.

—It's no joke but a fact that if you once try Had's salted peanuts you will want more.

—Sol. Barney of St. Joe is here filling his duties as a member of the county council.

—Oscar Hoffman, south of Bachtel's Mill, will grind all kinds of house cutlery, plow points, etc. in good style. Try him. tf

—Mr. and Mrs. Samuel H. Likens of Bassett, Neb., are spending a week or two with old friends and neighbors in this vicinity.

—The Sedan Sunday school invites all other schools to unite with them to celebrate a harvest feast at Sedan park next Sunday afternoon, Sept. 9.

—We have about fifty gallons of Harrison's "Town and Country" paint which we will close out at $1.25 per gallon, spot cash.—J. BEURET. s5

—The world famous spectacle, the Passion Play of Oberammergall, will be given in the form of moving pictures at the M. E. church Friday evening.

—All persons indebted to the Pioneer Hardware company are requested to call at as early a date as possible, as it is desired to close up the books. 6dw1

—W. H. Rakestraw, Justin Girardot and Will Eckhart were among those who took in the excursion to Petoskey this morning over the Grand Rapids road.

—Mr. John Keeran and family wish to thank their friends and neighbors for the kind assistance rendered after the death at the and burial of their mother.

—The county council is in session today, considering the business of the county. They are Sol. Barney, O. H. Taylor, B. F. Cornelius, Albert Robbins, G I Palterson and John Mager. Mr. Geddes is not present.

—The democrats of Troy township nominated the following ticket at their convention August 25: Trustee, Chas. Adams; assessor, Solomon Alwood; advisory board, Jacob Swinehart, Frank Gunsenhouser and Jacob Bruner; Supervisors, Robert R. Swinehart and George Jennings.

—In compliance with the Mayor's proclamation Labor day was observed by the closing of the factories and the employes enjoyed themselves in various ways. A game of ball between the Kibs and a team from the Eckhart and Zimmerman factories, which was won by the Kibs by a score of 18 to 11.

—Divine Healing Mission of the Christian Catholic church, of which Rev. John Alex Dowie is general overseer. Salvation, Healing, Holy Singing. Services will be held in the G. A. R. hall, Auburn, at 2:30 p. m., Sunday September 9, Preaching by Rev. D. S. Fletcher, elder in charge for Northeastern Indiana. All are cordially invited.

Half the World is in Darkness.

as to the cause of their ill health. If they would start to treat their kidneys with Foley's Kidney Cure, the weariness of body and mind, backache, headache and rheumatic pains would disappear. H. B. McCord.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Hannah E. Brown was born Jan. 12, 1844, died Sept. 1, 1900, aged 56 years, 7 months and 19 days.

She was a native of Union township DeKalb county, Ind., and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Thomas. She was one of a family of eight children, her parents and two sisters having passed on before. A brother, John Thomas, and Mrs. Jane Blodgett, Mrs. Matilda C. Houser, Mrs. Cynthia M. Winslow and Mrs. Sarah E. Dunn, sisters still survive. She grew to womanhood in her parental home, and on April 15, 1867, was married to Joseph Brown, who with their children, Emmet, Burt and Mrs. Mary H. Baker, survive to mourn a patient, faithful wife and tireless devoted mother. She was converted to the christian faith early in life, under the ministry of Rev. Nathan Hale, and lived a consistent life continually. During the ministry of Rev. Aaron Lily she joined the Waterloo class of the United Brethren church. The scene of her life's greatest achievement, keeping a home and rearing her children to maturity, was in Uniontown, where her light has shone for twenty-four years, a daystar to her family and a comfort in the night to the suffering. Funeral services were held in the U. B. church by her pastor, Rev C. E. Moorman, assisted by Rev. W. O. Butler, and the body was tenderly laid away by many friends in the Waterloo cemetery.

An Editor

Of Clarence, Iowa, Mr. Clark Smith, writes: "Since the agency of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin was established here I have been a user of what I can call 'that excellent medicine.' For a year or more I have been troubled with constipation, indigestion, dyspepsia, etc., and I find that this remedy is just what I have needed." H. B. McCord.

Wednesday's Daily.

—Mrs. F. T. Zimmerman is visiting at Angola.

—Butler fair began yesterday and is in full blast now.

—If you want a second hand grain drill go to Culbertson & Boland. 36tf

—There is nothing new under the sun except Mrs. Austin's new dress.

—Two good second hand grain drills for sale cheap at Culbertson & Boland's. 36tf

—Mrs. Ensley and her daughter Amber have returned from their visit at Lagrange.

—Save a dollar for the Star Course entertainment. Agents are out selling tickets, look out for them.

—Morris Eckhart and wife, Mrs. Bert Robbins and Mrs. Charles Schaab drove over to Butler yesterday.

—You will not miss it by buying a meal ticket at Had'n; 21 meals $3.00, and for mostly Sunday meals $4.00.

—Before you buy lath see the fine stock of the Saginaw product at the lumber yard of A. Lewis & Co. They have reason to think they have about the best there is in the market. a1tf

—We want you to use Putnam Fadeless Dyes because they color more goods, make faster and brighter colors and cost you more than others. 10c per package. Sold by F. E. Davenport.

—WANTED:—A farm in DeKalb Co. Must be a bargain. Party will pay from $2,000 to $3,000 cash and assume some indebtedness if necessary. Enquire of Webster & Wartenbe, Butler, Ind. 36

—A good many consumptives would be cured and the worst cases comforted and relieved by using Foley's Honey and Tar. Suggest it to those afflicted. You should do this as a friend. H. B. McCord.

—HUSTLING YOUNG MAN can make $60 per month and expenses. Permanent position. Experience unnecessary. Write quick for particulars. Clark & Co., Fourth & Locust sts., Phil., Pa. tf

—The Passion Play of Oberammergau, at the M. E. church Friday evening by moving pictures. Read the description again as found in the COURIER'S "Saturday" of Aug. 16, Weekly, and Aug. 11, Daily.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

—The people who drive over dusty roads in hot or cold days, will feel grateful for the fine watering trough and drinking fountain east of the court house, and a fine drinking fountain to go with the well and water trough at the west.

—Unclaimed letters remaining in the postoffice, week ending September 1 1900. Anna Biglo, F. H. Sprague, Edward James, Henry Smur, James Petch, T. Sherman. Claimants will please call for letters in advertised list. G. H. FORKNER, Postmaster.

—Campaign song book, title: "Freedom Songs" by E. W. Crane. Adopted by the state central committees of the Fusion Forces of Neb. Single copy 25 cents, $1.75 per dozen, $1.00 per half dozen. Address all orders to E. W. Crane, Box 1520, Lincoln, Nebraska.

Hall's Hill, Tenn., Nov. 12, 1898.

Cured a young lady of rheumatism some time ago with four bottles of Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm The doctor had discharged the case because he could give her no relief.—B. R. Bivins. For sale by F. E. Davenport.

—People are not yet through laughing at the ease with which Sheriff Hathaway calmed the riot on the ball grounds when the Fort Wayne men made a kick. One of their smallest fellows had the sand and fool-hardiness to attack the sheriff and was going to whip him. Instead of precipitating a row by knocking the aggressor down, as many a thoughtless sheriff would have done, "Big John" merely reached his long arm to the fellow's shoulder, took an iron grip on him and shook him as a dog does a rat. The little fellow subsided, the crowd laughed, peace was restored and the game went on.

How To Gain Flesh

Persons have been known to gain a pound a day by taking an ounce of SCOTT'S EMULSION. It is strange, but it often happens.

Somehow the ounce produces the pound; it seems to start the digestive machinery going properly, so that the patient is able to digest and absorb his ordinary food, which he could not do before, and that is the way the gain is made.

A certain amount of flesh is necessary for health; if you have not got it you can get it by taking

Scott's Emulsion

You will find it just as useful in summer as in winter, and if you are thriving upon it don't stop because the weather is warm.

50c. and $1.00, all druggists.
SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, New York.

THE AUBURN LUMBER CO.

—Carry a Full line of—

Casings, Base Blocks for Inside Finish, Veranda Columns, Spindels, Tracery and Brackets for Veranda or Porch work.....

HOLLOW FOUNDATION BLOCKS,

Bulk Lime, Portland Cement,

And are always headquarters for Shingles, all the best grades cut from green timber.

The Auburn Lumber Co.

Auburn, Indiana.

Remember the Place.....Near Wabash Depot.

BUTLER.

Mrs. James Gaff living about two miles east of Butler was buried last week. Her daughter, Maggie Jennings of Orland, and son David of Elkhart, were in attendance.

Mrs. Lucina Jadwin and daughter Mamie of Orland were visiting Butler relatives last week.

A large number of Butler people visited Chicago last week. Some came home without accident, some were less fortunate. Among the number was John Huyck who lost his pocketbook, money, tickets and all. A good many have not yet returned.

Mrs. Breese and daughter of Lawrence, Kansas, are visiting with J. M. Lingenfelter

Stephen McCurdy, a former well-known citizen of this vicinity, now living near Atchison, Kansas, is visiting his daughter, Mrs. Frank Reynolds, and other Butler relatives and friends.

Miss Lizzie Champion is confined to her bed by an attack of some low grade of fever at the home of her sister Mrs. J. A. Campbell.

J. W. Palmerton still lingers. He has been unable to lie down for a full year.

Last Saturday forenoon the shrill whistle of the fire alarm filled the street in a minute or two with an anxious crowd. It was soon learned that the fire was at the residence of Leonard Walker on North Broadway. The cause of the fire, which was soon under control and did but small damage, was the ignition of gasoline. Mrs. Walker had started her gasoline stove in the summer kitchen and gone into the main part of the house for some purpose, when she thought she heard a kettle boiling over. She entered the kitchen hastily and seeing something on the floor that she thought was water and noticing that her fire had gone out, struck a match to start her fire. What she saw on the floor was gasoline, and in an instant she was enveloped in flame. She ran screaming to her next neighbor's, Wm. Capps, the flames completely enveloping her and burning all her clothing off except her shoes. Willing hands wrapped quilts about her and extinguished the flames. She was able to converse, explain the circumstances and walk back home, but her injuries were so serious that she died about 4 p. m. Her funeral took place from the Lutheran church last Monday, Rev. Neible officiating. This was one of the saddest and most pathetic accidents that has ever occurred in our place.

J. A. Campbell and wife returned last Tuesday from their extended visit in Michigan.

SEDAN.

John D. Vanlear and O. L. Wheaton made a business trip to Waterloo today.

Will Hinanan and family of Waterloo attended the Disciple meeting held in Brumbeck's Grove Sunday and visited S. W. Guthrie and wife.

The republicans of Richland township held their township caucus at Corunna last Saturday. K. A. Johnson was nominated for trustee and John Sheffer for assessor.

Martin Whetzel has been sick for several days but is considerable better at this time.

Ursinus Fickus and family made a trip to Fort Wayne Sunday.

Henry Schuster and Brown Albright are hauling gravel on the railroad job.

Park Sebert and wife and Amos Lower and wife attended the G. A. R. meeting at Chicago last week.

Rhoda and Katie Benson are visiting at Danville, Ill.

Mrs. Argo of St. Louis, Mo., who has been the guest of her sister, Mrs. W. H. Crane, for the past month, returned home last week.

C. M. Reynolds made a business trip to Garrett Saturday.

Arthur Bateman and wife of Auburn spent Sunday in this place.

Foley's Kidney Cure

is a pure medicine, and contains in concentrated form, remedies recognized by the most skillful of the medical profession as the most effective agents for the cure of kidney and bladder diseases. H. B. McCord.

SUPERLATIVE QUALITY--ABSOLUTE PURITY.

ROYAL GARDEN TEAS

Sold only in Bour's celebrated Bond-Linen Package, with the Blue Strip Seal. Accept no substitute.

ASK YOUR GROCER

HUMPHREYS'

WITCH HAZEL

OIL

CURES

Piles or Hemorrhoids
Fissures & Fistulas.
Burns & Scalds.
Wounds & Bruises.
Cuts & Sores.
Boils & Tumors.
Eczema & Eruptions.
Salt Rheum & Tetters.
Chapped Hands.
Fever Blisters.
Sore Lips & Nostrils.
Corns & Bunions.
Stings & Bites of Insects.

Three Sizes, 25c, 50c. and $1.00.

Sold by druggists, or sent post-paid on receipt of price.
HUMPHREYS' MED. CO., 111 & 113 William St., New York.

—Baxter's Mandrake Bitters Tablets are easy to take, sure in effect. They act gently on the Bowels, Liver and kidneys, effectually cleanse the system from all impurities, beautify the complexion, prevent Headaches and Fevers, cure indigestion and dizziness, overcome habitual constipation, and restore bloom and vigor of youth. Sold by all druggists, in tablets or liquid at 25 cts. per box or bottle. Warranted to cure constipation. s31

—Those of our exchanges who are running the ad. of Majors' Cement, would be prudent from a financial standpoint if they would take an hour off to investigate. Probably the cement is good, but they are advertising for cash.

—Ulcers, open or obstinate sores, scalds and piles, quickly cured by Banner Salve, the most healing medicine in the world. H. B. McCord.

TIME'S BALM.

When first I met the fair Marie,
My smitten heart at once surrendered,
And in a week, with eager haste,
My love and all I have I tendered.
Marie was very calm and cool,
Though I was greatly agitated,
And when I came away—refused—
To endless anguish I felt fated.
But, oh, since then so many girls
I've seen, far prettier, sweeter, brighter,
That all their loveliness has made
My load of woe distinctly lighter!
In fact, since she said "No" I've met
A lovely girl whom I like better,
And now, whene'er I meet Marie,
I think, "Thank heaven I didn't get her!"

—Somerville Journal.

LITTLE JIM.

THERE were five men of us and a boy in the far Western stage coach as it rolled over the rough roads of Dakota. We had been together for four days. We called the boy Jim because his father did. We knew his father to be Col. Weston, banker, cattleman and mine owner. The Colonel wasn't a man to whom a stranger would take at first glance, and even after four days of his company none of us could say we liked him. When you came to study him closely, you saw that he was revengeful and relentless. The boy was frank, chipper and good-natured, and you took a liking to him as soon as you looked into his big blue eyes. His age was about 10, and he had wit and knowledge beyond his years. We had yet twenty miles to go to reach the terminus, and the hour was about 2 o'clock in the afternoon when the coach came to a sudden halt as it toiled up hill. Next moment the driver called to us:

"All you folks what don't want your heads blown off had better get down and line up. We've been stopped by a road agent."

We had arms in plenty, but no one moved to resist. Every bullet fired by the robber would bore its way through the coach and find a target, while the robber had the cover of the horses and was safe from our fire. It seems cowardly when you read it, but to get down and submit to be robbed was the wisest thing to do under the circumstances.

Little Jim was not a bit frightened. On the contrary, he rather enjoyed the situation. It was not so with the Colonel. I saw him turn pale and heard him cursing under his breath, and he was the last man to get down.

The robber had a double-barreled shotgun in his hands. He cautioned the driver to hold the coach where it was and then advanced upon us. He glanced carelessly into each face until his eyes rested on the Colonel. Then he gave a sudden start, drew in his breath with a gasp, and we realized that there was a recognition. The Colonel grew white under his look and began to tremble. The boy had no sooner looked into the road agent's face than he cried out:

"Why, it's Mr. Pelton—Mr. Pelton! Say, Mr. Pelton, I'm awfully glad to see you. Where've you been this long time?"

"So it's you, Jimmy," laughed the robber as he hold out his hand for a shake. "Well, you have been growing since I saw you last. It's a wonder you knew me at first sight."

"Oh, I used to like you so well I couldn't forget your face," replied the boy. "Are there robbers around, Mr. Pelton?"

With gentle hand the man pushed the boy back in line and then stepped back a pace or two. As he did so his face grew very sober, and I saw a flash in his black eyes I did not like. His voice was low and steady as he finally said:

"I'm much obliged for your promptness in climbing down and lining up, and I think I'll let you off this time. The four of you may go back into the coach and go on. I'm leaving your guns with you, but don't attempt to play me any trick."

The Colonel took his son by the hand and attempted to enter the stage with us, but the robber motioned him back.

"W-what do you want of me?" asked the Colonel in a voice which quavered.

"I'll tell you later," was the reply.

As the coach started on we looked out to see the three standing in the road. Little Jim still had hold of his father's hand, but had reached out the other and caught the robber's sleeve.

When we had gone 200 feet, the road turned and shut them from our view.

At the disappearance of the stage the man turned on Col. Weston and pointed to the hillside on the right and said:

"Move on that way. Jimmy, give me your hand, and I'll help you along."

The white-faced Colonel entered the pines and held a straight course up the hill. Behind him came the robber and his son. The boy had been full of curiosity at first, but presently he was awed and frightened by the looks cast upon his father.

Two or three years before he and Mr. Pelton had been great friends. Mr. Pelton had been manager for his father. One day there had been a bitter quarrel, pistols had been drawn, the sheriff had rushed in, and Mr. Pelton had fled to escape arrest. He remembered his father calling the fugitive a thief and of men being sent out to hunt him down. All this came back to him as they followed the father up the rough way, and though he knew nothing of man's vengeance there was a feeling of dread in his soul. Now and then the robber ordered the Colonel to the right or left, but these were the only words spoken until they finally reached a rude camp high up among the bowlders. By and by the robber half turned to look the Colonel in the face and said:

"I've waited for this for two years. I could neither die nor go away until I had killed you."

"It will be murder—cold-blooded murder," replied the Colonel as he folded his arms.

"If it was murder a hundred times over, I'd do it. Do you suppose I can forget Rose Harper? Who separated us? Who maligned me? Who wrecked my life and sent her to a suicide's grave? Who drove me to be a fugitive from justice on a false charge? I'd kill you if 1,000 men surrounded me."

The Colonel was silent for a time. He did not look at his boy, but past him. The boy's eyes were fastened on his face, however, and a chill crept over him as he noted the look of a man standing in the shadow of death. It was the first time he had ever seen it. He turned from his father after awhile to look at the robber.

There was another look strange to him. It was a set determination to kill—the look of a man who had hated and thirsted and waited.

"Take the boy away first," said the Colonel with a touch of entreaty in his voice.

"Yes; that will be proper," answered Pelton. "Come, Jimmy, let's take a walk."

"What—what you going to do with father?" whispered the boy as he walked slowly over and put his hand in that of the would-be murderer.

"Never mind. Do you see that big rock up there? Well, go up there and see what is hidden behind it. Shake hands with your father before you go."

The boy crossed over to his father in a puzzled way, and the father lifted him up and kissed him. When he put him down, he said to him:

"Run along, Jimmy. If you don't find me when you come back, Mr. Pelton will take care of you."

"Oh, yes, Mr. Pelton will take care of me and see that I get home," replied the lad. "I'm awfully glad to see him. Wasn't it queer to meet him 'way off here? I was saying only a week ago that I wish'd he was back with us so that he could mend my wagon and help me make kites. Mr. Pelton was always good to me. I won't be gone long, and you and Mr. Pelton must be good friends. Don't you remember that mother said she was sorry for him? We want him back, don't we?"

Little Jim started off for the rock, but he hadn't taken ten steps before he was back again to say to the robber:

"And I want you to make me a new water wheel, and the handle has come out of the hammer, and nobody will sharpen my knife for me. If you don't come back, I don't know what I shall do."

"Perhaps I'll come back," whispered Pelton as he turned his head away.

"Oh, but you surely must. I've heard lots of people say you were a good man and shouldn't have gone away. Mother told me if I ever met you I might speak to you just as I used to. I'm going now, but remember that you are coming back."

The boy went away almost gleefully, and the two men heard his footsteps and his voice as he made his way toward the rock. The father looked after him until he was hidden by the trees and then turned to the robber and quietly said:

"Before he comes back. And you'll help him to get home?"

"Yes; before he comes back," replied Pelton as he drew his revolver. "It won't be murder, Col. Weston. It'll simply be retribution. Do you want a minute or two to ask God to forgive you?"

The Colonel sat erect with folded arms. He closed his eyes, and his lips moved. By and by he heard the click of the pistol. He did not open his eyes, but he felt that it was leveled at his heart and that his life was measured by seconds. Of a sudden came a call from little Jim. Half way to the rock he had turned about to shout:

"Oh, Mr. Pelton, don't forget to think up some new Indian and bear stories to tell me. Nobody has told me a story since you went away."

The Colonel's eyes opened. The revolver was lying on the ground, and Pelton had his hands over his face. When he dropped them, there were tears in his eyes. He rose up, put the pistol in his pocket and said to the man waiting for death:

"I can't do it. Little Jim would know it some day. When he comes back, take him and go down to the road. It's only three miles to Cedarville."

With that he walked off into the brush and was out of sight in a moment. When little Jim returned, he found his father sitting as he had left him and gazing into the woods.

"What is it, father?" he asked. "What's the matter with you and where is Mr. Pelton?"

The man rose up slowly, took his boy's hand in his, and without a word in answer he led the way down to the stage trail and safety.—Butte Miner.

Discoveries in Crete.

Arthur Evans, who dug up the palace at Gnossus in Crete, gave some interesting details about his discovery to the Hellenic Society recently. A large paved area he spoke of as "the original dancing ground of Ariadne." In one corner of the palace was a throne room, the throne having "crockets" and other details that anticipate Gothic designs. There are frescoes of flowers, water, fishes and crowds of men and women, the former with red faces, the latter with white. The headdresses and costumes of the women are "truly Parisian." The figure of a bull in painted plaster, found there, may be intended to represent the Minotaur.

At the Seaside.

Heroic Girl—What has become of that handsome man who cheered so loudly when I rescued the little boy from drowning?

Friend—He is over there on the veranda, proposing to the girl who screamed and fainted.—New York Weekly.

"Compounds."

The word "compound," which is used frequently in the war dispatches from China, means an inclosure. In that country and Japan it is customary to build high brick walls around factories, business houses, banks and residences for protection, and these are the "compounds" mentioned.

Wood Pulp for Clothing.

Wood pulp paper as military clothing is used by the Japanese troops. It is marvelously tough, and has an appearance that might well be regarded with satisfaction for summer year. It holds stitching uncommonly well, while its warmth is undoubted.

Now Come Glass Fence Posts.

A glass firm lately received an order for 500 glass fence posts, to be of the usual size, and grooved for the reception of wire.

When an older woman starts out for a walk with younger ones, she gives a sort of a hop to indicate that she is still young.

The thought of founding an association that would preserve the friendships and memories of their common trials and dangers among the men who fought for the Union during the Civil War was conceived by the Rev. William J. Rutledge, of Petersburg, Ill., who, during the war, was chaplain of the Fourteenth Illinois Infantry. Chaplain Rutledge was the tentmate and intimate friend of Dr. B. F. Stephenson after the latter joined the Fourteenth Regiment in 1862. To him he suggested his idea, and they agreed to work together for the purpose of organizing such an association after the close of the war.

After peace had been restored both were mustered out and returned to their homes. They kept up a lively correspondence, however, and in March, 1866, met, by appointment, in Springfield, Ill., to consider the draft of a ritual for the organization which they intended to found. Dr. Stephenson had prepared such a draft and consulted many former officers of the Union army in reference to it, among them Col. John M. Snyder, Governor Oglesby's secretary; Dr. James Hamilton, Maj. Robert M. Woods, Maj. Robert Allen, Col. Martin Flood, Col. Daniel Grass, Col. Edward Prince, and many others.

The ritual was finally adopted and printed in the office of the Decatur, Ill., Tribune, which was owned by I. W. Coltrin and Joseph Pryor. Both men, as well as nearly all their employes, had been in the military service during the war. They were all pledged to the utmost secrecy. Capt. John S. Phelps superintended the printing of the ritual.

Maj. B. F. Stephenson was the moving spirit of the movement, and devoted himself to his task with great energy and enthusiasm. His friends succeeded in interesting many other officers and men of the Union army on behalf of the proposed organization, and it was finally formed in Springfield in March, 1866.

The first post was founded in Decatur, Ill., through the efforts of Dr. J. W. Routh and Capt. M. F. Kanan, of that city. It was organized by Major Stephenson and Captain Phelps on April 6, 1866. The officers were mustered in by Major Stephenson, who then declared the post duly organized and ready for the transaction of any and all business that might come before it. At the regular meeting on April 10, 1866, N. G. Burns, Henry Gorman, N. E. Winholtz, W. H. Andrews and W. H. B. Rowe were mustered in as new members of the post.

In the meantime Major Stephenson and his comrades worked hard to perfect the constitution, which was finally accepted at a meeting in Springfield, May 9, 1866. It was printed in Springfield, and copies were sent to the Decatur Post No. 1 on May 15, followed shortly after by copies of the revised ritual. According to the constitution the name of the national organization was to be "The Grand Army of the Republic," and precinct, county and State organizations were provided for. Prior to the formal institution of Post No. 2 at Springfield a departmental staff had been agreed upon to prosecute the work of organizing posts.

The first State convention or encampment to form the Department of Illinois was held at Springfield, Ill., on July 12, 1866. At that time there were already thirty-nine Grand Army posts in the State of Illinois that had received their charters. The call for the convention was signed by many of the most prominent former army officers in the State. The convention was called to order by Major Stephenson and Col. Walter B. Scates, of Chicago, was elected president. The Department of Illinois was formally organized.

The first national encampment, in which the national organization of the Grand Army of the Republic was perfected, was held at Indianapolis, Ind., on Nov. 20, 1866. It was called to order by Commander-in-Chief B. F. Stephenson, and Gen. John M. Palmer was elected permanent president of the convention. The war Governor of Indiana, Oliver P. Morton, attended the encampment and was received with great enthusiasm.

The second national encampment of the Grand Army did not take place until Jan. 15-17, 1868, and was held at Philadelphia. John A. Logan, of Illinois, was elected commander-in-chief. He was re-elected at the following two national encampments at Cincinnati and Washington, D. C. The fifth national encampment was held at Boston and elected A. E. Burnside commander-in-chief.

During the first years of its existence the growth of the Grand Army of the Republic was comparatively slow, and not until the latter part of the '70s did its marvelous growth really begin. In 1878 the Grand Army comprised but 31,016 members, while at the present time it comprises 7,184 posts, with 286,453 members. The greatest number of members was reached in 1890, when the national organization comprised 409,489 members in good standing. After this it is expected that the number will steadily decrease, owing to the mortality among the veterans.

Following is a list showing the number of members of the Grand Army during the years from 1878 to the present time:

1878	31,016	1890	409,489
1879	44,752	1891	407,781
1880	60,634	1892	399,880
1881	85,856	1893	307,223
1882	134,701	1894	369,083
1883	215,446	1895	357,639
1884	273,168	1896	340,610
1885	294,787	1897	319,456
1886	323,571	1898	305,603
1887	355,916	1899	287,368
1888	372,300	1900	286,453
1889	397,974

WOMEN WHO SELL PAPERS.

Comparatively Few of the Sex in the Business in Chicago.

There are not many women in Chicago who follow the business of selling newspapers on the street, but those who do are not lacking in persistency, says the Chronicle. They have several advantages over boys, one being their sex and age, which appeal to buyers of papers; another is a commotion on the street does not divert them from their calling. Their memory of faces is remarkable. When a man buys a paper twice of a woman he is looked upon as a regular customer, and if he does not keep it up from day to day she puts on the look of one who is injured. This little trick works well. Not a few men will make it a point to defer purchasing until they reach her street corner. Not a few men regard the patronizing of such persons as a sort of charity and that makes them like to put themselves out a little to do it. All these characteristics of men the woman vender of newspapers understands, and with every sale there goes with the paper a look and a smile which make the buyer feel in his soul that he is ameliorating the condition of the poor and he comes again.

Nearly all women street venders of newspapers in Chicago are considerably past middle age, and their makeup is one of genteel poverty—of "I have seen better days." Some who sew during the day spend an hour or two in the later afternoon and early evening selling papers, because they need the recreation and air, besides they make a little money out of it, which is a great help to them in meeting expenses.

WOMAN NEWSPAPER DEALER.

There are a few newspaper sellers who fetch a child with them to the street, which serves as a manufacturer of sympathy. The child may belong to the woman who has it, and it may be borrowed for the occasion. The latter becomes a pretty self-evident fact when the child does not always put in its appearance, and especially so when the child bears no likeness of the woman and they act one toward the other as if there was no bond of relationship existing between them. The child's part in the play for sympathy and trade is a conspicuous one. If it is not too large it is carried in the woman's arms while she stands and on her lap while she sits, but in any event it is kept well to the foreground as a childish appeal for patronage. It is a good card, and even men and women who believe it is all a play cannot always resist the promptings of their sympathy. Such women move from place to place. They are on one street corner to-day, another to-morrow, and somewhere else the next day. They do not work for regular customers—that is, those who borrow babies for the occasion.

There are a few women who are in the trade as a business. They are out early and late, always on hand for the first issue of the "Extra," and they push themselves forward quite as actively as the newsboys hustle. Such women do not resort to subterfuge. They do not play for sympathy, nor do they claim any favors because of their sex. They rely upon their push, energy and perhaps love of the excitement. Anyway, they go about it like a merchant who knows his goods have merit and that it is his business to proclaim that fact far and near.

There are a few quite old women in the business of selling newspapers on the street, and their age and feebleness oblige them to have a regular place to sit down. They have regular customers who buy of them out of honest sympathy because it is their chief if not their only means of support, and rarely ever is change asked when a nickel is given. This class, as a rule, are neat and clean in appearance and express their gratitude with their eyes rather than in words. It may be said that there are no young women in the business of selling newspapers on the streets in Chicago, but there are a number of girls ranging in age from 8 to 12 years, and nearly all of them are bold, persistent and always chewing gum. They look untidy and seem to have no ambition to better their condition.

BIRDS THAT DO NOT SING.

They Far Outnumber the Musicians of the Feathered Family.

Singing is applied to birds in the same sense that it is to human beings—the utterance of musical notes. Every person makes vocal sounds of some kind, but many persons never attempt to sing. So it is with birds. The eagle screams, the owl hoots, the wild goose honks, the crow caws, but none of these discordant sounds can be called singing.

With the poet, the singing of birds means merry, light-hearted joyousness, and most of us are poetic enough to view it in the same way. Birds sing most in the spring and the early summer, those happiest seasons of the year, while employed in nest-building and in rearing their young. Many of our most musical singers are silent all the rest of the year; at least they utter only low chirpings. It is natural, therefore, that lovers of birds should regard their singing as purely an expression of joy in the returning spring, and in their happy occupations.

Outside of what are properly classed as song birds there are many species that never pretend to sing; in fact, these far outnumber the musicians. They include the water birds of every kind, both swimmers and waders, all the birds of prey, eagles, hawks, owls and vultures; and all the gallinaceous tribes, comprising pheasants, partridges, turkeys and chickens. The gobble of the turkey cock, the defiant crow of the "bob-white," are none of them true singing; yet it is quite probable that all of these sounds are uttered with precisely similar motives to those that inspire the sweet warbling of the song-sparrow, the clear whistle of the robins or the thrilling music of the wood-thrush.

But naturalists have set apart a very large group as song birds, and even among these there are many species that never sing at all. Birds are grouped according to their anatomical characteristics, the structure of their bones, bills, feet and wings. And thus we have the songless song birds, looking at the matter from the standpoint of the classifying naturalist. — Philadelphia Times.

Starting in the Chicken Business.

There is a story told of a shrewd Yankee who began in business without any capital at all.

He borrowed a broody hen from one neighbor and a setting of eggs from another.

Having set the hen he soon had a fine brood of chicks, but was now in a dilemma as to how he could pay back those eggs.

He finally solved the difficulty by keeping the hen until she had laid the required number of eggs, when he returned both the hen and the eggs, and guessed he had as fine a lot of chickens as anybody. And also it as cheap, too. There are men in western Nebraska who claim a good start from a borrowed cow, but the operation can hardly have been as smooth as this.—Exchange.

Silencing the Boaster.

A certain man was very much given to bragging about grand relations and connections, though he was not always quite convincing.

On one occasion he was particularly tiresome, holding forth about "Lady Blank, whom I met yesterday, a connection of mine through Lord So-and-So and the Earl of Nobody," and so on.

A Scotsman present said, quietly: "That reminds me o' a man I knew, who said he was a relation o' the Duke o' Argyll, and explained it this way: 'The duke's piper's sister's wee laddie has a wee doggie that's ain brither to my aunt's wee laddie's doggie.'"

The boaster was silent about his grand relations for the rest of the evening.—London Tit-Bits.

China to Outstrip Japan.

When the outside interference which is now inevitable shall have removed or modified the existing bars to trade China will leave Japan far behind from the industrial standpoint. The Chinese are as remarkable for their commercial morality as the Japanese are for the opposite; they are more solid, better balanced, take longer views, and are, in short, more merchants and less peddlers than the same class in Japan, and the natural resources of their immense country are such as Japan cannot hope to compete with, poor as she is in mineral wealth and subject to the most disastrous natural convulsions.

Boats to Run in Six Inches of Water.

Two distinct curiosities in American shipbuilding have been recently completed in San Francisco. They are stern-wheel launches that, when loaded, will draw but six inches of water. They have met all tests so far successfully, and with their light, compact little engines, easily make seven knots an hour in a six-inch water basin. They are to be used in the Amoor river, Liberia, a shallow stream of local commercial importance.

Only Three Seminole Bands.

There are to-day but three bands o Seminoles left in Florida. So completely have these people been disintegrated that no tribal relations now exist between them; they have no acknowledged chief, and they recognize no man's authority. They number about 600.

Next to a nagging wife is a father who is always reminding his children of what they have cost him, and that they ought to pay him back.

BRYAN ON THE ISSUES.

Responds to Notifications by Populists and Silverites.

At Topeka, Kan., William J. Bryan was notified by the National Populist Party and the National Monetary League of his nomination for President of the United States. The notification took place in the capitol grounds. Following the notification speeches Mr. Bryan delivered his speech of acceptance. There was a vast audience present, and he was received with tumultuous applause. He spoke in part as follows:

In 1896 the Populists united with the Democrats in opposing the trusts, although the question at that time appeared like a cloud scarcely larger than a man's hand. To-day that cloud well nigh overspreads the industrial sky. The farmer does not participate in the profits of any trust, but he sorely feels the burden of them all. He is dependent upon the seasons for his income. When he plants his crop he knows not whether it will be blessed with rain or blighted with drouth; he knows not whether wind will blow it down, or hail destroy it, or insect devour it and the price of his crop is as uncertain as the quantity. If a private monopoly can suspend production and fix the price of raw material as well as the price of the finished product the farmer, powerless to protect himself when he sells, is plundered when he purchases. Can any farmer hesitate to throw the influence of his ballot upon the side of those who desire to protect the public at large from monopolies?

The fact that the trusts support the Republican party ought to be sufficient proof that they expect protection from it. The Republican party cannot be relied upon to extinguish the trusts so long as it draws its campaign contribution from their overflowing vaults.

Bryan said the prosperity argument of the Republicans will not deceive the farmer, as "he knows that each month of 1900 shows a larger number of failures than in the corresponding months of 1899, and that there is a marked tendency toward a decrease in the output of factories.

"He knows, also, that discoveries of gold, famine abroad, and war on three continents have not been able to raise the price of farm products as rapidly as trusts and combinations have raised the price of the things which the farmer buys."

Speaking of Senators being elected by direct vote, Bryan said:

"If the fusion forces win a victory this fall, we shall see this reform accomplished before the next presidential election, and, with its accomplishment, the people will find it easier to secure any remedial legislation which they may desire."

Bryan said when we were engaged in a contest which was to determine whether we should have one republic or two, questions of finance were lost sight of. He continued:

"To-day we are engaged in a controversy which will determine whether we are to have a republic in which the government derives its just powers from the consent of the governed or an empire in which brute force is the only recognized source of power. It is not strange that the Populists should oppose militarism and imperialism, for both are antagonistic to the principles which Populists apply to other questions.

"In the presence of such an issue as militarism it is impossible that any Populist should hesitate as to his duty. The policy contemplated by the Republicans nullifies every principle set forth in the declaration of independence.

"Our opponents say that the world would laugh at us if we should give independence to the Filipinos. Yes, kings would laugh, aristocrats would laugh, and those would laugh who deny the inalienable rights of men and despise the humbler folks who 'along the cool sequestered vale of life keep the noiseless tenor of their way,' but let this nation stand erect and spurning the bribes of wealth and power, show that there is a reality in the principles which we profess; let it show that there is a difference between a republic and a monarchy and the oppressed in every land will see in our flag the hope of their own deliverance and, whether they are bleeding upon the battlefield or groaning beneath a tyrant's lash, will raise their eyes toward heaven and breathe a fervent prayer for the safety of our republic."

Printing in the Dark.

Sulphate of quinine has some very curious properties, one of them being its power to impress an image of itself on a sheet of sensitive paper in the dark. If a design be drawn on a sheet of paper with sulphate of quinine, exposed for a few minutes to the sun, then placed on a sheet of sensitive paper, put in a book, and left for a few hours, a perfect image of the drawing will be found impressed on the sheet of paper. Writing may be copied on sensitive paper in this way, but it must be reversed or the writing will be reversed on the sensitive paper.—Harper's Round Table.

Not of Public Interest.

An Englishman of somewhat choleric disposition was making inquiries at the War Office about a relative in South Africa. Annoyed at the inability of the officials to give him any tidings, he began to charge them with wilfully keeping back intelligence. In the midst of his expostulations a telegram was handed in, and he immediately asked the official if it concerned South Africa. The official replied affirmatively, but said it was not of public interest. Thereupon the old gentleman alternately raved and pleaded, till, at last to quiet him, the official consented as a great favor to show him the wire. It read as follows: "More nose-bags wanted at the front."

Doing Fancy Work at Home.

"They say that Mrs. Grindly does a great deal of fancy work."

"I should say she did. When she can find nothing else to do she ruffles her husband's temper."—Detroit Free Press.

Easy Method of Distinguishing.

"With all the men in evening dress, how are you going to tell the guests from the servants?"

"Well, the guests are polite to the hostess."—Detroit Journal.

An Up-to-Date Husband.

"I don't think I could ever make a political speaker," said Mr. Meekton. "I couldn't go through the ordeal. The very idea of my standing up and talking for half an hour at a stretch, with Henrietta sitting in the audience not saying a word makes me nervous."

Mrs. Malaprop and Mrs. Lapsus.

Mrs. Malaprop—That Miss Sereleaf does nothing but flirt. She's a regular croquette.

Mrs. Lapsus—And no chicken croquette, at that.—New York Journal.

GET HUNTINGTON'S MILLIONS.

H. E. Huntington is the favorite nephew of Collis P. Huntington, the dead railway magnate, and will continue the latter's many projects. He is now vice president of the Southern Pacific Railroad. Archer Huntington and Princess Hatzfeldt are Huntington's adopted children. The husband of the Princess was at one time attached to the German embassy at Washington. Archer Hunntington is one of the wealthiest authors in the world. C. P. Huntington leaves an estate valued at $57,000,000.

MAY BE HEARD TEN MILES AWAY.

Roaring Phonograph Given a Successful Trial in Ireland.

According to reports printed in English exchanges a phonograph is now available by the use of which messages can be delivered in such tremendously loud tones as will make them easily understood at a distance of ten miles. The machine has been tested at Brighton, the home of its inventor, Horace L. Short, and its possibilities seem to be practically endless. It will render loud selections in the open air that can be listened to by thousands of people, or it will shout news messages that could be heard high above the roar of the traffic and the thousand noises of a big city. You can whisper a sentence into the machine's small funnel-shaped mouthpiece and it will repeat it in tones that are more deafening than the shrieks of a liner's steam siren. Yet every word is perfectly articulated, and a shorthand writer ten miles away can take down the message as easily as if you were dictating to him in a small room.

THE PHONOGRAPH.

In appearance the machine is merely an ordinary phonograph, with a large trumpet measuring four feet in length. Inside this trumpet there is a small and delicate piece of mechanism that looks something like a whistle. This is the tongue of the machine.

Instead of the "records" being taken on wax in the usual manner a sapphire needle is made to cut the dots representing the sound vibrations on a silver cylinder, and when the needle travels over the metal a second time the vibrations cause the whistle to produce a series of air waves, and the machine thus becomes a talking siren which transforms the human voice into a deafening roar.

The experiments were made near the Devil's dyke, Brighton, where the inventor had his workshops. The instrument was placed on the roof of the laboratory and was made to repeat a number of sentences. At a distance of ten miles the sounds were plainly heard by a large number of people, every word being perfectly distinct, and at a second trial with a favorable wind it was found that an unknown message could be taken down in shorthand at a distance of twelve miles. Over the water the sounds will carry still further, and under favorable circumstances they might easily be heard by persons on a vessel fifteen miles out at sea.

DREAD POST AND PILLORY.

Why Delaware Clings to This Relic of Barbarism.

Alone among the States Delaware still clings to the whipping post and pillory, and instead of being ashamed of what is generally considered a relic of barbarism is proud of it. Pictures of the pillory and whipping post while both are occupied are even offered for sale as souvenirs to all who visit the Delaware State prison at New Castle.

WHIPPING POST AND PILLORY.

Among the classes of criminals who are punished by whipping are wife-beaters, and Delaware people say that no other punishment so well fits the case. There is also a class of petty criminals by whom a chance to board a few months at the State's expense is looked upon as a privilege, but to whom a few lashes at the whipping post is looked upon with horror, not so much because of the ignominy of the punishment as because of the physical pain which is inflicted. Cruelty is prevented by a provision which forbids the administration of more than sixty lashes or the confinement of a prisoner for more than one hour in the pillory.

What good times other people seem to have!

FARMS AND FARMERS

Poultry as a Farm Product.

The belief seems to prevail generally that the rearing and feeding of poultry is not really a special farm industry, but that it is one of the by-ways as may be said, to gather in odds and ends of profit by using up some wastes of the farm that would otherwise be lost. We have at times mentioned some facts which go to show that expensive poultry keeping may be made greatly more profitable than some other branches of farm work and that the demand for this kind of farm produce is increasing so rapidly and continuously that there is no risk that it may be easily overdone.

Let us make a comparison. A cow is worth as much as thirty hens anywhere. It needs an average of five acres of land to support a cow, and two under the most intensive system of soiling and the silo. It requires the time of one person to attend to ten cows as it should be done. Thirty hens may be kept on one-fourth of an acre of land with ease, and one one-fourth as much food as a cow must have, and one person can attend to 300 hens with ease. Suppose we then take this comparison, thirty hens equal one cow as to cost; then how is the income in comparison? The figures given by a noted creamery as to a herd of fourteen cows kept by the leading patron show that the average income, over and above cost of feeding of these cows, was $18.67. In truth the actual average of all the cows existing is estimated at about half as much as this, and thus not more than the average net income from four average hens making $2.50 each. This fact should go far to raise this useful farm animal in the estimation of those persons who are seeking profit-making from rural pursuits. And if there were no other items to go to the credit of the industrious and tireless hen, this one should be sufficient to give her prominence as one of the means of making rural life and industry profitable, and indeed alluring.

The business of rearing poultry is simple and already well understood, entailing no excessive labor, but simply calling for attention at intervals through the day. The work required, of course, is precise, and needs attention, but it is in no sense laborious and is not without attractive conditions. The result of certain investigations is shown in the accompanying illustration which represents a hen, a bushel of corn she consumes in the year, or the equivalent of the mixed rations required and the peck basket of eggs numbering 160 or the average yield per hen of a fairly good flock, but not counting the brood she will rear in addition, and which is estimated at ten; thus leaving for profit, if there be no other, ten times her original value. But the eggs will pay twice over for the cost of keeping, including all expenses incurred, and the proportionate time employed by the attendant, estimated at two dollars a day.—Montreal Herald.

COMPARATIVE SIZE OF HEN, BULK OF FOOD AND BULK OF PRODUCT.

Under the Barn Floor.

When we were young it was found that the planks in the stable floor were so damaged that it was desirable to take them up and replace them. They had probably not been taken up for many years, and the amount of fertilizing material that was dug out there and thrown into the barnyard was a revelation to us. We think we dug at least four feet deep, and doubt if we got the whole of the valuable material, and perhaps much less than half of it. Certainly it was well saturated or had been with the liquids from the stables, and it was richer than the ordinary barnyard manure, as we found when we put it on the land, or when the crops grew upon which we put it. The hole we made was filled up with dry sand, and if it has not been cleaned out since we would warrant that there are several loads of good fertilizer there now. This taught us to appreciate the value of a barn cellar in which the manure, both liquid and solid, could be saved, and although we now would not keep cows in a stable with a cellar under it, or at least would never plan to have manure cellar under the cows, we still think that a large share of the fertilizing value of the manure is lost when there is not some arrangement for saving the liquid as well as the solid. And for this we would have a cement floor, with a movable plank floor over it. We would not have the fumes of the manure coming up through the floor into the room where we had to do the milking.—American Cultivator.

Care of Farm Work Horses.

Isn't ten hours of labor in the field enough for man or beast? If so, you should come in from the field at 6 in the evening. We find that we do as much work in ten hours as the fourteen-hour men, and our horses don't come in all fagged out either. From spring until fall when we come in from the field at night we unharness the horses and turn them out. They roll and drink; then away they scamper to grass. Our pasture isn't a barren field, but it is nice and green with a good growth of six or seven different grasses. Their feed is placed in their mangers, and just before dark the doors are opened and the horses called. They come readily, for they know that a good feed is awaiting them. As grass is digested in about half the time dry feed is it would seem as though it should be the first feed instead of the last. Our horse barn is 26 by 40, with east and west doors and a window in front of each team; no bad light or ventilation here. There is plenty of good straw given for bedding, and the horses look well, are never sick and do as much work as the average horse.—Homestead.

Stall for Kicking Horses.

A correspondent of the Michigan Farmer submits a diagram of a stall that he used for ten years. "Fasten the chain about 3½ feet above floor and 8 feet back from manger," says he.

STALL FOR KICKERS.

"Have a hook at one end, so you can open easily. Wire the other fast, that you may always have chain at hand. I never have had carpenter work to do behind horse tied in this stall."

Grass for Pigs.

Notwithstanding the anatomy of the pig would seem to dispute the proposition, grass is necessary to its best development, says Texas Farm and Ranch. The small stomach would seem to indicate a grain ration or concentrated food of some sort, and so it does. Hogs are wanted to consume a large amount of feed, converting it into pork. Therefore the first thing required is to enlarge his capacity to eat, or, in other words, to enlarge his stomach. Grass, being bulky in proportion to its nutritious qualities, is the very thing and involves the only known method of enlarging the stomach. At the same time it furnishes the protein needed to develop flesh, muscle and bone. Then when we have a large frame built up with enlarged digestive capacity it is an easy matter to put on the fat with corn or other carbohydrate feeds.

Orchard Blight.

We notice in the Western papers there is much complaint of blight among the fruit trees. For several years they have noticed it among the pear and quince trees, but not until this year has it done much damage to apple trees. The sultry weather has been just what was needed for rapid growth of the spores, and when frequent thunder showers prevail it seems to spread more rapidly. Every diseased branch contains millions of these germs, and insects transmit them from one tree to another. They are most apt to affect young and tender branches of rapidly growing trees. We know of no efficient remedy excepting to cut off and burn every affected limb, and cut at some distance below the apparent disease, as it spreads downward by means of the sap. No spray has yet been discovered which checks its progress.—American Cultivator.

The Cow Puncher.

A former cowboy says: "When I used to be a cow puncher, the one thing I dreaded was a thunderstorm, for lightning usually seeks out and strikes the highest thing in the place where it hits, and out on the plains the man on horseback is the tallest thing out. When a storm comes up you have constantly to ride hard, for the cattle get restless and need close watching to prevent them from stampeding, and I can tell you it tries a man's nerve when you can see the lightning striking all about you and know that it is an almost even chance that it will ultimately seek you out and slay you."

The Pea Louse.

We advise those who have grown peas and lost their crop this year by reason of the pea louse on the vines not to become discouraged and cease planting them. Unless they differ very much from other plant lice, a year that sees them most abundant may be followed by many years before they are troublesome again. To cease planting peas wil not exterminate them, as they live also upon clover and other plants. If they make the pea crop less profitable a few years, enough may stop planting peas to make them a good crop for those who have them with no lice on them.—American Cultivator.

Teaching Chickens to Eat.

Some people have a good deal of trouble with brooder chickens in teaching them to eat. When they have a hen with them the work is easy, but without a hen the task appears to be difficult. But really there will be no trouble if the owner has a few chicks that have been taught by the old hens or have learned themselves. Simply put some of these young chickens with the others and the lesson will soon be taught.—Myron Jones, in Farmers' Review.

Handling Apples.

The time seems to be at hand when cold storage must come in general use for all late varieties, as the fruit comes out so much brighter. Apples keep better when barreled tight as soon as picked. And here in New Jersey we are in the habit of gathering too late for best results. Dr. Hoskins' rule that when the seeds color is the proper time to store may in the near future be adopted by all apple growers, says a New Jersey orchardist.

Rust in Strawberry Plants.

For this trouble spray thoroughly with Bordeaux mixture, beginning soon after the plants are set, and spray every month throughout the season. Old beds should be plowed under or mowed off after bearing and then sprayed once or twice. Some varieties are more susceptible to rust than others. Borax is not used for spraying.—New England Homestead.

THE HOUSEHOLD

Rapid Clothes Sprinkler.

Frank W. Merritt, of New Brunswick, N. J., has patented the clothes sprinkler shown in the illustration, the object being to provide an exceedingly cheap and simple device which can be rapidly filled with water and easily operated to sprinkle the water over the clothes to be ironed. With this object in view the invention consists of two sections of tin, which fit tightly together, a handle being attached to one of the sections. The top portion of the sprinkler has a central perforation, while the under part has a series of smaller perforations through which the water drops. When in use the implement is placed in a bowl of water and fills itself almost immediately. After each garment is dampened the sprinkler is returned to the bowl while the garment is folded and the next one spread out, being thus always ready for use. With this device the clothes can be sprinkled much more evenly than by the old method, and the hands can be kept entirely dry.

CLOTHES-SPRINKLING DEVICE.

The Woman with the Broom.

"The Man with the Hoe" let others sing,
And to him ready tribute bring;
Tell of his labor and unrest,
The sense of wrong that rives his breast;
How on his Atlas back he bears
The world, with all its toils and cares,
His broken spirit wrapped in gloom—
I sing "The Woman with the Broom."

Smiling, within the door she stands,
Her busy broom in willing hands;
She makes the household wheels go 'round
Without a jar, with scarce a sound;
To her the skies are always clear,
And, moving with a breath of cheer,
She sweeps away the dust of gloom—
This happy Woman with the Broom.

And while she works she sings a song,
While all life's joys together throng,
That rings a call from roof to dome
Throughout her realm of "Home, Sweet Home";
Love's garden nestles 'round the door,
Where flowers of fond affection bloom
And bow their rainbow heads before
The radiant Woman with the Broom.

Queen o'er the home her scepter sways;
Her subjects walk in pleasant ways;
They love her rule, protect her right;
Enjoy her sweetness, strength and light.
And when, at last, she's called to rest,
"Her children rise and call her blessed";
By cradle, altar and the tomb,
The faithful Woman with the Broom.
—George Birdseye, in Leslie's Weekly.

The House in the Heated Term.

The heated term is a trying season for the stay-at-home housekeeper. Household duties, always burdensome, become more so during the summer time, and yet few women understand the art of lessening their responsibilities. Wise housekeepers discard the heavy draperies, carpets and cumbersome furniture, and choose instead a furnishing that is more suitable for the heated season. What a boon to the housekeeper to be able to dispense even temporarily with the dust-collecting material! One can hardly realize how refreshing a barely furnished room is on a hot, dusty day.

Canning Corn.

My corn kept finely this year, canned in the following manner: Cut the corn from the cob and pack in jars as tight as possible; take cob or small potato masher and mash corn until milk covers it. Success lies in getting it packed in tight cans. Put on rubber and top and fasten up cans. Put in boiler, with water sufficient to cover, and boil for three hours, and screw up tighter, if possible. The year before last I opened my cans after boiling and filled them with boiling water, and my corn all spoiled. Even if the corn does look dry, do not open the cans.—Mrs. Earle Kennedy.

For the Housekeepers.

If you heat your knife slightly you can cut hot bread or cake as smoothly as if it were cold.

Soda is an excellent article for cleaning tinware. Apply with a damp cloth and rub dry.

Neuralgia may very often be speedily relieved by applying a cloth saturated with essence of peppermint.

Pails and tubs may be kept from warping by painting them with glycerine.

To clean linoleum without washing, remove all the dust, then take a bit of flannel sprinkled with paraffin and rub the linoleum. It will not make it appear like new, but will preserve it.

A too rapid boiling ruins the flavor of any sauce. It must boil up once, but should never do more than simmer afterward.

Don't fail to add a drop or two of vanilla flavoring to a pot of chocolate. It is a great improvement.

Don't close the oven door with a bang when cake is baking; the jar has spoiled many a fine loaf.

Don't wonder that corned beef is tough if put into hot water first, nor that it is too salt if the water is not changed at least three times while boiling.

Don't boil any meat or vegetable rapidly; simmer is the word for good boiling, else the outside is overcooked, the inside raw.

CONFESSIONAL INVIOLABILITY.

French Priest Fined for Revealing Secrets Confided to Him.

A case recently decided by the Ninth Chamber of the Civil Court of the Seine would have served Boccaccio's turn admirably. The matter, however romantic, is nevertheless a very serious one, especially to certain sections of the community, for it concerns nothing less than the inviolability of the confessional. By the legal tribunal above named, the Abbe Breton, vicaire of the Cathedral of Meaux, was fined 200f. and costs for having betrayed secrets confided to him in his character of confessor. Fact is a thousand times stranger than fiction, and never, surely, had the grave lawyers of the Paris bar a more curious case brought before them. The story is briefly this: Pere Ellsee, an ex-Franciscan monk, while still within the pale of orthodoxy, had once a quarter of an hour's interview with a young lady, Mlle. L., in a convent parlor, her brother and sister being present. It was a case of love at first sight. The pair never met again, but entered into correspondence, we gather, of an innocent but sentimental nature. After a time Mlle. L. grew uneasy, and her confessor, the said Abbe, being absent, she poured out her heart to him in writing, of course under the pledge of secrecy. She was bidden to hand over to him the whole of the tender missives, which were straightway handed over to his superiors. Then followed a veritable earthquake.

The case for the defense was based upon the fact that the young lady's confidence had been given in writing, and to the Abbe in his capacity of friend rather than of priest. This view the court would not entertain for a moment, holding that the role of confessor is not confined to the confessional box. Laws, moreover, alike ecclesiastical and civil, were adduced in point; according to the "Constitution" of Pope Benedict XIV. (1745), any priest violating the secrecy of the confessional is suspended from his functions. The civil law on the subject of secrets confided professionally, whether to priest or laymen, is still more categorical. By no consideration of interest, public or private, is the violation of such secrecy held excusable.—London News.

Joke on the Official.

There is a good story told on a prominent official of Alleghany. He denies it, but its truth is vouched for by another well-known official. Some days ago, the story goes, the former official happened to be going into his residence on one of the prominent thoroughfares when he saw a man hurrying across the street with several pieces of men's wearing apparel on his arm. The man was walking in the direction of a wagon nearby that belonged to a cleaning and dyeing establishment. It struck the official that he would have one of his spring suits cleaned and he hailed the man, thinking he was in charge of the wagon. However, the fellow proved to be a thief and had just robbed a hallrack in a neighboring boarding-house.

When the official cried out to him: "Say, mister, I have a suit I wish you would have cleaned," the thief took in the situation and saw that he had been taken for the driver of the wagon. He coolly went over and got the official's suit. The thief was well out of sight before the real driver of the wagon returned and the truth became known.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Amerigo Vespucci.

Amerigo Vespucci's certificate of baptism has been discovered in the registers of the Church of San Giovanni for 1450-60. It reads: "Lunedi a di 18 Mars 1452, Amerigho et Matteo, di Messere Nastagio, die Messere Amerigho Vespucci, popolo Se Lucia Ognissanti." "Monday, March 18, 1452, Amerigo and Matteo, of M. Nastagio, of M. Amerigo Vespucci, parish of Santa Lucia, Ogissanti." This seems to show that Amerigo was a twin. In the Church of San Giovanni, Ogni Santi, they have also recently found his portrait in a "Pieta" by Domenico Ghirlandajo, which though described by Vasari, was believed for over three hundred years to have been lost. In the fresco members of the Vespucci family are kneeling on either side of the Madonna; one of them is Amerigo at the age of about twenty years.

Russia's New Calendar.

It is said that Russia is about to adopt a new calendar. Each year contains 13 months of twenty-eight days each. The main feature is its apparent stability, and in this it resembles the sovereign remedy, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Try it for dyspepsia, constipation, nervousness or insomnia. Be sure you get the genuine.

Facts About British Columbia.

The province of British Columbia has coast-lines on the North Pacific of nearly 1,000 miles, and an average width of over 400 miles. Its area is nearly 400,000 square miles. It is nearly four times as large as Great Britain and Ireland, and twice as large as either Germany or France, Austro-Hungary or Spain. It is the same size as Egypt or German East Africa, nearly six times greater than the State of Washington, nearly five times greater than the two Dakotas, Minnesota, or Idaho, and over three times greater than Montana or Oregon. This immense territory is intersected by four distinct and nearly parallel mountain ranges called the Rocky, Gold, Coast and Vancouver ranges.

Hall's Catarrh Cure

Is taken internally. Price 75 cents.

Rare, but Precious.

"What is your idea of an intellectual woman?"

"One who can say good-by to a friend without holding the screen door open twenty minutes."—Chicago Record.

Mrs. Austin's new dress is fine as silk.

Oil engines are supplanting the water wheel in Palestine for drawing water from wells for irrigating the orange gardens.

Maud Muller.

Maude Muller on a summer's day
Raked the meadows fresh with hay,

And the bumble bee and garter snake
She also raked with her little rake.

And the wind that blew that summer's day
Brought out Maude's freckles in a frightful way,

And her neck was roasted and her face was baked,
But still she raked, and raked, and raked.

It seems that her pap was away that day
To some political fol-de-ray;

And her mother, too, was a delegate
To a hen convention out of the State;

And the hired man in his hand-me-down
Was attending a caucus that day in town.

So Maude was left alone that day
To do the chores and rake the hay.

And she pitched right in her level best,
And only took an occasional rest;

Then she'd spit on her hands once more and take
A better hold on her little rake.

But as she wrestled the new mown grass
These words from her lips did sadly pass:

"Of all sad words of tongue or pen,
The saddest are these, 'they've gone again';

"They're away attending other folks' affairs,
And have left me here to manage theirs."
—Indianapolis Press.

BEST FOR THE BOWELS.

No matter what ails you, headache to a cancer, you will never get well until your bowels are put right. CASCARETS help nature, cure you without a gripe or pain, produce easy natural movements, cost you just 10 cents to start getting your health back. CASCARETS Candy Cathartic, the genuine, put up in metal boxes, every tablet has C. C. C. stamped on it. Beware of imitations.

One on the Parson.

A clergyman who was very particular about his personal appearance went to preach in a country parish in Connecticut. Finding there was no glass in the vestry, and fearing his hair might not be quite as smooth as it should be, he asked the clerk if he could get him a glass. The man was gone some minutes, but at length returned and produced a parcel very mysteriously from under his arm. To the astonishment of the clergyman, he found when it was opened that it contained a bottle of whisky, with water and a tumbler.

"You musn't let on about it, mister," said the clerk, "for I got it as a great favor, an' I shouldn't ha' got it at all, bein' church hours, if I hadn't 'a said it was for you."—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Try Grain-O! Try Grain-O!

Ask your Grocer to-day to show you a package of GRAIN-O, the new food drink that takes the place of coffee. The children may drink it without injury as well as the adult. All who try it like it. GRAIN-O has that rich seal brown of Mocha and Java, but it is made of pure grains, and the most delicate stomach receives it without distress. ¼ the price of coffee. 15c and 25c per package. Sold by all grocers.

An Old Papyrus.

The old saying that nothing is ever lost is unexpectedly verified by the recent finding in a tomb at Luxor, Egypt, where it had lain concealed for 1,800 years, of a papyrus containing twenty poems by Bacchylides, a great Greek poet, whose writings had wholly disappeared.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. E. W. Grove's signature is on each box. 25c.

The reason why mirrors spot and blur is because they are placed where a strong light falls directly on them. All mirrors should be so placed that the light shall come to them from the sides. The silvering of a mirror is a most difficult process, and I should not advise any one to try to do it at home.—September Ladies' Home Journal.

We refund 10c for every package of PUTNAM FADELESS DYE that fails to give satisfaction. Monroe Drug Co., Unionville, Mo. Sold by druggists.

The Kestrel.

Naturalists declare that the kestrel is possessed of such wonderful powers of sight that it is able to see a mouse when it is itself at such a height in the air that it is invisible to the naked human eye.

Mrs. Austin's new dress is fine as silk.

Glass Varnish.

The Persians in 516 B. C. invented a transparent glass varnish, which they laid over sculptured rocks to prevent them from weathering. This coating has lasted to our day, while the rocks beneath are honeycombed.

I am sure Piso's Cure for Consumption saved my life three years ago.—Mrs. Thos. Robbins, Maple street, Norwich, N. Y., Feb. 17, 1900.

Elephant's Sense of Smell.

An elephant is possessed of such a delicate sense of smell that it can scent a human being at a distance of 1,000 yards.

Jell-O. The New Dessert,

pleases all the family. Four flavors:—Lemon, Orange, Raspberry and Strawberry. At your grocers. 10 cts.

In passing from darkness into light the eye is pained because the pupil is widely extended and so much light enters as to cause pain to the optic nerve.

Carter's Ink Is Scientifically

compounded of the best materials. If your dealer does not keep it he can get it for you.

Efforts are being made to bring about changes in the British army system that will allow poor men to make a decent living in the service

Mrs. Austin's new dress is fine as silk.

Great Britain imported 10,000,000 great hundreds (1,920,000,000) of eggs in 1899.

KIDNEY TROUBLES OF WOMEN

Miss Frederick's Letters Show How She Relied on Mrs. Pinkham and Was Cured.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have a yellow, muddy complexion, feel tired and have bearing down pains. Menses have not appeared for three months; sometimes am troubled with a white discharge. Also have kidney and bladder trouble.

I have been this way for a long time, and feel so miserable I thought I would write to you and see if you could do me any good."—MISS EDNA FREDERICK, Troy, Ohio, Aug. 6, 1899.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound according to directions, and can say I have not felt so well for years as I do at present. Before taking your medicine a more miserable person you never saw. I could not eat or sleep, and did not care to talk with any one. Now I feel so well I cannot be grateful enough to you for what you have done for me."—MISS EDNA FREDERICK, Troy, Ohio, Sept. 10, 1899.

Backache Cured

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I write to thank you for the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me. It is the only medicine I have found that helped me. I doctored with one of the best physicians in the city of New York, but received no benefit. I had been ailing for about sixteen years, was so weak and nervous that I could hardly walk; had continued pain in my back and was troubled with leucorrhœa. Menses were irregular and painful. Words cannot express the benefit I have derived from the use of your medicine. I heartily recommend it to all suffering women."—MRS. MARY BARSHINGER, Windsor, Pa.

An Eye for Realism.

The new reporter in his story of the wedding wrote: "The floral display stretched from the chancel rail to the doors of the church."

The city editor, in a mild manner, as is the custom of city editors with new reporters, suggested:

"Couldn't you have used a better word than 'stretched?' Say the floral display 'nodded,' or 'twined,' or something like that—some word more suggestive of flowers."

"'Stretched' is all right," replied the new reporter, with the stubborn courage of a realist. "The decorations consisted of six rubber plants, and they had to stretch to go the distance."—Baltimore American.

Mrs. Austin's new dress is fine as silk.

Big Expenses of Railroads.

The railroads of the United States expend in a year a sum more than $100,000,000 in excess of the total expenditures of the United States government, and this computation does not include nearly $250,000,000 paid in the form of interest upon railroad bonds or guaranteed stock, and from $80,000,000 to $100,000,000 paid in the form of dividends to stockholders. The railroads, indeed, are the great disbursing agencies of the country, handling never less than $1,000,000,000 in a year and disbursing it all, or practically all, for railroads, as a rule, do not keep large bank accounts and do practically a cash business, turning money rapidly.

What Shall We Have for Dessert?

This question arises in the family every day. Let us answer it to-day. Try Jell-O, a delicious and healthful dessert. Prepared in two minutes. No boiling! no baking! simply add a little hot water and set to cool. Flavors:—Lemon, Orange, Raspberry and Strawberry. At your grocers. 10 cts.

Sir Evelyn Wood's Escape.

Sir Evelyn Wood had a narrow escape from being shot by one of his own men during the Zulu war. He was visiting the outposts one night at Buffalo Heights when he was challenged. Not hearing the challenge, he, of course, did not reply, and the soldier at once fired at him at very short range, but luckily the man's aim was untrue.

Mrs. Austin's new dress is fine as silk.

Korean Paper.

Korean paper is superior to that of either China or Japan, in both of which countries it is in demand for umbrella covers, roofing and as a substitute for window glass

The Nickel Plate Road

Will sell excursion tickets to Fort Wayne, Ind., on Sept. 9th to 12th, inclusive, account of the National Encampment of the Union Veteran Legion, at one fare for the round trip; good returning until the 18th, inclusive, on any one of our Peerless Trio of Daily Express Trains where scheduled to stop. Write, wire, 'phone or call on nearest agent or C. A. Asterlin, T. P. A., Fort Wayne, Ind.

Air Cushion Rubber Stamps—the Best—the Cheapest. Send your orders to Lock Bdx 219, Fort Wayne, Ind.

Mrs. Winslow's SOOTHING SYRUP for Children teething; softens the gums, reduces inflammation allays pain, cures wind colic. 25 cents a bottle.

Governor Eyre.

Thirty-five years ago all England was ringing with the name of Governor Eyre; now he has completely passed out of public memory. This former Governor of Jamaica, whose suppression of a revolt in that island created such a ferment in the England of the sixties, is not only alive but hale and hearty, in his Devonshire retreat. He is 85, and has been enjoying the pension of a retired colonial governor for twenty-six years.

What Do the Children Drink?

Don't give them tea or coffee. Have you tried the new food drink called GRAIN-O? It is delicious and nourishing, and takes the place of coffee. The more Grain-O you give the children the more health you distribute through their systems. Grain-O is made of pure grains, and when properly prepared tastes like the choice grades of coffee, but costs about ¼ as much. All grocers sel it. 15c and 25c.

Reserved.

She—Our neighbors are dreadfully reserved.

He—Yes?

She—Yes, we've had our new hatrack two days now, and not a soul of them has been over to see how much it cost!—Detroit Journal.

Lane's Family Medicine

Moves the bowels each day. In order to be healthy this is necessary. Acts gently on the liver and kidneys. Cures sick headache. Price 25 and 50c.

Population of Palestine.

The population of Palestine is increasing rapidly. Ten years ago there were only 15,000 residents in Jaffa; to-day there are nearly 50,000.

Mrs. Austin's new dress is fine as silk.

Of all the blunders made by some farmers the greatest is the habit of cutting and slashing fruit trees.

If you want the Best there is, tell your Job Printer to use Eagle Linen for your Letter Heads and Envelopes.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

DROPSY NEW DISCOVERY; gives quick relief & cures worst cases. Book of testimonials and 10 DAYS' treatment FREE. Dr. H. H. Green's Sons, Box B, Atlanta, Ga.

CHICAGO TO OMAHA

ILLINOIS CENTRAL RAILROAD — MISSISSIPPI VALLEY ROUTE

Double Daily Service

New line via Rockford, Dubuque, Waterloo, Fort Dodge and Council Bluffs. Buffet-library-smoking-cars, sleeping cars, free reclining chair cars, dining cars. Send to the undersigned for a free copy of Pictures and Notes En-Route illustrating this new line as seen from the car window. Tickets of agents of I. C. R. R. and connecting lines. A. H. HANSON, G. P. A., Chicago.

NEBRASKA THE LAND OF PLENTY

I wonder why it is that so many men spend their days working hard on rented farms, barely making enough to get along, with no great prospect ahead of owning their own homes, when within a few hours' journey is a land of plenty—Nebraska—where all kinds of grain and fruit can be raised with the least amount of labor; where cattle and hogs fed on corn bring a handsome profit; where the climate is healthful and churches and schools abound; where land is cheap and can be bought on very easy terms.

Think of this, and if you want information about the country send to me for "The Corn Belt," a beautifully illustrated monthly paper that tells all about Nebraska, and also for "The West Nebraska Grazing Country," an interesting illustrated booklet containing a large sectional map of Nebraska.

On the first and third Tuesdays of each month during the balance of this year cheap excursion tickets will be sold over our road to Nebraska, so that people may go and see for themselves. Ask your ticket agent about this.

P. S. EUSTIS, Gen'l Pass'r Agt. C. B. & Q. R. R. CHICAGO, ILL.

F. W. N. U. - - No. 35—1900.

When Writing to Advertisers please say you saw the Advertisement in this paper

Most everybody knows something about

Old Virginia Cheroots

as 300,000,000 of them are being smoked this year. Ask anybody about them, if you have never smoked them yourself. They have made their own reputation and their own place in the cigar trade, wholly on their merits. Three good smokes for five cents, and no waste!

Three hundred million Old Virginia Cheroots smoked this year. Ask your own dealer. Price, 3 for 5 cents.

SEND NO MONEY

$16.97

We ask no money until you have examined the machine and convinced yourself it is such a machine as was never before offered at anything like the price. OUR OFFER. Mention No. 98 if you have any use for a sewing machine. Don't send one cent of money, but write your name plainly and in full, name of postoffice and nearest railroad station, and we will send this drop head 5-drawer Cabinet Blue Ribbon Sewing Machine to your railroad station. PREPAYING ALL FREIGHT CHARGES ourselves; go home and examine it, call in any expert to examine it, compare it with machines that others sell at $40 to $50, and if every one pronounces it in every way the equal of such machines, the most wonderful bargain you ever heard of, pay freight agent our special introductory price, $16.97. If it is not perfectly satisfactory in every way, you will be under no obligations to take it. $16.97, freight and collection charges paid by us to any town east of Rocky Mountains for this No. 98 machine in our new Grand Five Drawer Drop Head Cabinet Blue Ribbon, to introduce it and supplant all previous attempts at Sewing Machine values. Guaranteed 20 Years.

T. M. ROBERTS' SUPPLY HOUSE, Minneapolis, Minn.

BEST MINNESOTA PATENT FLOUR — TRIPLE FINE 2nd GRADE FLOUR — T. M. ROBERTS MINNEAPOLIS

Roberts' Best Patent Flour. Fully guaranteed; none better at any price. Roberts' Best Minnesota Patent, guaranteed equal to any flour made; 98-lb. sacks, $1.05; 49-lb. sack, $1 Patent, same as good many sell for best, $1.25. Try a sack with your next order and you will always use Roberts' Flour. CARPETS—Over fifteen carloads of carpets at half the price your dealer pays for them. Carpets for 12 cents that others ask 25 or 30 cts. for. Carpets for 20 cts. per yd. that others ask from 35 to 40 cts. for. FINE OLD RIO COFFEE, 10 lbs. 97 cents. Include some in your next order. Send for free Catalogue and save money. We are offering FIVE TOP BUGGIES, PHAETONS, FIVE BURKETS, ROAD CARTS, ROAD WAGONS, etc., at all per cent less than they retail for. Our Special Vehicle and Harness Catalogue contains the latest and best goods for less. Send your name at once and we will send it free. Bale One Prices on Flour. We are selling best Minnesota Flour at $1.35 per sack. Order now all you will need for several months.

T. M. ROBERTS SUPPLY HOUSE, Minneapolis, Minn.

900 DROPS

CASTORIA

A Vegetable Preparation for Assimilating the Food and Regulating the Stomachs and Bowels of

INFANTS CHILDREN

Promotes Digestion, Cheerfulness and Rest. Contains neither Opium, Morphine nor Mineral. NOT NARCOTIC.

Recipe of Old Dr SAMUEL PITCHER

A perfect Remedy for Constipation, Sour Stomach, Diarrhoea, Worms, Convulsions, Feverishness and LOSS OF SLEEP.

Fac Simile Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. NEW YORK.

At 6 months old 35 DOSES – 35 CENTS

EXACT COPY OF WRAPPER.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

In Use For Over Thirty Years

CASTORIA

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine.

Rotary Motion and Ball Bearings.

Porter Depew, Agent.

CHICHESTER'S ENGLISH PENNYROYAL PILLS

Safe. Always reliable. Ladies, ask Druggist for CHICHESTER'S ENGLISH in Red and Gold metallic boxes, sealed with blue ribbon. Take no other. Refuse dangerous substitutions and imitations. Buy of your Druggist, or send 4c. in stamps for Particulars, Testimonials and "Relief for Ladies," in letter, by return Mail. 10,000 Testimonials. Sold by all Druggists.

CHICHESTER CHEMICAL CO. 2100 Madison Square, PHILA., PA. Mention this paper.

Mott's Nerverine Pills

BEFORE AND AFTER USING.

The great remedy for nervous prostration and all nervous diseases of the generative organs of either sex, such as Nervous Prostration, Failing or lost Manhood, Impotency, Nightly Emissions, Youthful Errors, Mental Worry, excessive use of Tobacco or Opium, which lead to Consumption and Insanity. $1.00 per box by mail; 6 boxes for $5.00. MOTT'S CHEMICAL CO., Prop's, Cleveland, Ohio.

Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

MOTT'S PENNYROYAL PILLS

They overcome Weakness, irregularity and omissions, increase vigor and banish "pains of menstruation." They are "Life Savers" to girls at womanhood, aiding development of organs and body. No known remedy for women equals them. Cannot do harm—life becomes a pleasure. $1 per box by mail. Sold by druggists. MOTT CHEMICAL CO., Cleveland, O.

Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

PATENTS

DESIGNS TRADE-MARKS AND COPYRIGHTS OBTAINED

ADVICE AS TO PATENTABILITY Notice in "Inventive Age" Book "How to obtain Patents" FREE

Charges moderate. No fee till patent is secured. Letters strictly confidential. Address, E. G. SIGGERS, Patent Lawyer, Washington, D. C.

PILES

Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment will cure Blind, Bleeding and Itching Piles. It absorbs the tumors, allays the itching at once, acts as a poultice, gives instant relief. Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment is prepared for Piles and Itching of the private parts. Every box is warranted. By druggists, by mail on receipt of price, 50 cents and $1.00. WILLIAMS MANUFACTURING CO., Props., Cleveland, Ohio.

Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

Foley's Kidney Cure makes kidneys and bladder right.

Notice to Contractors.

Notice is hereby given that the Auditor of DeKalb county, Indiana, will, on Saturday, September 15, 1900,

at the hour of 2 p. m., in the office of the auditor in the court house in the town of Auburn, Indiana, will receive sealed proposals for the construction of the William Spangler et al. ditch No. 705½, located in Union and Jackson townships, said DeKalb county, Indiana, and described as follows, to-wit:

FIRST SECTION.

Commencing fourteen rods north of the west quarter corner of section thirty-one (31), township thirty-four (34) north, range thirteen (13) east, DeKalb county, Indiana, and from thence in a southeasterly direction ending at Stake No. 25. All of said section to be tiled.

SECOND SECTION.

Commencing at Stake No. 25 of said ditch and ending at Stake No. 50. All of said section to be tiled.

THIRD SECTION.

Commencing at Stake No. 50 and ending at Stake No. 71 plus 74 feet, said ending being at the iron pipe under the Baltimore, Ohio & Chicago railroad where the Hague ditch crosses said railroad. Said section to be tiled to Stake 56 plus 76 feet; the remaining portion of said ditch to be constructed as an open ditch.

Said ditch will be sold in three (3) sections as described above to the lowest responsible bidder.

Each bid must be accompanied with a certified check or its equivalent to the amount of twenty-five dollars ($25.)

But no bid will be entertained which exceeds the estimated cost of construction as set forth in the engineer's and viewers' report.

All contractors will be required to keep their sections well staked and numbered and comply with all requests made by the engineer or surveyor in charge.

Also all contractors will be required to enter into contract and execute a bond in compliance with the provisions of law (Acts 1899, page 329.)

Specifications of said work can be seen in the County Auditor's office in Auburn, or at the County Surveyor's office.

The entire work is to be completed by November 14, 1900.

The Auditor reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

F. P. SEILER,
Auditor DeKalb County, Indiana.

Dated August 31, 1900.

Cured of Chronic Diarrhoea After Thirty Years of Suffering.

"I suffered for thirty years with diarrhoea and thought I was past being cured," says John S. Halloway, of French Camp, Miss. "I had spent so much time and money and suffered so much that I had given up all hopes of recovery. I was so feeble from the effects of the diarrhoea that I could do no kind of labor, could not even travel, but by accident was permitted to find a bottle of Chamberlain's Cholic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and after taking several bottles I am entirely cured of that trouble. I am so pleased that I am anxious that it be in reach of all who suffer as I have." For sale by H. B. McCord.

CASTORIA.
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

Value of Printer's Ink.

On the arrival of twins in the family a little miss exclaimed: "I'll just bet mamma discovered them on a bargain counter, or she wouldn't have bought two," which only goes to show that bargain advertisements begin to impress the feminine mind at a very early age

$31.50 Round Trip to Denver, Colorado Springs and Pueblo.

From Chicago via Chicago, Union Pacific and North-Western Line, August 21, September 4 and 18, good returning until October 31. Also very low rates given on the same dates to Glenwood Springs, Ogden, Salt Lake City, Hot Springs, Deadwood and Rapid City, S. Dak., Casper, Wyo. Quickest time. Best service. All agents sell tickets via Chicago and North Western R'y. For full particulars address, A. H. Wagner, 22 Fifth avenue, Chicago, Ill. s10

Stops The Cough and Works off the Cold.

Laxative Bromo-Quinine Tablets cure a cold in one day. No Cure, no Pay. Price 25 cents.

Wednesday's Daily.

—Frank Baughman and wife of north Jackson street are entertaining a new daughter, born last Sunday.

—Dr. Matheny and family have returned from their outing at Lake George, all looking healthy and rugged.

FOR SALE:—A team of good work horses, with wagon and harness; also a good, fresh milch cow. See John Groscop. d1wtf

—Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Abel entertained as guests last Friday evening—Messrs. Francis Kimes and Charles Hart of Spencerville.

—WANTED:—Black Walnut logs for timber. Highest cash prices paid for same. Address, The Sanders & Egbert Co., Goshen, Ind. 8

—Miss Mildred Bacon, who has been visiting with Mr. and Mrs. William Huffman, returned to her home in Chicago last Saturday.

—Peter Loutzenheiser is still working his gold mine. They found several more articles out there yesterday, some of them in good condition.

—Mrs. B. A. Miller, near Moores, has been quite sick, but is improving; and Mrs. Benner, the Junction, is also improving, as reported by Dr. Stamets yesterday.

—An old laborer near Churubusco was robbed the other day of nearly $400, the savings of many years of hard toil, which he carried with him in an old coat rather than deposit it in a bank. He had laid the coat down in a fence corner while at work.

—Mrs. G. W. Gordon entertained at dinner today Mrs. Summers of Pueblo., Colo.; Mrs. Ralston of Paxton, Ill.; Mrs. Goetschius, of Salt Lake City, Utah; Mrs. Ensley of Indianapolis, and Mrs. Murphy of Auburn. The combined weight of the four ladies first named is 800 pounds.

—Married, yesterday at 5 p. m. at Wolf's hotel, Auburn Junction, by J. D. Brosy, Jacob Presler of Hicksville, Ohio, and Harriet A. Shreeves of Illinois. They met at Auburn Junction, were united in marriage and left on the east-bound B. & O. train for Hicksville where they will make their future home.

—Secretary Downing of the state board of agriculture has arranged for a race at the state fair between Anaconda and Searchlight. This will prove the star attraction of the fair, as both horses are high class and will go for a good purse. The race will be in heats—three best out of five—and the winner will receive 60 per cent. of the purse of $2,000, the balance going to the loser.

—YOUNG MEN WANTED:—With fair education and good character, to learn telegraphy, railroad accounting and typewriting. This is endorsed by all leading railroad companies as the only perfect and reliable institution of its kind. All our graduates are assisted to positions. Ladies also admitted. Write for free catalogue. Fall term opens August 15th.—Globe Telegraph College, Lexington, Ky. tf

Friday's Daily.

—Rev. W. A. Pavy, a singing evangelist, will be at the Baptist church on Sunday, September 9.

—C. A. Towsley and wife and Miss Minnie Hornberger are here from Elkhart for a visit with relatives and friends.

—The Northern Indiana Synod of the Lutheran church will meet at North Manchester, October 2d, and continue through the following Sunday.

—John Treesh and his force of helpers were at work today putting down a fine cement walk in front of the Mart Sheets business block on Ninth street.

—Lodewick is putting in the most of his time marketing his muskmelons, of which he has several fine varieties. His watermelons did not do so well.

—The secretary of the proposed Ohio centennial exposition at Toledo is paying back the money subscribed, the action of the legislature in refusng to vote aid having killed the affair.

—I. N. Shilling who has had a store at Mount Hope for several years, has sold out and will move onto his farm near Butler. He is a progressive farmer, and prefers that business to work in a store.

—County Clerk Long, who has been laid up for several days at his home in Butler by sickness, came down today for a short visit at the office, which i in charge of George Ralston and Miss Ernest in the absence of Mr. Long's deputy, Mrs. Link.

—We hope that at the next open air meeting, and all future meetings by either party, that we shall not be annoyed by the ill breeding of young people walking about the ground talking and chaffing each other in such a loud manner. Good breeding is appreciated in all assemblages and people can enjoy themselves in a less boisterous manner.

—There was a good audience present to hear Mr. Burke last evening, and his speech was well received. He is an able man, and was, it will be remembered, a prominent candidate for governor at the democratic state convention. Being the congressional candidate in his district he will soon quit the state at large, and attend to his own canvass.

—Columbia City Post.—J. H. Hart, of Elamwood, Neb., is visiting in the city and vicinity. The gentleman was a member of the 44th I. V. I., having in early years been a resident of DeKalb county. He left home for the purpose of attending the national encampment, but on arriving in Chicago, found such a big crowd that he decided to come on to this place and spend the time.

Thursday's Daily.

—Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bush of Wilmington were in town on business yesterday.

—Miss Gusta Haines has returned from a visit with relatives in Steuben county.

—William Fretz is moving into the new Lockwood house in the north part of town.

—Miss Hazel Neff of Plymouth is visiting her aunts, the Misses Hartle, in the country, and friends in Auburn.

—One farmer near Goshen raised 100 bushels of pickles from an acre and a quarter, and has not picked half his crop.

—Mrs. Mary Houghton fell down the cellar stairs, Monday, and is nearly helpless. Her condition is considered critical.

—Major Leo Rassieur of St. Louis was today elected commander-in-chief of the G. A. R. by the national encampment at Chicago.

—Mrs. William Hough and baby Helen of Litchfield, Mich., are guests of the former's brother and sister, Frank and Lydia Hogue.

—A Michigan exchange gives as a political pointer that all the pickle raisers have declared for brine. That is a salty pointer to say the least.

—Louis Barbeau of Tiffin, O., and Miss Emma Butler of Waterloo will be united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents in the latter place this evening.

—The notice of Mrs. Lew Culler that we publish shows shows that she is still with the cloak house of Schlessinger in Chicago. She has been employed there for some time.

—A letter from Frank Davenport at Chicago says they are locating in a nice home at No. 2702 Robey street, where their friends will find the latch string out at any time.

—We publish today a letter from Mr. Guild which will be read with great pleasure by all. He had expected to send several to the COURIER but we presume has been too busy so far.

—Herman Brown returned home yesterday afternoon from a week's stay in Michigan, where he was doing expert work for the McCormick company, displaying the merits of their corn harvesters.

—At the Knights of Pythias supreme lodge meeting in Detroit today, Ogden H. Feathers of Janesville, Wis., was elected supreme chancellor. San Francisco was selected as the place of next year's meeting.

—A party of Auburn gentlemen go tomorrow up to Silver Lake, about thirty miles from here, to fish, eat peaches and take a rest. They are, H. H. Weaver, Nathan Johnson, William Stafford and Wesley Showers.

—Ed. Randall, who has been here from Hudson Mich., for some time, has just completed a fine job of graining and frescoing in the new school house in district No. 1, Jackson township. Mr. Randall is a first-class workman.

—Rev. F. C. Colvin and wife and little Waldo, will return tomorrow to their home in Cassopolis. He had spent his vacation as usual, with his mother in Eastern Ohio, and she had visited the relatives and old neighbors in Auburn.

—Hon. Freeman Kelley was here today on business connected with the estate of the late Mrs. Amy R. Kelley. He is executor of her will. She had considerable property, and the choice of Mr. Kelley was a wise one, as he has always been familiar with her affairs.

—At a recent meeting of the democratic county executive committee Hon. C. M. Brown was given charge of the matter of securing speakers for the campaign in the county, and Dr. Nusbaum was selected chairman of a committee to organize precinct and township clubs.

—Married, at the Lutheran parsonage in Auburn, by Rev. J. D. Brosy, on Thursday, August 29, at 3:30 p. m., Virgil Latson and Emma Treesh. Both are from near Corunna, Ind. They will make their home on the bride's mother's farm. We wish them a happy and successful life.

—A young tramp named Allman, sixteen years old and an orphan who had been making his home with an aunt at Taunton, Mass., fell from a train east of Waterloo Tuesday night and was so badly injured that he died about five hours later. He was buried at Waterloo at the expense of the township.

—L. E. Lane, who has been engaged in the laundry business at Ashtabula, O., has accepted an offer to take charge of the laundry at the Feeble-minded Institute near Fort Wayne, and will assume his duties at once. Mr. Lane is an experienced man in this line of work and will give the institution good service.

—The Clipper is way off in the Allen Weyer matter. Alvin Weyer who owns a store at Garrett is an older brother. The one we speak of is Allen the youngest boy, and in that we are correct. We distinctly said the other members of the family are all right as far as we know, including Alvin, whose home is now in Chicago, though he owns a store in Garrett.

—B. F. Earl, deputy sheriff of Berrien county, Michigan was here over night and returned to Niles with Harry Carter and Charlie Steentra, the boys wanted at that place for burglary. Carter seemed to take the matter as a joke but young Steenstra, was not inclined to laugh about it. DeKalb county has got rid of another expense through the vigilance of the sheriff.

CASTORIA.
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

What Will Bryan's Plurality be in Indiana?

76 Guesses

$1,000 To The Winners

$1,000

IN PRIZES to 76 subscribers to THE INDIANA STATE SENTINEL who come nearest guessing the plurality Indiana will give Bryan over McKinley.

The publishers of The Indiana State Sentinel will award seventy-six prizes to seventy-six subscribers, who at any time before the close of the polls Tuesday, Nov. 6, correctly estimate or come nearest doing so, Bryan and Stevenson's plurality over McKinley and Roosevelt in Indiana.

First prize	$300.00
Second prize	200.00
Third prize	100.00
Fourth prize	75.00
Fifth prize	50.00
Sixth prize	25.00
5 prizes of $15 each	75.00
5 prizes of $10 each	50.00
10 prizes of $5 each	50.00
25 prizes of $2 each	50.00
25 prizes of $1 each	25.00
	1,000.00

NOTE—The result will be decided from the vote cast for the head of the democratic electoral ticket.

If the unexpected should happen and Mr. Bryan not carry the state, then the lowest plurality guess, or the one nearest the result, will get the prize.

Where two or more guesses are the same, the first one received will be awarded the prize.

Guessers should be careful to write name and address plainly, and also state whether they are an old or new subscriber.

Conditions.

Any subscriber, old or new, is entitled to one guess on payment of 50 cents—one year's subscription—received at this office before the close of polls on election day—Tuesday, Nov. 6, 1900. The name of subscriber remitting the money will be recorded with the figures of his guess. The receipt of money, as well as his estimate of Bryan and Stevenson's plurality over McKinley and Roosevelt in Indiana, will be acknowledged, and should be laid aside by him until the official vote of Indiana shall have been ascertained, when the names of prize-takers will be duly announced in these columns.

If your subscription is not paid in advance pay it now and participate in this great distribution of actual money. If your subscription is paid in advance, send us 50 cents for another year and give a guess. You stand a chance of getting $300 for 50 cents, and if you do not hit a prize you have your money's worth in The Indiana State Sentinel, the greatest family newspaper in the West.

SEND in your 50 cents with your guess at once. Your judgment is as likely to be correct at this time as it is the day before election. Be careful to date your guesses, and remember you can have as many guesses as you take subscriptions to The Indiana State Sentinel.

CUT THIS OUT AND SEND TO INDIANAPOLIS SENTINEL CO. INDIANAPOLIS, IND.

SENT BY .....

P. O. .....

COUNTY..... STATE.....

My Guess Bryan and Stevenson's plurality over McKinley and Roosevelt in Indiana will be..... Enclosed find 50 cents for which send THE INDIANA STATE SENTINEL for one year

TO .....

.....

If The Indiana State Sentinel is already going to this address send for one year from date present subscription expires.

Saturday's Daily.

—C. C. Garver of Morenci, Mich., was here last eight on business.

—The Steuben county telephone company is extending its lines to Coldwater.

—Surveyor Krontz and H. C. Shull are surveying a ditch on the old Shull farm beyond the Junction today.

—Alvin Baker and wife reached home last evening and we are glad to note that the former has almost entirely recovered.

—Wm. R. Thomas of Richland will move to town and occupy the Benedict home on West Ninth street. We believe he has purchased it.

—Mrs. Cool is here from Toledo looking after some improvements about her residence property on north Main street, which will include a new cement walk.

—WANTED:—Girl or woman for general house work. Good wages Transportation advanced. Address Mrs. Carrie Culler, 148 State St., Schlesinger Cloak House, Chicago, Ill. 36

—W. F. Kessler went to Columbus, Ohio, today, where he will exhibit his new flower stand. He will show the stand, which is the best thing ever seen on the market, at the Indiana state fair.

The actual number of old veterans who appeared in the grand parade at Chicago on Tuesday was 25,352. It was perhaps the largest parade and the greatest crowd that will ever assemble on such an occasion.

—Gen James R. Carnahan of Indianapolis has been reappointed major-general in command of the Uniform Rank, Knights of Pythias, by the supreme lodge. C. F. S. Neal of Lebanon was chosen a member of the board of control.

—Insurance rates will be raised in almost every city in the United States within the next year. The leading companies of the country have decided to protect themselves against the losses to which they have been subjected in the last two years and have agreed to appoint all details for the increase. Just when the change will be advanced is not known.

—We were pleased to meet Calvin Noragon this morning, and his old Franklin neighbors will be glad to hear that he is prospering. He has been in the piano and organ business for about ten years. His home is in Constantine, Mich., and his family have been here several days with J. A. Clifton and wife. Mr. Clifton and Mrs. Noragon are brother and sister.

—A long list of prizes will be offered at the state fair for the best products of Indiana kitchens, and women over the state are rapidly sending in lists of articles they will exhibit. The department of table luxuries is one of the oldest at the Indiana state fair, and from the beginning it has been a question with the state board of agriculture every year how to make room for all the delicacies the housekeepers of the state prepared with their own hands and sent to the fair grounds.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY.

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. E. W. Grove's signature is on each box. 25c

DEMOCRATS!

The Struggle Is On!

EVERY LITTLE HELPS—WILL YOU DO YOUR SHARE?

HOW? Have a picture of our great leader,

WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN,

where all can see it, and get your friends to do likewise.

Send us three two-cent stamps to cover costs and we will mail you an elegant phototyve picture of W. J. BRYAN. We want you to display them in your home. Or if you will give twenty away to your friends to display, we will send you one of them beautifully framed in Oak, with glass front, suitable for office, home or club, and also 20 of the phototyves to distribute to your friends, for One Dollar—cash or stamps.

Don't delay. Time is short and our opponents are working hard. The Democratic Party needs your help now. Push the good work along.

SOUTHERN REVIEW OF COMMERCE—* * * A work of art. * * * It should be widely distributed.

BOND INVESTMENT FIELD—* * * A masterpiece * * * Flood the country with them. A little effort and the victory is ours.

NATIONAL DEMOCRATIC ADVANCEMENT LEAGUE,
Headquarters Suite 31, Selves Building,
CINCINNATI, OHIO.

MONEY TO LOAN

At 5 %

We are prepared to place loans on farm property in DeKalb county in sums of $700 and upwards for 5 years at 5 per cent with the priviledge of paying the same in payments of $100 or any multiple thereof at any interest pay day.

RICHARDS & BIRDSALL,
Hicksville, Ohio.

—"I had a running sore on my leg for seven years," writes Mrs. Jas Forest of Chippewa Falls, Wis., "and spent hundreds of dollars in trying to get it healed. Two boxes of Bucklen's Arnica Salve entirely cured it." H. B. McCord.

—In novels, when a man asks a woman to marry, she has to wait a long time and think it all over before she decides to say yes, but in real life when a man pops the question she spits out her chewing gum so quick that it fairly makes his teeth chatter.

THE AUBURN COURIER.

Volume XXX | Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana, Thursday, September 13, 1900. | Number 37.

The Farmers Bank of Auburn,

Uunder State Supervision and Control.

Capital and Surplus $50,000.00
Assets at Last Official Statement.....$346,278.95

Pays interest on deposits if left four months; Loans money and transacts a general banking business.

YOUR BUSINESS IS SOLICITED!

ALBERT ROBBINS, President;
A. C. ROBBINS, Cashier

The McClellan Bank,

AUBURN, IND

Certificates of deposits issued, drawing interest if left six months. County and Town Orders bought and sold. Money Loaned on Farms, Personal Security, or Live Stock. Notes bought.

C. A. O. McCLELLAN, ESTATE
CHARLES McCLELLAN
D. A. GARWOOD,
ISAAC HAGUE. } C. A. BENEDICT, Cashier

Physicians and SURGEONS

O. J. Swarts, M. D
Vesta W. Swarts, M D

Office at Auburn Sanitary Baths, corner Main and Sixth Streets.

Professional Calls Promptly Answered.

PHONES: Western..... No. 19
Central Union..... No. 19

Sprott & Knapp,

Abstracters of Titles to Land and Lots, AUBURN, IND.

☞ Office in Gandy Block, North of Court House.

J.E. Graham, D.D.S.

DENTIST

Over Davenport's Drugstore, Auburn, Ind.

CROWN AND BRIDGE WORK A SPECIALTY.

All Work Guaranteed | Gas Administered.

CENTRAL 'PHONE 513.

Will be at Waterloo each Wednesday in Dr. Darby's Office

DENTIST F. W. HOFFMAN,

Auburn, Ind,

Office in Gandy Building, Northeast Corner of Court Square.

WESTERN 'PHONE 103.

Crown and Bridge Work a Sprcialty.

DR. Z. H. STAMETS,

Physician & Surgeon

Office on Main street opposite Swinefotd Hotel.

Western 'Phone 104

Special attention given to all diseases of stomach and kidneys, and to chronic and obscure diseases; surgery and diseases of women and children. Calls answered at all hours. Office apart from residence.

There is Money in Junk

for you if you save it for H. Greenburg who

PAYS BEST CASH PRICES

for rags, rubber, copper, brass, zinc, lead, scrap iron and all kinds of hides and furs. Also buys and sells second-hand material stoves and furnaces, etc. Persons having second-hand material to buy or sell it will be to their interest to see

H. GREENBURG,

North VanBuren St.,

Auburn, Indiana.

L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE—In Effect April 29, 1900.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Stations	Mail	Exp'ss	Fre'gt
Fort Wayne.....	11 55 am	5 00 pm	5 55 am
New Era	12 10 pm	5 30	6 40
Auburn Junction.	12 20	5 40	7 10
Auburn	12 28	5 48	7 25
Waterloo	12 43	6 04	9 35
Summit.....	12 52	6 13	8 55
Steubenville.....	12 56	6 15
Pleasant Lake....	1 08	6 28	9 20
Angola	1 13	6 33	9 35
Jackson	1 25	6 45	9 50

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations	Fre'gt	Exp'ss	Mail
Jackson .....dp	8 10 am	11 45 am	7 40 am
Angola	11 00	2 10 pm	9 55
Pleasant Lake.....	11 05	2 20	10 03
Steubenville.....	.....	2 32	10 15
Summit.....	11 09	2 39	10 25
Waterloo.....	12 43 pm	2 55	10 35
Auburn.....	1 20	3 05	10 44
Auburn Junction..	1 35	3 20	10 47
New Era	1 54	3 10	10 55
Fort Wayne.....	2 30	4 00	11 35

For rates on tickets or freight to all points call on or address E. E. DeLAPP, Agent Auburn.

The Joint Convention.

The democratic joint convention to nominate a candidate for senator and prosecutor, was held at Waterloo yesterday, Sept. 5. Chairman Walter called the meeting to order, and W. F. C. Francis was made chairman and J. W. Baxter secretary.

For state senator, Charles Bruce of Ashley was nominated unanimously. Frank VanAuken had been announced, but withdrew as he is already a candidate for presidential elector.

Edward McKinnon of Garrett and Joseph Butler of Angola were named for prosecutor. McKinnon got six votes from DeKalb county and Mr. Butler twelve. Butler got the entire eight from Steuben. He has served one term as prosecutor.

Bruce is a nephew of O. C. Clark of Keyser, in which township he was born. He is a railroad employe, having worked at Garrett, Butler and Ashley Back from Europe.

The first returning Auburn pilgrim, was Dr. Swarts, who reached home this morning in excellent health and spirits. He had to hold an informal reception under the shade of his maples, and talk Europe for an hour or two. He has evidently traveled with both eyes open and has seen and heard all within reach. He met Henry McIntyre but none of the others. In one city he found Sousa's band playing for a big beef garden at about $600 a day. Americans were in evidence wherever he went, and he did not see a country or a people, or a flag he would exchange for his own at any rate of premium. His return home was a little earlier than he had expected, as he was obliged to take the ship he did or wait till the last week in September for another. So he took the only berth left and came home. The Doc has been missed from his accustomed place in the shade of his pleasant home for a long time, and we unite with the rest of our people in a welcome home.

An Editor

Of Clarence, Iowa, Mr. Clark Smith, writes: "Since the agency of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin was established here I have been a user of what I can call 'that excellent medicine.' For a year or more I have been troubled with constipation, indigestion, dyspepsia, etc., and I find that this remedy is just what I have needed." H. B. McCord.

Horse Stolen.

Walter Likens was in town last evening and hitched his rig to the railing at the public square. He had brought in something to sell, and had some matters to attend to and was away from his rig an hour or two. As soon as his business was done he went to get his team and it was not there. It has not been heard from. Today postal cards have been sent in every direction, but whether the rig will ever be found is doubtful. The great trouble seems to be that parties who lose horses, do not want to pay for hunting. The sheriff cannot afford to hunt them for nothing and pay his own expenses, and the county is not allowed to pay it. And there it is.

Quickly Done.

NASHVILLE, TENN., June 1, 1900.
BARNES BOTANIC DRUG CO.,
TULLAHOMA, TENN.

GENTLEMEN;—I was taken with a severe pain in my back and to my best knowledge it was caused by my kidneys. I tried local applications to my back without relief. One bottle of your Barnes Kidney & Bladder Cure gave me relief. Very respectfully,

M. W. ELLIS.

Shooting Seasons.

The seasons for shooting in Indiana are as as follows: Quail, pheasant, November 10 to January 1; turkey, November 1 to February 1; prairie chicken, September 1 to February 1; woodcock, July 1 to January 1; duck, Sept. 1 to April 15; squirrel, January 1 to December 20; keer, October 1 to January 1. Protected: Wild pigeon, dove, imported pheasants, until 1905. Prohibited: Killing for sale and exporting.

In every town and village may be had the

Mica Axle Grease

that makes your horses glad.

Made by Standard Oil Co.

TERRIBLE ACCIDENT.

A Man at Waterloo Has Both Legs Cut off by a Train.

One of the most terrible accidents reported for a long time, happened in Waterloo this forenoon. A painter doing work for the Lake Shore road was at work about the tracks, and carelessly walking along the tracks, heard a train and stepped to one side, and in front of the train which went over both legs. Dr. Nusbaum was sent for, but he came back saying the man must die, and they did not take off his legs. He realized his fate, and was perfectly cool and resigned. He sent for his wife at Adrian, their home. One leg is off and the other hangs by shreds, and he suffers greatly, but will not long. It is a sad case.

Appropriation Made by County Council.

Salary of county clerk.....	$2400 00
Stationery and other supplies.	300 00
Clerks allowance for reports, postage, etc.....	100 00
Clerks allowance for incidental	25 00
Salary of county auditor.....	2500 00
Do of deputy.....	300 00
Stationery and other supplies.	500 00
Auditors allowance for incidentals	50 00
Salary of county treasurer.....	2100 00
Stationery and othersupplies..	226 00
Salary of county sheriff.....	2300 00
Stationery and other supplies.	40 00
Sheriffs allowance for incidentals	45 00
Salary of county recorder.....	1500 00
Stationery and other supplies.	101 00
Recorder's allowance for binding the Waterloo Press and Auburn Courier.....	5 00
Salary of county surveyor.....	939 00
Do of deputy.....	500 00
Stationery and other supplies..	40 00
Surveyor's allowance for incidentals	57 00
Salary of county superintendent of schools.....	1240 00
Stationery and other supplies.	79 00
Do Sup't allowance for incidentals	78 00
Salary of truant officer.....	300 00
Stationery and other supplies..
County assessor, per diem.....	130 00
Salary of county council.....	70 00
County coroner, inquests.....	150 00
Twp. assessor, per diem and other expenses.
Butler township.....	85 00
Jackson "	120 00
Concord "	195 00
Newville "	90 00
Stafford "	65 00
Wilmington "	245 00
Union "	200 00
Richland "	140 00
Fairfield "	120 00
Smithfield "	170 00
Franklin "	120 00
Keyser.... "	250 00
Troy "	65 00
Grant "	140 00
Expenses of courts
Sheriff's allowance and per diem	350 00
Riding bailiff.....	200 00
Boarding jury.....	150 00
Assistance for prosecutor.....	150 00
Printing bar dockets.....	48 00
Allowance for court room incidentals.....	50 00
Bailiff hire(circuit court).....	300 00
Do (grand jury).....	50 00
Jury fees (grand).....	250 00
Do (petit).....	2500 00
Witness fees.....	25 00
Jury commissioners.....	24 00
Expense of grand jury.....	15 00
Court reporter.....	650 00
Defending pauper criminals...	75 00
Telephones for court room and clerks office.....	50 00
Allowance for misc's court expenses	50 00
Clerks allowance including per diem.....	600 00
Allowance clerk's expense postage internal revenue etc....	50 00
Change of venue.....	300 00
Insanity inquests.....	500 00
Board of commissioners(public buildings)
Public buildings	525 00
Janitor hire.....	360 00
Lighting court house and jail.	250 00
Fuel " " " " .	450 00
Incidentals water etc.....	150 00
Board washing and clothing for prisoners.....	900 00
County asylum, su'pt, employes and other expenses.....	1500 00
Do repair of buildings.....	200 00
New bridges.....	10000 00
Repairs for bridges.....	800 00
Expense of commissioners court	750 00
Do of baliff do do	100 00
Incidentals and supplies do do	75 00
Sheriff's allowance notifying comr's.....	25 00
Salary of county attorney.....	100 00
Fees of special attorney.....	50 00
Salary board of health secretary.....	313 00
Allowances for incidental, sec'y B. of H.....	10 00
Repairs of gravel roads.....	200 00
Deaf and dumb institution....	50 00
Feeble minded youth institution.....	50 00
Reform school for boys.....	150 00
Reform school for girls.....	175 00
Local printing.....	1000 00
Night watchman.....	75 00
School land appraisors.....	15 00
Office rent supt. of schools....	20 00
Surveyor for bridges, etc.....	25 00
Road viewers.....	75 00
Board of review per diem.....	162 00
Sheriff's fees b of r.....	10 00
Incidentals b of r.....	10 00
Township poor.....	1500 00
Burial of indigent soldiers and sailors	450 00
Orphan poor.....	300 00
Telephone toll.....	30 00
Insurance premiums.....	300 00
Poor not in county asylum.....	300 00
Reimbursing common school principal.....	445 00
Damages for new roads.....	200 00
Sheriff committing and discharging prisoners.....	75 00
Redemption of illegal tax sales.	300 00
Redemption of ditch tax.....	100 00
For all other incidental expenses.....	500 00
Telephone rent.....	100 00
Appropriations for the balance of the year 1900
Township poor.....	500 00
Expense of election.....	500 00
Court house incidentals.....	100 00
Books etc for poor children....	100 00
Local printing.....	100 00

Our Saturday Evenings.

CHAPTER XLVII.

A correspondent objects to the way the Waterloo Press speaks of the late Mrs. Leonard Walker, as "nee Minnie Schrader," in speaking of the sad accident that cost that worthy lady her life. We presume our correspondent has the right idea as to the use of the language. It should be "nee Schrader" if the foreign term "nee" is used at all. The word means "born." She was born Schrader, but not Minnie. The name Minnie was given her by her parents some time later than her birth. We are not greatly in favor of using the term or indeed many other foreign terms. It is about as easy to say "formerly Miss Minnie Schrader" etc, and that is correct and easily understood. Still we do not wish to criticise others. We have lingual troubles of our own.

We have just inspected a new and up-to date picture of the Indiana state seal, and feel gratified to find that after so many years standing by that tree with his arms crossed to grasp the axhandle, the man who is chopping a notch in the tree, has got onto his job. His arms are all right now, and we see no reason why he should not now go ahead and cut down the tree he started at in 1821. We are also pleased to note that the fleeing buffalo is getting fatter.

After all that is said as to first railroads in different parts of the country, it seems a little queer that we must concede the first road in the valley of the Mississippi to Missouri, a comparatively new state, yet such is the case. In 1851 a track a mile long was in operation from Independence to Wayne City, the latter being on the bank or bluff of the Missouri river. It was a horse railroad, but was quite useful. Wayne City has long since passed away, and the horse railroad is no more, but the older people of Independence have not forgotten this point in their history.

And though these horse railroads went into operation first, even in the east, it is true that the first real railroad was the B. & O., which started near Baltimore in 1832.

CASTORIA.

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

The Moving Pictures.

These are always wonderful though now now so common. And that at the M. E. church last evening had the added charm of the pathetic story of the sufferings of the Savior. They were photos of the representation by living persons in the Passion Play at Oberammergau, in Bavaria, with which we have now become fairly familiar, through Mr. Guild's letter in the COURIER as well as quite a full description in our "Saturday." The pictures last evening were good and well handled. There was a fair sized audience who regarded these scenes with great interest, Not the least wonderful was the fine gesturing and posturing of the figures, showing the great talent of these Bavarian peasants in that difficult part of their duties as actors in the great drama. In all their movements they were graceful ard dignified, and though no words were spoken, the gestures and posturing readily led the mind to what was being said. Whatever opinion one may hold as to the propriety of representing this sad history on the stage no one can deny that whether by camera or on the stage at Oberammergau, it is a wonderful production.

One-half the News

Comes from our neighbors. A neighbor of Joe Crook's of Bridgton, Ind., told him of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. He is cured of a case of indigestion that kept him down 12 years. Mr. Crook wishes us to refer anyone to him who doubts the wonderful cure he found in Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which has gained an honorable foothold as a true remedy for constipation, indigestion, sick headache and stomach trouble. H. B. McCord.

"Silver Plate that Wears."

The trade mark

"1847 Rogers Bros."

on Spoons, Forks, etc., is a guarantee of quality the world over. The prefix—1847—insures the genuine Rogers quality. For sale by leading dealers everywhere. Send for catalogue No. 252, to International Silver Co. Meriden, Conn.

KILLING AMBASSADORS.

Historical Instances Where Envoys Were Assassinated.

The excitement of the past month that has agitated this country and Europe concerning the foreign ministers and attaches at Pekin recalls the fact that from the most ancient times the person of ambassador or minister has been held inviolable—the privilege being extended to all the personnel of his legation, so that when friendly relations are severed between his government and the one to which he is accredited he is given passports to insure his safety until he shall have passed from the limits of the country.

Even to insult an ambassador has always been regarded as a most serious offense, Alexander the Great destroying the city of Troy on that account.

So strong, indeed, is the protection accorded to an envoy at all times that there are but few instances of the actual complicity of a government being traced to outrages upon his security.

Chief among such, however, was the murder of Dr. Donislaus, the British minister to Holland, in 1649; that of the French envoys to Austria in 1799, and in this century of the British envoys at Kabul in 1841 and 1878, respectively.

The assassination of Dr. Donislaus was due principally to his connection with the trial of King Charles, as one of the parliamentary counsel. A number of English royalists had sought refuge at The Hague, and on the day after the doctor's arrival succeeded in dealing him a fatal blow. In this case the thinly veiled sympathy of the reigning stadthoder protected the murderers from arrest and punishment, though the crime was regarded by other princes as even greater than the execution of King Charles.

The assassination of the French envoys at Bastadt in 1799 was of a particularly treacherous character. War had been declared between France and Austria, but the three French plenipotentiaries remained at their post, relying upon the protection of their office. On the night of April 28 they were suddenly ordered to leave Bastadt, and had gone but a short distance when they were ambushed by a regiment of Austrian hussars. MM. Bonnier and Robergeot were instantly killed, but the third, Jean Debry, though wounded, succeeded in making his escape back to the city.

Perhaps the nearest parallel tot he present tragedy at Pekin was that of Sir William Macnaughten and his companions at Kabul in 1841. The British envoy and two officers of his household having been lured, unarmed, to the palace, were there ruthlessly butchered by the ameer's son. The story of the subsequent retreat of the 4,500 British troops, of whom 600 were Europeans and 1,200 camp followers, is one of the most terrible in history. Among the snow-covered passes they were encompassed on all sides and attacked at every step by fanatical hordes of Aghans. Of that army only one wretched individual, Dr. Brydone, crawled into Jalalabad to tell of the horror of that march.

Again, on September 3, 1878, Kabul was the scene of the assassination of another British envoy. Sir Lewis Cavagnari, after holding out for several days in the residency against the ameer's revolted troops, was compelled, by the firing of the buildings, to sally forth and perish with his companions. It was to avenge this outrage that Lord Roberts made his famous march to Kabul and Kandahar,

The last serious attack upon the life of an envoy was that of a Japanese fanatic upon Li Hung Chang at the close of the Japan-Chinese war.

The manner in which the Japanese government swiftly visited punishment upon the perpetrator and the ample satisfaction offered to the Chinese minister in a large measure emphasized the claim of the Japanese to be considered one of the civilized powers.

The 17-Year Locusts.

The seventeen year locusts that were here in 1849, 1866 and 1883 will make their appearance this year unless all previous experiences go for naught. They will appear by coming out of the ground and climbing up the first tree or plant they come to. After ascending some distance they will stop long enough to cast off their shells, which very soon burst open. When the shell has been doffed and they become dry, they change color from white to mahogany brown. Then they fly away and light on any new grown twig or tree, the locust trees being preferred. Then they begin to deposit their eggs in the bark, advancing step by step, singing all the way, until they die. A few scattering ones have already been heard hereabouts.—Wabash Times.

Motice to Non-Residents

STATE OF INDIANA, } SS.
DEKALB COUNTY.

In the DeKalb Circuit Court, October term, 1900.

Herbert Salisbury is hereby notified that an action has been commenced against him in said court, for divorce by Edith Salisbury, and that the same will be heard and determined on the 3rd day of November, 1900, at nine o'clock in the forenoon being the 20th juridical day of the next term of said court, which commences 1st day of october 1900.

Witness, the Clerk of said Court, this 6th day of September 1900

MICHAEL F. LONG, Clerk.

J. W. Baxter, Att'y.

ROYAL BAKING-POWDER

Absolutely Pure

No inferior or impure ingredients are used in Royal for the purpose of cheapening its cost; only the most highly refined and healthful.

Royal Baking Powder imparts that peculiar sweetness, flavor and delicacy noticed in the finest cake, biscuit, rolls, etc., which expert pastry cooks declare is unobtainable by the use of any other leavening agent.

Alum is used in making cheap baking powders. If you want to know the effect of alum upon the tender linings of the stomach, touch a piece to your tongue. You can raise biscuit with alum baking powder, but at what a cost to health!

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 106 WILLIAM ST., NEW YORK.

Thanks His Lodge.

DEAR SIR:—I wish to extend my thanks through your paper to the members of the Auburn Tent No. 51, as well as to the Supreme Tent K. O. T. M. for their prompt help and benevolence toward me in my disability. I joined Auburn Tent June 6, 1894. I have paid $150.50 for assessments and dues and I have drawn from Auburn Tent in various ways to date $152.75. And in just eight days after the final examination was made, the record keeper received a draft for $100 which is my first installment on my total or permanent disability certificate. All my assessment and tent dues stop and I shall draw as long as I am disabled, $100 each year. I believe this is the only order in town that does this. I do not know what I should have done had I not belonged to some order that would have looked after my wants. I wish again to thank the officers and members of Auburn Tent No. 51, for their kindness to me.—FREDRICK H. KRING.

Cured of Chronic Diarrhoea After Thirty Years of Suffering.

"I suffered for thirty years with diarrhoea and thought I was past being cured," says John S. Halloway, of French Camp, Miss. "I had spent so much time and money and suffered so much that I had given up all hopes of recovery. I was so feeble from the effects of the diarrhoea that I could do no kind of labor, could not even travel, but by accident was permitted to find a bottle of Chamberlain's Cholic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and after taking several bottles I am entirely cured of that trouble. I am so pleased that I am anxious that it be in reach of all who suffer as I have." For sale by H. B. McCord.

Gambling House for Manila.

Geo. L'Abbe of Denver, Colorado, is organizing a stock company to establish an American gambling house and vaudeville theater in Manila for the amusement of American soldiers.

"There is plenty of room for a first-class American house there," he said. Gambling ventures have not proved successful in Nome, where the people went broke early in the game, but in Manila the outlook is more encouraging."

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy a Great Favorite.

The soothing and healing properties of this remedy, its pleasant taste and prompt and permanent cures have made it a great favorite with people everywhere. It is especially prized by mothers of children for colds, croup and whooping cough, as it always affords quick relief, and as it contains no opium or other harmful drug, it may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. For Sale by H. B. McCord.

Novel Contest.

A frame church near Portland, Ind., is to be given away as soon as completed, to the denomination whose representative can best set forth the articles of his church government and creed. All denominations will be given a chance and the persons who subscribed to help build the church will pass judgment as to which is best and give the building accordingly.

W. C. T. U. NOTES.

DRINK CAUSED HIM TO COMMIT THE CRIME.

Louis Peck, colored, who assulted a little girl, which instigated the riot in Akron Ohio, where buildings were burned, and several people killed, confessed that he was crazed with drink at the time he committed the dead. He "had been on a spree for a month," which is enough to convert any man into a brute or even a devil. The saloon is guilty of the crime which caused the riot, which converted a peaceful city into a bodlam, which caused the sacrifice of several innocent lives. How many such experiences as this will it take to cause the order loving people of Ohio, to arise and utterly exterminate the peace-destroyer and man-killer? The saloon is an unmitigated evil, is a menace to society, the state and the nation, and does not possess a single quality to recommend it to the sufference of a long forbearing people. It is deserving of capital punishment, and nothing less.

***

ORDERED SALOONS CLOSED.

W. E. Young, mayor of Akron, Ohio, "issued a proclamation closing every saloon in Akron until further orders." This proclamation was issued the day following the recent riot in that city.

When we read that order, we thought—Why order saloons closed and say nothing about groceries, dry goods, and other stores? They were permitted to run as usual, but the saloons must sell no more of their "wet goods" until the ban is removed.

This is an official recognition of the evil and danger of the saloon traffic. No such riots would occur were it not for the "corner store." Men will not lead in a movement of that kind until they are crazed with drink. If the saloon is a dangerous factor to society in times of riot, it is a dangerous factor in the time of peace.

When Your Heart Flutters.

That is not heart disease. That is no terrible heart failure; that is indigestion, the prime cause of all short breath and sudden jumping of the heart which so frequently follows an exertion of any kind. Go to the drug store. Get a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. No more need be said for after you use it once, you will never fail to keep it in the house. H. B. McCord.

Whipped His Wife.

A fellow named Peters from Garrett, was arrested for the crime of wife beating. He was brought over here for justice and found it at the office of 'Squire S. J. Brandon in Jackson township. After hearing the facts his Honor said without hesitation "$1 and frills." The total was over $17, and the fellow not having the money or credit, now boards with Sheriff Hathaway. Served him right. D. D. Moody was prosecutor in place of Mr. Pomeroy who was out of town.

Stop a Minute,

And consider if the pills (no matter what kind) you have taken for your constipation have really done you any good. Are you not more and more liable to this trouble? Try Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin if you want sure relief, 10 doses 10 cents, also in 50c and $1.00 sizes at H. B. McCord's.

WASHINGTON LETTER

POLITICAL SITUATION VIEWED FROM THE CAPITAL.

Colonel Denby, the Alleged Democrat Who Announces that He Will Support McKinley, Has Long Been an Industrious Place-Hunter.

Washington correspondence:

The Republicans announced with a great flourish of trumpets that Col. Denby, member of the former Philippine commission, will support McKinley in his campaign. Well, why not? It was to be expected that he should. Denby served as minister to China through three administrations, first Cleveland, Harrison, and second Cleveland and then distinguished himself as a most enthusiastic champion of the administration's policy in the Philippines. Denby may have been a Cleveland Democrat at one period in his existence, but he has always been on the lookout to get places for Col. Denby and his relatives, no matter what administration was in power.

It is an odd coincidence that since Denby has announced his fealty to McKinley, his nephew, Stephen Denby, has been appointed an agent of the imperial Chinese customs service on the recommendation of Sir Robert Hart, the Englishman who manages to direct the whole customs service in China. This appointment gives an interesting side light on the understanding between the administration and Great Britain. If any son of an American citizen wants to get into the Chinese customs service he must have the approval of Sir Robert Hart or his application will not be considered. Sir Robert seems to be custodian of the "open door" and none may enter without his august permission.

This is not the first time that Col. Denby has secured lucrative places for his relatives. When he first went to China he secured the appointment of one son as secretary of the legation and another under Sir Robert Hart. It is unnecessary to add that Col. Denby has always had a most cordial understanding with Sir Robert Hart and this made Denby a specially good appointee of the first Philippine commission, because through him the administration could keep in touch with Great Britain without exciting suspicion at home.

Denby a Place-Hunter.

Col. Denby's arguments in relation to the Philippines are expected to hold the Republicans in line. Thus far they have made Democratic converts. In the letter in which Denby announces himself as an imperialist Republican, he says, among other absurd things:

"In this contest the Democrats stake their all on the continuance of fighting. It strikes one as odd that a great party should base its hopes of success on the killing and wounding of our troops."

What nonsense. Who sent the troops to the Philippines? McKinley. Who provoked the opposition of the Filipinos? McKinley. Who keeps the troops there? McKinley. Who censors the news that the troops may be kept there longer? McKinley.

On the other hand, who protested against an imperial policy in the Philippines from the day the peace treaty was signed? The Democrats. Who declared that the Filipinos should be given independence and our troops withdrawn? The Democrats.

Each Republican orator who takes the stump emphasizes the fact that his party has no defense to offer for imperialism. Abuse of the Democratic position is not argument and will not convince the people that McKinley should be re-elected. A just, righteous and constitutional policy could be successfully defended against all attacks.

But, for instance, here comes Senator Davis and declares that imperialism is no issue, merely "a broomstick ghost." If so, the country ought to quit paying war taxes to keep the ghost in evidence. It ought to spend the four millions a month now wasted in the Philippines on internal improvements. It ought to have home at once whatever remnant there is of the 70,000 troops dying by scores in the Philippines from disease, climatic conditions and guerrilla fighting.

Senator Davis dismisses militarism as a "bugbear." It is a bugbear that is rapidly becoming a terrible reality. Four years ago we had a standing army of 25,000. Now we have 100,000. At this rate of increase we will rival the standing armies of continental Europe in another four years. And at the present moment we are paying out one-third the entire revenues of the country to support this "bugbear." Tell them as you will, imperialism and militarism are mighty expensive and mighty dangerous.

Then, too, the Republican orators are not at all accurate in their statements. Gen. Grosvenor spouts about the troops which were ready at Manila to go to the rescue of our citizens in China. The fact is, and the country has not forgotten it, that when the news came of the peril of our citizens in Pekin, only a beggarly few hundred soldiers and marines could be spared from our 70,000 troops quartered about Manila. Thousands of troops were taken from Cuba and every garrison in this country emptied to put 10,000 soldiers on the way to China. They have been arriving there from this country in shiploads for the last two months. Now when there is a lull in hostilities some of them are being temporarily diverted to Manila until Great Britain gives the word as to how and when and where she wants the co-operation of the administration in her territory-grabbing.

Issues Will Not Down.

The Republican apathy is not to be dispelled by claims which are absurd on their face. President McKinley would be obliged to give courageous, frank and spirited defense of his policy to arouse the members of his party. His re-election is against tradition. For twenty years no party has re-elected its President for two continuous terms. Besides the big hole made by the defection of the anti-imperialists from Republican ranks, there is the horde of disappointed office-seekers, who have nothing to hope even if McKinley is re-elected. There are the thousands who are angry and sore over his back-down from his "plain duty" message in regard to Porto Rico. There are thousands of workmen thrown out of employment by the closing down of trust-absorbed factories and the masses who have to pay trust prices that the latter may be prosperous.

These and a dozen other issues stand in the way of re-election and the best orators of the Republican party spend their time in assuring the people that imperialism is a myth and militarism a bogey and trusts not a political question.

"Teddy the Terror."

It is said the Republican campaign managers, now threatened with nervous prostration through fear of what Governor Roosevelt may say in his campaign speeches, have at last hit upon the happy plan of arranging the Rough Rider's schedule so that he will speak successively at widely separated points. This will afford the Colonel opportunity for spectacular dashes back and forth across the country, which will delight his heart and fill him with the idea that he is strenuous and yet result in the least possible output of words.—Philadelphia Times.

Teddy Roosevelt said the Southern soldiers under Lee were the best America ever produced. Now he says that Democrats are cowards. The Southern soldiers under Lee, their sons and grandsons, are still Democrats. How does he harmonize his utterances?—Kansas City Times.

The records of Roosevelt's civic and military achievements recall nothing which stamp him as a very remarkable man, and yet he seems to consider himself a proper subject for the most abject hero worship. The inordinate vanity of Roosevelt has disgusted many persons who have kept track of his performances both before and since his nomination for the Vice Presidency.—Atlanta Journal.

Imperialist "Arguments."

Governor Roosevelt said in his speech at St. Paul, "Study the Kansas City platform and you cannot help realizing that their policy is a policy of infamy," and that "they stand for lawlessness and disorder, for dishonesty and dishonor, for license and disaster at home and cowardly shrinking from duty abroad."

A prominent McKinleyite organ yesterday said:

"It is not unfair to charge that the anarchistic plot for the assassination of President McKinley is a direct result of the incendiary tirades directed against the administration by William J. Bryan and his followers."

Such outrageous abuse of opponents will naturally excite anger, ridicule and contempt for the administration cause. Yet, after all, abuse is about the only "argument" the imperialists have left. Therefore they resort to abuse at home, just as they resort to the censorship abroad, in a desperate effort to intimidate the citizens of the United States; to prevent just and proper criticism of their policy, which is the privilege of citizens of a republic, although denied in monarchical lands; to deprive the people, if possible, of a knowledge of the facts and realities of the McKinleyite imperialistic program. It is in mingled fear and desperation that the imperialists cry "coward," "traitor," "anarchist" at the other half of American citizenship.

Denby Flopped Two Years Ago.

Charles Denby has published a letter opposing and criticising Mr. Bryan and declaring that Mr. McKinley ought to be re-elected. All the Republican papers allude to Mr. Denby as a lifelong Democrat. For over two years Mr. Denby has been a loyal supporter of the President, and for his services as a member of the commission which whitewashed the scandals of Algerism in the War Department and also a member of the first Philippine commission Mr. Denby has received from Mr. McKinley a very large amount of money paid out of the emergency funds provided by Congress for war purposes.—Hartford, Conn., Times.

Indiana Lost to McKinley.

Every factory in Indiana is filled with socialists, and they are men who are willing to vote the socialist ticket though hopeless of victory. Of course, both parties have suffered from this movement, but recent elections have shown that the Republicans have suffered more than the Democrats, especially in the gas belt, where a large majority of the factory workers were Republicans until they became socialists. The State committee of the Social Democrats is claiming a vote of 6,000 for its ticket at the coming election, and there is good reason to believe that the estimate is little over the truth.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

IMPERIALISM VS. DEMOCRACY.

Our Declaration of Independence a Filipino Text-Book.

At the sociological conference recently held at Lake Bluff, Wis., Judge William Prentiss, of Chicago, spoke in part as follows:

"It is strange to me that any one in the twentieth century should discuss imperialism. If any one four years ago pretended to discuss imperialism he would have been put aside as a madman and would not have been listened to patiently.

"The principles of Democracy teach that all men have equal rights and should be free and left to govern themselves with their own consent. The principles of imperialism teach that the great majority of men are incapable of governing themselves, and preaches the old doctrine of taking from him that has little, and giving that little to him that has much.

"What crime have the Filipinos committed? When we went to war with Spain they did not dream that the American soldier would ever visit their shores except to benefit and uplift them, free them from their bondage and help them gain their liberty.

"Who will say that the Philippine Islanders shall be citizens and have granted them all rights of citizens? By legislation we have built a wall stronger and harder to knock down than the wall of China against the Filipinos becoming citizens. We have said they are not like us. In preparing for his struggle with Spain, what did Aguinaldo take for text-books? The Declaration of Independence, the Constitution of the United States, the Emancipation Proclamation and the last speech of Washington. These are what he took and taught his people, and they believed and followed him, and for two years have been fighting for liberty, and yet some say they are unfit to govern themselves. Are not people who are able to fight for their liberty able to govern themselves?

"Imperialism teaches avarice, greed, determination to obtain what belongs to some one else. On the other hand, Democracy says every man has a right to choose for himself, uplift his station in life, be a man.

"McKinley has said that the mass of the islanders are willing to be governed. I admit that a portion are—the ignorant, the lazy, shiftless and the commercial. But the workingman, the patriots, the middle class, who felt that they could stand death but bondage never, are the men who are doing the fighting. In the early struggles of our own country did we wait for the consent of the lazy, the shiftless, the commercial?

"If this spirit of imperialism rules we will become as the Roman Empire did. She called it expansion; she expanded with the sword and soon became an empire, and an empire cannot exist within a republic."

Alschuler a Sure Winner.

There is little reason to question the solidity of the foundation of the belief now becoming prevalent that Samuel Alschuler, Democratic nominee for Governor of Illinois, will carry that State for his party by a substantial majority. Mr. Alschuler is unquestionably making a forceful and vote-compelling campaign. It is now said of him that he gets closer to the people than any man known in Illinois public life for many years. It is natural that he should. He is a man of the people, plain, honest, intense in his Americanism. He is young and vigorous, earnest in his convictions, sincere in his devotion to the public good. Such men are apt to appeal strongly to the people.—St. Louis Republic.

Encouragement to Rascality.

With Neely carefully tied up by Republican judges so he escapes extradition to Cuba and with Rathbone out on bail furnished by an accommodating Spanish gentleman who admires him because he was so highly recommended by Mark Hanna and his other friends, and with the Republican majority of the Senate committee absolutely refusing to begin an investigation into the Cuban scandals, there is every encouragement for those Republican henchmen who have gone into the "colonial" branch of the government service to hold high carnival.—Atlanta Constitution.

In an Awkward Dilemma.

The Republican newspapers hardly now what to say about the silver Republicans who have come out for McKinley. To credit them with a return of reason would be to admit that free silver is dead, and to own up to the latter fact would be to encourage gold Democrats to support Mr. Bryan.—Philadelphia Record.

HANNAH'S NIGHTMARE.

Teddy, the talking terror, haunts him even in his dreams.—New York Journal.

MAN AND WIFE LIVE ON $1 A WEEK

University of Chicago economists who have figured that a man and his wife can live with great frugality on $300 a year are distanced by the record of ex-Judge William Cole Talcot, of Valparaiso, Ind. That aged jurist has for several years lived with his wife at a total expense for both of them for food of not more than $1 a week, or $52 for the year. And in spite of this both are now in the best of health, declare that they never felt better nor could work better in their lives, and believe that they have solved the problem of happiness and health in resorting to the plainest of plain living. Though nearly 85 years old Judge Talcot works daily in a garden near his house or about the house itself, is never ill, and is apparently as strong as most men who are not within a score of years of his age. And Mrs. Talcot, not quite ten years his junior, though snowy white of hair, has as fresh a color in her cheeks as a girl of 15, and does every day all the housework about their home.

Though the diet on which this is accomplished will appear to many people barren of everything that makes the table attractive, yet the two who have long made it their own declared that desire for other things quickly disappeared when they resorted to it, and that they neither want nor need additions to it. The rule of their table provides in general that their meals shall consist chiefly of cereal products with milk and sugar. They eat generally for breakfast oatmeal mush and milk and sugar. For dinner bread and milk and sugar, and for supper cornmeal mush and sugar. They vary this slightly from time to time with other cereal foods, and when they feel a taste for it add a bit of meat, for neither is a strict vegetarian.

For two-thirds of a century William Cole Talcot has been known as a leader in social reforms in Northern Indiana. He came from the East in 1835 on an excursion trip around the great lakes on one of the earliest steamers. The vessel ran up to the Sault Ste. Marie, then in the midst of the great Northwestern wilderness. From there it went into Green Bay, and its passengers beheld along the shores of that beautiful water the virgin forest, in which lived Indians almost unacquainted with white men, save as they met the descendants of the early French pioneers or the few Americans who had penetrated thus far into the wilderness for furs. Out through Death's Door they came, and up the lake to Chicago, and from this straggling hamlet across the lake to Michigan City. There where a great city was expected to grow Judge Talcot left the boat and soon after settled in St. Joseph County. He has lived in that vicinity nearly ever since, and most of the time at Valparaiso.

Even in his youth he was a thinker along original lines. Having when a boy been given a scholarship in college by a church educational society, he became convinced during his freshman year that the creed of the church which was supporting him was narrow and was founded on myths and traditions. He therefore resigned the scholarship and proceeded to study by himself. After he came to Indiana the Brook Farm communistic experiment was made and co-operation and socialistic colonies became much talked about. The young Talcot took the lead in Northern Indiana—in which there were scattered farming settlements and small towns—and in 1844 started the Philadelphia Industrial Association. Land was secured near South Bend, about two miles from the original town site, on the river, and a house and other buildings put up. There were nine families of seventy persons in the community, numbering cobblers, carpenters, farmers and men of other trades, and the plan was strictly a Commonwealth. All went well for a time. The land, however, had been secured from two different parties, who were at swords' points, and the troubles between these two soon destroyed any notion of "brotherly love" in the philadelphic community. A big common house had been built for a starter, having a separate entrance and room for each family and a common dining-room in the center, and there were outbuildings and plans for larger houses, but after two and a half years of existence the colony finally disbanded.

After that Mr. Talcot was elected Judge of the Court of Common Pleas, with jurisdiction over six counties. He held this office fifteen years. He had been before this owner and editor of the local paper—the Valparaiso Vidette—and after resigning from the bench again took charge of the paper and conducted it for thirty years. In the early years he found it necessary often to set and print as well as write the paper.

Having been thus in the public eye for three score years, Judge Talcot has come to have great influence among the people of Porter County. He has kept to his free thought, and is now leader in the Dr. Thomas branch of the People's Church in that city. Judge Talcot is as keen in putting forth his reform ideas to-day as at any time in his earlier life, and in them he has the unqualified support of his wife. The latter was for many years a teacher of penmanship in the "Collegiate Institute" of Valparaiso, and was a close friend of Judge Talcot and his first wife.

"There are two things for people to do to be happy and be healthy," says Mrs. Talcot. "They must live plainly and they must sleep at night instead of half the daytime. Early to bed and early to rise is a wise motto and plain living is another. In our opinion an expenditure of $300 a year for two people would be great extravagance. To be sure, we have no rent to pay and we have milk sent to us by Mr. Talcot's son, but even if we had these things to pay for we would not need to spend $300 a year. We do not stint ourselves, but we follow a wise creed by living plainly when we are at home or when on the railroad."

URBANITY A PAYING QUALITY.

Instances in Which Courteous Men Have Found Politeness Profitable.

Many years ago the late Dr. Shippen, of Philadelphia, left his house in early morning and was hurrying down the street when he noticed a singular and ferocious-looking man, whose gaze was fastened upon him. With instinctive politeness and bonhommie he smiled, raised his hat and passed on, when suddenly he heard a shot. Turning he found that the stranger had just left his home with the insane intention of killing the first man he met. He was the first man; but his absolute fearlessness and constitutional as well as cultivated courtesy had put the man off his guard, and the next passer-by had caught the bullet intended for him. That smile and bow had saved his life.

When the country was a century younger and the Indian was yet in the land, a gentleman upon the then frontier was hunting with friends, got separated from them, and completely lost his way. Every effort to retrieve his steps led him still further into the wilderness, and night overtook him in a dense forest. Overcome with fatigue, he lay down under a tree and slept profoundly. In the morning he awoke with a start, with that indescribable feeling that some one was looking at him, and, glancing up, he saw that he was surrounded by hostile Indians, and that the leader of the band, in war paint and feathers, was bending over him in no amiable mood.

He took in the situation at a glance—knew his immediate danger, and had no means of averting it; neither did he understand a word of their language. But he was self-possessed, knew the universal language of nature, and believed that even under the war paint and feathers "a man's a man for a' that." He fixed his clear, bold eye upon the Indian, and—smiled! Gradually the fierceness passed away from the eye above him, and at last an answering smile came over the face. Both were men—both were brothers—and he was saved! The savage took him under his protection, brought him to his wigwam, and after a few days restored him to his friends. Courage, self-command, and tact had gained the day.—Lippincott's Magazine.

GEN. ZEBULON YORK.

An Able Lawyer and One of the Confederacy's Bravest Generals.

The recent death of General Zebulon York at his home in Natchez, Miss., closed the career of one of the bravest generals of the Confederacy. Gen. York was also an able lawyer and a plantation owner. He was born in Maine in 1819, but his education was obtained principally in Southern schools. After graduating in law from the Louisiana University he opened an office in Vidalia, La., and was soon recognized as one of the ablest lawyers in the State. He invested his earnings in plantations and negroes, and soon had, besides his law business, a flourishing field yielding a handsome revenue.

When the Civil War broke out Attorney York raised a company which became a part of the Fourteenth Louisiana Regiment. He fought in many of the great battles of the war and was noted for his dash and bravery. He was wounded a number of times and arose from the position of captain to that of brigadier general. After the war he set to work to again build up a fortune on the ruins of his once happy home. For some years preceding his death he lived in Natchez and there acquired wealth and honor. He was not married until 1885 and his marriage was somewhat romantic. On a bleak January day during the war he met a timid schoolgirl in Richmond, Va., who was destined to become his wife. Their meeting and engagement had a tinge of romance. The romance was only concluded Aug. 25, 1885, when the General led to his Buck Ridge plantation his mature and polished wife, whose fine talent and facile pen had long been a source of comfort and happiness to both.

GEN. ZEBULON YORK.

Was Just Common Lying.

"The cunning of the Chinese has been very much exaggerated," said a former sea captain in conversation the other day. "I will never forget my own experience. We had arranged with a prominent Chinese merchant of Hong-Kong for a quantity of tea, but at the last minute there was a hitch about the delivery of the consignment. He told me it had been temporarily tied up by the officials on account of some misunderstanding about the internal taxes. I discovered by accident later on that the lot had been sold over my head to a chance customer and the tax story was a mere pretext to gain time for the substitution of an inferior grade.

"The tea merchant was a sedate, courtly old gentleman and he had told me the outrageous lie with perfect calmness, looking me squarely in the face, without a quiver. It never occurred to me to doubt his word and but for chance we would have been heavy losers. When I exposed him indignantly before all his employes and several foreign residents I supposed he would be ashamed and disconcerted. An American of his standing would have been humiliated and crushed beyond measure. I have known men to commit suicide for less disgrace, but he never so much as blinked. He heard me through blandly, made no comment and began to talk about something else. He had told a lie, was caught and regarded the episode as closed."

Instinct of Cats.

The instinct of animals in the matter of self-preservation is curiously illustrated, says the New Orleans Times-Democrat, by the fact that several dozen cats found refuge during the Ottawa fire in a wooden house which, although the buildings on each side were burning down, refused to catch fire and remained intact. Cats have a peculiar gift in this direction, since, in addition to their reputed nine lives, there is a popular superstition that they will only eat what is good for them.

This may or may not be a fallacy, but the instinct of self-preservation, which is common to all animals, except, perhaps, horses (who, being very bags of nerves, will during a fire behave with suicidal obstinacy), has been proved time and again. The rats which, in practice as well as in theory, desert the ship which is no longer seaworthy, are a notable example of it; and there are many animal lovers who would not consider it any way extravagant to suggest that the quacking of the geese in the capitol was due to a knowledge on their part of the facts that the entry of the enemy would mean the cutting of their throats, while the rousing of the Romans would earn them a debt of gratitude and personal immunity from the poulterer's shop windows.

Home Folks Preferred.

Small Margaret had said her prayers, and her mamma was tucking her in to leave her to her slumbers, when the child begged that mamma would not leave her alone.

"Why, Margaret," said mamma, soothingly, but surprised at this unexpected demand, "you know you are never alone, for God is always with you."

"Yes," rejoined the small maiden doubtfully, "I know. But, mamma, I'd rather have some of my own relations."—Woman's Home Companion.

A Northern Lighthouse.

The most northern lighthouse in Great Britain, the northwest tower on the coast of Shetland, is built on a rock 200 feet high, the summit of which barely affords room for the necessary buildings.

It is learned that one girl's popularity among the other girls is due to the fact that whenever she visits at their house she insists upon washing the dishes.

It's a case of misdirected energy when a young man runs after a girl who doesn't appreciate him.

A UNIQUE SHOE INDUSTRY.

Rise of the Jewish Scrap and "Seconds" Buyer.

The "ghetto," the home of a mixed mass of humanity, presents a remarkable and unique phase of New York shoe selling. Petty shoemakers visit the numerous city shoe factories daily and buy up scraps and "seconds" of all kinds of leather, which they take to their homes, and, after being inspected and assorted by the entire family, it is finally made into pierced backs and wedge heels in black, tan, patent leather and numerous odd combinations, every inch of leather being utilized. A steady worker turns out at least twenty-four pairs of these shoes, working from 7 a. m. until late into the night. In the meantime the thrifty wife puts the finished product into a clothes basket and, taking a stool, stations herself at the prominent corner of Hester and Essex streets, right in the heart of the "ghetto." Here activity reigns, thousands upon thousands of wage earners swarm through the streets; the venders loudly cry their wares to attract the attention of bargain seekers.

After a day of bantering and talking the woman has disposed of her shoes and goes home with an empty basket and a pocketful of small change. After many weeks of this routine the economical shotmaker has saved enough to realize an ambition and he buys a push cart—a two-wheeled affair much like the familiar fruitman's cart—and with shoes bought at fire sales he pushes boldly into some crowded thoroughfare and lines up against the curb. A tempting price loudly proclaimed serves to dispose of the stock as often as he can replenish the same. Under these circumstances the meager capital has increased sufficiently to enable him to open a small shoe store in Hester street and to employ an assistant. He searches wholesale shoe houses for odds and ends, damaged and mismated shoes, and picks up numerous lots for a fraction of their value.

He has now assumed the dignity of a merchant and has gained the confidence of his countrymen. Encouraged by his success and confident of his ability, he buys in larger lots and begins to supply other push-cart dealers. The demand eventually assumes greater proportions; he attends auction sales; which are very frequent in New York, and realizes profit from every venture. In the course of a few years his environments become too small, he disposes of his push cart and rents a basement in Bayard street, among the East Side shoe jobbers.—New York Tribune.

MONEY IN OLD TIN CANS.

Refuse from the City Becomes a Klondike for Two Mechanics.

Down on the South Side of Chicago, near Seventy-ninth street and Vincennes avenue, there is a Klondike discovered and worked to its utmost capacity by two bright young mechanics.

Out toward Englewood, near the tracks of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad, half a stone's throw from Seventy-ninth street, can be seen an immense quantity of old tin cans piled into hills of very decent proportions.

There are hills of tomato cans, miniature mountains of peach and pear cans, mounds of milk cans, cans from far-off France, that were once filled with delicate truffles, cans that were once ready to burst with the luscious fruits which California sends to less favored States, oil cans, old kitchen pots and pans, all gathered up from one end of the city to the other, and from hotel garbage boxes.

The assay office of this "tin-can Klondike" is near by in a little 10x20 foot frame building, used also as storehouse for refined metal.

The factory itself is half a block further down toward Eighty-first street.

These old cans are placed in a furnace and brought to a red-hot heat by a rousing fire under them, which melts the solder and zinc or "spelter," these sinking to the bottom of the pot, while the tin remains on top.

The solder or "spelter" is ladled out and cast into bars, in which form it finds its way to the metal market; while the tin is run out into frames and rolled into sheets of various sizes, and sent to the stock yards and other factories, where they are made over.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Disease in Fishes.

That fishes are liable to disease of various kinds is well known. There is the "salmon disease," caused by the growth of a fungus on the fish, and many parasites that are "unbidden guests" find a home on the bodies of the finny tribe—lodgers or boarders that pay no rent, and cause disease in addition. But it is something new to learn that fishes can be infected with tuberculosis—that general disease of which consumption is a manifestation in the lungs. Into a pond in France tuberculous matter from a patient was thrown. The fishes—carps—were afterwards noted to die, and the germs of bacilli of consumption were found in plenty in their bodies; while when these bacilli of the fishes were given to other fishes, they proved fatal in the same way. There is one comfort given to us, however, by the French experimenters. It seems that in the fish, a cold-blooded animal, the germs fall off in their vitality, so that it is unlikely they would affect man or other warm-blooded animals.

Bishops Take Umbrellas.

The Athenaeum of London is a very solemn club, and consists of eminent doctors, judges, barristers and, above all, bishops. It was a rainy day; it was one of those threatening days with which we are familiar during this disappointing summer, and one of Lord Salisbury's secretaries observed that his chief was starting out for his luncheon at the Athenaeum; he rushed for the umbrella and offered it to Lord Salisbury. "No, no," said Lord Salisbury, "I've lost too many in the Athenaeum. I cannot trust the bishops!"

Life of a Queen Bee.

The life of the queen bee is from three to four years; that of the drone is not easily estimated, as he dies from violence, while the worker lives from three to six months. Bees have been known to occupy one hive for forty-six consecutive seasons.

Women Think

About This

In addressing Mrs. Pinkham you are communicating with

A Woman

A woman whose experience in treating female ills is greater than that of any living person, male or female.

She has fifty thousand such testimonial letters as we are constantly publishing showing that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is daily relieving hundreds of suffering women.

Every woman knows some woman Mrs. Pinkham has restored to health.

Mrs. Pinkham makes no statements she cannot prove. Her advice is free.

Lydia E. Pinkham Med. Co., Lynn, Mass.

ABSOLUTE SECURITY.

Genuine

Carter's

Little Liver Pills.

Must Bear Signature of

Brent Good

See Fac-Simile Wrapper Below.

Very small and as easy to take as sugar.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

FOR HEADACHE.
FOR DIZZINESS.
FOR BILIOUSNESS.
FOR TORPID LIVER.
FOR CONSTIPATION.
FOR SALLOW SKIN.
FOR THE COMPLEXION

Price 25 Cents | Purely Vegetable. Brent Good

CURE SICK HEADACHE.

Tender chicken—just exactly right—cooked and pressed; then put up in key-opening cans. You get it at your grocer's—just as it leaves us—dainty, delicious and ready to serve.

LIBBY'S BONELESS CHICKEN

That's but one of the 70 foods that we prepare. And nobody knows how to prepare food any better. You will never keep house without Libby's foods when you try them.

LIBBY, McNEIL & LIBBY
Chicago

Ask for our booklet, "How to Make Good Things to Eat."

DROPSY NEW DISCOVERY; gives quick relief & cures worst cases. Book of testimonials and 10 DAYS' treatment FREE. Dr. H. H. Green's Sons, Box B, Atlanta, Ga.

CHILDREN RUST IN SUMMER.

Light Mental Diversion During Vacation Is of Great Benefit to Them.

"That children do rust out during the long summer vacation is unquestionably a fact," writes Edward B. Rawson, in the Ladies' Home Journal. "That several weeks of the already too short school year must be spent in rubbing off the dust before the advance can be resumed, all teachers know. But that is not the worst of it. When the rust is removed the former lustre is not restored. The child's brain is not in a receptive condition; it has been allowed to rust. Children prefer regular employment, provided it be interesting. However glad they are when the last day of school comes they are quite as glad to resume their work in the fall even of its interest is not great. A boy—or more frequently a girl—will sometimes overwork, not because he is pushed, but because he is permitted. Very seldom will either a boy or a girl choose to do nothing. One may choose to do things other than those we require, and so be called idle or lazy; but to be doing something is the natural condition, and the condition that is preferred. So strong is the instinct to be active in both mind and body that when left to themselves our children will find something to do in spite of us, and too frequently it is something that might better not be done."

Rare Philippine Jewels.

The rarest corals in the world are to be found in the Philippines. As precious as this jewel is, there is still a rarer one, and that is health. It may be possessed by any one who will use Hostetter's Stomach Bitters for indigestion, dyspepsia, belching, heartburn or sleeplessness. Try it.

Mr. Wu and American Women.

At the reception given to his excellency Wu-Ting-Fang, at the New Century Club for women, in Philadelphia, that gentleman showed himself greatly interested in hearing that the spacious club house was built by a stock company of women, and that the only men concerned in the operation were those in the building trades, as even the architect employed was a woman, says the Philadelphia Times.

With his customary directness, Mr. Wu inquired: "What did it cost?"

"About $100,000," answered Vice President Rose, "or it would have done so if we had been obliged to buy the land; we rent that, you know."

"Oh, how? How?" asked the minister. "Suppose the landlord takes back his land?"

"He cannot do that," was the ready response, "because we have it upon a perpetual or irredeemable ground rent."

His excellency seemed impressed with the business sagacity of the Woman's Club.

Street Cooking in China.

The Chinese believe in early rising and begin their workday several hours earlier than Europeans or Americans. In this particular the high officials set a good example, for they hold audiences and transact business at daylight. The street kitchens which may be seen in any Chinese town do business at all hours of the day and night and had become well established institutions several thousand years before the American owl restaurant was thought of.

What Do the Children Drink?

Don't give them tea or coffee. Have you tried the new food drink called GRAIN-O? It is delicious and nourishing, and takes the place of coffee. The more Grain-O you give the children the more health you distribute through their systems. Grain-O is made of pure grains, and when properly prepared tastes like the choice grades of coffee, but costs about ¼ as much. All grocers sell it. 15c and 25c.

This Restless Age of Progress.

"Look here! Yesterday, when I bought this cane from you, you guaranteed that the head was genuine ivory! Now I find that it is imitation."

"Is that possible? Well, I get all my goods direct from Ceylon, but, of course, it is quite possible that the elephants there have taken to using false teeth."—Floh.

There is nothing new under the sun except Mrs. Austin's new dress.

Valuable Mole.

A New York musician has brought suit for $5,000 against a hotel barber for cutting a mole from his cheek.

If you want the Best there is, tell your Job Printer to use Eagle Linen for your Letter Heads and Envelopes.

900 DROPS

CASTORIA

A Vegetable Preparation for Assimilating the Food and Regulating the Stomachs and Bowels of

INFANTS CHILDREN

Promotes Digestion, Cheerfulness and Rest. Contains neither Opium, Morphine nor Mineral. NOT NARCOTIC.

Recipe of Old Dr SAMUEL PITCHER

A perfect Remedy for Constipation, Sour Stomach, Diarrhoea, Worms, Convulsions, Feverishness and LOSS OF SLEEP.

Fac Simile Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. NEW YORK.

At 6 months old 35 DOSES—35 CENTS

EXACT COPY OF WRAPPER.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

In Use For Over Thirty Years

CASTORIA

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

"How long is the ride from your place to the city?" asked the man who contemplated moving.

"Well, it varies," replied the suburbanite.

"Varies? How?"

"Well, some mornings we play as many as ten hands of whist in the smoking car, and other mornings not more than seven."—Philadelphia Press.

A Noticeable Coolness Between Them.

Part of the Cure.

Mr. Henpeck—The doctor says I absolutely must go away next week for a rest.

Mrs. Henpeck—Goodness! I can't possibly manage to get away to go with you then.

Mr. Henpeck—Um-m! I guess the doctor must have known that.—Philadelphia Press.

He—I can't see for the life of me why a woman would rather work in a millinery store, for instance, for little or nothing a week, than to get good wages and good living taking care of some one's house.

She—Well, for one thing, a hired girl never has the delicious joy of selling some other woman a hat that makes her look like a fright.—Indianapolis Press.

A Chip.

Mark—I saw that little boy of yours to-day.

Borroughs—Did you? Think he's like me?

Mark—Very much.

Borroughs—Do you really?

Mark—Yes. He asked me for some money.—Philadelphia Press.

Consistent.

Marjorie—Clara had eleven dozen spoons among her wedding presents.

Marguerite—Well, that's the way she and Tom have been acting for the last twelve months.—Somerville Journal.

Convincing.

Amicus—So you have another baby at your house. What is he like?

Eminent Critic—Well, he is not very interesting, but he is mighty convincing.—Life.

SHEET MUSIC BARGAINS.

FAMILIAR SONGS ILLUSTRATED.

The Home Field.

Mr. Haywood—The paper says that relief will soon reach the ministers in China.

Mrs. Haywood—Better let Chiny look after its own ministers while we relieve our own. Brother Stafford told me himself that he'd only got $12.80 in two months, and the folks that went to his pound party eat up all they took except that drum for his little boy and two cakes of soap.—Denver News.

Heart Hunger.

"I verily believe Maude has found her affinity in Jack."

"Do you, indeed?"

"Yes, you so seldom see her chewing gum any more."—Detroit Journal.

His Fate.

Penner—What has become of Sourgail, the critic?

Author—He wrote a book and was found out.—Life.

"Where are you going, my pretty maid?"
"Darned if I know—ask the calf," she said.
—New York World.

In Boston.

First Boy—And he claimed that the sentence was grammatically correct?

Second Boy—Yes; and eventually I had to give him two black eyes and a disfigured lip; but I respect him, for he fought for what he thought was right.—Puck.

Dressing or Filling.

"I must admit," said the mannish girl, "that I'm very fond of men's clothes. You don't like them, do you?"

"Yes, I do," replied the girly girl, frankly, "when there's a man in them."—Philadelphia Press.

A Warm Weather Tragedy.

"Ma, I brought you some ice cream from th' drugstore."

"Oh, how thoughtful, Tommy. Where is it?"

"Well, ma, it was meltin' so fast me an' Bobby had to sit down on th' curbstone an' eat it up."—Indianapolis Journal.

Even Later.

He had been talking and talking and talking until the poor girl was so tired and sleepy she din't know whether it was this week or last week, and the clock on the mantel was holding up its hands, either in pity or in protest. Finally it occurred to the young man that an evening call had its limits.

"Bless me," he exclaimed, starting up suddenly, "it certainly must be time I was going home."

"Oh," she said in a dazed kind of a way, "it must be a good deal later than that."

A Porch-Party.

"Did you have a good talk with the Dwiggses last night, daughter?"

"No, ma, we didn't talk; the men quarreled about politics and Clara and I abused the weather."

Reconsidered.

Custodian—So you changed your mind about taking that flat as soon as you went inside?

Portly—Change nothing. Wasn't room in there even to change my mind—I just backed out.—Denver News.

Proper Precaution.

He—I'm going to shave myself hereafter.

She—Won't you cut yourself?

"No; I won't have my razor sharp enough for that."

Those Dear Girl Friends.

Nell—See my new shoes. Only $3.98; aren't they good for that?

Belle—Yes. Isn't it surprising that they can sell so much leather for so very little money?—Philadelphia Record.

Do Fishes Feel the Cold?

There is no doubt that fishes, particularly many of those who inhabit fresh water, feel the cold, and that this accounts for their moving in the winter to deep water, when they have the opportunity of doing so. Some fish are much more affected than others by severe cold. Swainson mentions an instance of a number of fine tench having been found dead in a pond, after the break up of a frost, and, as a proof of vitality in other fish, he states that, in northern latitudes, eels and perch have retained their vitality when frozen into solid blocks of ice, and that advantage has been taken of the fact to remove them from one locality to another.

Fiercest of All Spiders.

There is a spider in the London zoo, obtained from somewhere in the Soudan, that is the fiercest beast of his kind that ever spread out his legs in a menagerie. The ordinary spider has only four legs on a side. This creature has five.

TRAGEDY OF A POCKET.

Man Is Almost Crazed by a Short Search for a Key.

The man's wife had asked him to go upstairs and look in the pocket of her dress for a key she thought was there, and being an accommodating man, says the Pittsburg Bulletin, he went at once.

Finally he returned, with empty hands, but with a peculiar look in his eyes and a nervous trembling of every muscle.

"I can't find any key in the dress of your pocket," he said, with a painful effort.

"Why," she retorted, sharply, "I left it there!"

"I say I can't find any dress in the pocket of your key," he said, doggedly.

His tone seemed to disturb her.

"You didn't half look for it," she insisted.

"I tell you I can't find any pocket in the key of your dress," he replied, in a dazed kind of way.

She looked at him.

"What's the matter with you?" she asked, nervously.

"I say," he said, speaking with much effort, "that I can't find any dress in the key of your pocket."

She got up and went over to him.

"O, William," she groaned, "have you been drinking?"

He looked at her.

"I tell you I can't find any pocket in the dress of your key," he whispered.

She began to shake him.

"What's the matter? What's the matter?" she asked, in alarm.

The shaking seemed to do him good, and he rubbed his eyes as if he were regaining consciousness.

"Wait a minute," he said, very slowly. "Wait a minute. I can't find any dress in—no; I can't find any key in the dress of—no, that's not it; any—any—any pocket. There, that's it!" and a flood of light came into his face. "Confound it! I couldn't find any pocket."

Then he sat down and laughed hysterically, and his wife, wondering why in the name of goodness men made such a fuss over finding the pocket in a woman's dress, went upstairs and came back with the key in something under two minutes.

WHY SO MANY FAIL.

Lack the Power or Inclination to Do Hard Work.

President James Rea of the New York Commercial Travelers' Association tells why many persons fail to obtain and hold good situations:

"Many young men fail to achieve success because they lack the power or inclination to do hard work. The head of one of our large department stores, in addressing a body of teachers, said: 'No man in the practical world of to-day can hope to get on if he shirks his work. I ask you to use all your power and influence to instill in the minds of those you teach the truth that a man owes work to the world, while the world does not owe him anything.' An expert accountant of many years' practice said: 'The best man I ever had in my employ was a plodder.'

"The writer, in his experience as a teacher, coming into contact with many thousand young men, has rarely, if ever, found a student who did not possess sufficient ability to make a successful start in life if he was thoroughly imbued with the precept—'Keeping everlasting at it brings success.' Many young men fail to render valuable service through lack of ability to do accurate, systematic work. The business community demands well-trained minds, capable of grasping details and carrying out instructions in a correct and orderly manner. The young man who possesses this faculty is a rarity, and never need be without profitable employment.

"Above all else, the young man who succeeds must be honest and temperate. He must be what he would appear. There is a premium upon those who possess sterling manhood, fixity of purpose and a determination to overcome obstacles. Life's highest prizes are within their grasp."—Success.

BEST FOR THE BOWELS.

No matter what ails you, headache to a cancer, you will never get well until your bowels are put right. CASCARETS help nature, cure you without a gripe or pain, produce easy natural movements, cost you just 10 cents to start getting your health back. CASCARETS Candy Cathartic, the genuine, put up in metal boxes, every tablet has C. C. C. stamped on it. Beware of imitations.

Seaweed.

Prof. Wille and Mr. Aked Krefling have succeeded by their patented processes in making seaweed useful in different ways, and in producing the following articles from it, namely: Sodium is extracted through the aid of acids, and more sodium is obtained in this way than through the burning process, when considerable waste occurs. From the offal after making sodium can be produced an admixture to so-called size paint (instead of using Iceland moss). This product is much cheaper, and can be made insoluble in water through a coating with a special stuff. It can thus partly take the place of oil. Further, there can be made from seaweed a finish for use in cloth mills, and this same product can also be used as a glue for paper. The half-fluid-like pulp can be made into a kind of leather for binding books.

Hall's Catarrh Cure
is a constitutional cure. Price 75 cents.

Told by Their Friends.

"They say Biddleson once saved his wife from a watery grave, before they were married."

"You don't know the Biddlesons very well, do you?"

"Why do you ask that?"

"Because you thought it necessary to add that the rescue was effected before their marriage."—Chicago Times-Herald.

PUTNAM FADELESS DYES do not stain the hands or spot the kettle.

Anthracite in North Carolina.

Anthracite coal, discovered at historic King's mountain, North Carolina, shows an analysis of 95 per cent. of carbon.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY
Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. E. W. Grove's signature is on each box. 25c.

Shoes of Straw and Wood.

Nearly all the shoes worn in Japan are made of straw or wood.

PRESIDENT TYLER'S DAUGHTER,

A Venerable Lady of Noble Lineage Speaks a Timely Word.

WHITE HOUSE, WASHINGTON, D. C.

"One of the most aristocratic faces seen in Washington is that of Mrs. Semple, daughter of President Tyler. She has passed her 80th year and yet retains an exceedingly youthful complexion. Personally she is charming, and impresses one as stepping out of the European courts," so says The National Magazine, under the heading "Social Sidelights at the Capital."

The following is a letter from this interesting lady, written from the Louise Home, Washington, D. C., to The Peruna Medicine Co., of Columbus, Ohio, concerning their great catarrh tonic, Peruna. Mrs. Semple writes:

The Peruna Medicine Company, Columbus, Ohio:

Gentlemen.—"Your Peruna is a most valuable remedy. Many of my friends have used it with the most flattering results and I can commend it to all who need a strengthening tonic. It is indeed a remarkable medicine." Sincerely, Letitia Tyler Semple.

Peruna is a specific to counteract the depressing effects of hot weather. A free book entitled "Summer Catarrh," sent by The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, O.

Makers of Handkerchiefs.

A comparatively small number of handkerchiefs are manufactured in this country, and those that are made here are mostly of the cotton and inferior silk variety. The finest silk goods are imported principally from Japan, which country sends us annually between 17,000,000 and 18,000,000 Japanese pongees. The best cambric article comes from France and Belgium, and linen handkerchiefs come from the North of Ireland and also from St. Galls, Switzerland. Japanese silk handkerchiefs are worth from $3 to $40 per dozen, while the imported cambrics from Brussels sell for from $5 to $7 per dozen, and the cotton product manufactured in Pennsylvania and New Jersey may be had for 30 cents per dozen.

Try Grain-O! Try Grain-O!

Ask your Grocer to-day to show you a package of GRAIN-O, the new food drink that takes the place of coffee. The children may drink it without injury as well as the adult. All who try it like it. GRAIN-O has that rich seal brown of Mocha and Java, but it is made of pure grains, and the most delicate stomach receives it without distress. ¼ the price of coffee. 15c and 25c per package. Sold by all grocers.

Seeking Information.

Small Boy—Do women ever have wings?

She—That's a foolish question. Why do you ask it?

Small Boy—Because I heard ma say you used to be a high flyer.—New York Evening World.

There is nothing new under the sun except Mrs. Austin's new dress.

Secret Orders in This Country.

There are in the United States over fifty distinct secret orders with more than 770,000 lodges and 5,000,000 members.

Lane's Family Medicine
Moves the bowels each day. In order to be healthy this is necessary. Acts gently on the liver and kidneys. Cures sick headache. Price 25 and 50c.

Hereafter income tax will be levied in Bremen, Germany, on all whose income exceeds $225. Heretofore the limit was as low as $150.

Piso's Cure for Consumption is an infallible medicine for coughs and colds.—N. W. Samuel, Ocean Grove, N. J., Feb. 17, 1900.

True love never dies, but it is sometimes perfectly killing to the rest of the family.

Jell-O. The New Dessert, pleases all the family. Four flavors:—Lemon, Orange, Raspberry and Strawberry. At your grocers. 10 cts.

A man who is poor in trust is the poorest of all God's creatures.—Holland.

There is nothing new under the sun except Mrs. Austin's new dress.

Of course there are striking differences between pugilists.

Grand Circuit Race Meet
At Fort Wayne, Ind. Tickets on sale via the Nickel Plate Road, Sept. 17th to 21st, inclusive, good returning until Sept. 22nd, inclusive, at one fare for the round trip between Bellevue and Valparaiso. Write, wire or 'phone or call on nearest agent. C. A. Asterlin, T. P. A., Fort Wayne, Ind.

Monkeys in India.

On the Jumna canal, at Delphi, monkeys swarm upon the banks and, being overcrowded and consequently unhealthy, they suffer considerably from various diseases. When one monkey is obviously ill a few of the larger monkeys watch for a favorable opportunity and then push it into the canal. If the poor creature be not drowned at once, it is thrown into the water again and again after it regains the trees, or else it is forced to keep aloof from the rest of the company.

What Shall We Have for Dessert?

This question arises in the family every day. Let us answer it to-day. Try Jell-O, a delicious and healthful dessert. Prepared in two minutes. No boiling! no baking! simply add a little hot water and set to cool. Flavors:—Lemon, Orange, Raspberry and Strawberry. At your grocers. 10 cts.

Sarah on Diamonds.

Sarah Bernhardt says that the wearing of diamonds destroys the best expression of the face, dims the fire of the eyes and makes the teeth look like chalk.

The Nickel Plate Road
Will sell excursion tickets to Fort Wayne, Ind., on Sept. 17th to 21st, inclusive, account the Grand Circuit Race Meet, at one fare for the round trip between Bellevue and Valparaiso. Tickets good returning until Sept. 22nd. Write, wire, 'phone or call on nearest agent or C. A. Asterlin, T. P. A., Fort Wayne, Ind.

Air Cushion Rubber Stamps—the Best—the Cheapest. Send your orders to Lock Box 219, Fort Wayne, Ind.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children teething; softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25 cents a bottle.

Satisfaction

is unusual with "Five-Cent cigar smokers," but it has been the every-day experience of hundreds of thousands of men who have smoked

Old Virginia Cheroots

during the last thirty years, because they are just as good now—in fact, better than when they were first made.

Three hundred million Old Virginia Cheroots smoked this year. Ask your own dealer. Price, 3 for 5 cents.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

When Writing to Advertisers please say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

If afflicted with sore eyes, use Thompson's Eye Water

AUBURN WEEKLY COURIER.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, postoffice as second-class matter.

THURSDAY...SEPTEMBER 13, 1900.

The 50-cent Dollar.

There is now and then to be found, a man trying to make some one believe there is danger of a 50-cent dollar. This proves that the fools are not all dead. For a man must be a fool to put up such an argument and the other man must be a fool to believe it.

The only way a 50-cent dollar can be made is for a private individual to make it. And this would be a bogus dollar, and the making and passing of it would be a crime for which a man would be sent to the penitentiary. Did people ever stop to think of this?

The government alone can coin money. It can coin pieces of any value the law directs. It is now all the time making 100-cent pieces, 50-cent pieces, 25-cent pieces, 10-cent, 5-cent pieces and 1-cent pieces. It also makes 20-dollar pieces, 10-dollar pieces, 5-dollar pieces, 2½ dollar pieces and 1-dollar pieces, which are gold. It also makes 10-dollar pieces, 5-dollar pieces and many other sizes, of paper. But it cannot make a 50-cent dollar of either paper, gold, silver, or anything else. If a man tries to make you believe this plain falsehood, insist on having him explain the details of how it can be done. He won't explain more than eight hours a day.

This whole 50-cent dollar business is to keep people from seeing the very plain drift of McKinley's plans, toward an imperial and military despotism. Look at our increasing army. Look at our continued and growing expenses. Look at our continued wars. When are we likely to have peace again? Look at the war taxes we are still paying though the war with Spain closed two years ago. Look at "entangling alliances" against which Washington warned us in his farewell address. We are getting mixed up in all the quarrels of the old world, and today, are in doubt whether we dare withdraw our army in Chica unless the other powers say we may do so. We are in cahoots with them and must get their consent or have a quarrel with them.

When a man wants to draw your attention away by a talk of 50-cent dollars, call his attention to the above and to the growing power of trusts.

To Democratic Clubs.

TO THE DEMOCRACY OF DEKALB COUNTY:

Having been appointed by the executive committee, chairman of the democratic clubs to be organized in DeKalb county, and believing as I do, in organization as the embodiment of strength, I have adopted a plan by and through which I hope to perfect the best organization of democratic clubs ever attained in the county or state. I will give to the largest marching club organized in the county, a handsome flag with pole and equipments complete, the value of which will not be less than $50 to be contributed from my own funds. The flag will be awarded at a meeting in Auburn about the middle of October upon the following conditions or points:

FIRST. To the township having the largest number of members in line of march on said day according to the vote cast for W. J. Bryan in 1896.

SECOND. Conduct of members on day of competition.

Each member must wear a badge indicating the club to which he belongs.

Seven judges will be selected to award the flag, one from each of the following towns: Auburn, Garrett, Butler, Waterloo, Ashley, Corunna and St. Joe. This flag can only be held for a period of two years, when it again must be put up for competition. All organizations are requested to be completed at once and report the names of the president and secretary to me.

DR. W. H. NUSBAUM,
Chairman of Club Organization.

In connection with the above statement, I desire to say that I have assurances from the state organization that we will be furnished with two speakers of national reputation for the above event to be taken from the following list:

W. J. Bryan, Adlai E. Stevenson, Henry M. Teller, Charles A. Towne, Webster Davis, David B. Hill, Benjamin F. Shively, John W. Kern and others. I will also furnish speakers to townships to deliver addresses at times when clubs are organized, upon application.

CHARLES M. BROWN,
Chairman of Speaking.

I indorse all of the above and I earnestly ask the co-operation of all who are interested in the election of W. J. Bryan, and all liberty loving people.

CYRUS C. WALTER,
County Chairman.

A Life and Death Fight.

Mr. W. A. Hines of Manchester, Ia., writing of his almost miraculous escape from death, says: "Exposure after measles induced serious lung trouble, which ended in Consumption. I had frequent hemorrhages and coughed night and day. All my doctors said I must soon die. Then I began to use Dr. Kings New Discovery for Consumption, which completely cured me. I would not be without it even if it cost $5.00 a bottle. Hundreds have used it on my recommendation and all say it never fails to cure Throat, Chest and Lung trouble." Regular size 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free at McCORD'S Drug Store.

For Road Supervisors.

Attorney General Taylor is in receipt of many letters from all parts of the state, the writers of which desire to know whether they will be allowed at the next election to vote for all the road supervisors in their townships or only for the one nominated in their particular district. Under the law every township trustee must, before the election, have divided his township into not to exceed four road districts and in each district there must be a supervisor elected. Mr. Taylor says: "I have uniformly held that the names of all of the nominees for road supervisors to be voted for at the coming fall election shall be printed upon the township ballot and each of the voters in said township may vote for one supervisor for each district in the township. I do not see how any other construction can be given to the law."

Six Counts.

In his speech at Indianapolis, Mr. Bryan undoubtedly proved these six charges against the Republican party: that it is—

Controlled by the money power.

With England in the war against the South Africa Republic.

With imperial ambitions for conquest and a vast standing army.

Wholly unfriendly to the working classes.

Aristocratic in all principles.

In favor of the wealthy few as against the poverty stricken many.

The charges are unanswered and will remain unanswered on election day.

Left Him out.

In our writeup of county candidates last week, we overlooked one of the most important officers, that of representative to the state legislature. Of course everyone who knows us or Mr. Jackman, is aware that we have always been firm friends and that such an omission was accidental. J. W. Jackman is an intelligent and progressive farmer, and a man who will do credit to the county when he goes to the legislature, as we certainly believe he will. We believe the people at large will support him because he is of the people and for the people. Give him a big vote.

August Report.

AUBURN, IND., Sept. 11, 1900.

Statement of financial condition of treasurer of DeKalb coudty. Sept. 1 1900.

Co. revenue on hand	$ 8388 47
Cong. school fund principal	312 91
Com. " " "	2482 15
Cong. " " Int.	794 01
Com. " " Int.	655 48
Agricultural fund	40 00
Gravel road fund	349 72
Redemption of land	86 35
Liquor license	700 00
Perm. end. fund princ.	62 63
" " " int.	43 10
Cir. court docket fees	44 00
Special dog	102 00
Ditch	1712 91
Clerk fund	1185 96
J. H. Hathnway, Sheriff fund.	406 72
Recorder's fund	1069 00
Auditor's fund	250 45
H. P. Stroh, ex-Sheriff	64 51
Total cash balance in treas.	$18776 37

Sept. 1 1900. F. M. Hines Co. Treas.

Democratic Caucus.

The democrats of Union township will meet in caucus at the democratic headquarters in Auburn on Saturday, September 15, 1900, at 2 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of nominating candidates for trustee, assessor, one justice of the peace, two constables, three members of the township advisory board, and supervisors, to be voted for at the coming general election, November 6.—MILES BAXTER, Chairman.

Attention Farmers.

The Auburn Handle Factory will pay the highest cash price for ash handle block delivered at their factory on the Lake Shore tracks, cut 58 inches long. Also want ash logs cut 9½, 14½ and 19½ feet long. All timber to be smooth and sound. Will also take basswood cut 4 feet long and 8 inches in diameter and up, left round with bark on. Will pay $3 percord.—J. M. CHERRY & Co.

FAIRFIELD CENTER.

Rev. Gaff will preach at this place next Sunday morning.

Samuel Smith and wife returned last week from a two weeks visit with relatives in Michigan.

Mrs. Elva Martin visited with relatives near Pleasant Lake over Sunday.

Fairfield township schools will begin next Monday.

Chas. Martin and family attended the Eckert reunion last Saturday.

Frank McNabb and family were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred, Dellenbaugh on Sunday.

Irvin Bair and Miss Luella Criss have wedded.

Edward Zebelle and wife were the guests of Bartley Lehman and family Sunday.

Last Sunday evening the cry of fire was heard on our streets. Upon investigating it proved to be in the church here; while the sexton was putting out the lights the large chandelier dropped to the floor and immediately the room was in flames. The townspeople responded promptly and the fire was checked, but not until three seats were damaged and the paper soiled so that the room will have to be repapered.

Storm Swept Galveston.

Latest reports from the storm swept gulf coast are not cheering. No such terrible calamity ever befell the country. The Johnstown flood looks small in comparison.

The latest news indicates that Galveston is largely in ruins. It stands on a low, long, sandy island next to the Texas coast and is separated from the main land by a narrow body of water. When the storm came the terrible force of the wind drove the water up against the island and over it from end to end. The tidal wave was so sudden that many were caught and drowned in their homes; others were washed into waste places, and many were swept into the raging sea. Some will never be recovered. Quite a number were driven across the narrow bay, or channel, a mile or so in with, and clear onto the mainland, where their bodies are being discovered at many places, as may happen along the shore, in swamps or valleys or driven against the higher parts of the ground. The loss of life alone in the city are put at from 1,000 to 3,000. But the number is not known and will not be for some time; perhaps never, except by keeping count on the missing who never return.

The work of relief at Galveston has begun, and a force is trying to cover the ruined city, to rescue the living and recover the dead, to save property if possible and direct the relief that is being sent from all over the country.

The terrible wind began the work of destruction. It blew at eighty-five miles an hour, when the instruments for measuring its velocity were blown away and no one knows how strong it was after that. Buildings of the strongest sort went down in ruins, and it was then that destruction by the tidal wave followed adding to the destruction of the tornado.

The sight that met the gaze of the survivors Sunday morning was terrible in the extreme. The dead were everywhere, and ruin only to be seen. One large building, a hospital, stood on ground below the sea level, and it was in ruins, most of the patients buried inside. Even the dead were washed from graves.

At points on the mainland cities and towns were ruined, many entirely lost, though the loss of life was not large compared with that of Galveston.

Relief is being sent from all over the country, and there will be no serious want after a day or two.

Glorious News

Comes from Dr. D. B. Cargile, of Washita, I. T. He writes: "Four bottles of Electric Bitters has cured Mrs. Brewer of scrofula, which had caused her great suffering for years. Terrible sores would break out on her head and face, and the best doctors could give her no help; but her cure is complete and her health is excellent." This shows what thousands have proved—that Electric Bitters is the best blood purifier known. It's the supreme remedy for eczema, tetter, salt rheum, ulcers boils and running sores. It stimulates liver, kidney and bowels, expels poisons, helps digestion builds up strength. Only 50c. Sold by H. B. McCord, druggist. Guaranteed.

Pretty Sore Job.

Frank Crafts carries his right arm in a sling as the result of an accident Friday. He was handling logs at the Greenler, using a team to roll them onto the chute. He had the swamp hook, as it is called, hooked into a log and then started the team. In some way, the hook tore loose from the log and flew like a shot, the hook striking him in the arm, at the wrist, tearing into the flesh till it struck the bones of the wrist, and jerked him ten or fifteen feet. It is an accident that migh easily have cost him his life, and as it is he will have to exercise care and patience for some time.

Twin Corn.

M. B. Masters has double the number of children he had a week or so ago, and it seems to agree with his ideas. Now he has double corn, and is liable to harvest an assortment of doubles and vegetable freaks. The queerest thing we have seen for a long time is a double ear of corn, a real Siamese twin. It is garden corn but the ears are 12½ inches long, and have but one stem. In a few inches, the ear divides and becomes two perfect ones. Each has its own husks but the lower outside husks envelop the whole group.

A Surprise.

At the home of Myron S. Kutzner, four miles northwest of town, a pleasant surprise was given for M. Bliss Lowman Thursday evening, Sept. 6. The evening's entertainment consisted of music and playing games, and at a late hour the guests departed bidding Mr. Lowman goodby as he returns to his home in Winamac, Ind., Saturday. He has spent the summer with his uncle and family.

Low Rate Excursion.

On Sunday, Sept. 16 the B. & O. will sell, excursion tickets to Chicago, Ill. at rate of $1.25 for the round trip, account Order of Railway Conductors' Excursion. Special train leaves Auburn Junction at 5:25 a. m. Tickets good for return on special train leaving Chicago at 8:00 p. m., Sept. 16th; also a special train leaving Chicago at 8:00 p. m., Monday Sept. 17, 1900.

CASTORIA.
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

Service at the Lutheran Church.

Closing up of the ninth year's work as pastor and people of the St. Mark's Evangelical Lutheran church of Auburn, Indiana. Rev. J. D. Brosy has labored with us nine years with a very marked degree of success. The church has been greatly built up and strengthened, and the closing of each year was marked with certain advances very satisfactory both to people and pastor, and we trust, pleasing to God. Space will not admit of a detailed account of each year's work, but a few words concerning this last year with its work and success would be fitting at this time, which we believe will prove a source of joy and consolation and we trust encouragement to others. During the year 75 were added to the church, and the average attendance of the Sunday school has been about 210. The Christian Endeavor societies are in splendid working condition and have proven important factors in the upbuilding of the church. The church has paid out in money nearly $1,500 for all purposes. Mr. Brosy has preached 189 sermons; married 47 couple; attended 33 funeral services. The blessings of God have been great upon the Lutheran church; harmony and peace has prevailed, and prosperity has attended the efforts of the church. Mr. Brosy loves his people and is loved by his people. The climax of the ninth year was reached yesterday in the delightful and inspiring communion service at the morning hour, in which a large company of people participated, and at which time three new members were added to the church. The anniversary service last evening were conducted by the Endeavor societies, and were appropriate and interesting. In all it was the best day of the wuole year. The decorating committee did themselves credit, which added so much to the service. An arch spanned the space above the pulpit platform at the front, and from one pillar to the other. Beneath this were the words, "Then and Now." At the left, as the audience saw it, was "1891," at the right, "1900." Along the front of the platform was a lovely line of flowers and ferns. All the church was made beautiful.

A Great Discovery for Cancer.

Windsor, Ont., Jan., 24, 1900.

Dr. C. D. Warner. Dear Sir:—I have used your Compound of Seven Cures, the great cancer cure and blood purifier with excellent results. I do not hesitate to recommend it for the purposes for which it is used. Its effects are in a short time so manifest that it cannot fail to give the best of satisfaction.—Jas. Cummings. For Sale by F. E. Davenport.

CASTORIA.
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

ST. JOE.

Miss Ethel Leighty has been on the sick list but is now better.

Everybody is complaining of the dry, hot weather.

Chris Curle and J. W. Dills attended the Hon. J. M. Robinson meeting at Leo Saturday.

Prohibition speech on the street Monday evening. By the way prohibitionists are claiming, fifty votes in Concord township. Judging by other years one-third of fifty will about catch them, but its the fashion to claim everything in sight.

Mrs. Beeks Erick of Weatherford O. K. who has been visiting her mother and sister for the last four weeks will return home the last of the week. Her mother, Mrs. Yarnell, returns with her for an extended visit.

School opened up last Monday with bright prospects for a successful term. Prof. Stoll of Avilla, principal; C. J. Hadsell, grammar; Clarence Woodcox, intermediate; Miss Addie Widney for the fifth time as primary teacher.

The B. & O. graders on double track have reached St. Joe and are putting up a steam shovel preparing to make the big fill east of the station.

The people of St. Joe are wondering where the town marshal is or has been. Never in the history of the town have brush weeds and rubbish of all kinds been allowed to accummulate along the streets and highways as they have this summer. On the street leading to the school house, and on the highway east of town is a wilderness of brush, weeds and other filth. Talk about your fixing up to a man up a tree who can look down and see, for you can't see, when on the ground it looks as though the town officials had all gone on an extended fishing expedition and had forgoten to come back.

Trading Stamps.

Many false rumors are afloat concerning our giving away premiums by the use of trading stamps. Some are circulating that we no longer give them to our customers. Such is not a fact, however, for we have not stopped giving them and will continue so to do until we advertise thoroughly a discontinuance of the stamp business. No extra charge on goods no matter what the price. Stamps given and competition always met. Largest line of fine shoes in Auburn—Wilson, Shoeman.

A Great Blood Renewer.

Windsor, Ont., Jan. 4, 1900.

Dr. C. D. Warner. Dear Sir:—Having used your Compound of Seven Cures in my family, will say it has no equal; as a blood purifier and for building up the system it is unsurpassed. —Yours respectfully, Mrs. M. Short. For sale by F. E. Davenport.

IT STANDS TO REASON

that there is money saved in buying direct from the Manufacturer

The profits between the manufacturer and consumer are large.

We Save You these Profits

No. 696.—Cut under surrey; has long distance axles, brass bushed rubber head springs, broad cloth trimmings, lamps, curtains, sun-shade, pole or shafts; same as retails for $30 to $75 more than our price. Our price, $110.

No. 81.—Pneumatic Wagon with No. 1 two inch Pneumatic Tires; 34 and 36-in. wheels, full ball-bearing axles, Bailey body loops and shaft couplers, fine Whipcord trimmings and high grade finish; has fine as retails for $75 more than our price. Our price, complete with high bend shafts, $118

We are the largest manufacturers of Vehicles and Harness in the world selling to the consumer exclusively. For 27 years we have conducted business on this plan. We give you better quality for the same money, or the same quality for less money than the dealer, jobber or supply agent.

No. 907.—Extension Top Surrey with double fenders, lamps, curtains, storm apron, pole or shafts; is as fine as retails for $50 more than our price. Our price, $190.

We Ship Anywhere For Examination.

We make 178 styles of vehicles and 65 styles of harness.

This advertisement will appear only a few times—you may be reading the last insertion.

Our Large Catalogue

shows every Vehicle and Harness we make and gives prices.

IT'S FREE.

No. 291.—Fancy Buggy with figured plush trimmings. Is complete in every way and as fine as retails for $35 more than our price. Our price, with shafts, $55.

Elkhart Carriage and Harness Manufacturing Co.
ELKHART, INDIANA.

Signs of Dyspepsia.

They Are Many and Distressing But Not Hard to Cure.

It is sometimes hard to convince those who have not been free from distress for years, that so many distressing ailments can all be caused by indigestion. It is still harder to realize that they can all be speedily cured. In Dr. Stone's years of practice as a specialist in the stomach and liver diseases, hardly a day passed but that he had patients who suffered from such symptoms as these. heartburn, palpitation of the heart, souring or belching of food, pain or distress after eating, pain in the side or back or under the shoulder, kidney or bladder troubles, fickle appetite, melancholy, nervousness, and mental or muscular disability. Yet he overcame all these symptoms and many others by simply restoring sound digestion. The remedies he relied upon are now offered to you under the name of Dr. Stone's New Dyspepsia Cure. If you have any of the above symptoms they can be relieved in a day and entirely banished by continued use of this remedy. Dr. Stone's New Dyspepsia Cure is guaranteed. It must cure every case or the money is refunded. Price 50c. Sold by H. B. McCord.

E. W. Grove

This signature is on every box of the genuine Laxative Bromo-Quinine Tablets the remedy that cures a cold in one day

BUTLER.

Lovell Pattee and wife of Adrian were in attendance at the Butler fair.

Bert Pattee is about to move on the farm owned by his wife's mother near Newville. A good many changes are taking place about town.

Lizzie Champion is slowly improving and it is hoped will soon be out again.

Mac Lewis, a former resident of Butler, now residing in California, is reported in very poor health.

Jacob Dohnier, son of Harry Dohnier a former DeKalb boy, now living in Iowa, was visiting about Butler last week.

A brother of Geo. Squire's, whom he had not seen for thirty years, at present resident of Iowa, is visiting him.

G. W. Palmerton was able to ride to Butler last week.

A large crop of cloverseed is being gathered. The price seems to be satisfactory.

Corn is being cut very rapidly. It is an immense crop.

The Canning Co. is running but not as heavy as at some former seasons.

The Mary Coffrin house near the water works had a close call from fire last week.

HERE is a medical lecture in a nutshell. The Kidneys drain water and impurities from the blood. The Liver makes bile and helps to drive off other waste. If these organs work badly the body becomes a cesspool and disease sets in. You must get them into healthy action or die.

Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver & Kidney Balm

is an old and unsurpassed remedy for Backache, Debility, Sleeplessness, Lost Appetite, Foul Tongue, Palpitations and all other symptoms of disease in those organs. It cures as well as prevents every serious trouble in Kidney, Liver or Bladder. At druggists, $1.00 per bottle. THE DR. J. H. McLEAN MEDICINE CO. ST. LOUIS, MO.

For sale by F. E. Davenport.

Executors Sale.

Notice is hereby given that pursuant to the provisions contained in the will of Amy E. Kelley, deceased, in that behalf enabling, I, Freeman Kelley, executor of said will, will, on the real estate to be sold, on Saturday, the 6th day of October, 1900, at the hour of two o'clock in the afternoon of said day, proceed to sell at public sale, the following described real estate, situated in DeKalb County, State of Indiana, to-wit: Lot numbered eighty-five [85] in the original plat of the City of Auburn, in said county; also lot numbered one hundred forty-eight [148] in the original plat of said city. Said real estate will be sold at not less than two-thirds of the appraised value thereof, and in all things subject to the approval of the DeKalb Circuit Court, and upon the following terms, to-wit: One-third of the purchase money cash in hand at the date of sale; one-third on or before twelve months, and one-third on or before eighteen months after date, with the privilege to the purchaser to pay more than one-third cash at his option, the deferred payments to be evidenced by the purchaser's notes bearing six per cent interest from date, waiving relief from valuation laws, and secured by a mortgage on the real estate sold.

FREEMAN KELLEY,
Executor.

August 31, 1900.

Sheriff's Sale.

By virtue of an execution issued on a judgment rendered in the DeKalb Circuit Court, on the 24th day of January, 1900, and to me directed by the Clerk of said Court, I will offer for sale at public auction and outcry to the highest bidder, at the door of the Court House in Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana, on

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 6, 1900,

between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m., and 4 o'clock p. m. of said day, the rents and profits for a term not exceeding seven years, of the following described real estate, situated in DeKalb County, in the State of Indiana, towit: Southeast quarter of section thirty-four (34), township thirty-three (33) north of range thirteen (13) east. And in case the rents and profits fail to bring the amount demanded to satisfy the judgment and decree aforesaid, interest and costs, together with all accruing costs, I will, at the same time and place, and in like manner as aforesaid, offer for sale at public auction and outcry, to the highest bidder, all the right, title, interest and estate in fee simple of Andrew Metcalf, John Metcalf and Henry Metcalf, in and to the above described real estate, or so much and such part thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the judgment and decree aforesaid, which is in favor of William Kapp and David M. Karns; and against Andrew Metcalf, John Metcalf and Henry Metcalf. Said real estate will be sold without relief from valuation or appraisement laws, and subject to the redemption laws of the State of Indiana.

JOHN H. HATHAWAY,
Sheriff of DeKalb County, Indiana.

Chas. Emanuel, Attorney for Plaintiff.
Sept. 12, 1900.

Hearing of Ditch Petition.

In the matter of the petition of James Gibford, et al., No. 710, notice is hereby given that a petition has been filed with the Auditor of DeKalb county, state of Indiana, and viewers have been appointed who have viewed and reported said view which is on file in my office. The hearing of said petition upon its merits will be heard by the Board of County Commissioners on Tuesday, the 2d day of October, 1900, the same being the 2d day of their October term, 1900. The prayer of said petition is that a ditch be constructed on the following route, to-wit:

Beginning 570 feet south of the northwest corner of section nineteen (19), township thirty-three (33), north range 14 east in DeKalb county, Indiana, and from thence in an easterly direction overlaying the J. D. Leighty ditch ending at the beginning of the William Knight ditch, No. 641, said point being 300 feet north and 100 feet west of the southeast corner of the west half of the southeast quarter of section No. 8 of Concord township, DeKalb county, Indiana.

This proposed work will affect the lands of the following persons:

Wm. L. Nelson	Theodore Kline
	P A Sharts
James B Draggoo	Delliah Draggoo
James Gibford	James Rickett
Anna Rickett	Winfield Scott
John H. Gill	O W Rummel
Jacob Baker	Daniel Wyatt
Susan Wyatt	Florence Buchanan
S G Brown	James Irvin
Laura Layman	Israel Layman
Mary Layman	H L Jones
John Fetters	John Hull

Baltimore & Ohio and Chicago R R Company
Concord Township
FRANK P. SEILER, Auditor DeKalb County
JOHN W. KRONTZ, Surveyor DeKalb County
Dated Sept. 3, 1900.

NOTICE OF FINAL SETTLEMENT OF ESTATE.

Notice is hereby given to all persons nterested in the estate of Silas B. Johnston, deceased, to appear in the DeKalb circuit court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 8th day of Oct. 1900, and show cause, if any, why my final settlement accounts with the estate of said decedent should not be approved; and said heirs and all others interested, are notified to then and there make proof of heirship or claim and receive their distributive share

Witness my name this 12th day of September, 1900.

MARY E JOHNSTON,
Administratrix.

Ross & Ross, Att'y's.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
Cleanses and beautifies the hair. Promotes a luxuriant growth. Never fails to Restore Gray Hair to its Youthful Color. Prevents Dandruff and hair falling. 50c. and $1.00 at Druggists.

A Modern Storyteller

tells you you can get

THE LATEST SHEET MUSIC AT THE LOWEST PRICE FROM F. V. CUTLER.

We can supply you with Gramophones, Phonographs, or any other talking machine, with all the latest improvements.

Pianos, Organs, Violins and other musical instrumdnts in almost endless variety.

FOR SALE BY

F. V. CUTLER,
AUBURN, INDIANA.

Also up-to-date Funeral Directors and Embalmers.

Up-To-Date

Hand Made Buggy Surrey or Heavy Harness

Lap Dusters!
Neat Patterns in all grades from the Cheapest to the Best.

Fly Nets!
Cotton and Leather Fly Nets, Stable Sheets and Covers at Bottom Prices.

Don't forget that we have Garden, Field and Lawn Grass Seed in bulk at very low prices.

Eberle & Freygang
Auburn, Ind.

William's Kidney Pills

Has no equal in diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs. Have you neglected your Kidneys? Have you overworked your nervous system and caused trouble with your Kidneys and Bladder? Have you pains in the loins, side, back, groins and bladder? Have you a flabby appearance of the face, especially under the eyes? Too frequent desire pass urine? William's Kidney Pills will impart new life to the diseased organs, tone up the system and make a new man of you. By mail 50 cents per box.

WILLIAMS MFG. CO., Props., Cleveland, O.

Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court, of the State of Indiana, executor of the will of Amy A. Kelley, deceased, late of said County.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

FREEMAN KELLEY,
Executor.

Aug. 30, 1900.

NOW READY.

Our Fall stock of

DRY GOODS,
CLOTHING,
LADIES' WRAPS,
AND CARPETS

Is now complete. Never before have we shown so large a variety. Ask for what you will and ninety-nine chances out of a hundred we will have it for you. All this immense stock bought on the guarantee. Bought to protect you in every sense of the word. We guarantee satisfactory wear and lowest prices as well. We buy the new styles here as soon as they are shown in the larger cities. Doesn't this make our store an ideal store in which to trade? The fine increase in business we are getting goes to prove that it is.

We wish to see you often during the coming season and will do everything in our power to make your visits a pleasure to you whether you purchase or not.

We are Saving You Money.

Schaab & Bro.

Auburn, Indiana.

Superior Disc Drill

When buying a Drill why not buy the best. THE SUPERIOR SINGLE DISC DRILL will do more work and do it better with less labor than any other grain drill yet offered the farmer. It will work in all kinds of ground no matter how trashy or hard. Try one of them and be convinced. Sold by

CULBERTSON & BOLAND,

Auburn, Ind.

Only too glad to show you the line.

xxxx

A large line of

Bicycle Sundries

Always carried in stock at Low Prices.

xxxx

Bicycle repairing promptly attended to.

xxxx

M. B. WILLIS. Jr.,

"The Rambler Man"

Huelsenbeck Building.

Jewelry
..and..
Watches.

Our fall stock is coming in —all new and up-to-date.

D. R. Hodge, The Jeweler.

Monday's Daily.

—Fine line of cream candies at Had's.

—Use Radam's Microbe Killer for rheumatism. s15

—Perry Romine's Weekly COURIER is now way ahead into 1901.

—If you want a second hand grain drill go to Culbertson & Boland. 36tf

—J. B. Ketcham and Jacob Krebill went onto our 1901 list of honor this week.

—Two good second hand grain drills for sale cheap at Culbertson & Boland's. 36tf

—Curt McBride went to St. Joe at noon to paint the scenery for their new opera house.

—George Davis and family of Garrett spent Sunday with the family of M. B. Masters.

—Mr. and Mrs. Miles Baxter drove up to Hamilton yesterday to visit his father, Andrew Baxter.

—A new clothing store is to be opened up in the Ford block soon, in the room vacated by Baller.

—Morris Widney is back, for a time at least. He has been traveling and singing for Mr. Eckhart.

—Mr. and Mrs. Henry Harms of near Corunna visited the family of their daughter, Mrs. Knapp, yesterday.

—You will not miss it by buying a meal ticket at Had's; 21 meals $3.00, and for mostly Sunday meals $4.00.

—Ft. Wayne parties who own gold mines in Georgia have returned from inspecting them. They say they have a bonanza.

—J. H. Walter and wife went up to Edgerton on Saturday to spend Sunday with the family of A. C. Donaldson, who are relatives.

—No cheating or skin games are ever allowed on the Kendallville fair grounds. They give a clean, honest and creditable exibilion.

The Ohio excursion to Maumee Niles, Canton, Mansfield, and Wooster goes on Tuesday Oct. 4. See Sprott & Knapp for full particulars. 40

—Two men at Anderson were filling a balloon when they fell out. Not out of the balloon, though. That had not started. They fell out and "fit."

—The purses in the Kendallville speed list this year have been greatly increased, thereby insuring a big field of splendid horses for all the races.

—Will Schaab, wife, children and Mrs. Kate Clapp drove to New Haven Sunday to see Mr. Schaab's mother who is visiting her daughter there.

—If you enjoy good races attend the Kendallville fair during the last three days of the meeting. Exciting events in this line will take place each day.

—The next attraction at the opera house is "Our Friend from India," which is September 17. It is one of the best attractions billed for the opera house this year.

—Miss Stella Hague entertained a few young ladies one day last week, in honor of Miss Lydia Tepters who has gone to resume her work in the schools at Plymouth, Ind.

If fortune disregard thy claim
Don't hang thy head in fear and shame
But marry the girl you love best
Rocky Mountain Tea will do the rest. Ask your druggist.

—Levi McBride of Butler and his wife were here over Sunday, at the bedside of their daughter, Mrs. Grund, Mrs McBride will remain a week or so or till Mrs. Grund is better.

Sunday, September 16, there will be a low rate excursion to Detroit over the Wabash leaving Auburn at about 7 a. m. The fare for round trip will be $1.25, good to return September 17.

—Before you buy lath see the fine stock of the Saginaw product at the lumber yard of A. Lewis & Co. They have reason to think they have about the best there is in the market. a1tf —Saturday night the family of Trustee Madden, on East Seventh street, was increased to seven, to agree with the number of the street. Dr. Buchtel says it is a hearty ten pound boy.

—We want you to use Putnam Fadeless Dyes because they color more goods, make faster and brighter colors and cost you more than others. 10c per package. Sold by F. E. Davenport.

—The managers of the Kendallville fair always keep faith with their exhibitors by paying just what they offer. They maintain their credit with visitori and the public in general by giving them a better show than they advertise.

—Unclaimed letters remaining in the postoffice, week ending Sept. 8, 1900. Mrs. H. G. Grim, Charles McCosh, William Roop, Richard Rossington and John Link. Claimants will please call for letters in advertised list.—G. H. FORKNER, Postmaster.

—Campaign song book, title: "Freedom Songs" by E. W. Crane. Adopted by the state central committees of the Fusion Forces of Neb. Single copy 25 cents, $1.75 per dozen, $1.00 per half dozen. Address all orders to E. W. Crane, Box 1520, Lincoln, Nebraska.

—WANTED:—Active man of good character to deliver and collect in Indiana for old established manufacturing wholesale house. $900 a year, sure pay. Honesty more than experience required. Our reference, any bank in any city. Enclose self-addressed stamped envelope. Manufacturers, Third Floor, 334 Dearborn St., Chicago.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

Tuesday's Daily.

—New goods at Mrs. Cuppy's.

—Try Mrs. Austin's famous pancake flour.

—Use Radam's Microbe Killer for catarrh. s15

—Fresh oysters by the can now at Rainier's.

—Homemade candies will soon be the go at Had's.

—Big game of baseball in Auburn Friday afternoon.

—An Anderson druggist advertises "A goldfish free."

—Use Radman's Microbe Killer for chronic stomach trouble.

—The Reds and the Fort Wayne Interstate League here Friday.

—One good second hand phaeton for sale cheap.—Culbertson & Boland.

—Mrs. Austin's pancake flour is famous the world over. All grocers sell it.

The Benedict building on east Ninth street is for sale or rent. Call on F. E. Benedict.

—It's no joke but a fact that if you once try Had's salted peanuts you will want more.

—Claude Link is agent for Radam's Microbe Killer and it can't be bought at the drugstore.

—Dr. Baxter reports the birth of a son to Geo. W. Freeman and wife of Jackson township.

—If you are in a hurry for breakfast make it easy for your wife, take home Mrs. Austin's pancake flour.

—Mrs. F. M. Boyer returns today to her new home at Daleville, where Kendel & Boyer are running a glass factory.

—An exchange says a doctor in Waterloo has twenty cases of consumption. Go away from home to get startling new.

—Oscar Hoffman, south of Bachtel's Mill, will grind all kinds of house cutlery, plow points, etc. in good style. Try him. tf

—The old, reliable Kendallville fair begins Sept. 24 and continues until Sept. 28. Get your business arranged to attend.

—James Graham was in town yesterday and reports his daugher, Mrs. Harding at Garrett, very low with typhoid fever.

—The Askew property north of Lutheran church for sale at a bargain. For particulars address Phil Plum, Waterloo, Ind. tf —Near Yakima, Wash., an Indian medicine man was last week stoned to death by his people, because he failed to cure a sick child.

—The final location of the old building in which John Kruger has his grocery is to be the vacant lot next east of the Benedict factory building.

—The Fort Wayne Interstate League ball team plays the Auburn Reds on Friday. It will be one of the hardest fought games of the season.

—State Geologist Blatchley finds mmense marl beds in the south part of Marshall county. Some are twenty feet thick with no dirt over them.

—"Thou changest not—yet, I am always changing," said the substitute to Rocky Mountain Tea. Made by the Madison Medicine Co. 35c. Ask your druggist.

—The Daily COURIER said yesterday the republican majority in Maine as usual about 30,000. It is reported today at 31,000, at least such are the indications.

—Stroh Times:—Visitors at the Dr. Bucher home on South Main street last week were: Mr. and Mrs. Fretz and daugeter, Mrs. Thorne and nephew, all of Auburn.

—James C. Fillmore was buried at Lagrange county Sept. 4 He was a nephew of President Fillmore and a successful farmer of Lagrange county as his father had been also.

—It dulls the scythe of Father Time drives away wrinkles of approaching old age—the elixir of life, that puts hope in the human heart.—Rocky Mountain Tea. Ask your druggist.

—WANTED:—A farm in DeKalb Co. Must be a bargain. Party will pay from $2,000 to $3,000 cash and assume some indebtedness if necessary. Enquire of Webster & Wartenbe, Butler, Ind. 36

—Indianapolis Sun:—W. S. Taylor, of Kentucky, helped Congressman Watson open the campaign at Rushville, Friday. The ex-governor predicts a McKinley majority of 25,000 in Indiana.

—The special car of the prohibition party will reach Auburn, Oct. 1, with all the national and state candidates, including Mr. Eckhart. If he does not come here with them, he will join them here.

—Some tronble is likely at Indianapolis if the contractors for the new government building use New England granite instead of Indiana limestone. The latter is at least as good as the other, and much nearer home.

—George Trout is now clerking at the popular Yesbera store. George is a bright young man and we are glad to see the young men have a chance to earn their own support. We see no reason why he should not be a tip-top salesman.

—Christian Smith and wife were in town today from Leo. Mrs. Smith is recovering slowly from her illness. They were here for some needed repairs to his mail wagon, which was made at the factory of the Speciality Buggy Co, in this city.

—W. D. Rickel stepped on a needle last evening and ran it into his foot where it broke off. It became very painful and Drs. Nusbaum and Rock, today tried to find the pieces and get them out. But nothing could be found of them. He suffers a good deal.

Wednesday's Daily.

—Best play yet at Henry's opera house, Monday Sept. 17.

—Lots of corn shocks were knocked over by the wind last night.

—Rev. Geo. T. Butler of Albion was calling on friends in Auburn yesterday.

—John Campbell of Edgerton, Ohio, is visiting his sister, Mrs. Maggie Bryant.

—It will pay every reader to study carefully our brief article on the 50-cent dollar.

—The wind played havoc last night although so far we hear of no buildings destroyed in Auburn.

—The Salvation Army tent was partly blown over last evening so it had to be taken down. It was put up again this morning.

—The cider mill in Stamets addition, Auburn, is now running every day in the week except Saturdays. Bring on your apples. J. E. Baker. 37

—WANTED, men to cut 100 cords of wood. Good timber. Top price paid. Call at Robert's grocery in Auburn or W. E Rose on the Newville road. 38

—"My Friend from India," has the best reputation of any show on the road. It will be at Henry's opera house in Auburn, on Monday next, Sept. 17.

—Ben Michener on the old Stamet's farm south of town says he had at least one hundred bushels of apples blown off much of which will be good now for cider only.

—Don't forget if you use Putnam Fadeless Dyes you don't have to send for a package for wool and one for cotton. Each package colors all fibers. F. E. Davenport. 37

—The city of Washington has several large Bryan and Stevenson bannere swinging across its streets, but up to last accounts not one for McKinley, Roosevelt and Hanna.

—Harry Henry was struck by a ball yesterday, making a slight fracture of the left arm. It will lay him up for a time. But then Harry has had enough practical ball playing anyhow.

—It is believed that one result of the great storm will be to locate more business at Port Arthur on the mainland and less at Galveston. The latter city will probably never be as prosperous again.

—An exchange remarks on the number of golden weddings this year, as something unusual. He probably goes on the grounds, that many people have reached that anniversary who had never reached it before.

—There came near being an oil famine here yesterday. The expected car of oil was delayed and a temporray supply was obtained by driving to Waterloo. Last evening the car came and the oil business is brisk this morning.

—The Berne, Ind., council, two months ago passed an ordinance order all property owners to build stone walks. Councilman Houck did not comply, and a mob, Saturday night, tore up the sidewalk and carried it into tde street and burned it.

—Charley Michell of the Junction foundry was chipping iron Saturday when some pieces flew into his eye. He had to send for Dr. Nusbaum to get them out, which was successfully done, and he is getting along all right, tho' of course it will take time to heal.

—Do young men realize that the first and worst of their misfortunes is to get into bad company. An Auburn young man had to give five hundred dollar bonds yesterday for appearance in court on a serious charge. This trouble was caused bad by company.

—Two well-dressed strangers appeared in Newberry, Ind., Saturday, and in every drug store they invited every one present to drink at their expense, and as a result many affidavits have been filed against druggists. A new-fashioned slot machine which they exhibited turned out to be a camera, and all who watched it work had their pictures taken.

—A letter from S. Z. Dickinson at Douglas, Mich., says he did not get the last two papers. The last but one was sent him, but not the last one, as we understood he was going to the G. A. R. meeting at Chicago and from there back to Waterloo. However, we will make it all right now. He says he is living on peaches, plums, pears, and watermelons. Peaches are shipped by the thousand to Chicago every day, and net only about 40 to 45 cents a bushel at the boat.

Does the Baby Thrive

If not, something must be wrong with its food. If the mother's milk doesn't nourish it, she needs SCOTT'S EMULSION. It supplies the elements of fat required for the baby. If baby is not nourished by its artificial food, then it requires

Scott's Emulsion

Half a teaspoonful three or four times a day in its bottle will have the desired effect. It seems to have a magical effect upon babies and children. A fifty-cent bottle will prove the truth of our statements.

Should be taken in summer as well as winter.

50c. and $1.00, all druggists.
SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, New York.

THE AUBURN LUMBER CO.

—Carry a Full line of—

Casings, Base Blocks for Inside Finish, Veranda Columns, Spindels, Tracery and Brackets for Veranda or Porch work.....

HOLLOW FOUNDATION BLOCKS,

Bulk Lime, Portland Cement,

And are always headquarters for Shingles, all the best grades cut from green timber.

The Auburn Lumber Co.

Auburn, Indiana.

Remember the Place.....Near Wabash Depot.

Unearthed a Skeleton.

While excavating in the gravel pit south of the Swinney residence, in the west end, on Saturday, Charles Meyers, a laborer, unearthed the skeliton of an Indian. The bones were found at a depth of about twelve feet and from appearances it is thought that the skeliton was that of an Indian chief, as many ornaments were found about it. The bones were in a good state of preservation, but appearantly had lain in the ground for many years. The skeliton was in a sitting position, facing the west, the arms had been folded over the head and the legs were drawn up so that the head rested on the knees. Around the skull was a brass ring, badly corroded, which had been used to keep the head dress of feathers in place. About the neck of the skeleton was the remains of a string of finely worked beads and attached to the end was a curious stone ornament. Many other beads, large and small, were also found about the skeleton, as well as many stone ornaments. The bones were carefully exhumed and the various ornaments were gathered up. Several of these are in the possession of Mr. Meyers, to whom they belong by right of discovery.—Fort Wayne Sentinel.

The B. & O. to Ohio Points.

On October 4, 1900 the B. & O. R. R. will sell excursion tickets to Mansfield, Mt. Vernon, Lodi, Wooster, Millersburg, Creston, Warwick, Akron, Canton, Kent, Ravenna, Warren and Orrville, Ohio, at the rate of $6.00 for the round trip.

Excursion tickets will also be sold to Niles, O., and return at the rate of $6.60 and to Youngstown, O., and return at the rate of $7.00 for the round trip.

Tickets will be good to return until November 3, 1900.

Detailed information in regard to time of trains, etc., may be obtained upon application to nearest B. & O. Ticket Agent or B. N. Austin, General Passenger Agent, Chicago, Ill. 38

The Appetite of a Goat

Is envied by all poor dyspeptics whose Stomach and Liver are out of order. All such should know that Dr. King's New Life Pills, the wonderful Stomach and Liver Remedy, gives a splendid appetite, sound digestion and a regular bodily habit that insures perfect health and great energy. Only 25 cents at any drugstore.

My Friend from India.

This splendid play has been given for the past three years by the same company in all parts of the United States and with uniform success. Had it not been successful it would not have existed all this time. For all these years Mr. Henry has been trying to get them at Auburn, and has only succeeded now. They will be at the opera house next Monday, Sept. 17.

He Fooled The Surgeons.

All doctors told Renio Hamilton, of West Jefferson, O., after suffering 18 months from Rectal Fistula, he would die unless a costly operation was performed; but he cured himself with five boxes of Bucklen's Arnica Salve, the surest Pile cure on Earth, and the best Salve in the World. 25 cents a box. Sold by H. B. McCord, druggist.

OUR SHOEMAKER

has less hair (than the man in above picture) but he is the man who can fix up your shoes in shape, or if your shoes don't need fixing let him or some one else sell you a new pair.

A. N. WILSON'S.

P. S. Best line of fine shoes in the city. Ask to see them. Trading stamps given.

SUPERLATIVE QUALITY--ABSOLUTE PURITY.

ROYAL GARDEN TEAS

Sold only in Bour's celebrated Bond-Linen Package, with the Blue Strip Seal. Accept no substitute.

ASK YOUR GROCER

Dr. Humphreys'

Specifics act directly upon the disease, without exciting disorder in other parts of the system. They Cure the Sick.

No.	Cures.	Prices.
1	Fevers, Congestions, Inflammations.	.25
2	Worms, Worm Fever, Worm Colic...	.25
3	Teething, Colic, Crying, Wakefulness	.25
4	Diarrhea, of Children or Adults.....	.25
7	Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis.....	.25
8	Neuralgia, Toothache, Faceache.....	.25
9	Headache, Sick Headache, Vertigo..	.25
10	Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Weak Stomach.	.25
11	Suppressed or Painful Periods....	.25
12	Whites, Too Profuse Periods.....	.25
13	Croup, Laryngitis, Hoarseness.....	.25
14	Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Eruptions..	.25
15	Rheumatism, Rheumatic Pains.....	.25
16	Malaria, Chills, Fever and Ague.....	.25
19	Catarrh, Influenza, Cold in the Head	.25
20	Whooping-Cough.....	.25
27	Kidney Diseases.....	.25
28	Nervous Debility.....	1.00
30	Urinary Weakness, Wetting Bed...	.25
77	Grip, Hay Fever.....	.25

Dr. Humphreys' Manual of all Diseases at your Druggists or Mailed Free.
Sold by druggists, or sent on receipt of price. Humphreys' Med. Co., Cor. William & John Sts., New York.

Our fee returned if we fail. Any one sending sketch and description of any invention will promptly receive our opinion free concerning the patentability of same. "How to Obtain a Patent" sent upon request. Patents secured through us advertised for sale at our expense.

Patents taken out through us receive special notice, without charge, in THE PATENT RECORD, an illustrated and widely circulated journal, consulted by Manufacturers and Investors. Send for sample copy FREE. Address,

VICTOR J. EVANS & CO.,
(Patent Attorneys,)
Evans Building, WASHINGTON, D. C.

—Subscribe for the COURIER.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, - Publisher.

1900. SEPTEMBER. 1900.

Su	Mo	Tu	We	Th	Fr	Sa
•	•	•	•	•	•	1
2	3	4	5	6	7	8
9	10	11	12	13	14	15
16	17	18	19	20	21	22
23	24	25	26	27	28	29
30	•	•	•	•	•	•

F. Q. 2nd. F. M. 9th. L. Q. 15th. N. M. 24th.

NEWS IN BRIEF GUSTS

BLOWN IN FROM ALL PARTS OF THE EARTH.

An Important Record of the Week As Told by the Telegraph—Latest from Foreign Shores—Crimes, Casualties, Fires, Etc.

Nasen's Record Beaten.

A telegram from Tromsoe, Norway, in reporting the return of the Stella Polare with the Duke of Abruzzi's arctic expedition on board, says the Stella Polare reached a point in latitude 86.33 north, thus penetrating farther north than Dr. Nansen's record. The Stella Polare remained fast in the ice for eleven months. The pressure stove in her sides, making a hole fifteen inches in breadth, and her machinery was also damaged. The members of the expedition suffered many hardships and were compelled to eat their sledge dogs. A Norwegian engineer and two Italians, members of the expedition, perished.

The news of the assassination of King Humbert of Italy, uncle of the Duke of Abruzzi, was communicated to the Duke off Aammeafest.

Killing Boxers.

A dispatch from Taku says: An expedition will shortly start for Pao Ting Fu, clearing the villages enroute which were the seat of the first boxer outrages in the province of Chi Li. The Russians intend to repair the railway through to Pekin.

It is reliably asserted that native soldiers, acting under the orders of Li Hung Chang, are exterminating the boxers in the provinces of Hu Nan and Chi Li.

Four prominent boxers were executed in Tien Tsin. The French shot two and the Japanese beheaded the others. The executions have had a good moral effect.

One Hundred Bolomen Killed.

General McArthur cables that the details of the outbreak at Boho show that Pedro Samson, the commandant of the police, left the Tagbilaren ostensibly to inspect the police, but gathered his followers and threatened to attack Ubay. Two detachments were ordered from Carmen and they found the town peaceful and no trace of an insurrection. A detachment of twenty-seven men under First Lieutenant Levick was attacked on August 31, near Carmen by 120 bolomen, over 100 being killed. A movement to the interior is now progressing.

Ladybrand Relieved.

A dispatch from Cape Town says: The siege of Ladybrand has been raised after several desperate attempts to capture the town and its little garrison of 150 British troops. The Boers who attacked Ladybrand are estimated to have numbered over 2,000 men. The British were summoned to surrender September 2 (Sunday), but refused and from that time on were subjected to continual cannonade and rifle fire. The burghers twice tried to rush the British position. Probably the approach of a relief force saved the little garrison.

Burial Alive as a Cure.

Caris Outlette, aged 47, of Menominee, Mich., allowed himself to be buried in wet sand as a panacea for rheumatism. He assisted his wife in digging the hole, then took off his clothing and was covered to the chin. The police interferred, at the urgent request of neighbors, and took the man from his premature grave. They were met with resistance on the part of both the man and his wife. Outlette is helpless as a result of the exposure.

Miners Crushed to Death.

By a fall of coal in the Diamond mine, of the Lackawanna Coal Company, near Scranton, Pa., Christopher Robertson, a miner, and his laborer, a foreigner, whose name is unknown, were crushed to death. Earlier in the day James Brown, 40 years old, a miner, was crushed to death by a portion of the roof falling on him at the mountain shaft, Dunmoor.

Fatal Accident.

A large double cornerib and granary on the farm of August Weichen, near Peotone, Ill., collapsed killing two persons. The men were shoveling corn to a sheller, and in a bin overhead were 2,000 bushels of oats. Without warning the building gave way, and they were buried in a mass of grain and timbers.

Rules Against Powers.

Georgetown (Ky.) special: Judge Cantrill has overruled the bill of exceptions in the case of ex-Secretary of State Caleb Powers, convicted as accessory before the fact to the assassination ot William Goebel, and sentenced the prisoner for life.

Gold from the Klondike.

The steamer Umatilla has arrived at San Francisco from the north, bringing about $1,500,000 in treasure from the Klondike and Douglass Island, and a few nuggets from Nome.

Fort Wayne Masonic Temple Attractions.

Sept. 10 to 15, inclusive, Murray Comedy Company.

Sept. 18—Hoyt's "A Midnight Bell."

France's New Friend.

If the feeling of good will starting with Seymour's letter in praise of the French troops in China continues to increase at the present ratio France and England will be celebrating a love feast this coming fall instead of fighting battles, as many predicted a short time ago.

Landing Troops.

A dispatch from Shanghai says: About 1,200 more British Indian troops have been landed here, making altogether 2,000 of such troops and 1,000 camp followers at this port.

EASTERN.

Collis P. Huntington's estate is inventoried at $69,650,000.

James S. Grinnell, a well-known Massachusetts Democrat, is dead.

Two cadets fought a duel with swords for the hand of a New Jersey belle. One was wounded.

Mme. Wu, wife of the secretary of the Chinese legation at Washington, has named her two weeks' old baby "Washington."

William Black, colored, was hanged at Belair, Md. Black escaped being lynched only because the sheriff hanged him two hours before the publicly announced time of execution.

Louis Goodman, a Russian pack peddler, died at his home in Pittsburg, Pa., from the effects of a cold, aged 106 years. He went there when he was 60 years of age and worked steadily until he was 104.

Shortly after the beginning of the racing in the closing day of the grand circuit meeting at Narragansett park, Providence, R. I., fire destroyed three stables, a number of cattle sheds, and burned to death four race horses.

The fast mail train struck a carriage containing four people at Oswego Junction, N. Y. Patrick J. Foley of Syracuse, Ellen Foley of Split Rock, his sister, and Josephine F. Blanchard of Syracuse were killed and Michael Maroney was injured.

The scenes that attended the sixth annual convention of the Beta Theta Pi fraternity at Put-in-Bay beggar description. One of its antics in the big Hotel Victory, where 700 guests are quartered, was to get up at 2 a. m., 300 strong, and parade the halls in their pajamas.

Charges have arrived from the Treasury Department at Washington against ten employes of the immigration service at the port of New York. The charges are of various characters, including incompetency, brutality and accepting bribes, and are the result of an investigation held last spring.

Repentant for a crime done in a fit of rage, and dreading to face the consequences of his act, Daniel Beetle, a prosperous farmer, killed himself in the Woodbury, N. J., jail. Beetle shot Herbert Clement, the son of a neighbor, in a line fence quarrel. He drowned himself in the jail bathtub.

Miss Rose Fisher, a comely young woman, was rescued from the Brandywine at Wilmington, Del., long after it was supposed that she was drowned. The girl says she met the man on the street and he proposed a walk. They walked to the Brandywine park. The girl was standing on the wall of the race, she says, when her companion pushed her over and ran away.

Albert Harris of Orange, Conn., lost his life in saving that of his son Charles. The boy was trying to catch pigeons on the barn roof, when he slipped and fell. His father ran to break the force of the lad's fall. He stooped under the boy, whose falling body hurled him to the ground, breaking his back. He died in the New Haven hospital. The son was uninjured, although he fell thirty-five feet.

WESTERN.

Twelve men were arrested for taking part in the recent riots at Akron, Ohio. All but one pleaded guilty.

Peter W. Corbett, assistant secretary of the Northern Pacific Railway, died of heart failure at St. Paul, Minn.

The Republican ticket won in Vermont on Tuesday by about 27,000 majority. The Democrats, however, gain several legislative seats.

Lorenzo D. Lewelling, who was Governor of Kansas from 1893 to 1895, died suddenly at Arkansas City, Kan. Heart failure was the cause of his death.

Mrs. Ryerson, wife of the late Gov. George Ryerson of lower California, has been found guilty of killing a Mexican boy and sentenced to imprisonment.

Colgate Baker, a Milwaukee newspaper man, embraced Judaism to keep a promise made to his Hebrew wife. The civil marriage occurred some months ago.

David Sinton, for years a prominent figure in southern Ohio business circles, died at his home in Cincinnati, aged 93 years. He leaves a fortune estimated at $20,000,000.

Six hundred coal miners in three shafts at Leavenworth, Kan., struck for a scale of 90 cents a ton. They received 76 cents under last year's contract. The operators say they cannot accede.

Engineer W. F. Carroll of the local St. Peter and New Ulm passenger train was killed in a wreck at Mankato, Minn. The passenger train collided with a freight and the two engines were demolished.

B. Franklin Mertz, 25 years old, a law student of Columbia University, was found dead in bed. Mertz went to New York from Detroit, Mich., six weeks ago. It is said he died from natural causes.

Eight horses, the property of E. H. Schloeman, and valued at $2,500, were cremated at the Chicago stock yards. The damage to the buildings was small. Both horses and sheds were fully insured.

William Stell, an aged man living on the south side at Lima, Ohio, was dragged from his bed at 2 o'clock in the morning by Whitecaps and beaten horribly. They claim that Stell has been cruel to his wife.

Patrick Ryan of Freeport, an engineer on the Chicago and Northwestern road, was instantly killed in a wreck that occurred three miles east of Ridott station, Ill. In rounding a curve the engine went over an embankment.

Walter Bell was run down and killed by an electric car in Cincinnati. When the news was taken to his mother, Mrs. Annie Bell, at her home in Avenue, Franklin County, she fell dead. Bell was a boy in his teens.

The steamship Senator arrived at Seattle from Nome with 250 passengers, $500,000 worth of treasure, and news of a brutal murder, in which the life of F. Scott Morrison of Chicago was sacrificed to the bloodthirsty savagery of Siberian natives.

The monument commemorating the great Hinckley fire was dedicated at Hinckley, Minn., with appropriate exercises. The dedicatory ceremonies were held at Memorial cemetery, and Gen. Moses E. Clapp delivered the memorial address.

Ex-United States Marshal Charles H. Miller was found dead in a bath room at the home of his son-in-law, Capt. J. R. Lindsey, at Fort Leavenworth, Kan. There was every evidence that he died from poison, but relatives deny that it was suicide.

Two Wabash locomotives and three freight cars of the Wabash fast Eastern freight train No. 9, plunged through an open drawbridge into the Rouge river at Delray, Mich. The engine crews had remarkably narrow escapes and no one was injured.

Gen. Elwell S. Otis, who until recently commanded the American forces in the Philippines, has been selected by President McKinley for the command of the department of the lakes, with headquarters at Chicago, to succeed Brig. Gen. Joseph Wheeler.

The steamer Amur from the North brings a report of a disastrous fire which swept the town of Atlin, practically wiping it out of existence. Ten of the largest and important business blocks in the town were destroyed, causing a loss that is estimated at about $40,000.

One hundred and twenty-five people participated in an out-of-door dinner at the reunion of the Biggerstaff family near Prospect, Ohio. Before night twenty-eight were suffering with symptoms of poisoning. All are now out of danger. It is thought the poisoning was caused by a salad.

At Arapahoe, Neb., Lena Stagemeier and Minnie Noltmeier, each about 14 years old, were shot, supposedly by two boys named Holloway, who were hunting. Miss Stagemeier was dead when found. The boys left the vicinity at once. The shooting is believed to have been accidental.

SOUTHERN.

Thomas Jones, a negro preacher, the murderer of a family of six persons, was hanged at Raleigh, N. C. The execution was private.

Judge French Tipton, one of the best-known newspaper men of Kentucky, died at Richmond from wounds received in a fight with C. E. Woods.

Mrs. Annie Day Mayes, a pretty young actress and teacher of acting, committed suicide at Valdosta, Ga., because of the failure of the amateur play "Bibi." Mrs. Mayes was from St. Louis, Mo.

Henry Perkins, alias Henry Cornell, a desperate negro who for years has been the terror of the police in portions of Kentucky and Tennessee, is in jail at Clarksville, Tenn. During the last three years Perkins has shot eleven men, seriously cut four, two victims dying.

The Morris building, one of the features of modern New Orleans, was gutted by fire. The flames originated in the building next door, which belonged to Tulane University and was occupied by the Fairbanks Scale Company. The loss will aggregate on the two buildings about $250,000.

FOREIGN.

That Charles Stewart Parnell is alive and that he is now fighting Great Britain under the pseudonym of Christian De Wet is the astonishing belief current in Ireland. For many years those who place faith in this theory have denied the great Irish leader is dead.

The Kansas City firemen, on their way home from the Paris exposition, visited Windsor Castle, and afterward lunched with the mayor at the Guild Hall.

Gen. Chaffee has been ordered to hold his troops in readiness to evacuate Pekin and when the Czar gives the word the Russians and Americans will march to Tien-tsin.

A buoy bearing a message from Andree, who is trying to reach the north pole by balloon, has been picked up on the Norway coast. It bears date of July 7 and states that all is going well with the party.

A meeting of the strikers at Cardiff, Wales, confirmed the action of their committee in agreeing to a resumption of work, the company having acceded to the demands of the strikers. About 50,000 colliers went to work.

Anna Gould Castellane's appeal to her brother George for financial aid is said to have been so touching that Edwin used his influence with the result that George put up enough money to stop the sale of the Castellane's castle.

As a result of the tension between the Roumanian and Bulgarian governments, due to the demand of the former for the suppression of the Macedonian revolutionary committee, a frontier conflict took place between Roumanian and Bulgarian peasants at Verciorova. Two Bulgarians were killed and many of both parties were wounded.

IN GENERAL.

The Nicaraguan congress approved the commercial reciprocity treaty between Nicaragua and the United States.

There has been no change in the program of the War Department in the matter of bringing home the volunteer troops now serving in the Philippines. The regular troops now being sent to the Philippines are to replace the volunteers.

William Mackenzie, the railway magnate of the Canadian Northern, says that Canada will have a second great transcontinental line by 1903 from ocean to ocean. The line from Port Arthur through Winnipeg to Prince Albert will be finished in 1901 and if the Northern Pacific won't sell their Portage line a parallel one will be built.

The steamer Deutschland of the Hamburg-American line has again eclipsed all previous records for fast trans-Atlantic traveling. She has broken the eastern and western records. Her time was five days twelve hours and twenty-nine minutes between the Mole at the entrance of Cherbourg harbor and the Sandy Hook lightship.

The agent of the Mexican International Railroad reports that a $20,000 package was stolen from the Wells-Fargo Express Company at Treveno, Mexico, and recovered in a peculiar manner. The thief was escaping north into the United States on a train, when the package accidentally fell from his coat while he was stooping over. The trainmen took the package.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: "Commercial failures during August were 735 in number, with liabilities of $7,323,903. Manufacturing were 174, for $2,945,607; trading, 519, for $3,585,667, and other commercial 42, for $792,629. There were only two banks, with liabilities of $146,000. This is the best monthly statement for 1900 thus far, but shows an increase over the corresponding month in the two preceding years. Failures for the week were 175 in the United States, against 141 last year, and 19 in Canada, against 25 last year."

MARKET REPORTS.

Chicago—Cattle, common to prime, $3.00 to $5.90; hogs, shipping grades, $3.00 to $5.35; sheep, fair to choice, $3.00 to $3.60; wheat, No. 2 red, 74c to 75c; corn, No. 2, 40c to 41c; oats, No. 2, 20c to 21c; rye, No. 2, 50c to 51c; butter, choice creamery, 18c to 21c; eggs, fresh, 16c to 18c; potatoes, 37c to 39c per bushel.

Indianapolis—Cattle, shipping, $3.00 to $5.90; hogs, choice light, $5.00 to $5.40; sheep, common to prime, $3.00 to $4.00; wheat, No. 2, 73c to 74c; corn, No. 2 white, 41c to 42c; oats, No. 2 white, 23c to 24c.

St. Louis—Cattle, $3.25 to $5.95; hogs, $3.00 to $5.35; sheep, $3.00 to $4.00; wheat, No. 2, 71c to 72c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 38c to 39c; oats, No. 2, 20c to 21c; rye, No. 2, 49c to 50c.

Cincinnati—Cattle, $3.00 to $5.40; hogs, $3.00 to $5.45; sheep, $3.00 to $3.75; wheat, No. 2, 75c to 76c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 42c to 43c; oats, No. 2 mixed, 21c to 22c; rye, No. 2, 53c to 54c.

Detroit—Cattle, $2.50 to $5.70; hogs, $3.00 to $5.45; sheep, $3.00 to $4.00; wheat, No. 2, 76c to 77c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 42c to 43c; oats, No. 2 white, 24c to 25c; rye, 53c to 54c.

Toledo—Wheat, No. 2 mixed, 76c to 77c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 40c to 42c; oats, No. 2 mixed, 21c to 22c; rye, No. 2, 51c to 52c; clover seed, prime, $5.80 to $6.20.

Milwaukee—Wheat, No. 2 northern, 74c to 75c; corn, No. 3, 41c to 42c; oats, No. 2 white, 24c to 25c; rye, No. 1, 51c to 52c; barley, No. 2, 50c to 51c; pork, mess, $10.85 to $11.00.

Buffalo—Cattle, choice shipping steers, $3.00 to $5.80; hogs, fair to prime, $3.00 to $5.65; sheep, fair to choice, $3.00 to $3.75; lambs, common to extra, $4.00 to $6.35.

New York—Cattle, $3.25 to $5.85; hogs, $3.00 to $5.95; sheep, $3.00 to $4.25; wheat, No. 2 red, 78c to 79c; corn, No. 2 45c to 46c; oats, No. 2 white, 27c to 28c; butter, creamery, 19c to 22c; eggs, western, 16c to 18c.

EMPRESS IS DEFIANT.

IMPERIAL EDICT URGES REVENGE ON FOREIGNERS.

Chinese Viceroys Ordered to Avenge the Wrongs Done to Their Country—Royal Court Fled for Fear Christians Would Kill the Emperor.

The Dowager Empress of China defies the allied army of Europe. She will have no peace. She is for war and a war of vengeance. An edict of defiance signed by the Empress at Tai-Yuan-Fu has appeared at Shanghai. In it the viceroys are exhorted to unite to avenge the wrongs of China. They are ordered to enroll troops in order to prosecute war upon the allies. The whole edict breathes defiance and undying hatred of the foreigners. It explains to the viceroys that the court fled from Pekin because it was feared that the Christians would kill the Emperor.

It is believed, the correspondents say, that the defiance of the Empress is inspired by Viceroy Yuat Tui Tuan Fu, in whose palace the court is established. He is the man who invited fifty foreigners to put themselves under his protection, and when they had done so slew them.

MOTHER OF LI-HUNG-CHANG.
Aged Relative of the Chinese Nobleman and Her Young Grandson.

Mission Stations Looted.

According to Hongkong advices influential natives state that the flame of rebellion has been fanned in the southern provinces, and predict a tremendous conflagration within a month. Placards and pamphlets are being circulated in Canton and the provinces intimating that the allies are thoroughly routed. The feeling against foreigners is bursting the bounds of official control. The majority of the mission stations in Kwang-Tung have been either destroyed or looted. Native Christians are terribly abused. Natives in foreign employ in Canton have been threatened, and a systematic looting has taken place of the houses of English-speaking Chinamen.

Several reform parties, with their headquarters in Hongkong, who have been supported by funds from rich Chinese in the interior and in America, have hitherto refrained from aggressive action, believing that the powers would effect the regeneration of the government. One powerful organization is distributing thousands of copies of a reform appeal in the British colonies. The memorandum has been signed by 200 names for presentation to the British minister, imploring the assistance of a reform government. It recommends establishing Nankin as the capital and the selection of enlightened Chinese officials to administer the government, with foreign advisers.

The people are disheartened at the reported intention of the powers to withdraw from China.

STREET AND CANAL IN SHANGHAI.

DEWET WILL FIGHT ON.

He Has Nothing to Live For but to Contest Invasion.

Gen. Dewet has informed a prominent citizen of Bloemfontein that he intends to fight on to the end. He says he has nothing for which he cares to live except to continue to oppose the invaders of his country. His sons have been killed in the war and his wife has died heartbroken.

The siege of Ladybrand has been raised after several desperate attempts to capture the town and its little garrison of 150 British troops. The Boers who attacked Ladybrand are estimated to have numbered over 2,000 men. The British were summoned to surrender, but refused, and from that time on were subjected to continual cannon and rifle fire. The burghers twice tried to rush the British position. Probably the approach of a relief force saved the little garrison.

A dispatch from London says that the war office received a dispatch from Lord Roberts giving an account of a slight engagement north of Pretoria, in which the Boers were driven off, losing a hundred rifles and a large supply of ammunition and a few prisoners. About the same time a party of Boers made an unsuccessful attack on the Johannesburg water works. More serious fighting took place on Monday in the mountain passes near Lydenberg, where Gen. Buller was fighting Botha all day. The burghers were about 2,000 strong, with several guns, and they seem to have held the British in check, since the position was not carried by nightfall and a column was sent by Gen. Roberts to assist Buller.

The Transvaal Republic, like the Orange Free State, has been annexed by proclamation to the British Empire. After an heroic struggle against overwhelming numbers the Boers find themselves without a country. A republic has been crushed. The proclamation of annexation does not mean that the war has ended. It means that hereafter the Boers, who have been fighting for independence, with all the rights of belligerents, are to be regarded as rebels against British authority. The burghers, who decided eleven months ago to fight for their homes and their fatherland, have lost all.

OUTRAGES BY CIVILIZATION.

Horrible Orgies of Plunder and Slaughter by Soldiers in China.

The story told by the Associated Press of the scenes enacted by some of the foreign troops on the road between Tien-tsin and Pekin is not only shocking in its details but a disgrace to Western civilization. The worst outrages charged against the Boxers are mild in comparison with the enormities practiced by the Russian and French soldiers, who were left unrestrained to loot and slaughter unoffending natives at will. It is to the credit of the Germans, English, Japanese and Americans that they behaved themselves with some regard to discipline and humanity and that the officers of the last two exerted themselves successfully to protect property and life.

It was not so, however, with the Russians and French, according to the Associated Press correspondent. They engaged in an orgy of plunder and slaughter and left behind them a wake of devastation in the Pei-Ho valley. The homes of the people and their food products were ruthlessly destroyed. The shops were looted, and what could not be carried away was trampled under foot and smashed. Villages were burned. The inhuman Cossacks butchered inoffensive men, women and children for sport. Natives trying to get back to their homes and farmers working in their fields were used as targets by these wretches. The dispatch says: "The Cossacks would pick up children barely old enough to walk, hold them by the ankles, and beat their brains out on the sidewalks. The American officers at Taku, days after the fighting was finished, saw Russians bayonet children and throw old men into the river, clubbing them to death when they tried to swim. The Russians killed women who knelt before them and begged for mercy. Coolies were killed while trotting along the roads with their loads and farmers when trying to gather in their grain." And the Russian officers looked on without protest or making any efforts to restrain their soldiers!

Throughout the campaign the Japanese were kept under the best control of all the invading forces, but even so, a correspondent who returned from Pekin to Tung-Chow to find the latter city stripped "like a cornfield after a plague of grasshoppers," reports: "Parties of soldiers of every nationality were roaming about unrestricted and, presumably, were doing much wanton destruction in the spirit of devilitry." There was, in fact, a contagion and ecstasy of brutality among those martial spirits, a degrading license, such as are too often an incident of war.

We read again: "Robbery and murder are so common that every respectable person one meets contributes stories from personal observation. Burning and pillage were the rule everywhere in city, town and country, and in all this revolting orgy the Russians led the revel."

ARTHUR SEWALL DEAD.

Famous Shipbuilder and Democratic Leader Expires.

Arthur Sewall died at his summer home, Small Point, about twelve miles from Bath, Me., Wednesday morning. Death was due to apoplexy, the stroke having been sustained Sunday. He was 64 years of age.

Mr. Sewall had not been in good health for some time, although he was not considered to be seriously ill. He had been advsed by his physician as early as last June to rest, and he attended the Democratic national convention in July against the advice of his doctor. He appeared to have suffered no ill effects from the journey, however, and was passing the summer quietly at Small Point when the fatal stroke seized him. The unconsciousness which followed the attack continued until death came.

Arthur Sewall, shipbuilder and shipowner, Democratic candidate of 1896 for the vice-presidency, was born in Bath, Me., Nov. 25, 1835. He was the son of William D. Sewall, who in 1823, began in Bath the business of shipbuilding. The family was noted in New England for several generations. Of this family was Judge Samuel Sewall, conspicuous in the early annals of Boston. Through a large part of this century the firm at Bath were the chief constructors of the "merchant marine" in this country.

Notes of Current Events.

British navy is buying American coal.

Strong fort will be built to protect our island of Guam.

English papers are working up another French invasion fright.

Lehigh Valley Railroad has abolished newsboys from trains.

Sherman, Texas, denounced the work of the Akron, Ohio, mob.

Battleship Alabama is fast; makes between 16 and 17 knots for 6½ hours.

Bishop Moeller installed in the Catholic cathedral, Cincinnati, with elaborate ceremonies.

Nicaragua is dead anxious to do any old thing to have the United States build the canal.

Jesse Feary, a legless and armless inmate of the Cincinnati workhouse, wrote a letter with his teeth, asking for a pardon.

Martin Herrion, Pittston, Pa., accidentally put a dynamite cap in his pipe with some tobacco. He'll get well, but is terribly disfigured.

A fruit tree propagator has produced a seedless apple. These new apples are superior in favor to the ordinary kinds. High prices are being paid for the trees.

An octopus has been added to the New York aquarium. It came from the waters around Bermuda, and measures 3 feet in length from tip to tip of its extended arms.

In each of the past three years the corn exported from the United States has exceeded all previous records—$74,000,000 in 1898, $68,977,000 in 1899, and $85,000,000 in 1900.

A papal communication, issued at Rome, condemns and forbids the recitation in Catholic churches of the Queen Dowager Margherita's prayer in memory of King Humbert.

COMMERCIAL AND FINANCIAL

New York—There has been no change of importance in the business situation. No great amount of activity is ever expected in August for the reason that it is one of the "between seasons" months in trade, and this year there has been an added adverse influence in the shape of political uncertainty. General trade is said to be somewhat better in the West, but signs of improvement in the New England States are still scarce. The most important factor in the situation just now is the better tone to the iron and steel markets. In this industry the buying movement is spreading in a number of directions. Considerable new business is being done in bars and prices are again showing an upward tendency. The sheet trade, too, is more animated and in better shape. There are some encouraging features in the speculative situation—features which in ordinary times would bring about a sharp advance in values. But at the moment these are entirely ignored and politics treated as the principal consideration. The consequence of this is that the trading is on a limited scale and prices, as a rule, are barely holding their own. People evidently do not want to buy stocks, and, on the other hand, those who hold them are not disposed to sell. It is not believed this condition of affairs can continue much longer.

Chicago—Wheat was generally firm during the week, although at the close Saturday the market price showed little change compared with its value at the end of the week previous. The causes of the improved feeling among speculators were various, but for the most part based upon conditions rather expected than at present existing. One quite tangible and present factor, however, was the export demand, which, although not to be characterized as urgent, was of dimensions sufficient to be recognized by the bears and restrain them from selling short to a degree that might result disastrously to themselves in case some of the other bull anticipations should suddenly be realized. The looked-for reduction in the winter wheat movement was not sufficiently apparent to beget confidence in its reaching within a short time a falling off that would be recognized as a sign of the predicted coming of the bulls' days of undisputed preponderance. Neither did anything in the movement of spring wheat toward the markets of Minneapolis and Duluth indicate the exceeding smallness of the Northwestern spring wheat crop, as generally claimed of it. The shipments of wheat to Europe from other than United States, Danubian and Argentine ports continue to run small; notably from Russia, whose competition in the markets of the world is always a menace to the bulls. The Danubian countries promise to make amends to European consumers for any possible shortcomings on the part of Russia, the heavy movement to market in that region of the wheat-producing world being in accordance with what has been heard of the excellence of its wheat crop. The problem of the season's supply is yet sufficiently obscure to warrant cautiousness as well by the bear as by the bull speculators. Favorable weather for the speedy maturing of the corn crop has had the double effect of causing farmers to part more freely with their old corn and of inducing purchasers in the Eastern States and foreign countries to defer their orders for shipment to the last possible moment in expectation of an early movement of the new grain.

DIE IN A WRECK.

Thirteen Killed and Forty-five Injured on an Excursion.

Thirteen persons were crushed to death and forty-five others were injured, some fatally, in a rear-end collision on the Philadelphia and Reading Railway at Hatfield, Pa. The first section of an Atlantic City excursion train, on which there are supposed to have been in the neighborhood of 500 persons, plowed its way through a milk train which was being loaded for Philadelphia.

Of the five cars on the latter train three were reduced to kindling wood and bent iron. The next car was smashed beyond repair, while the forward car and the engine practically escaped injury. The engine on the Atlantic City excursion section was totally wrecked, thrown across the north-bound track, with the pilot pointing in the direction from which it had come.

The first two cars of eleven composing the excursion train were splintered and several following were wrecked. The track was torn up for a quarter of a mile and the wreckage was piled up by the force of the collision to a height of twenty feet and extended for several hundred yards south of the station.

The wreck is one of the worst with which the railroad has had to contend with in years. Instructions disobeyed seem to have caused the disaster.

Sparks from the Wires.

Japan has placed heavy orders in San Francisco for salmon, to feed its army.

In recent floods in the vicinity of Yokohama, Japan, 200 persons were drowned.

Six hundred prospectors returned from Cape Nome with stories of destitution and illness there.

Two Kentucky train robbers were sentenced, one to four, the other to ten years' imprisonment.

Poison was found in the stomach of Edward P. Herrick, the aged Chicago merchant, who died suddenly.

The Japanese Government has given permission to the United States to establish a hospital on Japanese territory.

On the eve of his wedding Michael Homyak accidentally shot and killed himself at Wallingford, Conn.

Michael Drumm of Oswego, N. Y., was reported dead. Later he appeared and threatened to sue the newspapers.

E. J. Fee, an electrician, Omaha, Neb., was killed by three laborers in a row over who should pay for a can of beer.

Public land in northern New Mexico was withdrawn from sale, in order to save the cliff dwellings from destruction.

A Chicago wall paper man committed suicide in order that his wife and children might receive his $2,000 insurance.

In a jealous rage C. S. Reighard, a coal wagon driver, shot and killed his wife at Toledo, Ohio, and then killed himself.

Declaring that ghosts moved the furniture about, the family and boarders of Joseph Smith deserted his house at Barrington, Mass.

After a family quarrel A. B. Bigamon shot and killed his son-in-law, James Bradley, at Jamestown, Ohio, and then committed suicide.

After legally surrendering her little son, Mrs. Augusta Wellman kidnaped the boy from Mr. and Mrs. John Moffit, of Chicago, and has disappeared.

INDIANA INCIDENTS.

RECORD OF EVENTS OF THE PAST WEEK.

Trouble in a County Institution at Terre Haute—Mammoth Woman to Marry—Reunion of Benbow Family at Muncie—Tragedy in a Cemetery.

In Terre Haute the twenty orphan children the county was boarding with a Mrs. McKenzie have been taken from her and placed in homes. Charges are now made of extreme cruelty of the children by Matron McKenzie. One of the charges is that Mrs. McKenzie lowered a child into a well as punishment; another that she made the children sleep on the floor to save washing the bed clothing. Mrs. McKenzie says that she threatened to lower children into the well as a means of preventing them playing around the opening of the well. She also says the children slept on comforts on the floor, but they did this of their own wish in the warm weather.

Bride-to-Be Weighs 350.

Miss Lucy Havens, an inmate of the county asylum at LaPorte, owes her success in winning a husband to her great weight. Miss Havens tips the scales at 350 pounds and is steadily growing heavier. Dr. O. J. Detter of Union City wishes to place her on exhibition as the heaviest woman in the State, if not in the world, and he has placed a proposition of marriage in the hands of the county board. He offers to execute a bond that the woman shall not again become a county charge.

Benbow Family in Reunion.

There were 156 of the 212 members of the Benbow family present at the annual reunion in Muncie, representing all parts of the United States. A feature was a report from the committee looking up a $1,000,000 estate supposed to be due the descendants in Wales. The following officers were elected: President, Frank Benbow, Muncie; vice-president, Mrs. John Stober, Vining, Kan.; recording secretary, Minnie Benbow, Muncie; treasurer, H. Benbow, Muncie.

Suicide on Wife's Grave.

Versailles William von Loenitz, an aged widower, went to Cliff Hill cemetery at Osgood, knelt down by his wife's grave, swallowed poison and then blew his head off with a pistol. He had been fined for assaulting Seth Johnson.

State News in Brief.

Utica has a ghost sensation.

Human skeleton found in a Muncie gravel pit.

Plainfield is now talking with the wide, wide world by 'phone.

Eleven sheep on one farm near Laporte were killed by lightning.

Oliver Thornburg, farmer near Dublin, has purchased an automobile.

James Christy, Shelbyville, narrowly escaped being gored to death by a bull.

In the vicinity of Plymouth $6,000 worth of pickles were raised this season.

John and Sarah Reep, Vincennes, celebrated their fifty-seventh wedding anniversary.

Cornelius Dilley died at his home near Sullivan. He taught school for forty-five years.

C. E. Green, Crawfordsville, found a pearl, which he thinks is worth $200, in Sugar creek.

Mrs. Mary Rank, Allen County, 109, born in England, remembers the battle of Waterloo.

The corner stone for a Christian church was laid at Strop, the new cement town in La Grange County.

Prof. A. B. Porter and wife went from Chicago to Richmond by automobile in three days and a half.

Frank Ambrose, an Evansville bookkeeper, walked from a second-story window in his sleep, receiving fatal injuries.

Mrs. Samuel Thomas, living near Daleville, found Charles Smith, colored, at her hen roost and filled him full of shot.

A slate thrown into a tree to dislodge a hat, struck the 3-year-old child of William Terry, near Kokomo, almost severing its head.

Thieves entered the house of George Grahs, Union City. They broke a window with an ax, in full view, and secured $50.

After ten years' effort Central Union Telephone Company gets exchange in Laporte by buying out the local company and toll lines to several towns.

Dr. J. W. Clokey, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, New Albany, one of the most fashionable churches in the city, welcomes male shirt waists in church.

Messrs. Rogers and Kaupke have struck a flowing oil well near San Pierre. The oil was found at a depth of 135 feet 6 inches in oil rock, and the flow is strong and steady.

Edward Huffman, the 5-year-old son of William Huffman of Brazil, fell over the dashboard while riding with his mother and was trampled to death before he could be rescued.

When Miss Carrie Pears of Mentone was about to retire she discovered a large snake coiled in the middle of her bed. Before she could summon assistance it escaped through an open window.

Miss Etta Horner, 14 years old, of Radner, is dead, the result of eating a pint of prepared mustard. The girl had a craving appetite for the preparation and ate it over the protest of her parents.

John Locke, in jail at Anderson on the charge of infanticide, asked a prisoner, who was released, to buy ten cents' worth of morphine for him to relieve pains. It is thought he meant to kill himself. The man became suspicious and did not buy the drug.

Sam Sanders, arrested in Christian County, Illinois, confessed he is from Indiana and is a member of an organized gang of thieves that has stolen fifty horses in the last few months, marketing them in Terre Haute. He confessed also that members of the gang are responsible for fires.

Thomas O'Fazzio, Logansport Italian, went to an island in the Wabash river, with another man, who forced him to land and then went back to shore and took the Italian's coat and $5. O'Fazzio spent the day on the island, shouting for assistance.

Incendiaries attempted to burn down the big Marsden cellulose plant at Linden. Five ricks, containing 1,800 tons of cornstalks, were destroyed. Loss of $6,000.

Boys too young to prosecute tried to wreck a Chicago and Eastern Illinois train at Kingman "for the fun of seeing the engine jump the track." The casting they put on the rails was knocked off by the engine.

Julius Laube, druggist of Whiteland, who until two years ago lived in Indianapolis, left recently for Germany to get his portion, nearly $1,000,000, of an estate left by a relative. He will return to America as soon as the estate is settled.

A STUDY IN THE CORRECT HANDLING OF THE SKIRT.

"IT MUST NOT BE."

The night was throbbing with rapture,
Its pulses ran full with fire,
And the sea for the moon above her
Sobbed her desire;
The pulse in your hand was stronger
Than the pulse of the yearning sea—
But the heart of my heart kept beating,
"It must not be."

The roses trembled with perfume
That thrilled us with sweet unrest,
And a storm of passionate longing
Ached in my breast;
A dove for some dear lost passion
Mourned tenderly on the hill—
But the heart of my heart kept beating,
"Hush! hush! Be still!"

Each heard in the speech of the other
The throb of a troubled heart,
For we knew that the hour was coming
When we must part;
The soul in your eyes was drawing
My soul, as the moon draws the sea—
But the heart of my heart kept beating,
"It must not be."

O Love, the years have been lonely,
And empty of all delight,
Since we two parted forever
That moonlit night!
But still when my soul is aching
For the eyes and the lips of thee—
The heart of my heart keeps beating,
"It must not be."
—Woman's Home Companion.

A Thorough Villain.

"SO you have come to make me rack my brain for another reminiscence, have you? Well, old man, I am prepared for you, and I will give you an account of the mysterious wharf murder which paralyzed the city with horror some fifteen years ago."

Thus old Clew addressed me as I entered his private office one afternoon, notebook in hand.

"One morning a messenger came to headquarters from one of the substations with the information that the mutilated body of a handsomely dressed man had been found thumping with the tide against one of the East River bulkheads.

"I happened to be on duty at the time, and at once made my way to the wharf where the body was secured.

"When the body was drawn from the water and stretched out, all dripping, upon the dock a smothered cry of horror burst from the lips of the bystanders as their eyes fell upon a terrible gash in the man's forehead, plainly indicating that he was the victim of a foul murder.

"Upon receiving permission from the coroner I proceeded to search the victim's clothes; but some one, his murderers, as I correctly concluded, had anticipated me. I found nothing but a few grains of burnt coffee in his vest pocket.

"The body was ordered to be taken to the morgue for identification, and I returned to the office, taking the coffee grains with me. I had already formed a theory, and had some slight hopes of working out the mystery.

"For three days the body remained at the morgue before it was identified. A Boston firm had seen the keeper's advertisement, giving a description of the man's dress and general appearance, and when one of the firm came on he at once recognized the remains as those of their confidential clerk, who had left Boston for New York about a week previously on business for the firm.

"I called on this gentleman and learned from him that Mr. Freeman, the murdered man, had been the owner of a beautiful watch, diamond studs and sleeve buttons, and that he most likely had several hundred dollars in money about him at the time he was killed.

"Having ascertained this much, I went to work. To me the coffee grains spoke volumes, and I read my way out of the mystery quite clearly.

"My first dodge was the adoption of a suitable disguise. I assumed that of a 'canaller.' The latter term, you know, is applied by thieves to all greenies from the country. When properly rigged for my purpose I sallied forth, and, commencing at a point some ten blocks below where the body was found, I took in every drinking place from thence on the river front up to ten blocks above. I was looking for a barroom where coffee grains, allspice and cloves were kept on the bar as waste killers. But they were all low places that I entered, and I did not find those condiments set out in any of them, so I took one street back and traversed the same as I had the river front, and, finding none there, I took the next, and here I found my gin mill with the coffee grains on the bar. It was situated on the corner of the street which terminated on the pier near which the body had been found.

"So far so good. I was satisfied in my own mind that I was now in the house which the murdered man had last visited previous to being brutally murdered.

"The first glance I fastened upon the barkeeper satisfied me that he was a bad one—a thorough villain—but a coward, one of those chaps who try to intimidate by loud talk and slang phrases.

"When I walked up to the bar and asked for something to drink he eyed me disdainfully and came seemingly reluctantly forward to wait on me.

"But when I disclosed a well-filled wallet and laid down a $20 bill his whole manner changed instantly, and he was quite agreeable.

"At length he excused himself, went to the door and becokned to a youth to come over. I understood that movement—I was pleased, and you will learn why shortly.

"The youth came over, when the bartender said:

"'Johnny, 'tend bar for me a little while. I want to go to the barber's;' then turning to me he added: 'Don't leave, old man; there will be some of the lads in by and by, and I'll be back in a few minutes.'

"You may just bet, Herbert, that I had no intention of leaving; things were working nicely. It was fully twenty minutes before the bartender returned, and when he did so I noticed that he had not been shaved, but as I meant to shave him a trifle close I did not bother myself about this.

"Five minutes after his return the bartender was followed by two of the worst-looking villains I had ever seen—two sweet 'buds' of the first water.

"I was soon introduced to these plugs and invited to drink. I drank, of course. Drink followed drink. Cards were proposed. I played and won, and so the hours glided by until night fell. It was a foggy, disagreeable night—excellent weather for murder.

"My two friends proposed that we should go on board of a ship out on the pier, and they would get me a genuine bottle of brandy from the captain, who was a friend of theirs. I will not bother your readers with my expressions of reluctance to going out there, nor the subtle arguments they used to persuade me, but at last I consented, of course. We had proceeded half way up the pier when I concluded it was two against one, and things had gone far enough. I wanted them both. Turning suddenly I dealt one a tap on the head with a club which I had kept concealed, and he reeled and fell. I quickly clapped 'wristlets' on the other before he fairly realized what was going on.

"'What is this for?' exclaimed the ruffian with an oath.

"'Murder,' I replied, quietly, as I adjusted the cuffs on him and pinned him to the other one.

"Such volleys of oaths and curses as I listened to while taking these two pirates—for that's what they were, river pirates—to the office was a caution; but I was used to that.

"At the office we found the murdered man's studs upon them and other small articles, which were afterward identified as having belonged to their victim.

"My judgment about that bartender was correct. He turned out to be an arrant coward.

"He turned State's evidence and gave his confederates away. When he left the saloon on pretense of going to the barber's he went to bring in the two pirates and I was the intended victim, but they missed a fly-catch just once. One of them died in prison, the other was hanged, and two years later I had the pleasure of seeing the barkeeper, who escaped in the above case by turning State's evidence, sent to Sing Sing for twenty years in another case; he got the full swing for his previous connection with the famous dock murder."

CAREER OF JUDGE RASSIEUR.

New Commander of Grand Army Prominent in St. Louis.

The election of Judge Rassieur to the head of the Grand Army was practically conceded a year ago, when the St. Louis veteran, who had been urged for the honor at that time, withdrew in favor of Commander Shaw. He had shown much strength in the contest, and his action won him many friends. The delegates left the encampment convinced that the Judge would be the next G. A. R. Commander.

COMMANDER RASSIEUR.

Judge Rassieur is among the younger veterans. He was born in Germany in 1844 and came with his parents to this country, settling in St. Louis in 1851. He was educated in the public schools of that city, and at the age of 16 took a position in a law office. It was at this time in his life that the civil war broke out. When not quite 17 years old he was selected by the loyal Germans of South St. Louis as their spokesman at a meeting held for the purpose of deciding whether the citizens of the locality should express their intention of standing by the Union or remaining neutral. At the call of young Rassieur, who had been ruled out of order by the Chairman of the meeting, the loyal men in attendance repaired to another place and adopted a set of resolutions in favor of the Union, which has become historic in the annals of Missouri.

Rassieur enlisted in the First United States Reserve Corps, Volunteers, May 7, 1861, and was made orderly sergeant of Company B. He was mustered out of service Aug. 20, 1865, with the rank of major, which commission he received at the age of 20 years. At the close of the war he studied law and was admitted to the bar in St. Louis April 1, 1867. He practiced law until 1894, when he was elected Judge of the St. Louis Probate Court on the Republican ticket. At the expiration of his term in 1898 he resumed the practice of law, in which he is still engaged. From 1874 until 1878 he was a member of the Board of Directors of the public schools of St. Louis, holding the office of Vice President during the last year of his incumbency. In 1880 he was selected as attorney for the School Board and held the position ten years.

Judge Rassieur is Commander of Frank P. Blair Post, No. 1, G. A. R., of St. Louis. He was Judge Advocate General of the Grand Army of the Republic in 1893, and Department Commander of Missouri in 1891.

BUSINESS WOMEN.

They Know the Many Trials of the Busy Man.

It has frequently been said that women in business employments do not make as desirable wives as their sisters who have lived only domestic lives, but a recent observer takes a wholly different view of the case. He holds that the effect of the woman in business is not so much to the advantage of the woman as to the business man. Such a woman has more respect for him, more regard, more sympathy. She is altogether less likely voluntarily to impose upon him or involuntarily to harass and worry him. She has been there, she knows how it is herself, and this personal experience and knowledge make her more lenient and considerate.

Every woman wage-earner worthy of the name learns first, last and all the time that success is attained by close attention and single-mindedness. The woman who realizes this must also realize that the same rule holds good of the business man. In a present capacity of daughter and sister, or in a future capacity as wife, she is certain to show such a keen consideration for the business members of the household as is undreamed of in the philosophy of the other kind of woman.

There is no danger of her husband being besought to just stop on his way down town and attend some specially seductive "special sale," or to leave his office an hour or so earlier in order that he may bring her home a lot of "samples." She has had practical and personal proof that it is through this sort of thing that business interests are made to suffer, and she does not propose to let this knowledge play her false. A woman's appreciation of business and business ways and means thus insures domestic comfort; if conditions warrant it, it benefits the business man even more than it benefits the business woman herself.—Anaconda Standard.

Treasures of a Spanish Palace.

The royal palace at Madrid is one of the most beautiful structures in the world, says the International Magazine, being built by an Italian architect in the early part of the last century, at a cost of $5,000,000, and was intended to be a rival of the French palace at Versailles. The material is white marble. It is 470 feet each way, with a court 240 feet square, roofed with glass. Few places are more tiresome to visit than palaces, with their long rows of gorgeously decorated chambers, gilt furniture and everlasting mirrors, but the Casa Real at Madrid is very interesting, and contains a remarkable library of 100,000 volumes, also priceless papers, pictures, bronzes and marble.

Dr. Johnson's Regard for Truth.

It was said of Dr. Johnson that he always talked as though he were taking an oath. He detested the habit of lying or prevaricating in the slightest degree and would not allow his servants to say he was not at home if he was. "A servant's strict regard for the truth," said he, "must be weakened by such a practice. If I accustomed my servant to tell a lie for me, have I not reason to apprehend that he will tell them for himself?" A strict adherence to truth the doctor considered as a sacred obligation; and in relating the smallest anecdote he would not allow himself the minutest addition to embellish his story.

Powerful Magnets.

Electro magnets, capable of picking up five tons, are used by an Illinois steel company to transfer steel beams or plates from one part of the shop to another.

When the neighbors hear a woman screaming more than usual to her children, they know she has just scrubbed the kitchen floor, and they are "tracking it."

AN INGENIOUS CALCULATOR.

A Chinese Invention Remarkable for Its Simplicity.

A calculator remarkable for its simplicity and ingenuity and entirely different from other machines which employ a series of tapes, has been patented by Chow Ling Shang, of Macao, China, and is described in the Scientific American. The device considerably simplifies multiplication and division. Our illustrations show the complete apparatus and one of the tapes employed.

Upon a base of wood or other material guides are secured which form passages for a series of endless tapes. In our illustration the tapes are designated by the Roman numerals I., II., III., IV., etc. Each tape is longitudinally divided into two columns and into groups of nine numerals each. In the first group all the figures are zeroes; in the second group the numbers "1" to "9" are inscribed; in the third group the number "2" and its multiples up to "18" are written, the units being in the right hand column and the tens in the left hand column. In the next groups are the multiples of 3, 4, etc., up to the multiples of 9, after which the multiples 1 to 9 appear in the center of the tape, the division of the tape into two columns being abandoned at that point.

When it is desired, for example, to find the product of eight times eight thousand four hundred and ninety-seven, the tapes I., II., III., IV., are moved until the numbers "8," "4," "9," "7," of the tapes are on the same horizontal line, the other tapes being left in their normal positions. In the eighth line will be found the number "56" on tape I.; in the same line, tape II. bears the number "72;" tape III. the number "32;" and tape IV. the number "64." The product is obtained by noting for each tape the number contained in the right hand column of that tape, with the addition of the number in the left hand column of the next tape to the right. In other words, contiguous numbers of different tapes are added. Thus, in the present case, "2" and "5" from tapes I. and II. are added, "2" and "7" from tapes II. and III., and "4" and "3" from tapes III. and V. The result obtained is "67,976," which is the product sought. The figuring of other products is readily understood from this example. To multiply by a number larger than 10, the well-known method of adding the results of partial multiplications is employed.

A SIMPLE CALCULATOR.

In division the calculator is employed to find multiples of the divisor and to do away with tedious multiplication. In dividing 212,425 by 8,497, for instance, 21,242 is divided by 8,497, as usual, giving 2 as the first figure in the quotient; the calculator may be used for this operation, since it shows that 21 (in the thousands) is between the double (16,994) and the triple (25,491) of 8,497. Twice 8,497 is then read off as 16,994, and subtracted from 21,242, leaving 4,248. To this remainder is added the last figure, 5; and 42,485 is then divided by 8,497. The machine shows at a glance that 42,485 is equal to 5 multiplied by 8,497. The result of the division is therefore 25.

Ruskin's Mother.

"My mother's general principles of treatment," says Mr. Ruskin, "were to guard me with steady watchfulness from all avoidable pain and danger; and, as for the rest, to let me amuse myself as I like, provided I was neither fretful nor troublesome.

"But the law was that I should find my own amusement. No toys of any kind were at first allowed. Nor did I ever painfully wish for what I was never permitted for an instant to hope for, or even imagine the possession of, such things as one saw in toy shops. I think it should be related that I was steadily whipped if I was troublesome.

"In all these particulars I think the treatment of my childhood was entirely right. As soon as I was able to read fluently my mother began a course of Bible work with me, which never ceased until I went to Oxford."

An Odorless Onion.

The latest product of scientific propagation is the odorless onion. Just how an onion can be odorless and still remain an onion is not explained. To most people the odor is all there is of an onion and that is enough. The elimination of the characteristic feature of a vegetable of such long and strong standing in natural history ought to be reckoned among the proudest achievements of man. But an onion deprived of that delicious tang and the penetrating scent which goes with it, can hardly be an onion. The palate which loves onions will not recognize it; calling a whitened, innocuous, insipid, plated bulb an onion will not make it one.

No true lover of onions will hail this new invasion of science. He eats his onion at dead of night, in silence and solitude. He rejoices in it and sleeps upon it. The incense of his praise fills the room and soothes him to delicious sleep. He rises in the morning after his sacrifice to pass the day in purification, to see no one till the sun hath sunk with indigestible substances, its rudiment vegetable can command such devotion from its votaries. It is a luxury and a worship. Shall he yield all this delight for an odorless bulb? Let others do as they will, he will not. An onion without its odor would be ashamed of itself.—Milwaukee Journal.

How Lincoln Rebuked His Critics.

At the White House one day during the Civil War, some gentlemen were present from the West, excited and troubled about the commissions or omissions of the administration. President Lincoln heard them patiently, and then replied: "Gentlemen, suppose all the property you were worth was in gold, and you had put it in the hands of Blondin to carry across the Niagara river on a rope, would you shake the cable or keep shouting out to him, 'Blondin, stand up a little straighter; Blondin, stoop a little more; go a little faster; lean a little more to the north; lean a little more to the south?' No, you would hold your breath as well as your tongue, and keep your hands off until he was safe over. The government are carrying an immense weight. Untold treasures are in their hands. They are doing the very best they can. Don't badger them. Keep silence and we'll get you safe across."

A Remarkable Calculator.

Diamandi, a native of Pylaros, one of the Greek Islands, seems to be a remarkable calculator. After a mere glance at a black-board, on which thirty groups of figures are written, he can, it is said, repeat them in any order and deal with them in any arithmetical process. It is said that he never makes an error in calculations involving billions, and he can extract square or cube roots with marvellous rapidity and accuracy. An eminent German specialist declared the other day that these ready-reckoners were idiots. This is not the case with Diamandi, who writes poetry and novels in the intervals of business, and shows considerable intellectual capacity.

A Chinese Typewriter.

The Rev. Sheffield, a Presbyterian minister at Tung Chow, has invented a typewriter for the Chinese language. This machine is capable of writing 4,000 characters, which are carried around the circumference of numerous type-wheels. It requires the depression of two keys in order to print a simple character.

A lover's quarrel is the sauce that seasons the courtship.

ETIQUETTE IN CHINA.

CELESTIALS VERY RIGID IN THEIR OBSERVANCE OF RULES.

Though a Nation Not Far Removed from Savagery They Consider Themselves Leaders of the World in Social and Artistic Matters.

The one thing after the possession of the thirteen classics on which the Chinese specially pride themselves is politeness. And truly, if national refinement is to be measured by the mien and carriage of its people, the Chinese are entitled to a high place among the children of men. A Chinese official in full costume is a most imposing figure and carries himself with great dignity and self-possession, albeit he is usually some four or five inches shorter than the average American. In this respect he owes much to his long dress, but more to the patient study of an art now almost monopolized among Americans by aspirants to the triumphs of the stage. There is not a single awkward movement as the Chinese gentleman bows his visitor into his house or supplies him from his own hand with a cup of tea which is indispensable to an interview. Not until his guest is seated will the Chinese host venture to take up his position on the right hand of the former; and if, in the course of an excited conversation, either should raise himself, however slightly, from a sitting posture, it is the bounden duty for the other to do so, too. No Chinese gentleman will sit while his equal stands. Occasionally, where it is not intended to be over-respectful to a visitor, a servant will bring in the tea—one cup in each hand. Then, standing before his master and the guest, he will cross his arms, serving the guest, who is to his right, with the left hand, his master with the right. The object of this is to expose the palm—in Chinese the heart—of either hand to each recipient of tea. It is a token of fidelity and respect.

The tea itself is called "guest tea" and is not intended for drinking. It has a more useful mission than that of allaying thirst. Alas for the "barbarian" who drinks off his cupful before ten words have been exchanged and confirms the unfavorable opinion his Chinese host already entertains of the manners and customs of the West! And yet a little trouble spent in learning the quaint ceremonies of the Chinese would have gained him much esteem as an enlightened and tolerant man. For, while despising Western men outwardly, the Chinese grandees know well enough that inwardly Western men feel themselves superior, and thus it comes to pass that a voluntary concession on the part of Americans or Englishmen or Frenchmen on any of these points of etiquette is always most amiably acknowledged.

To return to our mutton, "guest tea" is provided in a Chinese interview to be used as a signal by either party that the interview is at an end. A guest no sooner raises his cup to his lips than a dozen voices shout to his coolies to bring his chair; so, too, when the master of the house is prevented by other engagements from playing any longer the part of host, he makes a motion as if to drink his tea and forthwith the guest's chair is called for. Without previous warning—unusual except among intimate acquaintances—this guest tea is never to be touched except as a signal of departure. Strangers meeting in China may freely ask each other their names, their provinces and their business prospects. It is always considered a compliment to an old Chinaman, who is justly proud of his years, to inquire his age, and it takes the curious form of "Your venerable teeth," but middle-aged Celestials do not as a rule, care about the question and their answers can rarely be depended upon. It is also good form in China to ask the number and sex of a man's children; also if his father and mother are still "in the hall"—i. e., alive. His wife, however, must never be alluded to, even in the most indirect manner. Friends meeting, either or both in sedan chairs, stop their bearers at once and get out with all possible expedition; the same rule applies to acquaintances meeting on horseback.

Chinese etiquette is a wide field for the student, and when the "open door" we hear so much about has become a condition instead of a theory it will have to be studied more closely by all the Western nations. Just at present, however, it is something of a paradox to find that in the capital city of "the politest nation of the earth" the lives of the ministers of foreign states are not safe. This stamps the Chinese as essentially the "barbarians" which they consider all other people, because one of the first principles established among nations fully emerged from primeval savagery is that the persons of ambassadors and their suites are at all times even on the outbreak of war, exempt from assault and outrage.—Baltimore Sun.

CHIVALRY COST HIM MONEY.

Southerner Had to Pay for Avenging an Insult to a Pretty Girl.

A fluffy girl and a man with an undefinable "down South" air were seated recently at a table in a popular cafe on the South Side. Hovering attentively near was a waiter known to habitues of the place as Jim Corbett.

"I wish," said the girl, with a dreamy look and a cultivated drawl, "that men of to-day were like those of olden times. Then they would fight for a girl—lay down their lives if necessary. Now they (she paused, looking intently at a tall glass of white liquid before her) they content themselves with buying gin rickeys for them."

The man looked nettled. Was he not a Southerner and a gentleman, by gad, sah?

"We have not changed," he maintained; "only nowadays there is no opportunity to display our devotions—no tournaments; no heavy villains. That sort of thing is out of date."

"That's just it! Out of date! Chivalry is out of date, but a brave man would make an opportunity," pouted the fluffy girl.

The man looked over his prominent nose sulkily, for he admired the girl and in his heart he knew he was a hero; all Southerners know that. Suddenly a bright thought struck him. He fumbled in his pocket for a match, and, failing to find it, hurriedly excused himself and left the table. "I ordered you another rickey," he announced, returning. The girl protested gracefully, but just then Corbett's great figure, like that of a guardian angel, approached with the cooling draughts.

Now Corbett is proverbially skillful in his handicraft of juggling tumblers, but as he neared the pretty girl his foot seemed to slip and splash! went the rickey over her summer gown.

"Stupid!" ejaculated the girl.

"Wipe that up immediately," commanded the man.

"She can wipe it up herself," said the waiter.

"What! you insult a lady in my presence!" exclaimed the Southerner, as he sprang from his chair. He grasped the huge waiter by the shoulders and shook him as if he were a willow reed. Then, to add emphasis to his act, he boxed the man soundly on the ears.

Doughty Corbett was a child in his hands.

The fluffy girl, after her first fright, looked with admiration at her protector, and neighboring pleasure-seekers made audible and favorable comments on his righteous indignation and courage.

Presently the two departed. They were on the street outside of the cafe, and the man was handing the fluffy girl into a rubber-tired auto, when the waiter, Jim Corbett, touched him on the shoulder.

The girl gave a gasp of fear when she saw Corbett, and her champion turned fiercely. The waiter, however, attempted no violence. He only said in a very loud voice:

"Look here, you didn't stick to the bargain. You hit too hard, and if you don't give me another $2 I'll have you pinched."—Chicago Inter Ocean.

QUEER STORIES

The King of Siam owns an "elephant corps" numbering some five hundred animals. They all are trained for army purposes. A general is in charge.

The oldest Free Mason in the world is Adna Adams Treat, of Denver, Colo. He joined the order in 1823 and is in his 103d year. He is still healthy and active.

A West Australian exploring party that recently arrived at Oodnadta reported that there has not been a drop of rain for two years in the region traversed.

A Kansas missionary in China, writing to his friends in Wichita, Kan., says he has noticed that "dogs bark, pigs squeal, roosters crow and babies cry in English."

Powdered charcoal, if laid thick on a burn, causes the immediate abatement of the pain. A superficial burn can thus be healed in about an hour. Take a wad of cotton waste saturated with ammonia, and pat the burn with it. Keep doing this till the fire is drawn out, which will be in ten or fifteen minutes.

Cape Nome is only two degrees below the arctic circle, and yet the probabilities are that within a year or two it will become the site of a town with all the modern improvements. The rush in the direction of the new gold fields is almost unprecedented, and if the expectations now entertained are realized it will become the largest gold camp in the world.

Of the living musicians, Music states that "Pachman, born in 1848, is now about 52; Emil Liebling, born in 1851, is now about 49; Joseffy, born in 1852, is now 48; Sherwood, born in 1854, is 46; Hyllested, born in 1848, is 52; Friedheim, born in 1859, is 41; Paderewski, born in 1859, is now just past 40; Sauer and Rosenthal, born in 1862, are 38; Siloti, born in 1863, is 37; D'Albert, born in 1864, is now 36; Busoni, born in 1866, is 34; Godowski, born in 1870, is 30; Hambourg, born in 1879, is now 21."

Modern Chivalry.

Sir Walter Raleigh's cloak has been a symbol of chivalry for many years, but the little street-boy's cap in the following story, from the Sunday Magazine, deserves an equally honorable place:

The best story I know of an Edinburgh street-boy was told me by a lady who witnessed the incident. There was a Christmas treat given to poor children at a mission hall, and hundreds of little ones were assembled at the doors in advance of the hour of admittance, many of them barefoot.

Among the number was a sweet-faced little girl, who seemed less hardened than most to the cold, for she shivered in her poor jacket and danced from one foot to the other on the cold, hard stones. A boy not much older watched this performance for a few minutes, and then with a sudden impulse of protection took off his cap, put it down before her and said:

"Ye maun stand on that."

The Other Way Around.

The loyalty of the Scottish Highlander to his kilt is a picturesque thing. He will never admit that it makes him cold; and Highlanders who were suffering from cold in the ordinary dress of civilization have been known to substitute the kilt for it, in order to get warm—though this would be much like removing one's coat and waistcoat and rolling up one's shirt-sleeves for the same purpose.

It is said that a stranger, seeing a soldier in full Highlander uniform shivering in a cold wind, asked him:

"Sandy, are you cold with the kilt?"

"Na, na, mon," the soldier answered, indignantly, "but I'm nigh kilt wi'th the cauld!"

Nurses and Undertakers.

A Berlin physician of standing says, in a medical paper, that the nurses in the private hospitals are in league with the undertakers, who distribute among them circulars offering as much as $25 by way of gratuity for a good job. He called the attention of his professional colleagues to this infamous combination, which has been in force, so he declares, for half a century, and exists in other large towns. He suggests the employment, whenever it is possible, of women working in sisterhoods or actuated by some higher motive than the mere pursuit of gain.

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but Experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is Pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. It cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. It relieves Teething Troubles, cures Constipation and Flatulency. It assimilates the Food, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

GENUINE CASTORIA ALWAYS

Bears the Signature of

Chas. H. Fletcher.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

In Use For Over 30 Years.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine.

Rotary Motion and

Ball Bearings.

Porter Depew, Agent.

CHICHESTER'S ENGLISH PENNYROYAL PILLS

Safe. Always reliable. Ladies, ask Druggist for CHICHESTER'S ENGLISH in Red and Gold metallic boxes, sealed with blue ribbon. Take no other. Refuse dangerous substitutions and imitations. Buy of your Druggist, or send 4c. in stamps for Particulars, Testimonials and "Relief for Ladies," in letter, by return Mail. 10,000 Testimonials. Sold by all Druggists.

CHICHESTER CHEMICAL CO. 2109 Madison Square, PHILA., PA. Mention this paper.

Mott's Nervetine Pills

The great remedy for nervous prostration and all nervous diseases of the generative organs of either sex, such as Nervous Prostration, Failing or lost Manhood, Impotency, Nightly Emissions, Youthful Errors, Mental Worry, excessive use of Tobacco or Opium, which lead to Consumption and Insanity. $1.00 per box by mail; 6 boxes for $5.00.

MOTT'S CHEMICAL CO., Prop's, Cleveland, Ohio.

Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

MOTT'S PENNYROYAL PILLS

They overcome Weakness, Irregularity and omissions, increase vigor and banish "pains of menstruation." They are "Life Savers" to girls at womanhood, aiding development of organs and body. No known remedy for women equals them. Cannot do harm—life becomes a pleasure. $1 per box by mail. Sold by druggists. MOTT CHEMICAL CO., Cleveland, O.

Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

PATENTS DESIGNS TRADE-MARKS AND COPYRIGHTS OBTAINED

ADVICE AS TO PATENTABILITY Notice in "Inventive Age" Book "How to obtain Patents" FREE

Charges moderate. No fee till patent is secured. Letters strictly confidential. Address, E. G. SIGGERS, Patent Lawyer, Washington, D. C.

PILES Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment will cure Blind, Bleeding and Itching Piles. It absorbs the tumors, allays the itching at once, acts as a poultice, gives instant relief. Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment is prepared for Piles and Itching of the private parts. Every box is warranted. By druggists, by mail on receipt of price, 50 cents and $1.00. WILLIAMS MANUFACTURING CO., Props., Cleveland, Ohio.

Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

Kendallville fair, Sept. 24 to 28.

Horse Found.

Walter Likens' horse has been found and could be seen this morning hitched east of the court house. Some farmers near Newville found it yesterday morning, lying helpless at the roadside, with the buggy piled on top of it. The poor animal showed signs of having been whipped, an unnecessary thing as it is very high spirited. It was not hurt to amount to anything nor the top buggy and harness, except some little rubbing or a broken strap. The horse was taken to Butler and they telephoned over to the marshall here and Mr. Likens went over and got it. The whip was gone, but lap robe was all right. The finder charged only $2 for his trouble and with 25 cents for feed and care at the stable Mr. Likens feels he is very fortunate. The horse is a beauty and would have been quite a loss.

How Bright's Disease Starts.

Indigestion, biliousness, blood poison with urea and uric acid (which should have been excreted by the kidneys), rheumatic pains in nerves and joints, causing irritation of the kidneys, then pains over the small of the back, mark sure approach of Bright's disease. Do not delay taking Foley's Kidney Cure, for it makes the kidneys right. Take no substitute. H. B. McCord.

Kendallville fair, Sept. 24 to 28.

Notice to Contractors.

Notice is hereby given that the Auditor of DeKalb county, Indiana, will, on Saturday, September 15, 1900,

at the hour of 2 p. m., in the office of the auditor in the court house in the town of Auburn, Indiana, will receive sealed proposals for the construction of the William Spangler et al. ditch No. 705½, located in Union and Jackson townships, said DeKalb county, Indiana, and described as follows, to-wit:

FIRST SECTION.

Commencing fourteen rods north of the west quarter corner of section thirty-one (31), township thirty-four (34) north, range thirteen (13) east, DeKalb county, Indiana, and from thence in a southeasterly direction ending at Stake No. 25. All of said section to be tiled.

SECOND SECTION.

Commencing at Stake No. 25 of said ditch and ending at Stake No. 50. All of said section to be tiled.

THIRD SECTION.

Commencing at Stake No. 50 and ending at Stake No. 71 plus 71 feet, said ending being at the iron pipe under the Baltimore, Ohio & Chicago railroad where the Hague ditch crosses said railroad. Said section to be tiled to stake 76 plus 76 feet; the remaining portion of said ditch to be constructed as an open ditch.

Said ditch will be sold in three (3) sections as described above to the lowest responsible bidder.

Each bid must be accompanied with a certified check or its equivalent to the amount of twenty-five dollars ($25.)

But no bid will be entertained which exceeds the estimated cost of construction as set forth in the engineer's and viewers' report.

All contractors will be required to keep their sections well staked and numbered and comply with all requests made by the engineer or surveyor in charge.

Also all contractors will be required to enter into contract and execute a bond in compliance with the provisions of law (Acts 1889, page 329.)

Specifications of said work can be seen in the County Auditor's office in Auburn, or at the County Surveyor's office.

The entire work is to be completed by November 14, 1900.

The Auditor reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

F. P. SEILER,
Auditor DeKalb County, Indiana.

Dated August 31, 1900.

No Relief for Twenty Years.

"I had bronchitis for twenty years," said Mrs. Minerva Smith of Danville, Ill., "and at times have been bedfast. I never got relief until I had taken Foley's Honey and Tar. It is pleasant and gives quick relief, and is a sure cure for throat and lung diseases." Take nothing else. H. B. McCord.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY.
Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. E. W. Grove's signature is on each box. 25c

Thursday's Daily.

—Taylor of Kentucky spoke at Kokomo Tuesday.

—Notre Dame University opened Tuesday for the 57th year.

—Always good, but better than ever this year, the Kendallville fair.

—Mrs. J. C. Summers is visiting the old home friends in Butler township.

—Auburn ball club won the game at Butler today by a score of 10 to 1 against the Stryker club.

—Marion Dermott of St. Joe was here today. A through freight came uncoupled near his farm; and he got aboard.

—Miss Emma Beesh of Garrett has been visiting her aunt, Mrs. Mike Hebel and other relatives and has returned to her home.

—The Sioux Indians are holding a sun dance, but say it is the last one, as civilization is ruining this solemn and ancient rite.

—Our friend J. B. Grube, up at Flint, is now getting his mail on the rural delivery plan. He is on Route No. 1, out of Angola.

—WANTED:—Black Walnut logs for timber. Highest cash prices paid for same. Address, The Sanders & Egbert Co., Goshen, Ind. 8

—At Peru last week the hands at the Singer Sewing Machine factory had their wages reduced 10 to 15 per cent. A good many quit work.

—Pommerts new barber chairs are self raisers, same as Gold Sheaf pancakes. Sitting in such a chair one can raise himself clear up into the best society.

—Neither Taylor ex-governor of Kentucky, nor R. B. Hanna attended the Butler street fair yesterday. But we are told that Congressman Robinson will be there.

—G. O. Denison is now settled in his Auburn home. His son-in-law, Clyde Fee has charge of the farm now. Our people should make Mr. and Mrs. Denison welcome.

—I. N. Turner went out into Concord township on his wheel today to visit a sick brother Maccabee, Frank Wiseman, and extend any good offices that might be needed.

—We are pleased to hear that Mrs. I. N. Turner has fully recovered from the poor health that held her so long. She is now able to do all her work and what is more to enjoy life.

—Ross McKinley has rented his farm in Jackson township to his brother Alex and moved his family to Auburn. For the present he will occupy a part of A. C. Guilford's residence.

—The wilds of Chicago are getting lively. The same day the two bicycle girls caught the wolf, an elephant escaped from a show, and was only secured by a swift riding bicycler.

—Two Kentucky feudists fought a duel on horseback recently. One is dead, and the other may die. If this thing keeps on Kentucky may in a few years have a respectable lot of citizens.

—A wild wolf, lately given to Lincoln park got loose Tuesday and was chased all over the park before it could be lassoed. It would have escaped, but two girls on bicycles headed it off near the entrance.

—When you want a pleasant physic try the new remedy, Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. They are easy to take and pleasant in effect. Price, 25 cents.—Samples free at H. B. McCord's drug store.

—A man in Mexico robbed the express company of a package of $20,000 and on leaving the train on which he escaped, it dropped as he went to pick up his sachel and he did not notice the loss. Trainmen found it.

—Columbia City Post;—Mrs. A. B. Nickey and daughter, Alice, were arrivals in the city Tuesday, being on their return to their home in Princeton, from their summer outing in Michigan and Canada. They are the guests of E. L. McLallen and family.

—A dispatch from Muncie, Ind., says: —There was an unusual occurrance at the funeral services of George W. Warner at High Street M. E. church this afternoon made by the introduction of the phonograph to furnish music. Warner heard "Ben Bolt" on a violin played by a phonograph recently, and requested that it be reproduced at his funeral.

—Clyde Swick, a lad of thirteen years, attempted to board a moving freight train Akron Sunday with the result that he fell under the cars and was run over. When the train passed, he raised up and said: "Here is a lesson for you, boys; I am almost killed." His feet and hands were frightfully crushed, both legs being cut off. He was removed to the doctor's office and upon examination of his wounds it was found that amputation of his legs, one arm and a part of one hand was the only hope of saving his life. Accordingly they proceeded and when they had finished both legs were off above the knees, one hand and forearm was off near the elbow and only one finger and the thumb was left on the other hand. It is doubtful if the boy will recover.

Half the World is in Darkness.

as to the cause of their ill health. If they would start to treat their kidneys with Foley's Kidney Cure, the weariness of body and mind, backache, headache and rheumatic pains would disappear. H. B. McCord.

Foley's Kidney Cure

is a pure medicine, and contains in concentrated form, remedies recognized by the most skillful of the medical profession as the most effective agents for the cure of kidney and bladder diseases. H. B. McCord.

Friday's Daily.

—James McDowell was at Butler yesterday.

—Great in every way this year—the Kendallville fair.

—Gen. Blair and wife drove through town this morning.

—Rev. T. M. Guild, Frank Zimmerman and Frank Eckhart sail for home tomorrow.

—The Kendallville fair, always a success, will be digger and better than ever before.

—G. O. Dennison, the next county clerk, has moved into his home on West Seventh street.

—There is a wonderful tree, hydrangia, at Henry Sweitzer's on South Jackson street. It has 280 fine large flowers.

FOR SALE:—A team of good work horses, with wagon and harness; also a good, fresh milch cow. See John Groscop. d1wtf —Capital exhibits of fine stock of all kinds are assured at the Kendallville fair this year, by the liberal increase of premiums offered.

—To save the good name of several men named Peters, who are highly respected, we will say that the wife beater's name is Albert.

—Ulcers, open or obstinate sores, scalds and piles, quickly cured by Banner Salve, the most healing medicine in the world. H. B. McCord.

—A vicious horse at Anderson attacked a boy and bit his lip off. It is things like this that will go far to reconcile us to the incoming automobile.

—Wm. Sheffer went to Fort to-day to bring his wife home, she having been there for treatment. We are glad to be able to report her cured.

—M. B. Masters is the boss city gardener this year. He has not only got a large crop of green corn, potatoes, tomatoes, etc., but they are of such fine quality.

—Several tax payers have received their rebate for excess of taxes paid last year. The mistake was caused by a misunderstanding and all will get their money back.

—WANTED:—About 25 or 30 cords of good body wood, 18 or 20 inches long, either beech, hard maple or hickory. No dosy or sour wood will be accepted, but must be cut from green timber.—J. C. HENRY.

—Fort Wayne population of over 45,000. They had expected, but this is a gain os 10,000 in the past ten years, a number so large that Auburn would have been well satisfied with it.

—Taylor of Kentucky addressed the republicans at Bloomington, Saturday night. People came for miles around, alarmed with the report that an attempt would be to kidnap him.

—A letter has been received from Chris Ashelman, who had arrived in Switzerland. He says they are just cutting their oats and wheat. Of course he is enjoying the sights.

—Our tape line has been kept busy lately measuring men and women for custom made grade garments. See us; we can sell guaranteed articles cheap as store clothes.—J. Y. W. McClellan.

—Allen Halverson of West Prairie, Wis., says: "People come ten miles to buy Foley's Kidney Cure," while J. A. Spero of Helmer, Ind., says: "It is the medical wonder of the age." H. B. McCord.

—The Hoosier quartet sang Wednesday evening at the Richland Center meeting. S. J. Zimmerman took the place of Morris Widney, who is absent with Mr. Eckhart in various parts of the state.

—The Misses Mabel and Florence Hogue, daughters of Theron Hogue of Lincoln, Nebraska, started for their home last evening after a visit with the relatives here. It is quite a journey for two girls of that age, nine and thirteen.

—Wu, the Chinese Minister at Washington was invited to a hayride party the other evening. He went, and the party rode on a load of straw and had a great time. Wu, however, got disgustee, got off and walked home. He said Chinese young ladies would not ride on hay racks half the night.

Hall's Hill, Tenn., Nov. 12, 1898.
Cured a young lady of rheumatism some time ago with four bottles of Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm. The doctor had discharged the case because he could give her no relief.—B. R. Bivins. For sale by F. E. Davenport.

—Dr. Swarts brought home a number of souvenirs of his European trip such as views of the Eiffel tower and other striking things at the Paris Exposition. When he climbed the mountains in Switzerland, he had to buy a pair of American overshoes, as no other kind would stand the strain. He paid $1.50 for such as would cost here 80c or 90c.

—W. H. McIntosh has a beautiful cane a natural stock of the tea shrub. It was brought to him by Mrs. McIntosh's sister, Mrs. Florence Colgrove when she came here this summer from her Kansas home to visit the old friends. It was brought home from the Philippines by his nephew, a son of H. P. Colgrove who was a member of the famous 20th Kansas. Mr. McIntosh prizes the gift highly.

—YOUNG MEN WANTED:—With fair education and good character, to learn telegraphy, railroad accounting and typewriting. This is endorsed by all leading railroad companies as the only perfect and reliable institution of its kind. All our graduates are assisted to positions. Ladies also admitted. Write for free catalogue. Fall term opens August 15th.—Globe Telegraph College, Lexington, Ky. tf

—Job Work—The COURIER.

What Will Bryan's Plurality be in Indiana?

76 Guesses

$1,000 To The Winners

$1,000

IN PRIZES to 76 subscribers to THE INDIANA STATE SENTINEL who come nearest guessing the plurality Indiana will give Bryan over McKinley.

The publishers of The Indiana State Sentinel will award seventy-six prizes to seventy-six subscribers, who at any time before the close of the polls Tuesday, Nov. 6, correctly estimate or come nearest doing so, Bryan and Stevenson's plurality over McKinley and Roosevelt in Indiana.

First prize	$300.00
Second prize	200.00
Third prize	100.00
Fourth prize	75.00
Fifth prize	50.00
Sixth prize	25.00
5 prizes of $15 each	75.00
5 prizes of $10 each	50.00
10 prizes of $5 each	50.00
25 prizes of $2 each	50.00
25 prizes of $1 each	25.00
	1,000.00

NOTE—The result will be decided from the vote cast for the head of the democratic electoral ticket.

If the unexpected should happen and Mr. Bryan not carry the state, then the lowest plurality guess, or the one nearest the result, will get the prize.

Where two or more guesses are the same, the first one received will be awarded the prize.

Guessers should be careful to write name and address plainly, and also state whether they are an old or new subscriber.

Conditions.

Any subscriber, old or new, is entitled to one guess on payment of 50 cents—one year's subscription—received at this office before the close of polls on election day—Tuesday, Nov. 6, 1900. The name of subscriber remitting the money will be recorded with the figures of his guess. The receipt of money, as well as his estimate of Bryan and Stevenson's plurality over McKinley and Roosevelt in Indiana, will be acknowledged, and should be laid aside by him until the official vote of Indiana shall have been ascertained, when the names of prize-takers will be duly announced in these columns.

If your subscription is not paid in advance pay it now and participate in this great distribution of actual money. If your subscription is paid in advance, send us 50 cents for another year and give a guess. You stand a chance of getting $300 for 50 cents, and if you do not hit a prize you have your money's worth in The Indiana State Sentinel, the greatest family newspaper in the West.

SEND in your 50 cents with your guess at once. Your judgment is as likely to be correct at this time as it is the day before election. Be careful to date your guesses, and remember you can have as many guesses as you take subscriptions to The Indiana State Sentinel.

CUT THIS OUT AND SEND TO INDIANAPOLIS SENTINEL CO.
INDIANAPOLIS, IND.

SENT BY .....

P. O. .....

COUNTY..... STATE.....

My Guess Bryan and Stevenson's plurality over McKinley and Roosevelt in Indiana will be..... Enclosed find 50 cents for which send THE INDIANA STATE SENTINEL for one year

TO .....

.....

If The Indiana State Sentinel is already going to this address send for one year from date present subscription expires.

Saturday's Daily.

—Commissioners ended a busy week when they adjourned today.

—Mrs. Martin Jackman died yesterday and the funeral will be at Waterloo some time tomorrow.

—Frank Altenberg of Ithaca, Mich., is here visiting his aunt, Mrs. Sarah Cass and the other relatives.

—Isaac Hague gets a large lot of sidewalk for his share. It will be over 200 feet by the time he is done.

—The marked increase in the premjums offered by the Kendallville fair this year insures a mamouth exhibit in all departments.

—If, as now appears certain, the coal miners of Pennsylvania strike, it means 150,000 men out of work and a probable raise in the price of coal.

—W. F. Kessler has just returned from the Ohio state fair at Columbus where he displayed his flower stand with very flattering results. d&w

—The Italian Polar expedition has just come out of the north. They reached latitude 86 degrees and 20 minutes, north. This is a little nearer the pole than even Nansen got.

—A good many consumptives would be cured and the worst cases comforted and relieved by using Foley's Honey and Tar. Suggest it to those afflicted. You should do this as a friend. H. B. McCord.

—Steuben Republican:—Silas Bressler, the butcher, was taken suddenly ill at his market last week, with something like cramps in the breast and stomach, and for a few hours his case was considered very critical.

—Steuben Republican:—A petition is being circulated asking that an election be held for the voters of Pleasant township to determine whether or not they will be taxed $20,000 to assist in building the electric railroad. We understand the required number of signers has been secured. The additional tax would be about 2 per cent on the assessed valuation on property in the township.

—Mrs. Howard McCord entertained a very pleasant party yesterday afternoon at whist, in honor of Mrs. W. C. Hartman of Wabash, Ind. In compliment to Mrs. Hartman the cards for selecting partners had written on them quotations from "On the Banks of the Wabash." The colors were purple and white, and the counters were violets. Dainty refreshments were served consisting of ice cream, cake and fruit. About thirty ladies enjoyed Mrs. McCord's hospitality, and voted her a success as a hostess.

Cuts and Bruises Quickly Healed.

Chamberlain's Pain Balm applied to a cut, bruise, burns, scald or like injury will instantly allay the pain and will heal the parts in less time than any other treatment. Unless the injury is very severe it will not leave a scar. Pain Balm also cures rheumatism, sprains, swellings and lameness. For sale by H. B. McCord.

Stops The Cough and Works off the Cold.
Laxativa Bromo-Quinine Tablets cure a cold in one day. No Cure, no Pay. Price 25 cents.

DEMOCRATS!

The Struggle Is On!

EVERY LITTLE HELPS—WILL YOU DO YOUR SHARE?

HOW? Have a picture of our great leader,

WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN,

where all can see it, and get your friends to do likewise.

Send us three two-cent stamps to cover costs and we will mail you an elegant phototyve picture of W. J. BRYAN. We want you to display them in your home. Or if you will give twenty away to your friends to display, we will send you one of them beautifully framed in Oak, with glass front, suitable for office, home or club, and also 20 of the phototyves to distribute to your friends, for One Dollar—cash or stamps.

Don't delay. Time is short and our opponents are working hard. The Democratic Party needs your help now. Push the good work along.

SOUTHERN REVIEW OF COMMERCE—. . . A work of art. . . . It should be widely distributed.

BOND INVESTMENT FIELD—. . . A masterpiece . . . Flood the country with them. A little effort and the victory is ours.

NATIONAL DEMOCRATIC ADVANCEMENT LEAGUE,
Headquarters Suite 31, Seives Building,
CINCINNATI, OHIO.

MONEY TO LOAN

At 5%

We are prepared to place loans on farm property in DeKalb county in sums of $700 and upwards for 5 years at 5 per cent with the privilege of paying the same in payments of $100 or any multiple thereof at any interest pay day.

RICHARDS & BIRDSALL,
Hicksville, Ohio.

—"I had a running sore on my leg for seven years," writes Mrs. Jas Forest of Chippewa Falls, Wis., "and spent hundreds of dollars in trying to get it healed. Two boxes of Bannner Salve entirely cured it." H. B. McCord.

—Albion New Era:—A girl west of town has promised to marry a young man if Bryan is elected. But the case is not as hopeless as it may seem. He has promised to marry her if McKinley is elected. There's pretty apt to be a wedding about Cromwell this fall.

THE AUBURN COURIER.

Volume XXX | Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana, Thursday, September 20, 1900. | Number 38.

The Farmers Bank of Auburn,

Under State Supervision and Control.

Capital and Surplus $50,000.00
Asse's at Last Official Statement.....$346,278.95

Pays interest on deposits if left four months; Loans money and transacts a general banking business.

YOUR BUSINESS IS SOLICITED!

ALBERT ROBBINS, President;
A. C. ROBBINS, Cashier

The McClellan Bank,

AUBURN, IND

Certificates of deposits issued, drawing interest if left six months. County and Town Orders bought and sold. Money Loaned on Farms, Personal Security, or Live Stock. Notes bought.

C. A. O. McCLELLAN, ESTATE
CHARLES McCLELLAN
D. A. GARWOOD,
ISAAC HAGUE
} C. A. BENEDICT, Cashier

Physicians and SURGEONS

D. J. Swartz, M. D
Vesta W. Swartz, M D

Office at Auburn Sanitary Baths, corner Main and Sixth Streets,

Professional Calls Promptly Answered.

PHONES: Western..... No. 19
Central Union..... No. 19

Sprott & Knapp,

Abstracters of Titles to Land and Lots,

AUBURN, IND.

Office in Gandy Block, North of Court House.

J.E. Graham, D.D.S.

DENTIST

Over Davenport's Drugstore, Auburn, Ind.

CROWN AND BRIDGE WORK A SPECIALTY.

All Work Guaranteed } { Gas Administered.

CENTRAL 'PHONE 513.

Will be at Waterloo each Wednesday in Dr. Darby's Office

DENTIST F. W. HOFFMAN,

Auburn, Ind,

Office in Gandy Building, Northeast Corner of Court Square.

WESTERN 'PHONE 103.

Crown and Bridge Work a Specialty.

DR. Z. H. STAMETS,

Physician & Surgeon

Office on Main street opposite Swinefold Hotel.

Western 'Phone 104

Special attention given to all diseases of stomach and kidneys, and to chronic and obscure diseases; surgery and diseases of women and children. Calls answered at all hours. Office apart from residence.

There is Money in Junk

for you if you bring it to H. Greenburg who

PAYS BEST CASH PRICES

for rags, rubber, copper, brass, zinc, lead, scrap iron and all kinds of hides and furs. Also buys and sells second-hand materia. stoves and furnaces, etc. Persons having second-hand material to buy or sell it will be to their interest to see

H. GREENBURG,

North VanBuren St.,

Auburn, Indiana.

The B. & O. to Ohio Points.

On October 4, 1900 the B. & O. R. R. will sell excursion tickets to Mansfield, Mt. Vernon, Lodi, Wooster, Millersburg, Creston, Warwick, Akron, Canton, Kent, Ravenna, Warren and Orrville, Ohio, at the rate of $6.00 for the round trip.

Excursion tickets will also be sold to Niles, O., and return at the rate of $6 60 and to Youngstown, O., and return at the rate of $7.00 for the round trip.

Tickets will be good to return until November 3, 1900.

Detailed information in regard to time of trains, etc., may be obtained upon application co nearest B. & O. Ticket Agent or B. N. Austin, General Passenger Agent, Chicago, Ill. 38

From Galveston.

A dispatch from the doomed city last evening brings no word of comfort. The ruin and desolation grow worse, as the details come in. Looting of the most disgusting sort has been added to the other horrors. The dispatch says:

"Vandalism at Galveston has been horrible. The most rigid enforcement of martial law has not been able to suppress it entirely. Adjutant General Curry's men have arrested a hundred or more negros. Forty-three of these were found with effects taken from dead bodies, and were ordered tried by court martial. They were convicted and ordered shot. One negro had twenty-three fingers, with rings on them, in his pocket."

Galveston, Texas, September 12.—Charles S. Diehl, General Manager Associated Press, Chicago: A summary of the conditions prevailing at Galveston is more than human intelect can master. Briefly stated, the damage to property is anywhere between fifteen and twenty millions. The loss of life cannot be computed. No liste could be kept and all is simple guesswork. Those thrown out to sea and buried on the ground wherever found will reach the horrible total of at least 3,000 souls.

"My estimate of the loss on the island of the city of Galveston and the immediate surrounding district is between 4,000 and 5,000 deaths. I do not make make this statement in fright and excitement. The whole story will never be told because it cannot be told. The necessities of those living are total. Not a single individual escaped property loss. The property on the island is wrecked; fully one half totally swept out of existence altogether. What our needs are con be computed by the world at large by the statement herewith submitted much better than I could possibly summarize them. The help must be immediate.

GALVESTON, Texas, Sept. 12.—(8 p. m., via. Houston, Texas., midnight.)—All attempts at burying the dead have been utterly abandoned and the bodies are now being disposed of in the swiftest way possible. Scores of them were buried today and thousands were taken out to sea and thrown overboard. The safety of the living is now the paramount question and nothing that will tend to prevent the outbreak of an awful pestilence is being neglected.

This moreing it was found that large numbers of the bodies which had been previously thrown into the bay were washed back upon the shore, and the situation was thus rendered worse than before they were first taken into the barges and thrown into the water. It will never be known how many lost their lives in this awful catastrophe. Estimates run all the way from 1,000 to 10,000. The former figure is given by Lieutenant Perry, an aide on General McKibbin's staff. He said that large numbers of people have been washed out to sea and probably never would be heard of again. How many of these there were, it is beyond the power of those how in Galveston to estimate with any accuracy. The number of dead bodies along the shore, according to Lieatenant Perry, has been somewhat over estimated, and he says that 1,000 is a conservative estimate. His estimate is laughed at by a number of men who have been in Galveston and returned earlier in the week, they claiming that at least 2,500 bodies were buried or carried out to sea in barges before Lieutenant Perry arrived. No list of the dead has been kept and it will be utterly impossible to formulate one from now on.

Mayor Jones of Galveston, claims that the dead will amount to 5,000, and others whore opportunities for judging are less than that of the mayor, place it as high as 10,000.

CASTORIA.

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

Motice to Non-Residen.s

STATE OF INDIANA, } SS.
DEKALB COUNTY. }

In the DeKalb Circuit Court, October term, 1900.

Herbert Salisbury is hereby notified that an action has been commenced against him in said court, for divorce by Edith Salisbury, and that the same will be heard and determined on the 3rd day of November, 1900, at nine o'clock in the foreoon being the 8th juridical day of the next term of said court, which commences 1st day of october 1900.

Witness, the Clerk of said Court, this 6th day of September 1900

MICHAEL F. Long, Clerk.

J. W. Baxter, Atty.

Some Reasons

Why You Should Insist on Having

EUREKA HARNESS OIL

Unequaled by any other.
Renders hard leather soft.
Especially prepared.
Keeps out water.
A heavy bodied oil.

HARNESS

An excellent preservative.
Reduces cost of your harness.
Never burns the leather; its Efficiency is increased.
Secures best service.
Stitches kept from breaking.

OIL

Is sold in all Localities

Manufactured by Standard Oil Company.

Mr. Eckhart Home.

As noted yesterday, Mr. Eckhart started home from Campbellsburg in Washington county, being too much worn out by the continued labors of the last four weeks, to remain in the field longer. He reached home this morning on the 6:11 train over the Wabash and will take at least a few days of much needed rest. Mrs. Eckhart who has been at Coldwater will join him here today. He shows the effects of hard work and the irregular mode of life one must live in making such a tour, speaking every day and traveling every day nnd some times a large part of the night. He has met all sorts of people, stopped in such hotels as he was able to get to, not always of the best sort, but as good as the country afforded. But in all cases, he has been treated with the utmost respect, for even those who oppose the temperance movement have seen that he was in earnest, and besides he never used disrespectful language himself, never abused or ridiculed anyone, but talked from principle and appealed to the better impulses of his hearers. Hence the meetings were all quiet, even children and young people attending in large numbers and appearing greatly interested. At most of the meetings he had distributed a good deal of literaturer Newspaper men all over the state and of all shades of opinion have given him the most respectful hearing, and in their published interviews have treated him well. He feels pleased at the way he has been received, even in the wilder parts of the south counties. The other evening he spoke at Corydon (in Harrison county,) in the old state house that was the first one built for Indiana, and in wich the legislature met before the seat of government was moved to Indianapolis. It is of stone about forty feet square and in good condition. But he considers the south end of the state is not as desirable as our own section.

He has spoken sixty-four times and covered forty-three counties, since the campaign began. He will probably remain here a week or so now to rest before going on his next tour.

Cox—Eckert Reunion.

A reunion of the Cox and Eckert families was held at the home of Jacob Eckert in Fairfield township, DeKalb county, on Saturday. Fifty members of the two families were present and the occasion was one of much enjoyment to all participants. A sumptuous picnic dinner was served at noon and later in the day a dainty lunch was served. The reunion was the first held by these families and was an event long to be remembered with pleasure by those present Saturday: The following persons were in attendance: Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Cox and Mrs. Jennie Hayward, of this city, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Cox and son, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Cox, Mr. and Mrs. William Eckert and children, Susan Eckert, of Helmer; Mr. and Mrs. Eli Cox, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Eckert and son, Mr. and Mrs. J. R Fredrick and daughter, Mrs. L. Kimmel of Hudson; Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Cox, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Reynolds and children, Mrs. Belle C. Harding daughter and son of Corunna; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Reynolds and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bateman of Sedan; Mr. and Mrs Charles Martin and children and Vera Bower of Fairfield Center; Mrs. Frank Bowen, Avalon, Mo.; Mr. and Mrs. D. Eckert and daughter; Delmer, Iowa.—Kendalville Sun.

OBITUARY.

Mary Shelby was born in Westmoreland county, Pa., August 20, 1824, and died in Auburn, Ind., at the residence of her son, William, September 13, 1900, aged 76 years and 23 days. She was married to Jacob Fretz November 9, 1843. To this union were born three children, Leah Lightner, Mary A., and William D. Fretz. They moved from Fayette county, Pa., to DeKalb county Ind., in March 1861, where they have since resided. Her husband preceded her to the better land September 24, 1892. Funeral services on Sunday, September 16. Leave the home in Auburn at 10 a. m., services on arrival at Showers Corners near Sedan, and interment in the cemetery there beside her husband.

Kruger In Flight.

President Paul Kruger of the late republic of the Transvaal has fled from his country, and at latest reports was at Lorenzo Marquez, the chief seaport of the Portuguese territory. He had gone through the formality of obtaining a six months leave of absence from his government on an excuse to go to the nations of Europe and seek their friendly officers to intervene and save the republic from being wiped out. The facts, however, are, no doubt, he is only seeking safety in flight.

The Taxables.

The total taxable values in Indiana this year will be over $200,000,000 greater than they were in 1899. The returns of county auditors show that Dearborn, Gibson, Jennings, Johnson, LaGrange, Parke, Posey, Shelby and Jackson lost in total values. All other counties that have reported show gains. The greatest gains are in DeKalb, Clark, Grant, Putnam and Tipton.

FREE DELIVERY.

Auburn Gets it and May Have Other Routes.

Since last November Postmaster Forkner has been working for a free rural delivery route from Auburn and has now succeeded.

Yesterday the agent of the department was here and he and Mr. Forkner drove over the proposed route which in a general way goes east 12½ miles on one road and returns on another.

The agent has sent in a recommend to the department together with the bond of Mort Wilson, who is to be the carrier on the route. The number of houses counted in going and returning yesterday was 175 and as the people are estimated at 4½ to the house, this would make not far from 800 who will be included in the route. Possibly others will use the route enough to swell the number to 1000. The carrier will start daily from Auburn with a sack containing all the mail that goes into his territory. As he reaches a house he opens the mail box, takes out the mail, and then puts back into it the mail he has for that box, and so on all around till he reaches Auburn at evening.

The only expense a farmer has is the purchase of a box, the cost of which is 75 cents. He places it before his house so as to be in easy reach of the carrier. If he lives, say a half mile or a mile off the route, he puts up his box on the route at a place convenient for him and for the carrier, and when he wants to send mail, takes it there and puts it in the box before the carrier comes. After the carrier has come he goes and gets his mail. In this way registered letters and we believe, money orders can be got and sent or received, making it very convenient for all

The government has found that in almost all cases these free delivery routes have been self sustaining and the total loss to the department from this cause is very small.

The boxes used must of course be suitable, but they are easily procured there being many firms that make them. The nearest factory we know of is the one at South Bend. The price we believe is the same at all of them.

Postmaster Forkner is to be congratulated on his success in this matter.

W. C. T. U. NOTES.

The Auburn Union elected the following officers at its last meeting:

President, Mrs. Alice Lewis; vice-president, Miss Ellen Keeran; secretary, Mrs. Ella Blaney; treasurer, Mrs. Warrick.

SUPERINTENDENTS OF DEPARTMENTS.

Press work, Mrs. Wm. Keist; Evangelistic, Mrs. Ehlers; Flower mission. Mrs. Lackey; Literature, Mrs. Gillett; Jail work, Mrs. Quince; Social purity Mrs. Silver; Systematic giving, Miss Laura Keeran.

ANSWER YOUR OWN PRAYERS.

We believe in prayer—prayer for the overthrow of the saloon traffic. We believe also that God will not miraculously answer our prayers when we ask him to do things for us that we can do ourselves. The time has fully come when Christian people should answer their own prayers as related to the overthrow of the saloon. They have the unquestioned ability to answer all such prayers. For them to address God, and ask him to exterminate this evil, and refuse to do anything against the traffic, is nothing short of an insult to the Deity.

During our intensely hot summer, a believer in prayer would have been as justified in praying, "O Lord, this hot weather is unbearable; here is a fan, please come and fan me," as it would to say: "O Lord, the saloon evil has become unbearable; here is the law, please come and enforce it, and thus rid our land of this curse." The fan was in reach of the man, and he had the ability to use it to cool his feverish brow. The law likewise is within reach of law abiding citizens, and they have the authority and ability to enforce it if they so desire. They also have it in their power to enact more stringent laws, even to a prohibitory one, and thus exterminate the entire business.

We believe again, that God it going to withold his hand from the entire question, and let the devil make the traffic so heinous, and cause the laws to be so flagrantly violated, that law-abid- and christian people will be compelled to act in self defense. We have no christian or moral right to ask God to do for us what we can do ourselves. When we undertake the task of exterminating the saloon, then we will be justified in asking for Divine guidance, and aid. We must do something more than to pray.

The little girl of whom Gen. Booth tells had the correct philosophy of the situation:

"A little girl, whose elder brother's lack of compassion for small creatures distressed her, injected this into her bed-time prayer: 'O Lord, don't let the little birds get into Robbie's trap in the garden. Please, don't let them! Oh, I know they won't! They can't! Amen!'

"'Dolly' said her mother, 'what makes you so certain?'

"'Why, 'cause—'cause I went out in the garden and smashed the trap.

"We pray for souls threatened by the trap of Satan," said the general "but that's not enough. We must smash the traps."

Our Saturday Evenings.

CHAPTER XLVIII.

"Oyez! Oyez! Oyez! Silence is commanded while the honorable judges of the Court of Appeals are sitting. All persons who have motions to make or suits to prosecute will now come forward and be heard. May God save the commonwealth and this honorable court."

It was in this old-fashioned way, that the Kentucky court of appeals opened its sessions one day this summer to give a final hearing of argument to to Indiana attorneys including the state attorney-general, Wm. L. Taylor. The case was an important one and had gone against the interests and opinions of the Indiana attorneys. It was the long-fought case of the location of the boundary line between Indiana and Kentucky. It had been generally conceded that where a river is used as a boundary line, the line is at the middle of the stream. And in case of the Ohio river, this had generally been so understood. But a recent decision said the Kentucky line is at low water mark on the Indiana side, in this way giving Kentucky the entire river and its many islands. In case of the many other boundary rivers of this country, the Mississippi, the St. Croix, Delaware, Potomac, etc., all the state courts and the United States courts held that the states lying along the river had equal rights on the stream and that the boundary was the center of the river.

Attorney-General Taylor's argument was as follows:

"The supreme court of the United States has held that the state of Kentucky extends to the low-water mark on the north bank of the Ohio river. We are not here to assail that decision or the binding effect thereon in this case, however, wrongful or erroneous that decision may have been. The question here presented is not one of ownership of the Ohio river, but one of concurrent jurisdiction over the surface of the Ohio river; concurrent jurisdiction, first, for legislative purposes; second, for executive purposes, and, third, for judicial purposes.

"This honorable court has already decided against our contention, and we are here to ask this court to reconsider that decision. No officer of the state of Indiana participated in the original argument, or knew of the pendency of the case until after the decision had been rendered.

NINTY SEVEN YEARS OF PRECEDENT.

"For ninety-seven years the territory of Indiana and the state of Indiana has claimed and exercised concurrent jurisdiction in legislation, in executive acts and in judicial procedure, on the Ohio river. The courts of Indiana have universally exercised this jurisdiction. The old territorial legislatures and territorial courts exercised this concurrent jurisdiction. The constitution of Indiana makes it a part of our fundamental law, and in all these years there never has been the slightest deviation from this principle. Property rights have been determined; questions of civil liberty decided; the accused have been indicted, convicted and sentenced to imprisonment and to death by virtue of this concurrent jurisdiction. The courts of the United States, the courts of at least fifteen states in the Union including Indiana, where similar provisions prevail, have held to this doctrine of concurrent jurisdiction civil and criminal, upon boundary streams. Kentucky stands alone of all the contrary doctrine.

"Concurrent jurisdiction between Kentucky and Indiana was guaranteed before Indiana became a territory. It was guaranteed by the 'Virginia Compact,' of 1789. By that compact the General Assembly of Virginia provided that Kentucky might be erected into an independent state upon certain conditions, one of which was that 'Kentucky should have concurrent jurisdiction on the Ohio river with the states which may possess the opposite shores of the said river.' Thus, before Kentucky was brought into statehood, the right of concurrent jurisdiction was forever ceded to the states on the northern boundary of Ohio.

Kentucky, in 1791 was admitted into the union, and accepted the 'Virginia compact.' That compact has been ratified by all the constitutions adopted by Kentucky since that date. The supreme court of the United States have said that compact is forever binding upon Kentucky, and upon the states north of the Ohio river, and is as inviolable as the constitution itself.

And even this honorable court formerly held that concurrent jurisdiction entitled Indiana to as much legislative, executive and judicial power as that possessed by Kentucky, over so much of the Ohio river as flows between them.

"What will be the effect if the decision of this court shall stand and is respected by the courts in the states north of the Ohio river? It means that no officer can serve process or arrest a felon, and that no court can adjust the rights of any litigant where service of process or arrest is made on the surface of the Ohio river below low-water mark on the Indiana side; that the Ohio river will be left open to marauders and thieves; that the police forces in the cities on the northern shore of the Ohio river will be rendered helpless to arrest, and the courts powerless to convict any person who may commit any depredation upon the Ohio river, from the offense of petit larceny to the crime of murder; that all of the Indiana cities, towns and farms along the Ohio river will be left open to river thieves, without either right of pursuit, arrest or punishment if arrested."

Quality

It is the high quality of Royal Baking Powder that has established its great and world-wide reputation.

Every housewife knows she can rely upon it; that it makes the bread and biscuit more delicious and wholesome—always the finest that can be baked.

It is economy and every way better to use the Royal, whose work is always certain, never experimental.

Never experiment with so important an article as the human food

There are many imitation baking powders, made from alum. They may cost less per pound, but their use is at the cost of health.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 100 WILLIAM ST., NEW YORK.

The 157th.

The second annual reunion of the 157th regiment, was held yesterday at Fort Wayne, closing with a campfire in the evening, at the Princess Rink. The The seats on the stage were reserved for the members of the regiment, while the rest of the vast room was packed with friends and visitors. Many were unable to gain admittance. The first speaker was Gov. Mount and then Chaplain Medbury, followed by Corporal Tanner and by Col. Bryan. All the speeches were of course non partisan and fitting the occasion. The meeting was every way a success and very gratifying to the boys.

The officers for next year, are, Col. J. M. Studebaker, president; Capt. J. F. Lahnum, vice-president; Serg. Morton Hilkey, secretary; Capt. C. A. Greene, Treasurer; Chas. S. Medbury, chaplain; Lieut. P. A. Thompson, historian. Studebaker, Medbury and Thompson were re-elected unanimously.

The next meeting will be in Auburn this place being the unanimous choice. It will be in September 1901, but the date is to be fixed by the Auburn people.

The comrads and officers of the 157th desire all members to join the association. They can do this by sending their names to the treasurer, C. A. Greene at Ligonier, and the fee, which is 25 cents. This is payable each year, and goes to keep up the expenses of the association, to relieve the sick and bury the dead.

September Licenses.

Since September 1, the following marriage licenses have been issued at the office of the county clerk:

Leroy White and Mary E. Bradfield; Frank Reesch and Anna Masters; John W. Thomas and Berthe Lahnum; Emmet Phelps and Hannah Kruse; Chas. W. Siebold and Myra VanAuken; Clarence Shoemaker and Iva Moore; J. C. Freeland and Elcesta M. Martin; Francis Dilgard and Edna Pausler; Alton Hathaway and Leeta VanZile; Wm. L. Hess and Florence L. Britsius; Thomas Hedglein and Bessie Woodford; Jesse F. Shultz and Osta M. Brand; Frank V. Hadley and Elizabeth Camp; Frank Federspiel and Mary Male; Wm. Kruse and Anna E. Smith; Charles Murphy and Catharine Keep. Fred Booth and Catherine Rigby.

For Criminal Libel.

The Goshen Court is liable to have a sensation. County Attorney Lou W. Vail has brought an action for criminal libel against W. H. Ragan and Walter S. Gard, publishers of the Goshen Times charging them with maliciously defaming his character while he was a candidate for judge on the Republican ticket. The charge was made by implication that Vail offered a public official a $700 bribe to secure the payment of a bill out of the county treasury. The defendents have given bonds in $300 each.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY.

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. E. W. Grove's signature is on each box. 25c

A Pioneer Romance.

Barnhart Learner, aged 92 years, a Howard county pioneer, is dead. His wife, aged 87 years, died recently. Their life contained a remarkable romance, tinged with tragedy. When a young man Barnhart Learner and Ephraim Bates were intimate friends. They married young women who were intimate friends, settled on adjoining claims, erected log cabins and became close neighbors. In 1849 Learner and Bates got the gold fever, went to California, prospered and at the end of two years, when ready to return home Bates met with a fatal accident. Learner nursed and buried him, and then started for his home in Indiana. Arriving there, Learner found that his (Learner's) wife had died at about the time that Bates did, from the effect of a fire, and that Mrs. Bates had tenderly nursed her, and had since cared for the Learner children. Two years later in 1853, Learner married Mrs. Bates, and they lived happily together for 40 years, rearing the Learner and Bates children to honorable men and women, among whom are J. W. Learner, a prominent manufacturer, and Dr. A. J. Bates, both of this city.—Bluffton Banner.

Uncle Sam Must Pay.

Claims aggregating $2,200,000 or more have arisen in connection with the efforts made, principally in Hawaii, to prevent the bubonic plague from securing a foothold in this country and its outlying possessions by burning down a considerable part of the Japanese and Chinese quarter, where it was thought the disease might find lodgement. Two thousand Japanese residents are said to have lost their homes, furniture and practically all their belongings. Their loss is estimated at $300,000. The Chinese loss was estimated at $2,000,000.

The Japanese consul-general to Hawaii first brought the matter to the attention of the Hawaii authorities, asking that the losses incurred by Japanese be reimbursed to them. President McKinley gave the necessary authority to Governor Dole to appoint a commission of five members to pass upon all claims of this nature, but on objection of the claimants this fell through. The authorities here feel that it is a matter which Hawaii should adjust, and moreover there is no fund availing under which the United States government could pay for such losses. The subject is under consideration, however, and it is hoped that some means may be adopted by co-operation between Washington and Honolulu for adjusting the matter.

Democratic Caucus.

The democrats last Saturday nominated Miles Baxter for trustee, John Troesh for assessor, John Kruse for Justice, Constables; John Kruse and Ketel.

Supervisors: District No. 2, Henry Fulk; No. 3, Ira Gostechius; No. 4, Emmet Kosht; No. 5, James Sherwood.

Advisory board: Arnold Blodgett, A. W. Madden and George King.

WILL BE AN AGE OF FRUIT

WORLD'S FOOD SUPPLY MAY BE DOUBLED IN THE NEXT DECADE.

The Importance of this Food Supply Upon Our National Diet Will Be of Interest to Those Studying Man's Physiology.

We are just on the threshold of developing the world's crop of fruits. In the temperate zones the grains, cereals, and cattle have reached a higher stage of evolution than any other products; but the day for the fruits of the tropics is dawning. From South and Central America, from equatorial Africa, and from the lands of the Orient streams of tropical fruits will in the near future pour into Europe and America in return for the cereals, meats and products of the colder climes. Under modern agricultural methods, an abundance of fruits for the whole world can be raised in these warm regions at a cost so low that none need be so poor as to go without them.

The importance of this change of food supply upon our national diet will be of interest to those engaged in the physiological study of the civilized man. With rich, nourishing tropical fruits so cheap, our meat diet, among the poor at least, must decline. The effect upon the physical and mental characteristics of the race will be interesting. One of the chief drawbacks to the more rapid spread of vegetarianism is said to be due to the insufficient variety of our common fruits and vegetables. The cultivation and development of the fruit crops of the tropics by white settlers must inevitably tend to remove this restriction.

Fruit culture in the tropics is at present in the most primitive stage; except in a few notable instances these tropical products are grown just as nature first produced them. Little or no attempt has been made to double the yield or to improve the quality. The policy of the native farmers has been to do no more than was actually necessary. In view of the changes in tropical geography of the world wrought by recent wars, the question of the future of the agriculture and horticulture of these lands is rapidly assuming great importance. If the possibilities of the soil and climate under improved culture and the application of farming implements and machinery are all that leading scientists claim, the world's food supply ought to be doubled and tripled in the next decade or two.

According to scientific horticulturists, these improvements will be along two lines. The first will be the improvement and development of the soil so that its utmost capacity can be measured. As in the north, the earth will be fed and not simply robbed of its fertility. An acre of pineapples, bananas, or cocoanuts under a good system of culture should produce twice as many fruits as it does today. Modern machinery and farm implements will help the crops in thus utilizing the fertility that has been buried in the subsoil for thousands of years. The loosening of the top soil, and the consequent freeing of the imprisoned nitrogen, should stimulate the growth of the trees and plants so that they will assume a greater size and productivity.

But while intensive methods of agriculture and horticulture in the direct line of cultivating the soil will have marvellous effects, the greatest improvements are looked for in the improvement of the plants and products by careful selection, hybridization and grafting. Our horticulture owes much to these simple processes. The white men have brought from the tropics plants which have been adapted to cold climates. If the same methods are employed to improve the tropical plants in their own homes the results must be even greater. This has already been demonstrated in the banana, cocoanut, pineapple and orange groves of South and Central America. The new plantations of cocoanut trees in Central America are not only producing larger crops than the old ones, but the nuts are far superior in size and quality.

An American syndicate operating fruit farms in Central America has already shipped an improved variety of pineapple north that almost equals the famous London hothouse pineapples. The bananas are so susceptible to improvement that horticulturists do not hesitate to predict that they will soon be produced twice the size of those now imported. But the quality as well as the size is considered. The development of the "lady finger" bananas is now in course of rapid progress, and this delicate fruit will have a flavor in the future that will be beyond compare.—Scientific American.

A Precise Reply.

In the course of an assault case heard at a provincial court the other day, defendant was asked his trade.

"I drive a 'bus," was the reply.

"You mean," suggested the precise solicitor on the other side, "that you drive the horses attached thereto?"

"Very well, if you would rather have it put in that way," replied defendant.

Shortly afterward, in the course of his cross-examination, the same solicitor asked defendant:

"Did you, or did you not, strike the prosecutor in the face?"

Defendant, after a thoughtful pause, convulsed the court with the following:

"Well, now I come to think, there's a doubt about it. I was under the impression that I did strike prosecutor on the face, but perhaps it would be as well to say that I struck him on the nose attached thereto!"—Tid-Bits.

Unlucky Days For Weddings.

Anxious Reader.—We cannot name the unlucky days to be married on. Some men say 365.—Philadelphia Record.

ADVICE FOR SCRIBBLERS.

Charles Dudley Warner's Warning to Those Who Think They Can Write.

"A little trumpeting at the start has ruined many a promising writer," says Charles Dudley Warner in Success. "It usually happens in this way: A young man or woman writes something that sounds well. It is praised by the young person's friends. The composition goes to an editor. Perhaps it is printed. Again the friends shower their praises. The youthful author feels that his reputation is made and that very little hard work is before him.

"Never was a greater mistake made. Few people realize that literature is a trade and an art. The trade must first be mastered. There are mechanical rules to be learned and utilized, just as much as in any manual work. To go through the period of appenticeship in the trade, then develop into an artisan, and finally become a real artist, requires a long, steady and oftentimes discouraging struggle. Nearly every person who can write a good letter thinks himself perfectly competent to write a story for a magazine, and, indeed, much above penning a communication to a first-class newspaper. Little does that person appreciate that the gulf between him and the real writer is almost immeasurable.

"But it is, and this fact must be burned into the brain of everyone who wants to do great writing. Work, work, work, is the only rule. Write, and keep on writing, and never think what you have written amounts to much unless you have worked at it a very long time. Even then you should be your most severe critic.

"I do not think much of the new writers as a class. So much is being written that most of it must necessarily be poor. Literature is being commericialized so rapidly that little first class work can be expected. Genius cannot be created by offerings of so much a word. A few year's work on a daily newspaper forms the best training for a writer. There the young man or woman gets very close to the world. It becomes possible to know what people of all classes are thinking of and how they look at things. A newspaper reporter should make his every story the very best he is capable of writing, so that each will be at least a little better than the one that went before it. He should write with the same care he would exercise if he were writing something to which he was to sign his name. Meantime outside reading must not be omitted by him. In fact, it is very important. The newspaper is liable to work very harmful results unless there is a flow of light from the best writers constantly illuminating the mind of the young people. If a reporter is working in a large city, where schools and colleges are available, he should seek to take some work in one of these. Then he will have a practiced hand to guide his reading.

"As to rules for writing, the best one I have ever known is this: 'Never write anything, if possible to avoid it, in the same way it has been done before. Shun hackneyed phrases. If a writer sticks to this he is very soon likely to have a style of his own. But above all things else, don't rush into print."

The Climate of Saghalien.

Saghalien, off the eastern coast of Siberia, presents a very curious anomaly of climate. The island is bathed by two cold ocean currents and in winter nothing protects it against the icy northwest winds coming from Siberia. At the sea level the snow falls continually and stays on the ground till the end of May, and the seashore is very cold. Farther inland, however, especially as we go higher up, the climate is modified—just the opposite to what is observed elsewhere. It has often been observed in Siberia and in central Europe that in winter the cold is greater in the plains and valleys, and that the highlands have a sensibly milder temperature; it is as if the denser cold air accumulated in the lowlands.

The cold air accumulates in the low regions of the island, and on the coast the higher regions have a more elevated temperature. So it happens that the lower parts have an arctic vegetation, while the intermediate altitudes have the vegetation of a temperate zone, sometimes sub-tropical. The birch, the ash, the pine, the fir abound in the low regions and form often impenetrable forests, but toward the centre of the island appear bamboos, hydrangeas, zaleas, and other plants that one is greatly surprised to meet, and whose presence can be explained only by the altogether abnormal climatic conditions of the island. —Newcastle (England) Chronicle.

The Poor Cobbler's Choice.

"They say Italians are cruel to their beasts," writes a correspondent lately in Tuscany. "But I beg you to consider the following true history: There is a cobbler in the Via della Dogana, Florence. His shop is a hole in the wall. The dreadful ciappacan (dog catchers) who were appointed to net stray dogs, and are rewarded by the municipality in ratio to capture, caught the cobbler's little cur—who would have been killed if not brought back. The dog was intrinsically not worth a penny, but the poor man loved him. To save his canine friend he found that he must pay nine francs, and to make up such an enormous sum he was obliged to pawn his bedclothes. It was cold afterwards at night without them. But what matter? His little dog was safe and with him."

Miniature Indian corn grows in Brazil. The ears are about the size of a little finger and the grains are as small as mustard seed.—Pittsburg Post.

The amount of cheese imported by Great Britain from Canada was less by $2,000,000 in 1898 than in the preceding year.

POOR PLACE FOR THESPIANS.

Thespian—Methinks we had better omit our performance at Hayville to-night. This paper says eggs are selling there at 5 cents a dozen and tomatoes are rotting on the vines.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

TOLD OVER A WAR TROPHY.

Public Interest Shown in Spanish Gun at Lincoln Park, Chicago.

The Spanish trophy gun, the Maria Teresa, in Lincoln Park, Chicago, continues to be an attraction to citizens and strangers. The gun itself is merely an ordinary modern engine of war, such as are employed in warship armament, but the association of the Maria Teresa with the naval battle off Santiago in July, 1898, and its mute story of the prowess and skill of the American navy gives the gun a sort of prestige which it otherwise would not have. And not only that, but it tells for itself and for Spain that Spanish ordnance is far from being mediaeval in pattern, strength or projectile-throwing power. In fact, this particular gun and its mounting and equipment compares favorably with the latest improved heavy artillery of the nations.

But it is not so much the gun itself as the crowds that gather about it that interests the observer of men and things, says the Chicago Chronicle. It is the variety of facial expressions which the monster cannon causes that makes the study. It seems to be man's nature to enjoy whatever stirs his martial spirit, and Maria Teresa exerts a powerful influence in that direction and also in refreshing the memory of events of war that transpired long ago.

It is quite common to see two or three gray-haired men get into a conversation about the big gun, when one will recite an incident of the civil war in which heavy ordnance played a conspicuous part. Then another remembers incidents of his soldier days, and then almost unconsciously they move together slowly to a seat under a nearby tree and there fight their wars over again, each recounting his experiences, hair-breadth escapes and final return to the pursuits of peace. It was this big gun that revived their memories and started the veterans to the shade of a tree. That they were unacquainted before this was no matter, for they were bound by ties of comradeship, and the first connection of the great cannon with events of a third of a century ago was enough. No formal introduction was needed, nor did it matter in the least if one had worn the blue and the other the gray. It was the comradeship which battlefields create and it needed only this lone trophy gun to start its fires aglow.

Perhaps the most interesting visitors of the big gun are children. It is noticed that they feel as though they were in the presence of something dreadful, and the four mortars hard by, each weighing more than 17,000 pounds and capable of throwing a shell of more than 1,000 pounds' weight, only increases the awe of the youngsters. Children nearly always talk in a low voice while there and move about in pairs or in groups. They seem to catch the meaning of the gun and mortars and what they were made for. "This cannon is about as awe-inspiring to children as a graveyard," said a bystander as a little group walked around the gun, their eyes wide open.

There is a class of people who visit the mortars and the big gun and find just the kind of inspiration they want. They are young men who are ambitious to be soldiers and "face the cannon's mouth." Their imagination is whetted until they can see themselves sweeping across fields and charging over hills, and the war machinery there arouses all the martial spirit in them. They amuse veterans of the battlefield, but for all that "the big gun and the monster mortars teach them a lesson that is altogether wholesome," as an old soldier of many campaigns put it.

Then there are the peace-at-any-price visitor. The gun and the mortars to him are fiends, fiends from the under world incarnated in life-destroying agencies—agencies that destroy in anger. "That gun is a devil in steel, and its only business in the world is to deal death and destruction," said he to the group he was with, and he worked himself into a frenzy of anger over the awfulness of sentiments other than those of peace and good-will toward men.

A One-Man Road.

A Washington man who put in ten years of soldiering in the regular army of the United States was recently appointed a captain and assistant adjutant-general in the volunteer service, and he is now attached to the staff of Gen. Miles. He is a man of ability and great unpretentiousness.

A few days before he donned his uniform he went over to Fort McHenry, Baltimore, on official business. A War Department clerk went along with him. When the two men arrived at Fort McHenry, the new captain pointed to a long shell road that runs through the post.

"Do you see that road?" asked the captain. "Yes."

"Well, I made that whole road myself. It was as tough a job as I ever performed, and as bitter a period, but it did me a heap of good. I was serving with an artillery regiment, part of which was stationed here, and one night when I was on guard the officer of the day crept up on me unawares and found me sitting down on a pile of gunny sacks, neglecting my post. I got a general court-martial for neglect of duty of post, and was sentenced to six months in the guardhouse. My sentence tickled the old provost sergeant mightily, for he was in need of a steady prisoner to build that road. I built it, and crunched many a million oyster shells building it. I never find myself feeling chesty and high-and-mighty, and all that sort of thing, that I don't shut my eyes and think of this shell road over in Fort McHenry."—Washington Star.

Great Canals.

Probably the largest canal in the world—a distinction of some note in these days of wonderful engineering feats—is the Chenab Irrigation Canal in the Northwest provinces of India. Its breadth is 200 feet, with a main channel some 450 miles long, while the principal branches have an aggregate length of 2,000 miles, and the village branches will extend, when completed, some 4,000 miles additional. But, apart from irrigation, the longest canal in the world is that which extends from the frontier of China to St. Petersburg, and is 4,472 miles in length. The Bengal Canal, connecting with the River Ganges, is 900 miles long, and in all India there are 14,000 miles of canals, irrigating 8,000,000 of acres.

SPANISH GUN IN LINCOLN PARK, CHICAGO.

"Mrs. Wales and Daughters."

When in the country the Princess of Wales delights in making little expeditions incognito. An amusing and true story has just leaked out about one of these impromptu excursions at Sandringham. Her royal highness, with the two princesses, had driven a long distance from home in her favorite pony cart, and as lunch drew near they were glad to put up at a picturesque village inn. The landlord had his suspicions as to who his guests were, and after lunch had been served brought the visitors' book. Whereupon the princess, not to be outdone, made the following entry: "Mrs. Wales and two daughters."

A Curious Bird.

The kiwi hails from New Zealand, and is a rare bird. It is perfectly wingless, and not a sign of hair or feathers protects the eyes. This gives the kiwi a comical look. It is almost wholly nocturnal in its habits. Like the owl of the north the setting of the sun means the beginning of life to them. Then they hop about like rabbits. They are really the clowns of the fowl world.

Moving Stairways.

Two types of moving stairways for the Manhattan Elevated stations in New York City are to be put on trial shortly. One is a ramp consisting of an endless rubber band running over drums. In the other type regular steps will take the place of the nearly smooth incline, so that a passenger always stands on a level surface.

Not a Curve for 211 Miles.

The longest stretch of railway without a curve is 211 miles, from Buenos Ayres to the foot of the Andes, on the new Argentine Pacific Railway.

If a woman wants to work the tremulo stops on her husband, she should put on her prettiest dress when she does it. Nothing spoils the effect of tears quicker than a soiled wrappper.

MARRIAGE AT ST. JOE.

MICHIGAN'S GRETNA GREEN IS GROWING IN FAME.

Hundreds Go There from Chicago to Have the Nuptial Knot Tightly Tied—Business Plan of Conducting the Weddings.

St. Joseph, Mich., good old St. Joe, is earning fame of which it is not too proud. Marriage seems a great ordeal to many people, but, like everything else, it's easy when you know how, according to the Chicago Tribune. County Clerk John W. Needham, of Berrien County, Mich., has made it so. Before County Clerk Needham opened his matrimonial department store in St. Joe, Mich., people that wished to get married had to look forward to a great many things. There had to be a church and a popular organist who could play "O, Promise Me" on the lower bank of keys, with the tremolo stop clear out and hidden under the carpet. There had to be a maid of honor in pink tulle and six bridemaids also in pink tulle, and small sisters of the bride to scatter flowers in the aisle, and white ribbons to put around the seats and divide the sheep and goats, and carriages, and a reception and things to eat. County Clerk Needham of St. Joe has changed all this. He says so on the cards which he distributes to those contemplating matrimony. On the cards he says: "I atend to all the details. All you need furnish is the bride." County Clerk Needham says he prefers to have bridegrooms bring their own brides. Still, if worst came to the worst, and if a young man who wanted to get married real bad should go straying around St. Joe without a bride, County Clerk Needham would do the best he could for him and would probably find him one, although the County Clerk says frankly that he will not guarantee the temper or disposition of the brides he is called upon to furnish, and that positively no brides will be taken back or exchanged. County Clerk Needham has made of St. Joe, Mich., a Gretna Green that makes the old original one look a sort of faded yellow. At the home of County Clerk Needham a couple may go at almost any hour of the day or night, receive a license to be married, speak the fateful words, receive their certificates, and go out into the world man and wife, "for better—for worse," and the whole thing won't take fifteen minutes.

On Sundays and holidays, when couples are expected, the fateful steps can all be taken in less than three minutes, for on these days the County Clerk is sitting at his desk with a stack of marriage license blanks a foot high piled in front of him, and his pen already dripping with ink is poised over the paper ready for the fatal dab. A minister of the gospel is standing guard on one side of the clerk's desk ready to unite those who wish the approval of the church, and a justice of the peace is on the bridge on the larboard side of the clerk ready to steer those who wish a civil marriage into the matrimonial sea.

When a couple go to County Clerk Needham's house to be married they are wafted in at the front door without a moment's pause. The Justice of the Peace on the bridge has a view down the street from where he sits and he "sees 'em coming." The bride sits down, the groom goes out to the Clerk's desk, the blank spaces in the license are filled in, he chooses between the preacher and the Justice of the Peace, a hard matter, as they both look so wistful; hurries back to the parlor, followed by the County Clerk, who also serves as witness. The fateful words are spoken by the preacher or the J. P., whichever is chosen. The bride says "I do," the groom says "I do," the preacher or the J. P. says "I pronounce you man and wife," and the County Clerk turns around and says, "They're off." The couple are married, the groom pays $4 for everything, and the County Clerk bows them out and tells them to call again. That's the way they do it in St. Joe.

It is not hard to pick out the people on the boat who have marriage in their hearts. They sit close together all the way across and usually have little to say. They get on the boat early and secure seats removed from the mob. The mob pours on to the boat and hems the devoted couple in so they look disgusted and get up and hunt a new secluded place. This place is also ultimately carried by the enemy, and the young couples stand around the smokestack or lurk in remote corners and wonder how many people on the boat would ever guess that they were going to St. Joe to get married. Sometimes the couples are very mysterious even at the County Clerk's home and do not really want to give up their names even to put on the marriage license.

The fame of the town is spreading so rapidly that it is believed next season there will be a great increase in the number of pilgrimages to this shrine of Cupid.

RUSHING FOR THE SQUIRE'S OFFICE.

A Queer Old Geography.

Among the interesting old books and papers belonging to the late Edw. W. Wells of this city was a geography that lets in some light on the state of general information in the world a century and a half ago.

America is "the last quarter of the world" and the "north part of the continent is very little known." The map of North America gives all the region northwest of California as "parts unknown." The great lakes are down as Superior, Illinois, Huron, Erie and Frontenac. "N. England" is all one little patch reaching up to the St. Lawrence. Louisiana occupies most of the middle country. The "Oyo" river is the name of the Ohio. The chief town of New Jersey is said to be Elizabeth Town. The climate is thus explained: "In the north are vast unknown Mountains, perpetually covered with snow, from whence the Winds blowing the greatest part of the year these Countries become much colder than those in Europe in the same latitudes."

It is interesting to note that this work that is more than a century and a half old should advocate quite vigorously the construction of canals across the Panama and Suez isthmuses.—Hartford Courant.

Suspicious Liberality.

"It was a mean trick," said Jones, with a smile, "but I wanted my wife to come home, and it was the only way that I could think of to get her back. She went away about five weeks ago on a vacation and left me alone to get along as best I could. It wasn't long before I grew tired of the arrangement, tired of getting my meals downtown, tired of sending checks in reply to her demands for more money. Three days ago I received a letter asking me to send her $25 at once. It was then that my plan suggested itself. By return mail I sent her a check for double the amount that she had asked for, and inclosed it with a note that read: 'Don't hurry back.'

"It worked as I thought it would. My wife returned by the first train with a strange gleam of inquiry in her eyes and a set about her lips that bodes trouble for me if she confirms the horrible suspicions that she is laboring under. However, I have her at home, and I am not losing any sleep over what she may suspect."—Detroit Free Press.

THE WEDDING CEREMONY.

Who Knows, Indeed?

She wept.

"Oh, you editors are horrid," she sobbed.

"What is the trouble, madam?" inquired the editor, as he blue-penciled two paragraphs that had come as an inspiration to the young man who was "taking up journalism."

"Why, I—boo—hoo—I sent in an obituary of my husband, and—boo—hoo—and said in it that he had been married for twenty years, and you—oo—oo—boo—hoo—your printers set it up 'worried for twenty years.'"

She wept.

But the editor grinned.

Perhaps it was all right, all 'round.

Who knows?

One reason women enjoy company is that when there is company at dinner the husbands don't grumble if the meal doesn't suit them.

Writers of love stories speak of the heroine "drawing up her lissom figure," as if the girl opened out like a jack knife.

THE BEES AND THE TREES.

A Territory Mystery that is Puzzling at Least One Man.

Away back in the '50s there was a Shawnee Indian village on the South Canadian River about eighty-five miles west of South McAlester, but the old village has long since disappeared. On the spot where the young Shawnee buck sung his kiowala to his dusky maiden and courted his best girl by the light of the full moon, only an occasional rock hearth and a few graves are left to indicate the former hunting ground of the red man.

Near the old village site now lives a white man. Just on the border of this man's farm is a spot which seems to have been the thickest settled part of the Shawnee village, and here is a grove of black oak trees. In this grove are two very large post oak trees, one in the south and one in the north end of the grove. In the grove can be heard most any day the buzzing of a swarm of bees so plainly that the noise has fooled many old bee hunters, but all their search has never revealed a single bee.

Now comes the most peculiar part of this most peculiar tale. The large post oak tree standing at the north end of the grove is the curiosity of the bunch, for not long ago a young man hearing of the bees went to the spot and proceeded to look carefully up each tree in the grove until he came to the north oak. He was within two feet of this tree looking up when he heard a noise just like a carpenter at work nailing on boards and the noise seemed to come from the tree. He went around it several times trying to locate the hammering, but it still seemed to come from the tree, the hammering continued until he happened to touch the tree with his hand, when it suddenly stopped. The man then went away amazed. A day or so after this man had occasion to again pass that way. He slipped up to the tree and listened for the hammering, and sure enough, it was as plain as ever. He touched the tree with the end of his finger and as before the noise stopped at once. This man and several others have tried touching the tree several times since with the same results.

They say that the humming of bees and the curious hammering can be heard any day, but no one has been able to explain the mysteries of this enchanted grove.—Galveston News.

TOLD THE STORY.

Then the Boys Were Certain that He Was the Man.

In the life of Sir George Grey, one of England's explorers and statesmen, is a pleasant story of his meeting with some boys in the Natural History Museum at South Kensington. Lads and lassies were his delight.

"There is something in old age," he said, "that likes to have a young mind clinging to it." He took great pleasure in lingering at the museum and watching the stream of visitors. One day he saw half a dozen boys gathered about an interesting specimen. Presently they noticed Sir George, and a delegate approached with the request:

"Please, sir, can you tell us the name of this creature?"

Strangely enough, it was a specimen which he had sent home from Australia. He named it, and then the lad asked:

"Where did it come from?"

He told them that, and the next question came:

"Who killed it?"

A pucker gathered upon Sir George's face, and he hesitated, arguing with himself:

"If I tell them they'll think me an impostor, and perhaps discount the other information I've given them."

But the boy was waiting, and Sir George could only say: "Frankly, you know, I believe I killed it myself."

"Here, you fellow!" rang out the lad's merry voice. "He says he killed it! Did you ever!"

The other boys left the animal to stare at what they considered even a greater curiosity. They formed a half-circle about him. "Oh, yes," said Sir George, "it's quite true. Now, if you'll listen I'll tell you the whole story, and then you can decide for yourselves."

He began, and their amused incredulity vanished. They listened breathlessly, and when he finished, hats and caps were off, and they chorused: "Thank you, sir!"

It was a memorable afternoon.

A Natural Conclusion.

The Philadelphia Record prints an amusing story of the late President William H. Allen of Girard College and a lady of more inquisitiveness than intelligence. On one occasion a business matter called Mr. Allen to a small town in the central part of Pennsylvania. While sitting in the parlor of the country hotel in the evening, after transacting his business, he was taken in hand by the wife of the proprietor, who wanted to know all about his private affairs.

Mr. Allen took it all in good part, and for a time was rather amused. Finally she asked:

"Have you much of a family?"

"Oh, yes," said he, and he smiled as his mind reverted to his hundreds of pupils.

"How many children?" she persisted.

"Well," said Mr. Allen, with great earnestness, "I have five hundred, and all boys!"

The good lady was speechless for a moment. Then she arose, and hurrying to the door, called softly to her husband:

"O, John, come in here! We've got Brigham Young stoppin' with us!"

What They Wear.

The Sultan of Turkey is always seen attired in pale brown garments; the Emperor of Austria affects gray. The young German Emperor has what may be called a loud taste in clothes, and is never so happy as when wearing the showiest of uniforms or hunting costumes; indeed, when attired in the latter he looks as though he had stepped out of Drury Lane pantomime; so extraordinary and fantastic is his get-up on these occasions. The Emperor of Russia, on the other hand, likes the simplest, darkest form of undress uniform, and he habitually wears that which became so familiar in all the photographs of his late father.—Chicago Tribune.

You can never tell how little a dude knows by the height of his collar.

ABSOLUTE SECURITY.

Genuine

Carter's Little Liver Pills.

Must Bear Signature of

Brent Good

See Fac-Simile Wrapper Below.

Very small and as easy to take as sugar.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS. FOR HEADACHE. FOR DIZZINESS. FOR BILIOUSNESS. FOR TORPID LIVER. FOR CONSTIPATION. FOR SALLOW SKIN. FOR THE COMPLEXION

GENUINE MUST HAVE SIGNATURE. Price 25 Cents. | Purely Vegetable. Brent Good

CURE SICK HEADACHE.

QUICK SIGHT AND QUICK WIT.

Clever Manner in Which a Railroad Manager Drilled His Employes.

Two incidents in the railroad life of Payson Tucker, a New England railroad manager, recently deceased, are being told that well illustrate what a worker he was and his attention to the details of business.

Several years ago when he was up on the mountain division of the Maine Central Road, and looked over the grounds of one of the stations. Nothing more than the usual conversation passed, and he returned to his car and went back to Portland. Nearly a year passed before he had occasion to call at the station again, and then he stepped off the car and asked pleasantly:

"Do you have all the help you want here?"

"Yes, sir; all that we need."

"Quite sure you have enough?"

"Yes, sir; there is not much to be done at so small a station."

"Well, I feared you were rushed to death and could not find time to remove that pile of old bricks I saw the last time I was here."

With that the general manager of the road stooped over the pile of bricks, and, without removing his kid gloves, continued the work until the last one was neatly piled up.

At another time a break had been committed at one of the stations on the back road, and the next day after the notice of the break had been wired to Portland, Mr. Tucker chanced to pass that way. After looking things over, Mr. Tucker asked what had been lost, and the agent quickly ran over the amount of money and tickets stolen.

"That all?" asked Mr. Tucker, when the agent had concluded.

"Yes, sir; nothing else."

"That so?" said Mr. Tucker, taking in the untidy appearance of the room and station at a glance. "I feared some one had stolen your broom. Perhaps you have not missed it; I will send you one."

If you are in a hurry for breakfast, make it easy for your wife, take home Mrs. Austin's famous pancake flour.

Obeyed His Instructions.

A certain charming young lady is visiting friends on Topeka avenue. She graduated recently from Kansas University, and is still in her teens. The other evening she was having a tete-a-tete on the porch with the youngster who is the eldest son of her hostess—when the subject of age was brought up.

"And how old are you?" the little fellow asked.

"How old would you think?" came the reply, and to the young lady's amusement and his mother's discomfiture the boy promptly replied:

"Twenty-five."

His mother then told him that whenever he was asked to guess a young woman's age he must say "16."

Sunday night a few friends of the Topeka avenue hostess came up. Again the conversation drifted to age. This time the youngster thought he would be all right, so when asked to guess the age of one of the young women, he replied: "I guess you are 16, but you look older than mamma."—Topeka Capital.

Hint to the Meager.

She—It is gentle woman's part to lean.

He—Yes; but she ought not to be too lean.—Somerville Journal.

DROPSY

One of the most dangerous and repulsive forms of Kidney Disease is for which Dodd's Kidney Pills are the only certain cure. In Dropsy the Kidneys are actually dammed up, and the water, which should be expelled in the form of urine, flows back and lodges in the cells of the flesh and puffs out the skin. Remove the filth which plugs up the drain. Restore the Kidneys to health. There is only one Kidney Medicine—

Dodd's Kidney Pills.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

WORDS.

Words are great forces in the realm of life;
Be careful of their use. Who talks of hate,
Of poverty, of sickness, but sets rife
These very elements to mar his fate.

When love, health, happiness and plenty hear
Their names repeated over day by day,
They wing their way like answering fairies near,
Then nestle down within our homes to stay.

Who talks of evil conjures into shape
That formless thing, and gives it life and scope.
This is the law; then let no word escape
That does not breathe of everlasting hope.

—Ella Wheeler Wilcox in the Woman's Home Companion.

Bridget's Blueing Bottle.

BY MARGARET JOHNSTON MERRILL.

"Dear Jim:—Cousin Clara has another bad spell, and I have been sent for this morning, so I must go to her. We had all our arrangements made to return to the city tomorrow, but this changes our plans. Fred was obliged to go last week to attend to business, and cannot be back here this season. Can't you manage to spend your nights here until I return, which will be in two weeks? Little Mabel asked if I would get Uncle Jim to stay in the house at nights. Bridget is a capable, intelligent girl; and is quite willing to stay alone with Mabel; and Mabel wished to stay with her rather than go with me; so, you see, my Bridget is a jewel. Do not give her any trouble if you come. I believe she does not care to have young men in the house. Please answer as soon as possible.

"Your loving sister,

"FLORENCE."

"Dear Florence:—I will try to give your paragon, Bridget, no trouble. But how about me? If she wakes me up at 4 o'clock, thumping up and down stairs, I suppose I am to consider it no trouble. Where did you pick up the jewel? But I will not teaze you—I shall spend every night at your house until your return, and I shall keep out of Bridget's sight. Don't overwork taking care of Clara.

"BROTHER JIM."

"How good Jim is!" mused Mrs. Campbell, upon reading this letter. "Now I leave the house without anxiety."

"Will Uncle Jim stay here nights, mamma?" asked a little girl of seven.

"Yes, dear. It may be you won't often see him, as he will probably come late. But Bridget will allow you to wait up tonight till he comes. Tell him that many things were packed up and sent to town, so he must excuse the condition of the place. I forgot to speak of this in my letter to him. Now, good-by, darling. I must go to poor Clara."

That evening, as Jim Hamilton entered his sister's summer cottage, his name was joyfully called by Mabel. As he passed into the sitting-room, he was conscious of a retreating figure at another door.

"Say, Uncle Jim, mamma says to tell you she's sorry so many things are sent to town; but I like to live this way. Bridget is so good and funny, I don't get lonesome."

"I dare say she's funny. I knew an old woman named Bridget, who was very funny, and she wore the funniest caps—"

"Oh, our Bridget isn't like that! She's as pretty as mamma. And now, Uncle Jim, won't you write the words of that song for me? You promised to. Bridget can play it, but she hasn't the words."

Jim laughed.

"It's good that you are not a musical critic; probably anything in the shape of noise suits you for a tune."

"No; it does not. Bridget can play better than you," was the answer.

"Well, get me pen and ink, and I'll write the words," he said.

"The ink is gone, and I used the last pencil all up this afternoon; there's only the little one Bridget has on the string to mark the account book. I can get that."

"No. I don't want a greasy kitchen pencil. I'll see if I can find any kind of a marker in my pocket."

He found nothing, as he had lent his pencil to a boy on the car who failed to return it.

"Better go to bed, Mabel. If I find one anywhere tonight, I'll come in early in the morning and write out your song. Good-night, dearie."

Jim found no pencil; but before going out next morning he went into the sitting-room to take another look. A bluing bottle was on the table and a part of its contents poured out into a small glass. A note addressed to himself lay beside it. He read:

"I have before now used liquid bluing as a substitute for ink, and found it very good. BRIDGET."

"That writing does not remind me of my old Bridget. Yet this girl is probably fresh from the old country, and these Irish are uncommonly fine writers," thought he.

The bluing answered his purpose admirably. On the bottom of Bridget's note he wrote:

"I thank you very much for your suggestion. J. E. HAMILTON."

In the evening he managed to get in somewhat earlier than before. The same vanishing shadow was seen as he came into the sitting-room. For six consecutive evenings this was repeated, and his curiosity was aroused. He could no longer doubt Bridget's musical ability. Mabel could already play the air of the song under her instructions; and he at length expressed a desire to see her.

"Can't you ask Bridget to stay in the sitting-room until I come in tomorrow evening?" he asked.

"I don't believe she would stay. She doesn't care about men—I mean not as much as she does about little ones. If she knew you, I'm sure she would like you. Can't you come in for supper? Then she would have to see you."

"No, no! I do not want to give her any trouble. I owe her my thanks for not pounding up and down stairs at 4 o'clock, as my Bridget did."

"Uncle Jim, I do wish you'd stop talking like that. You must see Bridget," said Mabel, excitedly.

"Thank you. I can live if I do not see her, but it would be interesting to hear her talk. Immigrants are always amusing."

Mabel did not know what immigrants were, but felt that Uncle Jim would not mention them if they were not nice, so she was satisfied that he meant nothing really disrespectful toward her Bridget.

Next evening he came earlier than ever, but the figure was gone before he had crossed the threshold.

"Mabel," he asked, "do you and Miss Bridget ever go to the lake after supper?"

"Yes, sometimes. We are to go soon again and bring our supper with us. You see, Cousin Clara is better, so mamma will be home in three days, and we shall go to town."

"Then I'll tell you what I can do. I will meet you at the lake after supper. Do not tell Bridget of this. I can carry your lunch basket home. Is that satisfactory?"

"Yes, it's grand! I shan't say a word to Bridget, and I'll introduce you to her myself."

As Jim Hamilton approached the lake shore next evening he saw a graceful figure seated upon the rustic bench. Mabel was playing near and immediately went toward the lady.

"Where's Bridget?" he whispered.

"Here," answered Mabel, taking him by the hand. "This is Uncle Jim, Miss Bridget Loftus," she said breathlessly, fearing that Bridget might escape. "Uncle Jim will carry the basket and the stones and shells I picked up," she added in a coaxing tone to Bridget.

Mr. James Edwin Hamilton was not a conceited man, neither was he self-conscious. Yet at this moment he felt more foolish than a school boy in the presence of a new teacher. He stood hat in hand, bowing politely, scarcely knowing what to say, and wondering if she had heard his rejection of the greasy kitchen leadpencil. At length he stammered:

"It was very kind of you to give me the writing fluid, Miss Loftus."

He could not bring himself to say "bluing bottle" to this refined, ladylike woman.

"I had found the bluing good in more ways than one, so it was only right that I should recommend it when I had allowed Mabel to waste the pencils," she replied.

They returned to the house. Jim did not intrude further upon Bridget then, but asked permission to come early the following evening to sit with her and Mabel.

"I am going away in a few days. Tomorrow will be my last visit here this year," he explained.

Bridget did not disappear as he entered the room next evening. He brought a new book for Mabel, in which she was soon engrossed.

"Miss Loftus," he said, "will you pardon my asking a question? Why do you insist upon calling yourself Bridget?"

"It is my name. I was named for my Aunt Bridget, one of the best women I ever knew, and I would not exchange for any other name."

"You are right," was the hearty answer. There was a mystery about this cultivated woman, and he would try to have it solved. "Does your aunt live near you?"

"She is not living now. Our home was in Rochester. My parents died when I was very young, and Aunt Bridget took me. She was a member of the Society of Friends (or Quakers). She did not object to her name; neither do I mine."

"You have no need, Miss Loftus. But I did not understand before. And now let me ask one question more: Why do you choose this kind of life when you can command a very different position? Excuse my plainness."

"Certainly," she answered. "My reason is this: While my aunt lived I had the hope of making music my means of living; so in school I did not take up all the branches necessary for those who make school teaching their profession. Aunt died suddenly, before my musical course was completed. With her died the income, and I was left with about two thousand dollars on hand. I knew I must do something, and my knowledge of housekeeping was good. I took a housekeeper's place, and have more time to prepare for teaching than I could have had if I had begun giving lessons to beginners. I want to be as nearly perfect as I can before attempting to teach music. My aunt conscientiously taught me to work and I am thankful to be able. In another year I shall be legally qualified for school teaching. Then I can go on with my music and finally make it my life work."

* * * * * *

A year from that time Bridget Loftus was duly enrolled upon the teaching staff of her native city. Mrs. Campbell rejoiced in her success, and told her brother than Bridget was the bravest woman she had ever known, "and I said so a year ago," she added.

Jim smiled. He was not given to speech when Bridget was the subject.

This year the Campbells are again in their summer home, expecting company.

"Here they are, mamma!" calls Mabel. Uncle Jim, and dear Aunt Bridget! And listen, Aunt Bridget! I've kept the bluing bottle all this time, just because it made you and Uncle Jim first know about each other."—Waverley Magazine.

There are 20,000 different kinds of butterflies.

GREAT STRASBURG CLOCK.

Some Facts Concerning the Remarkable Timepiece of the Present Day.

Rabbi Mayer talked to the pupils of the Central High School yesterday morning at their weekly entertainment of "The Strasburg Clock." The Rabbi is a fine speaker and held the closest attention of his audience during his talk. The clock is one of the oldest in the world, dating back as early as the middle of the fourteenth century. It is in a way, however, like the old doll that has had a new head at one time, new arms at another, and finally an entire new body, but still remained the same doll. The clock itself is the third one that has been placed in the cathedral. The first one kept its place for about 200 years, when something got out of order, and as no one could fix it, it was taken down; the second one occupied the opposite side of the transept from the present one.

This last one is only about seventy-five years ago. The most remarkable thing about this clock is that it is self regulating. On New Year's or St. Sylvester's eve, as it used to be called, there is a great whirring and buzzing in the old clock, and when this has ceased the clock is regulated. It used to be that on St. Sylvester's eve the good people of Strasburg would gather by the thousands when the old clock readjusts itself for another year's work, and look up in awed silence at this wonderful masterpiece, almost divine to them. But the crowds grew so dense each year that the gatherings were finally prohibited.

There are six tiers of the clock's structure. The first tier, or face, shows the sun and stars in a firmament of blue. These move as do the stars in the heavens. On the second tier is the chariot of the sun, which makes its circuit once in every twenty-four hours. On the third tier is the clock itself, much smaller than its great setting. Above this are two chubby little angels belonging to the Renaissance period and looking strangely out of place among their majestic surroundings. One of the angels holds an hourglass in his hand and the other a hammer. Still above these is a dial plate, which represents the days, weeks and months. Above this is a skeleton representing Death, and past this figure pass hourly four others, one at each quarter of the hour, the first one infancy, the second childhood, and third middle age and the fourth old age. The clock strikes as each figure passes. When the child appears the angel below does the striking with his hammer. Youth, manhood and old age each strike a note as they pass by, and when the hour is ended the second angel down below slowly turns his hourglass over in his hands.

On the next tier stands an image of Jesus surrounded by the twelve apostles. These appear but once a day, just at 12, when each passes slowly before the Master, and He raises His hand and blesses them.

After these have disappeared there is revealed the oldest existing part of the clock, and that is the great rooster, that appears and makes the harsh and discordant noise supposed to be a crow. It has probably looked down upon the streets below for some 500 years.—Kansas City Star.

Forgot Her Wedding Day.

The married man was hurrying down the steps from the elevated station; the other man, the friend who had stood by him as best man six years before, was hurrying up the same steps. Necessarily they met.

"You're just the one I wanted to see," said he, who was going down. "We are going to have a few friends in to dinner on our anniversary evening and we want you to come. You will, won't you?"

"Of course I will," and the one rushed on up to his train and the other hurried down to the street.

But on the evening when the two or three friends came in to celebrate, the best man who was didn't put in an appearance.

"It's very strange. You are quite sure you told him to come?" asked the wife of the married man.

But he was so sure on that score that the mystery remained unexplained.

"I never knew him to forget an engagement," sighed the woman, as she looked at the vacant chair, and thought how nicely she might have filled it had she but known in time that he was not coming.

The next evening, however, found her resentful. "It seems to me," she said, "that he might have let us know by this time if anything detained him."

Just then the bell rang and then in came the delinquent. "What was the matter, and why didn't you come?" were the remarks that greeted him.

"Come? Why, I have come."

"O, but last night was the anniversary night."

"No such thing, it's to-night."

And it was. This is the first case on record of a woman forgetting the day on which she was married.—New York Sun.

A Peculiar Girl.

"That Miss Bradish is one of the most peculiar girls I ever saw. She and I met in Florida last winter, and we've been very good friends ever since—until a couple of weeks ago. Now she barely speaks to me. I can't account for it. We were talking one evening about clever women. We both agreed that talented women are seldom beautiful."

"You probably made some break that she didn't like."

"No, I was careful about that, and she showed no sign of her unaccountable coldness until I asked her whether, if she could have her choice, she would prefer to be talented or beautiful. She never answered the question, and has been different toward me ever since. Most peculiar girl I ever saw."—Chicago Times-Herald.

The average watch is composed of 175 different pieces.

KNOWS THE RESTAURANT FOLK.

This Is Why the Man About Town Lives on the Fat of the Land.

"I know a dear old boy," said a man about town, "who for the last twenty years or more has eaten at restaurants of—well, say, the upper middle class—I mean the best grade under the swells. Naturally he has picked up a lot of crafty tricks and it is very amusing to take a meal in his company. The last time I did so he studied the bill for a moment and then said suddenly: 'Waiter, what kind of fish was it that you ran out of last night?' 'Tenderloin of trout,' replied the garcon, looking surprised. 'Then bring me some,' said my friend. 'It's certain to be fresh,' he explained in an undertone. 'Fish that are left over are always worked off first.'

"On another occasion he was ordering a beefsteak and was very particular to tell the waiter to bring him some 'half-Julienne' potatoes. 'Half-Julienne,' if you are not up in restaurant lingo, means a sliced potato of a size between 'Julienne' and 'French fried.' 'You see, the half cut is very seldom ordered,' he said, when I asked for particulars, 'and the cook will be obliged to prepare my portion fresh. The other sizes, on the contrary, are called for so frequently that they make up a lot in advance and merely warm them over before sending them out. I am not especially partial to half Julienne, but I don't like my potatoes half cold.' Of course, the restaurants have tricks of their own, but it is hard to fool the old boy.

"I was with him another time when he ordered some soft-shelled crabs, and insisted upon seeing that they were alive before they were cooked. The waiter brought in two fine fellows, wriggling in moss, on a plate. While his attention was momentarily diverted my companion pinched off one of the claws and put it under his napkin. When the crabs were served no member was missing. 'Waiter,' said the old boy, 'here's a crab that has grown a new leg since I saw him last. I'm afraid he's too vigorous to be tender. Tell the chef to guess again.' Next time we got the right pair."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

A Polish Prince in Paris.

A Polish prince, who lives in a splendid house on the Avenue du Bois de Boulogne, Paris, used to be set down by his acquaintances as a miser, because he never entertained. Last winter fifty of his friends were astonished by an invitation from him to dinner. They went, and sat down to a magnificent feast in a huge room, one end of which was covered by a great screen of white silk. Oysters were served on beds of powdered ice, when suddenly the electric lamps died away, and on a screen flashed out a living picture of women standing shivering knee-deep in freezing water, picking oysters from the rocks. With the fish course a smack was seen pitching so heavily that the guests cried in terror. "Oh, they will be drowned!" Men anw omen next appeared working in the vineyards on a wet, misty day, ankle-deep in gray slush. With every magnificent course fresh scenes of misery passed in silence before the saddened guests. The prince had revenged himself for their cruel remarks, but at an estimated cost of over $20,000.

Depreciation of Money.

In 1873 a silver dollar was worth one dollar and six-tenths in gold, and in 1896 forty-five cents. Money may depreciate, but there is one standard medicine, which has not changed in half a century, and that is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. It always has been the one remedy for indigestion, dyspepsia or kidney troubles.

Carrots Are Popular.

Perhaps the new claim made for the carrot will add to the popularity of that somewhat prosaic vegetable. It is said that not only is this a wholesome and sustaining article of food, but that when partaken of in the morning regularly and plentifully it has a beautifying effect, surpassing that of any compound sold at the beauty factories. Carrots make the skin smooth and clear, the eyes bright and the hair soft and luxuriant. "Carrotty hair" has been a term of derision, but under the new interpretation it is a thing of joy. Eat carrots and grow young is the motto of those who have discovered the hygienic merits of this lowly vegetable.

Your Poor Back

Aches and aches and aches. Every movement hurts. Standing, lying, sitting, walking, always aches. You may have relief if you will. Science knows why your back aches. Science has given the world Dodd's Kidney Pills. They never fail. Thousands who have doubted just as you do now, have tried and proven them. Their evidence you have. They say they have been cured. Many had tried everything else and given up hope. Many had been given up by the doctors. They say that they have been completely cured by the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills. You, too, may be cured. Do not suffer a moment longer. Be sure you get the genuine Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Wholly Unnecessary.

"My wife won't take a clock with us when we camp out."

"How do you tell when it's time for meals?"

"Oh, that's easy; we eat from morning till night."—Chicago Record.

Hall's Catarrh Cure

Is taken internally. Price 75 cents.

Poet's Love.

Tess—Young Aster, the poet, doesn't seem so fond of Dora since he met her cousin May.

Jess—No. It's much easier to write sonnets to May; there are so many more rhymes for her name.—Philadelphia Press.

Jell-O. The New Dessert,

pleases all the family. Four flavors:—Lemon, Orange, Raspberry and Strawberry. At your grocers. 10 cts.

Strictly Business.

Office Boy—The grocer is downstairs and wants to know why you didn't answer his letter about last month's bill.

Editor—Tell him he forgot to inclose a stamp.

Mrs. Austin's pancake flour is famous the world over. All grocers sell it.

Result of the Jam.

Hoax—What's the matter, old man? You look all cramped up.

Joax—I've just been calling on one of those artistic girls, and spent two hours in a cozy corner.—Philadelphia Record.

If you want the Best there is, tell your Job Printer to use Eagle Linen for your Letter Heads and Envelopes.

Moral—Dress Correctly.

It is said in England that the Ashanti trouble is due largely to the carelessness in matters of dress of the British representative, Sir Frederick Hodgson. When the chiefs met last March for a great "durbar," they came in all the glory of paint, beads and feathers, while the English official wore a shabby shooting costume without a medal or decoration of any kind. The chiefs were offended, thought him an impostor, and soon began to rise in revolt. It has been stated also in an English paper, that Baron Von Ketteler invited his early and tragic fate by appearing at the Tsung-li-Yamen in ordinary dress instead of official uniform. This was regarded as an insult, and deterred the Chinese officials from affording him the necessary protection.

BEST FOR THE BOWELS.

No matter what ails you, headache to a cancer, you will never get well until your bowels are put right. CASCARETS help nature, cure you without a gripe or pain, produce easy natural movements, cost you just 10 cents to start getting your health back. CASCARETS•Candy Cathartic, the genuine, put up in metal boxes, every tablet has C. C. C. stamped on it. Beware of imitations.

A Mere Amateur.

"Did Mr. Sloman really propose to you last night?" asked the first summer girl.

"Yes," replied the other. "He told me I was the only girl he had ever loved."

"The idea! What did you say to him?"

"Told him to go get a reputation, of course."—Philadelphia Press.

Nasal Catarrh quickly yields to treatment by Ely's Cream Balm, which is agreeably aromatic. It is received through the nostrils, cleanses and heals the whole surface over which it diffuses itself. Druggists sell the 50c. size; Trial size by mail, 10 cents. Test it and you are sure to continue the treatment.

Announcement.

To accommodate those who are partial to the use of atomizers in applying liquids into the nasal passages for catarrhal troubles, the proprietors prepare Cream Balm in liquid form, which will be known as Ely's Liquid Cream Balm. Price including the spraying tube is 75 cents. Druggists or by mail. The liquid form embodies the medicinal properties of the solid preparation.

Her Remark.

Husband—Didn't you tell that cook I wanted my breakfast right on the minute?

Wife—I did.

"And what did she say?"

"She said that we all have our disappointments."—Life.

Each package of PUTNAM FADELESS DYE colors either Silk, Wool or Cotton perfectly at one boiling.

In Music Circles.

Daughter—Papa, what did Liszt compose?

Father (groping)—I don't know unless it was "Liszten to the Mocking Bird." The name kinder sounds like it might be his.

Piso's Cure is the best medicine we ever used for all affections of the throat and lungs.—Wm. O. Endsley, Vanburen, Ind., Feb. 10, 1900.

The Modern Way.

Jasper—One is never too old to learn

Jumpuppe—O, that idea is out of date. The present idea is that one is never too young to teach.—Life.

The Manufacturers of Carter's Ink have had forty years' experience in making it and they certainly know how. Send for "Inklings," free.

It takes far less insight to discover defects than it does to discern noble and lovely qualities. "It requires a god to recognize a god."—Lilian Whiting.

What Do the Children Drink?

Don't give them tea or coffee. Have you tried the new food drink called GRAIN-O? It is delicious and nourishing, and takes the place of coffee. The more Grain-O you give the children the more health you distribute through their systems. Grain-O is made of pure grains, and when properly prepared tastes like the choice grades of coffee, but costs about ¼ as much. All grocers sel lit. 15c and 25c.

Don't get out of patience with a man because he can't see that he is blind to his own interests.

Lane's Family Medicine

Moves the bowels each day. In order to be healthy this is necessary. Acts gently on the liver and kidneys. Cures sick headache. Price 25 and 50c.

Conscience has no more to do with gallantry than it has with politics.—Sheridan.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. E. W. Grove's signature is on each box. 25c.

The man who has an idea that he is on the wrong side is always looking for an argument.

Try Mrs. Austin's famous pancake flour.

No one can be as gentle as the rough man who meets a real lady.

Air Cushion Rubber Stamps—the Best—the Cheapest. Send your orders to Lock Box 219, Fort Wayne, Ind.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children teething; softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25 cents a bottle.

Try Grain-O! Try Grain-O!

Ask your Grocer to-day to show you a package of GRAIN-O, the new food drink that takes the place of coffee. The children may drink it without injury as well as the adult. All who try it like it. GRAIN-O has that rich seal brown of Mocha and Java, but it is made of pure grains, and the most delicate stomach receives it without distress. ¼ the price of coffee. 15c and 25c per package. Sold by all grocers.

In the Nature of an Axiom.

Philosopher—And now, after having reviewed all philosophy with you, there is only one law that I can lay down for your guidance.

Student—What is that?

"When you are sure you are right you should suspect that you are wrong."—Life.

What Shall We Have for Dessert?

This question arises in the family every day. Let us answer it to-day. Try Jell-O, a delicious and healthful dessert. Prepared in two minutes. No boiling! no baking! simply add a little hot water and set to cool. Flavors:—Lemon, Orange, Raspberry and Strawberry. At your grocers. 10 cts.

On their own merits modest men are dumb.—George Colman.

All Women Know

That ordinary treatment fails to relieve painful periods.

They know Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will and does and has, more than any other medicine.

Every woman knows about Mrs. Pinkham's medicine.

Every woman knows some woman Mrs. Pinkham has cured.

But nine women out of ten put off getting this reliable remedy until their health is nearly wrecked by experiments or neglect!

Then they write to Mrs. Pinkham and she cures them, but of course it takes longer to do so. Don't delay getting help if you are sick.

She has helped a million women. Why not you?

PENSION JOHN W. MORRIS, Washington, D.C. Successfully Prosecutes Claims. Late Principal Examiner U.S. Pension Bureau. 3 yrs in civil war 15 adjudicating claims, atty since.

CHICAGO TO OMAHA

ILLINOIS CENTRAL RAILROAD — MISSISSIPPI CENTRAL VALLEY ROUTE

Double Daily Service

New line via Rockford, Dubuque, Waterloo, Fort Dodge and Council Bluffs. Buffet-library-smoking-cars, sleeping cars, free reclining chair cars, dining cars. Send to the undersigned for a free copy of Pictures and Notes En-Route illustrating this new line as seen from the car window. Tickets of agents of I. C. R. R. and connecting lines. A. H. HANSON, G. P. A., Chicago.

WABASH

HOME SEEKERS' EXCURSIONS

To Western Points.

OCTOBER 2 AND 16, 1900.

On the above dates the WABASH will sell from its principal stations East of Chicago and Toledo, Ill., LOW RATE HOME SEEKERS' EXCURSION Tickets to points West, South and Southwest, granting a liberal return limit. A postal card addressed to any Wabash Ticket Agent or to either of the following Passenger Representatives will bring you prompt and explicit information regarding rates, routes, time of trains, through car service, condition of tickets, etc., etc.

REMEMBER

The WABASH is the only line east of Chicago and St. Louis giving its patrons seats without extra charge, in ELEGANT RECLINING CHAIR CARS running through to St. Louis and Kansas City without change.

This is your chance to go West cheap. Communicate with us.

P. E. DONBAUGH, P. & T. A., Toledo, Ohio.
R. G. THOMPSON, P. & T. A., Fort Wayne, Ind.
A. F. WOLFSCHLAGER, P. & T. A., Detroit, Mich.
L. S. MCCULLAN, D. P. A., St. Louis, Mo.
GEO. D. MAXFIELD, D. P. A., Indianapolis, Ind.
F. A. PALMS, A. G. P. A., Chicago, Ills.
C. S. Crane, G. P. & T. A., St. Louis, Mo.

F. W. N. U. - - No. 38—1900.

When Writing to Advertisers please say you saw the Advertisement in this paper

An Expensive "Tip"

is the one which you cut off and throw away every time that you smoke a Five Cent cigar. There is nearly as much labor in making this end as all the rest of the cigar, and yet every man who buys a cigar cuts it off and throws it away. You get all you pay for when you smoke

Old Virginia Cheroots

Three hundred million Old Virginia Cheroots smoked this year. Ask your own dealer. Price, 3 for 5 cents.

AUBURN WEEKLY COURIER.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, postoffice as second-class matter.

THURSDAY...SEPTEMBER 20, 1900.

Political Notes.

The Press is led to make a little hit at Sheriff Hathaway because Likens' horse "was not found by the sheriff." That was not the sheriff's fault. If the man who found the horse preferred to work up some political capital by refusing to send word to the proper officer, but sent instead to the republican city marshal, that is no fault of the sheriff. Mr. Hathaway would have responded promptly had not this short circuit been used on him.

As yet no one has appeared to answer the COURIER's question as to how a 50-cent dollar can be made.

The McKinley-Hanna administration is still making 16 to 1 silver dollars. How awful.

Prosperity seems to have struck 118,000 miners who have for years been supporting their families on 90 cent to $1.35 a day, out of which they must buy their own blasting powder, paying the pluck-me stores, $2.50 for a keg of powder that costs $1.50. Now they are all out of work.

McKinley-Hanna picked up a common sort of a fellow and sent him over as governor of Porto Rico last summer. As showing a tendency to imperial style, he was sent over in great pomp, in a fine yacht with costly upholstered cabin, and silver plate and everything in greater splendor than a president. Who has heard of this governor since? Lawlessness reigns in Porto Rico, and its leading citizens have just sent word that the island has no government. This is imperialism.

All over the country the trusts are combining. Then they shut down a part of their plants, which throws that many men out of employment. Their full dinner pail has only wind.

Washington said "Beware of entangling alliances with the nations of Europe." McKinley is now getting us entangled in China. We wanted to take our troops away, Germany, Great Britain and the others said we must not go away. McKinley has obeyed them, and our forces are with the others at Pekin.

The U. S. constitution says: "There shall be no duty or tax levied on an article exported from any state. (Art. 1 Sec. 9, Clause 5.) But the last congress passed a law levying a tax on goods sent from here into Porto Rico, or from the island to us. This was never done before, between our states and territories. They know they violate their oaths when they violate the constitution.

The same clause says: "No preference shall be given to the ports of one state over those of another; nor shall vessels bound to or from one state be obliged to pay duties to another." The Porto Rico tarriff bill violates all these.

Ask your republican neighbor who favors an increase of the army, and these wars of subjugation, when he thinks these expenses will stop, and when shall we cease to have war.

Hanna is in the west trying to collect campaign funds. He complains that those who formerly contributed do not seem to care much this year. At Chicago Saturday he gave a banquet to wealthy republicans and passed the hat around, making them all contribute.

Bryan is in Kansas making speeches to immense crowds.

A traveling man in Auburn yesterday said he had just been through Michigan and he is certain that state will go democratic. He insists that all the south counties will do so. And all along the west half of the state where Hollanders are settled, they have gone back on McKinley on account of the Boer war.

Indiana and New York are now considered doubtful states, by both parties.

With the great coal strike and the many mills shut down and others closed by the trusts there are more men out of work now than in 1893.

From every quarter we hear good news of Hon. J. M. Robinson. The common people like him.

Another Free Mail Route.

The following letter explains itself and shows whether Bob Hanna's claim that he is the one who gets free rural delivery routes is true or not.

Post Office Department,
First Assistant Postmaster General
Office of Supt. Free Delivery System
WASHINGTON. Sept. 13, 1900.

Hon. J. M. Robinson, M. C.

DEAR SIR:—I take pleasure in informing you that in accordance with your request, and that of the Honorable C. W. Fairbanks, Rural Free Delivery Service has this day been ordered established from Cromwell, Noble County, Indiana, with one carrier, to commence on Monday, October 1, 1900

Very Respectfully,
G W. BEAVERS,
Acting First Assistant Postmaster General.

Smithfield Nominees.

The democrats of Smithfield township at their caucus last Saturday nominated Isaac Barker for trustee, George May for assessor and for advisory board, Dan Shuman, Aaron Camp and Thomas Hamman, The contest for trustee was spirited requiring eight ballots. Mr. Barker's competitors were, John Clark, W. A. Austin and Herbert Waterman, all well qualified to fill the place. Mr. Barker is a son of M. P. Barker, who served two terms as trustee about twenty years ago.

Latest News.

The striking coal miners now number 118,000 and the trouble is still spreading.

The trial of James Howard, supposed to be the man who actually shot Goebel, is going on at Francfort, Ky. One man has testified that he saw Howard run out the back way of the state house grounds just after the shots were fired. Another swore that Howard told him he was the man who shot Goebel.

Germany has come out with a plain statement to China, that if she wants peace, she must deliver up to the allies the leaders of the Boxers who caused all this bloodshed. Germany is the proper power to say this, as her minister was the only one who lost his life. The request is a proper one.

The Russians have all withdrawn from Pekin, a part retiring to Tientsin and a part going north to assist their forces in Mantchuria.

An important battle has been fought at Komatipoort in South Africa. This is on the only railroad by which the Boers have been getting supplies that from Lorenzo Marquez on the east coast, through Portugese territory, the road by which Kruger left the country. If the British succeed in getting hold of Komatipoort which is the last town on the road in Boer territory, as one goes east from Pretoria to Lorenzo Marquez, it means the stoppage of all Boer supplies from the outside world.

The plan for governing the Philippines has been promulgated. It is in brief, that military rule shall prevail until such time as in the judgment of the commission lately sent there, it shall be considered safe to trust affairs in the hands of civil authorities. A strong military force will therefore be kept there to help the commission.

ST. JOE.

M. F. Body had been on the sick list but is now better.

J. Dickerhoof, section foreman, received a painful injury from a fall of railroad iron Friday.

Charley Johnson and wife returned to Ann Arbor last Saturday.

Tuttle Wasson is barn boss with the B. & O. grades one mile west of here.

Herman Grubb and wife were at Hamilton Lake Friday and Saturday.

Forder & Simmons of Hicksville bought a car load of hogs of Shilling Curie & Co. on Saturday.

Henry Sechler and wife and Mrs. Jacob Sechler attended the Bryan meeting at Fort Wayne last Thursday.

St. Joe is in the midst of another great boom of tramps and bummers who seem to have taken possession of all the barns and empty cars in town.

Agent Openlander at the depot reports the sale of 40 tickets to the B. of L. excursion last Sunday.

Among some of those who took in the excursion on Sunday were Mr. Sam Warner and wife and Elda Woodcox, Mrs. Sigler, Miss Sarah Bartlett, Dr. Price and J. K. Stafford.

Mrs. Beeks Erick and three children accompanied by Mrs. Erick's mother, Mrs. Yarnell, returned to Methsford O. K. on Saturday. Mrs. Yarnell expects to stay until May or June of next year.

Clyde Woodcox, local conductor, contemplates the removal of his family to Deshler, Ohio in the near future.

Two hundred sacks of clover seed is not a bad showing for a shipment from our little burg in one week. $2.00 per bushel is being paid for good seed.

A good deal of talk is being indulged in these days in regard to the transfer of pupils from the township school to the town school as yet we have not heard of one pupil being transfered. For instance George Hamm who lives within ten feet of the corporated limits and one half mile from school house has been asked to send to Cheesetown school nearly two miles away. It would seem that in justice to Mr. Hamm he should be granted a transfer. Or he might do like a certain Mr. —— who says he always has sent to school at St. Joe and is still going regardless of transfer and that he is not going to pay tuition, and he keeps right on sending. Last year he received the benefit of the school and township trustee got the money. Oh, for a school board with a little back bone. We have a school that all our citizens are proud of and if outsiders get the benefit of it why not make them pay for it.

The Robinson Meetiug.

The meeting at the democratic club rooms last evening was well attended, several republicans being in the crowd. Mr. Robinson's speech gave general satisfaction for he is never harsh or abusive.

A Bryan and Stevenson club of about 100 was formed, and the following officers chosen:

President, Cormie Gibford; vice-president, Will Buckley; secretary, Herman Brown; treasurer, D. M. Link; executive committee, C. M. Brown, W. H. Nusbaum, Milo Husselman, Sam Brandon and George King.

Delegates to the National club meeting at Indianapolis, are D. M. Link and W. C. Gabriel.

Special Notice.

Office of county Auditor:

There will be a special meeting of the County Council at the Commissioners room in Auburn DeKalb county Ind. on Friday September the 28, 1900, at 10 o'clock a. m. To make an additional appropriation for truant officer and other business that may legally come before the board.

FRANK P. SEILER, Auditor.
Sept. 19, 1900.

The Great Strike.

The greatest strike, since the great railway strike of 1893, is the great coal miners' strike that has just started among the hard coal mines of Pennsylvania. It is a strike to secure a small advance in wages and a reduction in the cost of powder each miner has to buy. This powder which sells to others at about $1.50 a keg, is charged up to the miner at about $2 50. There are other grievances, all which could be easily granted by the mine owners.

By granting what looks to an outsider like a reasonable demand, the owners need not sustain a loss, as they could charge a few cents more on the ton for their coal and people would pay it. In fact people will have to pay higher for the coal any how, for the owners have a stock on hand mined under the cheap wages, that will at once raise in price. It looks as if the mine owners are the ones to be benefited by the strike. If the strike lasts long, and through the winter season, it will be hard on the miners who must remain idle and be largely supported by the contributions of their own miners' unions. Those who have not got their winter supply of hard coal, will find it difficult to get it now, and will have to pay higher. The strike throws out of employment so far 112,000 men, and this number will be increased as the trouble goes on. When the strike stops the mining of soft coal, as this will, it means a stoppage of all industries depending on steam for power, and may even effect railroads. It is a serious matter and we hope some agreement may be reached soon, as the losses will go into millions soon.

Kruger's Last Trek.

President Kruger's last trek has picturesque and pathetic aspects which will appeal to the historian, the painter and the poet of the future. According to Lord Roberts the Boer leader has resigned the presidency of the Transvaal Republic. When last heard from he himself was diligently studying his bible at Lorenzo Marques. As a boy he trekked with his parents into Natal to escape the Englishman and when the Englishman came there he trekked to a place where he thought no Englishman would come. The life he spent there, the work he did and the nation he founded have come to naught and as he sets out now on his last trek even the name of the South African Republic is erased. His nation apparently is gone, his home is apparently, and he an old man. Unless he still nurses some obscure hope of awakening interest in Europe by a personal appeal there is nothing left for him but to resign himself to some foreign country and ruminate peacefully upon the part he has played in history.

Oom Paul is not handsome and his features do not lend themselves readily to the idealizing aims of the artist. The spreading whisker, the high hat, the baggy costume of the ex-president defy romancing. Nevertheless he presents a pathetic figure for some painter with the right kind of perceptive powers.—Chicago Record.

A Thousand Tongues

Could not express the rapture of Annie E. Springer, of 1125 Howard-st., Philadelphia. Pa., when she found that Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption had completely cured her of a hacking cough that for many years had made life a burden. All other remedies and doctors could give her no help, but she says of this Royal Cure—"it soon removed the pain in my chest and I can sleep soundly, something I can scarcely remember doing before. I feel like sounding its praises throughout the Universe." So will every one who tries Dr. King's New Discovery for any trouble of the Throat, Chest or Lungs. Price 50c. and $1.00. Trial bottles free at H. B. McCord's drugstore, every bottle guaranteed.

With Both Feet.

That is the way A. D. Johnson's horse lit into him. Johnson is the time keeper for Mr. Wragg, the contractor who is making the grades for the second B. & O. tracks. This morning Johnson got on his saddle horse as usual to ride along the line, when the horse got headstrong and tried to go back to the stable. Johnson whipped the animal and it reared and finally fell, and Johnson flew off over its head. The horse was up first and turning kicked him with both feet, one hitting a stantling blow each side of his forehead. One direct blow would have killed him, but as it was the blows bruised and tore some on each side. Dr. Baxter dressed his injuries and he will soon be all right.

Harvest Festival.

There will be a grand picnic and harvest festival at Avilla, Sept. 24, in the grove near St. Mary's church, for the benefit of the Catholic school. There will be dinner, supper and other refreshments; plenty of good music, glee clubs, fireworks, speeches, by Hon. J. M. Robinson, Hon. R. B. Hanna, and others. There will be voting contests for favorite citizens and for presidential candidates. All invited to attend.

Attention Farmers.

The Auburn Handle Factory will pay the highest cash price for ash handle block delivered at their factory on the Lake Shore tracks, cut 58 inches long. Also want ash logs cut 9½, 14½ and 19½ feet long. All timber to be smooth and sound. Will also take basswood cut 4 feet long and 8 inches in diameter and up, left round with bark on. Will pay $3 percord.—J. M. CHERRY & Co.

Capt. McQuiston Killed.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16:—The war department today received the following cablegram from Gen. MacArthur at Manila:

"Charles McQuiston, captain of the Fourth United States infantry, died yesterday at Mangonone, Bacoor, Cavite province, resulting from a gun shot wound caused by a private soldier. Capt. McQuiston in a fit of temporary insanity, attacked the men of the company. He shot one or more and was shot himself in self defense. Further particulars when received."

Captain McQuiston was born in Indiana and appointed to the military academy from that state in July, 1879. He reached his present grade in July, 1898, and was assigned to the Fourth regiment in January of 1899.

SKETCH OF HIS LIFE.

Capt. Charles McQueston was a member of one of the oldest families in Allen county. His grandfather, John McQuiston, born in Pennsylvania in 1782, came to Allen county with his family in 1837. Both he and his wife were children of revolutionary soldiers. Their eldest son, John W. McQuiston, was the father of the subject of this sketch. He died two years ago. Capt. McQuiston was born on the old farm in Perry township, but spent muct of his boyhood in this city.

He was appointed to the West Point Military academy in 1879, and since that time had spent but little of his life at home. After four years of study at the academy he was graduated and appointed lieutenant in the regular army. He held that rank until the breaking out of the Philippine war, when he was commissioned a captain and sent on recruiting duty. Last March his company was ordered to the Philippines, and he had been there since.

Capt. McQuiston was forty-two years of age. His mother and sister reside at the corner of Wells and Second streets in Bloomingdale, and he has three brothers living here—Allen and Wilson McQuiston, lumber dealers, and Benjamin McQuiston, trustee of Washington township. Another brother died insane in the county infirmary several years since. It thus seems that insanity is hereditary in the family. Captain McQuiston was married about four years ago to a lady of Quincy, Ill., but concerning his family, his relatives here know little. He was here on a visit last November, and several letters have been received from him since, the last being dated July 30, and in it he wrote cheerfully of his life in the army and said he was in good health.

In physique and general appearance he was almost a counterpart of General Lawton, being over six feet in height, and erect in carriage.

A Journal-Gazette reporter called at the McQuiston home in Bloomingdale immediately after the word of his death was received, and conveyed the first notice of it to his relatives, but the manner in which it came about was not mentioned to them.—Journal-Gazette.

Mr. Eckhart's Appointments.

Mr. Eckhart started this morning on the early Wabash train to resume his campaign work. It was a mistake of the Indianapolis papers to say he was laid up for the campaign and that the candidate for lieutenant-governor will fill his appointments. His dates for this month will be:

The 18th, at Franklin in Johnson county.
The 19th, at Shelbyville.
The 20th, at Greensburg.
The 21st, at North Vernon.
The 22nd, at Madison.
The 23d at Vevay.
The 24th at Rising Sun.
The 25th at Guilford in Dearborn county.
The 26th, two speeches, one at Spade and one at Sunman, in Ripley county.
The 27th, at New Trenton in Frank-county.
The 28th, at Liberty, in Union county.
The 29th, at Connersville.

Dates beyond this are not fixed, but till the 29th, he expects to speak as above and possibly two times a day, if his health holds good.

Slaughter of 200 Whales.

On Saturday a large school of whales was captured at Whiteness, in Shetland The whales came toward the land on Friday morning. A number of boats were then put off; the crews after working the whole day, succeeded in driving them into shallow water. The whales numbered 200 and the scene at the killing of the monsters was horrible to witness. Men and boys waded into the water, armed with knives, scythes or any weapon that could cut and maim. The water was churned red with blood. Almost the whole population of the place was present.

A Good Investment.

"Is marriage a failure?" "I should say not!" remarked an Oregon farmer. "Why, ther's Lucindy, gits up in the mornin' milks six cows, gits breakfast, starts four children to skewl, looks arter the other three, feeds the hens, likewise the hogs, likewise some motherless sheep, skims twenty pans of milk, washes the clothes, gits dinner, et cetery, et cetery. Think I could hire hire anybody to do it for what she gits? Not much! Marriage, air, is a success; a gret success!"—Woman's Journal.

DEDICATION.

The U. B. church at Angola, Ind., will be dedicated on Sunday, Sept. 30, at 11 o'clock a. m. Bishop J. W. Holt, D. D. L. L. D. of Dayton, Ohio, will officiate.—W. S. GANDY, Pastor.

IT STANDS TO REASON

No. 696.—Cut under survey, has long distance axles, brass bushed rubber head springs, broad cloth trimmings, lamps, curtains, sun-shade, pole or shafts; same as retails for $60 to $75 more than our price. Our price, $110.

that there is money saved in buying direct from the Manufacturer

The profits between the manufacturer and consumer are large.

We Save You these Profits

No. 21.—Pneumatic Wagon with No. 1 two inch Pneumatic Tires; 34 and 36-in. wheels, full ball-bearing axles, Bailey body loops and shaft couplers, fine Whipcord trimmings and high grade finish; looks fine as retails for $75 more than our price. Our price, complete with high bend shafts, $118

We are the largest manufacturers of Vehicles and Harness in the world selling to the consumer exclusively. For 27 years we have conducted business on this plan. We give you better quality for the same money, or the same quality for less money than the dealer, jobber or supply agent.

No. 707.—Extension Top Surrey with double fenders, lamps, curtains, storm aprons, pole or shafts; is as fine as retails for $35 more than our price. Our price, $80.

We Ship Anywhere For Examination.

We make 178 styles of vehicles and 65 styles of harness.

This advertisement will appear only a few times—you may be reading the last insertion.

Our Large Catalogue shows every Vehicle and Harness we make and gives prices.

IT'S FREE.

No. 201.—Fancy Boggy with figured plush trimmings. Is complete in every way and as fine as retails for $35 more than our price. Our price, with shafts, $55.

Elkhart Carriage and Harness Manufacturing Co.
ELKHART, INDIANA.

About Right.

Here's to woman in her sadness
When she's sad.
Here's to woman in her gladness
When she's glad.
But a woman in her sadness
When she's sad,
And a woman in her gladness
When she's glad,
Isn't in it
For a minute
With a woman in her madness
When she's mad.

A Great Discovery for Cancer.

Windsor, Ont., Jan., 24, 1900.

Dr. C. D. Warner. Dear Sir:—I have used your Compound of Seven Cures, the great cancer cure and blood purifier with excellent results. I do not hesitate to recommend it for the purposes for which it is used. Its effects are in a short time so manifest that it cannot fail to give the best of satisfaction.—Jas. Cummings. For Sale by F. E. Davenport.

—It is eleven years since there was a prize fight for the Championship of England.

Robbed the Grave.

A startling incident, of which Mr. John Oliver of Philadelphia, was the subject, is narrated by him as follows: "I was in a most dreadful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite—gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up Fortunately, a friend advised trying 'Electric Bitters;' and to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they saved my life, and robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50cts., guaranteed, at H B. McCord's Drugstore.

—The yellow and red Spanish flag is the oldest of any used by the European powers, as it was first flown in 1785.

A Great Blood Renewer.

Windsor, Ont., Jan. 4, 1900.

Dr. C. D. Warner. Dear Sir:—Having used your Compound of Seven Cures in my family, will say it has no equal; as a blood purifier and for building up the system it is unsurpassed. —Yours respectfully, Mrs. M. Short. For sale by F. E. Davenport.

CASTORIA.
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

—A Yale professor claims to be able by means of hypnotism to cure drunkards of their thirst.

LADIES SHOES.

Style and wear combined. Largest line heavy sole shoes in City. $2.00, $2.50, $3.00 and $3.50.

MISSES SCHOOL SHOES.

Largest line in City at moderate prices. Stamps given.

WILSON, Shoe Man.

Executors Sale.

Notice is hereby given that pursuant to the provisions contained in the will of Amy R. Kelley, deceased, in that behalf enabling, I, Freeman Kelley, executor of said will, will, on the real estate to be sold, on Saturday, the 6th day of October, 1900, at the hour of two o'clock in the afternoon of said day, proceed to sell at public sale, the following described real estate, situated in DeKalb County, State of Indiana, to-wit: Lot numbered eighty-five (85) in the original plat of the City of Auburn, in said county; also lot numbered one hundred forty-eight (148) in the original plat of said city. Said real estate will be sold at not less than two-thirds of the appraised value thereof, and in all things subject to the approval of the DeKalb Circuit Court, and upon the following terms, to-wit: One-third of the purchase money cash in hand at the date of sale; one-third on or before twelve months, and one-third on or before eighteen months after date, with the privilege to the purchaser to pay more than one-third cash at his option, the deferred payments to be evidenced by the purchaser's notes bearing six per cent interest from date, waiving relief from valuation laws, and secured by a mortgage on the real estate sold.

FREEMAN KELLEY,
Executor.

August 31, 1900.

Sheriff's Sale.

By virtue of an execution issued on a judgment rendered in the DeKalb Circuit Court, on the 24th day of January, 1900, and to me directed by the Clerk of said Court, I will offer for sale at public auction and outcry to the highest bidder, at the door of the Court House in Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana, on

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 6, 1900,

between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m., and 4 o'clock p. m. of said day, the rents and profits for a term not exceeding seven years, of the following described real estate, situated in DeKalb County, in the State of Indiana, to-wit: Southeast quarter of section thirty-four (34), township thirty-three (33) north of range thirteen (13) east And in case the rents and profits fail to bring the amount demanded to satisfy the judgment and decree aforesaid, interest and costs, together with all accruing costs, I will, at the same time and place, and in like manner as aforesaid, offer for sale at public auction and outcry, to the highest bidder, all the right, title, interest and estate in fee simple of Andrew Metcalf, John Metcalf and Henry Metcalf, in and to the above described real estate, or so much and such part thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the judgment and decree aforesaid, which is in favor of William Kapp and David M. Karns; and against Andrew Metcalf, John Metcalf and Henry Metcalf. Said real estate will be sold without relief from valuation or appraisement laws, and subject to the redemption laws of the State of Indiana.

JOHN H. HATHAWAY,
Sheriff of DeKalb County, Indiana.

Chas. Emanuel, Attorney for Plaintiff.
Sept. 12, 1900.

Hearing of Ditch Petition.

In the matter of the petition of James Gibford, et al., No 710, notice is hereby given that a petition has been filed with the Auditor of DeKalb county, state of Indiana, and viewers have been appointed who have viewed and reported said view which is on file in my office. The hearing of said petition upon its merits will be heard by the Board of County Commissioners on Tuesday, the 2d day of October, 1900, the same being the 1st day of their October term, 1900. The prayer of said petition is that a ditch be constructed on the following route, to-wit:

Beginning 370 feet south of the northwest corner of section nineteen (19), township thirty-three (33), north range 14 east in DeKalb county, Indiana, and from thence in an easterly direction overlaying the J. D. Leighty ditch ending at the beginning of the William Knight ditch, No. 641, said point being 300 feet north and 100 feet west of the southeast corner of the west half of the southeast quarter of section No. 8 of concord township, DeKalb county, Indiana.

This proposed work will affect the lands of the following persons:

Wm. L. Nelson	Theodore Kline
P A Shurts
James B Draggoo	Delilah Draggoo
James Gibford	James Rickett
Anna Rickett	Winfield Scott
John H. Gill	O W Rummel
Jacob Baker	Daniel Wyatt
Susan Wyatt	Florence Buchanan
S G Brown	James Irvin
Laura Layman	Israel Layman
Mary Layman	H L Jones
John Fetters	John Hull
Baltimore & Ohio and Chicago R R Company
Concord Township

FRANK P. SEILER,
Auditor DeKalb County

JOHN W. KRONTZ,
Surveyor DeKalb County.

Dated Sept. 8, 1900.

NOTICE OF FINAL SETTLEMENT OF ESTATE.

Notice is hereby given to all persons interested in the estate of Silas B. Johnston, deceased, to appear in the DeKalb circuit court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 8th day of Oct. 1900, and show cause, if any, why my final settlement accounts with the estate of said decedent should not be approved; and said heirs and all others interested, are notified to then and there make proof of heirship or claim and receive their distributive shares.

Witness my name this 12th day of September, 1900.

MARY E JOHNSTON,
Administratrix.

Rose & Rose, Atty's.

A Modern Storyteller

tells you you can get

THE LATEST SHEET MUSIC AT THE LOWEST PRICE FROM F. V. CUTLER.

We can supply you with Gramophones, Phonographs, or any other talking machine, with all the latest improvements.

Pianos, Organs, Violins and other musical instrumdnts in almost endless variety.

FOR SALE BY

F. V. CUTLER,
AUBURN, INDIANA.

Also up-to-date Funeral Directors and Embalmers.

Up-To-Date

Hand Made Buggy Surrey or Heavy Harness

Lap Dusters!
Neat Patterns in all grades from the Cheapest to the Best.

Fly Nets!
Cotton and Leather Fly Nets, Stable Sheets and Covers at Bottom Prices.

Don't forget that we have Garden, Field and Lawn Grass Seed in bulk at very low prices.

Eberle & Freygang
Auburn, Ind.

William's Kidney Pills

Has no equal in diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs. Have you neglected your Kidneys? Have you ove worked your nervous system and caused trouble with your Kidneys and Bladder? Have you pains in the loins, side, back, groins and bladder? Have you a flabby appearance of the face, especially under the eyes? Too frequent desire pass urine? William's Kidney Pills will impart new life to the diseased organs, tone up the system and make a new man of you. By mail 50 cents per box.

WILLIAMS MFG. CO., Props., Cleveland, O.

Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court, of the State of Indiana, executor of the will of Amy A. Kelley, deceased, late of said County.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

FREEMAN KELLEY,
Executor.

Aug. 30, 1900.

Isn't It Good Policy
To Make Your Purchase Early?

WE THINK SO.

In the first place you get your choice from full stock of everything. The first goods in are generally better value than duplicates which in many cases are hurried in the making. You have the worry of what to select from, off your mind.

Our Stock is now in fine condition. Larger and better than ever before. Our space will not permit of our mentioning the many good things in each Department. We select

Dress Goods, Silks and Fall Waists,

as subjects to talk to you about.

We have for several years held the reputation for showing the best line of

BLACK GOODS.

This season shall prove no exception to the rule. You may feel absolutely sure that we have what you want and the best possible value to be found for the money you pay.

The Very Fashionable Things in Colors are HOMESPUNS, CAMEL'S HAIR, VENETIANS, CHEVIOTS, and FRENCH FLANNELS.

We have beautiful HOME SPUNS, good weight, 38 inches wide and excellent quality at 50 cents per yard.

For $1 00 the yard we show extra fine quality CAMELS HAIR, three shades Grey, two shades blue, brown and black. These goods are sure to be scarce before the season is half over and we advise you to be first in the field.

For Waists there is nothing more serviceable or stylish than FRENCH FLANNELS. We have them in Polka Dot, two shades of blue and two shades of cardinal. The price is 75 cents per yard.

We also show extra fine POLKA DOT HENRIETTAS in purple, crush strawberry, cream, drab and royal blue. These goods are 40 inches wide and marked to sell at $1.00. They are new and going rapidly.

For cheap WAISTS and Children's SCHOOL DRESSES we recommend our guaranteed colors in plaids. Ten styles, double width and 15 cents is the price.

The New SILKS are handsomer than ever. Our range of style is exceptionally strong. Prices which are right. You must see them to appreciate our effort in this line.

Ready Made Waists

for Fall are sure to be more popular this season than ever. We realized this long before the season opened, consequently, we prepared for what we knew was sure to come. We have a fine selection on hand and are getting in more nearly every day. You will have no cause to regret buying your Fall bill from us.

We are saving you money.

Schaab & Bro.

Superior Disc Drill

When buying a Drill why not buy the best. THE SUPERIOR SINGLE DISC DRILL will do more work and do it better with less labor than any other grain drill yet offered the farmer. It will work in all kinds of ground no matter how trashy or hard. Try one of them and be convinced. Sold by

CULBERTSON & BOLAND,

Auburn, Ind.

Go to the

Adrian Fair

SEPT. 24 to 28.

IT'S A GREAT BIG EXHIBITION.

35,000 Square Feet of Floorage in the Five Large Show Buildings.

$3,000 IN SPEED PURSES

For this Fair.

THE WABASH RAILROAD

Will sell tickets at One-Half Rates for all days of the Fair, and on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, Sept. 26th, 27th and 28th, will run a SPECIAL EXCURSION TRAIN. leaving Auburn at 6:55, Butler at 7:10, Montpelier at 7:38, Alvordton at 8:01 a. m., and stopping at all intermediate stations. Arriving at Adrian at 9:05 a. m. Returning leave Adrian at 6:30 p. m.

Monday's Daily.

—Angola fair, October 9 to 12.

—W. H. Palmer went on our 1901 list Saturday.

—W. H. Palmer is getting ready to put a new wall under his house.

—If you want a second hand grain drill go to Culbertson & Boland. 36tf

—Two good second hand grain drills for sale cheap at Culbertson & Boland's. 36tf

—G. W. Lewis came up from Hicksville today and visited the family of T. C. Ford.

—Stella Hague went to Butler this morning. She is principal of the high school there.

—Mr. and Mrs. John Neff came home Saturday. Their trip included Mackinac and Petoskey.

—Miss Inez Likens, whose home is northwest of town is quite sick with some low grade fever.

—You will not miss it by buying a meal ticket at Had's; 21 meals $3.00, and for mostly Sunday meals $4.00.

—Columbia City Post:—Lloyd Obenchain was recently married at Iowa City Iowa, where he is now employed.

—Mrs. J. C. Summers and Mrs. Len Goetschius were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Eckhart today.

—Rev. Geo. T. Butler will deliver a temperance address at the Baptist church at 3 p. m. on Sunday, Sept. 23.

—Mrs. Barns called on Mrs. G. W. Everett, while at Fort Wayne Friday, and found her and that "blessed baby" both well.

—Cheap excursion to Chicago over Lake Shore Railway September 29. See bills and also ad in another column for particulars.

—There were two good drum corps at the Jackson Center meeting Friday evening, the one from Auburn and the Magginis band.

—Arthur Nelson, son of L. D. Nelson of Concord was here over Sunday at Keeran Sisters' He is traveling now for some business house.

The Ohio excursion to Maumee Niles, Canton, Mansfield, and Wooster goes on Tuesday Oct. 4. See Sprott & Knapp for full particulars. 40

—T. J. Cuppy was here over Sunday and today returned to the old home at South Whitley. He is staying with his mother on the farm for the present.

—John Treesh and wife went to Garrett Saturday to visit their daughter there and yesterday went to Chicago to visit their other daughter who lives in that city.

—Maud—Is 5 and 30 too old to hope for improvement? I should say not. One just begins to live. Take Rocky Mountain Tea You'll be blooming fair at 60.

—Mrs. F. D. Ryan came from Attica yesterday morning on the first excursion train over the Wabash to Detroit. She will visit her son Will Ryan and other friends.

—Of the twenty-eight members of the first regular battery stationed at Galveston who lost their lives in the storm, five were from Indiana and enlisted at the recruiting station at Indianapolis.

—The old 129th regiment has its 32nd reunion, Oct. 4, at Churubusco, This is the one to which Horace Shoemaker belonged, and he looks forward to many hearty handshakes with the old boys that day.

—Unclaimed letters remaining in the postoffice, week ending September 15. M. A. M. Kellar, Jessie Zimmerman, Frank McGuire and Nathan Shover. Claimants will please call for letters in advertised list. G. H. FORKNER, Postmaster.

—Frank Zimmerman and Frank Eckhart reached home today, coming over the Wabash road. They were glad enough to get back, though they had been well all the time and had seen enough to remember for a life time. The COURIER joins all the community in a welcome home from a long trip.

—Chemistry has done many things for mankind, but the discoveries in 1891 that led to the manufacturing of Putnam Fadeless Dyes, was the master stroke. With these improved Dyes, cotton, wool or silk can be dyed with one operation in half the time and with less labor than with any other. Sold by F. E. Davenport. s9

—WANTED:—Active man of good character to deliver and collect in Indiana for old established manufacturing wholesale house. $900 a year, sure pay. Honesty more than experience required. Our reference, any bank in any city. Enclose self-addressed stamped envelope. Manufacturers, Third Floor, 334 Dearborn St., Chicago.

—Kendallville Sun:—Carriers on rural mail delivery routes will be furnished with cancel stamps. The purpose is for the carrier to receive letters along the route for delivery to residents on the line without being obliged to return the letters to the office before the delivery is made. The carrier will cancel the stamp instead of the postmaster.

—O. C. Guilford was up from Fort Wayne over Sunday and did not forget to call on his old friend at the COURIER office. He is employed as machinist by the Western Gas Construction Co., a company that makes appliances for use in handling any kind of gas, as well as for the manufacture of artificial water gas, which in so many places is taking the place of natural gas.

Seek not to steal the other fellow's light,
Rather put on steam and make your own,
Do whatever you do with all your might,
By taking Rocky Mountain Tea at night.

Tuesday's Daily.

—Try Mrs. Austin's famous pancake flour.

—Homemade candies will soon be the go at Had's.

—See the automobile races at the Angola fair, October 9 to 12.

—Special attractions every day at the Angola fair, October 9 to 12.

—One good second hand phaeton for sale cheap.—Culbertson & Boland.

—Will Rose has now put his name on our list of 1901 and has thanks for same.

—Mrs. Austin's pancake flour is famous the world over. All grocers sell it.

—It's no joke but a fact that if you once try Had's salted peanuts you will want more.

—Mrs. Asa Brandon returned last evening from a visit with friends at Fort Wayne.

—OFFICE TO RENT:—A good two-room office over Lackey's store. Call on C. C. Shaffer.

—'Squire Wm. Masters of Fairfield was in town Saturday and made this office a brief call.

—Rev. Sam Jones, the well-known evangelist will be here at the prohibition meeting October 1.

—HOUSE TO RENT.—A good house of ten rooms. Call at the premises on North Van Buren street.—H. Greenberg. s21

—Oscar Hoffman, south of Bachtel's Mill, will grind all kinds of house cutlery, plow points, etc. in good style. Try him. tf

—The Askew property north of Lutheran church for sale at a bargain. For particulars address Phil Plum, Waterloo, Ind. tf

—The two-year-old son of Daniel Burkey, living near Elkhart, was drowned in five gallons of sour milk. He fell into the keg head first.

—Chicago excursion over Lake Shore Railway September 29th. Extremely low rates. Particulars in another column, or ask agents. 39

—The blessed storks visited Friend Bherns on North Jackson street this morning and left a big boy baby. Dr. Baxter was the attending physician.

—FOUND—A satchel, in which are packages of soap and several other articles. Owner call at this office, prove property, pay charges, and take it away.

—On account of the interest taken in work, the Salvation Army people will stay over Sunday. So our people can still have the benefit of their services.

—Have I not bidden ye beware of something said to be the same as Rocky Mountain Tea, made by the Madison Medicine Co.? If ye are truly wise, heed this warning.

—WANTED: Wood cutters. Will give 55 and 60 cents a cord for cutting 100 cords at once. Good timber. Call at Roberts grocery in Auburn or on W. E. Rose on the Newville road. 38

—HUSTLING YOUNG MAN can make $60 per month and expenses. Permanent position. Experience unnecessary. Write quick for particulars. Clark & Co., Fourth & Locust sts., Phil., Pa. tf

—T. C. Elson went north on the evening train last night, going to Jackson, Mich., where he expects to make his home. The COURIER, as an old-time friend, hopes he may have a pleasant future.

—There will be eight races at the Angola fair this fall. Two on Wednesday and three on Thursday and Friday. $1,700 is offered in purses, and the races will be the very best ever held in Steuben county.

—Harry Karle, who used to be in McNabb's meat market is now in the same line at Defiance. Like a true DeKalb boy he takes the Old Reliable COURIER, and also is paid into 1901. He was a caller at this office last evening while on a visit here.

—Miss Lena Schiffli was up to see her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Schiffli east of Ashley over Sunday. She says her mother who has been sick so long is a little better. We are glad to report this. She had something like a stroke paralysis.

—Editor Reuben Daily, of Jeffersonville, has a new scheme for stopping the heat. It is to let the factory chimneys send out great volumes of steam, which may hover over cities and keep out the sun's rays like an awning. He thinks his scheme will reduce torrid weather to summer resort balminess.

—Mrs. S. B. Jones of Butler, and Mrs. J. F. McNear of Columbia City, came over from Butler yesterday and are guests in the COURIER family. They are cousins to Mrs. Barns. Mrs. McNear was on her way home from Angola, where she attended as president of the Twelfth district convention of the W. R. C. They returned to their home this afternoon.

—Charles Eckhart will hold his first meeting in Auburn Monday, October 15 in the opera house here. Other speakers, not yet decided on will occupy the afternoon, and he will speak in the evening As this is the first time our people, his neighbors, have had an opportunity of hearing him, we hope to see our people turn out without regard to political affiliations.

—Saturday Sept. 15 was the day for the first trip over the free rural delivery route from Laporte north to Hesston and the brother and sister of the COURIER editor, and their families sent off their first letters by the new system. They say it seems a little odd at first; but think they will like it all right. It will surely be a convienence although both have had a postoffice within a mile for many years. But this comes to the residence.

CASTORIA.
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

Wednesday's Daily.

—Dr. Rock's residence is being rapidly completed.

—Baltzer Koonts of Spencerville, went on our 1901 list yesterday.

—J. F. Abers newly re-constructed residence begins to loom up nicely.

—Baseball next Saturday, Fort Wayne against Auburn Reds, at Auburn.

—J. P. Brownell, now at Romeo, Mich., sends in a year's subscription to the Weekly. Thanks, we shall see that it goes regularly.

—John Less left for Lake Forest this morning over the 4 a. m. B. & O. train. John likes the school up there and we are glad to see he is interested in his school work.

—George Husselman has sold the house on North VanBuren, now occupied by Will Smith, to his son who has been in Kansas for some time. The latter will occupy it as soon as it is vacated.

—The third payment of the pledge cards for the State Anti Saloon League is now due. All who know the sums they have subscribed will please be in readiness for the collectors who will present the cards as soon as practicable.

—Miss Philley will come up from Ft. Wayne on the noon train tomorrow and at 2 p. m. will be at Baptist Church when she will be pleased to meet all who are interested in her work, whether they become members of her class or not.

—Mrs. J. C. Summers after an enjoyable visit of six weeks with relatives and friends, leaves tomorrow forenoon over the Wabash for her home in Pueblo, Colorado. Her many friends here will wish her a pleasant and safe journey.

—The illustrated lecture at the Salvation tent last evening was pronounced fine, one of the finest ever seen here. At the request of many present it will be repeated Thursday evening, Sept. 20. All invited. Admission 15 cents, and 10 cents for children. s20

—Several of the Auburn excursionists to Chicago were "bridged" Monday night in that city, when starting home. Where the B. & O. crosses the South Branch of the river the draw bridge had been turned to let a big vessel go through and she had grounded and stuck fast. The train was delayed for several hours. They reached Auburn over four hours behind time, it being nearly daylight.

—Uncle John Pepple brought in yesterday some copies of the Houston, Texas, Daily Post, sent by his sons, Samuel and John at Smithville, that state. They contain more detailed accounts of the terrible destruction of life and property at Galveston than has come through the ordinary dispatches. The truth in all its dreadful details, will however never be known, and perhaps it is as well that it cannot for already it shows as the greatest calamity ever known in the new world.

Editor's Awful Plight.

F. M. Higgins, Editor Seneca, (Ill,) News, was afflicted four years with Piles that no doctor or remedy helped until he tried Bucklen's Arnica Salve. He writes two boxes wholly cured him. It's the surest Pile cure on earth and the best salve in the world, Cure guaranteed. Only 25c. Sold by McCORD the DRUGGIST.

Great Horse Sale.

There will be a great sale of horses at the Lake Shore stock yards in Auburn on Saturday, Sept. 29, beginning at 1 p. m. These are Dakota horses, good stock, some being heavy draft, and some are broke ready for use. A part are colts of various ages. This is no wild stock, but they were raised on the great Dakota stock lands. All who want to get good horses at a reasonable price should attend. Credit os six months on satisfactory security. The reason for selling is the drought has killed all the grass and they must be sold at some price.

Mr. Guild Home.

Rev. T. M. Guild reached home this forenoon over the Wabash, and he is, judging by his smiles, as happy to get back as were the others. All feel there is no place like home. Mrs. Guild came on the afternoon train.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

OF COD-LIVER OIL WITH HYPOPHOSPHITES

should always be kept in the house for the following reasons:

FIRST — Because, if any member of the family has a hard cold, it will cure it.

SECOND — Because, if the children are delicate and sickly, it will make them strong and well.

THIRD — Because, if the father or mother is losing flesh and becoming thin and emaciated, it will build them up and give them flesh and strength.

FOURTH — Because it is the standard remedy in all throat and lung affections.

No household should be without it. It can be taken in summer as well as in winter.

50c. and $1.00, all druggists.
SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, New York.

THE AUBURN LUMBER CO.

—Carry a Full line of—

Casings, Base Blocks for Inside Finish, Veranda Columns, Spindels, Tracery and Brackets for Veranda or Porch work.....

HOLLOW FOUNDATION BLOCKS,

Bulk Lime, Portland Cement,

And are always headquarters for Shingles, all the best grades cut from green timber.

The Auburn Lumber Co.

Auburn, Indiana.

Remember the Place.....Near Wabash Depot.

Only too glad to show you the line.

xxxx

A large line of

Bicycle Sundries

Always carried in stock at Low Prices.

xxxx

Bicycle repairing promptly attended to.

xxxx

M. B. WILLIS. Jr.,

"The Rambler Man"

Huelsenbeck Building.

Jewelry ..and.. Watches.

Our fall stock is coming in —all new and up-to-date.

D. A. Hodge, The Jeweler.

NOTICE FOR SUPPLIES.

Requisition for Supplies for DeKalb County Poor Asylum.

The Board of Commissioners of said county will receive sealed bids for supplies up to October 4 1900 for quarter ending December 31, 1900.

GROCERIES AND DRY GOODS.

Commissoners reserving the right to reject all bids at their discretion, may demand a bond from the successful bidder, conditioned upon the fulfillment of their contract.

Requisition and sample of goods may be seen at the Auditor's office.

FRANK P. SEILER,
Auditor.

Auburn, Ind., Sept. 19, 1900.

D. P. Hale Dead.

Albert Robbins has a letter from San Diego, California, announcing the death there of Daniel P. Hale, a man well known in Waterloo and Auburn, having deen a resident of both places. He died Saturday, September 8, and he was cremated. He had been ill for some time. He will be remembered as one of the clerks in the store of his older brothers at Waterloo and later lived in Kansas. Then returned to Auburn and occupied and owned the brick residence now belonging to Mrs. Sallie Weamer her present home. He later went to Sioux City, Iowa, and afterwards to California. He has resided at San Diego near which city he has large landed interests in the form of an addition or suburb to the city.

That Throbbing Headache

Would quickly leave you, if you use Dr. King's New Life Pills. Thousands of sufferers have proved their matchless merit for Sick and Nervous Headaches. They make pure blood and strong nerves and build up your health. Easy to take Try them. Only 25 cents. Money back if not cured. Sold by H. B. McCord the druggist.

Notice of Dissolution.

Notice is hereby given that the partnership known as the Specialty Buggy Co. is this day dissolved by mutual consent. The business will be continued and all bills paid by Wm. Eckhart.

Auburn, Indiana, Sept. 17, 1900. { Wm. Eckhart, Charles Eckhart.

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

SUPERLATIVE QUALITY--ABSOLUTE PURITY.

ROYAL GARDEN TEAS

Sold only in Bour's celebrated Bond-Linen Package, with the Blue Strip Seal. Accept no substitute.

ASK YOUR GROCER

—This little brush of cooler weather is making people think of winter clothing. Schaab & Bro: report the sale of several capes and jackets yesterday. They have a fine cloak room now and the largest and handsomest stock they have ever shown. s30

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, · Publisher.

1900. SEPTEMBER. 1900.

Su	Mo	Tu	We	Th	Fr	Sa
•	•	•	•	•	•	1
2	3	4	5	6	7	8
9	10	11	12	13	14	15
16	17	18	19	20	21	22
23	24	25	26	27	28	29
30	•	•	•	•	•	•

F. Q. 2nd. F. M 9th. L. Q 15th. N. M. 24th.

HISTORY OF A WEEK.

PEOPLE, PLACES AND THINGS OF THE WORLD.

News of Crimes and Criminals, Accidents, Fires, Etc., from North, South, East and West, Sandwiched with Minor Affairs.

Union Veteran Legion.

The Union Veteran Legion held its annual encampment at Fort Wayne, Ind. Officers and delegates unite in the opinion that it has been one of the most successful and harmonious encampments ever held by the Union Veteran Legion.

The following officers were elected:

National Commander—William R. Wooters, of Philadelphia.

Senior Vice-Commander—F. P. Banning, of Fort Wayne.

Junior Vice-Commander—N. M. Avis, of Camden N. J.

Chaplain-in-Chief—Rev. Henry M. Couden, of Washington, D. C.

Surgeon General—Henry Klemm, M. D., St. Louis

Quartermaster General—Thomas J. Hubbard, Baltimore, Md.

Adjutant-General—John N. Reber, of Philadelphia (re-appointed).

Gettysburg was unanimously chosen as the place of meeting in October, 1901.

Fighting the Boxers.

A dispatch received at Berlin from Tien Tsin reiterates the statement that a body of 4,000 allied troops, including 200 men of the Fifteenth U. S. infranty, under the command of Major Robertson, marched, September 8, against the cities of Shen-Hai-Sien and Tilo, from which places boxers threatened the Tien Tsin region. It is pointed out that the expedition has for its object the clearing of the country southwest of marauding boxers. The dispatch adds that according to information furnished by Prince Ching the Chinese Emperor and the dowager empress are at Kalgang.

Troops Shoot Down Ghouls.

W. H. McGrath, manager of the Dallas Electric Company, has reached Dallas, Texas, direct from Galveston. He says; "Vandalism at Galveston has been horrible. The most rigid enforcement of martial law has not been able to suppress it entirely. Adjutant-General Scurry's men have arrested a hundred or more negroes. Forty-three of these were found with effects taken from dead bodies, and were ordered tried by court martial. They were convicted and ordered shot. One negro had twenty-three fingers, with rings on them, in his pocket.

Slowly Recovering.

Galveston, Texas, is beginning slowly to recover from the stunning blow of last week, and though the city appears to be pitilessly desolated, the authorities and the commercial and industrial interests are setting their forces to work and a start has at least been made toward the resumption of business on a moderate scale. The presence of the troops has had a beneficial effect upon the criminal classes and the apprehension of a brief but desperate reign of anarchy now no longer exists.

Terrible Wreck at Mound, Ill.

The special car of the Duncan Clark Female Minstrel troupe was wrecked at Mounds, and of sixteen occupants, nine are now dead and six others are seriously injured. It appears that the cause of the accident was the breaking down of the rear trucks of the private car, and, after running a quarter of a mile along the ties, was twisted to one side and thrown across the front of a switch engine.

Explosion Brings Death.

One man was instantly killed and four others are at the point of death, and four more are seriously burned as the result of the explosion of a steam pipe in the Baldwin locomotive works at Philadelphia. The dead man and the four whose death is expected, have not been identified as yet. The others are; Dennis Delaney, James Kelly, Andrew Burns and Adolph Hoesthle.

Boer Forces Collapse.

The collapse of the Boer resistance to the British was announced recently by the American authorities. Captain Reichman, United States military attache with the Boers, telegraphed that the conditions required attaches to leave the Transvaal, and asking for instructions. His dispatch means there is no Boer force to which he can be attached. He was ordered home.

A Lone Highwayman.

Omaha Special: The overland flyer on on the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad was held up by a lone man near Haigler. The sleeper passengers gave up thousands of dollars in jewelry and $500 in cash. Posses are pursuing the robber.

Fort Wayne Masonic Temple Attractions.

Sept. 20.—"Across the Pacific."

Sept. 21.—"The Runaway Girl."

Butchers on Strike.

Eight hundred butchers employed in the packing houses of the Jacob Dolds Packing Company and Clink's and Danahy's packing houses, at Buffalo, are on strike, owing to the refusal of the Dolds company to discharge two men who refused to pay their union dues.

Korean Converts Killed.

A Japanese officer at Chaong, Korea, reports that two Japanese and several hundred Chinese and Korean converts have been murdered on the frontier by the Chinese.

Big Lumber Company Fails.

The statement that the Tunis Lumber Company, operating large plants at Norfolk, Va., and Baltimore, with smaller mills scattered throughout its extensive timber lands in North Carolina, is in the hands of a receiver caused great surprise in financial circles.

Giant Weds a Midget.

Wallace Dean, a man of athletic build, and Nora Nave, a midget 3 feet tall, were married in Jeffersonville, Ind., by Justice Nixon. Another unusual feature of the marriage is that the groom is an uncle of his wife, which probably makes the ceremony illegal.

TEXAS CITY'S WOE.

Frightful Devastation Wrought by the Great Storm.

MAY BE 5,000 DEAD.

Ghouls and Vandals Are Shot Down in the Streets by Troops.

History Affords No Parallel to the Awful Visitation and the Succeeding Condition of Affairs—Flood Is Followed by Famine—Pestilence Threatens the City—Victims Are Cremated, Thrown Into the Sea, or Buried in Soggy Trenches.

Probably 5,000 lives lost, property destroyed to the value of many millions, seventy-five towns more or less damaged, and some of them virtually wiped out, Galveston nearly in ruins, its great wharf frontage destroyed, ocean-going steamers and small coasting vessels sunk or stranded in every direction, are some of the mournful details of the havoc wrought by wind and wave on the Texas coast and in the interior of the State. The fury of the hurricane was spent ere many hours, but its period was long enough to cause almost unprecedented destruction.

From the best reports it is evident that the storm began between 9 and 10 o'clock on Saturday forenoon. Driven by the fury of the gale the waves of the gulf inundated the long, low, sandy island upon which Galveston is built and which at its highest point is not over five feet above the gulf level, and before dark the whole city was under water from three to six feet. Thence the water gradually encroached farther inland and beyond the water mark the storm swept on with cyclonic fury, demolishing towns and villages along its course to a point eighty miles north of Houston. Mountain region and table land suffered alike, the gale razing houses, tearing up trees, ruining farms, and leaving behind it a wide wake of desolation. Southwest it swept along the coast as far as Corpus Christi and northeast across the Louisiana boundary. It may be possible in the future to make something like an accurate estimate of material losses, in which the damage to the cotton and fruit crops will be a large item. It is not likely that the entire number of persons killed will ever be known, but a conservative estimate places the number in the vicinity of 3,500.

THE TREMONT HOTEL.

Full Story Can Never Be Written.

It is hardly possible that the true story of the frightful catastrophe will or can ever be written. The terror, despair and desperation of the population when at last they realized, Saturday evening, that they were face to face with death cannot be pictured by those not there. Such an experience has fallen to the lot of few since the world began, for no one was optimistic enough to harbor the hope that the entire city was not soon to be swept out of existence. No aid was near; escape was impossible; it was as though the 40,000 people of Galveston were on a vessel which was sinking at sea, the captain having informed them that the ship could survive but a few moments longer.

It does not lessen the horror of this disaster that Galveston seemingly invites such a fate. Practically, it is upon a level with the waters of the gulf and hurricanes are no strangers in that region. Starting in the West Indies sometimes they sweep northeast along the Florida and up the Atlantic coast, but they are just as likely to take the opposite direction and visit their fury upon the Texas coast. In such case, when one of these hurricanes reaches its maximum velocity, Galveston is absolutely unprotected. Even in an ordinary storm the water rises in its streets. The despair of the situation is that human skill can devise no means to protect it. Great sea walls cannot be built, as no foundations can be had for them in the shifting sand, and the whole island is a long, narrow, sand spit, so low that an extraordinarily high tide will cover it. The only protection Galveston has lies in the fact that hurricanes of this magnitude do not often occur, probably only three or four in a century, and after one has visited them its people live in the hope that they may not be exposed to another for many years

It probably will be so in this instance. The dead will be buried, the damage will be repaired, the destroyed structures rebuilt, and the hurricane of 1900 will soon be only a memory. The living will go on their way as unconcerned as those who live in an earthquake region or in the vicinity of a volcano.

Added to the destruction accomplished by the wind of the hurricane was that of the succeeding flood, and houses which had resisted the pressure of the gale fell when the water came. The people had the choice of being killed in their homes or drowned in the streets, and the indications are that the majority of the victims preferred death in the water

Following the terrible visitation the people of Galveston—one of the richest cities the world ever saw—were starving, literally, n the midst of plenty. Cut off by rail communication with the outside, the only way of getting relief supplies into the place was by boat—a slow means at the best, and all but inadequate in the prevailing stress. Scores perished of hunger while the relief boats were on their way there or being loaded; many of the wounded died for lack of proper medicines and necessary surgical attention; hundreds of the dead remained unburied or their poor bodies were thrust into the sodden ground with no friendly protecting caskets to protect them from the slimy ooze left as a reminder of the awful visitation of the flood.

The condition of things is unprecedented in the history of the United States. Galveston was not a beleaguered town, surrounded by an enemy determined to starve it into submission, but a sorrowful city, overcome by disaster, with 80,000,000 people eager and anxious to aid her, but without the power to send the relief to her.

Most attempts made to bury the dead Monday were failures, as the ground was so water-soaked that trenches, when dug, were almost instantly filled with water. In the higher places some burials were made, but as it was impossible to inter all the dead, authority was obtained from the city to throw corpses into the sea.

For nearly thirty-six hours the situation was appalling and the inhabitants of the town were compelled to face conditions the like of which have rarely been known. The hurricane, before it reached the city, had lashed the waves of the bay into the utmost fury. The water steadily advanced toward the island upon which Galveston is located, and as it was thrown upon the beach by the storm the residents there fled from their homes to the higher places.

Against such a combination of the elements no forethought could provide.

HORRORS OF THE HURRICANE

CITY HALL, IN WHICH 700 INJURED TOOK REFUGE.

SCENE ON COTTON WHARF AT GALVESTON.

COTTON EXCHANGE, GALVESTON

HOSPITAL AND MEDICAL COLLEGE GALVESTON.

EASTERN SECTION OF GALVESTON.

TRACK OF THE GREAT GALVESTON STORM.

STORIES OF THE STORM

Seventy-five outside towns were wiped out.

Several negroes were shot while looting houses.

Helen Gould sent 50,000 army rations to Galveston.

Five thousand families were made utterly destitute.

Ghouls stripped dead bodies of jewelry and articles of value.

Prof. De Voe, Chattanooga, Tenn., predicted the Texas cyclone in an almanac.

The Governors of various States offered aid and sympathy to the Texas sufferers.

The War Department ordered a special train from St. Louis to carry supplies to Galveston.

Martial law was declared at Galveston owing to the rifling of dead bodies and robbery of stores.

Idlers were pressed into service at the point of the bayonet and made to help clear up the debris.

The French government sent a message of condolence to Washington on account of the Texas disaster.

Chicago sent a relief train to Galveston. The Rock Island road offered to transport provisions and furnishings free.

Gov. Sayers of Texas has been asked to call a special session of the Legislature in order to take steps to relieve the suffering. The State has approximately a surplus of $2,000,000.

Not a single church, school or charitable institution, of which Galveston had so many, is left intact. Not a building escaped damage and half the whole number were entirely obliterated.

The dead were gathered up as rapidly as possible, taken to sea on barges and there consigned to their last resting place. This action was necessary to protect the survivors from pestilence.

A soldier while patrolling the beach ordered a man to desist from looting. The fellow drew a weapon, and the soldier shot him dead. The soldier was attacked by four other men, and he killed all of them. He had five cartridges in his rifle, and each of them found a victim. Other men have also been shot.

Some of those whose bodies have been buried in the sea were probably only injured when they were first struck down, but there was no getting relief to them and they perished miserably.

During the storm and afterward a great deal of looting was done. Many stores had been closed, their owners leaving to look after their families. The wind forced in the windows and left the goods prey for the marauders.

RISE AND WANE OF STORM.

Description of the Hurricane that Laid Galveston Low.

The hurricane was predicted by the United States weather bureau to strike Galveston Friday night and created much apprehension, but the night passed without the prediction being verified. The conditions, however, were ominous; the danger signal was displayed on the flagstaff of the weather bureau, shipping was warned, etc. From out the north, in the middle of the night, the wind began to come in spiteful puffs, increasing in volume as the day dawned. By 10 o'clock Saturday morning it was almost a gale; at noon it had increased in velocity. Stupendous waves began to send their waters far inland and the people began a hasty exit to secure places in the city. Two gigantic forces were at work. The gulf force drove the waves with irresistible force high upon the beach and the gale from the northeast pitched the waters against and over the wharves, choking the sewers and flooding the city from that quarter.

Business suddenly came to a standstill; car traffic was impossible and railroad communication was cut off shortly after noon. Wire facilities failed at 3 o'clock and Galveston was isolated from the world. The wind increased in velocity, while the waters rapidly rose and the night drew on with dreaded apprehension. The public school buildings, court house, hotels—in fact, any place that offered apparently a safe refuge from the elements, became crowded to their utmost. Darkness settled on the city like a pall, rain fell in torrents and the wind shrieked with the frightful velocity of over 100 miles an hour. Buildings crushed, carrying death and destruction to hundreds of people.

ONE OF THE GREAT STRUCTURES WRECKED BY STORM.
Longest Bridge in the World, Spanning Galveston Bay.

DEAD IN MANY CITIES.

Great Storm Claimed 800 Victims Outside of Galveston.

The extent and character of the calamity which has befallen the people of Galveston is so great and overwhelming that losses of life and property at other small towns in the track of the hurricane have been lost sight of. There are probably seventy-five villages and towns that were swept by the storm, and in most of these places loss of lives is reported. It is reliably estimated that the loss of life, exclusive of the death list of Galveston, will aggregate 800. Several towns were swept completely out of existence. Through the devastated district the scenes of desolation were terrible to witness. The storm was over 200 miles wide and extended 200 miles inland from the gulf.

In Brazoria and other counties of that section there is hardly a plantation building left standing. All fences are also gone and the devastation is complete. Many large and expensive sugar refineries are wrecked. The negro cabins were blown down and many negroes killed.

ESTIMATE OF STORM LOSSES.

Based on reports believed to be accurate, the following statement is probably as near correct as can be arrived at regarding the losses in the Texas storm:

	Lives lost.	Property.
Galveston	5,000	$10,000,000
Houston	2	300,000
Alvin	2	100,000
Hitchcock	2	75,000
Richmond	3	75,000
Fort Bend County	10	300,000
Wharton	..	30,000
Wharton County	8	100,000
Colorado County	0	250,000
Angleton	3	75,000
Velasco	0	50,000
Other points, Brazoria County	4	80,000
Sabine	0	50,000
Paton	0	10,000
Rollover	0	10,000
Winnie	2	10,000
Belleville	1	5,000
Hempstead	1	25,000
Brookshire	2	35,000
Waller County	3	100,000
Arcola	2	5,000
Sartartia	0	50,000
Dickinson	7	30,000
Texas City	5	150,000
Columbia	8	10,000
Sandy Point	8	10,000
Near Brazoria (convicts killed)	15	10,000
Other points	0	100,000

Damage to railroads outside of Galveston, $200,000.

Damage to telegraph and telephone wires outside of Galveston, $30,000.

Damage to cotton crop, estimated on average crop of counties affected, 50,000 bales, at $60 a bale, $3,000,000.

Total number of lives lost, 5,114.

Total property loss, $15,275,000.

Losses to live stock cannot be estimated, but thousands of head of horses and cattle have been killed all over the storm district.

DISASTER NOT MAGNIFIED.

Total of Deaths in Stormswept District May Reach 10,000.

As indicated by dispatches from Galveston the magnitude of the calamity grows. The newspaper statements seem to have been too conservative in their efforts to guard against extravagance or exaggeration, and the loss of life in Galveston is greater than has been generally reported.

A boat owner of Galveston, Captain Charles Clarke, is quoted as saying that 10,000 would be reached before the mortuary list of Galveston and vicinity would be closed. He has been about on boats in the waters around Galveston day and night since the storm and bases his statement on what he has seen.

J. D. Dillon, commercial agent of the Santa Fe, has returned from a trip over the line of his road from Hitchcock to Virginia Point on foot and he gives a graphic account of his journey, which was made under many difficulties. "Twelve miles of track and bridges are gone south of Hitchcock," said he. "I walked, waded and swam from Hitchcock to Virginia Point, and nothing could be seen in all of that country but death and desolation. The prairies are covered with water, and I do not think I exaggerate when I say that not less than 5,000 horses and cattle are to be seen along the line of the tracks south of Hitchcock. The little towns along the railway are all swept away. When I reached a point about two miles north of Virginia Point I saw some bodies floating on the prairie, and from that point until Virginia Point was reached many bodies could be seen from the railroad track. At Virginia Point nothing remains."

MANY GHOULS ARE SHOT.

Summary Punishment Dealt Out by Soldiers and Citizens.

A reporter telegraphed from Laporte the story of the robbery and mutilation of the dead in Galveston and the death of the offenders. The ghouls were holding an orgie over the dead. The majority of these men were negroes, but there were also whites, who took part in the desecration of the dead.

A party of ten negroes were returning from a looting expedition. They had stripped corpses of all valuables, and the pockets of some of the looters were fairly bulging out with fingers of the dead, which had been cut off because they were so swollen the rings could not be removed. Incensed at this desecration and mutilation of the dead the looters were shot down. During the robbing of the dead not only were fingers cut off, but ears were stripped from the head in order to secure jewels of value. A few government troops who survived assisted in patroling the city. Private citizens also endeavored to prevent the robbing of the dead and on several occasions killed the offenders.

It is said that at one time eight were killed and at another time four. Singly and in twos and threes the offenders were thus shot down until the total of those thus executed exceeds fully fifty.

CITY UNDER MARTIAL LAW.

Soldiers' Bayonets Compel Citizens to Handle Corpses.

Galveston was placed under martial law. The citizens called a meeting Tuesday morning and formed a committee of safety of fifteen. Col. Hawley was made chairman and Chief of Police Ketcham and Walter Jones were made his assistants. Hawley was commissioned to take charge of persons and property on the island. The triumvirate ruling the city pressed citizens into service to take the dead out in barges and bury them in the gulf. Maj. Fayling was ordered to march his troops through the town and force every man they met at the point of the bayonet to go to the wharves to load bodies on barges for the sea. Negroes, business and professional men were driven to the water front, surrounded by a cordon of bayonets and compelled to assist in handling the dead.

RAILROADS HEAVY LOSERS.

Great Property Loss Suffered by the Lines in Texas.

The railroads will suffer the loss of millions of dollars in actual damage, to say nothing of the loss from stoppage of business. At Galveston their wharves, warehouses, depots and tracks are ruined. The costly bridges which connect the island are in ruins and must be entirely rebuilt. The International and Great Northern and Santa Fe have considerable track washed out

COUNT OF 73 CITIES.

THESE SHOW TOTAL POPULATION OF OVER 15,000,000.

They Comprise Those of About 25,000—Four Show a Decrease and Two an Unusual Growth—Majority of Them Show Respectable Growth.

Day after day the punching machines of the census office knock out the population of the United States, and the work of tabulating the returns is now far advanced so far as the cities are concerned. With the figures given Saturday seventy-three cities having a population of 25,000 have been completed. They are scattered over the country from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from the lakes to the gulf, so that it is possible to get a good view of the relative prosperity of different cities and sections. The seventy-three cities enumerated foot up a total population of 15,214,566, or nearly one-fifth of the total for the whole country.

The percentage of movement in population as compared with 1890 runs from a decrease of 27.17 for Lincoln, Neb., to a gain of 113.24 for Atlantic City, N. J. Of the seventy-three cities completed all are of the usual commercial type except Atlantic City, with a gain of 113.24 per cent, and Bayonne, N. J., another small place with a big boom, which sent it up to a percentage of 71.92.

The other cities readily group themselves in classes, and the figures show that there is one with a percentage between 90 and 100 and three with a percentage of gain of between 60 and 70 per cent, and the same number between 50 and 60, while there are seven between 40 and 50.

No less than 19 cities have a percentage of gain between 30 and 40, and 21 between 20 and 30, so that 40 cities have a ratio between 20 and 40, and places with these figures belong to the respectable middle class of American urban life.

There were nine cities with a percentage of gain between 10 and 20, and four were below 10 per cent, but nevertheless showed some gain. Finally, there were four cities with a positive loss in the decade covered by the comparison.

The twenty-one cities with a percentage between 20 and 30 are Washington, 20.96; Rochester, 21.31; St. Paul, 22.89; Syracuse, 22.95; Minneapolis, 23.09; Allegheny, 23.37; Kansas City, Mo., 23.39; Philadelphia, 23.57; Mobile, 23.79; Wilmington, Del., 24.54; Boston, 25.07; Denver, 25.44; Jersey City, 26.64; Louisville, 27.06; St. Louis, 27.33; Fort Wayne, 27.47; Trenton, 27.58; Altoona, 28.47; Manchester, N. H., 29.15; Lancaster, Pa., 29.51; Galveston, 29.93. In this list of twenty-one cities there are two from the South, and both of these, Mobile and Galveston, are on the gulf.

In the list of nineteen cities with percentages between 30 and 40 are Davenport, 31.19; Providence, 32.88; Kansas City, Kan., 34.19; Paterson, 34.24; Pittsburg, 34.78; Newark, N. J., 35.33; Scranton, 35.65; Buffalo, 35.77; Hoboken, 36.01; Peoria, 36.75; New York, 37.9; Wilkesbarre, 37.13; Atlanta, 37.14; Oakland, Cal., 37.55; Portland, Me., 37.67; Racine, 38.48; Detroit, 38.77; Dayton, 36.89; Milwaukee, 39.54.

The four cities which narrowly escaped a black mark with their percentages of increase are Charleston, S. C., 1.55; Richmond, Va., 4.5; Nashville, 6.17; Cincinnati, 9.77. It will be noted at once that three of these four are distinctively Southern cities.

With a percentage of gain between 10 and 20, which is still largely below the average, are nine cities: San Francisco, Col., 14.64; Covington, Ky., 14.9; Quincy, Ill., 15.11; Elmira, N. Y., 15.47; Evansville, 16.26; Canton, Ohio, 17.1; Baltimore, 17.15; New Orleans, 18.16; Salt Lake City, 19.37. The people of all these cities will have to do a little explaining, as a ratio below 20 per cent is considered distinctly disappointing.

Comparing the total gain of the seventy-three cities with the total population at the last census year, the average rate of gain is 33.5 per cent. The enormous increases of New York, Chicago and other large cities bring up the general average. The population total of the seventy-three cities reported is 15,214,566, with a gain of 3,818,509 over 1890.

LEADING CITIES.

Population of the Big Towns as Shown by Figures of the 12th Census.

Cities.	Population.	Increase since 1890.
Greater New York	3,437,262	1,921,901
Chicago	1,698,575	598,725
Philadelphia	1,293,697	246,733
St. Louis	575,238	123,468
Boston	560,892	112,415
Baltimore	508,957	74,518
Cleveland	381,768	120,415
Buffalo	352,218	96,555
San Francisco	342,782	43,785
Cincinnati	325,902	21,994
Pittsburg	321,616	82,999
New Orleans	287,104	45,065
Detroit	285,704	79,828
Milwaukee	285,318	80,847
Washington	278,718	48,326
Newark	246,070	65,240
Jersey City	206,433	43,430
Louisville	204,731	48,602
Minneapolis	202,718	37,980
Providence	175,597	43,451
Indianapolis	169,164	63,728
Kansas City	163,752	31,036
St. Paul	163,632	30,476
Rochester	162,435	28,539
Denver	133,859	27,146
Toledo	131,822	50,388
Alleghany	129,896	24,606
Columbus	125,560	37,410
Omaha	102,555	*37,897
Hoboken	59,344	15,716
Evansville	59,007	50,756
Wilkesbarre	51,721	37,718
Kansas City, Kan.	51,418	13,102
Allentown	35,416	25,228

*Decrease.

Brief News Items.

Mendocino, Cal., mud volcanoes in action again.

Negro victims of recent New York race riots have sued city for $185,000.

James A. Castle, Chicago, one of the first to popularize vaudeville, is dead.

Dr. Stephen Milbury, prominent New York eye, ear and nose specialist, is dead.

Congressman Boutell's trouble is that blood has crystallized in the veins of his head.

At the annual Mormon meeting President Jos. Smith severely denounced polygamy.

New York federated union will send aid to the striking cigarmakers in Porto Rico.

Great demand for trust literature on both Chicago national political headquarters.

A New York jeweler says he recently made a watch at a cost to the purchaser of $20,000.

Joseph B. Noble, a veteran Mormon, was buried at Bountiful, Utah, mourned by thirty children.

More than 800 Chicago wood workers struck because of the refusal of the mill owners to sign the union agreement calling for an eight-hour day.

THE DAYS GONE BY.

O the days gone by! O the days gone by!
The apples in the orchard and the pathway in the rye;
The chirrup of the robin, and the whistle of the quail,
As he piped across the meadow sweet as any nightingale;
When the bloom was on the clover, and the blue was in the sky,
And my happy heart brimmed over—in the days gone by.

In the days gone by, when my naked feet were tripped
By the honeysuckle tangles where the water lilies dipped,
And the ripples of the river lipped the moss along the brink,
Where the placid-eyed and lazy-footed cattle came to drink,
And the tilting snipe stood fearless of the truant's wayward cry,
And the splashing of the swimmer, in the days gone by.

O the days gone by! O the days gone by!
The music of the laughing lip, the luster of the eye;
The childish faith in fairies and Aladdin's magic ring—
The simple, soul-reposing, glad belief in everything.
For life was like a story, holding neither sob nor sigh
In the golden, olden glory of the days gone by.
—James Whitcomb Riley.

ON A PARK BENCH.

TOM CHAPMAN sat on a bench in Lincoln Park, a picture of despondency. Only a few days before he had been discharged from the hospital after being invalided home from the Philippines. His brief soldier career was over, but he could not return to his beloved profession, for his right sleeve hung empty at his side. Never more could he wield brush or pencil. He had hoped to do great things, and others had prophesied them of him, for he had no little talent, and before he enlisted his clever sketches had attracted wide attention. Original and spirited as they were, he and his brother artists had regarded them as only the earnest of what was to come.

"WHY, TOM," SHE CRIED.

"Nothing will come now," he said to himself, bitterly. "All is ended. At 30 I have practically lived my life. I shall drag out a miserable existence on a beggarly pension. Yet were it not for that pension I should starve. Perhaps it would be better not to have it, though. I had rather die than live a dog's life, with no work to do—nothing to look forward to."

Tom eyed the passers-by as though in a dream. He saw weary-looking mothers carrying babies, or trundling baby carts, with other tots, hardly more than infants, clinging to their skirts. Bronzed young men and sunburned girls sped by on their bicycles; lovers strolled along, oblivious of everything but their own happiness; and innumerable other people, in quest of fresh air and coolness, sauntered idly past.

Presently a young woman, quite different from all the rest, came into view. She was tall, distinguished-looking, and faultlessly dressed. She started as she caught sight of the drooping figure on the bench and turned quickly, coming impulsively toward him.

"Why, Tom!" she cried, holding out her hand, "I am so glad to see you. You have made all your friends proud of you. How long have you been home? Why haven't you been to see us? You know mother never leaves town in August. It's one of her hobbies that home is the best place in summer."

Tom had risen awkwardly and taken her extended hand. He had not yet learned to use his left arm gracefully. He could not speak, although he felt that she was talking to cover his confusion.

Miss Hunt sat down on the bench, as naturally as though she had come there for that purpose, and Tom resumed his seat.

"I must congratulate you, Miss Hunt, on your good fortune," he said at last. "I know of no one who deserves wealth more than you."

The girl blushed. "Thank you, Tom! but you didn't answer my question. Why haven't you been to see us?"

"O, I'm a back number. I had better learn to keep in the background."

"You, a hero!" exclaimed Elizabeth, with a shy glance at the empty sleeve.

"I, a useless man, Miss Hunt; without a profession and almost a beggar."

There was a long silence. Tom looked on the ground, ashamed of the words almost wrung from him. Elizabeth stared fixedly before her, keeping back tears.

"Tom," she said, with great effort, "Do you remember what you asked me before you went away?"

"Elizabeth!"

"Do you remember, Tom, and do you still love me?"

"Good God! Elizabeth. Don't you see the difference between us now?"

"Do you love me, Tom?"

"Elizabeth, you torture me."

"You must answer, Tom."

Tom looked at her, his soul in his eyes.

"I love you better than life," he said. Then he added bitterly: "I forget; my life is worth too little for me to put it that way."

"Do—do you—will you—won't you marry me, Tom?"

"You love me, then? Is it possible? It can't be. You are sacrificing yourself because you pity me, Elizabeth. Do not tempt me. I am still a man."

"Tom, you make it hard. I could not talk to you this way unless I loved you," and the girl covered her face with her hands.

"You are an angel, dear, but I cannot take advantage of your goodness. You—young, happy, wealthy—I, mutilated, with only my pension, my future blighted. I should be a coward to listen to you."

"I am not happy. I am wretched. O, why didn't I marry you when I was poor? But I thought a wife would hamper you in your art. I believed so in your future, and would not for worlds have held you back from success."

The man rose from his seat, forcing himself to be calm. "I must leave you, Elizabeth. You tempt me past endurance."

"You are dreadfully unkind, Tom. It's mean for you to tell me that I am unmaidenly. I can't help it. It's your fault. What made you make me love you so?" And stately Miss Hunt burst into tears, regardless of a hundred spectators.

Utterly aghast, Tom sat down and endeavored to comfort her. In ten minutes' time he was her abject slave, and they had pledged their troth.

As they left the park Elizabeth descended from the heights. "O, Tom!" she cried suddenly, "what must all those people have thought of me?"

"Darling," said her happy lover, "did you never hear of being alone in a crowd? Each little group was busy with its own tragedy or comedy."—Chicago Tribune.

CONTROLLING THE SUN'S RAYS.

Seattle Genius Has Patented a Wonderful Device.

Julius Tantrove is a genius who lives in Seattle, Wash. The people there call him professor, because he has patented a device which he claims will do many startling things. A few things that the professor claims his machine is capable of achieving are the blowing up of warships at unheard-of distances, or the melting of them while they are fleeing in desperation for safety, the destroying of forts and powder magazines without coming within rifle range of the place, the burning of a city at any distance less than nine miles and the storage of solar heat for domestic and mechanical uses. The professor makes no mystery of his methods. All he uses is a scientific application of the old burning glass with which small boys set fire to newspapers. The secret of his patent lies in the arrangement of pieces of plate glass so as to concentrate the sun's rays in the most effective manner. He does not use an ordinary lens. His device consists of several immense sheets of plate glass so arranged as to catch a great number of sun's rays and concentrate them at a distance. The professor has found a financial backer in J. C. Sharp, of Salt Lake City, who is said to be enthusiastic over the possibilities of the invention.

The problem of storing or controlling solar heat has been worked on by scientists for years and although "Prof." Tantrove is the subject of much skepticism and ridicule he may have solved the first step in the intricate problem. There must be something individual and novel about the device or the "professor" could not have secured a patent on it. Should it do one-half what the "professor" claims, the methods of modern warfare, transportation, manufacturing and heating would be revolutionized.

BATTLESHIP ALABAMA, QUEEN OF THE AMERICAN NAVY.

The Alabama is the fastest ship of its class in the United States navy. During its trial trip off the harbor of Boston it maintained a speed of seventeen knots an hour for four continuous hours.

Length at water line, 368 feet; beam, 23 feet 6 inches.

Displacement, 11,525 tons; indicated horse power, 10,000.

Armor, nickel steel 4 to 16.5 inches thick.

Armament, four 13-inch and fourteen 6-inch guns.

Speed developed on trial, 17 knots continuously for four hours.

Complement, 490 men.

Stealing His Thunder.

"The man with a slight fresco of yellow mud on his shoes stopped the patent leathered friend and exclaimed:

"Ha, ha!"

"What's the trouble?"

"No trouble whatever. This is joy. My turn has come at last. Aren't you one of the people who used to make fun of me because I lived away out in the suburbs?"

"I believe so."

"Didn't you say facetious things about 'Lonesomehurst,' and when you saw me performing feats of equilibrium with a tall bunch of bundles, didn't you make comic references to the human express wagon?"

"Yes; I believe so."

"Well, I want to call your attention to the fact that I am living only a few hundred feet from where the cars start. I'm one of the few people who are sure of getting seats on a warm evening, and who brush proudly by while you stand in the corner, and implore the conductor humbly, but in vain, to take your 7 cents."—Washington Star.

The Pastor's Strategy.

"In order that everybody may see these stereopticon pictures," said the Rev. Mr. Goodman, who had announced an illustrated lecture on Palestine in lieu of the regular evening service, "I will ask all the ladies and gentlemen present to remove their hats."

He took off his glasses, wiped them, put them on again and looked over his congregation.

"The gentlemen," he observed, pleasantly, "have removed theirs, I see."

He busied himself a moment with his notes, and when he looked at the audience again all the other hats were off.

Whereupon the lights were turned out, and with a subdued ring of triumph in his voice he began his lecture. —Chicago Tribune.

Rare Birds' Eggs.

To one not conversant with ornithology the statement that the eggs and nests of some well-known birds remain yet to be discovered must appear surprising. The eggs of the curlew-sandpiper, a bird familiar in Great Britain, were first discovered last July on an island at the mouth of the Siberian River Yenisei. There are a few other birds which make their nests in remote regions, although living part of their lives among civilized men, whose eggs have not yet been found.

BRINGS OLD SOL TO AID IN DEFENSE.

Newspapers in the British Museum.

In the British Museum there are 16,000 volumes of London newspapers. There are 47,000 volumes of provincial newspapers from England and Wales, and about 9,000 volumes of Scotch newspapers, with something slightly less for Ireland. Last year's accessions were 600 volumes of London newspapers, 920 volumes of provincial papers from England and Wales, 127 volumes from Scotland, and something less from Ireland.

To See Under Water.

An instrument for seeing objects under water has been invented by a hydrographic engineer of Russia. By its aid the bottom of rivers, to a depth of from forty-five to sixty feet, can be distinctly viewed. In the examination of wrecks this submarine telescope will be of great service.

LET US ALL LAUGH.

JOKES FROM THE PENS OF VARIOUS HUMORISTS.

Pleasant Incidents Occurring the World Over—Sayings that Are Cheerful to Old or Young—Funny Selections that You Will Enjoy.

Fair Widow—Yes, I've made up my mind that when I die I shall be cremated, as my husband was.

Gallant Captain—Dear lady, please don't talk about such dreadful things. Consider how much better it would be, in your case, to—er—cross out the c.—Punch.

No Alternative.

"That's a terrible noise in the nursery, Mollie," said the mistress. "What's the matter? Can't you keep the baby quiet?"

"Shure, ma'am," replied Mollie, "I can't keep him quiet unless I let him make a noise."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

A Horseless Carriage.

Right.

School Teacher—What little boy can tell me where is the home of the swallow?

Bobby—I kin, please.

School Teacher—Well, Bobby?

Bobby—The home of the swallow is the stummick.—Tit-Bits.

Another on Chicago.

The Philadelphian—Isn't the mud on this street a trifle deep?

Chicagoan (proudly)—Deep? It is the deepest mud on any paved street in the world!—Indianapolis Press.

His Redeeming Quality.

Judge—You were begging on the public streets and yet you had $20 in your pocket.

Prisoner—Yes, Jedge; I may not be as industrious as some, y'r honor, but I'm no spendthrift.—New York Weekly.

None to Be Married.

Tess—Were there any marrying men down at the shore?

Jess—Yes; it was awfully aggravating.

Tess—Aggravating?

Jess—Yes; there were four ministers and two justices of the peace there.—Philadelphia Press.

Not Surprised.

"Yes," said the man with the bored expression, "I'll admit the truth of every word you say about the weather being oppressively hot. But I don't see the use of making it a topic of conversation."

"Why, it is such remarkable weather that I couldn't help mentioning it."

"There is a point on which I beg to disagree with you. It is not remarkable weather. I have never in all my life known an August when it was not oppressively hot."—Washington Star.

A Habit of His.

"Si," yelled the neighbor from the road, "your wife has jist run off with Bill Johnson."

"She hez, hez she?" answered the farmer in the field; "wall, Bill allays wuz a-borrerin' trouble. Git ap there!" —Indianapolis Press.

New Product for Hens.

Summer Boarder—What kind of fowls are these?

Farmer Landlord—Plymouth Rocks.

Summer Boarder—Oh, yes. They're the kind that lays the corner-stones, ain't they?

Had to Give Way.

"Have your summer vacation plans matured yet, Billy?"

"Oh, yes; but they had to be sidetracked on account of some summer notes that also matured."—Indianapolis Journal.

An Easy One.

Great Actor—I propose making a farewell tour of the provinces. What play would you advise?

Critic—"Much Adieu About Nothing." —Detroit Journal.

Enthusiastic Photographer.

Fair One's Father—Why did you bring that kodak with you?

Poor Lover—That I might catch your expression of astonishment when I asked you for your daughter's hand.—Fliegende Blaetter.

Can't Suit 'Em.

"When he hustles they say it's all for effect."

"Yes."

"And when he quiets down they say he's posing."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Different.

"Dawdler plays golf so well he ought to be a professional."

"Yes, I suggested it to him, but he says nothing would induce him to work so hard in hot weather."

Ugly Little Thing.

Friend—Everybody says the baby looks like you, doesn't that please you?

Mr. Newpop—Oh, I don't know; but I tell you what, I'm glad nobody thinks of saying I look like the baby.—Standard and Times.

Not Headquarters.

"What did her father say?"

"He said he couldn't understand why I came to him—all his property was in his wife's name."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Reasonable.

The Father—Look here, my boy, you told me you would need only $500 for your college term, and now you want $500 more.

The Son—But this is for the things I don't need.—Life.

His First Celebration.

"This month I celebrate my twenty-fourth birthday."

"That's odd—so do I."

"But I celebrate mine for the first time."—Heitere Welt.

Writing a Wrong.

"What's on hand?" asked the city editor.

"I am now going," said the reporter, who had been assigned to a murder story, "to write a great wrong."—Denver Times.

A Drop Too Much.

Hoax—What made the elevator fall?

Joax—The elevator man took a drop too much.—Philadelphia Record.

Fool for Luck.

Quizzell—My wife's the luckiest goose; found a dollar bill to-day and 10 cents last week.

Fizzell—Humph! Mine finds something every day.

Quizzell—That so? What?

Fizzell—Fault.—Detroit Free Press.

A General Term.

"Where did they go for their vacation?"

"To the mountains."

"What mountains?"

"Well, I think they are just in the rear of their Uncle Jim Stebbins' farmhouse down in Southern Illinoy."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Solid.

"Yes, I ate the cake she baked. To make myself solid, you know!"

"Did you succeed?"

"In a sense. I couldn't feel any solider if I had eaten brickbats and cement."—Detroit Journal.

Prodigal's Choice.

"Well, dad," cried the prodigal son, flippantly, "wouldn't you better go out and kill the fatted calf now?"

"Yes, I guess I would," returned the old man slowly. "One calf is enough to keep at a time."—Harper's Bazar.

Why Willie Stays Home.

Mother—Why don't you go out, Willie, and play with Sammy Jones?

Willie—I played with Sammy Jones yesterday, and I don't s'pose he's well enough yet to get out.—Inter Ocean.

Good Alarm Clock.

Employer—I congratulate you on that new baby of yours, Higgins.

Higgins—Thank you, sir.

Employer—And I have no doubt that hereafter you will be waked up early enough mornings to get to the office every day on time.—Somerville Journal.

Another Woman Joke.

"Our women's base-ball club went to pieces."

"Game too exhausting?"

"No, but we couldn't find a lady umpire who would give a decision and stick to it."—Detroit Free Press.

Too True.

"Youngling is going to marry the widow Henpeck."

"Why, she's twice as old as he is."

"Oh, well, he'll age fast enough after the wedding."—Brooklyn Life.

Knew Her Habit.

"That typewriter girl isn't in love with anybody around this office."

"How do you know?"

"Why, when she gets too warm she takes her collar off."—Indianapolis Journal.

Useful.

Fair painter—I hope you don't mind my sketching in your field?

Farmer—Lord, no, missie! You keep the birds off the peas better'n a' ordinary scarecrow.—Tit-Bits.

Good of Its Kind.

"What sort of a table do they set at your house?" asked the prospective boarder.

"Table of waits and measures," said Asbury Peppers in reply. "The first long and the latter short."—London Tid-Bits.

Ordering by the Card.

Diner (to restaurant waiter)—What have you got for dinner?

Waiter—Roast beeffricassedchickenstewediambhashbakedandfried potatoes college puddingmilkteaandcoffee.

Dinner—Give me the third, fourth, fifth, sixth, eighteenth and nineteenth syllables.—Tit-Bits.

Picking Pockets with Toes.

The Gauchos, or dwellers in the extensive plains of Buenos Ayres, are marvelously dexterous with both hands and feet. Many of them have acquired through long practice such skill in using their toes as if they were fingers that they can fling the lasso and even pick pockets with them. Some time ago a Frenchman who was fishing in one of the rivers of Buenos Ayres was warned to be on his guard against the light-fingered natives. He forthwith kept a vigilant watch on his companions, but nevertheless one day when his attention was closely riveted on his float a wily Gaucho drew near and delicately inserting his foot, extracted the Frenchman's hooks and other valuables from his pocket.—Boston Transcript.

Larger the Better.

The wrasses, thick-lipped fish found near rocky shores, differ from most other fish in that the larger they are the better they are adapted for food. They grow to 50 pounds.

CURRENT COMMENT

The arrival of President Kruger at Lourenzo Marques apparently indicates the end of organized resistance on the part of the Boers. This conclusion seems to be confirmed by the dispatch from Captain Reichmann, the American military attache who accompanied the Boers in their campaign. It does not necessarily follow, however, that the invaders are going to find their success a wholly satisfactory one. The Boer armies have been overpowered and dispersed, the Transvaal republic has been obliterated from the map, the British government has taken over the territory of its late enemies. But eventually the inhabitants will have to be governed, and so far no one in authority in England has given an idea of the form of government that the British cabinet intends to set up in the two conquered states. As crown colonies it may be possible to hold them in subjection for an indefinite length of time; but, aside from taxing the gold mines on the Rand, there will not be many practical methods of raising revenue to pay the colonial expenses, and it is not likely that the taxpayer at home will take very kindly to the suggestion that he must foot the bills for running two colonies 7,000 miles away. If the gold mines are heavily taxed their owners will be no better off than they were under Oom Paul. If the Boer inhabitants are overtaxed they will be unable to pay and will either emigrate or rebel at the first opportunity, when Great Britain is in difficulties in Europe, India or China. These and many other questions that will demand a settlement now that Mr. Chamberlain's ends have been gained will make the task of governing the Transvaal and the Orange Free State extremely embarrassing to the victors.

The great value of the weather bureau and the remarkable correctness of its observations, all things considered, have been demonstrated by recent events. It gave warning of the recent hurricane days before it manifested itself on the Texas coast. It anticipated its course from the vicinity of San Domingo until it reached Cuban waters, where it made a deflection no human skill could have foreseen. The bureau was not caught napping, however. It sent out its hurricane signals both for the Atlantic coast and the gulf coast, and when the storm turned from the north of Cuba westward the bureau turned its attention to Texas, and nearly thirty-six hours before the disaster, warned the people of Galveston of its coming, and during that day extended its signals all along the Texas coast. Perhaps still greater accuracy in forecasting was displayed by the bureau in the warnings given out to mariners on the great lakes. Though nearly all lines of communication in Texas were cut off, the bureau kept track of the storm as it swept through Oklahoma into Kansas, and gave timely warning that it would turn northeast, moving across northern Illinois and southern Wisconsin, and thence across Lake Michigan and the northern end of the southern peninsula of Michigan to Canada. In times gone by it has been the habit to jeer at Old Probabilities, and whenever a prediction failed of verification to condemn the weather bureau as unreliable and not worth the expense of its maintenance. During the last few years, however, its operators have gained in skill, and its record now is of a character of which its officials have every reason to be proud and which seems to amply justify whatever expense it may entail by its great saving of life and property.

In the latest government crop report wheat, corn and cotton are all recorded as showing a condition considerably below the average of the preceding ten years, and the effect upon the values of these commodities in the markets of this country has been an appreciable advance. The condition of wheat at harvest, including both winter and spring, is given as 69.6. This is more than eleven points below the average since 1890, which has been 80.9. Nevertheless, there is still a sufficient supply of wheat represented by these figures to insure ample flour for the nation's daily bread, and there will even be a moderate surplus for foreigners who may be willing to pay a reasonable price for it. On the basis of four and one-half bushels of wheat to each inhabitant, estimating the total population at 75,000,000 persons, the requirements of the United States would be 337,500,000 bushels. Allowing 50,000,000 bushels for next year's seed, the amount needed to carry us through to another crop would be 387,500,000 bushels. Experts calculate that the government's figures and the known acreage harvested will result in a crop of about 485,000,000 bushels, so that we shall have nearly 100,000,000 bushels of the crop of 1900 to sell to our foreign friends or to keep in our bins for another year.

The order of President Mitchell, calling out the miners in the anthracite coal region of Pennsylvania recalls the last great strike in the same district three years ago, which was practically ended by the tragedy at Latimer, in which twenty-one miners were killed and over fifty wounded by deputy sheriffs. The strike inaugurated by the United Mine Workers will, for the time being, terminate operations in the most productive hard coal field in the world. The mine employes in the anthracite district of Pennsylvania number about 145,000. The membership of the union is not known to a certainty, but the leaders claim that about 80 per cent of the miners are organized.

A few days ago one of the most destructive storms of the century carried devastation along our southern coast. A great wave of desolation swept over Galveston and all the neighboring district. A wider district was ravaged than in the great storm on the English coast in 1703, and property immeasurably greater in value was destroyed. In twenty-four hours the machinery of relief had been organized and was effectively at work. The government, the railroads, the great industrial establishments, citizens rich and poor joined in the common effort for rescue and relief. This is civilization.

Odds and Ends.

Mrs. E. J. Miller, Sunbury, Pa., found a pearl worth more than $100 in an oyster shell at Atlantic City.

The population of Denver, as announced by the census bureau, was 133,859, against 106,713 in 1890.

By a recent court decision, all squatters on the 60-foot strip along Nome beach, Alaska, must vacate.

The assessed value of all property in California is $1,218,228,588. The value of railroad property is $47,711,755.

Sockalexis, the noted Indian baseball player, was sentenced to thirty days in jail at Holyoke, Mass., for vagrancy.

T. H. Hirschfield, ex-president of the Merchants' National Bank of Helena, Mont., was acquitted of making false reports to the Comptroller of the Currency.

RECORD OF THE WEEK

INDIANA INCIDENTS TERSELY TOLD.

Association for Capture of Horse Thieves—Strife Between Muncie Labor Men—Vincennes Man Shot—Reunion of Brothers Long Separated.

Horse stealing has become so common in Lake, Porter and Laporte counties that the citizens have called a meeting to form a horsethief association of several hundred members. The thieves are supposed to be from Chicago and are well organized. The police think they use a cave somewhere in the sand dunes along Lake Michigan as a rendezvous and take the animals there before running them into Chicago. The association, as soon as a report of a stolen horse reaches it, will scour the country with rifles in search of the gang. Chicago officers will be notified of thefts and will be asked to keep a close watch for the stolen animals.

Labor Men at War.

Muncie window glass workmen have begun a fight among themselves that may cause a general disruption of their organization. Chief Preceptor Frank Bowers of the Over factory was attacked by unknown persons the other night in a dark alley and pummeled into unconsciousness. It is believed the assault was a result of the recent actions of Over's preceptory refusing to initiate new flatteners into the preceptory when President Burns ordered the action. The trouble is widening the breech between the Burns and anti-Burns men.

Killed While Resisting Arrest.

Joseph Hughey, foreman of the farm at the Highland Catholic Orphans' Asylum, Vincennes, shot and instantly killed John C. White, one of the farm hands, who was resisting arrest on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. White had been on a spree, had hit one man with an iron poker and drawn a butcher knife on another. Hughey swore out a warrant and was deputized by the sheriff to make the arrest. White attempted to draw his revolver, when Hughey fired with a shotgun.

Brothers Meet After Many Years.

G. W. Tubbs of Knoxville, Tenn., was one of the principals in a joyous reunion which took place at the home of his brother, Henry Tubbs, in Michigan City. The brothers have been separated since the outbreak of the Civil War and the Michigan City man has been of the opinion that his brother was killed in the strife between the North and the South for over thirty-five years.

State News in Brief.

Miss Mabel Hunter, 14, Bedford, is missing.

Albert Smith's barn, near Bremen, was destroyed by lightning.

A sharp, heavy stone cut off the foot of Walter Wilson, Bedford.

Mrs. W. O. Hogue, 70, wife of a prominent citizen, is dead at Columbus.

New Indiana postmasters: M. W. Barron, Mull; Orville Jackson, Pucket.

Man near Crawfordsville fined $20 and costs for stealing seven roasting ears.

Muncie gas companies say they will introduce meters, and citizens are kicking.

Postoffice at New Augusta will be discontinued, and rural free delivery established.

Muncie Republican Six-footers Club organized. The president is 6 feet 6 inches.

Ephraim Daugherty, 91, Rochester, is dead. He was the father of seventeen children.

Miss Grace Carr, formerly of Crawfordsville, will marry Lord Roseborough of Wales.

Postoffices at Door Village, Hatch Mills and Hesston will be superseded by a rural free delivery from Laporte.

The Dovetail Carriage Company, Crawfordsville, will manufacture automobiles if experiments are successful.

A plant that did the pumping for the Jasper water works was destroyed by fire and the town is without fire protection.

The new Kentucky and Indiana bridge company has filed a mortgage to the Standard Trust Company, New York, for $2,500,000.

James Roach, Young America, dreamed that burglars were after him and jumped from a second-story window, sustaining severe injuries.

While Earl Lockwood, Muncie, was shooting turtles in the river, a bullet glanced off a turtle's back and lodged in the head of Fred Working, 9.

A Logansport man says he saw a duel on the banks of the Wabash, four miles from Logansport. One man was shot in the breast and the other in the thigh.

John B. Crowl, a union printer, carrying a traveling card issued by Chicago Union No. 16, was run down by a westbound Lake Erie and Western freight train while asleep on the track six miles west of Elwood and killed.

Rev. Mahlon Gause, until recently pastor of the Friends' Church at Stillwell, has disappeared and cannot be located. Mr. Gause left Stillwell recently for Charlottesville and thence started for the Pacific coast. The last letter from him bore the date of San Francisco and noted that he had been seriously ill, but was rapidly convalescing.

Diphtheria of a virulent type has become epidemic at Mill Creek, necessitating the closing of the schools. Sixteen cases have developed. The disease has been traced to a woman who came to the village from South Bend with a child suffering with a sore throat. There has been at one time a total of 150 cases of the malady in South Bend.

Jesse Week, 10-year-old son of a farmer near Urbana, was killed by falling off a threshing machine crossing a ditch.

Jean Chorder, a jockey, was fatally hurt in the three-quarter-mile running race at the Converse fair by the falling of his horse, Miss Dadd.

An attempt was recently made to cripple the electric light system at Lebanon. Indianapolis detective worked two weeks on the case, but found no clue.

The census bureau announces that the population of Evansville is 59,007, as against 50,756 in 1890. This is an increase of 8,251, or 16.26 per cent.

At New Albany Otto Marsh, who served in the war with Spain and was known as a champion swimmer, was drowned in the Ohio while swimming across on a wager.

John Vogel, New Albany saloonkeeper, when told that he would die in a few hours, arose from his bed, and, over the telephone, arranged his funeral and business affairs. He died in less than an hour.

A ghost has appeared in the home of George Hilleary, Murphysboro. It leaves peculiar writings in books and answers questions in the same way. The premises have been closely watched, but the mystery continues.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

In Use For Over Thirty Years

CASTORIA

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine.

Rotary Motion and

Ball Bearings.

Porter Depew, Agent.

CHICHESTER'S ENGLISH PENNYROYAL PILLS

Safe. Always reliable. Ladies, ask Druggist for CHICHESTER'S ENGLISH in Red and Gold metallic boxes, sealed with blue ribbon. Take no other. Refuse dangerous substitutions and imitations. Buy of your Druggist, or send 4c. in stamps for Particulars, Testimonials and "Relief for Ladies," in letter, by return Mail. 10,000 Testimonials. Sold by all Druggists.

CHICHESTER CHEMICAL CO. 2100 Madison Square, PHILA., PA. Mention this paper.

Mott's Nerverine Pills

BEFORE AND AFTER USING.

The great remedy for nervous prostration and all nervous diseases of the generative organs of either sex, such as Nervous Prostration, Failing or lost Manhood, Impotency, Nightly Emissions, Youthful Errors, Mental Worry, excessive use of Tobacco or Opium, which lead to Consumption and Insanity. $1.00 per box by mail; 6 boxes for $5.00. MOTT'S CHEMICAL CO., Prop's, Cleveland, Ohio.

Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

MOTT'S PENNYROYAL PILLS

They overcome Weakness, Irregularity and omissions, increase vigor and banish "pains of menstruation." They are "Life Savers" to girlsat womanhood, aiding development of organs and body. No known remedy for women equals them. Cannot do harm—life becomes a pleasure. $1 per box by mail. Sold by druggists. MOTT CHEMICAL CO., Cleveland, O.

Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

PATENTS

DESIGNS TRADE-MARKS AND COPYRIGHTS OBTAINED

ADVICE AS TO PATENTABILITY Notice in "Inventive Age" Book "How to obtain Patents" FREE

Charges moderate. No fee till patent is secured. Letters strictly confidential. Address, E. G. SIGGERS, Patent Lawyer, Washington, D. C.

PILES

Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment will cure Blind, Bleeding and Itching Piles. It absorbs the tumors, allays the itching at once, acts as a poultice, gives instant relief. Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment is prepared for Piles and Itching of the private parts. Every box is warranted. By druggists, by mail on receipt of price, 50 cents and $1.00. WILLIAMS MANUFACTURING CO., Props., Cleveland, Ohio.

Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

DYSPEPTICIDE

The greatest aid to DIGESTION.

Cured of Chronic Diarrhoea After Thirty Years of Suffering.

"I suffered for thirty years with diarrhoea and thought I was past being cured," says John S. Halloway, of French Camp, Miss. "I had spent so much time and money and suffered so much that I had given up all hopes of recovery. I was so feeble from the effects of the diarrhoea that I could do no kind of labor, could not even travel, but by accident was permitted to find a bottle of Chamberlain's Cholic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and after taking several bottles I am entirely cured of that trouble. I am so pleased that I am anxious that it be in reach of all who suffer as I have." For sale by H. B. McCord.

The Alamo Bell.

The bell that hung in the Alamo at the time of its capture and massacre of its garrison was discovered at a sale of old iron in San Antonio last week. Miss Adina de Zaoclia, of that city, president of the Daughters of the Republic of Texas, bought the relic, which will be placed in Alamo. The bell is eighteen inches high, fourteen inches in diameter, and weighs about thirty-five pounds. The date "1772" is engraved on it, together with the words "San Antonio" and the Spanish coat of-arms. The clapper of the bell is missing.

Cuts and Bruises Quickly Healed.

Chamberlain's Pain Balm applied to a cut, bruise, burns, scald or like injury will instantly allay the pain and will heal the parts in less time than any other treatment. Unless the injury is very severe it will not leave a scar. Pain Balm also cures rheumatism, sprains, swellings and lameness For sale by H. B. McCord.

An Automaton.

For nine years Lewis Philip Perew, of Tonawanda, N. Y., has been working upon an automatic figure of wood and metal, in the likeness of a man. Now he has it completed and it walks. In a week or so it is to be started on a western transcontinental trip on which it will pass through northern Indiana towns enroute to Chicago. Seven feet, five inches high, of excellent proportions, this mechanical man is to every appearance a human being.

An Editor

Of Clarence, Iowa, Mr. Clark Smith, writes: "Since the agency of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin was established here I have been a user of what I can call 'that excellent medicine.' For a year or more I have been troubled with constipation, indigestion, dyspepsia, etc., and I find that this remedy is just what I have needed." H. B. McCord.

—The Post Office at Clayton, Ind., was broken into Thursday night and robbed of $300 in stamps and $115 in cash. No clue.

Stop a Minute,

And consider if the pills (no matter what kind) you have taken for your constipation have really done you any good. Are you not more and more liable to this trouble? Try Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin if you want sure relief, 10 doses 10 cents, also in 50c and $1.00 sizes at H. B. McCord's.

Wanted Him Informed.

An Atchison woman of 75 recently inherited a little money, and the first person she made sure was informed of the news was an 80-year-old man, who jilted her when she was 15.—Atchison Globe.

Kendallville fair, Sept. 24 to 28.

Wednesday's Daily.

—Join the army of your friends and go to the Kendallville fair one day, at least.

—Trustee Huet of Fairfield was here today making his settlements with the auditor.

—A farmer near South Bend claims to have raised a watermelon this year that weighed sixty-five pounds.

—Rev. Mr. Hirsch and wife are rejoicing over the arrival of a little daughter in the household —'Squire Grube reports his wife greatly improved and substantially recovered from her long illness.

—Gov. Mount and staff are to be in Fort Wayne tomorrow. Half fare and a special to return at ten p. m.

—Mrs. Will Eckhart and two children and M. B. Willis and wife drove up into Richland township today.

—E. Zimmerman and wife went to St. Joe this afternoon to attend "president's day" of the St. Joe L. L. C.

—James McDowell has bought the James Griswold barn and will move it to his lot to make a wood house.

—The seawave merry-go-round passed through town yesterday on its way to Fort Wayne. It made many a child ast wistful eyes at it.

—Dr. Baxter was called to Moores this morning to set a broken arm for Charles Moore, who was kicked by a horse. It was his left arm and the Dr. reports it doing well.

—A good many consumptives would be cured and the worst cases comforted and relieved by using Foley's Honey and Tar. Suggest it to those afflicted. You should do this as a friend. H. B. McCord.

—WANTED:—About 25 or 30 cords of good body wood, 18 or 20 inches long, either beech, hard maple or hickory. No dosy or sour wood will be accepted, but must be cut from green timber.—J. C. HENRY.

—Major Kuhlman, Capt. Lahnum, Lieut. Jolliff, Sergeant Hilkey, Hayden Wheelock, Charles Picker, Roy Garrett and Wilson Feagler are among the veterans of Co. K who went to Fort Wayne this afternoon to attend the reunion of the 157th.

—John Kruger will have a pretty good place for his grocery on East Ninth street. He was selling goods there last evening, while the men were at work with jack screws, lifting his building up to a level with the street. He had apparently been selling goods enroute. John is a hustler.

—Eph Raub reports a lot of damage out his way and elsewhere by the wind. John Wheteels standing corn which was very heavy, is broken, torn and twisted till it will be difficult to to get it saved. Dan Swihart's clover seed was blown against the fence and over into the road. Haystacks have the tops torn off, fruit on the ground and much other damage done.

—A letter from S. Z. Dickinson at Douglas, Mich., says he did not get the last two papers. The last but one was sent him, but not the last one, as we understood he was going to the G. A. R. meeting at Chicago and from there back to Waterloo. However, we will make it all right now. He says he is living on peaches, plums, pears, and watermelons. Peaches are shipped by the thousand to Chicago every day, and net only about 40 to 45 cents a bushel the boat.

Thursday's Daily.

—Bronson Snyder of Franklin was here today.

—A girl baby is reported at the home of James Weeks east of town.

—We hear of a marriage on South Cedar street last evening, the parties being Mr. Kruse and Mrs. Smith.

—Mrs. Sarah Miller and Mrs. Mina Prey of Helmer were here yesterday to visit Pearl Ashelman who is a relative.

FOR SALE:—A team of good work horses, with wagon and harness; also a good, fresh milch cow. See John Groscop. d1wtf —Dean Metcalf, son of D. D. Metcalf has gone to Uplands, Ind., to attend school at the Taylor University at that place.

—D. T. Smith has found that his well went dry recently, and he had to drive it deeper. It was about tirty-five feet, and now it is over sixty. But he now has an excellent supply of the coldest and purest water.

Hall's Hill, Tenn., Nov. 12, 1898.
Cured a young lady of rheumatism some time ago with four bottles of Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm. The doctor had discharged the case because he could give her no relief.—B. R. Bivins. For sale by F. E. Davenport.

—The Bishop family held a reunion today at the home of Peter Bishop at Spencerville. Among those who went from Auburn were Ed. Bishop and wife, Mrs. G. A. Bishop and the two children, Bertha and Walter; S. J. Zimmerman and wife. Mrs. Lena Patterson was already there and expects to return with the rest this evening.

—DeKalb county came near bein interested in the Galveston disaster. Charles Hill, son of Elijah Hill of Waterloo was there when the storm came. He is an expert in the inspectian and location of engines and boilers, and was there overseeing the placing of an engine in some of the large establishments. But when the water came in till it was several feet deep, he got out. His people have a dispatch from him that he is safe and sound.

CASTORIA.
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

—Job Work—The COURIER.

Friday's Daily.

—The coming reunion of the 44th Indiana is at Ligonier, Oct. 16 and 17.

—Mrs. Mary Fretz, whose critical illness we have already noted, died last evening.

—WANTED:—Black Walnut logs for timber. Highest cash prices paid for ame. Address, The Sanders & Egbert Co., Goshen, Ind. 8

—Ulcers, open or obstinate sores, scalds and piles, quickly cured by Banner Salve, the most healing medicine in the world. H. B. McCord.

—The census for cities of over 25,000 has been about completed, and later on they will come down to the smaller ones like Auburn, Garrett and Kendallville.

—South Bend has a population of 35,990. The gain during the past ten years was about 65 per cent, or the largest of any city so far reported in the state.

—John Kelley of Kendallville was over here again yesterday with his "horseless automobile" as the boys call it. It was a rapid affair. He went home by way of Waterloo.

—E. S. Townley is shipping corn in the ear, yesterday he sent off his fourth car load. He lives south of town and is a nephew of John Shugers. He has been shipping hay for several years.

—Allen Halverson of West Prairie, Wis., says: "People come ten miles to buy Foley's Kidney Cure," while J. A. Spero of Helmer, Ind., says: "It is the medical wonder of the age." H. B. McCord.

—Ex-President Cleveland has declined the president's appointment as a member of the international board of arbitration under The Hague treaty. Ex-President Harrison has accepted the appointment.

—One of those rare cases of hair turning white in great mental trial is said to have happened at Galveston. A man with brown hair on Saturday had white hair Sunday morning caused by the night of terror.

—"I had a running sore on my leg for seven years," writes Mrs. Jas Forest of Chippewa Falls, Wis., "and spent hundreds of dollars in trying to get it healed. Two boxes of Banner Salve entirely cured it." H. B. McCord.

—A. F. Cox and wife of Richland were in town Thursday. They attended the Cox-Eckert reunion, of which we have a notice. Most of the relatives were present, except their son, George, whose home is at Muncie, where he is practising law.

—By the time a man has saved up enough money to have a palm or a Brussels carpet in his parlor, his daughter has reached the "company" age, and he is not allowed to sit there. The kitchen or back porch is good enough for dad.

—Columbia City Post.—Perry G. Austin, of Hecla, left this city Tuesday evening for Indianapolis to look after the patent he recently secured, which was an attachment to a buggy top. He will try to arrange for the manufacture of it.

—Li Hung Chang has a peculiar name. Many believe the first name suits him best and that he deserves the second. But they are at a loss what to do with Chang. In the language of the puzzle makers, Li could say, "My first is what I do, my second is what I deserve, my third is what you please to make it."

—J. F. Clouchek of Michican City was doing business here yesterday. He is traveling in the interest of a large manufacturing plant, the Maple City Soap Works, and has been in their employ for some time. We were pleased to meet him, as he is a near neighbor of the editor's brother in that place He reports all well.

—Married yesterday, Sept. 13, 1900 in Auburn by Rev. W. L. Meese, Charley Glenn Murphy to Catherine Elizabeth Key. They were accompanied by his brother, Lynde A. Murphy and wife of Garrett, who were united in marriage by Mr. Meese Sept. 4, 1898. This will make another couple for the Meese matrimonial reunion in Waterloo next June.

—YOUNG MEN WANTED:—With fair education and good character, to learn telegraphy, railroad accounting and typewriting. This is endorsed by all leading railroad companies as the only perfect and reliable institution of its kind. All our graduates are assisted to positions. Ladies also admitted. Write for free catalogue. Fall term opens August 15th.—Globe Telegraph College, Lexington, Ky. tf

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy a Great Favorite.

The soothing and healing properties of this remedy, its pleasant taste and prompt and permanent cures have made it a great favorite with people everywhere. It is especially prized by mothers of children for colds, croup and whooping cough, as it always affords quick relief, and as it contains no opium or other harmful drug, it may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. For Sale by H. B. McCord.

No Relief for Twenty Years.

"I had bronchitis for twenty years," said Mrs. Minerva Smith of Danville, Ill., "and at times have been bedfast. I never got relief until I had taken Foley's Honey and Tar. It is pleasant and gives quick relief, and is a sure cure for throat and lung diseases." Take nothing else. H. B. McCord.

Stops The Cough and Works off the Cold.

Laxative Bromo-Quinine Tablets cure a cold in one day. No Cure, no Pay. Price 25 cents.

What Will Bryan's Plurality be in Indiana?

76 Guesses

$1,000 To The Winners

$1,000

IN PRIZES to 76 subscribers to THE INDIANA STATE SENTINEL who come nearest guessing the plurality Indiana will give Bryan over McKinley.

The publishers of The Indiana State Sentinel will award seventy-six prizes to seventy-six subscribers, who at any time before the close of the polls Tuesday, Nov. 6, correctly estimate or come nearest doing so, Bryan and Stevenson's plurality over McKinley and Roosevelt in Indiana.

First prize	$300.00
Second prize	200.00
Third prize	100.00
Fourth prize	75.00
Fifth prize	50.00
Sixth prize	25.00
5 prizes of $15 each	75.00
5 prizes of $10 each	50.00
10 prizes of $5 each	50.00
25 prizes of $2 each	50.00
25 prizes of $1 each	25.00
	1,000.00

NOTE—The result will be decided from the vote cast for the head of the democratic electoral ticket.

If the unexpected should happen and Mr. Bryan not carry the state, then the lowest plurality guess, or the one nearest the result, will get the prize.

Where two or more guesses are the same, the first one received will be awarded the prize.

Guessers should be careful to write name and address plainly, and also state whether they are an old or new subscriber.

Conditions.

Any subscriber, old or new, is entitled to one guess on payment of 50 cents—one year's subscription—received at this office before the close of polls on election day—Tuesday, Nov. 6, 1900. The name of subscriber remitting the money will be recorded with the figures of his guess. The receipt of money, as well as his estimate of Bryan and Stevenson's plurality over McKinley and Roosevelt in Indiana, will be acknowledged, and should be laid aside by him until the official vote of Indiana shall have been ascertained, when the names of prize-takers will be duly announced in these columns.

If your subscription is not paid in advance pay it now and participate in this great distribution of actual money. If your subscription is paid in advance, send us 50 cents for another year and give a guess. You stand a chance of getting $300 for 50 cents, and if you do not hit a prize you have your money's worth in The Indiana State Sentinel, the greatest family newspaper in the West.

SEND in your 50 cents with your guess at once. Your judgment is as likely to be correct at this time as it is the day before election. Be careful to date your guesses, and remember you can have as many guesses as you take subscriptions to The Indiana State Sentinel.

CUT THIS OUT AND SEND TO INDIANAPOLIS SENTINEL CO.
INDIANAPOLIS, IND.

SENT BY .....

P. O. .....

COUNTY..... STATE.....

My Guess Bryan and Stevenson's plurality over McKinley and Roosevelt in Indiana will be..... Enclosed find 50 cents for which send THE INDIANA STATE SENTINEL for one year

TO .....

.....

If The Indiana State Sentinel is already going to this address send for one year from date present subscription expires.

Saturday's Daily.

—Isaac Hague has 242 feet of new cement sidewajk to build.

—Art Steele and family are home after a weeks visit at Fort Wayne.

—See the brilliant display of electric lights at Schaab's big establishment.

—Mrs. Austin's pancake flour is famous the world over. All grocers sell it.

—Postoffice at New Brunswick, Boone county, closed. Rural delivery takes its place.

—Abe U. Loeb, Lafayette, has been made first lieutenant for gallantry at the battle of Tien-Tsin.

—FOUND.—A handkerchief with a house key attached. Owner can have same by calling at this office.

—Mrs. Mart Sheets, Mrs. E. T. Cochran and Mrs. J. E. Ensley go to Chicago tomorrow to visit friends.

—Some of the pupils of the Goshen high school were dismissed because the rooms were infested with bird lice.

—Rural free delivery will be established at Colfax, Kendallville, Pittsboro, Rossville and West Terre Haute.

—Mrs. Dr. Johnston has gone to Ft. Wayne, where she will visit her daughter, Mrs. E. S. Kandel about ten days.

—100 MEN WANTED.—At the Wabash Portland Cement Works, Stroh, Indiana. Call soon at above address. 39

—Christ Ashelman writes from France, that he expects to come home about Oct. 1. He has gone through Scotland and other countries.

—Mrs. J. E. Ensley entertains at tea this evening in honor of Miss Mary Tuttle of Galion, Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. James Gilliland and daughter Etta.

—Judge Penfield is at home now on his vacation having reached here Thursday evening. He is looking the picture of health, and reports J. R. Lamson and wife well also.

—Before you buy lath see the fine stock of the Saginaw product at the lumber yard of A. Lewis & Co. They have reason to think they have about the best there is in the market. a1tf

—The reason the time of holding the Meese reunion was changed to June instead of its old date, was to keep out of the way of numerous other meetings that are held in August and September.

—J. E. Pomeroy had to go Butler yesterday to work a case in justice court. There was more of that trouble between John Houlton and George Carpenter. The latter was fined on charge of provoke.

—When you want a pleasant physic try the new remedy, Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. They are easy to take and pleasant in effect. Price, 25 cents.—Samples free at H. B. McCord's drug store.

—J. W. Jackman of Grant township has a daughter that is not afraid to handle a gun. A few days ago she took her gun and went for a large snake that had been taking their small chickens. She found him and blew his head off. He was a monster of his kind measuring six feet five inches. The chickens are having a rest, now.

—Try the Sunday suppers at Had's.

MONEY TO LOAN

At 5 %

We are prepared to place loans on farm property in DeKalb county in sums of $700 and upwards for 5 years at 5 per cent with the priviledge of paying the same in payments of $100 or any multiple thereof at any interest pay day.

RICHARDS & BIRDSALL,
Hicksville, Ohio.

Half the World is in Darkness.

as to the cause of their ill health. If tney would start to treat their kidneys with Foley's Kidney Cure, the weariness of body and mind, backache, headache and rheumatic pains would disappear. H. B. McCord.

Streets Paved with Glass.

In Geneva, Switzerland, glass blocks are used to pave the streets. They are made of the refuse from the glass factories and give great satisfaction. They are pleasant to the eye and very durable.

How Bright's Disease Starts.

Indigestion, biliousness, blood poison with urea and uric acid (which should have been excreted by the kidneys), rheumatic pains in nerves and joints, causing irritation of the kidneys, then pains over the small of the back, mark sure approach of Bright's disease. Do not delay taking Foley's Kidney Cure, for it makes the kidneys right. Take no substitute. H. B. McCord.

Half Rates so Indianapolis, Ind.

Via Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

Account National Association Democratic Clubs, Quadrennial Convention.

October 1 and 3 the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company will sell excursion tickets from all local stations in Ohio to Indianapolis, Indiana, at rate of one fare for round trip, account National Association Democratic Clubs, Quadrennial Convention. Tickets will be good for return until October 5, 1900.

For further information call on or address nearest Baltimore & Ohio Ticket Agent, or B. N. Austin, General Passenger Agent, Chicago, Ill. 39

One-half the News

Comes from our neighbors. A neighbor of Joe Crook's of Bridgton, Ind., told him of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. He is cured of a case of indigestion that kept him down 12 years. Mr. Crook wishes us to refer anyone to him who doubts the wonderful cure he found in Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which has gained an honorable foothold as a true remedy for constipation, indigestion, sick headache and stomach trouble. H. B. McCord.

E. W. Grove

This signature is on every box of the genuine Laxative Bromo-Quinine Tablets the remedy that cures a cold in one day

When Your Heart Flutters.

That is not heart disease. That is no terrible heart failure; that is indigestion, the prime cause of all short breath and sudden jumping of the heart which so frequently follows an exertion of any kind. Go to the drug store. Get a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. No more need be said for after you use it once, you will never fail to keep it in the house. H. B. McCord.

Kendallville fair, Sept. 24 to 28.

Millionaires Race on Sunday.

Alfred Vanderbilt and John Davis, two of the Newport summer colony's millionaires, shocked the pious people of the resort on a recent Sunday by racing their automobiles through the streets just as the churches were dismissed.

Foley's Kidney Cure

is a pure medicine, and contains in concentrated form, remedies recognized by the most skillful of the medical profession as the most effective agents for the cure of kidney and bladder diseases. H. B. McCord.

HERE is a medical lecture in a nutshell. The Kidneys drain water and impurities from the blood. The Liver makes bile and helps to drive off other waste. If these organs work badly the body becomes a cesspool and disease pets in. You must get them into healthy action or die.

Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver & Kidney Balm

is an old and unsurpassed remedy for Backache, Debility, Sleeplessness, Lost Appetite, Foul Tongue, Palpitations and all other symptoms of disease in those organs. It cures as well as prevents every serious trouble in Kidney, Liver or Bladder. At druggists, $1.00 per bottle. THE DR. J. H. MCLEAN MEDICINE CO., ST. LOUIS, MO.

For sale by F. E. Davenport.

THE AUBURN COURIER.

Volume XXX | Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana, Thursday, September 27, 1900. | Number 39.

The Farmers Bank of Auburn,

Uunder State Supervision and Control.

Capital and Surplus.... $50,000.00

Assets at Last Official Statement..... $346,278.95

Pays interest on deposits if left four months; Loans money and transacts a general banking business.

YOUR BUSINESS IS SOLICITED!

ALBERT ROBBINS, President;
A. C. ROBBINS, Cashier

The McClellan Bank,

AUBURN, IND

Certificates of deposits issued, drawing interest if left six months. County and Town Orders bought and sold. Money Loaned on Farms, Personal Security, or Live Stock. Notes bought.

G. A. O. McCLELLAN, ESTATE CHARLES McCLELLAN D. A. GARWOOD, ISAAC HAGUE } C. A. BENEDICT, Cashier

Physicians and SURGEONS

D. J. Swarts, M. D
Vesta W. Swarts, M D

Office at Auburn Sanitary Baths, corner Main and Sixth Streets,

Professional Calls Promptly Answered.

PHONES: Western..... No. 19
Central Union..... No. 19

Sprott & Knapp,

Abstracters of Titles to Land and Lots,

AUBURN, IND.

☞ Office in Gandy Block, North of Court House.

J.E. Graham, D.D.S.

DENTIST

Over Davenport's Drugstore, Auburn, Ind.

CROWN AND BRIDGE WORK A SPECIALTY.

All Work Guaranteed } Gas Administered.

CENTRAL 'PHONE 513.

Will be at Waterloo each Wednesday in Dr. Darby's Office

DENTIST F. W. HOFFMAN,

Auburn, Ind,

Office in Gandy Building, Northeast Corner of Court Square.

WESTERN 'PHONE 103.

Crown and Bridge Work a Sprcialty.

DR. Z. H. STAMETS,

Physician & Surgeon

Office on Main street opposite Swinefold Hotel.

Western 'Phone 104

Special attention given to all diseases of stomach and kidneys, and to chronic and obscure diseases; surgery and diseases of women and children. Calls answered at all hours. Office apart from residence.

There is Money in Junk

for you if you bring it to H. Greenburg who

PAYS BEST CASH PRICES

for rags, rubber, copper, brass, zinc, lead, scrap iron and all kinds of hides and furs. Also buys and sells second-hand materia. stoves and furnaces, etc. Persons having second-hand material to buy or sell it will be to their interest to see

H. GREENBURG,

North VanBuren St.,

Auburn, Indiana.

L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE—in Effect April 29, 1900.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Stations	Mail	Exp'ss	Fre'g
Fort Wayne.....	11 55 am	5 00 pm	5 55 am
New Era.....	12 19 pm	5 20	6 40
Auburn Junction..	12 30	5 48	7 10
Auburn.....	12 36	5 48	7 25
Waterloo.....	12 43	6 01	8 25
Summit.....	12 52	6 13	8 50
Steubenville.....	12 54	6 15
Pleasant Lake....	1 09	6 32	9 20
Angola.....	1 15	6 38	9 30
Jackson.....	2 25	8 45	3 00

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations	Fre'gt	Exp'ss	Mail
Jackson.....Sp	6 10 am	11 45 am	7 40 am
Angola.....	11 08	2 19 pm	9 46
Pleasant Lake....	11 26	2 30	10 00
Steubenville.....	.....	2 34	10 10
Summit.....	11 00	2 39	10 20
Waterloo.....	12 45 pm	2 55	10 55
Auburn.....	1 00	3 05	10 44
Auburn Junction..	1 05	3 09	10 47
New Era.....	1 16	3 19	10 58
Fort Wayne.....	2 30	3 50	11 25

For rates on tickets or freight to all points call on or address R. P. DeLAPP, Agent Auburn.

Commissioners' Allowances.

TO THE TAX PAYERS OF DEKALB COUNTY.

I herewith submit to you a list of the allowances made by the Board of Commissioners at their July, August and September terms 1900.

JULY REGULAR TERM—ACCOUNT OF SALARY.

R W Guilford.....$	30 00
John H W Krontz.....	66 00
do deputy.....	6 00

STATIONERY AND OTHER SUPPLIES.

Wm Burford.....$	96 20
do	16 00
do	16 00

PRINTING.

Jas A Barns.....$	11 00
J W Wagner.....	14 50

JAIL INCIDENTALS.

F E Davenport.....$	35 57
Steel & Son.....	20 45

CRIMINALS BOARD AND WASHING.

H B McCord.....$	75
J H Hathaway.....	83 60

BRIDGES.

J J VanAuken.....$	9 50
E S Townley.....	12 50
G M Ditmar.....	1 00
do	5 25

ELECTRIC LIGHTS.

Auburn Water and Electric Light Works.....	26 47

GRAVEL ROADS

Ora Quance.....$	15 00

TELEPHONES.

Cent Union Telephone Co.....$	1 15

CORONERS INQUEST.

E T Campbell.....$	5 25

ASSESSING.

Sprott & Knapp, per diem Co assessor.....$	16 00
Fredk Schulthess, per diem Co assessor.....	84 00
J A Dennison, assessing Grant township.....	125 00

COUNTY FUND.

Schaab Furniture Co. burial of soldier .....$	40 00
A E Chapman, burial of soldier.	32 00

MISCELLANEOUS.

F P Seiler, stationery.....$	3 00

PUBLIC BUILDINGS.

Chas Bolton.....$	11 08

AUGUST REGULAR TERM—ACCOUNT OF SALARY.

John H W Krontz.....$	78 00
do deputy.....	15 00
H E Coe.....	172 00
R W Guilford.....	30 00

BRIDGES.

Chas H Frick.....$	96 50
Geo Jennings.....	90 00
Ward Wecsecox.....	6 00
Art Woodcox.....	19 50
Frank Scholes.....	13 75

STATIONERY AND OTHER SUPPLIES

John H W Kronts.....$	4 50
Smith & Higley.....	3 50
John H Hathaway.....	2 50

CRIMINALS BOARD AND WASHING.

John H Hathaway.....$	85 00

MDSE FOR COUNTY ASYLUM.

O E Clay.....$	52 50
Schaab & Bro.....	24 90

WATER AND LIGHTS

Auburn water and electric light works.....$	2 12
Auburn water and electric light works.....	11 00
Auburn water and electric light works.....	10 21

TELEPHONES.

Cent Union Telephone Co.....$	13 95

PUBLIC BUILDINGS.

Fred F Shaffer.....$	14 00
J Roberts.....	7 14
Wilson Humphreys Co.....	14 00
F P Seiler.....	1 15
F E Davenport.....	2 50
A Lewis & Co.....	3 50

SALARY BOARD OF REVIEW.

R N Crooks.....$	54 00
Fredk Schulthess.....	54 00
James Provines.....	54 00

CORONERS INQUEST.

E V Campbell.....	$17 40

COUNTY FUNDS.

Treas Garrett school board books and supplies for poor children .....$	23 20

MISCELLANEOUS.

D M Link, special legal services .....$	25 00
J H Hathaway per diem Coms court.....	26 00
J H Hathaway summons Coms court	1 80
J H Hathaway serving subpoenas	2 40
J H Hathaway serving notices.	53 25

SEPTEMBER REGULAR TERM—ACCOUNT OF SALARY.

Frank P Seiler.....$	700 00
M F Long.....	600 00
J H Hathaway.....	406 72
F M Hines.....	525 00
M C Jones.....	375 00
John H W Krontz.....	36 00
H E Coe.....	96 00
D M Link.....	25 00
Allen Shultz.....	62 50
D A Sebring.....	78 30
Isaac Gunsenhouser.....	62 50
R W Guilford.....	30 00
Henry Baker.....	17 55

SALARY COUNTY COUNCIL.

B F Cornelius.....$	10 00
O H Taylor.....	10 00
Sol Barney.....	10 00
G I Patterson.....	10 00

SALARY SUPT. COUNTY ASYNUM.

A and M Bartels.....$	150 00

LABOR COUNTY ASYLUM.

I Anthony .....$	36 00
Curt Crumlauf.....	54 00
Ida Humberger.....	26 00
Ella Sternberg.....	16 25

AID TO POOR.

Furnished by——to.

CONCORD TOWNSHIP.

Mabel Henderson, J J Steward $	15 00
W W Carey, M Malone.....	11 50

NEWVILLE.

V C Bronson, Mr. Kelley.....$	19 00

TROY.

W Eddy, Susan Davis.....$	2 00

GRANT.

A S Farrington, Mrs J Smith.$	21 00
L E Zirkle, Chas Morrison....	75
do J C Smith.....	1 86
G W Crooks, Jennie Brown...	2 90

RICHLAND

A F Phillips, R O Graham....$	5 50
W H Crane, V Rohm.....	7 50
Jas Finch overseer of poor....	10 00
Hebel Bros, Jos Reeder.....	2 20
do do	2 20
do do	2 20
E Knour and son, Mrs M J Camp	14 50
D A Sebring, Jos Reeder.....	11 00
O F Rudolph, Phoebe Knox...	8 50
do Mary Jane Nye.....	15 00
do Henry Zitzman.....	15 00

FAIRFIELD.

Frank Broughton, Sarah Rowe$	2 00
Shaffstall & Son, Bert Rowe..	15 00

KEYSER.

Joseph Singler, Mrs Lockway.$	2 00
do Minnie Long.....	3 00
do Mrs Bassie.....	12 50
A J Stewart, Edna Eby	2 25
Ed Kelham overseer of poor...	2 50
do do	9 00
J P Strouse, Keyser poor.....	40 00

UNION.

S Hollister, W M Blakley.....$	15 00
A W Madden overseer of poor.	8 00
do Transient poor.....	3 82
Vesta M Swarts, Jane Sears...	3 50
Jonn Kruger, Mrs Fred Smith.	12 00
D W Jenner, J R Forkner....	2 00

SMITHFIELD.

J C Boyer & Co, Cyrus Crocker$	24 93

WILMINGTON.

J J Eakright overseer of poor..$	4 00
do J B Falkner.....	52

BRIDGES.

Frank Scholes .....$	5 55
Geo L Jones.....	72 00
Burt Kline.....	10 50
Stephen Sprankle.....	6 75
James Gonser.....	3 00
Martin Stahl.....	9 00
S A Greenawald.....	12 96
H B Cox.....	10 50
S E Krum.....	16 50
A Dillman.....	5 25
T F Carey.....	99 00
Dan Wyatt.....	28 90
LaFayette Bridge Co.....	1230 00

COUNTY FUND.

Wm R Coburn, care Frank Coburn .....$	12 50
Anna Hammon, care Clara Hammon.....	12 50
Ella S Budenworth, care orphan poor	65 75

CRIMINALS BOARD AND WASHING.

John H Hathaway.....$	82 75

WATER AND LIGHTS.

Auburn water and electric light works .....$	21 80

TELEPHONES.

Central Union Telephone Co. $	80

STATIONEY AND OTHER SUPPLIES.

F W Willis.....$	3 75
F P Seiler	2 74
Smith & Higley.....	2 00
J A Barns.....	3 75

PUBLIC BUILDINGS.

Pioneer Hardware Co.....$	11 28
Culbertson & Boland.....	10 50
A W Madden.....	1 00

MISCELLANEOUS.

H E Coe, expense of institute..$	50 00
do office rent.....	5 00
M F Long, court allowances...	6 95
do office expenses.....	3 20
A Kinsey, burial of soldier, Bal	3 00

Respectfully submitted,
F. P. SEILER, Auditor.

Auburn, Ind., Sept. 19, 1900.

Like Galveston.

The Stroh Times says:—A regular western sandstorm swept over this place last Tuesday afternoon followed by rain in the evening. It is thought that this was the tail end of the great Texas storm. The wind began to rise about 1 o'clock and about 3 o'clock the fury of the storm was in full blast, the sand was blown so hard that it was almost impossible to be out of doors. The fury of the storm kept increasing. As 7 p. m. some thought the town would blow away. Mrs. Hilliard an assistant at Hotel Fuller was in the hallway when a strong gust of wind blew in the glass of the door, pieces of which struck her in the eye and cut her face quite badly. Her eye is in a bad condition.

During the severe storm the roof on the large sheep barn owned by Mr. Samuel Newman, living north of here was blown off.

The storm also visited its wrath on Bert Pence and blew in the roof of his blacksmith shop causing some damage. Doors and windows of houses had to be kept closed during the storm.

The majority of the tents were nearly all blown away and those that are left are in a sorry looking condition. Mr. Jackson's tent at Elmira was blown clear to the lake. The great storm began to subside about two o'clock and at three o'clock all was quiet along the banks of the Big Turkey.

Notice of Dissolution.

Notice is hereby given that the partnership known as the Specialty Buggy Co. is this day dissolved by mutual consent. The business will be continued and all bills paid by Wm. Eckhart

Auburn, Indiana, } Wm. Eckhart
Sept. 17, 1900. } Charles Eckhart.

Our Saturday Evenings.

CHAPTER XLIX.

Few realize the full extent of the possibilities of human weakness till they meet and converse for a time with some one who has seen better days, and better conditions and has of his own volition abandoned both. Such changes are almost always the result of bad company and consequent dissolute habits. The first downward step seems of little account, but a sufficient number of such brings one to the bottom of the ladder.

We were led into this train of thought not long ago, as the result of a brief visit.

A brisk voice called through the office window and looking up, saw him leaning unsteadily with his hand on the ledge, with a friendly, though rather leering smile at the man of pencil marks. After a brief talk he passed in a paper, fairly written, which we give verbatim:

"An itinerant painter and engraver called and told us an incident in his wanderings of a few days ago down near Sherwood, Ohio. He called and asked for a night's lodging, and the wife and daughter being there alone gave him some blankets and showed him a place in the hay loft where he could rest in comfort. They tucked him securely and then came out later with a lantern to see that he was all right. The kittens laid down beside him and purred, and the little house dog slept in his arm. When he awoke in the morning the pigeons perched on his shoulders and the chickens would not get out of the way—he had to step over them. He says all in all its the finest family, from mother down to chickens, that he has ever met in his wanderings from Texas to Maine. Their names were Miller."

It turned out that this droll story was literally true.

And here was a man who had been well educated, well reared, whose people are respectable, his brother-in-law served several terms with credit, in congress; others have occupied honorable places, and all are well-to-do and would blush could they see him as we did, holding his tall form unsteadily upright, against our office railing.

He is not entirely lost to a sense of his condition and no amount of kind words would tempt him to admit that his name was anything but "Big Fred," though C——d is a name that generally commands respect. And he had served his country as a lad in the great rebellion, had stood between the old flag and its foes. There are marks of bullets plainly visible on his forehead, and, and his service as a "rough rider" of '61 to '65 was honorable. Who knows but the excitements and temptations of the long service, were the cause of his downfall. Six feet tall, straight, and when sober, of a soldierly bearing, one could not avoid thinking of the various degrees of want, of privation, of dangers, through which he had passed. And not because he could not have lived in comfort and honor. But because strong drink was stronger than his will, stronger than his powers of resistance.

We parted at the door with, "Well, I must go to dinner," to which Big Fred remarked, "Well, I have no dinner to go to."

Well, whose fault was it? It is not for us to answer. It may be his own It may be adverse circumstances. It may be the temptation of strong drink, which, once fastened on its victim is ever present.

Where is Big Fred tonight? Sleeping perhaps under the tree whose overhanging boughs are at least an imaginary shelter, or perhaps in some retired fence corner, on the soft, long blades of the neglected grass, or with nothing between him and mother earth but a couple of old newspapers borrowed from some printing office, and no shelter above but the starry heavens. Once he was lost for ten years. And then word came to his people that he had died in Georgia. There was mourning in the northern homes for the wanderer who would never return, and a tombstone was sent to place at his supposed grave. His grave was not finally located. He was then wandering aimlessly in Texas.

Like the Wandering Jew, he is still moving on, goaded on by an insatiable appetite that, as it cannot be quenched, drives its victim further and faster and lower, till the wretched end comes. When will the end come, and how, and where? So we can only repeat. Where is Big Fred tonight?

NOTICE FOR SUPPLIES.

Requisition for Supplies for DeKalb County Poor Asylum.

The Board of Commissioners of said county will receive sealed bids for supplies up to October 4 1900 for quarter ending December 31, 1900.

GROCERIES AND DRY GOODS.

Commissoners reserving the right to reject all bids at their discretion, may demand a bond from the successful bidder, conditioned upon the fulfillment of their contract.

Requisition and sample of goods may be seen at the Auditor's office.

FRANK P. SEILER, Auditor.

Auburn, Ind., Sept. 19, 1900.

Price of Hard Coal.

The Chicago Record has some information as to the price of hard coal that will be of interest just now. It says:—The price of anthracite coal is fixed by the railroad companies, but I have not been able to discover how or upon what basis it is done. The fluctuations are frequent and irregular, for which there seems to be no rational excuse. It costs just the same to mine coal one day as it does another and the transportation charges have not varied for a quarter of a century—they are always 40 per cent of its value—and the production and consumption have increased steadily at the rate of 1 per cent a year for the last ten years, so that one would think that the value of coal would be as uniform as the value of gold, but during the last five years the price at the mines has fluctuated between $1 51 per ton, the minimum, and $2 04, the maximum.

The following table shows the average price at the mines of all the several kinds of coal upon the first day of July and the first day of January of the years named:

	January.	July.
1897.....	$1 822	$1 3535
1898.....	1.8744	1 8062
1899.....	1 741	1.784
1900.....	1.95	1.81

The railway companies absolutely control the coal trade. They regulate prices and production, and are rapidly securing ownership of the mines and undeveloped territory. They are eight in number, as follows: The Reading, Erie, Ontario & Western, Pennsylvania Coal company, Delaware & Hudson, Lackawanna & Western, Lehigh Valley and Jersey Central. Although the railroads claim that they have no pool, or trust, or agreement, or combination of any kind, they appear to have an understanding and work together with perfect harmony. They share the traffic in proper proportions and charge the same rates, which are 40 per cent of the selling price of their cargoes at the place of destination. The maximum haul is 150 miles or thereabouts. That is, when coal is selling for $5 a ton the railway company that hauls it 150 miles gets $2 and the producer gets $3. The producer claims that this is an unfair and excessive charge, but is compelled to pay it or he cannot get his coal to market. Therefore, nearly all the producers sell their coal to the railway companies at the mouths of the mines and save no further trouble about it.

The average wholesale price of all the different grades of anthracite coal at New York for nine years past is as follows:

1861.....	$3.48	1896.....	$3.32
1892	3 67	1897.....	3.43
1893.....	3.32	1898.....	3.34
1894.....	3.32	1899.....	3.32
1895.....	2.97

These prices were arbitrary and were fixed by agreement among the railway companies, and there is no rational explanation for the extraordinary variations. It did not cost a penny more to produce a ton of coal in 1893, when it sold for $3.79 a ton, than in 1895, when it sold for $2 97, and the falling off in price caused a corresponding loss to the stockholders of the railway companies. Since 1883 there have been produced over 300,000,000 tons of coal, and if the price of the year had been maintained the owners of the mines and the railways would be richer now to the extent of $150,000,000 or thereabouts. The average price of coal during all the years since 1893 was $3.28, or 51 cents less than the maximum in that year.

All Got Left.

D. D. Moody had a funny experience yesterday. He had a case in court up at Angola and went there on the train to attend to it, expecting to meet his clients there. And as he would have no chance to get home later than the train that leaves there about 2 p. m. he arranged with Geo. Deal to drive up there in the afternoon and bring him home in the evening. Mr. Deal went on the long, lonely journey, got to Angola about supper time and found that Mr. Moody was not there, and so he had another lonely trip home. The facts were, Mr. Moody, on getting to Angola found that his clients had not come, and he turned about and took the train home, getting here a short time after Deal had started north. But it also happened that soon after Mr. Moody left Angola, his clients arrived there. So there were three parties disappointed at once.

At The Smoker.

At the smoker held in the Maccabee hall Tuesday evening, they report a great success. They had the regular review till 8:30 when they went into informal session and Sir Knight Turner took charge of the smoker. There were short speeches by various members, and then a contest in story telling by Sir Knights Cochran and Green. At the close of the contest, honors were even. It was all very entertaining. For refreshments there were cigars, grapes and peaches. There was also a good address on "Fraternity" by Sir Knight Snyder. The affair was voted a great success.

CASTORIA.

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

Royal

BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure

Makes light, flaky, delicious hot biscuits, rolls, muffins and crusts. Makes hot bread wholesome. These are qualities peculiar to it alone.

I have found the Royal Baking Powder superior to all others.—C. GORJU, late Chef, Delmonico's.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 100 WILLIAM ST., NEW YORK.

Soldier's Letter.

PRESIDIO, SAN FRANCISCO CAL.
September 14, 1900.

DEAR MOTHER:—I take pencil in hand to let you know where I am at (and am well and hope when these few lines reach you will find you the same.) We had a very tiresome trip of it going over three different railroads, the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul from Fort Snelling to Omaha, the Union Pacific from Omaha to Ogden, Utah; and the Central Pacific from Ogden to San Francisco. It was a very delightful trip but very tiresome. From Fort Snelling to Omaha we did not see very much of interest only the pretty farms and crops. At Omaha we started on the Great Western prairie, seeing no trees for three days, but we saw lots of cattle ranches, coyotes and prairie dogs. We struck the mountains in the western part of Nebraska and then we saw the beautiful scenery. We went through Cheyenne. Wyoming, and up Sherman Hill, which is 8,200 feet above sea level, and through Granite Pass the highest railway point in the world. Then we started over the top of the Rockies for Ogden going over the table lands. At Ogden we struck the Great American Desert where we did not see any living thing for two days, only at the watering places which were about forty miles apart, until we struck Truckee, evada. Where the Truckee River flows along there was fine timber, water and cattle lands. Then we started through the Sierra Nevada range of mountains. Going up the mountain we had the grandest scenery I ever saw until we struck the snow sheds which are forty miles long, and then we did not see much, as we could not see through the sides of the sheds. We could see out every once in a while as there was open space to took out of. When we got on top of the mountains there was a pretty lake with water shooting about one hundred feet in the air and we saw how they mined gold They have a large hose and they force the water through a large nozzle, and they wash down the sides of the hill and then wash out the gold from the dirt. We went around a large mountain and could look down the side about two thousand feet into the river and it was very beautiful but it did not look safe to take a tumble down. Then we started down the mountain with two big engines on our train and we dropped nearly 7,000 feet in forty miles. On the mountains it was chilly and we could see peaks covered with snow, and then when we got down in the Sacramento valley it was nice and warm. We arrived at San Francisco at seven o'clock, September 11 after being on the road 5½ days and 6 nights. We are camped at the Presidio where all of the troops come to before going off to the far off Philippine Islands. There are about twenty six hundred wounded and sick soldiers here now and one battalion each of the 5th, 8th, 13th, 18th and detachments of almost every regiment in the U. S. Army. But we get along all right. Around San Francisco we have fine views. We are along the harbor front just a little way from the Golden Gate. Well, ma, I will have to close for this time hoping to hear from you soon. We leave here for Nagasaki, Japan about Tuesday of next week but I think we go to the Philippine Islands. So good by. Write soon, From your son

S. A. ANKNEY.

Co. G. 8th U. S. Infantry.

W. C. T. U. NOTES.

A BOY'S DREAM.

I read of a boy who had a remarkable dream. He thought the richest man in town came to him and said: "I am tired of my house and grounds; come and take of them, and I will give them to you." Then came an honored judge and said: "I want you to take my place; I am weary of going into court day after day; I will give you a seat on the bench if you will do my work." Then the doctor proposed that he take his extensive practice, and let him rest, and so on. At last, up shambled old Tommy, and said: 'I'm wanted to fill a drunkards grave. I have come to see if you will take my place in these public houses and on the streets."

This is a dream which is not all a dream. For every boy in this land today, who lives to grow up, some position is waiting, as surely as if rich man, judge, doctor or drunkard stood ready to hand over his place at once. Which will you choose, boys? There are pulpits to be filled by God-fearing ministers, and thousands of other honorable places; but there are also prison cells and drunkard's graves. Which do you choose?

***

Lord Roseberry's warning has become true already: "If you do not control the liquor trade, the liquor trade will control the country."

When Frances Willard was conducting a great campaign in one of the States on the issue of license, a liquor dealer said to his supporters, "We are bound to win; we have the drinking men on our side; we have the money on our side; and money is power, and don't you forget it." Two nights later, Frances Willard said in the same hall, "We are bound to win; we have the women on our side; we have the Christian church on our side; we have God on our side; and God is power and don't you forget it."

***

Dr. Joseph says things in a stirring way: "I could make a garden of Edon in the east end of London in three months if I had my own way. I should do nothing but burn down all the breweries and shut up all of the saloons."

***

The working rule of the saloon is not "money or your life," but "money and your life."

Special Notice.

Office of county Auditor:

There will be a special meeting of the County Council at the Commissioners room in Auburn DeKalb county Ind. on Friday September the 28, 1900, at 10 o'clock a. m. To make an additional appropriation for truant officer and other business that may legally come before the board.

FRANK P. SEILER, Auditor.
Sept. 19, 1900.

Stop a Minute,

And consider if the pills (no matter what kind) you have taken for your constipation have really done you any good. Are you not more and more liable to this trouble? Try Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin if you want sure relief, 10 doses 10 cents, also in 50c and $1.00 sizes at H. B. McCord's.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, - Publisher.

1900. SEPTEMBER. 1900.

Su	Mo	Tu	We	Th	Fr	Sa
						1
2	3	4	5	6	7	8
9	10	11	12	13	14	15
16	17	18	19	20	21	22
23	24	25	26	27	28	29
30

F. Q. 2nd. F. M 9th. L. Q 15th. N. M. 24th.

EVENTS OF INTEREST

THAT OCCURRED DURING THE PAST WEEK.

Tersely Told Telegraph Tales in Brief Paragraphs—Many Casualties—A Few Crimes—Some Fires—Political and Religious News.

Regimental Reunion at Marion, Ind.

The eighteenth annual reunion of the 75th and 101st regiments Indiana Volunteer Infantry will be held at Marion, Ind., Thursday and Friday, October 4th and 5th. At the campfire it is desired to hear from every member of the regiments present, speeches being limited to five minutes that all may be heard. All comrades who will be present and make a few remarks are requested to notify the President, Geo. W. Steele, at as early a date as possible, in order that their names may appear on the program. Ample accommodations have been provided for members and their wives.

Answers "No."

The United States' answer to Germany's proposition for seeking out the instigators of the trouble in China prior to peace negotiations has been sent to the Kaiser. The answer as agreed on, it is said, is a refusal to accede to the proposal. While pointing out that the United States has insisted from the first on the punishment of the authors of the outrages those can be best found and the guilt established during the progress of negotiations.

Last of the "Six Hundred."

The last of the Balaklava survivors, James A. White, is dead. He had lived near Upper Sandusky, Ohio, since 1857. The battle was made famous by Lord Tennyson's "The Charge of the Light Brigade" and from all that is now known Mr. White was the last one of the twenty survivors. Six hundred and twenty-five men made the charge and more than six hundred were killed.

A Battle in the Philippines.

Manila special: An engagement has taken place near Sinilean, province of Laguna Bay, between 1,000 rebels armed with rifles and detachments of the fifteenth and thirty-seventh infantry regiments. The Americans fought gallantly though they were waist deep in water. They lost twelve killed, including Captain Mitchell and Lieut. Cooper, twenty-six wounded, and five missing.

Death From Lead Pencil.

Miss Pauline M. Sabin, aged 20 years, a clerk in T. P. Culp's dry goods store, Alliance, Ohio, died from blood poisoning caused by the pencil she carried in her hair while at work in the store. The disease baffled the skill of many physicians who were called into consultation. It originated in a slight scratch by the point of the lead pencil.

Did Dewey Do It?

In an interview with Lieut. R. P. Hobson, published in a Vancouver, B. C., paper, Hobson is quoted as saying that Admiral Dewey did not sink the Spanish ships at Manila, but that the Spaniards opened the valves and scuttled the ships themselves. He said according to the interview, that our shell fire did very little damage.

Robbers Get $15,000.

The First National Bank of Winnemucca, Minn., was robbed of about $15,000 at noon Thursday, by three men who entered the front door of the building, and with revolvers made all present throw up their hands. They made Cashier Nixon open the safe and take from it three sacks of gold coin, which they secured and rode off.

Resort Town Destroyed.

Spring Lake, N. J., a summer resort near Sea Girt, was destroyed by fire. Among the buildings burned were three of the largest hotels in the place, eleven fine cottages and several stores. The total loss is estimated at $250,000. Most of the cottages and hotels had closed for the season.

Cincinnati For C. E.

The trustees' executive committee of the United Society of Christain Endeavor has voted to accept the invitation of Cincinnati to hold the twentieth international convention in that city in 1901, providing that satisfactory railroad rates and local arrangements are made.

Four Lives Lost in Storm.

Four more lives were lost in a furious gale which swept the Massachusetts coast early Friday morning. The men were members of the crew of the fishing schooner Mary Whalen. The Mary Whalen arrived at Boston bringing the news.

Fort Wayne Masonic Temple Attractions.

Oct. 3.—"Si Plunkard."
Oct. 5.—Cole and Johnson in "A Trip to Coontown."
Oct. 6.—Walker Whiteside.

Two Men Drowned.

A cook and a dock hand were drowned in North River, at New York, by the sinking of the tug America. The steamship Minnehaha struck her.

May Build a Dyke.

A dispatch from Galveston, Texas, says: Plans for the construction of an immense dyke to protect the city from another flood disaster are being discussed by engineers here. The residents are severely criticized for their failure to take precautions against a repetition of the flood of 1886. Extracting bodies from the wreckage continues, and more than 400 bodies have been recovered on the beach. At Texas City the United States Marshals are refusing persons admission to Galveston who cannot show good reasons for coming. The city is still under martial law.

Forty Hurt in Collision.

About forty racegoers were injured in a collision which occurred on the Yonkers, N. Y., trolley system. Two cars, traveling in opposite directions on a single track at the rate of ten miles an hour, came together with terrific force. Three of the victims will probably die.

Killed by a Policeman.

Edward Morse, just returned from Nome, was shot and instantly killed by Policeman Fred A. Ribbach at Seattle. Ribbach found Morse and two comrades attempting to commit burglary in the White Chapel district and tried to arrest them.

FARMER KILLED FOR HIS MONEY

Peter Hartman Falls Victim to Thugs in Chicago Levee District.

Three thugs dragged Peter Hartman, a farmer from Burkett, Ind., into an alley at 294 State street, Chicago, at midday, and in an attempt to rob him took his life. The instrument used was a beer bottle. The crime was witnessed by several bystanders, who ran to Hartman's assistance and scared the thieves away. After a 12-hours search, that culminated in a desperate struggle, Inspector Hartnett and Detectives Quinn and O'Malley of the Harrison street police station, captured two of the men implicated in the murder. The men, who gave their names as John Cummings and John Callahan, have been positively identified. The sum of $33 was found on Hartman at Relston's morgue. Letters on his person told that he had been working this summer near De Kalb, Ill., and was on his way home to his sick wife. He was to have left late in the afternoon. While waiting for his train he was in several saloons in the levee district, where he met the three men, and it is thought Hartman let it be known that he had money in his possession.

SERVANT POISONS CHILDREN.

Said to Have Been "Getting Even" for the Withholding of Wages.

Bertha Chumko, a servant, 17 years old, was locked up by the New York police, charged with poisoning three children of Louis Elkin, a wholesale paper manufacturer. The poisoned children are Louis, 5 years old; Arthur, 8, and Catherine, 3 years. The girl broke a Dresden china lamp costing $180. Mrs. Elkin told her that she would have to pay for the lamp and refused to give her the week's pay due. The girl, it is alleged, threatened to "get even." At dinner roast chicken was served. When Louis had eaten a small piece he said his lips were burning. The boy fell back in his chair unconscious. The other children fainted after they had eaten some of the fowl. The servant fled. When arrested she denied the crime before she was accused.

STEADY INCREASE OF BUSINESS.

Sharp Rise in Cotton Holds Prices of Staple Commodities.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: "Prices of staple commodities are higher for the week, hoisted by the sharp rise in cotton, but in manufactured products there is little change, though steady increase of business at the current level is satisfactory. More orders are being received at iron mills, and prices are steady. In structural and finished material there is much business, and activity is becoming almost universal in the iron region. Boots and shoes begin to recover after many weeks of idle wheels throughout New England. In the wool market sales last week aggregated 2,643,000 pounds, against 12,056,500 a year ago. Failures for the week were 195 in the United States, against 149 last year, and 30 in Canada, against 32 last year."

SHOT BY HER FATHER.

Tragedy Due to Anger at Girl's Choice of Company.

Erastus M. Davis, an ex-policeman who lived at 214 Eightieth street, Chicago, killed his daughter Eleanor, 17 years old, shot and seriously wounded Harry Connelly, in whose company she was, and then, turning the revolver against his breast, sent a bullet through his own heart. The tragedy took place near the Davs home. The knowledge that Eleanor was soon to marry Connelly, whom he had forbidden her to see, was the cause of Davis' deed.

Mystery in Man's Death.

Mystery shrouds the death of a man whose body was found in the St. Charles Hotel, Brooklyn. He was identified as Henry G. Barbour. Two bullet wounds in the man's mouth leave a suspicion that he was murdered. A handsome blonde woman who entered the hotel with him hurriedly departed before the body was discovered.

Mystery in a Man's Death.

The body of Patrick Mulheren, a prominent citizen of Sandusky, Ohio, who disappeared three weeks ago with $2,400 in his pockets, was found in a marsh near there with the skull crushed in. Four negroes were arrested at the time of his disappearance, but in the absence of sufficient evidence they were released and cannot now be found.

Storm Kills Forest Fires.

The forest fires which have been raging near Plymouth, Mass., were extinguished by a storm. The loss on buildings is $90,000; on timber, $350,000, and on cranberry bogs, $60,000, bringing the total to $500,000.

Starch King Leaves $3,000,000.

The will of the late Thomas Kingsford, the Oswego, N. Y., millionaire starch manufacturer, directs that the property be divided according to the statute. The estate is estimated to be worth $3,000,000.

"Model Child" Kills Self.

Juda A. Fleeze, known as the model child, the most beautifully formed, from an artist's view, is dead by her own hand in New York. She eloped with a youth of 16, then two years her senior. Poverty evidently caused the deed.

G. E. Townlee Found Dead in Bed.

George E. Townlee, aged 65 years, one of the best-known business men in Indiana, was found dead in bed at Indianapolis. He was of the firm of Fred P. Rush & Co. His wife and children are in Europe.

Insane Captain Is Killed.

Captain Charles McQuestion of the Fourth United States infantry, now in the Philippines, while insane shot down several of his men and was in turn killed in self-defense by a soldier.

Exonerates Father on Scaffold.

Ira O. Jenkins was hanged at Bismarck, N. D., for the murder of August Stark. He left a letter stating that his father, who had been suspected of complicity in the crime, was innocent.

Diver Has Fight for Life.

While wearing a diver's suit at the bottom of a cove near the torpedo station at Newport, George Brown, a seaman gunner, had a thrilling fight for life with a shark, in which the shark was killed.

Daring of an American Boy.

A young American, 15 years old, Hazden Bartlett Harris of New York, accompanied by two guides, has returned from a complete ascent of the Gros Glockner, the highest of the Austrian Alps.

Resignation of Oom Paul.

Kruger has formally resigned the position which he held as president of the South African republic, thus severing his official connection with the Transvaal.

Admiral Sicard Dies.

Rear Admiral Montgomery Sicard, who for fifty years had been in the United States navy, died suddenly at Westernville, N. Y. Death was due to apoplexy.

Three Attempts at Train Wrecking.

Three attempts were made the other night to wreck Union Pacific trains west of Abilene, Kan. Ties were piled on the track in front of the local passenger train and the "Flyer" west bound, and heavy iron on the track before the "Flyer" east bound. The obstructions were discovered and trains stopped in time to prevent any damage.

BURGLAR QUAILS BEFORE GIRL.

Met by 17-Year-Old Florence Foley with Revolver and Gives Up.

Miss Florence Foley, 17 years old, an Evanston, Ill., high school girl, daughter of Michael Foley, a contractor, foiled a burglar at her home the other afternoon. She met the housebreaker with his booty, leveled a revolver at his head, and made him disgorge the valuables he had stuffed in his clothes. Then she forced him to walk down the steps and out the front door. About noon Miss Foley heard some one open the front door and go upstairs lightly. Her father had gone for the day and she was alone in the dining room. Suspecting something wrong, she got her father's revolver and slipped upstairs to investigate. Like a flash she covered the strange man with the pistol and demanded that he unload his booty.

RABBI'S SON LOSES BRIDE.

After a Day's Honeymoon, It Is Alleged, Bridegroom Disappears.

Harry Simon Lasker, the 19-year-old son of Rabbi Max Lasker, and his bride of a day have been torn apart at St. Louis by their difference of religious belief. Miss Ethel Leslie became Lasker's bride Saturday and Sunday, she says, his relatives took him away. She and her mother charge that the youthful bridegroom is held by his parents locked in a room. Having failed to recover her husband by persuasion, she intends to bring legal proceedings against his parents. Before they were married young Lasker vowed that for love of Miss Leslie he would give up father, mother and home and dare the ban of his church.

SEARCH ENDS IN DEATH.

Missing Farmer's Relatives Seek Him in Mine and All Three Die.

When William Flick, a farmer of Rimerton, Pa., did not return from the mine on his farm, to which he had gone in the morning to dig a load of coal, his sister started in search of him. She entered the mine and stumbled over her brother's body and was unable to arise. Later the mother of the two, frightened by their absence, went to the mine. She, too, was overcome. A rescue party found the three victims. They lay together and were dead from damp.

BIG STEEL MILLS RESUME.

Several Plants Closed Since Famous Gates Order to Start Again.

Oliver's south side plant of the American Steel and Wire Company has resumed operations at Pittsburg and orders have been issued to start the Anderson plant and the rod mill of the same concern. The mills have been closed since the Gates order last April. The resumption is caused by the return of confidence in the iron and steel trade and the heavy demand for wire and nails. Employment will be given to several thousand men in the district.

Buys an Old Battlefield.

The State Comptroller's department of New York has bought for $12,000 a plat of twenty-five acres of land at Lake George, the scene of one of the conflicts of the French and Indian war, and the property is to be added to a plat of ten acres in the same locality, purchased in 1898, for the purpose of establishing a State park.

Running Fight with Robbers.

Early the other morning an attempt was made to blow open the safe of the Wilton, Wis., bank by three men, but it was frustrated by citizens who were passing and heard the explosion. They hastened to the bank and a running fight ensued, several shots being exchanged. The robbers made their escape.

Priest Gets Stolen Gems.

In Paris jewelry to the value of $2,500 has been returned through the confessional to a French countess, whose name is concealed.

Hurt in Engine Explosion.

The boilers of a Santa Fe locomotive exploded in the yards at Chicago. The engineer, J. R. Jackson, and the fireman, E. Breckenridge, were severely injured.

Fatal Smashup in Indiana.

Two men were killed and several injured in a smash-up between express and freight trains on the Lake Erie and Western near Muncie, Ind.

Mob After Dowie Followers.

At Mansfield, Ohio, a mob drove Zion Elder Ephraim Bassinger of Bluffton, Ind., and two of Dowie's followers out of the city.

Big Fire at St. Petersburg.

The Hoth English rope works of St. Petersburg were burned, with a loss of $750,000.

Elections in Cuba.

Cuba's elections passed off quietly. The Nationalists triumphed in the province of Havana.

Bryan Accepts Nomination.

William J. Bryan's letter of acceptance of the Democratic nomination for President has been made public.

MARKET QUOTATIONS.

Chicago—Cattle, common to prime, $3.00 to $5.90; hogs, shipping grades, $3.00 to $5.45; sheep, fair to choice, $3.00 to $4.20; wheat, No. 2 red, 77c to 78c; corn, No. 2, 40c to 41c; oats, No. 2, 21c to 22c; rye, No. 2, 51c to 52c; butter, choice creamery, 18c to 20c; eggs, fresh, 13c to 15c; potatoes, 33c to 36c per bushel.

Indianapolis—Cattle, shipping, $3.00 to $5.80; hogs, choice light, $5.00 to $5.57; sheep, common to prime, $3.00 to $4.00; wheat, No. 2, 75c to 76c; corn, No. 2 white, 41c to 42c; oats, No. 2 white, 23c to 24c.

St. Louis—Cattle, $3.25 to $5.85; hogs, $3.00 to $5.55; sheep, $3.00 to $4.00; wheat, No. 2, 73c to 74c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 38c to 39c; oats, No. 2, 20c to 21c; rye, No. 2, 52c to 53c.

Cincinnati—Cattle, $3.00 to $5.50; hogs, $3.00 to $5.55; sheep, $3.00 to $3.75; wheat, No. 2, 75c to 76c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 42c to 43c; oats, No. 2 mixed, 21c to 22c; rye, No. 2, 55c to 56c.

Detroit—Cattle, $2.50 to $5.55; hogs, $3.00 to $5.40; sheep, $3.00 to $4.00; wheat, No. 2, 77c to 78c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 42c to 43c; oats, No. 2 white, 23c to 24c; rye, 53c to 54c.

Toledo—Wheat, No. 2 mixed, 78c to 79c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 41c to 42c; oats, No. 2 mixed, 21c to 22c; rye, No. 2, 53c to 54c; clover seed, prime, $5.80 to $6.75.

Milwaukee—Wheat, No. 2 northern, 75c to 76c; corn, No. 3, 40c to 41c; oats, No. 2 white, 24c to 25c; rye, No. 1, 52c to 53c; barley, No. 2, 50c to 51c; pork, mess, $11.00 to $11.35.

Buffalo—Cattle, choice shipping steers, $3.00 to $5.70; hogs, fair to prime, $3.00 to $5.75; sheep, fair to choice, $3.00 to $4.50; lambs, common to extra, $4.00 to $6.00.

New York—Cattle, $3.25 to $5.75; hogs, $3.00 to $5.95; sheep, $3.00 to $4.50; wheat, No. 2 red, 89c to 81c; corn, No. 2, 46c to 47c; oats, No. 2 white, 26c to 27c; butter, creamery, 19c to 21c; eggs, western, 17c to 19c.

SCENE IN TREMONT STREET, GALVESTON, AS THE TIDAL WAVE RECEDED.

GALVESTON COUNTS HER DEAD.

Grand Total of the Storm's Victims Is About 6,500.

Those killed in Galveston during the great storm number about 6,500. The identified dead number 4,175; unidentified dead recovered, 300; estimated number missing, 2,000. Grand total, 6,475. There are also 300 lives lost on the mainland.

Laborers are still scarce and Gen. Scurry said that he could give employment to several thousand men. A few mechanics from other places have immediately found work. Many architects and contractors are preparing plans for new buildings and other improvements. Building material is needed, but its delivery is necessarily slow, owing to the lack of rail communication with the mainland.

There are still many pitiable cases of destitution. Many half-demented persons positively refuse to leave their wrecked homes and as persistently refuse to accept offers of relief extended them. In several instances parents who have lost children still occupy ruins of their former home and the surroundings have brought them to a state of mental and physical collapse.

The number who have gone insane as a result of their experiences will probably never be known. In every lot of refugees sent out of the stricken city there have been some insane men and women. The victims first make light of their losses, and laugh immoderately when telling of the death of relatives in the flood. It is a quick step from this to uncontrolable madness.

There are no developments which would lead to the belief that the estimate of a property loss of $22,500,000 is too high, writes a correspondent. While one occasionally finds a business man whose property has not suffered greatly, it must be stated that the class is hopelessly in the minority, and that large losses are the rule. The people are becoming more cheerful every day and it is more than remarkable to observe the composure exhibited by some of them under the terrible circumstances. Everybody seems to be doing all there is to do toward ultimate rehabilitation and the determination to build a city which will be bigger and broader in every way than the one which has been destroyed appears to be general.

The sound of the hammer is beginning to be heard throughout the city and every man not engaged in the grim work of looking and caring for the dead is patching up the holes made by the great tidal wave. The spirit displayed by citizens is remarkable. They seem determined to immediately begin to rebuild the stricken city and want building material as speedily as possible.

Galveston's Pluck.

While the catastrophe at Galveston is calling forth proofs of sympathy and a spirit of practical helpfulness on every hand, the people of Galveston themselves are giving the world an equally notable proof of courage and sturdy resolution. The situation as it has developed there from day to day has afforded a striking evidence of their ability to pull themselves together and prepare to face the future. The conditions which they had to confront on the days immediately following the catastrophe, when they were cut off even from communication with the outer world and were alone in their knowledge of the extent of the calamity, must have been appalling beyond conception. Stunned by a disaster in which individual griefs were lost in a common horror as the presence of death on all sides made the finding of the dead an incident of commonplace, they could scarcely have been expected to act with energy, organization or promptitude. The blow sustained by the city must have seemed irreparable.

It stands to the credit of Galveston people that as soon as the clear comprehension of their misfortune came to them they faced it resolutely, and, pushing aside individual griefs, set themselves to protect those who were still living. They recognized the futility of lamentation, and the necessity of foregoing the rites and formalities which men hold to be sacred obligations to the dead. There is no more talk about abandoning the site or allowing the city to pass into a stage of decadence. The town is to be rebuilt from its ruins, and it is not merely to be rebuilt, but to be improved.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH, HOUSTON.

Leading business and representative men of Galveston, instead of sitting down in despair, have been busy at work burying or otherwise disposing of their dead, clearing away the debris and getting the city in shape again as rapidly as possible.

In the face of such a gallant spirit and purpose difficulties and discouragements which at first were appalling will disappear. Its heroic work its strength and hope will be all the greater for the friendly aid and encouragement and the magnificent generosity of America and Europe which will help Galveston to get upon its feet again.

AVENUE O, GALVESTON, LOOKING TOWARD BUSINESS PORTION.

WRECK OF MASONIC TEMPLE.

BUILDING BLOWN HALF A MILE.

FIRE FEARED IN GALVESTON.

Wreckage Like Tinder and Hydrants Are Buried.

A danger which Galveston faces is fire. Not a drop of rain has fallen since the hurricane, and the hot winds and blistering suns have made the wrecked houses and buildings so much tinder, piled mountain high in every direction. In nearly all parts of the city the fire hydrants are buried fifty feet, in some places a hundred feet deep under the wreckage, and as yet the water supply at best is only of the most meager kind. Galveston's fire department is small and badly crippled and would be utterly powerless to stay the flames should they once start. There is no relief nearer than Houston, and that is hours away.

SHOOTING A GHOUL IN GALVESTON.

STORIES OF THE STORM

Hundreds of people are leaving the stricken city daily.

Two more kodak fiends are said to have been shot by soldiers.

The number of business houses resuming trade is increasing rapidly.

The total number of people fed in the ten wards Saturday was 16,144.

Many of the injured are in a serious condition. Some are recovering rapidly.

Permission has been granted foreign vessels to carry passengers from Galveston to American ports.

Water mains in Galveston are being repaired as hastily as possible, and some are now in working order.

A remarkable escape is that of a batteryman, who was picked up at Morgan's Point, after a five days' fight with the waves.

Congressman Hawley of Texas bitterly attacks the statement of Quartermaster Baxter that Galveston has been hopelessly ruined.

No accurate statement of the amount of supplies received can be obtained as they are being put in the general stock as soon as received.

An appeal is now made for Texas points besides Galveston. There are probably fifty small towns and communities needing aid.

The condition of the dead is frightful. The burying squads have been compelled to tie cloths saturated with disinfectants over their mouths and noses.

The city's electric light service is completely destroyed and the city electrician says it may be sixty days before the business portion can be lighted.

In view of all the existing conditions it is no wonder that the cry is "Get the women and children to the mainland, anywhere off the island," nor is it a wonder that with one small boat carrying only 300 passengers and making only two trips a day people fairly fight to be taken aboard.

LOSS IN SMALL TEXAS TOWNS.

Hitchcock—Fifty bodies buried here.

Virginia Point—Two hundred bodies found.

Texas City—Eighty-three persons dead.

Algoa—Town badly damaged. Inhabitants need assistance.

Arcadia—One boy killed, town damaged severely. Fifty families destitute.

Alto Loma—Many buildings wrecked, two children killed.

Seabrooke—Five persons perished.

Morgan's Point—Mrs. Vincent and two children drowned.

Patton—Not a house standing.

Quintana—Only a dozen houses left. Inhabitants suffering.

Surfside—Summer resort flooded. No lives lost.

Belleville—Every house damaged. One girl killed.

Patterson—All houses uninhabitable. One person killed.

Hempstead—Steele's convict plantation destroyed. Two prisoners missing.

Waller—Completely destroyed.

Prairie View—Town badly damaged, surrounding country flooded, thirty negroes reported killed.

Missouri City—Little town practically wiped out.

Sartartia—Ellis sugar plantation ruined.

Harlem—Gordon plantation ruined, cotton fields stripped clean.

Richmond—Almost entirely wrecked. Eighteen persons killed.

El Campo—Every house damaged.

Ariola—Two killed, several badly hurt.

Howze Plantation—Sugar mills ruined.

RELIEF WORK IN GALVESTON.

Twenty Thousand Survivors of the Disaster Being Fed.

Twenty thousand people are being fed and cared for daily in Galveston with the supplies which are pouring in from all parts of the country. The estimated cost of the aid which is now being extended is $40,000 a day. The great bulk of the aid is going to the 4,000 men who are at work cleaning up the wreckage, digging for bodies and cleaning the streets. Through them it goes to their families. No able-bodied laboring man is allowed to escape the work, whether he needs aid or not, though most of them do. The business men who are in position to resume are allowed to attend to their stores, and their clerical forces are not interfered with. The first few days' wages consisted entirely of rations, which were given according to the number and needs of the laborer's family, regardless of the amount of work he accomplished. Since other supplies have begun coming in they have been added.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE RUINS.

The work of distribution is being conducted systematically and with an apparent minimum of imposition and fraud. There is a central committee, of which W. A. McVitie, a prominent business man, is chairman. Then there is a committee for each one of the twelve wards. As fast as goods or provisions arrive from the mainland they are placed in the central warehouse, from there the different ward chairmen requisition them, and they are taken to supply depots in the different wards. All day long there is a motley crowd around every one of these depots, negroes predominating at least two to one. Every applicant passes in review before the ward chairman.

INDIANA INCIDENTS.

RECORD OF EVENTS OF THE PAST WEEK.

Lafayette Musician Attempts Suicide—Killed in Saloon Row at Montgomery—Washing Causes Woman's Insanity—Falls in Front of a Corn Cutter.

Harvey Scott, a Lafayette musician, tried to kill himself by cutting his throat. He became known several months ago, when he fell heir to $10,000 cash and 210 acres of land, left by Mrs. Malinda Johnson, Anderson, Ohio, whom he had saved from drowning several years ago. The case was fought by the woman's children, who compromised with Scott by giving him $4,000, which he presented to his mother.

His Neck Broken in a Fight.

Because one man in the crowd had not been asked to drink with the others, seven coal miners got into a free-for-all fight in James Conroy's saloon at Montgomery. Lawrence Allen was struck in the face during the fight and he fell to the floor with a broken neck. Death resulted instantly. One Tincole is in jail charged with having delivered the fatal blow.

Washerwoman Goes Insane.

Mrs. Mary Evans, Hoagland, a washerwoman, who washed the blood-stained clothing of a neighbor that killed himself, has gone insane from brooding over it, and spends the time washing imaginary blood from her hands. One day she was detected putting paris green into coffee to kill her two children.

Killed by a Corn Cutter.

John F. Lightner, a young man living about three miles southeast of Dublin, was cutting corn with a riding corn cutter and fell from the machine, the knives lacerating his leg. He died in a short time from loss of blood.

Quick Work with This Marriage.

At Marion Fred L. Brodt and Addie McKibben, aged 30 and 19, respectively, met at noon the other day, and in half an hour were engaged. They were married the next day.

State News in Brief.

Mayor Golding, Marion, is dead.

Muncie may have a manual training department in one of her new schools.

Pickpockets stole a $1,000 check from George Crozier, Muncie, while he was on a train.

Hartford City dog owners will organize to protect their canines from dog killers.

The Evansville Grays is to be the name of a crack new military organization in the river city.

William Sweeney, Columbus, died from blood poisoning, resulting from having a tooth extracted.

Grand jury of Hancock County indicted Marcellus Gant for the murder of Charles Gordon.

Crawfordsville police have decreed that grocers shall not obstruct the sidewalk with display stands.

Capt. S. B. J. Caster, founder of West Lafayette, and a veteran of the Mexican and Civil wars, is dead.

Fred Harrison of Washington, D. C., and Miss Caroline Fansler of Muncie, deaf mutes, will be married.

In a test the Crawfordsville fire department harnessed the horses and were on the street in twelve seconds.

It is now denied that Moses Fowler Chase, the young millionaire, is insane and confined in a French asylum.

The artificial gas mains at Martinsville are choked and the City Council had to make a tax levy in semi-darkness.

Oliver Thomasson and John Gaines were indicted by the grand jury at Bedford for the murder of Frank Lentz.

Fishermen are complaining that the fish are not taking the bait as they usually do this month. They can't understand why.

The Anderson plant of the American Wire and Steel Company will be started soon, after an idleness of fifteen months, due to a strike.

Three skeletons were found in a small mound on a farm near Whitestown. They are much larger than skeletons of the present day.

During the Democratic county convention at Evansville a nest of bumble bees was stirred up by some boys and the delegates left their seats in a rush. Several of the candidates were stung.

L. W. Huyck, a blacksmith of Stillwell, who was confined in the county asylum on account of insanity, had to be removed to the jail, owing to his efforts to demolish the asylum. When crazy, he becomes as strong as a giant, twists iron bars, etc.

Master McDonald, youngest son of Jas. McDonald, Kendallville, was walking barefoot on the Lake Shore tracks near the target house. Targetman Voss threw the target for an east-bound freight, pinning the lad's toes between the rails. His screams brought the section men and he was rescued.

A bulldog belonging to Lyman Alcorn pulled a drowning boy out of the water at Elkhart, and when he laid the little fellow down on dry land stood over him, wagging his tail as if to apologize for lacerating the youngster's arm in the struggle to save his life. The lad was Thomas Wilson, aged 8.

Retta Burkhart, whose body was found on the hill north of Martinsville, was murdered and the murderer, Louis Baker, a worthless character, is now in jail. He has signed a statement saying that he accompanied the woman from her home to the scene of the crime, where they quarreled. He choked her and pummeled her head upon the ground until life was extinct.

Charles Kindig, Jamestown, was cutting wood. His ax caught in a clothesline, and caused it to strike him on the head, cutting his scalp open.

Albert F. Mullett, 20, Peru, was refused a license to marry Mrs. Edith Quick, acquitted some time ago of the charge of poisoning her husband, as he didn't have his father's consent.

The examination of the stomach of Gertrude Wheeder, the Adams County girl who died under suspicious circumstances, shows that it contained iodine. The coroner returned a verdict of murder.

Frankfort is excited over a supposed murder mystery. A pool of blood was found near the Monon tracks, and there are evidences that a desperate struggle took place.

William Luse, a Monon barber, was murdered on the road between Monon and Idaville. His skull was crushed in three places, and the body was lying directly across the road.

Thomas Potten, who lived fifteen miles south of Indianapolis, and his niece, Anna Potten, aged 13 years, were drowned in White river, near Waverly. The girl had gone in bathing and got beyond her depth. When her uncle went to her rescue both were drowned.

THE MELANCHOLY DAYS OF SCHOOL.

ALWAYS TELL MOTHER.

Always tell mother. She's willing to bear,
Willing to listen to tales of despair.
Tell her when trials and troubles assail;
Seek her for comfort when sorrows prevail.
Take mother's hand when temptations entice;
Ask her for counsel; seek mother's advice.

Always tell mother. In mother confide;
Foster no secrets from mother to hide.
Train your thoughts nobly, nor let your lips speak
Words that would kindle a blush on her cheek.
Mother stands ready her aid to impart,
Open to mother the door of your heart.

Always tell mother. Your joys let her share;
Lift from her shoulders their burdens of care;
Brighten her pathway; be gentle and kind;
Strengthen the ties of affection that bind.
Tell her you love her; look up in her face;
Tell her no other can take mother's place.

Always tell mother. When dangers betide,
Mother, if need be, will die by your side.
Though you be sunken in sin and disgrace,
Mother will never turn from you her face.
Others may shun you, but mother, your friend,
Stands, ever ready, to shield and defend.
Mother's devotion is always the same.
Softly, with reverence, breathe mother's name.
—Leslie's Weekly.

CHILDREN RENEW ACQUAINTANCE WITH THEIR TEACHER.

THE KING OF HEARTS.

THE bright spring sunshine was pouring in at the window, flecking with gold the hair of a young girl who stood gazing at a photograph in a heart-shaped silver frame, which held the place of honor on the mantelpiece. Her thoughts were evidently far away from her surroundings, as she failed to hear footsteps approaching, and was only recalled to herself by the maid announcing "Captain Stewart." A flush of burning color swept over Elsie's face, and quick as thought she snatched the heart-shaped frame from its place, and holding it in her left hand, advanced to meet a tall, fair man, whose pale face showed signs of recent illness, and who carried his right arm in a sling.

"Why, Jack!" she said, "I had no idea you were in London; did the doctors give you permission to travel?"

Her pretty face was still flushed, and after answering her questions as to his health, Jack Stewart felt a difficulty in returning to their old friendly footing; there was a subtle difference in her manner to him that made him vaguely uneasy.

So it was more by way of conversation than a desire for information that Jack asked, laughingly:

"And who is the 'King of Hearts' now? Roberts, Kitchener or Buller?" Then as his glance fell on the vacant place on the mantel-piece, he started and said, more seriously:

"'The King of Hearts' not in his accustomed place! What is the meaning of this, Elsie?"

Once more a blush swept from brow to chin, and Elsie, averting her eyes, remained silent. Then it was that caught sight of the frame in her left hand.

"Why, you have it there!" he said in astonishment. "May I not see your new hero?" Then, Elsie remaining silent, with his free hand, gently took the frame from her unresisting clasp, and without looking at it, laid it face downward on a table near, and, resuming his seat by her side, looked at her with troubled eyes.

But three short months had passed since he had sat in that room, and had learned from her lips that though she did not love him, she loved no one else; and he had started off to South Africa with his regiment, buoyed up with hopes of ultimately gaining her love. A month ago he had been invalided home, and as soon as his doctors had pronounced it safe for him to travel he had come straight to Elsie, only to find she had a secret from him that bade fair to lessen his hopes. From childhood Elsie had been a hero-worshiper of the most ardent kind, and had a collection of her heroes' photographs that would fill a good-sized album. On her fifteenth birthday Jack had given her a heart-shaped photo frame, which was destined to contain her hero of the moment, who was laughingly dubbed by Jack the "King of Hearts."

Many and various were the faces he had seen in that frame, but now he feared that the real king had come, who would not only retain undisputed possession of the photo frame, but would also reign in Elsie's heart.

With a visible effort Jack Stewart roused himself from his painful thoughts, and turning to Elsie said:

"As I may not see your new hero, perhaps you will tell me about him?"

"Anything you ask me, except his name," she replied, meeting his gaze for the first time.

"He is a soldier, of course?"

"Yes," she answered quietly.

"Good-looking."

"Very good-looking," she said earnestly, but with averted face.

Jack, feeling his fears confirmed by her tone, went on hurriedly:

"Well, we have got this far, at any rate; he is physically perfect."

"I did not quite say that," she said, looking mischievously at him.

"No doubt you mean that. What about his character. Do you know him very well?"

"I have known him a long while," she answered demurely.

"And I have not even heard of him," he exclaimed in astonishment.

"But it is only lately that he—that I—"

"That you have started a mutual admiration society," he interrupted, rather bitterly.

"Not quite that, Jack," she rejoined, giving him a queer little smile. "But what else would you like to know about him?" Her former embarrassment had left her, and she was quietly attentive to his words.

"Is he renowned for his brains, or for bravery only?"

"His intellectual faculties are quite above the average," she returned, flashing a merry look at him.

He was puzzled by her manner, and continued rather lamely:

"It is his bravery then, that has gained him your favor?"

"He is the truest, bravest and best man in the world," she answered, with earnest, shining eyes.

"Elsie!" it was almost a cry. He rose from his seat and turned away from her.

"What is it, Jack?" she asked; and going over to him she made him look at her. Something in his face frightened her, and she said again: "What is it?"

"Oh, nothing," he answered; "only I conclude this to be your way of telling me that all is over between us."

"That depends on you, Jack," she said softly.

"I wish it did," he answered sadly, but incredulously.

"But it does, Jack. Look at that photograph."

It was almost a command, so he, with evident reluctance, took up the frame and looked at the face within it.

"Elsie!" and that one word contained a mingling of relief, wonder and, above all, joy.

For it was his own face that looked up at him out of the heart-shaped frame.—The Penny Pictorial Magazine.

Favorite Food for Animals.

Sea lions, seals, walruses and pelicans are fed on fish when in captivity; monkeys, young lions and hippopotami drink milk—a full-grown hippopotamus will absorb fifteen quarts of milk in a day. Polar bears live on bread; monkeys like fruit.

Though men do a share of the world's creditable deeds, when it is said of them "Just like a man," nothing complimentary is intended.

Money uses its wings occasionally to take a flyer in the stock markets.

A man can walk a mile without moving more than a couple of feet.

THE CHINESE "BOXER" IN HIS WAR PAINT.

—London Illustrated News.

HUMOR OF THE WEEK

STORIES TOLD BY FUNNY MEN OF THE PRESS.

Odd, Curious and Laughable Phases of Human Nature Graphically Portrayed by Eminent Word Artists of Our Own Day—A Budget of Fun.

Taxon—Do you have an alarm clock at your house?

Paxon—I don't have to have; we've got twins.

The Return Trip.

"Will you have plenty of fresh fruit at that farm where you go, Alice?"

"Yes; Arthur says he will bring a big basketful every night."

His Disposition.

"Is Wigston so terribly jealous of his wife?"

"Oh, yes. He goes all to pieces if she even speaks cross to another man."

A Joke.

Willie—Say, did you propose to my sister last night?

Featherstone—Eh—Ah! Why, Willie?

Willie—'Cause everybody in the house has been guying the life out of her.

Financial Hospitality.

Lady—Don't you serve iced lemonade at this bank?

Cashier—Oh, yes, madam; but not to people who draw money—only to depositors.

Not for Farmer Green.

Farmer Green (looking at the cable sign)—Not on your life. Then derned bunco chaps won't find me so easy. My valise is goin' to stay shet, by gum.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Had an Object.

"After I had watched a colored man fishing in a pond for forty minutes without pulling up his hook," said the traveler, "I asked him if he thought there were any fish there to be caught.

"'No, sah, I reckon not,' he replied.

"'But you seem to be fishing.'

"'Yes, sah.'

"'But perhaps you are not fishing for fish?'

"'No, sah.'

"I waited ten minutes for him to explain, but as he did not I finally asked him what particular object he had in view.

"'De objick, sah,' he repeated without taking his eyes off the pond or moving the pole—'de objick of my fishin' fur fish whar dere hain't any is to keep ole woman see dat I hain't got no time to pick up de hoe and work in de truck patch!'"—Washington Post.

Often the Case.

Askington—Fricklesmith is a very versatile chap, isn't he?

Teller—Oh, yes! He makes a different kind of fool of himself almost every day in the week.—Puck.

A Good Thing in Certain Cases.

Mrs. Henpeque (reading)—It says here that this new elixir of life will make a man live for 200 years.

Mr. Henpeque—If I was a bachelor I'd buy a bottle!—Puck.

A Bad Case of Blues.

—Chicago Inter Ocean.

More Forcible.

"I've noticed," remarked a clergyman, pointedly, "that the man who goes to sleep in church is generally very wide awake at the baseball game."

"Yes," returned the hardened sinner, "the delivery is different, you know."—Philadelphia Record.

Not a Complete Job.

Wife (sternly)—Well, sir! What's the matter with you?

Husband—Why, m'dear, to-nee-zhe gash turned up an' you wah' up f' me jush took my breazh awa Wife (icily)—Too bad it didn't take away your stagger, too.—Philadelphia Press.

At the Seaside.

Heroic Girl—What has become of that handsome man who cheered so loudly when I rescued the little boy from drowning?

Friend—He is over there on the veranda, proposing to the man who screamed and fainted.—New York Weekly.

His Personal Rights.

"Now that you are wealthy, Mr. Commonstock," said the man who dealt in pedigrees and the like, "you really should adopt a coat of arms."

"I'll do as I durn please," retorted Mr. Commonstock, hotly; "if I want to go around in my shirt sleeves it ain't none o' your business."—Philadelphia Record.

Out of the Question.

Jackson—Why don't you get some of your friends to help you out?

Jumpuppe—Because I am poor. I can't afford to accept favors. The people who confer them expect much in return.—Life.

Gloating in the Gloaming.

"When you rejected me last evening," asked young Spoonamore, "had you heard, Miss Quickstep, that my rich uncle had cut me off without a shilling?"

"No," she said, with tears of tender compassion in her eyes, "I had not. Believe me, my friend, I am so——"

"Well, he hasn't—and I've got another girl."

And in the pale moonlight he was seen to leer horribly.—Chicago Tribune.

She Was.

Clara—What a pretty bonnet you have on!

Irene—Yes, but I'm over my ears in debt for it.—Chicago Tribune.

Two Close Friends.

Not Enough to Hurt.

First Boarder—I wonder what makes this strawberry shortcake so heavy?

Second Boarder—Don't know, but it isn't the weight of the strawberries on top, anyhow.—New York Weekly.

She Expected Too Much.

"Look here, sir!" exclaimed the maiden lady. "I want you to take back that parrot you sold me. I find that it swears very badly."

"Well, madam," replied the dealer, "it's a very young bird; it'll learn to swear more perfect when it's a bit older."—Philadelphia Press.

Out West.

Broncho Pete—Say, Bill, what'd y' think o' that young doctor what's jist come here fr'm d' East? Think thar's any stuff in 'im?

Brawny Bill—Sure. Ain't he a doctor? Aw, he's killed his man all right.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Human Nature.

"There are very few people who don't get interested in a good scrap."

"That's right. I think there are a number of advocates of universal peace who would be somewhat disappointed at an abrupt termination of the Boer war."—Harper's Bazaar.

Exclusive Information.

"Say, pa, what's a bachelor?"

"A bachelor, my son, is a mighty lucky fellow, but don't tell your ma that I told you!"—Der Floh.

Music and Music.

He (after the fiftieth piece)—I could just die playing the banjo.

She (ambiguously)—I could just die listening to you.

Her Fiance.

Mag—Now dat she's got so rich I s'pose she's shook Billy Casey dat used ter be her steady comp'ny.

Kit—Not much. She lets him take care of her roll now.

Mag—Git out!

Kit—Dat's right. I sez to 'r: "Is Billy yer steady comp'ny yet?" and she drawed 'erself up, an' sez: "Mr. Casey is my financier."

Love's Labor Lost.

Softleigh—I—aw—have weally put in the entiah day at—aw—hawd labor, doncher know.

Miss Cutting—Is it possible!

Softleigh—Yaws; not—aw—manual labor, but bwain work, doncher know, which is the—aw—hawdest of all.

Miss Cutting—Yes, it must be—for you.—Chicago News.

A Shining Mark.

Borrows—Easy, is he?

Graphter—Well, I should say. I wrote to him once and asked him to lend me $2. It seems I spelt "two" t double o, and forgot to cross the t. He sent me $100.—Philadelphia Press.

Promises of Winter.

The meanest man yet revealed himself at one of the railroad stations the other evening. He was about to start on a three weeks' vacation at the seashore, all by himself, and his worn-looking little wife and two children were down at the station to see him off.

"Never mind," said he to his worn-looking little wife, as he started through the gate, "just you wait until the cold weather gets here, and if things come my way I'll let you get that jacket of yours trimmed with astrakhan!"—Washington Post.

Difficulties of Latitude.

"Social conditions in these Dutch republics were not all that could be desired, I fancy."

"No, indeed. Just imagine June brides occurring in winter!"—Detroit Journal.

Thessaly's Postage Stamps.

There has been a great run on the new postage stamp for Thessaly, which the Turkish government has caused to be circulated. These stamps are of the value of 5, 2 and 1 piastres and of 20 and 10 paras, and so eager were collectors to possess the new stamps that on the third day following their introduction those valued at 5 and 2 piastres were all bought up, and changed hands at 18 shillings. The stamps of smaller value brought 4 shillings. The traders in these stamps were Turkish officers and civil servants, who, now that the evacuation of Thessaly is taking definite shape, evidently thought the first and only issue of stamps by the Turkish government was an opportunity for making money not to be thrown away.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Sure of It.

"Do you really think that you love my daughter as a husband should?"

"Love her? Why, I would give up my bicycle for her."

(No cards.)—New York Herald.

GALVESTON AS IT WAS BEAUTIFUL AND PROGRESSIVE SOUTHERN CITY.

The Greatest Cotton Port and the Fifth Commercial City in the United States—Has Risen Before from the Fury of Storm, Fire and Flood.

Galveston, previous to the devastating storm, was one of the most beautiful and progressive cities of the sunny South. Its history indicates that it has been one of the most unfortunate. In 1872 the entire eastern portion of the city was swept away by a tidal wave which followed a terrific storm that raged along the Gulf coast for three days. When the city had recovered from this calamity and was built up in more beautiful and substantial style than ever, a devastating fire nearly destroyed it in November, 1885. Its enterprising citizens were not dismayed, however, and the city was soon rebuilt. In August, 1899, it was injured commercially to a great extent by the Brazos flood in which rich farming lands having an area of 1,380,000 acres were submerged for eight days to a depth of two to twenty feet. The loss as estimated by the United States Department of Agriculture was $7,414,000. The city has triumphed over all these adversities and will doubtless arise with increased strength from the present appalling disaster, for it is the greatest seaport of the South, being connected with the entire railway system of the United States and Mexico and having direct lines of steamship communication with all the great ports of the world. It is the largest cotton exporting point in the United States and among the 127 foreign exporting points in the country it holds fifth place. During the year 1898 its exports increased $10,500,000 and its export and import trade is now fully $100,000,000 a year.

MASONIC TEMPLE.

Harbor Improvements.

A leading cause of the city's great commercial progress during the past few years is the harbor improvements made by the national government, involving an expenditure of over $8,000,000. In 1895 the depth of the channel over the bar was only twenty-one feet. By the construction of jetties and other improvements which were finished in January, 1898, the depth was increased to twenty-eight feet and is still increasing at the rate of six inches each year owing to the action of the wind and tide. This depth of water permits the largest steamers to load and unload at the wharves. In addition to being the country's greatest cotton port, immense quantities of grain, lumber, live stock and dairy products are sent through Galveston. Much of the grain from Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa and the Dakotas, which formerly went to Eastern ports for shipment now goes to Galveston because the shippers can save in charges by loading at that port. The lumber exports in 1898-9 amounted to $1,247,914 and in 1899, the port handled $200,000 worth of eggs. Its trade in live stock, dairy products and poultry has developed rapidly since the harbor improvements.

ORPHANS' HOME.

Location and Description.

Galveston is situated on the northeast extremity of Galveston Island at the mouth of Galveston Bay, the entrance to which is through the channel between the city and the southwest point of the peninsula of Bolivar. The island is twenty-seven miles long, runs northeast and southwest, and is from one and one-half to three and one-half miles wide. Where the city is built it is one and one-half miles wide. It is intersected with many small bayous and bordered through its whole length on the gulf side by a smooth, hard beach, forming a splendid drive and unsurpassed bathing. On this beach is the magnificent Sea Beach Hotel. The streets of the city are but a few feet above the level of the bay. They are wide and straight and the residence quarters are beautiful, abounding in luxuriant gardens shaded with magnolias and oleanders. During the summer months thousands of pleasure seekers from all parts of the South go to Galveston to enjoy the many attractions of the city and its surroundings. On the bay, or north side of the city, is the commercial section, with wharves stretching along for nearly two miles, lined with sheds and large storage houses. In this same portion are three grain elevators with an aggregate storage capacity of 3,250,000 bushels. The island from the north side is connected with the mainland by railroad bridges and the longest wagon bridge in the world, nearly two miles in length. On the south side of the city, beginning within fifty yards of the medium gulf tide, the wealthy resident portion of the city is located and this was the first part to be struck by the full force of the recent storm and flood. All of the eastern end of the city was washed away and some of the handsomest and most expensive residences were here located. There was one home which alone cost the owner over $1,000,000. Among the principal buildings of the city are, or were, the new custom house and postoffice, the cotton exchange, the Court House, the Ball free school, the free public library, the Roman Catholic University of St. Mary, the John Sealey Hospital and the School of Medicine of the State University. All the buildings of the city were constructed on substantial and modern lines. The city had gas and electric light plants, a water works system valued at $450,000 and supplied from artesian wells and a number of first-class hotels. In 1898 the gross city valuations were $25,000,000. The city debt was $1,750,000 and the officials had authority to issue $1,500,000 in bonds to raise money for permanent improvements, and it owned property to the value of $1,955,560. The population, according to the figures given by the census bureau for 1900, is 37,789.

GOVERNMENT BUILDING, GALVESTON.

History of the City.

The island of Galveston was occupied by the famous pirate Lafitte in 1817 and continued to be his headquarters until his settlement was broken up in 1821. It is believed by many that somewhere on the island are buried treasures of the pirate and many stories of romance have been woven about the daring rover and his island home. The city of Galveston was founded in 1837. It was the scene of stirring events during the Civil War. The Federal forces occupied the city Oct. 8, 1862, but it was retaken by the Confederates on Jan. 1, 1863. During the past few years the United States has spent $932,000 in the construction and equipment of coast fortifications near the city.

Bay of Galveston.

The bay of Galveston, the mouth of which is guarded by the island on which the city stands as a sentinel, is a body of water with an area of about 450 square miles. It has an irregular coast line and branches out into various arms. It receives the San Jacinto and Trinity rivers and Buffalo Bayou. Owing to the island being but little higher than the bay, inundations have often been threatened. The bay is quite shallow in most parts. Entrance to it is through the recently constructed deep water channel and flanking it on either side are the stone jetties five miles long.

Almost every girl of sixteen has her mind made up that some day she will have a son named De Mountville, or a daughter named Geraldine.

THE CIGARETTE BUG.

The cigarette bug, after waxing fat on the little paper "dope stick," has at last attained the dignity of government notice, for the United States Department of Agriculture has issued Farmers' Bulletin No. 120 concerning this industrious beetle and his kind. The cigarette bug is probably placed in the farmer's bulletin because a farmer never by any possibility smokes a cigarette, and has no interest in the subject whatever. The pamphlet, like other government publications, is moderately thrilling. The cigarette beetle's real name, according to this official bulletin, is Lasioderma Serricorne, and its favorite diet is cigarettes. What it does to a box of the chappie's solace is shown by the above illustration, which is in part reproduced from the Farmers' Bulletin No. 120. A cigarette full of holes like that would draw as well as a stovepipe with an old pair of pants stuffed in at the top. The Lasioderma Serricorne is not proud, however, nor overparticular about its meals, for while it, as stated, prefers cigarettes, the more expensive the better, of course, it does not disdain to feast upon dried tobacco and snuff, rhubarb, ginger, cayenne pepper, ergot, turmeric, yeast cakes, rice, figs, prepared fish food and any dried plants prepared for the herbarium. It is a mistake to suppose that this active insect actually smokes cigarettes. It is bad enough in all conscience, but not that bad.

AUBURN WEEKLY COURIER.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, postoffice as second-class matter.

THURSDAY...SEPTEMBER 27, 1900.

DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL TICKET.

For President,
WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN.
For Vice-President,
ADLAI EWING STEVENSON.
For Electors-at-Large,
ALLEN ZOLLARS.
NICHOLAS CORNET.

STATE TICKET.

For Governor,
John W. Kern.
For Lieut.-Governor,
John C. Lawler.
For Secretary of State,
Adam Heimberger.
For Auditor of State,
John W. Minor.
For Treasurer of State,
Jerome Herff.
For Attorney-General,
Charles P. Drummond.
For Reporter of Supreme Court,
Henry G. Yergin.
For Superintendent of Public Instruction,
Charles A. Greathouse.
For State Statistician,
Edward Horuff.
Judge of Supreme Court, 1st District,
George L. Reinhard.
Judge of Supreme Court, 4th District,
Joseph W. Adair.

Congressional Ticket.
Congressman Twelfth District,
James M. Robinson.

Senatorial Ticket.
Joint Senator, Steuben and DeKalb,
Charles Bruce.

Judicial Ticket.
Prosecutor, 35th Judicial District,
Joseph Butler.

County Ticket.
Representative,
J. W. Jackman.
Treasurer,
Francis M. Hines.
Sheriff,
John H. Hathaway.
Surveyor,
C. P. Hammond.
Assessor,
R. S. S/Reed.
Coroner,
Charles Comesky.
Commissioner Southwest District,
Emanuel R. Shoemaker.
Commissioner North District,
Allen Shultz.

Township Ticket.

Miles Baxter, Trustee; John Treesh, Assessor; John Koons, Justice; John Kruse and John Ketel, Constables; Arnold Blodgett, A. W. Madden and George King, Advisory Board; Emmet Kosht, James Sherwood, Ira Goetschius and Henry Fulks, Supervisors.

THOSE FREE RURAL ROUTES.

Everytime a new free rural delivery route is established. R. B. Hanna jumps in and has some one announce that "Hon. R. B. Hanna has been working for this line for some time." This was done in case of the route from Hudson to Fairfield.

The facts are he knows nothing of the matter. The only men who can help are members of the House or Senate. Robinson voted for the bills when they passed. He also has a lot of letters showing that he helped get the routes. Here is one:

"POSTOFFICE DEPARTMENT
First Assist.-Postmaster Gen.,
Office of Supt. Free Del. System.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 18, 1900.

HON. J. M. ROBINSON, M. C.,
House of Representative,
Washington, D.C.

DEAR SIR,—I take pleasure in in forming you, that in accordance with your request and that of Hon. C. W. Fairbanks, additional rural free delivery service has this day been ordered established, from Fort Wayne, Allen county, Indiana, with three carriers additional, to commence on Monday, Oct 1, 1900.

Respectfully,
GEO. M. ALLEN,
Acting 1st Assist.-Postmaster Gen'l."

"POSTOFFICE DEPARTMENT.
First Assist.-Postmaster Gen'l,
Office of Supt. Free Del. System,
Rural Free Delivery.
INDIANAPOLIS, IND., Jan. 19, 1900.

HON. J. M. ROBINSON,
Washington, D.C.,

DEAR SIR,—I was exceedingly gratified to receive from you today portions of the Congressional record containing remarks upon the increased appropriation measure for Rural Free Delivery.

It is certainly very gratifying to me and to other believers in the Rural Free Delivery service, that you have made so excellent presentation of the whole subject as you have done in this instance.

I congratulate you and compliment you upon your efforts in its behalf.

Very truly yours,
FRANCIS M. DICE,
Special Agent in Charge."

Attention Farmers.

The Auburn Handle Factory will pay the highest cash price for ash handle block delivered at their factory on the Lake Shore tracks, cut 58 inches long. Also want ash logs cut 9½, 14½ and 19½ feet long. All timber to be smooth and sound. Will also take basswood cut 4 feet long and 8 inches in diameter and up, left round with bark on. Will pay $3 percord.—J. M. CHERRY & Co.

THE WHOLE THING.

Who causes all the crops to grow?
McKinley.
Who makes the seasons come and go?
McKinley.
Who shapes the currents of events?
Who regulates the elements?
Who takes the place of Providence?
McKinley.

Who makes it rain when it is dry?
McKinley.
Who shapes demand, also supply?
McKinley.
Who caused the Indian famine, which Raised wheat and corn to such a pitch
It made the farmers all get rich?
McKinley.

Who gives the people industry?
McKinley.
Who makes the world's prosperity?
McKinley.
Who placed the gold down in the ground
And then got out and scratched around
Till Cripple Creek and Nome were found?
McKinley.

Who sailed into Manila bay?
McKinley.
Who sunk Cervera's fleet one day?
McKinley.
Who fought against the war, then came
At a late hour into the game
And took the glory for the same?
McKinley.

Who is the source of every good?
McKinley.
Who wants that fully understood?
McKinley.
If any benefit befall
Somewhere upon this mundane ball,
Who is the creature sleek and small
That has the monumental gall
To claim the credit for it all?
McKinley.

—Denver News.

Political Notes.

The foreign policy of the McKinley-Hanna administration is dangerous in the extreme. It is not merely the war in the Philippines, but the general tendency of the foreign policy. For the first time in the history of the country, we find ourselves mixed up and entangled with the foreign policies of other nations. In China we are mixed up with a dozen different nations, each with a selfish purpose of its own, and each watching us to see if we do things to suit them. And we are watching them. If things do not stop soon, it will be difficult for us to cut loose from them.

Then again, all our new possessions, call for more new offices and consequently more taxes with which to pay salaries. For not one of our new possessions is paying its expenses.

Again, the wider we branch out in the foreign colony business, the greater these burdens will be.

McKinley says, "The country has been advised of our purposes in China." Will he or anyone else state where we can find this? Not one line has ever been said as to how far we were going in China, or how long we were to stay there. The people suppose we were to stay there till we got our ministers out dead or alive. But McKinley never said so. And for more than a month we have staid after rescuing our ministers. And yet we are there, and McKinley gives out no sign. The same can be said of our silence in the Philippines, in Porto Rico and even in Cuba.

The Waterloo Press counts Debs as a supporter of Bryan. Every other man we know of, is aware that Debs is running for president himself.

J. M. Robinson is making grand speeches, reasonable and full of fact and argument that goes home.

R. B. Hanna must take a man with him wherever he goes, for a five-minute speech utterly empties him. What good could such a man do in congress? Talk it up with those of your neighbors who have seen and heard the two men.

Obituary.

Maria Merica was born in Champaign County, Ohio, March 4, 1839, and died Sept. 21, 1900, aged 61 years, 6 months and 17 days.

She was married to B. F. Pence, March 28, 1859. To this union were born six children, four sons and two daughters, who all survive her. She was a faithful companion to her husband and a kind mother to her children, and always kind and ready to help her friends and neighbors. They moved to this county in 1880, where they have since resided. She united with the Reformed Church at St. Paris, Ohio, in 1866, and has always remained a faithful member. In her sickness she put all her trust in God, saying her Savior would finally relieve her of all pain. She bore all her suffering patiently, saying there was a place prepared for her. The family and friends were very kind to her during her sickness, one son especially—the oldest, Monroe—taking care of her about all the time for the last six months.

She leaves to mourn for her, besides the bereaved husband and children, three brothers and four sisters.

All the children were present at the funeral, except the oldest daughter, who was sick. All the family send thanks to neighbors and friends for sympathy and assistance.

The funeral was at Union Chapel, northwest of Garrett, at 10 a. m., Saturday, and interment in the cemetery here.

Notice to Non-Residents.

STATE OF INDIANA, } ss.
DEKALB, COUNTY.

In the DeKalb Circuit Court, October term, 1900.

Jacob M. Hook is hereby notified that an action has been commenced against him in said Court, for contribution and in attachment by John Grube, Gilbert I. Patterson, William J. Frederick, William Hayes, Frederick Bartles, Henry Bartles, Benjamin Casey, Allen Schultz, Daniel Tomlinson, Thomas Summers, Charles Comeskey, Frederick Schulthess, Charles Gaede, J. William Wagner and Charles Hike, and that the same will be heard and determined on the 17th day of December, 1900, being the first judicial day of the next term of said Court, which commences December 17, 1900.

Witness, the Clerk of said Court, this 25th day of October, 1900.

MICHAEL F. LONG, Clerk.

CASTORIA.
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

DAVID DELONG DEAD.

One of the Best Known Farmers of DeKalb County.

David DeLong, of Fairfield Twp., was stricken with paralysis last Thursday, which resulted in death at 2 p. m., Monday. The deceased was an ex-soldier, an energetic farmer, a number one citizen, and the county has lost a good man. His family has been severely afflicted at intervals in the loss of children by typhoid, and now comes the heavy blow which removes the head of the family. The deceased, by thrift and economy, good management and hard labor, had built him a fine farm home, and was comfortably situated. The funeral was held last Wednesday at Sedan, and the burial at Fairfield Center.

OBITUARY.

David DeLong was born Sept. 3, 1843, died Sept. 17, 1900, aged 57 years and 14 days.

He was a native of Allen county, Ind. In 1862 he removed with his parents to DeKalb county, where he has since resided, with the exception of three years, while he was in the Union army of the Civil war. He enlisted in Co. D, 74th Regt. Ind. Vol. Inf., on the 18th day of July, 1862, and was discharged on the 9th of June, 1865, peace having been declared. He was a faithful, valiant soldier, having engaged in many battles, and underwent many hardships incident to a soldier's life in the field during hostilities.

Deceased was united in marriage to Miss Climera Green in the year 1867. To this union were born nine children; four of whom have preceded him to the better world. His faithful companion, five children and four grand-children survive to mourn a loving companion and a kind parent. Two sisters also remain to cherish the memory of a noble brother.

Brother DeLong and his wife were converted to Christ during the ministery of Rev. Crawford in February, 1874, and united with the U. B. church, and have remained faithful continually. H ewas a good and kindly neighbor, always considerate to those about him. His funeral, conducted by Revs. S. H. Yager and W. O. Butler, was largely attended at the church in Sedan, and the burial was made in the cemetery near by.

CASTORIA.
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

The Use of Weeds,

S. Z. Dickinson of Waterloo writes from the Michigan fruit belt, of the use they make of weeds.

I have found out since I have been in this neighborhood that weeds are of some benefit. The fruit men plough their orchards, more especially their peach orchards, about three inches deep or as shallow as possible and turn under the leaves and weeds as early in the spring as they can, and then every week or as often as they are able they drag them over until about the first of August. Then they let them go and let the weeds grow to hold the leaves and snow from blowing away, which protects the trees and enriches the ground. One year they plough against the trees and the next away, so as to keep the ground level as possible. They have the sand burs here in great abundance to the annoyance of the children that try to go bare foot, and they are not very comfortable to grown people of which I can testify from experience. The plague that is called "little peach" proves to be worse to contend with than the "yellows." The peaches will grow to about the size of a shucked hickory nut and there they will stay and the disease is very contagious. The trees have to be burned as soon as possible. No preventative has been found.

Prevented A Tragedy.

Timely information given Mrs. Geo. Long of New Straitsville, Ohio, prevented a dreadful tragedy and saved two lives. A frightful cough had long kept her awake every night. She had tried many remedies and doctors but steadily grew worse until urged to try Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle wholly cured her, and she writes this marvelous medicine also cured Mr. Long of a severe attack of Pneumonia. Such cures are positive proof of the merit of this grand remedy for curing all throat, chest and lung trouble. Only 50c and $1.00. Every bottle guaranteed. Trial bottles free at McCORD'S Drug Store.

Surprised Her.

Saturday, N. P. Ferguson, of Jackson was here, as well as many others of that section — some for business and some or all to see the service of the Salvation Army. He also hatched up a good surprise on his wife. Sunday, friends to the number of about fifty, came in to see her, and reminded her that she was fifty-one that day. Then there was a good time, followed by one of those big, generous suppers for which they are noted. For Mrs. Ferguson is never so surprised as to lose her head.

A Great Discovery for Cancer.

Windsor, Ont., Jan., 24, 1900.

Dr. C. D. Warner. Dear Sir:—I have used your Compound of Seven Cures, the great cancer cure and blood purifier with excellent results, I do not hesitate to recommend it for the purposes for which it is used. Its effects are in a short time so manifest that it cannot fail to give the best of satisfaction.—Jas. Cummings. For Sale by F. E. Davenport.

Latest News.

There is a rumor that the Russians in their operations in northern China committed great atrocities including the massacre of 5,000 Chinese from a captured town. They drove the prisoners into the Amur river.

The latest list of dead at Galveston is 4,754. Of course this is not the full list, as many have not been found and will not be, and many were washed into the sea.

The strike in the coal mines is getting worse. On Friday a sheriff's posse at Shenandoah, was stoned by the strikers, and turned and fired on the mob. Two were killed and several wounded, but the killed were not strikers. One was a man sitting on his porch, and the other a little girl. The militia were called out and are trying to keep order.

Germany has sent word to the powers, that before peace with China is made, she must surrender for punishment all Chinese, high or low, who instigated or assisted in the murder of any foreigners. To this the United States refuses to agree, giving as a reason that it is contrary to the spirit of modern civilization to make wholesale executions or punishments.

Wu, the Chinese minister at Washington, has sent $100 to the Galveston sufferers.

There were three train robberies in the west Saturday morning. One was on the Northern Pacific near Athol, Idaho, when one man went through the sleeping cars and got over $500, and a lot of watches and jewelry. He jumped off when the train slowed up for the station The other was on the C. B. & Q. road by four men, who got but little money. No arrests so far. The same morning three men robbed two passengers on the Chicago & St. Paul road near Baraboo, Wisc., and threw them from the train. They got but $3, and escaped, but were captured later.

We are sending several more war ships to China.

And now Texas has another storm. A cloudburst struck the Neuces Valley doing great damage with the loss of several lives.

The coal mines in the anthracite coal belt of Pennsylvania, where the strike is, will at least a part of them, be kept at work by the aid of the militia. New men will be put in, and the strikers kept off by troops. Sunday passed off quietly, though more riots are feared.

Feast for 22,000 Guests.

Saturday, the government of France gave a feast to the mayors of its 22,000 cities. It was held under long tents in the garden of the Tuileries. Nothing was cooked on the grounds.

The exact number of guests served, counting all of the officials not Mayors, and newspaper men, was 23,446, not 22,000.

There were 1,500 head waiters, each commanding eighteen men, including waiters, winemen, dishwashers, and ice cream men the total number of employes on the caterer's pay-roll, with the wagon drivers, cooks, silver caretakers, and detectives, was exactly 24,080. This fact, that there was over one man per guest, is explained because every thing had to be brought to the Tuileries gardens for just one meal.

It took 250 oven to supply the cold beef, 500 lbs of salmon, 2,500 chickens, 2,500 pheasants and 30,000 bottles of wine, and each guest had a cigar.

The food was cold except coffee, and all was ready to serve before the guests entered. A young lady of 26, managed the whole affair, with the aid of a great number of assistance who carried out her orders. It was the greatest feast ever given.

October Juries.

The jury commissioners, G. W. Gordon and J. A. Barns, this morning drew the October juries as follows:

GRAND JURY.

J. D. Williamson, Union; W. H. McCullough, Fairfield; Brooks Hines, Richland; A. M. St. Clair, Union; Gust D. Beaver, Keyser; John D. Boyd, Wilmington.

TRIAL JURY.

Fred Reinig, Smithfield; Frank Bolender, Union; A. W. Husselman, Grant; S. A. Mason, Wilmington; Theron Clark, Keyser; Milas Brown, Jackson; David DeLong, Fairfield; D. S. Ober, Union; Wm. J. Wheteel, Franklin; D. E. Kagey, Keyser; Milford Clark, Butler; J. N. Boyle, Wilmington.

Great Horse Sale.

There will be a great sale of horses at the Lake Shore stock yards in Auburn on Saturday, Sept. 29, beginning at 1 p. m. These are Dakota horses, good stock, some being heavy draft, and some are broke ready for use. A part are colts of various ages. This is no wild stock, but they were raised on the great Dakota stock lands. All who want to get good horses at a reasonable price should attend. Credit os six months on satisfactory security. The reason for selling is the drought has killed all the grass and they must be sold at some price.

A Great Blood Renewer.

Windsor, Ont., Jan. 4, 1900.

Dr. C. D. Warner. Dear Sir:—Having used your Compound of Seven Cures in my family, will say it has no equal; as a blood purifier and for building up the system it is unsurpassed. —Yours respectfully, Mrs. M. Short. For sale by F. E. Davenport.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY. Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure E. W. Grove's signature is on each box. 25c Stomach and Liver.

Why Dyspepsia and Liver Troubles Always go Together.

The stomach digests the food and the liver expels from the system such materials as are unfit for the nourishment of the body. So when you have dyspepsia, a mass of indigested material constantly burdens the liver. Dyspeptics are always bilious, their systems are constantly loaded with waste matter that fouls the blood, poisons the nerves, and disturbs the health in every way. Cure the stomach and the liver troubles cure themselves. A quicker way is to help both stomach and liver at the same time. That is why Dr. Stone's New Dyspepsia Cure gives such marvelously quick results. It is a double remedy; one acts on the stomach, the other on the liver. Together they form the complete treatment for dyspepsia and liver complaints which Dr. Stone has used successfully in thousands of cases. If you have indigestion, constipation, headache, nervous troubles or debility, you can use this remedy with certainty of cure. No waiting for results, you will see them at once. If not fully satisfied when you have used the first package, your money will be cheerfully refunded. Price 50 cents. Sold by H. B. McCord.

BUTLER.

The writer with about twenty-five other Butler people took in the cheap Detroit excursion of the 16th and enjoyed a very pleasant visit in the city of the straits.

Lizzie Champion has suffered a relapse, and is not so well.

Butler's automobile has been sent back to Detroit.

The Butler Company which has confined its efforts on the output of bicycles and windpumps, will soon enter the automobile and locomobile field. There is no reason why they cannot manufacture these goods as well as many others can, and the demand for them is growing very rapidly, thus again relegating the horse to the rear.

Edith Wilson is laid up with an attack of malarial fever, but at this writing is slowly improving.

Geo. Coffrin is confined to his home by a severe attack of rheumatism.

Mrs. Ellen Hollinger, living two miles south of town has had a stroke of paralysis and her life at times has been despaired of. Her son, Rev. Dallas Hollinger of Montpelier, Ohio, has been a week at his old home prior to the U. B. conference which convenes at Ahgola this week.

A goodly number of Butler people contemplate a visit to the Metropolis of Illinois next Saturday over the Lake Shore low rate excursion.

John Hook, a former resident of Newville, after an absence of thirty-two years, is visiting old friends in this vicinity.

John Slentz, an old soldier, after a twenty years residence in Kansas, is calling on his old comrades about Butler.

Stephen McCurdy, a former well-known Franklin boy, an old soldier and and a jolly good fellow, is visiting his daughter, Mrs. Frank Reynolds, and his brother-in-law, Jont Hazlett. He has been gone so long that he thinks more of Kansas than Indiana.

The Jewish New Year 5661 was carefully observed by our good Jewish citizens last Monday. It is strange that these people persist in being Jews with the light of the twentieth christian century falling upon them, but no stranger than the fact that they have preserved their identity and unbroken family relation for nearly three thousand years, living among all kinds of people, yet not becoming a part of them. Verily the hand of God is in it.

The Hicksville fair calls a good many Butler people from town this week.

Henry Haskins remains much the same.

The writer recalls all the presidential election years since and including 1840, the "Tippecanoe and Tyler too" year, yet for apathy and indifference, 1900 distances them all. From present indications, not half the people will know when the November elections occur.

Mate Sufwan of Detroit, Kit Johns of Duluth, daughters of John Champion, and Frank Snyder of Norwalk, Ohio, have been visiting him and his family.

HERE is a medical lecture in a nutshell. The Kidneys drain water and impurities from the blood. The Liver makes bile and helps to drive off other waste. If these organs work badly the body becomes a cesspool and disease sets in. You must get them into healthy action or die.

Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver & Kidney Balm

is an old and unsurpassed remedy for Backache, Debility, Sleeplessness, Lost Appetite, Foul Tongue, Palpitations and all other symptoms of disease in those organs. It cures as well as prevents every serious trouble in Kidney, Liver or Bladder. At druggists, $1.00 per bottle.
THE DR. J. H. McLEAN MEDICINE CO. ST. LOUIS, MO.
For sale by F. E. Davenport.

The Cold Wave

WILL SOON BE HERE.

And in our judgement you will be wise to make a B line to G. H. YESBERA'S CLOTHING STORE, Auburn, Ind., and select that

FALL SUIT AND OVERCOAT

and at the sams time buy a

New Hat, Underwear, Shirt,
Collars, Cuffs, Tie and Gloves, which will make you a new man.

You will fiind at my Clothing Store the largest, most complete stock of clothing, gent's furnishings, hats, caps, etc., you have ever had the pleasure of looking at in Auburn. Our line is noby, strictly up-to-date, styles all new, nothing old. Our prices are the lowest, we will save you a nice discount on all purchases made at

THE POPULAR CLOTHING STORE OF

G. H. YESBERA,
Auburn, Ind.

THE AUBURN LUMBER CO.

—Carry a Full line of—

Casings, Base Blocks for Inside Finish, Veranda Columns, Spindels, Tracery and Brackets for Veranda or Porch work.....

HOLLOW FOUNDATION BLOCKS,

Bulk Lime, Portland Cement,

And are always headquarters for Shingles, all the best grades cut from green timber.

The Auburn Lumber Co.
Auburn, Indiana.

Remember the Place..... Near Wabash Depot.

Only too glad to show you the line.

XXXX

A large line of

Bicycle Sundries

Always carried in stock at Low Prices.

XXXX

Bicycle repairing promptly attended to.

XXXX

M. B. WILLIS. Jr.,
"The Rambler Man"
Huelsenbeck Building.

Jewelry ..and.. Watches.

Our fall stock is coming in —all new and up-to-date.

D. A. Hodge, The Jeweler.

Went Awheel.

L. J. Loveland and his brother George, accompanied by Frank Schoville, a young neighbor, all from Newville township, were here yesterday on their wheels, headed for Columbia City where they have relatives. They stop here long enough to take a breath, then mounted and away on the long journey. Mr. Loveland goes next week to Wayne county, Ohio, where he will live, his wife already being there. His brother-in-law, Bert Pattee, will be in charge of the old home farm where the mother will still remain, we believe.

Licensed to Marry.

Since our last report the big book in the clerk's office shows these names:

Scott B. Stout and Agnes O Hayden; Cyrus Baughman and Nettie Hubbard; Clarence E Frick and Jennie L. Stonebreaker; Samuel J. Ligo and Etta Houser; Hiram Pooler and Anna Pooler.

William's Kidney Pills

Has no equal in diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs. Have you neglected your Kidneys? Have you overworked your nervous system and caused trouble with your Kidneys and Bladder? Have you pains in the loins, side, back, groins and bladder? Have you a flabby appearance of the face, especially under the eyes? Too frequent desire pass urine? William's Kidney Pills will impart new life to the diseased organs, tone up the system and make a new man of you. By mail 50 cents per box.
WILLIAMS MFG. CO., Props., Cleveland, O.

Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court, of the State of Indiana, executor of the will of Amy A. Kelley, deceased, late of said County.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

FREEMAN KELLEY,
Executor.

Aug. 30, 1900.

W. J. BRYAN'S ANTI-TRUST SPEECH, DELIVERED AT ST. LOUIS, SEPTEMBER 15, 1900.

The lament of David over Absalom is one of the most pathetic passages of the Old Testament. The fact that the son was in rebellion against civil as well as parental authority did not shake the father's affection, and the anxious query, "Is the young man, Absalom, safe?" lingers in the memory of all who study the life of the great Hebrew King. And, yet, the interest which David felt in his son, Absalom, has its parallel in the more than 10,000,000 families which make up the American people.

No language can describe a mother's love, or overstate the abiding interest which the father feels in the welfare of his child. From the time when the mother's life hangs in the balance at the boy's birth until the death of the parents there is scarcely a waking hour when the son is not present in their thoughts and plans. It is to this parental devotion, so universally recognized, that I desire to appeal on this occasion.

Appeal to Parental Love.

I would call the attention of every father and mother to present political and industrial conditions. I would ask them to analyze these conditions, investigate their causes and their tendencies. I would press upon them this question: "Is the young man, Absalom, safe?" Are you satisfied with the possibilities and the probabilities which now open before your son?

Is he safe when foreign or domestic financiers are allowed to determine the monetary system under which he lives?

Is he safe when national banks control the volume of money with which he does business?

Is he safe when the bond holding class determines the size of the national debt upon which he must help to pay interest?

Is he safe when by means of taxes laid almost entirely upon consumption he is compelled to contribute according to his wants rather than according to his possessions?

Is he safe when corporate interests influence as they do today the selection of those who are to represent him in the Senate of the United States?

If he is a wage-earner, and you do not know how soon he may be, even if he is not now, is he safe when he is liable to be deprived of trial by jury, through the system known as government by injunction?

Is he safe, if a laboring man, when he is denied the protection of arbitration and compelled to submit to such hours and terms as a corporate employer may propose?

The Reign of Monopoly.

But, I desire to call special attention to the growth of the trusts, and to ask you whether your son is safe under the reign of private monopoly? If you cannot leave him a fortune, you can leave him something more valuable than money, viz: the freedom to employ his own brain and his own hands for the advancement of his own welfare. When there is industrial independence, each citizen is stimulated to earnest endeavor by the hope of being able to profit by his own genius, his own energy, his own industry and his own virtue. But when private monopoly reaches its full development each branch of industry will be controlled by one, or a few men, and the fruits of monopoly, [illegible] the divine right of rule, will be kept wit[illegible] possession of a few from generation to gene[illegible] the real producers of wealth will be condemned to perpetual clerkship or servitude. When private monopoly reaches its full development, your son will buy the finished product at the price which monopoly fixes; he will sell raw material at the price which monopoly fixes; and, if he works for wages, he will work for such compensation and upon such conditions as monopoly may determine.

Charles R. Flint of the Rubber Goods Manufacturing Co. in a speech delivered in Boston on the 25th of May, 1899, outlined the trust program with great frankness. In speaking of the advantages to be derived from the trust system he said:

Outline of Trust Program.

"Raw material bought in large quantities is secured at lower prices." When, for instance, one man buys all the wool, the price of wool will be lowered and all who produce wool will sell at the price fixed by the trust. A large proportion of our people are engaged in the production of various kinds of raw material, and they are thus placed at the mercy of the combinations.

The second advantage is that "those plants which are best equipped and most advantageously situated are run continuously and in preference to those less favored."

This means that factories can be closed in the smaller towns and business concentrated in the large centers. It means, also, that whenever there is a surplus on hand, part of the factories can be closed, and the burden of maintaining prices thrown upon the wage workers. There are already scattered throughout the land idle plants, which stand as silent monuments to the evils of the trust system.

The next advantage mentioned is that "In case of local strikes and fires, the work goes on elsewhere, thus preventing serious loss."

This means that a monopoly can absolutely control its workingmen, for if a strike occurs in a factory in one state, the factory can be closed down indefinitely while the employes are starved into submission, and, as the trust can do the work in some other factory without serious loss, it is quite independent of the employes, and can absolutely prescribe the terms and conditions upon which they shall live. The more complete the monopoly the more opposed the managers will be to arbitration, because, in case of any contest between the trust and its employes, the trust will have every advantage and the employes will be perfectly powerless.

Another advantage cited by Mr. Flint is that "There is no multiplication of the means of distribution and a better force of salesmen will take the place of a large number."

Drummers Dispensed With.

This is an intimation that under the trust system the traveling salesman will not be needed. When every retail merchant must buy all goods of one class from a single company, the work can be done by samples, and no traveling men will be needed. There will be no competition between different factories because all are under one management. The first man to feel this will be the salesman, who will lose his occupation. The next man to feel it will be the hotel man, who will miss the trade of the traveling salesman. The railroad will lose the mileage paid by the traveling man; the liverymen will lose their best patrons, and the newspapers will lose the advertising, because it will not be necessary to advertise when there is no competition. All this might be tolerable if the saving thus made went to the consumer, but as a matter of fact it goes to the monopoly. My attention has been called to a prospectus issued by the International Steam Pump Company, organized March, 1899, under the laws of New Jersey, and capitalized at $27,500,000, of which nearly half is preferred stock, and the remainder common stock. I call attention to this prospectus, because it sets forth the plans of the trusts, and show who are to be the beneficiaries.

The International Steam Pump Company was organized for the purpose of manufacturing steam pumps, and according to the prospectus, "acquired control of the business of the following corporations, either through the conveyance of the title to the properties, and business of such companies, or by the ownership of not less than two-thirds of their stock, as may be found practicable." Then follow the names of five pump companies, accompanied by the statement that these companies are estimated to transact ninety per cent of the steam pump business of the United States, exclusive of high-duty engines. The majority of the companies also manufacture such engines.

Sample Case of Trusts.

One of the companies, taken into the combination had assets estimated at a little more than six million dollars; another company had assets estimated at a little, more than three millions; the third company had assets estimated at a little more than one million. The fourth company had assets estimated at eight hundred thousand dollars, and the fifth company had assets estimated at seven hundred thousand dollars. The good will was not estimated in the above figures. The total assets, therefore, of the five companies, not including the good will, were less than twelve million dollars, and the prospectus states that the combined net profits of the five concerns for the year 1898, estimated on the business of ten months of the year, would amount to twelve hundred thousand dollars. Under the head of "Estimated additional earnings from consolidation" I find the following:

"Each of the five companies now maintains agencies in the principal cities of the United States. The Worthington and Blake companies have stores, and carry stock in London, Hamburg, Vienna, and other cities. Some of them have expensive salaried managers. All these agencies in this and other countries will be consolidated. The stores and agencies maintained in the cities of this country, and the forces of clerks, salesmen, etc., necessary to conduct them, will be united and decreased, involving an estimated saving of at least $500,000 a year. The expenses of each company for its draughting department, incident to the elaborate drawings, and specifications for estimating of work, will bring about a further reduction. The standardizing of the patterns for farm and domestic work, which is now under way in the Worthington factory, when applied to the entire business of the new company, will result in an estimated saving of at least $200,000 per year."

And then follows in black type this significant statement:

Advantages of Consolidation.

"A conservative estimate of the advantages derived from consolidation is believed to be $1,300,000 over the present earnings, which would make a total of future net earnings, with the estimated earnings based on ten months of the year's business of $2,500,000, of 6 per cent on the preferred stock, and over eleven per cent on the common stock of the new company."

It will thus be seen from the prospectus that the advantages secured by the cutting down of expenses, will double the income, and not a word is said about giving the advantages of this reduction to the consumer. The money taken from the traveling men, from the hotel keepers, from the railroads, from the liverymen, from the newspapers, and from others who suffer by the discharge of traveling salesmen, clerks, etc., will all be [illegible] the profi[illegible] stock was to [illegible] maintained to pay dividends u[illegible] tious capital.

To give a further guarantee that the monopoly, the prospectus says that the principal men connected with the various companies would become identified with the company and would contract not to engage in a like business for ten years. But what about the public? What guarantee has the public that this monopoly will not raise prices? Is it not human nature to make all the profit possible out of a monopoly? Is it not reasonable to expect that the monopoly, after eliminating the salesmen, and adding their salaries, and expenses to the profit account, will seek a further profit by raising prices, and lowering wages? Is it not reasonable also to expect that there will be deterioration in quality when the spur of competition no longer compels the manufacturer to furnish the best goods for the lowest possible price?

In a little book described as an "Investment Guide" and issued in 1899, by Henry Clews & Co., bankers, I find a list of large corporations, together with a brief description of the business done and advantages secured by consolidation. In some instances an estimate is given of the output of the company as compared with the total product in the United States. Let me call your attention to a few of the corporations organized since the last Presidential election:

Trusts Formed Under McKinley.

The American Agricultural Chemical Company incorporated under the laws of Connecticut, in May, 1899, has an authorized capital of $40,000,000, half common stock, and half preferred. It acquired tweny-two of the largest fertilizing concerns in the country.

The American Bicycle Company, incorporated in May, 1899, in New Jersey, with $20,000,000 of common stock and $10,000,000 preferred, consolidated forty-four of the largest bicycle concerns in the United States.

The American Hide and Leather Company, incorporated in New Jersey in May, 1899, with an authorized capital of $35,000,000, half common stock and half preferred, controls about seveny-five per cent of the upper leather output of the country.

The American Linseed Oil Company, incorporated in New Jersey in December, 1898, with a capital stock of $33,500,000, half common stock and half preferred, consolidated eleven large linseed oil companies, and controls over eighty-five per cent of the linseed oil properties in the United States.

The American Steel Hoop Company, incorporated in New Jersey in April, 1899, consolidated nine large steel and iron companies in Ohio and Pennsylvania, capital stock $19,000,000 common, and $14,000,000 preferred.

The American Ship Building Company, incorporated in New Jersey in March, 1899, with an authorized capital of $30,000,000, half common stock, and half preferred, consolidated "all ship building, and kindred interests on the great lakes."

American Steel and Wire Company, incorporated in New Jersey in January, 1899, with $50,000,000, common stock, and $40,000,000 preferred, controls about eighty per cent of the nail and wire product of the United States.

The American Thread Company, incorporated in New Jersey in March, 1898, with a capital stock of $12,000,000, half common and half preferred, consolidated fourteen large thread companies in New York and New England.

American Tin Plate Company, incorporated in New Jersey in December, 1898, with $30,000,000 common stock, and $20,000,000 preferred, consolidated about ninty-five per cent of the tin plate mills in the United States.

The American Window Glass Company, incorporated in Pennsylvania, September, 1899, with $13,000,000 common stock and $4,000,000 preferred, consolidated window glass plants in New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Indiana, controlling about eighty-five per cent of the output of the United States.

American Woolen Company, incorporated in New Jersey in March, 1899, with nearly $30,000,000 common stock and $20,000,000 preferred, consolidated a number of mills in Rhode Island, Massachusetts and other places.

The American Writing Paper Company, incorporated in New Jersey June, 1899, with $35,000,000 capital, half common stock and half preferred, consolidated numerous mills, producing over seventy-six per cent of the output of the United States.

The Continental Tobacco Company, incorporated in New Jersey in November, 1898, with a capital of $100,000,000 half common stock and half preferred, "Acquired all the leading plug tobacco companies in the United States, and also purchased the plug tobacco business of the American Tobacco Company, in whose interest it was formed."

Giant Federal Steel Trust.

The Federal Steel Company, incorporated in New Jersey in September, 1898, with an authorized capital of $200,000,000 capital, half common stock and half preferred, consolidated the Illinois Steel Company, the Minnesota Iron Company, the Duluth & Iron Range Ry., the Elgin, Joliet & Eastern Ry., and several other companies. It owns five docks on the great lakes, and a majority of the steamers and barges used for transporting ores.

The International Paper Company, incorporated in January, 1898, (state not given) with an authorized capital of $20,000,000 common and $25,000,000 preferred stock, consolidated twenty-five pulp and paper mills, manufacturing about eighty per cent newspaper.

Every newspaper has suffered from the paper trust, the magazine, for instance, published by the Locomotive Firemen's organization, and supported by a fixed appropriation, has been compelled to lessen its reading space because of the rise in the price of paper.

The National Biscuit Company, incorporated in New Jersey in February, 1898, with $30,000,000 common stock and $25,000,000 preferred, consolidated the leading cracker companies, and controls in all one hundred and sixteen plants.

The National Salt Company, incorporated in New Jersey in March, 1899, with $7,000,000 of common stock authorized, and $5,000,000 preferred, produces about ninety-five per cent of the total output of the country.

The National Tube Company, incorporated in New Jersey, in June, 1899, has a capital stock of $30,000,000 half common and half preferred, and controls about ninety per cent of the output of the United States.

The Rubber Goods Manufacturing Company, incorporated in New Jersey in January, 1899, owns practically all the capital stock of the Mechanical Rubber Company, the Peerless Rubber Company and the India Rubber Company, as well as seventy-five per cent of the stock of Morgan & Wright. It also acquired the tire-making plants of the concern known as the American Bicycle Company, and the American Dunlop Tire Company. Authorized capital stock $50,000,000, half common and half preferred.

The Standard Rope & Twine Company, incorporated in New Jersey November 8, 1898, with a capital stock of $12,000,000, consolidated twenty-two large cordage mills.

The Union Bag and Paper Company, incorporated in New Jersey in February, 1899, with $16,000,000 common stock and $11,000,000 preferred, consolidated various plants, doing ninety per cent of the paper bag business of the United States.

United States Cast Iron Pipe and Foundry Company, incorporated in New Jersey in March, 1899, with an authorized capital of $30,000,000, half common sock and half [illegible] consolidated the principal cast [illegible] companies of the United States. [illegible] corporated in New [illegible] thorized capital of $1,000,000 and $[illegible] preferred, consolidated ten companies, and controls ninety per cent of the output of commercial envelopes in the United States.

The book mentioned also gives statistics in regard to several trusts organized prior to 1896 among which are the American Cotton Oil Co., the American Sugar Refining Company, the American Tobacco Company, the Diamond Match Company, the National Lead Company, and the Standard Oil Company.

No Hope from Republicans.

During the present administration no honest effort has been made to protect the people from these monopolies. The Republican party controls the executive and the legislative departments of the federal government. It can enforce the laws which now exist; it can propose and enact new laws, but it does neither. No persons can watch the conduct of the Republican party and read the speeches of Republican leaders, and still believe the Republican party sincere in its declarations against the trusts.

The Republican platform on this question and the President's letter of acceptance, taken in connection with the party's record, prove conclusively that no relief can be hoped for from that party. Instead of pointing out the evils of trusts the Republican leaders spend their time in exulting over present conditions. The trust is a part of present conditions, and Mr. Flint, from which I have already quoted, declared that the formation of large corporations was one of the important features of what he described as the present business activity. If Republican leaders really regarded private monopoly as an evil; if they really intended to apply an effective remedy, they would not hesitate to denounce trusts and suggest means for their extermination, but they express far more solicitude for the corporation than for the people at large. One is reminded of the picture which a mother once showed to her boy to impress upon his youthful mind the sufferings of the Christian Martyrs, who were being thrown into the arena and torn to pieces by the lions. The boy looked at the picture for a moment, and then his face brightened up as he thought he caught the idea. Pointing down into one point of the picture, he said, "Why, mamma, there is one poor little lion that isn't getting a bit." It is even so with the Republican leaders. Their sympathy goes out freely to any corporation, which in their opinion is not getting its share, but they are not moved by the hardships imposed by monopolies upon all who are outside of the charmed circle. Three sessions of Congress have convened and adjourned since the President's inauguration, and yet he has never recommended a specific measure looking toward the overthrow of monopolies.

Paper Money Trust.

At the opening of the last session of Congress the Republican leaders pressed through the House and Senate a bill creating a paper money trust and surrendered into the hands of the national banks complete control of the national currency. Just as Congress was closing a farcical and hypocritical attempt was made to deceive the public by the introduction of an anti-trust amendment, and an anti-trust bill. The amendment was not necessary and was intended to deprive the states of the power which they now possess, rather than to confer upon Congress new authority. This vicious amendment was defeated in the House by the Democrats. The Republican leaders then confessed the amendment unnecessary by introducing an anti-trust bill, which was supported by the Democrats, but which died in the Senate, just as it was expected to die. The Republican majority in the Senate referred the bill to the judiciary committee against the protests of the Democrats, who urged its immediate passage. The Republican party draws its contributions from the trusts during the campaign, and pays back its obligations by leaving the people at the mercy of the trusts between [illegible] has already been made to the commercial [illegible] trusts upon various clauses. Reference [illegible] Let us note briefly the effect of the [illegible] companies.

traveler, the hotel keeper, the railroad, the liveryman and the newspaper.

The Effect of Trusts.

The lawyers are finding that with the growth of trusts the business is gravitating toward the offices of the big corporation attorneys, while less fortunate practitioners are becoming law clerks.

The actors suffer from the theatrical trust.

The small manufacturer is constantly menaced by the trusts.

He does not know at what moment some large corporation will attempt to monopolize the business in which he is engaged, and give him his choice between bankruptcy and participation in an industrial conspiracy against the rest of the country. Many have been driven into the trust organization by the larger corporations engaged in the same business, or by trusts formed to control iron, steel, tin plate, or some other product used as a basis for further manufacture. In what business can your son safely invest a small amount of capital today? If he starts into any independent business he will find it difficult, if not impossible, to compete with a large organization if it attempts to undersell him in his territory, because it can sustain itself, by collecting high prices in other parts of the country. If he suppresses his moral objections and takes stock in a monopoly, he does not know how soon those in charge may attempt to "freeze out" the smaller stockholders.

The merchant is losing his independence. The trust fixes the terms upon which he shall sell, and often binds him by contract not to sell a competing article. When the monopoly is complete credit will be shortened, and the merchant will be compelled to bear all the risks of trade. When the trust raises prices, the merchant usually has to divide the advance with his customers, so far as stock on hand is concerned, but when the trust overstocks the market and then lets the price fall, the merchant must bear the loss on accumulated stock. When, for instance, the American Steel & Wire Company closed several of its factories a few months ago and threw some six thousand employes out of work, it dropped the price of nails and barbed wire in order to work off a surplus stock which had accumulated because the high prices had lessened the demand. Every merchant lost money on the nails and wire on hand.

There is already overproduction in many lines. The supply of common chairs is now considerably in excess of the demand, but lest the Republicans may try to explain this upon the theory that the people are too busy to sit down, I may add that there is also dullness in the shoe trade. The Iron Age in a recent issue pointed out that the production of iron was falling off, the decrease then amounting to more than 50,000 tons per month. Dun's report of July 21st stated that the woolen mills were running at less than half their capacity; and even recently the cotton manufacturers have been threatening to either reduce wages or shut down temporarily. According to Dun's report, the business failures have been greater during each month of 1900 than they were during the same months of last year, and this occurs in the midst of good crops, and when two wars are in progress.

Trusts and Arbitrary Fluctuations.

The contractor can figure with some accuracy as long as natural laws control, but he cannot guard himself against the arbitrary fluctuations, which are not only possible, but probable when a monopoly controls.

The farmer is one of the most important factors in our national life. Some one has said of him, "The hand that guides the plowshare feeds the world." He is not a stockholder in any of the trusts, but he feels the extortion practiced by them all. I am not farming on a large scale, but the misleading reports which have been circulated concerning my oat crop justify me in making reference to my own experience. The New York Tribune recently printed a dispatch from Nebraska to the effect that I had just sold forty-eight hundred bushels of oats at 20 cents per bushel (supposed to be the yield of 120 acres), and that the amount received for the oats was more than double the price paid for the land. The Tribune article then proceeded to dilate upon the prosperity of the farmer, using my experience as an illustration, and asserted that the farmers of Nebraska were becoming so opulent that they were joining the Republican party. The facts are, first: That I had five acres of oats instead of one hundred and twenty acres; second, That the oats have not yet been threshed, so that the yield is not known; third, That oats are selling for less than 22 cents in Chicago, instead of 20 cents in Nebraska, and fourth, That the land upon which the oats were raised cost me over $100 an acre instead of $6. If, when threshed, my oats yield 40 bushels to the acre, and I sell them in Nebraska for 20 cents per bushel, the total income from the five acres will be $40, or less than eight per cent on the investment. After taking out the cost of plowing, sowing, harvesting and threshing, the net income from that five acre tract, will not exceed four per cent on the money invested. I do not mean to judge others by my own experience, but I mention the facts in this case to show how the Republican papers exaggerate the farmers' prosperity, and credit a Republican administration with good crops, making no allowance for the crop failures which occur from time to time.

Decline of Farm Products.

But while on the oat question let me call attention to the statistics given in the Investment guide already referred to. According to Henry Clews & Co., the average prices received by farmers for oats, during the seven years beginning with 1893, and ending with 1899, were as follows: 1893, 29.4; 1894, 32.[illegible]; 1895, 19.8; 1896, 18.7; 1897, 21.2; 1898, 25.5; 1899, 24.2. According to these figures oats averaged 25 cents a bushel during the four years of Mr. Cleveland's administration, and only 21 cents per bushel during the three years of Mr. McKinley's administration—the present year is not yet complete, but oats are at the present time below the average.

According to the same authority the average prices received by the farmers for corn, were as follows: 1893, 36.5; 1894, 45.7; 1895, 28.4; 1896, 21.5; 1897, 23.3; 1898, 24.7; 1899, 30.3, making an average of about 30.5 during the four years of Mr. Cleveland's administration, and 28.1 during the three years of Mr. McKinley's administration—the fourth year is not yet complete, but corn is at this time above the average.

Wheat, according to the same authority brought to the farmers the following prices: 1893, 53.8; 1894, 49.1; 1895, 50.9; 1896, 72.6; 1897, 60.3; 1898, 58.3; 1899, 58.4, showing a higher average during the last three years than during the four preceding—the fourth year is not complete, but wheat is now above the average.

According to the same authority cotton planters received the following prices: 1893, 6.09; 1894, 4.6; 1895, 7.59; 1896, 6.6; 1897, 5.0; 1898, 4.75; 1899, 7.5, showing a higher average during the four years of Mr. Cleveland's administration than during the three years of Mr. McKinley's administration—the fourth year is not yet complete, but cotton is now above the average price.

Taking these four staples of agriculture it will be seen that three out of four have not on the average brought as much return to the farmer, under the present administration, as under the previous administration, and the fourth product, wheat, is more influenced than any other farm product by foreign conditions.

Advance in Merchandise.

When, however, the farmer attempts to use his income in the purchase of the necessaries of life he finds that the trusts have raised prices. He must pay more for lumber, nails, wire, harness, hardware, stoves and agricultural implements. More, also for oil, sugar, clothing, furniture, etc., and in addition to these drains upon his income he must meet an increase in federal taxation.

Let the parent calculate how long it will take a farmer to become independent under present conditions; let him contrast the lot of the farmer with the lot of the man who profits by governmental favoritism and grows rich by the exploitation of his countrymen through the instrumentality of monopoly, and then let him answer the question, "Is the young man, Absalom, safe? Has the farmer's son, or the farmer himself any reason for giving support to the Republican party?

Next to the farmer in point of numbers and importance come the wage-earners. What is the trust doing to increase the wages, shorten the hours, improve the condition, or protect the rights of the laboring man? Is his present prospect an inviting one? Is he receiving a fair share of the proceeds of his toil? And, if not, why not? Republicans assert that the working man has a "Full Dinner pail." I ask, in the first place, whether a full dinner pail is all that a laboring man needs? It is an insult to the wage-earner to say that his thoughts are entirely centered upon his physical wants. Republican speakers and editors assume that the laboring man is all stomach. They act upon the theory that he complains only when he is hungry, and is happy whenever his hunger is appeased.

The Full Dinner Pail.

If a full dinner pail were the only thing desired, and if every laboring man had plenty to eat, it would still be necessary for the Republican party to show some connection between Republican policies and the laboring man's food supply. If bountiful crops come to the farmer he does not thank a Republican administration. If a famine abroad raises the price of farm products here the farmer does not thank the Republican party for bringing the famine. If an unexpected and an unpromised increase in the gold supply gives any respite from financial stringency can the Republican party claim credit? The question is not whether the laboring man is able to exist under present conditions, but whether he is enjoying his share of the blessings of the country and of the protection of the government. Compare the laboring man with the trust magnate, and see which fares the best at the hands of the Republican party. Enquire also whether the laboring man's income has increased as rapidly as his living expenses.

But even if every laboring man was prosperous, and even if that prosperity could be traced to Republican legislation, still the laboring man is a citizen, and must look at political questions from the citizen's standpoint. He cannot afford to barter away future security; he cannot afford to sleep while his industrial independence is being destroyed. Neither can he be enticed into an imperialistic trap, no matter how well the trap may be bated with food.

During the last campaign laboring men were threatened with idleness by employers who desired to coerce them into the support of the Republican ticket. Many of them were told not to return to work unless the Republicans were successful at the polls. After the election some of these employers closed down their shops and others reduced wages. If advances have been made in any branch of industry since 1896 remember that some advance was necessary to compensate for the reductions which occurred after the last election.

Coercion in 1896.

A firm in the City of Washington announced shortly before the election in 1896 that it would not be able to continue in business if I was elected. It went into bankruptcy immediately after election notwithstanding the fact that its candidate was successful at the polls. There are indications that this attempt at intimidation may be resorted to again this fall. If a business man feels justified in holding out the prospect of his own bankruptcy in order to influence voters he cannot complain if his creditors take steps to collect their accounts before the election in order to avoid a possible loss.

The Chicago Times Herald of September 8 contained a special dispatch from Indianapolis setting forth the complaint made by the anthracite coal miners. In the dispatch I read the following statement made by one of the miners: "It is merely a question whether the men would starve to death at work or starve in idleness." The dispatch also contains the following figures in regard to wages, said to have been furnished by a member of the national board of the United Mine Workers of America, viz: "Average daily wages received by miners, $1.35; average wage of day men at mines, 90 cents." And in the statement to the public giving his reasons for calling out the miners, President Mitchell of the United Mine Workers says: "The average wages of the anthracite miners for many years has been less than $350 annually." Let the parent calculate the annual income of a miner, and figure out, if he can, how the miner is going to keep himself, and support his family under present conditions; and then let the parent ask himself whether he is willing to have his son take his chances with the miners. Is it due to natural or to human laws that the producer of wealth fares so poorly, while the man at the head of a monopoly secures so much.

All Monopolies Are Bad.

Those who attempt to divide private monopolies into good monopolies and bad monopolies will never make any progress toward the overthrow of the trusts. There is no good monopoly in private hands; there never was, and never will be. With all the advancement in civilization man is still too selfish to be trusted with the absolute control with that which his fellows must have. The Republican party has no remedy for the trusts. Publicity is good, but publicity alone is not sufficient. The practices of the trusts must not only be made known, they must be prevented. The Democratic platform contains a demand for legislation which will place trust made articles on the free list. There is no doubt that such a law would protect the people from much of the extortion which is practiced under cover of high tariff laws. If a tariff duty excludes the foreign product, while domestic manufacturers combine to raise the price of home product, the American citizen may be plundered here, while the trust sells abroad in competition with the world. It may not be out of place to suggest that I introduced a bill eight years ago providing for this remedy, but we are not willing to stop at one remedy, we desire to apply every remedy within the power of the state and federal governments. Congressional action is not necessary to destroy a trust which confines its operations to a single city, or a single state. Such a trust can be exterminated by state legislation. It is within the power of the state to prescribe the conditions upon which corporations shall be organized, and these conditions should be such as to make a private monopoly place limitations upon outside corporations doing business within the state. This, however, is not sufficient. Congress must co-operate with the state in preventing the organization of any interstate monopoly. Without impairing the present authority of the state, Congress can provide that corporations organized in any state shall not do business outside of the state until certain necessary conditions are complied with. If the people of any state are willing to create and continue a monopoly, the people of other states need feel no concern, so long as the monopoly is confined to the state in which the corporation originates. But, the moment a monopoly crosses the state line and invades other states, Congress has a right to, and must, interfere for the protection of the public at large. If a corporation organized in New Jersey, or any other state, were prohibited from engaging in inter-state commerce until it produced evidence to show that there was no water in its stock, and that it had not attempted, and was not attempting to monopolize any branch of industry, its power to do harm would at once be destroyed. An honest corporation engaged in legitimate business, ought to join in the enactment of laws, which will protect them and the public from the industrial highwaymen who commit larceny upon a grand scale. Those who desire the annihilation of the trusts are not hostile to property rights, but they protest against allowing the fictitious person, created by law and called a corporation, to trample upon the rights of the natural man of flesh and blood. If the man-made corporation supports the Republican party, we ought to be able to appeal for support to the God-made man.

As to Railroad Discriminations.

The railroads have by discriminations and rebates materially aided in building up monopolies. At one time the Standard Oil Company had a contract with a railroad whereby it not only enjoyed lower rates than its competitors, but received a part of the freight paid by its competitors. The inter-state commerce commission has repeatedly asked for legislation which would empower the commission to protect the public, but the Republican party has turned a deaf ear to these appeals.

It is generally assumed that the bankers will co-operate with the trusts in preventing remedial legislation, but the banker himself is apt to fall a victim of this policy of concentration. Some are already urging the establishment of branch banks, and when the branch bank is established it will be able to run all the other banks out of business. Even now the association of several great financial institutions in New York, under the influence of one group of financiers, is embarrassing other and smaller banks.

But why muultiply illustrations of the evil of monopoly? No matter how tempting the present advantage; no matter how alluring the immediate prospect every citizen will find it to his permanent advantage to aid in the overthrow of the monopolistic principle, and in the re-establishment of the industrial system upon a basis of justice. Give the boy a chance, and let success be the reward of merit.

The attempt of the Republican party to largely increase our military establishment suggests another inquiry: Is your son safe when new ideals are substituted for the ideals cherished during the past century, and when the doctrine of force is accepted as an American doctrine. Up to this time we have encouraged science and the arts; we have proclaimed the advantages of peace, and have preached the gospel of love. What will be the effect upon the character of future generations if we encourage the professional soldier at the expense of the civilian, and teach the creed that might can create right.

Dangers of Militarism.

Is your son safe when a large military establishment is being built up to protect syndicates organized to develop distant lands? When Mr. McKinley was inaugurated there were only 25,000 soldiers in the regular army. In December, 1898, the President recommended that the standing army be increased to 100,000 men. A Republican House of Representatives, prompt to do his bidding, passed a bill—and this was done after the treaty of peace was signed and before hostilities broke out in Manila. Why did we need such an army? Possibly the prospectus issued by the Philippine Lumber and Development Company will explain. The company has an office in the Merchants' Loan & Trust building, 135 Adams street, Chicago. The prospectus says, "Negotiations are pending for timber rights, and some valuable timber rights have already been secured, and negotiations for others are rapidly approaching completion. No other company can compete with this one in getting a first foothold in the islands, and for several years at least this company will be ahead of all competitors." It also quotes from an article in the American Lumberman in which appears the following: "Unlike most tropical countries the labor problem is easily solved by the Chinese labor, which is plentiful and fairly good." The capitalist may see an advantage in militarism and imperialism, but where is the laboring man's share? He will furnish sons for the army and will help to pay the expenses of war, but he has no part on the profits. As some one has expressed it his lot is to "Die for the dividends of Dives."

Is your son safe when the doctrine of equality before the law is repudiated, and when the arguments which have ever been used in support of kingcraft are called into justify taxation without representation, and government without the consent of the governed. Many have given their support to an imperialistic policy without fully realizing what imperialism means. Mr. Gompers, President of the Federation of Labor, in his report made to the organization last December, warns the laboring man to beware of the dangers of imperialism and says: "But beneath it all there is the purpose of those who have lost faith in the principles of our republic, those who have no confidence in, or reliance upon the honor, honesty and stability of our people and our form of government, and who aim to erect a throne of despotism upon the tomb of freedom, whose initatory step is a large standing army, and who, with militarism rampant, hope to crush out the memory of, and the aspiration for, true liberty and freedom for all our people."

Appeal to Freemen.

Whether this nation shall be looked upon as a Lafayette, aiding others to obtain their freedom and enjoying their gratitude, or as a Lord Clive, fastening a hateful sovereignty upon a weaker people and receiving hatred in return, is a question which you must help to decide. Let me borrow a story which has already been applied to the present situation. A man passed along a street of a great city, unmindful of the merchandise piled on either side; he sought out a bird store, and purchasing a number of birds opened their cages and allowed them to fly away. When asked why he thus wasted his money he replied: "I was once a captive myself, and it gives me joy to be the means of setting any captive free."

This nation has been a liberator. It first secured the freedom of its own people, and from that day on has furnished the example which has lead to the overthrow of monachical rule in many nations. Let it not falter now. It is probable that the $20,000,000 paid to Spain can be secured from the Filipinos, but even if it cannot, it is better to consider that sum as a contribution to be spread on the doctrine of self-government than to regard it as part payment upon the purchase price of people or their lands. Citizens, countrymen, you stand by the side of the cage; you cannot avoid responsibility; will you open the door or shut it?

WILLIAM J. BRYAN'S LETTER OF ACCEPTANCE

Gentlemen:—In accepting the nomination tendered by you on behalf of the Democratic party, I beg to assure you of my appreciation of the great honor conferred upon me by the delegates in convention assembled, and by the voters who gave instruction to the delegates.

I am sensible of the responsibilities which rest upon the chief magistrate of so great a nation, and realize the far-reaching effect of the questions involved in the present contest.

In my letter of acceptance of 1896, I made the following pledge:

"So deeply am I impressed with the magnitude of the power vested by the Constitution in the chief executive of the nation and with the enormous influence which he can yield for the benefit or injury of the people, that I wish to enter the office, if elected, free from any personal desire, except the desire to prove worthy of the confidence of my countrymen. Human judgment is fallible enough when unbiased by selfish considerations, and, in order that I may not be tempted to use the patronage of the office to advance any personal ambition, I hereby announce, with all the emphasis which words can express, my fixed determination not, under any circumstances, to be a candidate for re-election, in case this campaign results in my election."

Further reflection and observation constrain me to renew this pledge.

The platform adopted at Kansas City commands my cordial and unqualified approval. It courageously meets the issues now before the country, and states clearly and without ambiguity the party's position on every question considered. Adopted by a convention which assembled on the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence, it breathes the spirit of candor, independence and patriotism which characterizes those who, at Philadelphia in 1776, promulgated the creed of the Republic.

Having in my notification speech, discussed somewhat at length the paramount issue, imperialism, and added some observations on militarism and the Boer war, it is sufficient at this time to review the remaining planks of the platform.

Trusts.

The platform very properly gives prominence to the trust question. The appalling growth of combinations in restraint of trade during the present administration, proves conclusively that the Republican party lacks either the desire or the ability to deal with the question effectively. If as may be fairly assumed from the speeches and conduct of the Republican leaders, that party does not intend to take the people's side against these organizations, then the weak and qualified condemnation of trusts to be found in the Republican platform is designed to distract attention while industrial despotism is completing its work. A private monopoly has always been an outlaw. No defense can be made of an industrial system in which one, or a few men, can control for their own profit, the output or price of any article of merchandise. Under such a system the consumer suffers extortion, the producer of raw material has but one purchaser, and must sell at the arbitrary price fixed; the laborer has but one employer, and is powerless to protest against injustice, either in wages or in conditions of labor; the small stockholder is at the mercy of the speculator, while the traveling salesman contributes his salary to the overgrown profits of the trust. Since but a small proportion of the people can share in the advantages secured by private monopoly, it follows that the remainder of the people are not only excluded from the benefits, but are the helpless victims of every monopoly organized. It is difficult to overestimate the immediate injustice that may be done, or to calculate the ultimate effect of this injustice upon the social and political welfare of the people. Our platform, after suggesting certain specific remedies; pledges the party to an unceasing warfare against private monopoly in nation, state and city. I heartily approve of this promise; if elected, it shall be my earnest and constant endeavor to fulfill the promise in letter and spirit. I shall select an attorney-general who will, without fear or favor, enforce existing laws; I shall recommend such additional legislation as may be necessary to dissolve every private monopoly which does business outside of the state of its origin; and, if contrary to my belief and hope, a constitutional amendment is found to be necessary, I shall recommend such an amendment as will, without impairing any of the existing rights of the states, empower Congress to protect the people of all the states from injury at the hands of individuals or corporations engaged in interstate commerce.

The platform accurately describes the Dingley tariff law, when it condemns it as a "trust breeding measure, skillfully devised to give to the few favors which they do not deserve, and to place upon the many burdens which they should not bear." Under its operation trusts can plunder the people of the United States, while they successfully compete in foreign markets with manufacturers of other countries. Even those who justify the general policy of protection will find it difficult to defend a tariff which enables a trust to exact an exorbitant toll from the citizen.

Corporations in Politics.

The Democratic party makes no war upon honestly acquired wealth; neither does it seek to embarrass corporations engaged in legitimate business, but it does protest against corporations entering politics, and attempting to assume control of the instrumentalities of government. A corporation is not organized for political purposes, and should be compelled to confine itself to the business described in its charter. Honest corporations, engaged in an honest business, will find it to their advantage to aid in the enactment of such legislation as will protect them from the undeserved odium which will be brought upon them by those corporations which enter the political arena.

Interstate Commerce.

The Republican party has persistently refused to comply with the urgent request of the Interstate Commerce commission, for such an enlargement of the scope of the interstate commerce law as will enable the commission to realize the hopes aroused by its creation. The Democratic party is pledged to legislation which will empower the commission to protect individuals and communities from discrimination, and the public at large from unjust and unfair transportation rates.

The Financial Plank.

The platform reiterates the demand contained in the Chicago platform for an American financial system made by the American people for themselves. The purpose of such a system is to restore and maintain a bimetallic level of prices, and in order that there may be no uncertainty as to the method of restoring bimetallism, the specific declaration in favor of free and unlimited coinage at the existing ratio of 16 to 1, independent of the action of other nations, is repeated. In 1896 the Republican party recognized the necessity for bimetallism by pledging the party to an earnest effort to secure an international agreement for the free coinage of silver, and the president, immediately after his inauguration, by authority of congress, appointed a commission composed of distinguished citizens to visit Europe and solicit foreign aid. Secretary Hay, in a letter written to Lord Aldenham in November, 1898, and afterwards published in England, declared that at that time the president and a majority of his cabinet still believed in the great desirability of an international agreement for the restoration of the double standard, but that it did not seem opportune to re-open the negotiations just then. The financial law enacted less than a year ago contains a concluding section declaring that the [illegible] the way of the restoration of bimetallism, whenever it could be done by co-operation with other nations. The platform submitted to the last Republican convention with the indorsement of the administration again suggested the possibility of securing foreign aid in restoring silver.

Now the Republican party, for the first time, openly abandons its advocacy of the double standard, and indorses the monetary system which it has so often and so emphatically condemned. The Democratic party, on the contrary, remains the steadfast advocate of the gold and silver coinage of the constitution, and is not willing that other nations shall determine for us the time and manner of restoring silver to its ancient place as a standard money. The ratio of 16 to 1 is not only the ratio now existing between all the gold and silver dollars in circulation in this country, a ratio which even the Republican administration has not attempted to change, but it is the only ratio advocated by those who are seeking to re-open the mints. Whether the senate, now hostile to bimetallism, can be changed during this campaign or the campaign of 1902 can only be determined after the votes are counted, but neither the present nor the future political complexion of congress has prevented or should prevent an announcement of the party's position upon this subject in unequivocal terms.

The currency bill, which received the sanction of the Executive and the Republican members of the House and Senate, justifies the warning given by the Democratic party in 1896. It was then predicted that the Republican party would attempt to retire the greenbacks although the party and its leaders studiously concealed their intentions. That purpose is now plain and the people must choose between the retention of the greenbacks, issued and controlled in volume by the government, and a national bank note currency issued by banks and controlled in their own interests. If the national bank notes are to be secured by bonds, the currency system now supported by the Republican party involves a permanent and increasing debt, and, so long as this system stands, the financial classes will be tempted to throw their powerful influence upon the side of any measure which will contribute to the size and permanency of a national debt. It is hardly conceivable that the American people will deliberately turn from the debt-paying policy of the past, to the dangerous doctrine of perpetual bonds.

Election of Senators by the People.

The demand for a constitutional amendment providing for the election of Senators by direct vote of the people, appears for the first time in a Democratic National platform, but a resolution proposing such an amendment, has three times passed the House of Representatives, and that, too, practically without opposition. Whatever may have been the reasons which secured the adoption of the present plan, a century ago, new conditions have made it imperative that the people be permitted to speak directly in the selection of their representatives in the Senate. A Senator is no less the representative of the State because he receives his commission from the people themselves, rather than from the members of the State legislature. If a voter is competent to vote for a member of Congress, for State officers and for President, he is competent to choose his representative in the Senate. A system which makes the Senator responsible for his election to the people, as a whole, and amenable to them if he misrepresents them, must commend itself to those who have confidence in the intelligence, and patriotism of the masses.

Direct Legislation.

The platform indorses the principle of direct legislation. This is already applied to the more important questions in nation, state and city. It rests upon the sound theory that the people can be trusted, and that the more responsive the government is to the will of the people, the more free it will be from misuse and abuse.

Labor Question.

Several planks of the labor platform are devoted to questions in which the laboring classes have an immediate interest, but which more remotely affect our entire population. While what is generally known as government by injunction is at present directed chiefly against the employes of corporations, when there is a disagreement between them and their employer, it involves a principle which concerns every one. The purpose of the injunction in such cases is to substitute trial by judge for trial by jury, and is a covert blow at the jury system. The abolition of government by injunction is as necessary for the protection of the reputation of the court, as it is for the security of the citizen. Blackstone in defending trial by jury, says:

"The impartial administration of justice, which secures both our persons, and our properties is the great end of civil society, but if that be entrusted entirely to the magistracy, a select body of men, and those selected by the prince such as enjoy the highest offices of the state their decisions in spite of their natural integrity, will have frequently an involuntary bias toward those of their own rank, and dignity. It is not to be expected [illegible] human nature that the few should be [illegible] to the interests and good of the many."

If the criminal laws are not sufficient for the protection of property, they can be made more severe, but a citizen charged with crime must have his case tried before a jury of his peers.

The Blacklist.

The blacklist as now employed in some places enables the employer to place the employe under practical duress, for the skilled laborer loses his independence when the employers can not only discharge him, but prevent his securing any similar employment. The blacklist enables employers to secure, by mutual agreement, that control over the wage earners which a private monopoly exercises without contract.

Arbitration.

The platform renews the demand for arbitration between corporations and their employes. No one who has observed the friction which arises between great corporations and their numerous employes can doubt the wisdom of establishing an impartial court for the just and equitable settlement of disputes. The demand for arbitration ought to be supported as heartily by the public, which suffers inconvenience because of strikes and lockouts, and by the employers themselves, as by the employes. The establishment of arbitration will insure friendly relations between labor and capital and render obsolete the growing practice of calling in the army to settle labor troubles.

Department of Labor.

I cannot too strongly emphasize the importance of the platform recommendation of the establishment of a department of labor, with a member of the cabinet at its head. When we remember how important a position the laborer fills in our economic, social and political fabric, it is hard to conceive of a valid objection being made to this recognition of his services. Agriculture is already represented in the president's official household; the army and navy have their representatives there; the state department, with its consular service, and the treasury department, with its close connection with fiscal affairs, keep the executive in touch with the business and commercial interests. A cabinet officer truly representative of the wage earning class would be of invaluable aid, not only to the toilers, but to the president.

Chinese Exclusion.

The Chinese exclusion act has proven an advantage to the country, and its continuance and strict enforcement, as well as its extension to other similar races, are imperatively necessary. The Asiatic is so essentially different from the American that he cannot be assimilated with our population, and is, therefore, not desirable as a permanent citizen. His presence as a temporary laborer, preserving his national identity, and maintaining a foreign scale of wages and living, must ever prove an injustice to American producers, as well as a perpetual source of irritation.

Pensions.

The party expresses its pride in the soldiers and sailors of all our wars, and declares its purpose to deal generously with them and their dependents. A liberal policy is natural and necessary in a government which depends upon a citizen soldiery, instead of a large standing army. Self-interest, as well as gratitude, compels the government to make bountiful provision for those who, in the hour of danger, and at great sacrifice of business, health and life, tender their services to their country.

The pension laws should be construed according to the generous spirit which prompted their passage. The platform very properly reiterates the position taken in 1896, that the fact of enlistment shall be deemed conclusive evidence that the soldier was sound when the government accepted him. A certificate given now to the health of a person 40 years ago, even if easily obtainable, should not have as much weight as the certificate of the medical officer who examined the volunteer with a view of ascertaining his fitness for army service.

Nicaragua.

The Democratic party is in favor of the immediate construction, ownership and control of the Nicaragua canal by the United States. The failure of the Republican party to make any progress in carrying out a pledge contained in its platform four years ago, together with the substitution in its latest platform of a plank favoring an isthmian canal for a specific declaration in favor of the Nicaraguan canal, would indicate that the Republican leaders either do not appreciate the importance of this great waterway to the maritime strength and commercial interests of the country, or that they give too much consideration to the interested opposition of transcontinental lines. The Hays-Pauncefote treaty, now before the senate, would, if ratified, greatly lessen the value of the canal, if it would not indeed convert it into a positive menace in time of war. The paramount interests of the United States in the western hemisphere [illegible] to the south of us, makes it necessary that our government shall be able to close the canal against any hostile power.

Arizona, New Mexico and Oklahoma.

Arizona, New Mexico and Oklahoma have long been ready to assume the responsibilities and enjoy the privileges of statehood, and it will be a pleasure, as well as a duty, to carry out the platform pledge concerning them.

Alaska and Porto Rico.

There will be a popular acquiescence in the demand for home rule, and a territorial form of government in Alaska and Porto Rico. Both are entitled to local self-government and representation in Congress.

Cuba.

The recognition contained in both the Democratic and Republican platforms of the right of the Cubans to independence, removes the general principle involved from the domain of partisan politics. It is proper, however, to consider whether the accomplishment of this purpose can be safely entrusted to the Republican party after it has yielded to the allurements of the Colonial idea, and abandoned its earlier faith in the natural and inalienable rights of man.

Reclamation of Arid Lands.

The time is ripe for a systematic and extended effort to reclaim the arid lands and fit them for actual settlers. The last agricultural report estimates that homes can thus be provided for many millions of people. The impounding and use of the waters which are wasted in the spring would people the western states with thrifty, intelligent, and industrious citizens, and these would furnish a valuable market for all the products of the factories. A small percentage of the money spent in a war of conquest would provide occupation and habitation for more people than would ever seek a residence in colonies within the tropics.

Foreign Alliances.

The reasons given by Washington, Jefferson, and the other statesmen of the early days in support of the doctrine that we should maintain friendly relations with all nations, but enter into entangling alliances with none, are even stronger to-day than they were a hundred years ago. Our commerce is rapidly increasing, and we are brought into constant communication with all parts of the world. Even if we desired to do so, we could not afford to alienate many nations by cultivating unnecessary intimacy with a few. Our strength and standing are such that it is less necessary than ever before to lean for aid upon the friendliness of a foreign power.

We cannot connect ourselves with European nations, and share in their jealousies and ambitions without losing the peculiar advantage, which our location, our character and our institutions give us in the world's affairs.

Monroe Doctrine.

The doctrine enunciated by Monroe, and approved by succeeding presidents, is essential to the welfare of the United States. The continents of North and South America are dedicated to the development of free government. One republic after another has been established, until to-day monarchial idea has barely a foothold in the new world.

While it is not the policy of this country to interfere where amicable relations exist between European countries and their dependencies in America, our people would look with disfavor upon any attempt on the part of European governments to maintain an unwilling or forcible sovereignty over the people living on this side of the Atlantic.

The position taken by the Republican leaders, and more recently set forth by the Republican candidate for the Presidency, viz: That we cannot protect a nation from outside interference without exercising sovereignty over its people, is an assault upon the Monroe doctrine, for while this argument is at this time directed against the proposition to give to the Filipinos both independence and protection, it is equally applicable to the republics of Central and South America. If this government cannot lend its strength to another Republic without making subjects of its people, then we must either withdraw our protection from the Republics to the south of us or absorb them. Under the same plea, that the guardian nation must exert an authority equal to its responsibility, European nations have for centuries exploited their wards, and it is a significant fact that the Republican party should accept the European idea of a protectorate, at the same time that it adopts a European colonial policy. There is no excuse for this abandonment of the American idea. We have maintained the Monroe doctrine for three-quarters of a century. The expense to us has been practically nothing, but the protection has been beyond value to our sister Republics. If a Filipino Republic is erected upon the ruins of Spanish tyranny, its protection by us will be neither difficult nor expensive. No European nation would be willing for any other European nation to have the islands, neither would any European nation be willing to provoke a war with [illegible] to obtain [illegible] of the islands. If we assert sovereignty over the Filipinos we will have to defend that sovereignty by force, and the Filipinos will be our enemies; if we protect them from outside interference, they will defend themselves and will be our friends. If they show as much determination in opposing the sovereignty of other nations as they have shown in opposing our sovereignty, they will not require much assistance from us.

Extravagance.

The Republican party, drawing as it does enormous campaign funds from those who enjoy special privileges at the hands of the government, is powerless to protect the tax payers from the attack of those who profit by large appropriations. A surplus in the treasury offers constant temptation to extravagance, and extravagance, in turn, compels a resort to new means of taxation, which, is being kept in the background until the campaign is over, is a fair illustration of the imposition which will be attempted when there is a considerable amount of money idle in the treasury. The rehabilitation of the merchant marine, laudable in itself, is made the pretext for expenditure of public money for the benefit of large ship owners, and in the interests of a transportation monopoly. The government being only the agent of the people, has no right to collect from the people taxes beyond the legitimate needs of a government honestly and effectively administered, and public servants should exercise the same degree of care in the use of the people's money that private individuals do in the use of their own money. With a restoration of a foreign policy consistent with American ideas there can be an immediate and large reduction in the burdens now borne by the people.

Income Tax.

By inadvertence the Income Tax plank agreed upon by the Resolutions committee, was omitted from the platform as read and adopted. The subject, however, is covered by the reaffirmation of the Chicago platform, and I take this occasion to reassert my belief in the principle which underlies the income tax. Congress should have authority to levy and collect an income tax whenever necessary, and an amendment to the federal constitution specifically conferring such authority ought to be supported by even those who may think the tax unnecessary at this time. In the hour of danger the government can draft the citizen; it ought to be able to draft the pocketbook as well. Unless money is more precious than blood, we cannot afford to give greater protection to the incomes of the rich than to the lives of the poor.

Imperialism.

The subjects, however, treated in this letter, important as each may seem in itself, do not press so imperatively for solution as the question which the platform declares to be the paramount issue in this campaign. Whether we shall adhere to, or abandon those ideas of government which have distinguished this nation from other nations and given to its history its peculiar charm and value, is a question the settlement of which cannot be delayed. No other question can approach it in importance; no other question demands such immediate consideration. It is easier to lose a reputation than to establish one, and this nation would find it a long and laborious task to regain its proud position among the nations, if, under the stress of temptation, it should repudiate the self-evident truths proclaimed by our heroic ancestors and sacredly treasured during a career unparalleled in the annals of time. When the doctrine that the people are the only source of power is made secure from further attack we can safely proceed to the settlement of the numerous questions which involve the domestic and economic welfare of our citizens.

Very truly yours,

W. J. BRYAN.

Sayings of Lincoln

Following are taken from a recently published work, edited by Dr. H. S. Taylor and D. M. Fulwiler, entitled "Lincoln's Words on Living Issues." Trusty Publishing Co., 418 Roanoke building, Chicago.

Letter to H. L. Pierce, April 6, 1859, —Irelan 16—268. All honor to Jefferson—to the man who, in the concrete pressure of a struggle for national independence by a single people, had the coolness, forecast and capacity to introduce into a merely revolutionary document an abstract truth, applicable to all men and all times, and so to embalm it there that today, and in all coming days, it shall be a rebuke and a stumbling block to the very harbingers of reappearing tyranny and oppression.

(March 4, 1865, Second Inaugural—Hapgood, p. 403.) It may seem strange that any men should dare to ask a just God's assistance in wringing bread from the sweat of other men's faces.

(August 26, 1863, Letter to James C. Conkling—Herndon, p. 555.) For the great republic—for the principle it lives by and keeps alive—for man's vast future—thanks to all.

(September 30, 1859, Speech at Milwaukee, Wis.—Complete Works, Vol. I, p. 577.) Farmers being the most numerous class, it follows that their interest is the largest interest. It also follows that that interest is most worthy of all to be cherished and cultivated—that if there be inevitable conflict between that interest and any other, that other should yield.

(July 5, 1861, Annual Message—Raymond, p. 186.) This relative matter of National power and state rights, as a principle, is no other than the principle of generality and locality. Whatever concerns the whole should be confided to the whole—to the general government; while whatever concerns only the state should be left exclusively to the state.

July 16, 1852, Speech at Springfield, Ill.—Complete Works, I, p. 171.) A free people in times of peace and quiet—when pressed by no common danger—naturally divide into parties. At such times the man who is of neither party is not, cannot be of any consequence.

(September 17, 1859, Speech at Cincinnati, O.—Debates, p. 268.) The people of the United States are the rightful masters of both congresses and courts, not to overthrow the Constitution, but to overthrow the men who pervert the Constitution.

(October 16, 1854, Speech at Peoria, Ill.—Howells, p. 279.) Well I doubt not that the people of Nebraska are and will continue to be as good as the average of people elsewhere. I do not say the contrary. What I do say is that no man is good enough to govern another man without that other's consent. I say this is the leading principle.

(March 4, 1861, First Inaugural—Raymond, p. 167.) I do not forget the position assumed by some, that constitutional questions are to be decided by the superior court. * * * At the same time the candid citizen must confess that if the policy of the government, upon vital questions affecting the whole people, is to be irrevocably fixed by decisions of the supreme court, the instant they are made in ordinary litigation, between parties in personal actions, the people will have ceased to be their own rulers, having to that extent practically resigned their government into the hands of that eminent tribunal.

(May 17, 1859, Letter to Dr. Theodore Canisius concerning law of naturalization, etc.—Howells, p. 85.) As I understand the spirit of our institutions, it is designed to promote the elevation of men. I am therefore hostile to anything that tends to their debasement.

(February 12, 1861, Speech at Cincinnati, O. Complete Works, Vol. I, p. 676.) The workingmen are the basis of all governments for the plain reason that they are the more numerous.

Isn't It Good Policy
To Make Your Purchase Early?

WE THINK SO.

In the first place you get your choice from full stock of everything. The first goods in are generally better value than duplicates which in many cases are hurried in the making. You have the worry of what to select from, off your mind.

Our Stock is now in fine condition. Larger and better than ever before. Our space will not permit of our mentioning the many good things in each Department. We select

Dress Goods, Silks and Fall Waists,

as subjects to talk to you about.

We have for several years held the reputation for showing the best line of

BLACK GOODS.

This season shall prove no exception to the rule. You may feel absolutely sure that we have what you want and the best possible value to be found for the money you pay.

The Very Fashionable Things in Colors are HOMESPUNS, CAMEL'S HAIR, VENETIANS, CHEVIOTS, and FRENCH FLANNELS.

We have beautiful HOME SPUNS, good weight, 38 inches wide and excellent quality at 50 cents per yard.

For $1 00 the yard we show extra fine quality CAMELS HAIR, three shades Grey, two shades blue, brown and black. These goods are sure to be scarce before the season is half over and we advise you to be first in the field.

For Waists there is nothing more serviceable or stylish than FRENCH FLANNELS. We have them in Polka Dot, two shades of blue and two shades of cardinal. The price is 75 cents per yard.

We also show extra fine POLKA DOT HENRIETTAS in purple, crush strawberry, cream, drab and royal blue. These goods are 40 inches wide and marked to sell at $1.00. They are new and going rapidly.

For cheap WAISTS and Children's SCHOOL DRESSES we recommend our guaranteed colors in plaids. Ten styles, double width and 15 cents is the price.

The New SILKS are handsomer than ever. Our range of style is exceptionally strong. Prices which are right. You must see them to appreciate our effort in this line.

Ready Made Waists

for Fall are sure to be more popular this season than ever. We realized this long before the season opened, consequently, we prepared for what we knew was sure to come. We have a fine selection on hand and are getting in more nearly every day. You will have no cause to regret buying your Fall bill from us.

We are saving you money.

Schaab & Bro.

Stoves

We invite you to call and examine our line of COOK and HEATING STOVES. We are again sole agents for the celebrated Wilson Heating Machines, the greatest fuel savers and fire holders on the marke.

STOVES

Don't be deceived by buying something just as good; be sure you get the Wilson Air Tight.

CULBERTSON & BOLAND.

We sell the celebrated Sherwin-Williams Family Paint.

Stoves

"It's the Sign of a Well Made Suit"

"It Means Good Honest Clothes that Fit."

"Do You See That Label?"

"It's too small to read" did you say? Look at it again very closely and you'll recognize the name of that well-known firm,

The International Tailoring Co.
Chicago

who make a specialty of pleasing every customer. They make only first-class clothes that fit and give satisfaction. The prices are surprisingly low. Look at their line of five hundred nice new Fall and Winter fabrics on exhibition with their resident dealers,

J. Y. W. McCLELLAN.

Monday's Daily.

—Angola fair, October 9 to 12.

—Mrs. Edgar Wise is reported sick.

—Mrs. K. Stafford of St. Joe was in town Saturday.

—Have you got dandruff? Use Radam's Microbe Killer. s29

—If you want a second hand grain drill go to Culbertson & Boland. 36tf

—Two good second hand grain drills for sale cheap at Culbertson & Boland's. 36tf

—Mrs. Wm. Clark east of town, is critically ill, and her friends fear she may not recover.

—Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Weamer drove down from Hudson yesterday and called on the relatives and friends.

—Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Elson report a good meeting of the old 30th at their reunion at Cromwell last week.

—The Jewish New Year was yesterday, the year opening at 6 p. m. It is according to their calendar, the year 5661 now.

—Fisher West is very sick. Dr. Nusbaum went down there today, being called in consultation by the family physician.

—Court next week. That will be Mr. Long's last term as clerk, and at the next term Mr. Dennison will take charge of the work.

—Nellie Ober goes to Bloomington today, to enter the State University there. She is a bright young lady and we hope wil succeed.

—Wm. Kiester brother of Geo. Kiester is still very bad at his home in the country. It will be remembered he cut his foot with a corn knife and lockjaw resulted.

—Mr. and Mrs. John Leasure drove down from Angola yesterday, returning in the evening. Flossie who had been here some time returned with them.

—Mrs. Sylvia Hamilton came down from Angola, and spent Sunday with her people, Mr. and Mrs. May. She is type writer at the college up there.

WHAT HAVE YOU TO TRADE.—If you have a farm you want to trade for town property and part cash we can make a deal for you. MOODY & RICKEL.

—Charles Bartels and Charles Adams have been cleaning up the old cemetery. If Charlie keeps on he will have that old scrubby lot made as beautiful as the well-kept Evergreen.

—Read over our lists of local candidates. Cut the list out and keep it till election day, and then vote for them without a scratch. You will get good officers and satisfy your conscience.

—Among those that attended the Salvation Army meeting yesterday from out of town, were Levi Treesh and wife of Sedan, Mr. and Mrs. Cox of Corunna and Henry Fretz of Richland.

—WANTED:—About 25 or 30cords of good body wood, 18 or 20 inches long, either beech, hard maple or hickory. No dosy or sour wood will be accepted, but must be cut from green timber.—J. C. HENRY.

—R. H. Murch and wife and Mrs. Murch's mother, Mrs. Noragon, were here today on a business matter. Their present home is on the Peter Noragon farm in Franklin township, but they expect soon to return to Butler where they still have their property.

—Unclaimed letters remaining in the postoffice, week ending Sept. 22 1900. Mrs. Flora Diebert, Mr. W. J. Camp, O. E. Aleshire, Frank McKee, J. C. Basse, Burton Hull. Claimants will please call for letters in advertised list. G. H. FORKNER, Postmaster.

—WANTED:—Active man of good character to deliver and collect in Indiana for old established manufacturing wholesale house. $900 a year, sure pay. Honesty more than experience required. Our reference, any bank in any city. Enclose self-addressed stamped envelope. Manufacturers, Third Floor, 334 Dearborn St., Chicago.

—Chemistry has done many things for mankind, but the discoveries in 1891 that led to the manufacturing of Putnam Fadeless Dyes, was the master stroke. With these improved Dyes, cotton, wool or silk can be dyed with one operation in half the time and with less labor than with any other. Sold by F. E. Davenport. s9

—Two buggies were left at Campbell & Son's hospital this morning for repairs, having been in a collision Saturday night. They were being driven by Mel Springer and John Miser, the former going home from town and the latter coming this way, being accompanied by a lady. Neither saw the other and they ran together breaking the thills to both buggies and doing other slight damages and injuring the young lady who was pitched out.

NOT "ROGERS" ONLY—BUT "1847 Rogers Bros." is the Trade mark that appears on the old original brand of Knives, Forks and Spoons.

There are many imitations—"1847" is identifying mark of the genuine, which are sold by leading dealers. Send to the makers for booklet No. 252, of beautiful new designs.

THE INTERNATIONAL SILVER CO. Meriden, Conn.

"Silver Plate that Wears."

Tuesday's Daily.

—Crack the nigger dolls at the Fall Festival.

—Homemade candies will soon be the go at Had's.

—Try Radam's Microbe Killer for eczema. Sure cure. s29

—Father Young was calling on friends in Auburn yesterday.

—See I. O. Hoffman for general repairs, south of Bachtel's mill. tf

—One good second hand phaeton for sale cheap.—Culbertson & Boland.

—Fall Festival on Court Lawn, Thursday evening next. The Auburn Band.

—If yor wish something deliqious for breakfast, try Mrs. Austin's famous pancake flour. o6

Hot taffy, candy, all you can eat, if you have the price. Fall Festival, Thursday evening.

—A GOOD CHANCE:—For a bright reliable boy to learn telegraphy. Call at the Postal telegraph Office. tf

—The Askew property north of Lutheran church for sale at a bargain. For particulars address Phil Plum, Waterloo, Ind. tf

—Girls, if you wish to be a June bride with red lips, laughing eyes, a lovely complexion, take Rocky Mountain Tea this month. 35c.

—Mrs. T. C. Ford goes to Hicksville today and after a visit there with her father, she goes to St. Marys, Ohio, to visit her daughter, Mrs. Dr. Collett.

If you have a mortgage on your farm and can not pay it we can find a buyer for your equity. Call on us quick.
MOODY & RICKEL, Auburn.

—Remember the fine company with Uncle Tom at the Opera House Saturday evening. It goes ahead of all the other Uncle Toms that have been here.

—For the next ten days I will sell roses at the following prices; ramblers, 35 cents each; hybrid perpetuals, 25 cents each or five for $1.—I. M. JOHNSON.

—Married at the residence of and by Rev. W. O. Butler, September 23, 1900, Cyrus Baughman of Union township and Miss Nettie M. Hubbard of Grant township.

—The Bryan and Stevenson Club will meet at their headquarters on Thursday of this week, Sept. 27. A full attendance is requested. C. Gibsord, President.

—Some boys at Muncie wedged a broom handle into the railroad switch last week and derailed a train. The engine was nearly ruined. The boys are not known.

—For 6,000 years have we waited for the greatest blessing ever offered. It doubles your joys and halves your sorrows. That's what Rocky Mountain Tea does. 35c.

—Wm. Kiester, who had lockjaw caused by cutting his leg with a corn-cutter, died yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock. He was a lad about ten or twelve years old.

People are coming from every direction to the Fall Festival. Good weather is all that is necessary to guarantee the largest crowd there has been in Auburn this year.

—WANTED: Wood cutters. Will give 55 and 60 cents a cord for cutting 100 cords at once. Good timber. Call at Roberts grocery in Auburn or on W. E. Rose on the Newville road. 38

—WANTED.—Men with rigs to advertise and introduce our Poultry Compound. Straight Salary, $15 weekly and expenses. Send stamp Department, Royal Manufacturing Company, Indianapolis, Indiana.

—LOST:—A lady's pocket book Saturday evening somewhere between town and the Salvation Army tent. It contained calling cards, pen knife, etc. Finder will be suitably rewarded by leaving at this office.

—Next month the government will throw open to settlers about three million acres of Indian reservation lands on the south side of Oklahoma, to which territory it will be attached. This is nearly the last chance for boomers.

—Jesse Myers, of Fairfield, was here today and left us a generous sample of his rural New York potatoes. They are great yielders and long keepers, being very solid, and will keep to next fall or nearly. Besides their smoothness makes them very desirable.

—As neat a piece of furniture as one need look at and admire is the new lunch-shelf and cupboard back of the lunch counter at Had's. It is a beauty, and being asked what big factory made it for him he surprised everyone by saying it was made right here in Auburn by Grogg & Webb.

—Hamilton has organized a Bryan and Stevenson club with over seventy members enrolled. The first meeting was last week, September 19, when they elected the following officers: President, Tom Teegarden; vice-president, Dr. O. H. Gibbs; secretary, Levi B. Brown; treasurer, Charles Baxter.

—An unexpected wedding took place Saturday, Sept. 22, at the rooms of Rev. W. L. Meese on West Ninth street. It was the re-marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Pooler. They had some trouble last spring and obtained a divorce. Now they will try again. Perhaps their joining the Meese matrimonial association, will have the usual effect of making their married life happy. We hope it may.

—The great sandstone arch of the "Pictured Rocks" on the shore of Lake Superior was destroyed in Saturday's storm. A huge piece of rock from the cliff above was loosened and fell on it, breaking the arch. It has long been one of the sights along that shore. Parties with boats and even larger vessels have gone into the cave-like arch, which was 100 feet high and 170 feet wide at the water line.

Wednesday's Daily.

—It is curing me; it will cure you.—CLAUD LINK.

—The little son Charles DuWan is reported better today.

—Miss Mollie George has returned from her visit to the country.

—S. S. Potter, who has has been sick for some time is reported better.

—Hon. C. M. Brown speaks to the democrats at Angola this evening.

—Your wife will be happy if you take home Mrs. Austin's famous pancake flour. o6

—For a quick breakfast, use Mrs. Austins famous pancake flour. All grocers have it. o6

—Remember the meeting of the Bryan and Stevenson club in Auburn, Thursday evening, September 27.

—Taken this month keeps you well all the year. Greatest tonic known. Rocky Mountain Tea, made by Madison Medicine Co. 35c.

Knock one down, one cigar; two down, two cigars; three down, a handful. Fall Festival, Thursday evening, Tom Leasure in charge.

—HOUSE TO RENT.—A good house of ten rooms. Call at the premises on North Van Buren street.—H. Greenberg. s21

—Hon. C. M. Brown addressed the people at Jackson Center last evening. They report a good attendance and a good speech.

—The Columbia City Post has a column or two of politics dished up in the German language, and invites its readers to study it over carefully.

—Saturday afternoon matinee of Uncle Tom, and performance in the evening, at the opera house. Said to be the best Uncle Tom on the road.

—DO YOU WANT TO SELL YOUR PROPERTY?—We have several parties who want to buy property in Auburn. If you want to sell, call on us quick.—MOODY & RICKEL.

WORK WANTED.—I will do washing at my home or at yours; will do house-cleaning and similar work. Call on me at my home, second floor back over Bates store, South Main street. Mrs. Peters. tf

—The picking of the cranberry crop in northern Indiana has commenced. About one hundred persons are now employed on the Blair farm, near Chesterton. The crop is about the average, and on the Blair farm will yield from 1,500 to 2,000 bushels.

—In round numbers, the yield of cereals in the United States for 1900 is as follows: Wheat 500,000,000 bushels; oats, 800,000,000 bushels; corn, 2,000,000,000. This is a remarkable large yield of all these products, but it does not equal that of last year.

Bismark's Iron Nerve

Was the result of his splendid health. Indomitable will and tremendous energy are not found where Stomach, Liver, Kidneys, and Bowels are out of order. If you want these qualities and the success they bring, use Dr. King's New Life Pills. They develop every power of brain and body. Only 25 cents at E. B. McCord's Drugstore.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

Spanish-American War Veterans

Half rates to Chattanooga, Tenn., via Baltimore & Ohio Railroad—Account General Encampment of the Spanish-American War Veterans, Oct. 8-12, and Reunion of the Society of Army of the Cumberland, Oct. 9 10, 1900.

October 7 and 8 the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company will sell excursion tickets from all local stations to Chattanooga, Tenn., at rate of one fare for the round trip, account Encampment of the Spanish-American War Veterans, Oct. 8 and 12, and Reunion of the Society of Army of the Cumberland, Oct. 9 and 10. Tickets will be good for return until Oct. 14, 1900.

For further information call on or address nearest Baltimore & Ohio Ticket Agent, or B. N. Austin, General Passenger Agent, Chicago, Ill.

Don't Get Thin

Get fat; get nice and plump; there is safety in plumpness.

Summer has tried your food-works; winter is coming to try your breath-mill. Fall is the time to brace yourself.

But weather is tricky; look out! Look out for colds especially.

Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil is the subtlest of helps. It is food, the easiest food in the world; it is more than food, it helps you digest your food, and get more nutriment from it.

Don't get thin, there is safety in plumpness. Man woman and child.

If you have not tried it, send for free sample its agreeable taste will surprise you.
SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, 409 Pearl Street, New York.
50c. and $1.00; all druggist.

Executors Sale.

Notice is hereby given that pursuant to the provisions contained in the will of Amy R. Kelley, deceased, in that behalf enabling, I, Freeman Kelley, executor of said will, will, on the real estate to be sold, on Saturday, the 6th day of October, 1900, at the hour of two o'clock in the afternoon of said day, proceed to sell at public sale, the following described real estate, situated in DeKalb County, State of Indiana, to-wit: Lot numbered eighty-five (85) in the original plat of the City of Auburn, in said county; also lot numbered one hundred forty-eight (148) in the original plat of said city. Said real estate will be sold at not less than two-thirds of the appraised value thereof, and in all things subject to the approval of the DeKalb Circuit Court, and upon the following terms, to-wit: One-third of the purchase money cash in hand at the date of sale; one-third on or before twelve months, and one-third on or before eighteen month s after date, with the privilege to the purchaser to pay more than one-third cash at his option, the deferred payments to be evidenced by the purchaser's notes bearing six per cent interest from date, waiving relief from valuation laws, and secured by a mortgage on the real estate sold.

FREEMAN KELLEY, Executor.

August 31, 1900.

Sheriff's Sale.

By virtue of an execution issued on a judgment rendered in the DeKalb Circuit Court, on the 24th day of January, 1898, and to me directed by the Clerk of said Court, I will offer for sale at public auction and outcry to the highest bidder, at the door of the Court House in Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana, on

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 6, 1900,

between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m., and 4 o'clock p. m. of said day, the rents and profits for a term not exceeding seven years, of the following described real estate, situated in DeKalb County, in the State of Indiana, towit: Southeast quarter of section thirty-four (34), township thirty-three (33) north of range thirteen (13) east. And in case the rents and profits fail to bring the amount demanded to satisfy the judgment and decree aforesaid, interest and costs, together with all accruing costs, I will, at the same time and place, and in like manner as aforesaid, offer for sale at public auction and outcry, to the highest bidder, all the right, title, interest and estate in fee simple of Andrew Metcalf, John Metcalf and Henry Metcalf, in and to the above described real estate, or so much and such part thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the judgment and decree aforesaid, which is in favor of William Kapp and David M. Karns; and against Andrew Metcalf, John Metcalf and Henry Metcalf. Said real estate will be sold without relief from valuation or appraisement laws, and subject to the redemption laws of the State of Indiana.

JOHN H. BATHAWAY, Sheriff of DeKalb County, Indiana.

Chas. Emanuel, Attorney for Plaintiff.
Sept. 12, 1900.

Motice to Non-Residents

STATE OF INDIANA, } SS.
DEKALB COUNTY. }

In the DeKalb Circuit Court, October term, 1900.

Herbert Salisbury is hereby notified that an action has been commenced against him in said court, for divorce by Edith Salisbury, and that the same will be heard and determined on the 3rd day of November, 1900, at nine o'clock in the forenoon being the 8th juridical day of the next term of said court, which commences 1st day of October 1900.

Witness, the Clerk of said Court, this 6th day of September 1900

MICHAEL F. Long, Clerk.

J. W. Baxter, Atty.

NOTICE OF FINAL SETTLEMENT OF ESTATE.

Notice is hereby given to all persons interested in the estate of Silas B. Johnston, deceased, to appear in the DeKalb circuit court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 8th day of Oct. 1900, and show cause, if any, why my final settlement accounts with the estate of said decedent should not be approved; and said heirs and all others interested, are notified to then and there make proof of heirship or claim and receive their distributive shares

Witness my name this 12th day of September, 1900.

MARY E. JOHNSTON, Administratrix.

Rose & Rose, Atty's.

Story of a Slave.

To be bound hand and foot for years by the chains of disease is the worst form of slavery. George D. Williams, of Manchester, Mich., tells how such a slave was made free. He says: "My wife has been so helpless for five years that she could not turn over in bed alone. After using two bottles of Electric Bitters, she is wonderfully improved and able to do her own work." This supreme remedy for female diseases quickly cures nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, headache, fainting and dizzy spells. This miracle working medicine is a godsend to weak, sickly, run down people. Every bottle guaranteed. Only 50 cents. Sold by H. B. McCord the Druggist.

On Pike's Peak.

A postal card from Miss Etta Prickett is dated from the "Summit House, Pike's Peak, Colorado, altitude 14,147 feet." She says this is her second trip to the top of this famous peak, this time coming on the Cog railway, that runs to the top. The trip, she says, is delightful, as one can readily imagine. The card contains several views of the mountain and its vicinity, including the hotel on the summit and a train of cars near it. We are pleased to know that she is having such an enjoyable summer.

That Throbbing Headache

Would quickly leave you, if you use Dr. King's New Life Pills. Thousands of sufferers have proved their matchless merit for Sick and Nervous Headaches They make pure blood and strong nerves and build up your health. Easy to take Try them. Only 25 cents. Money back if not cured. Sold by H. B. McCord the druggist.

Public Speaking.

Hon. James A. Norton, congressman for the Twelfth Ohio, Tiffin district, will address the people from a democratic standpoint at Garrett, on the evening of October 5. At Butler on the evening of October 6 Mr. Norton also speaks at St. Joe at 2 p. m. of the 6th, the day of the democratic township caucus.

Hon. James M. Robinson will address the people of Newville and vicinity on Monday evening, October 1, and at Cedar Saturday evening, October 6.

E. W. Grove

This signature is on every box of the genuine Laxative Bromo-Quinine Tablets the remedy that cures a cold in one day

SUPERLATIVE QUALITY—ABSOLUTE PURITY.

ROYAL GARDEN TEAS

Sold only in Bour's celebrated Bond-Linen Package, with the Blue Strip Seal. Accept no substitute.

ASK YOUR GROCER

A Modern Storyteller

tells you you can get

THE LATEST SHEET MUSIC AT THE LOWEST PRICE FROM F. V. CUTLER.

We can supply you with Gramophones, Phonographs, or any other talking machine, with all the latest improvements.

Pianos, Organs, Violins and other musical instrumdnts in almost endless variety.

FOR SALE BY

F. V. CUTLER,

AUBURN, INDIANA.

Also up-to-date Funeral Directors and Embalmers.

5/4 Bias Girth Horse Blankets

We have them.

Also square Blankets

A handsome line to select from, neat patterns and large size.

Plush and Fur Robes

Chase and Bishop

makes, nothing better on the market. Come and see us before buying, we'll try and do you some good.

Eberle & Freygang,

Auburn, Ind.

Grand Prohibition Rally.

At Auburn, Oct. 1, will be the great prohibition rally of the campaign. Hon. John G. Woolley, candidate for president, and Hon. Henry B. Metcalf, candidate for vice-president, and several others, will come on a special train and address the people. Everybody invited to come and hear them. It is all free.

SOMETHING OF A SHOCK.

—Denver News.

DEMOCRACY'S ONLY DANGER.

Party Leaders Caution the Voters Against Overconfidence.

Headquarters National Democratic Committee, Chicago.

"Over-confidence," that, according to wise political leaders, is the only danger that Democracy has to fear in the coming campaign. The most conservative men in the party have all along anticipated a hard, up-hill fight in a large number of the Eastern States. It was feared that in that region converts would be hard to get. It was conceded early in the campaign that the leaders of what has been termed the "Gold Democracy" would, with one accord, support McKinley. However, during the last week the political situation in the East has assumed an entirely new aspect. David Bennett Hill's dictum, "I am a Democrat," seems to have been the slogan adopted by nearly all of the leaders of the Palmer-Buckner movement of 1896. Being Democrats, and being men with live consciences and a keen sense of honor and patriotism, they could not do otherwise than rally to the support of those fundamental principles of Democracy upon which are grounded not only the Democratic party but the fabric of our government as well. Whatever the fancied dangers of free silver might be, they fade into insignificance when compared to the unutterable loss of free government. Imperialism and militarism have been termed "bogies," "shadow issues," "phantasies of light-headed politicians," but within the last few days it has become evident that they are regarded as of such vital importance that the men who have been lauded by the Republican press as the soundest and ablest leaders of Democracy are willing upon those two issues alone to cast their fortunes and unite their efforts with the forces supporting the nominee of the Democratic party.

While the landslide in the East was expected, it was not expected so soon, and only the most sanguine entertained hopes that the landslide would ever assume the proportions of an avalanche, but nevertheless the movement has been started in the East that bids fair to sweep away the dearest hopes of Republican leaders.

Richard Olney, in an open letter, has publicly announced his intention of supporting the candidacy of Mr. Bryan. Who is Mr. Olney? Every school boy could answer the question; he was Mr. Cleveland's Secretary of State. He was moreover a man concerning whose abilities, discernment, sound common sense and patriotism the Republican press in 1896 wrote volumes. He was pointed to with pride as a leader who "repudiated Bryanism." It will be interesting to notice the changed attitude that the Republican press will assume. Mr. Olney will undoubtedly be termed a cheap politician, a rattle-brained fanatic; some may even go so far as to term him a traitor, but let them say what they will, the announcement of Mr. Olney, together with the declaration of William L. Wilson that he, too, means to support the Democratific ticket will have a tremendous effect not only upon the campaign in the East but upon the campaign in the whole United States. It is confidently expected that the next two weeks will see the whole "Gold Democracy," headed by Mr. Cleveland, in line for Bryan.

The coming out of Mr. Olney is one of the most recent links in the long chain of prominent men who have renounced McKinley and the interests which he has officially subserved; he is, however, the link which united the hitherto diverging branches of Democracy. Among other recent converts may be named Thomas Wentworth Higginson, Bourke Cochran, Webster Davis, Senator Wellington, Patrick Egan, Henry U. Johnson, John J. Valentine, Patrick Collins, the friend and adviser of Tilden and Cleveland.

The administration is evidently sparring for wind in the little affair concerning the cession of American territory in Alaska to Great Britain. Secretary of State Hay has just announced to the miners in the district in question that while it is true that the United States has given not only them but their lands to Great Britain, that the cession is only temporary. It was not for nothing that the administration has been engaged in negotiations with Spanish diplomats for the last four years. Hay can now inject the convenient term "to-morrow" into all the affairs of state with a grace equal to that of a Castilian Don. It will be remembered that the Spaniards were always going to grant the demands made by their Cuban subjects "to-morrow." Likewise they were going to grant the liberty demanded by the Filipinos "to-morrow." Bound to carry out the traditions of the worst government that existed in Europe during the last years of the nineteenth century, it will be remembered that the occupation of Cuba by American forces was to be only "temporary." We were going to retire "to-morrow." The occupation of Porto Rico was at first a temporary matter. We were going to retire from there "to-morrow." And concerning our occupation of the Philippine Islands, we were assured vociferously and in detail by the administration that we were only there for a short period of time and would certainly retire "to-morrow." Can the poor Alaskan miners hope to fare any better than the Cubans, the Porto Ricans and the Filipinos? By deliberate act of the Republican administration, the British government has been placed in possession of American territory, and can those who are acquainted with the acquisitive characteristics of John Bull or of the subservient attitude adopted by our President and his advisers towards the British government, hope that the English will voluntarily return territory that they have gained without paying even a price, or that refusing to return the territory voluntarily, it will ever be demanded by William McKinley and his cabinet coterie of Anglo-maniacs?

Timely and Troublesome Questions.

If some loud-voiced, firm-jawed, iron-clad Republican worries you by clatter; and if you find that you can't shout as loud as he can or keep him still long enough to squeeze in a word; or if you find that in noisy debate or argument you are unable to keep up your end—and remember that Jefferson and poor Goldsmith were such—why, just go where it is quiet, where you can think, and write out some pertinent questions for your stormy friend to answer.

Pin him down with these:

Do you believe that an income tax is a good tax?

(If he has the brains of a gnat he will say yes.)

Why does the Republican party fail to support the income tax?

Why does the Republican party refuse to take the high protective tariff off goods controlled by trusts?

Why does the Republican party permit great railroads to discriminate in freight rates in favor of a few trusts?

Why does the Republican party fail to pry into the affairs of trusts, with its Interstate Commerce Commission as a pryer?

Why does the Republican party present to England a large chunk of American land?

Why does the Republican party refuse to permit goods from Porto Rico to enter our country free?

Why does the Republican party refuse to promise the Filipinos ultimate freedom if they will lay down their arms?

Why does the Republican party want to have the nation carry a large and costly army?

(These two latter questions are relative. If he says the large army is necessary because of the Filinino war, don't let him squirm and get away from answering question No. 8. If freedom was promised the Filipinos, no Filipino war would be on.)

Why do the trusts, and why does the corporate wealth of the country, the monopolies, and other wage-lowering and price-raising concerns, support McKinley?

Press him to answer. But he won't. He will try to dodge. Let him gulp and swallow and ham and haw and sputter and swear, but he will not answer. He will quibble and fly to chicanery.

Signs of Victory.

Four years ago forty-eight more electoral votes would have elected Bryan. To be elected now he must get that many votes in addition to those he had in 1896, and if he loses any of his former votes he must get enough in addition to make up for the loss.

In 1896 several States on each side were very evenly divided. A slight drift would have sent them over the line. Everything depends now, therefore, on the direction of the drift. A small majority in a State is safe if the drift is in the direction of making it secure.

The Vermont election indicates that the drift there is toward Bryan. The Democrats are indisputably stronger in Vermont now than they were four years ago. What light does that throw on the possibilities in other States?

The Republican vote in Vermont has fallen off about 10 per cent as compared with the corresponding election in 1896, while the Democratic vote has increased about 16 per cent.

Indiana has fifteen electoral votes. In 1896 the Republican vote there was 323,754, and the Democratic 305,573. If the Republicans lose 10 per cent and the Democrats gain 16 per cent the Republican vote in Indiana this year will be 291,379 and the Democratic 354,573, leaving a Democratic plurality of 63,083.

A similar process would give the Democrats Delaware by 447, West Virginia by 13,822, Kentucky by 56,398, Ohio by 80,501, and North Dakota by 283.

Here are 62 electoral votes that Bryan did not get in 1896. If he should get them now he could afford to lose one vote in California and four in Washington, and still he would be elected by 233 electoral votes to 214.

Put Eagan on the Stump.

Since ex-Secretary Alger has consented to make a few speeches for McKinley, why not call in Gen. Eagan from the Sandwich Islands, or wherever he is enjoying his five years' vacation for blackguarding Gen. Miles, and get him to do a little talking? His pay is going on all the time, so he might do it quite cheap.—Philadelphia Times.

Political Potpourri.

Porto Rico had representatives in the Spanish cortes and free trade with the mother country. They pay tax to American trust manufacturers now and have no representation, either.—Lafayette (Ind.) Journal.

Bungling diplomacy, led by organized greed, left us a legacy of trouble in the Philippines which would have been avoided had we adhered to the end to the announced policy in the beginning of avoiding criminal aggression.—Utica (N. Y.) Observer.

There is one significance in the Vermont election. Senator Ross, appointed by the Governor and taken from the Chief Justiceship of his State, was not in the running before the people. They insist upon electing their own Senator in Vermont.—Sioux City Tribune.

Mr. Hanna is said to be annoyed over the "backwardness" of the campaign. It is suspected that the close-fistedness of some of the contributors to the campaign fund is the most objectionable form of "general apathy," from his point of view.—Indianapolis Press.

The Quay machine majorities at the polls and in conventions are not honest majorities. This has long been known to many. The proof of it is now coming out. Happily it has become difficult for these machine frauds to succeed as they used to, and its downfall is imminent for this very reason.—Philadelphia Press (Rep.).

It was really an oversight on Mr. Hanna's part to let the report of the ship-building interests of the country come out just as it did. As long as this report shows a steady gain it will be hard to convince the nation that we all need to pay our money into the pockets of a few in order to replace our merchant marine where it was before the days of the Alabama.—Springfield (Mass.) Republican.

The time was when a Senator of the United States would have scorned to gather a corruption fund upon promise of the grant of special privileges to corporations. When Hanna bought his way into the Senate he debased his party and lowered the character of that body. When he goes about the country selling privileges to trusts for funds to colonize voters in doubtful States he debases Republican institutions.—Dubuque Herald

SEEK IMPURE MEATS.

GOVERNMENT INSPECTS CATTLE AT CHICAGO YARDS.

Beeves, Hogs, Sheep and Calves Are Searched for Disease—Rigid Post and Ante-Mortem Examination of Each Animal by Lynx-Eyed Officials.

Few people have even the least knowledge of the great work done by the national government in inspecting the killing of cattle, hogs and sheep at the Chicago stock yards. This inspection is being carried on in the stock yards of forty-eight other cities in the United States, but it is operated on a far greater sale in Chicago than at any other point. Such a sharp watch for diseased and objectionable animals is maintained that it is practically an impossibility for unfit meat, designed for interstate or export shipment, to leave the inspected slaughter-houses at the yards. Every animal killed receives two or three inspections and when a diseased one is found the carcass is guarded as carefully as a box of jewelry until it is completely destroyed, as far as edible purposes are concerned.

Two kinds of inspection are given every beef, hog or sheep that goes out of the yards as being fit to eat. These examinations are antemortem and postmortem. Sometimes the first one alone is sufficient to bar out animals and they never get as far as the slaughtering pens. The antemortem inspection, of course, takes place "on the hoof" and is conducted just before the animals are driven onto the scales to be weighed for purchase by the packer from the stockman. The inspector examines each animal as it is driven forward toward the platform of the scales. Any animal that is evidently affected with disease or is emaciated is ordered cut out. The packer, of course, declines to buy an animal which the inspector has declined to pass, and the loss falls on the stockman. But after this antemortem inspection the animals become the property of the packer and all losses through ultimate condemnation of the stock must, of course, fall upon him.

A sheep which bears on its skin plain evidence of "sheep scab," a hog with large, red cholera splotches on his hide, a steer with external tumors, sores or abscesses, or any animal which exhibits the ordinary indications of illness, such as inability to walk, etc., will be cut out. The law requires that the refused animal must be killed and turned into soap fat and fertilizer.

The number of animals cut out at the antemortem examination varies so greatly that the inspectors decline to strike an average on the number excluded per day. Thousands may be passed without one being refused, but in the next hundred 10 per cent or more may be condemned. As a matter of fact, however, many of the diseased animals pass this first inspection without exciting the suspicion on the part of the inspectors, for they bear no exterior evidence whatever of the fact that they are suffering from a dangerous illness.

Passing this first inspection successfully, the animals are weighed and sent to the slaughter-houses of the company purchasing them. Hogs receive by far the most careful inspection. Two inspectors watch the passing of the slaughtered hogs, while but one examines cattle, and there is also but one each for sheep and calves. The hogs are given the stricter examination because of their greater liability to disease and the greater danger to be found in the incipient stages of hog diseases, and it, of course, goes without saying that early stages of disease in any animals are more difficult to detect than those more advanced.

After going through the first operations at the slaughter-house the hog is strung up by the heels with hundreds of others and passes forward in a line that seems endless. The device to which the animals are strung up is fitted with a small wheel which rolls along a single track. Not far from the point where the hogs are first strung up and only a few feet from the line of moving carcasses sits the first of the hog inspectors. As each hog passes in front of him a workman with two slashes of a knife removes the entire viscera from the already partially opened body of the hog and throws them on a platform at the side of the raised chair in which the inspector is sitting. Just above the head of the inspector and a little to the rear is an electric lamp, which throws a brilliant stream of light down on the platform.

Each time as the entrails are thrown down the inspector glances down at them. One glance is sufficient. Long, long practice at postmortems and familiarity with normal viscera enable the inspector to tell quicker than the wink of an eye if anything is the matter with the hog whose vital organs and intestines have been thrown before him. Spots on the lungs, enlargement of the lymph glands, darkened appearance of other glands, blackened spinal column and perhaps half a dozen additional points indicate to him at once that the hog is diseased. Every time this inspector finds a case which he thinks suspicious or clearly defined as unfit for food he steps forward from his chair and slips a wire loop through the flesh of the hog. The wire bears a large yellow card stating that the carcass is condemned. Also attached to the wire is a small lead seal for fastening the two ends of the wire together.

At that moment the wire is not sealed, but its presence bearing the yellow card signifies that the carcass is to be placed to one side for further examination. For removing this wire and card the United States laws prescribe a heavy fine and imprisonment.

Carcasses Examined Twice.

Further down the line of moving porkers is the second United States inspector. The first inspector has neither the time nor the opportunity for doing more than to inspect that viscera of the animal. The hog has not yet been split in twain and he could not possibly see the interior conditions of the carcass, but before the swine have been pushed down as far as the second inspector each one has been chopped into halves by the sharp cleavers in the hands of the workmen. This official gives the inner cavities an examination and also carefully inspects the outer skin. Red spots on the hide or granular tubercles sticking to the abdominal or chest walls are the most common evidences of disease found by this inspector. The red spots indicate cholera and the tubercles are evidence of tuberculosis, or consumption. The official goes through the same tagging as was referred to above, unless the carcass was one that had already been tagged by the first inspector.

The yellow-carded hogs are run off on a side track and all of them kept together until after they can be visited by the inspectors after the killing day is over. Each carcass is then given a more thorough examination than was possible at the time when they were passing rapidly in front of the inspectors. If it is found that the pork bears evidence that it is impregnated with disease to an extent that would render its use in the least dangerous, condemnation is then completed. The two ends of the wire which was passed through the flesh by the inspector are pulled together, the loose end is imbedded in a slot in the piece of lead attached to the other end and with pinchers the lead is pressed over the wire. Thus the final sealing is completed. On the lead seal as well as upon the yellow cards appears "U. S. Condemnation."

All of the carcasses condemned are taken to refrigerated retaining rooms, where they are locked up by the United States employes, no one else having keys to the lock. When a room is filled it is sealed as well as locked, and it is a crime for anyone other than an inspector to break the seals. When the packing-house is ready to dispose of the condemned pork the seals are broken and the doors of the retaining rooms unlocked by the officials and, under the eye of an inspector, each hog is removed and pushed down through the hole in the top of the big rendering tank. Into this tank all kinds of offal must be thrown, so that the pork may at once be ruined for use as food. In this tank the pork is steamed and boiled until is decomposed. The fat rises to the surface and the bones and meat sink to the bottom. The fat skimmed from the top to be used in the manufacture of the cheapest kinds of soap and the bones and meat are taken out to be used in making fertilizers.

With the passing of hogs by the second inspector all examination for pork to be consumed in the United States is complete. No record of the inspection is stamped directly upon the carcass, as in the case with cattle, for no whole or half hogs are sent out from the slaughter-houses, all swine being cut into smaller pieces. The inspection brands are later placed on these small pieces, directly on the meat itself or in the form of tags pasted upon the canvas covers.

Pork for foreign export receives examination after passing this regular inspection which is so elaborate and thorough that it can scarcely be comprehended by anyone who has not made a personal visit to the yards and witnessed the work. From three different parts of the body of every hog which is designed for export bits of flesh are taken for microscopic examination. Traces of trichinae and other diseased conditions which can be detected only through the microscope are sought for with the utmost diligence.

After the pork has satisfactorily passed all of these microscopic tests it is placed in casks and stowed away under lock and key in cold storage rooms. Here it is watched and guarded as if it were precious metal. At the gate opening into these rooms is a government office which keeps track of everything that goes into or out of these frigid apartments. Foreign regulations have been so rigid in relation to admission of American pork that these extremely strict and iron-clad regulations have become absolutely necessary.

Accept Beef Inspection.

The requirements in regard to American beef maintained by foreign countries are by no means as heavy as those on pork, and the United States inspection given for interstate trade is accepted as ample by all other countries. Cattle are not nearly so liable to disease as hogs and on a day when fifteen or twenty hogs might be thrown out in a single packing house there might be only one, two or three cattle. Diseased steers are often among the very finest appearing and heaviest that are purchased. That they are worthless is only discovered after they have been killed and opened. Tuberculosis is the disease with which the cattle are most often found to be afflicted. It is also often found among diseased hogs, but cholera is most common with the latter. The men who inspect hogs can just as well as not sit down while performing most of the work, so they remain on duty a half a day at a time, but those performing work over cattle must constantly walk about, so they are kept on duty only two hours at a time, the men laboring in two alternating shifts. In the cattle slaughtering department one man does all of the actual inspecting, but a second official puts the purple stamps on the beeves.

The layman would at once vote the job of the cattle inspector most unpleasant. In a long, yellow, oil coat the inspector tramps about in blood an inch or two deep, up and down the long line of men who are doing various features in the dressing of the cattle. He can't sit down or stand still as can the inspectors in the hog departments. Too many important things are done or exposures made at different places, so in order to see it all he must keep constantly on the move. Cattle are not handled and shoved out of the way as quickly as hogs, so there is time enough for one man to walk here and there and see the skinning, the fat that is soon removed after the killing, the viscera, the exterior of the carcass, the interior, etc. No workman dares remove any part of the carcass from where it was taken out until after it has been examined by the inspector and passed as satisfactory. The vital organs and the intestines may then be thrown to the different places where they properly belong.

When the cattle inspector finds a suspicious beef he tags it in the same way as the hog inspector does a porker, and it is run off into a sidetrack, where it is held to await final examination. The half beeves which are passed as all right are rolled on down the line to the point where their dressing is completed and here stands the stamper with his rubber stamp and inked pad ready to affix a purple oval stamp about three inches long, in which are letters half an inch high. At three different points on the abdominal and chest walls, anterior to the hind quarter, this official places his stamp, the three sections stamped being the three into which the half of the body of a beef is divided for transportation to the butcher.

In the cooling room, when the outside of the beef is more thoroughly dried, the same stamp is placed on the hindquarter, making altogether four stamps which are placed on each half of a beef. Besides "U. S. Inspection" on the stamp there are a letter and two numbers, one number being immediately at the side of the letter and the other between two stars which are at the beginning and end of "U. S. Inspection," which curves about the oval. By these figures and the letter on the meat the department officials can tell if they are ever called on to do so what inspector passed the meat, in what abattoir it was killed and the day upon which it was killed. So, in case any dealer received a piece of the stamped meat and claimed it was not good he could return it to the stock yards and the government officials would trace the trouble back to the very beginning.

Inspection of the slaughtering of animals was established by the government in 1891, and since the year of the founding of the great plan it has grown and flourished and spread like the traditional green bay tree. Constantly increasing appropriations for its maintenance and support and increase of scope have been made by Congress and all the hopes and expectations of the promoters of the scheme have been realized. The burden of inspection is operated under the government department of agriculture.

"Didn't you hear about it?" "No." "Why, the thing happened right down in your own neighborhood." "I knew but my wife's away for the summer." —Philadelphia Press.

GOVERNMENT MEAT INSPECTION AT THE CHICAGO STOCK YARDS.

SERMONS OF THE WEEK

Nature.—That there is a God of all nature declares in a lanaguage too plain to be misapprehended.—Rev. Dr. Madison C. Peters, Baptist, New York City.

Religion.—Religion teaches the individuality of men, and in this teaching is the foundation of all democracy.—Rev. Dr. Samuel G. Smith, Congregationalist, St. Paul, Minn.

The Bible.—The Bible announces the fact that God created, and leaves it an open question as to how this process is accomplished.—Rev. W. A. Hunter, D. D., Presbyterian, Denver, Colo.

An Open Book.—Your life and mine should be an open book, to be easily studied by the surrounding world and not through a glass, darkly.—R. B. Gruelle, Spiritualist, Indianapolis, Ind.

The Social Club.—God help you if you are a member of a social club. The social club of today is the robber of the home and the hothouse of evil influences.—Rev. Len G. Broughton, Baptist, Atlanta, Ga.

Opportunities.—People of God, buy up the opportunities because the days are evil. The fact that these are evil days is a fact which is to urge you to new zeal.—Rev. John M. Gaston, Presbyterian, Pittsburg, Pa.

Christ's Gift.—Christ gives us, in himself, life. He touches us with himself. He inspires us. He uplifts us. He is strength in us. He is the way, the truth, the life.—Rev. O .S. Hadley, Adventist, Indianapolis, Ind.

Happiness or Service.—Happiness is not the chief end of life. Service is the end of life and usefulness is the goal of all proper ambition, and if life has any meaning it is that.—Rev. J. J. Tigert, Methodist, New Orleans, La.

Real Christians.—Real Christians were citizens of the eternal commonwealth. Heaven was purity of the soul, fellowship with the Lord and communion with the Holy Spirit.—Rev. Dr. MacLaurin, Reformed, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Other People's Business.—Indeed, we sometimes suspect that the ability to manage other people's business is in exact proportion to our own failure successfully to manage our own.—Rev. W. C. Madison, Methodist, Denver, Colo.

One Direction.—It does not matter much what one does; it matters much how one does it. No matter how various the ways of men go, their paths ought all to tend in one direction.—Rev. B. A. Jenkins, Independent, Indianapolis, Ind.

What is Right?—We have it in our power to determine and establish what is right. We men and women are clothed with the only divine attributes that exist or ever can exist.—Rev. William F. Brown, Congregationalist, Rochester, N. Y.

A Noble Cause.—We are workers in a noble cause, soldiers in a glorious warfare, and let us, by working and enduring, seek for the grace that will be rewarded with gifts that will not perish.—Rev. P. C. Yorke, Roman Catholic, San Francisco, California.

Immortality.—If Christ is living forever our souls are immortal, and it is our duty to help save the immortal souls of others; our duty to say "I can help others to God."—Rev. D. N. Beach, Congregationalist, Denver, Colo.

The Resurrection.—The resurrection is in harmony with the deepest principles and illuminating analogies of the world of nature. It chimes in with the profoundest instincts and desires of the human soul.—Bishop Sammuel Fallows, Episcopalian, Chicago, Ill.

Progress in Theology.—Does progress in theology consist in the elimination of all mysteries from the faith and the church. No real thinker will needlessly multiply mysteries, but neither will he insist that there be none.—Rev. George H. Trevor, Methodist, Melwaukee, Wis.

A Glimpse of Immortality.—Did you ever stand at night looking into the immeasurable expanse of heaven and feel as if you could reach out into the depths of these labyrinths, or stand at the ocean's shore and look into and over the depths? At those times you had a glimpse of immortality.—Rev. George W. Perry, Baptist, Troy, N. Y.

Humility.—Humility must be truth. It recognizes that if we have deserving qualities we have received them from above, and are to regard them not as if they were wholly our own. In the development of the gift we must realize that we stand constantly in need of the concurrent power of God.—Father Mahoney, Roman Catholic, San Francisco, Cal.

Jesus.—So it is that Jesus comes to you in your own home, where you are unable to move out from your narrow circle, and makes a deposit of his grace, and makes your life great there. Jesus rose to the height of divinity when he gave this explanation of what greatness is: "And whosoever will be chief among you let him be your servant." —Rev. H. C. Johnson, Methodist, Memphis, Tenn.

The March of Christ.—It was the Book of Revelation chiefly in which the New Testament was enfolded. That book is manifestly a prophetic panorama of the march of Christ down the centuries. Whatever minor matters in the borders of the panorama are left beclouded in mystery (intentionally so, I think, till the time of fulfillment), the central figure is unmistakably clear. It is Christ, on the white horse of royalty. —Rev. Dr. Crafts, Presbyterian, Washington, D. C.

Paris Has Many Trees.

Paris possesses about 80,000 trees in the streets and public places in the city. It is calculated there are 26,000 plane trees, 17,000 chestnuts and 15,000 elms, the remainder consisting of sycamores, maples, lichens, etc. Apparently there is only one oak and one ash tree.

When guests refuse to eat peaches passed around on a porch after dark, it doesn't mean that they don't like peaches; every one likes to look at the worms he is eating.

PERUNA

Many a woman, sick and weary of life, dragged down by weakening drains, painful irregularities, depression, and the hundred and one ailments which affect women only, has found in Pe-ru-na a bright star of hope, which has changed her misery to joy, her suffering to health.

No woman need suffer from the derangements peculiar to her sex, if she will give Pe-ru-na a fair trial.

The majority of weaknesses which make woman's life a burden spring from a simple cause. The mucous membrane which lines the pelvic organs becomes weakened and inflamed owing to strain, cold, overwork, etc. This causes catarrhal congestion, inflammation, painful irregularities, depression of spirits, irritability, weakness and suffering. It shows in the haggard lines of the face, the dull eyes, the sallow complexion and angular form.

For the prompt cure of such ailments try Pe-ru-na. It drives away "the blues," clears the complexion, brightens the eyes, changes thinness to plumpness, and cures pains, aches and drains, because it immediately strikes at the root of such troubles and removes the cause.

For a free copy of "Health and Beauty"
Address Dr. Hartman, President of the Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

Putting Off Duns.

Ella—The gentleman who lodges above appears very attentive to you.

Bella—Ah, yes; I am even engaged to him. But yet I am tortured with doubt. Would that I knew whether he loves me for myself alone!

Ella—But why in the world should he marry you otherwise?

Bella—Well, to tell the truth, he owes my mother six months' rent.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

All His Fault.

"Women beat the world."

"What's the matter now?"

"When my wife wants anything pretty to wear she hints around until I persuade her to buy it; then after she has worn it out she pitches into me for encouraging her to be so extravagant."—Chicago Record.

Dodd's Kidney Pills

are the only medicine that will cure Diabetes. Like Bright's Disease, this disease was incurable until Dodd's Kidney Pills cured it. Doctors themselves confess that without Dodd's Kidney Pills they are powerless against Diabetes. Dodd's Kidney Pills are the first medicine that ever cured Diabetes. Imitations—box, name and pill—are advertised to do so, but the medicine that does cure is Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's Kidney Pills are fifty cents a box, at all dealers.

Diabetes

ABSOLUTE SECURITY.

Genuine

Carter's Little Liver Pills.

Must Bear Signature of

Brent Good

See Fac-Simile Wrapper Below.

Very small and as easy to take as sugar.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS. FOR HEADACHE. FOR DIZZINESS. FOR BILIOUSNESS. FOR TORPID LIVER. FOR CONSTIPATION. FOR SALLOW SKIN. FOR THE COMPLEXION

Price 25 Cents. Purely Vegetable. Brent Good

CURE SICK HEADACHE.

AGENTS WANTED for all States to handle belt for dressing for machinery. Best recommendations. Inducements to good men. New York Chemical Co., 164 Maiden Lane, New York.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

FORGIVENESS.

To drink the dregs of rank injustice's cup
And smile as though the draft were sweet and clear;
To feel the dagger-thrust of wounded pride,
Yet to the bosom clasp the steel more near;
To check the passion of the beast—revenge—
Yet seemingly do naught but raise thy hand;
To keep sure silence when the hot words burn
At wrong, before the soul can understand;
To rise a moment from the mortal mire
To see things past and present and to come;
To grant the heavenliest blessing earth bestows
With heart and soul—nor hold the lips long dumb;
Ever to seem oblivious of the hurt,
Though in remembrance it may ever live;—
O, human soul, so often torn and tried,
All this it means sincerely to forgive!

—Youth's Companion.

BEN-RY.

BY FAITH BRADFORD.

About a week ago, in a moment of indiscretion, I strayed into a "baby-show," and made the mistake of saying that I couldn't see much difference in the little dears.

This baby-show did not differ notably from others. It was held in the vestry of the Methodist Church in a suburban town. Thirty-four babies were "entered;" and of course all their mothers were there, as well as many of their aunts.

I did not realize until I got well inside that I was the only man, young or old, in the hall. It seems that the rest of the men were bright enough to stay away. The place was a bower of young maternity, and of fluffy pink and baby blue. The air was vocal with cooing and twittering sounds. Thirty-four "perfectly lovely" baby carriages were ranged round in a semi-circle, each against a background of pink dimity and each containing a beruffled and bepowdered baby. Some of the youngsters were shaking rattles, some were grasping wonderful bottles of white fluid, some were gurgling and some were leaping nearly out of their nests in an excess of gleeful health.

A manufacturer of infants' food had offered a prize for the handsomest baby, and every one of those young mothers had high hopes of taking it.

Some artist should try to depict the foolish smile that overspreads a man's face when he finds himself, inadvertently, amid such surroundings. I was sneaking toward the door, when nine or ten of the mothers, who knew me, outflanked my line of retreat, and with much laughter, drew me back to be "umpire."

Umpire at a baby-show! Arbiter, and judge as to which of thirty-four babies was the prettiest! Think of the consequences! The undying friendship of one young mother, and the eternal enmity and reprobation of the other thirty-three!

Before I had been led half round the cooing semicircle I saw my danger, and hit on the trite expedient of declaring that they were all so pretty that I could see no difference in them. As the mothers were incredulous, I grew insistent, and declared vehemently that I could not tell the babies apart.

They tried to instruct me. "Oh, but look at their hair!" cried one.

"I have looked at it," said I. "It differs about as much as the down on so many peaches."

"Isn't he horrid? But compare their eyes!" cried another.

"Just like so many beautiful little gooseberries," I insisted.

"Oh! Oh-h-h-h! Oh-h-h-h-h!" burst forth on all sides.

"Ladies," I cried, desperately, "you know very well that if these babies were shifted from carriage to carriage, while you all shut your eyes, you couldn't tell them apart to save your lives! You may think you could, but you couldn't. Let me tell you what happened at the fire at Norland last spring! Let me—let——"

It was at this point that I was stopped by the mothers. They would not hear another word. In fact, they turned me out of the vestry.

Denied the privilege of telling them that story of the fire at Norland, I offer it here to vindicate myself.

Norland was one of those little villages on the borders of the lumber country which are predestined to burn up once in about ten years, or may be fifteen, or with extreme good luck, twenty. The houses, stores and mills were all built of wood, with shingle roofs; and all about were great "yards" filled with piles of boards, clapboards, shingles and lumber waste. If a fire started in one of these mill-yards with the wind high, during a dry week, nothing except the hand of Providence could save the town.

At Norland the inevitable happened one afternoon in May, a year ago. It was a lumber-yard fire, with a fine northwest wind, which whirled blazing embers aloft, sowing them broadcast over the village and—well, the poor people had about twenty minutes in which to save what they could. There were lots of babies, and of course they saved the babies first, and ran back for other household treasures afterward.

Now it was the time of the day when many of the infants were taking their afternoon naps. They were snatched out of their cradles or cribs, along with such of their little wraps, blankets and other clothes as came handiest, and carried as quickly as possible along the "alder brook road" to windward of the burning village. And for want of a better place to leave them—while the excited mothers and fathers ran back to save their goods—they were laid in an empty granite-worker's shed, and left in charge of an old woman, called Aunt Anice Roe, who had made her own escape in a slightly singed, somewhat dazed condition.

The village burned, all save a moiety of its outskirts, to windward; and for an hour or two even the babies' mothers were too much occupied with their now homeless furniture, bedding and best bonnets to go to the shed for the babies. It was a time of affliction and distress. But as the fire burned out and the smoky evening drew on, the parental instinct revived, and the mothers came hastening to the shed.

Meanwhile poor, confused old Aunt Anice Roe had done what she could. She had spread blankets on the granite chips; and as the wind was blowing cold, she had dressed and muffed up each of the little crying creatures in what she thought came with each one. But it is not strange that, in dealing with the collection of little frocks, socks, blankets and bottles, she made mistakes; and a mistake of that sort once started, went the round of the fourteen babies.

It happened that a certain Mrs. Gilbert Tucker's mother, who lived a few miles out of the village, had been calling on her daughter when the fire broke out. To this mother's care Mrs. Tucker had consigned her two little girls, but had run, herself, with her baby, to the shed.

The Tuckers owned another cottage in the outskirts of the place, and this escaped the conflagration. To it they carried the goods that they had been able to save from the burned house, and they were thus occupied for an hour or two. Then they went to get the baby. On their way they met a woman, who said to Mrs. Tucker that her mother had gone home and taken the "girls" with her till she could get settled again. This was not quite clear, for Mrs. Tucker's mother had not only taken the "girls" home, but had gone round by the shed and taken the baby along, too.

Now Mrs. Tucker naturally supposed that her baby was still at the shed, and hastening thither in the fading light, she misappropriated an infant in pink socks and in a pink frock which she knew very well, having completed that little gown with her own hands only three days before. Glad to find her baby, as she thought it, so well and quiet, she marched home, hugging it to her heart.

Other mothers, however, did not fare so well. There were three very young babies which their own parents could not tell apart by lantern light. Mistakes were made which distressed various families. Soon efforts to rectify the blunders began. At intervals a puzzled father or a terrified mother came hurrying back to return a baby and ask for another.

"This isn't our baby!" exclaimed one. "Ours had a mole on his left ear—or was it his right, George?"

A man laid his bundle down, in some embarrassment, and said that his wife had sent him back with the baby Aunt Anice had given him, to exchange it for their own. He was evidently used to doing errands for his wife, for he inquired, "If they had something a little heavier, in a lighter shade?"

But the mothers who came were not inclined to be humorous. Two women claimed the same baby, and one of them left the shed in tears, without any baby at all. The exchange of clothes had proved bewildering. One nursemaid, who had been deceived by the misleading apparel, dared not divulge her error that night, or at least she did not. This made trouble in the home of Mrs. Ella Dunbar, who soon was on the threshold of nervous prostration.

"Oh, where is my child?" she cried to distracted old Aunt Anice. "There isn't one that resembles my little Ben!"

Aunt Anice wrung her hands. She knew nothing about it. The several parents had come and got their babies. She supposed they knew their own children.

"But what shall I do? What shall I do?" sobbed Mrs. Dunbar.

"I don't know! Oh, I don't know!" cried the sympathetic old aunty. "Unless everybody who brought babies here fetches them back and we sort them again!"

This proposal, although repugnant to many, seemed to be the only way out of the difficulty; and the next morning there was a novel baby-show at the shed. No prize for beauty or winning baby ways now tempted the mothers. The babies themselves were at stake!

All were now in a calmer mood, however, and there was a better light. The infants were exchanged to the satisfaction of every one, except Mrs. Ella Dunbar. Her baby was apparently missing.

What was more and worse, she claimed as her own the child that Mrs. Gilbert Tucker had taken and now held. The two children were said to resemble each other, and had been born at about the same time. Mrs. Dunbar vehemently asserted that the baby Mrs. Tucker had was her little Ben. Mrs. Tucker as positively declared it to be her own little Henry.

The two mothers really required to be restrained a little, Mrs. Dunbar in particular. She was well-nigh frantic from anxiety and indignation. Persuaded at last to return home, she fell seriously ill. Mr. Dunbar consulted a lawyer, who promptly began the preliminaries for a case in court. The mystery lasted until late the third day, when Mrs. Gilbert Tucker's mother came placidly into town and brought the children home.

"Here's the baby, Sarah," she said, as she entered the sitting-room. "He's been good all the time. I suppose you've missed him dreadfully."

"Baby?" echoed Mrs. Tucker, blankly. "What 'baby'?"

"Why, our baby! Your baby that I took out home with me!"

"But here's the baby!" and Mrs. Tucker stopped rocking and held it up. "Why, mother, you don't mean——" she gasped, unable to say more.

"Yes, I do! Whose baby have you got there, Sarah?" cried her mother, austerely.

"Why, I don't know!" wailed Mrs. Tucker, looking from one child to the other in bewilderment. "Yes, I do, too!" she groaned out, at last. "What will poor Ella Dunbar say to me? It's hers! It must be! I took it, and here I've kept it! I thought it was mine! She was sure it was hers! But I wouldn't give it up. Oh, it is too dreadful! I thought a number of times it didn't seem just like Henry!"

"Ben" was restored to the Dunbar household, and much humiliated, Mrs. Gilbert Tucker transferred her affection to her own small "Henry." The lawsuit did not come off; but the Dunbars still pass the Tuckers without speaking, and the wags of the village have nicknamed both the little fellows "Ben-ry."

Perhaps the ladies who mobbed me at the baby-show will say that this story is all a miserable fiction, clumsily invented by me to put them in the wrong. None the less, it is the absolute truth, every word of it.—Youth's Companion.

FOR SCIENTIFIC AGRICULTURE.

What the Nations Might Do to Further a Good Cause.

"There is no country in the world that is doing more than the United States to elevate agriculture and put it on a high scientific plane," remarked a government official who was in the city the other day; "but what we need, and need badly, just at present, is some provision for a post-graduate course for students from our different agricultural colleges—a sort of agricultural West Point, where they could cross the line between theory and practice and form a body from which future college faculties might be chosen. As things are at present," he continued, "these institutions are turning out a lot of young men who are splendidly trained as far as theoretical knowledge goes, but they don't know how to apply it to practical problems. What I would propose is this: The Department of Agriculture has, beyond all question, the finest staff of specialists in the world. Let these gentlemen prepare a post-graduate course, open to a certain number of students from the agricultural colleges throughout the country. A few lectures a week by each wouldn't make serious inroads upon their time, but, in the aggregate, would constitute the finest post-graduate instruction in the world. At the same time the students should be taken on as helpers, and they would emerge thoroughly fitted for practical usefulness. I would have each man devote one year to general work, something that should broaden him out, and then let him select his specialty and put in, say, two years at that. There should be no charges of any kind for tuition.

"The department fully recognizes the value of such special training," continued the speaker, "and to that end the secretary is now trying the experiment of offering scholarships which permit those graduates who secure them to enter the different bureaus as assistants under the experts in charge. About forty scholarships have been given out, and the scheme is working first rate, although, of course, it hasn't the elements of usefulness that a regularly organized post-graduate government academy would possess. When the scholarship idea was first suggested, some time ago, it met with considerable opposition from the scientists in the service. They argued that they might be undermined in their positions by the very men they had instructed; but since then it has been so clearly demonstrated that politics has nothing whatever to do with the personnel of the Department of Agriculture that the objection is, for a number of reasons, very interesting and important. It has fully demonstrated, among other things, that the training received at even the best of our agricultural colleges does not fit a graduate for immediate work in the field. I am told by several of the leading men in the department that their student helpers are of no real assistance until after the second year of their apprenticeship. Prior to that time they are fully occupied learning to apply theory to fact. There is a continuous demand for competent instructors on the part of the agricultural colleges, and, if we had a great government university such as I describe, it would furnish a magnificent body of men from which to draw. The idea is being seriously considered, at Washington, and I wouldn't be surprised to see it laid before the next Congress."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

A Simple Life.

The main duties of a wife, according to a traveller in Central Africa, are the cultivation and preparation of the food of her husband and children. She has to do all the hoeing required, and this generally occupies the morning and forenoon. On her return she has to wash and pound the chimanga seeds into ufa which is the staple diet, and pay attention to the brewing of pombe (native beer). When the ufa is cooked, so little does her lord and master appreciate all this work, so little does he even care for her, that she may not share his meal, but wait patiently for what he may leave, or if he has not left enough, wait till he has finished eating before she may cook some for herself. Such a thing as women and girls eating out of the same pot as men and boys is never known.

Searchlight Fish.

Many deep sea fish carry searchlights. One species, called the chiasmodon, emits a strong, white light. Another glows with a rich, golden light, like a small incandescent lamp, while yet another carries a lantern on its head and emits bright green rays.

A UNIQUE PROFESSION.

Enterprising Collector Haunts Jungles for the Curious in Orchids.

"During a summer that I spent in Baltimore several years ago," said a New Orleans riceman, "I made the acquaintance of a very quiet young fellow of the name of Jamison, who was staying at the same family hotel. I had known him for several months before I discovered his occupation, and when he incidentally mentioned it one evening I was genuinely startled. He was a professional collector of orchids. There are only two others in the United States and less than a dozen in the world. Jamison's customers were wealthy orchid faddists, and he made regular trips for them to South America. He had also been to Africa and Java, but the Amazon country was his favorite stamping ground. It was a strange life, and after the ice was broken he told me some wonderful stories of adventure. The plants he collected were not the kind we ordinarily see at greenhouses and esteem as such great rarities; his prizes were freaks of the floral world, far too difficult to secure to ever get into the open market. If you have ever given any attention to the subject you know, of course, that the variations of the orchid, both as to shape and color, are almost infinite, Jamison told me he had seen them aping nearly every form of insect life. Some would resemble enormous dragon flies, with gorgeously tinted wings; others would take the shape of beetles, and still others seemed like magnificent moths. The region where the finest specimens were found was rank with fever and alive with all sorts of venomous reptiles. Jamison described it as the most beautiful and most horrible country in the world. The business was more or less of a gamble, he said, and the collector was never absolutely certain about what he brought home. The net result would be a lot of dry, shriveled bulbs which might develop into superb blossoms and might put forth nothing but a few insignificant buds. Three-fourths of the find was usually lost in transit. Jamison's health had broken in his queer trade and he was resting when I met him. About the time I left Baltimore he went to New York to arrange for another trip to the tropics, and I have never heard from him since. If he is alive I suppose he is still scouring the jungles for the plutocratic conservatory."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Two Canals Binding Atlantic.

It is asserted that the future will see two canals binding the Atlantic to the Pacific ocean. The value of such connection cannot be estimated. It will bring prosperity to the nation, as surely as Hostetter's Stomach Bitters brings health to the dyspeptic. Try it for indigestion, constipation, dyspepsia or biliousness.

This Busy World.

There are times when progress moves so rapidly that it taxes a man's strength to keep abreast of civilization. Many of us can sympathize with an unhappy-looking English farmer, who always shook his head when the word "progress" was mentioned.

"What are you so low about, my friend?" some one asked him.

"Why," said he, "what wi' faith and gas and balloons and steam-engines a-booming and a-fizzling through the warld, and what wi' th' 'arth a-going round once in twenty-four hours, I'm fairly muzzled and stagnated."

Hall's Catarrh Cure

is a constitutional cure. Price 75 cents.

American Grapes.

The ancestor of all our native outdoor grapes is the original wild grape which the Norsemen found on the shores of Vineland. The Concord is supposed to be the wild grape changed through cultivation. Curiously enough, the seedlings of the Concord often turn out white grapes and a dozen or so well-known varieties, white, red and dark, orginated in this way.

Try Grain-O! Try Grain-O!

Ask your Grocer to-day to show you a package of GRAIN-O, the new food drink that takes the place of coffee. The children may drink it without injury as well as the adult. All who try it like it. GRAIN-O has that rich seal brown of Mocha and Java, but it is made of pure grains, and the most delicate stomach receives it without distress. ¼ the price of coffee. 15c and 25c per package. Sold by all grocers.

The Governor's Son.

They are telling a good story in Massachusetts at the expense of Governor Wolcott's youngest boy, who was one of a class asked to name the Governor of the State. On replying that he did not know he was told by his teacher to ask his father that night. He returned next morning to report: "Well, papa says he is; but he fools so much I don't know."

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. E. W. Grove's signature is on each box. 25c.

One Way.

Husband—I don't know how much of an allowance to give you next year.

Wife—You know how much you can afford, don't you?

Husband—Why, yes.

Wife—Then give me as much more as you can spare.—Puck.

Each package of PUTNAM FADELESS DYE colors more goods than any other dye and colors them better, too.

Making a Pleasant Variety.

"It is highly interesting to straighten up my desk."

"Interesting?"

"Yes; I find so many things and lose so many others."

Lane's Family Medicine

Moves the bowels each day. In order to be healthy this is necessary. Acts gently on the liver and kidneys. Cures sick headache. Price 25 and 50c.

This Is Easy.

It is easy enough running into debt, but you rarely get out of it at the same gait.

Mrs. Austin's pancake flour is famous the world over. All grocers sell it.

Fire and sword are but slow engines of destruction in comparison with the babbler.—Steele.

If you want the Best there is, tell your Job Printer to use Eagle Linen for your Letter Heads and Envelopes.

Where Life Is Longest.

More people over a hundred years old are found in mild climates than in the higher altitudes. According to the last census of the German Empire, of a population of 55,000,000 only 78 have passed the hundredth year. France, with a population of 40,000,000, has 213 centenarians. In England there are 146, Ireland 578, and in Scotland 46. Sweden has 10, and Norway 23, Belgium 5, Denmark 2, Switzerland none. Spain, with a population of 18,000,000, has 401 persons over 100 years of age. Of the 2,250,000 inhabitants of Servia, 575 persons have passed the century mark. It is said that the oldest person living whose age has been proved is Bruno Cotrim, born in Africa, and now living in Rio de Janeiro. He is 150 years old. A coachman in Moscow has lived 140 years.

BEST FOR THE BOWELS.

No matter what ails you, headache to a cancer, you will never get well until your bowels are put right. CASCARETS help nature, cure you without a gripe or pain, produce easy natural movements, cost you just 10 cents to start getting your health back. CASCARETS Candy Cathartic, the genuine, put up in metal boxes, every tablet has C. C. C. stamped on it. Beware of imitations.

An Object of Interest.

Rector—I never in my life touched a congregation as I did this morning. Every eye was on me.

Wife—No wonder. When you took your hat off your gloves remained on the top of your head.—London Tit-Bits.

What Do the Children Drink?

Don't give them tea or coffee. Have you tried the new food drink called GRAIN-O? It is delicious and nourishing, and takes the place of coffee. The more Grain-O you give the children the more health you distribute through their systems. Grain-O is made of pure grains, and when properly prepared tastes like the choice grades of coffee, but costs about ¼ as much. All grocers sel lit. 15c and 25c.

The Exception.

"A woman doesn't always have the last word, does she?"

"Oh, no. Sometimes she is talking to another woman."—Life.

If you are in a hurry for breakfast, make it easy for your wife, take home Mrs. Austin's famous pancake flour.

If the soul be happily disposed, everything becomes capable of affording entertainment, and distress will almost want a name.—Goldsmith.

Piso's Cure cannot be too highly spoken of as a cough cure.—J. W. O'Brien, 322 Third avenue, N., Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 6, 1900.

London is putting in its own telephone system and expects to furnish 40,000 subscribers at nominal prices. The cost is $5,000,000.

Jell-O. The New Dessert,

pleases all the family. Four flavors:—Lemon, Orange, Raspberry and Strawberry. At your grocers. 10 cts.

We are never so ridiculous by the qualities we have, as by those we affect to have.—Rochefoucauld.

Try Mrs. Austin's famous pancake flour.

Heaven never helps the man who will not act.—Sophocles.

Air Cushion Rubber Stamps—the Best—the Cheapest. Send your orders to Lock Box 219, Fort Wayne, Ind.

SUFFERING AND RELIEF

Three Letters from Mrs. Johnson, Showing that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Cures the Ills of Women

Wrote for Mrs. Pinkham's Advice November, 1897

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I am a great sufferer, have much trouble through the lower part of my bowels, and I am writing to you for advice. Menses are irregular and scanty, am troubled with leucorrhœa, and I ache so through my back and down through my loins. I have spells of bloating very badly, sometimes will be very large and other times very much reduced."—MRS. CHAS. E. JOHNSON, Box 33, Rumford Center, Maine, Nov. 20, 1897.

Improvement Reported December, 1897

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I wish to tell you that I am improving in health. I am ever so much better than when I wrote before. The trouble through the lower part of bowels is better and I am not bloated so badly. I was very much swollen through the abdomen before I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I still have a feeling of fulness across my chest. I have used three bottles of it and am on the fourth."—MRS. CHAS. E. JOHNSON, Box 33, Rumford Center, Maine, Dec. 13, 1897.

Enjoying Good Health June, 1899

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Since a year ago I have been taking your medicine, and am now strong and enjoying good health. I have not been so well for three years, and feel very thankful to you for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I would advise all who suffer with female troubles to try your medicine."—MRS. CHAS. E. JOHNSON, Box 33, Rumford Center, Maine, June 1, 1899.

What Shall We Have for Dessert?

This question arises in the family every day. Let us answer it to-day. Try Jell-O, a delicious and healthful dessert. Prepared in two minutes. No boiling! no baking! simply add a little hot water and set to cool. Flavors:—Lemon, Orange, Raspberry and Strawberry. At your grocers. 10 cts.

Breakage of propeller shafts at sea costs an immense sum annually in salvage.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

Inflamed with sore eyes, use Thompson's Eye Water

$3.00 W. L. DOUGLAS SHOES $3.50 UNION MADE

The real worth of our $3.00 and $3.50 shoes compared with other makes is $4.00 to $5.00. We are the largest makers and retailers of men's $3.00 and $3.50 shoes in the world. We make and sell more $3.00 and $3.50 shoes than any other two manufacturers in the U. S. Established in 1876.

Why do you pay $4 to $5 for shoes when you can buy W. L. Douglas shoes for $3 and $3.50 which are just as good.

THE REASON more W. L. Douglas $3 and $3.50 shoes are sold than any other make in America. THEY ARE THE BEST FOR MEN.

THE BEST $3.50 SHOE. Made of the best imported and American leathers. The workmanship is unexcelled. The style is equal to $4 and $5 shoes of other makes. They fit like custom made shoes. They will outwear two pairs of other makes at the same prices, that have no reputation. You can safely recommend them to your friends; they please everybody who wears them. THE BEST $3.00 SHOE.

Your dealer should keep them; we give one dealer exclusive sale in each town.

Take no substitute! Insist on having W. L. Douglas shoes with name and price stamped on bottom. If your dealer will not get them for you, send direct to factory, enclosing price and 25c. extra for carriage. State kind of leather, size, and width, plain or cap toe. Our shoes will reach you anywhere. Catalogue Free.

W. L. DOUGLAS SHOE CO., Brockton, Mass.

Ely's Cream Balm

QUICKLY CURES

COLD IN HEAD

Druggists, 50 Cts.

Apply Balm into each nostril. ELY BROS., 56 Warren St., N.Y.

30 LIBBY Luncheons

Meats selected from the best that come to this, the world's meat center. Cooked as no one else can cook. Put up in key-opening cans ready for instant serving. You'll never taste anything better.

Veal Loaf	Boneless Chicken
Potted Ham	Beef and Tongue
Deviled Ham	Sliced Dried Beef
Ox Tongue	Pork and Beans

Get one kind from your grocer; we'll leave the rest to you.

Libby, McNeill & Libby, Chicago.

Our book, "How to Make Good Things to Eat," sent free.

WABASH

HOME SEEKERS' EXCURSIONS

To Western Points.

OCTOBER 2 AND 16, 1900.

On the above dates the WABASH will sell from its principal stations East of Chicago and Toledo, Ill., LOW RATE HOME SEEKERS' EXCURSION Tickets to points West, South and Southwest, granting a liberal return limit. A postal card addressed to any Wabash Ticket Agent or to either of the following Passenger Representatives will bring you prompt and explicit information regarding rates, routes, time of trains, through car service, condition of tickets, etc., etc.

REMEMBER

The WABASH is the only line east of Chicago and St. Louis giving its patrons seats without extra charge, in ELEGANT RECLINING CHAIR CARS running through to St. Louis and Kansas City without change.

This is your chance to go West cheap. Communicate with us.

P. E. DONBAUGH, P. & T. A., Toledo, Ohio.
R. G. THOMPSON, P. & T. A., Fort Wayne, Ind.
A. F. WOLTSCHLAGER, P. & T. A., Detroit, Mich.
L. S. McCLLLAN, D. P. A., St. Louis, Mo.
GEO. D. MANFIELD, D. P. A., Indianapolis, Ind.
F. A. PALMER, A. G. P. A., Chicago, Ills.
C. S. Crane, G. P. & T. A., St. Louis, Mo.

F. W. N. U. - - No. 39—1900.

When Writing to Advertisers please say you saw the Advertisement in this paper

Did You Ever Know

any one who smoked the same kind of Five Cent cigar any length of time? Five Cent cigar smokers are always dissatisfied—always trying something new—or something different, as there always seems to be something wrong about the cigars they have been smoking. Ask your dealer for

Old Virginia Cheroots

They are always good.

Three hundred million smoked this year. Price, 3 for 5 cents.

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signatnre of Chas. H. Fletcher and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but Experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is Pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. It cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. It relieves Teething Troubles, cures Constipation and Flatulency. It assimilates the Food, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

GENUINE CASTORIA ALWAYS

Bears the Signature of

Chas. H. Fletcher.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

In Use For Over 30 Years.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine.

Rotary Motion and Ball Bearings.

Porter Depew, Agent.

CHICHESTER'S ENGLISH PENNYROYAL PILLS

Beware of Counterfeits. Refuse all Substitutes.

Safe. Always reliable. Ladies, ask Druggist for CHICHESTER'S ENGLISH in Red and Gold metallic boxes, sealed with blue ribbon. Take no other. Refuse dangerous substitutions and imitations. Buy of your Druggist, or send 4c. in stamps for Particulars, Testimonials and "Relief for Ladies," in letter, by return Mail. 10,000 Testimonials. Sold by all Druggists.

CHICHESTER CHEMICAL CO. 2100 Madison Square, PHILA., PA. Mention this paper.

Mott's Nerverine Pills

BEFORE AND AFTER USING.

The great remedy for nervous prostration and all nervous diseases of the generative organs of either sex, such as Nervous Prostration, Failing or lost Manhood, Impotency, Nightly Emissions, Youthful Errors, Mental Worry, excessive use of Tobacco or Opium, which lead to Consumption and Insanity. $1.00 per box by mail; 6 boxes for $5.00.

MOTT'S CHEMICAL CO., Prop's, Cleveland, Ohio.

Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

MOTT'S PENNYROYAL PILLS

They overcome Weakness, irregularity and omissions, increase vigor and banish "pains of menstruation." They are "Life Savers" to girls at womanhood, aiding development of organs and body. No known remedy for women equals them. Cannot do harm—life becomes a pleasure. $1 per box by mail. Sold by druggists. MOTT CHEMICAL CO., Cleveland, O.

Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

PATENTS DESIGNS TRADE-MARKS AND COPYRIGHTS OBTAINED

ADVICE AS TO PATENTABILITY Notice in "Inventive Age" Book "How to obtain Patents" FREE

Charges moderate. No fee till patent is secured. Letters strictly confidential. Address, E. G. SIGGERS, Patent Lawyer, Washington, D. C.

PILES Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment will cure Blind, Bleeding and Itching Piles. It absorbs the tumors, allays the itching at once, acts as a poultice, gives instant relief. Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment is prepared for Piles and Itching of the private parts. Every box is warranted. By druggists, by mail on receipt of price, 50 cents and $1.00. WILLIAMS MANUFACTURING CO., Props., Cleveland, Ohio.

Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

DYSPEPTICIDE

The greatest aid to DIGESTION.

Cured of Chronic Diarrhoea After Thirty Years of Suffering.

"I suffered for thirty years with diarrhoea and thought I was past being cured," says John S. Halloway, of French Camp, Miss. "I had spent so much time and money and suffered so much that I had given up all hopes of recovery. I was so feeble from the effects of the diarrhoea that I could do no kind of labor, could not even travel, but by accident was permitted to find a bottle of Chamberlain's Cholic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and after taking several bottles I am entirely cured of that trouble. I am so pleased that I am anxious that it be in reach of all who suffer as I have." For sale by H. B. McCord.

—A couple at Goshen tied their horse and went into the parson's to have "the knot tied." While there some mischievous lads tied a placard on the back of their buggy reading "Married tonight." With this sign they drove through the city, much to the amusement of the spectators.

Cuts and Bruises Quickly Healed.

Chamberlain's Pain Balm applied to a cut, bruise, burns, scald or like injury will instantly allay the pain and will heal the parts in less time than any other treatment. Unless the injury is very severe it will not leave a scar. Pain Balm also cures rheumatism, sprains, swellings and lameness For sale by H. B. McCord.

—Croker has been promised the federal patronage of New York if Bryan wins, and consequently he will strain every nerve to carry his state. New York is subject to tremendous landslides and there is no telling what it may do this fall.

An Editor

Of Clarence, Iowa, Mr. Clark Smith, writes: "Since the agency of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin was established here I have been a user of what I can call 'that excellent medicine.' For a year or more I have been troubled with constipation, indigestion, dyspepsia, etc., and I find that this remedy is just what I have needed." H. B. McCord.

—The British poet laureate is said to be writing a new poem on the Transvaal war. Is there to be no end to the British barbarity practiced against the Boers?

No Relief for Twenty Years.

"I had bronchitis for twenty years," said Mrs. Minerva Smith of Danville, Ill., "and at times have been bedfast. I never got relief until I had taken Foley's Honey and Tar. It is pleasant and gives quick relief, and is a sure cure for throat and lung diseases." Take nothing else. H. B. McCord.

—The Kaiser has congratulated Uncle Sam on his progress in the field of foreign adventure and has insinuated that a small loan of some $20,000,000 would be acceptable until next pay day.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy a Great Favorite.

The soothing and healing properties of this remedy, its pleasant taste and prompt and permanent cures have made it a great favorite with people everywhere. It is especially prized by mothers of children for colds, croup and whooping cough, as it always affords quick relief, and as it contains no opium or other harmful drug, it may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. For Sale by H. B. McCord.

Stops The Cough and Works off the Cold.

Laxative Bromo-Quinine Tablets cure a cold in one day. No Cure, no Pay. Price 25 cents.

Wednesday's Daily.

—Henry Pickhart and wife have a fine girl baby, born a few days ago.

—A letter from Sazby McIntosh to his father says he was tempoorarily on the sick list.

—W. H. McIntosh was taken sick while at the encampment at Chicago and was out to day for the first time.

—Before you buy lath see the fine stock of the Saginaw product at the lumber yard of A. Lewis & Co. They have reason to think they have about the best there is in the market. alf

—A good many consumptives would be cured and the worst cases comforted and relieved by using Foley's Honey and Tar. Suggest it to those afflicted. You should do this as a friend. H. B. McCord.

—Cosper Altenberg of Little Rock, Ark., is here visiting his many relatives and friends including his mother Mrs. Susanpah Altenberg. His wife and two grown daughters are with him. We predict that a season of hearty handshaking is ahead of them.

—J. H. St. Clair who has been several years at Hawley, Kansas, has moved back, and will take charge of the old home farm, where his father, the ex-sheriff, John C. St. Clair used to live. We welcome him back. He was not starved out either, for he has done well since he was in Kansas.

—In our write up of the late D. P. Hale we omitted to say he came back to Auburn for a time after living in Sioux City. Then he went to California. He helped to organize the land improvement Co., that made the towns Escondido and San Marcos. They were really not suburbs of San Diego, but were about forty miles away and the company built a railway out of the town. Mr. Hale was born at Hastings, N. Y. about 66 years ago. He married the only daughter of Mr. Thomas who owned the big Thomas farm this side of Newville, and which he recently sold to S. C. Snyder. On this farm Wm. Maranville ,now a resident of Auburn, lived for about thirty years, and until Mr. Hale sold it.

Thursday's Daily.

—The Kendallville free rural delivery route was started last Saturday.

—The price of coal at retail has gone up in New York, $1 a ton since the strike began.

—L. Spitler has sold his property at the south end of town, to a Mr. Cramer who will soon occupy it.

—A $10,000 barn, the largest in the state. has been erected at St. Joseph's college, near Renseslaer.

—It would be a pity if the allies should leave Pekin without first propping that door open for keeps.

—Peter Fostnaught of Wichata, Kansas, was here a few days the latter part of last week, a guest of Amos Sweigart.

—Jacob Link and wife of the Junction are at Crystal City, Mich, on account of Mr. Link's trouble with hay fever.

—Who cares nowadays whether Jerry Simpson wears socks or not? Public men quickly drop out of sight in this country.

—Mr. and Mrs. John Keeran drove out to L. D. Nelson's yesterday for a visit returning home today. He is Mrs. Nelson's brother.

—Rev. W. D. Trover is at Lamoille, Ill., whre he has charge of a stock of goods that are to be sold. He may remain there some time.

—Both Democrats and Republicans are satisfied with the results in Maine and Vermont, according to all reports. It's real nice that the people up there should be able to please everybody so well.

—Mrs. Graham Torrence and daughter Dorothy of St. Paul are guests in the family of J. E. Rose. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Webster of Butler, and a niece of Mrs. Rose.

—Allen Halverson of West Prairie, Wis., says: "People come ten miles to buy Foley's Kidney Cure," while J. A. Spero of Helmer, Ind., says: "It is the medical wonder of the age." H. B. McCord.

—When you want a pleasant physic try the new remedy, Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. They are easy to take and pleasant in effect. Price, 25 cents.—Samples free at H. B. McCord's drug store.

—E. J. Coder came up from Fort Wayne last evening and will visit the relatives here this week. He is postal clerk on the Nickel Plate, and this is his week off. He is a brother to Mrs. E. Zimmerman and resided in Auburn many years.

—Miss Bessie Casebeer has been called to her home in Jackson township by the serious condition of her brother. He cut his leg with a corn cutter about two weeks ago, but it did not seem serious. Since then, however it has resulted in lockjaw and his condition is considered critical.

—Cosper Altenberg brings word that T. C. Mays is in poor health and poorer circumstances down in Arkansas. He has been divorced from his second wife and has not, apparently, been successful in any way. Tom always had some ability, but no stability. Too much wild oats in the crops he started to raise.

—J. H. McCurdy of Mason, Mich., stopped off here yesterday on his way to Butler, his old home, and was a guest in the family of E. D. Beadle. He and Mr. Beadle were, at one time, partners in the hardware business at Butler, and were glad to meet again. Mr. McCurdy was a teacher at the time the COURIER man was County Superintendent and was a successful one. He was back here partly to meet his brother Stephen, who has been in Kansas many years.

Friday's Daily.

—Geo. Hines and wife of St. Johns were in town today.

—Surveyor Kronts went down into Jackson township today to see about a drain that needed fixing.

—Mrs. Blany and her son drove up into Richland township today to visit her father, G. B. Monroe.

—Albert Nodine of Waterloo has been granted an original pension as a soldier in the Spanish war.

—Health authorities estimate that 10 per cent of the men who go to Cape Nome never come back alive.

—100 MEN WANTED.—At the Wabash Portland Cement Works, Stroh, Indiana. Call soon at above address. 39

—Ulcers, open or obstinate sores, scalds and piles, quickly cured by Banner Salve, the most healing medicine in the world. H. B. McCord.

—Eli Welck, near Hamlet, brought a sweet pumpkin into town the other day, weighing 130 pounds. He put it on exhibition at the Knox fair.

—Our Junction friend Jacob Shull was here the other day and ordered the Weekly sent to his sister, Mrs. Susie Beck, at Luther, Whitley county

—A young man of Elkhart has received from his brother in the Philippines a number of articles taken from a church. The package containing them bore the approval of a commanding officer, Capt. J. W. Porterfield.

—Billy Foster, ex-treasurer of Fulton county, aged eighty-two years, had his leg broken while attending the Rochester, Ind. fair. It was caused by one of the boards giving way in the grand stand. He may not recover.

—"I had a running sore on my leg for seven years," writes Mrs. Jas Forest of Chippewa Falls, Wis., "and spent hundreds of dollars in trying to get it healed. Two boxes of Banner Salve entirely cured it." H. B. McCord.

—Mrs. O. C. Dickinson was down from Hillsdale yesterday stopping at Waterloo to visit her father, Mr. Bowers. In the afternoon she came to Auburn and after a brief call on friends including Mrs. Mary Boyer, returned home on the evening train.

—S. B. Mottinger at Boardman, North Carolina, sends his subscription to the old reliable COURIER, paying to next June. He always sends good words to the old friends in DeKalb county; and we, here, are glad to know that he and his are all well.

—George Quince is putting up bills today for the big prohibition meeting of October 1. He went to Waterloo, Butler and Newville. He will bill Sedan, Corunna, Fairfield and Garrett as fast as he can get to them. St. Joe and Spencerville will be billed by M. T. Bishop.

—Dr. Baxter reports another newcomer in Auburn. This afternoon the storks called at Joe Stafford's on the Avenue and left a fine girl baby for Mrs. Malcom Greene, who has been stopping with her parents a short time. Now it is grandpa and grandma Stafford and papa and mamma Greene, with rejoicing at Auburn and Fort Wayne.

Saturday's Daily.

—Meet me at the Angola fair, October 9 to 12.

—Mike Kiplinger of Waterloo was a caller today.

—People are coming in and paying their November taxes.

—Big horse sale in Auburn Saturday, September 29, at 1 p. m.

—Miss Pearl Hornberger of Wilmington is visiting friends in the city.

—T. S. Murray of Spencerville was in the city yesterday on business.

—Automobile or running horse—which wins? They race at Angola fair, October 9 to 12.

—The old 74th Indiana will hold its next reunion at Pleasant Lake, Oct. 11 and 12. Let the old boys bear this in mind.

—WANTED:—Black Walnut logs for timber. Highest cash prices paid for ame. Address, The Sanders & Egbert Co., Goshen, Ind. 8

—It was J. C. Cramer who bought the Spitler property. He will move here and make Auburn his home. He will be a desirable citizen.

The Ohio excursion to Niles, Canton, Mansfield, and Wooster goes on Thursday Oct. 4. See Sprott & Knapp for full particulars. 40 —Liberal purses, liberal premiums, and special attractions each day make the Angola fair the most successful fair in Northern Indiana.

—Claude Link reports the close of the peach season for him and his father. In about two weeks they have handled over 1,000 bushels.

—The 88th Indiana will hold its annual reunion in Butler this year. The date is October 24. It is requested that the comrades bear this in mind.

What Will Bryan's Plurality be in Indiana?

$1,000

IN PRIZES to 76 subscribers to THE INDIANA STATE SENTINEL who come nearest guessing the plurality Indiana will give Bryan over McKinley.

The publishers of The Indiana State Sentinel will award seventy-six prizes to seventy-six subscribers, who at any time before the close of the polls Tuesday, Nov. 6, correctly estimate or come nearest doing so, Bryan and Stevenson's plurality over McKinley and Roosevelt in Indiana.

First prize	$300.00
Second prize	200.00
Third prize	100.00
Fourth prize	75.00
Fifth prize	50.00
Sixth prize	25.00
5 prizes of $15 each	75.00
5 prizes of $10 each	50.00
10 prizes of $5 each	50.00
25 prizes of $2 each	50.00
25 prizes of $1 each	25.00
	1,000.00

NOTE—The result will be decided from the vote cast for the head of the democratic electoral ticket.

If the unexpected should happen and Mr. Bryan not carry the state, then the lowest plurality guess, or the one nearest the result, will get the prize.

Where two or more guesses are the same, the first one received will be awarded the prize.

Guessers should be careful to write name and address plainly, and also state whether they are an old or new subscriber.

76 Guesses

$1,000 To The Winners

Conditions.

Any subscriber, old or new, is entitled to one guess on payment of 50 cents—one year's subscription—received at this office before the close of polls on election day—Tuesday, Nov. 6, 1900. The name of subscriber remitting the money will be recorded with the figures of his guess. The receipt of money, as well as his estimate of Bryan and Stevenson's plurality over McKinley and Roosevelt in Indiana, will be acknowledged, and should be laid aside by him until the official vote of Indiana shall have been ascertained, when the names of prize-takers will be duly announced in these columns.

If your subscription is not paid in advance pay it now and participate in this great distribution of actual money. If your subscription is paid in advance, send us 50 cents for another year and give a guess. You stand a chance of getting $300 for 50 cents, and if you do not hit a prize you have your money's worth in The Indiana State Sentinel, the greatest family newspaper in the West.

SEND in your 50 cents with your guess at once. Your judgment is as likely to be correct at this time as it is the day before election. Be careful to date your guesses, and remember you can have as many guesses as you take subscriptions to The Indiana State Sentinel.

CUT THIS OUT AND SEND TO INDIANAPOLIS SENTINEL CO.
INDIANAPOLIS, IND.

SENT BY .....

P. O. .....

COUNTY..... STATE.....

My Guess Bryan' and Stevenson's plurality over McKinley and Roosevelt in Indiana will be..... Enclosed find 50 cents for which send THE INDIANA STATE SENTINEL for one year

TO .....

.....

If The Indiana State Sentinel is already going to this address send for one year from date present subscription expires.

—Mrs. Garwood has received a letter from her mother, Mrs. McClellan, now at Newark, N. J. While there she had the pleasure of hearing Mr. Locke preach.

—The next reunion of Company A, 21st Indiana, will be held at Albion in September of next year. The late Frank Culbertson was a member of the 21st, we believe.

—S. W. Guthrie was a caller Friday. He reports the death of a neighbor, David DeLong, well known over that section. He died Monday as the result of heart trouble.

—Cos. Altenberg says he hardly knows Auburn, it has changed so greatly since he lived here. He took his cousin, Wm Walsworth, around with him today so they could look up and talk over old landmarks and over old times.

—Waterloo Press:—Mrs. Phil Plum remains in a critical condition from results of a paralytic stroke. She was considerably worse Monday evening. Her left side is paralyzed and at times she complains of much pain in her head. Two of her sisters are attending her.

Hall's Hill, Tenn., Nov. 12, 1898.

Cured a young lady of rheumatism some time ago with four bottles of Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Balm The doctor had discharged the case because he could give her no relief.—B. R. Bivins. For sale by F. E. Davenport.

—YOUNG MEN WANTED:—With fair education and good character, to learn telegraphy, railroad accounting and typewriting. This is endorsed by all leading railroad companies as the only perfect and reliable institution of its kind. All our graduates are assisted to positions. Ladies also admitted. Write for free catalogue. Fall term opens August 15th.—Globe Telegraph College, Lexington, Ky. tf

—A. C. Osbun and wife came home Thursday from their summer's stay at Pony, Montana. They went there in March, having a daughter, Mrs. Jeff. Goetschius residing there. It is a great mining country, and he brought home specimens of ore or metal bearing quartz. One we saw had gold and silver, another had gold and copper while another was rich gold and iron. The mining is mostly for gold, as the silver is so low in price that when separated, it is thrown aside, into boxes to wait till silver is more favorably considered. This place is up among the snow-capped mountains, but vegetation does well. Some fruit is being raised, of the hardier sort, and Mr. Osbun had a splendid garden, which brought him good prices among the miners. He says all the Goetschius families are in that section and all doing well.

When Your Heart Flutters.

That is not heart disease. That no terrible heart failure; that is indigestion, the prime cause of all short breath and sudden jumping of the heart which so frequently follows an exertion of any kind. Go to the drug store. Get a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. No more need be said for after you use it once, you will never fail to keep it in the house. H. B. McCord.

MONEY TO LOAN

At 5%

We are prepared to place loans on farm property in DeKalb county in sums of $700 and upwards for 5 years at 5 per cent with the priviledge of paying the same in payments of $100 or any multiple thereof at any interest pay day.

RICHARDS & BIRDSALL,
Hicksville, Ohio.

Loot from China.

A dispatch from San Francisco brings word that the revenue officers have brought down from the Mare Island navy yard on a government tug 154 cases of rare oriental goods which had been smuggled into this country on the hospital ship Solace. The articles seized would net a small fortune. The duty is nearly 60 per cent of the value of the good, and, on this account, most of the stuff, which includes loot from Tientsin, will probably be abandoned to the government. The cases of silks and curios are addressed to persons all over the country.

One-half the News

Comes from our neighbors. A neighbor of Joe Crook's of Bridgton, Ind., told him of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. He is cured of a case of indigestion that kept him down 12 years. Mr. Crook wishes us to refer anyone to him who doubts the wonderful cure he found in Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which has gained an honorable foothold as a true remedy for constipation, indigestion, sick headache and stomach trouble. H. B. McCord.

—It is said that the farmers near the ocean beach summer resorts are wise in their generation. They plant their corn near the shore, so that when it has grown, it will behold the costumes of the bathers and be shocked.

How Bright's Disease Starts.

Indigestion, biliousness, blood poison with urea and uric acid (which should have been excreted by the kidneys), rheumatic pains in nerves and joints, causing irritation of the kidneys, then pains over the small of the back, mark sure approach of Bright's disease. Do not delay taking Foley's Kidney Cure, for it makes the kidneys right. Take no substitute. H. B. McCord.

—The Canadians who went to South Africa to help fight the Boers, have had enough of the fun. Their time, one year, expires October 20, and the most of them say they will come home.

Half the World is in Darkness.

as to the cause of their ill health. If they would start to treat their kidneys with Foley's Kidney Cure, the weariness of body and mind, backache, headache and rheumatic pains would disappear. H. B. McCord.

WABASH

GOING EAST.

No. 2	6:11 am	Daily
No. 8	8:30 am	Daily
No. 4	5:03 pm	Daily
No. 70 (local freight)	2:05 pm	ex Su
No. 96	11:30 am	ex Su
No. 98	8:30 pm	ex Su

GOING WEST.

No. 1	10:47 am	Daily
No. 9	5:40 am	Daily
No. 3	7:48 pm	Daily
No. 71 (local freight)	9:15 am	ex Su
No. 95	3:05 pm	ex Su
No. 97	7:48 am	ex Su

Nos. 8 and 9 do not stop at Auburn, but No. 9 stops at the Junction.

All these trains stop for passengers.

For rates, tickets, time tables, etc. apply to L. M. ZENT, Agent, Auburn, Ind

Chas. M. Hays, V. Pres. and Gen'l Manager.
O. S. Crane, Gen'l Pass'r and Ticket Agent

B. & O. R. R.

Schedule In Effect Nov. 22 '98

Leaves Auburn Junction.

WEST BOUND.

No. 6 Express, to Garrett only	9:12 p m
No. 8 Daily	4:10 a m
No. 7 Daily	4:14 p m
No. 17 Daily Except Sunday	11:23 p m
No. 47	1:58 a m

EAST BOUND.

No. 4 Express	4:35 a m
No. 6 Daily	8:05 p m
No. 8 Daily	2:30 p m
No 16, Daily, except Sunday	12:47 a m

Trains Nos. 16 and 17 are the only ones that stop at Wawasee. No. 7 makes no stop between Garrett and Chicago except a flag stop at Wawasee.

F. D. UNDERWOOD, General Manager

D. B. MARTIN, Manager of Passenger Traffic.

G. H. YOUNG, Auburn Junction, Ind

THOS. H. SPROTT CHAS. H. KNAPP

Half Rates so Indianapolis, Ind.

Via Baltimore & Ohio Railroad. Account National Association Democratic Clubs, Quadrennial Convention.

October 1 and 3 the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company will sell excursion tickets from all local stations in Ohio to Indianapolis, Indiana, at rate of one fare for round trip, account National Association Democratic Clubs, Quadrennial Convention. Tickets will be good for return until October 5, 1900.

For further information call on or address nearest Baltimore & Ohio Ticket Agent, or B. N. Austin, General Passenger Agent, Chicago, Ill. 39 is a pure medicine, and contains in concentrated form, remedies recognized by the most skillful of the medical profession as the most effective agents for the cure of kidney and bladder diseases. H. B. McCord.

Foley's Kidney Cure

THE AUBURN COURIER.

Volume XXX | Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana, Thursday, October 4, 1900. | Number 40.

The Farmers Bank of Auburn,

Uunder State Supervision and Control.

Capital and Surplus ... $50,000.00

Assets at Last Official Statement..... $346,278.95

Pays interest on deposits if left four months; Loans money and transacts a general banking business.

YOUR BUSINESS IS SOLICITED!

ALBERT ROBBINS, President;
A. C. ROBBINS, Cashier

The McClellan Bank,

AUBURN, IND

Certificates of deposits issued, drawing interest if left six months. County and Town Orders bought and sold. Money Loaned on Farms, Personal Security, or Live Stock. Notes bought.

O. A. O. McCLELLAN, ESTATE
CHARLES McCLELLAN
D. A. GARWOOD,
ISAAC HAGUE
} C. A. BENEDICT, Cashier

Physicians and SURGEONS

D. J. Swartz, M. D
Vesta W. Swartz, M D

Office at Auburn Sanitary Baths, corner Main and Sixth Streets,

Professional Calls Promptly Answered.

PHONES: Western..... No. 19
Central Union..... No. 19

Sprott & Knapp,

Abstracters of Titles to Land and Lots,

AUBURN, IND.

☞Office in Gandy Block, North of Court House.

J.E. Graham, D.D.S.

DENTIST

Over Davenport's Drugstore, Auburn, Ind.

CROWN AND BRIDGE WORK A SPECIALTY.

All Work Guaranteed } { Gas Administered.

CENTRAL 'PHONE 513.

Will be at Waterloo each Wednesday in Dr. Darby's Office

DENTIST F. W. HOFFMAN,

Auburn, Ind,

Office in Gandy Building, Northeast Corner of Court Square.

WESTERN 'PHONE 103.

Crown and Bridge Work a Sprcialty.

DR. Z. H. STAMETS,

Physician & Surgeon

Office on Main street opposite Swinefotd Hotel.

Western 'Phone 104

Special attention given to all diseases of stomach and kidneys, and to chronic and obscure diseases; surgery and diseases of women and children. Calls answered at all hours. Office apart from residence.

There is Money in Junk

for you if you bring it to H. Greenburg who

PAYS BEST CASH PRICES

for rags, rubber, copper, brass, zinc, lead, scrap iron and all kinds of hides and furs. Also buys and sells second-hand materia. stoves and furnaces, etc. Persons having second-hand material to buy or sell it will be to their interest to see

H. GREENBURG,

North VanBuren St.,

Auburn, Indiana.

L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE—in Effect April 29, 1900.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Stations.	Mail	Exp'ss	Fre'g
Fort Wayne.....	11 45 am	5 00 pm	5 55 am
New Ark.....	12 19 pm	5 30	6 40
Auburn Junction.	12 32	5 43	7 10
Auburn	12 33	5 44	7 20
Waterloo	12 42	6 04	8 25
Summit.....	12 52	6 13	8 55
Steubenville.....	12 54	6 15
Pleasant Lake....	1 08	6 22	9 20
Angola	1 13	6 25	9 35
Jackson	2 25	8 45	2 00

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations.	Fre'g't	Exp'ss	Mail
Jackson.....dp	6 10 am	11 45 am	7 40 am
Angola.....	11 00	2 10 pm	6 55
Pleasant Lake....	11 22	2 29	10 09
Steubenville.....		2 36	10 14
Summit.....	11 00	2 39	10 20
Waterloo.....	12 42 pm	2 55	10 35
Auburn.....	1 20	3 05	10 44
Auburn Junction.	1 22	3 10	10 47
New Ark.....	1 34	3 22	10 55
Fort Wayne.....	2 50	5 00	11 25

For rates on tickets or freight to all points call on or address E. T. DeLAPT, Agent Auburn.

DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL TICKET.

For President,
WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN.
For Vice-President,
ADLAI EWING STEVENSON.
For Electors-at-Large,
ALLEN ZOLLARS.
NICHOLAS CORNET.

STATE TICKET.

For Governor,
John W. Kern.
For Lieut.-Governor,
John C. Lawler.
For Secretary of State,
Adam Heimberger.
For Auditor of State,
John W. Minor.
For Treasurer of State,
Jerome Herff.
For Attorney-General,
Charles P. Drummond.
For Reporter of Supreme Court,
Henry G. Yergin.
For Superintendent of Public Instruction,
Charles A. Greathouse.
For State Statistician,
Edward Horuff.
Judge of Supreme Court, 1st District,
George L. Reinhard.
Judge of Supreme Court, 4th District,
Joseph W. Adair.

Congressional Ticket.
Congressman Twelfth District,
James M. Robinson.

Senatorial Ticket.
Joint Senator, Steuben and DeKalb,
Charles Bruce.

Judicial Ticket.
Prosecutor, 35th Judicial District,
Joseph Butler.

County Ticket.
Representative,
J. W. Jackman.
Treasurer,
Francis M. Hines.
Sheriff,
John H. Hathaway.
Surveyor,
C. P. Hammond.
Assessor,
R. S. S. Reed.
Coroner,
Charles Comesky.
Commissioner Southwest District,
Emanuel R. Shoemaker.
Commissioner North District,
Allen Shultz.

Township Ticket.

Miles Baxter, Trustee; John Treesh, Assessor; John Koons, Justice; John Kruse and John Ketel, Constables; Arnold Blodgett, A. W. Madden and George King, Advisory Board; Emmet Kosht, James Sherwood, Ira Goetschius and Henry Fulks, Supervisors.

New Fee and Salary Bills.

The state fee and salary commission was in session at Indianapolis Saturday, discussing the new bills it will have introduced in the next legislature. These bills will not be made public until after the election. One will cover state offices and the principal renumerative county offices; the second will cover minor county offices, and the third will fix salaries of justices of the peace and the township officers. Practically all the officers in the state, outside of those in the municipalities, will come under this revision.

Attention Farmers.

The Auburn Handle Factory will pay the highest cash price for ash handle block delivered at their factory on the Lake Shore tracks, cut 58 inches long. Also want ash logs cut 9½, 14½ and 19½ feet long. All timber to be smooth and sound. Will also take basswood cut 4 feet long and 8 inches in diameter and up, left round with bark on. Will pay $3 percord.—J. M. CHERRY & CO.

Consumption

is, by no means, the dreadful disease it is thought to be—in the beginning.

It can always be stopped—in the beginning. The trouble is: you don't know you've got it; you don't believe it; you won't believe it—till you are forced to. Then it is dangerous.

Don't be afraid; but attend to it quick—you can do it yourself and at home.

Take Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, and live carefully every way.

This is sound doctrine, whatever you may think or be told; and, if heeded, will save life.

If you have not tried it, send for free sample, its agreeable taste will surprise you.
SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists,
409 Pearl Street, New York.
50c. and $1.00; all druggists.

Kentucky Election Bill.

The special session of the legislature of Kentucky called to revise the Goebel election law and enact a fairer one, is kely to succeed The democratic house caucus has at last agreed upon an election bill which provides that the state board shall consist of one democrat and one republican and a state officer. They shall appoint the county boards, one or two from each party, and from lists submitted they shall also appoint an umpire. This will give the democrats a majority in each county board, but the boards shall have only ministerial powers, except as to questioned ballots. It is said that the democrats in the senate will readily accept this compromise.

A Night Of Terror.

"Awful anxiety was felt for the widow of the brave General Burnham of Machias, Me., when the doctors said she could not live till morning" writes Mrs. S. H. Lincoln, who attended her that fearful night. "All thought she must soon die from Pneumonia, but she begged for Dr. King's New Discovery, saying it had more than once saved her life, and cured her of Consumption. After three small doses she slept easily all night, and its further use completely cured her." This marvelous medicine is guaranteed to cure all Throat, Chest and Lung Diseases. Only 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free at McCords drug store.

Storm at Cape Nome.

News from Cape Nome, the place where the sands of the seashore are rich in gold, reports a disastrous storm which raged, Sept. 11 and 12. Wind and water leveled tents and mining machinery. Several persons were drowned. Five hundred people are homeless and the property loss will reach $500,000. The heaviest loser is the Alaska commercial company. The government reservation has been thrown open for the benefit of the homeless and Capt. French, in command of the troops, will lend government aid.

Public Speaking.

Hon. James A. Norton, congressman for the Twelfth Ohio, Tiffin district, will address the people from a democratic standpoint at Garrett, on the evening of October 5 At Butler on the evening of October 6. Mr. Norton also speaks at St. Joe at 2 p. m. of the 6th, the day of the democratic township caucus.

Hon. James M. Robinson will address the people of Newville and vicinity on Monday evening, October 1, and at Cedar Saturday evening, October 6.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

Want Law Changed.

Here are some of the resolutions that will be presented at the meeting of the state federation of labor, Logansport, asking for state legislation: A law forbidding the use of bottle and fruit jars more than once; a law providing for the inspection of street railways, bakeries and grocers' scales and measures; a law making it a misdemeanor for manufacturers to display signs that they will not employ members of organized labor.

A Card.

The manufactors of Banner Salve have authorized the undersigned to guarantee it for burns, cuts, sores, ulcers, tetter, eczema and all skin diseases. You have your money back if it does not do all it claims. H. B. McCord.

Passion Play Closes.

The last performance of the Passion Play at Oberammergau in Bavaria, will be given on Monday next, October 1. This is the great drama of the life and sufferings of the Savior, witnessed by Mr. Guild, Mr. Eckhart and Mr Zimmerman on the European trip this summer. It will be ten years before it is given again. And now the actors drop their grand and stately religious characters and go about their daily work as private citizens.

This Concerns You.

For I tell by the way you walk, you have indigestion. You havn't the firm dignified walk and general air that comes after one is cured of indigestion, as you surely can be by taking Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Get it at H. B. McCord's.

Notice of Dissolution.

Notice is hereby given that the partnership known as the Specialty Buggy Co. is this day dissolved by mutual consent. The business will be continued and all bills paid by Wm. Eckhart
Auburn, Indiana, } Wm. Eckhart
Sept. 17, 1900. } Charles Eckhart,

BRYAN AS A BALL PLAYER.

Made a Home Run and Won the Game For the Jacksonville Bar Nine.

It is not generally know that William Jennings Bryan was once an enthusiastic ball player, and a pretty fair one at that. It was away back in the summer of 1884, when the Boy Orator had just begun the practice of law at Jacksonville, Ill., when he joined a baseball team made up of members of the Morgan County bar.

The then future candidate for President of his country was a young man and fond of out-door sports. He was made pitcher of the team. His catcher was a man named John W. Springer, now one of the leading business men of Denver, Col.

The great game of Mr. Bryan's career in Jacksonville was with a nine composed of the retail clerks of the town. Mr. Bryan pitched and won his own game with a home run in the last inning, when there were two men on bases and three runs were needed to win the game. The score stood 20 to 18 in favor of the clerks, and everyone thought they would win. Bryan came to bat in the ninth inning. He was not the sturdily built man that he is now, but he was just as determined. He hit the ball so hard that it went over the fielder's head and was lost, while Bryan and the two men scored amid the applause of the crowd. Bryan was counted a good amateur pitcher at that time.

In those days Mr. Bryan wore a beard, which was not quite as heavy as Solomon's or some of the other patriarchs. It caused a great deal of amusement at his expense.

Closing Notice.

We, the undersigned business firms of Auburn, Indiana, do hereby agree to close our respective places of business at 6 o'clock on Tuesday, Wednesday Friday evenings of each week, commencing November 1st, 1900.

M. E. Garrett	Hebel Brothers
Bishop & Beidler	Frank A. Hoff
John L. Kruger	Bates
E M. Fischler	Eberle & Freygang
F. J. Nebelung	J. L. Till
Schaab & Brother	Schaab Furn. Co
H. B. McCord	Trentman Sisters
Cowan Sisters	R Shull
M. Jones & Son	Schaab & Murphy
A. N. Wilson	Culbertson & Boland
Pioneer Hdw. Co.	A. B. Olds
O. E. Clay	G. H. Yeobera
G. W. Lackey	F. E Davenport
D A. Hodge

7 p. m.

Joseph Rainier	W. C. McNabb
Sheffer & Chaney.

It Happened in a Drugstore.

"One day last winter a lady came to my drug store and ask for a brand of cough medicine that I did not have in stock," says Mr. C. R. Grandon, the popular druggist of Ontario, N. Y. "She was disappoieted and wanted to know to what cough preperation I could recommend. I said to her that I could freely recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and that she could take a bottle of the remedy and after giving it a fair trial if she did not find it worth the money to bring back the bottle and I would refund the price paid. In the course of a day or two the lady came back in company with a friend in need of a cough medicine and advised her to buy a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I consider that a very good recommendation for the remedy." It is for sale by H. B. McCord, MARRIED.

Yesterday afternoon, Sept. 26, 1900, at the home of John Sheffer in Richland township, Melvin L. Olinger and Miss Gertrude H. Weyand, Rev. W. L. Meese officiating. The groom is a son of Cyrus Olinger and is a car inspector for the B. & O. at Garrett. The bride's original home is at Mt. Pleasant, Pa., but her home has for some time, we believe, been with Mr. Sheffer's family. At the wedding the bride was attired in light, cream colored silk with applique trimming, and the groom in the usual Prince Albert suit. They received many valuable presents. Their home will be at Garrett. After the ceremony, all sat down to a sumptuous supper in courses, those present including about twenty-five guests.

Our Saturday Evenings.

L.

We go abroad for a sight of famous scenery and to inspect strange freaks of nature. Yet on our own continent are more strange and wonderful things than can be found in any other part of the world, or in all the world, or in all the world together. The vast regions lying in the neighborhood of the great mountain ranges in the far west, are the homes of many of these wonders. For this Saturday, we have room for but one of the many.

We all remember the lovely, polished, specimens of petrified logs and pieces of petrified timber at the world's fair at Chicago. Yet we could not stop to realize the vastness of this strange storehorse of Arizona.

The "petrified forest" as it is called, covers about 100 square miles and is known to scientific men, as "Chalcedony Park."

The surface of the ground for miles and miles around is covered with gigantic logs three or four feet in diameter, petrified to the core. Many of them are translucent. Some are almost transparent. All present the most beautiful shades of blue, yellow, pink, purple, red and gray. Some are like grganitic amethyst, some resemble the smoky topaz, and some are as pure and wite as alabaster. At places the chips of agate from the trunks that have crumbled, lie a foot deep upon the ground, and it is easy to obtain cross sections of trees showing every vein and even the bark. Comparatively little of this agate has been used in manufacturing, although it is easy to obtain. Manufacturing jewelers of New York have made table tops and boxes and other articles from strips that have been sent them, and if the material were not so abundant its beauty would command enormous prices. Where you can get a carload of jewelry for nothing you are not likely to pay high prices for it.

A bird's-eye view of the petrified forests on a sunny day suggests a gigantic kaleidoscope. The surface of the earth resembles an infinite variety of rainbows. The geologists say this great plain, now 5,000 feet above the sea, was once covered by a forest, which was submerged for ages in water strongly charged minerals, until the fibers of the trees were thoroughly soaked and transformed into eternal stone. Many of the trunks are still packed in a deposit of fine clay, which was left by the receding waters, but the erosion of the wind has pulverized much of the clay and carried it off in the air, exposing the secrets that nature buried under its surface.

One great tree spans a deep gulch forty feet wide. It lies where it fell centuries, perhaps ages, ago, and is a most beautiful specimen of petrified wood. The rings and the bark can be easily traced through the translucent agate, and it is firm enough and strong enough to last as many centuries as it has already spent in its peculiar position. It is undoubtedly the only bridge of agate in the world, and alone is worth a long journey to see.

The Indians of the southwest used to visit the petrified forests frequently, to obtain agate for their arrow and spear heads, and the material was scattered over the entire continent by exchange between the different tribes from the Isthmus of Panama to Bering Straits The great deposit here explains where all the arrowheads of moss agate came from, and other weapons and implements of similar material that are found in the Indian mounds and graves of the central and western states. In the stone age the agate of the petrified forest was the very best material that could be obtained for both the implements of war and peace of the aborigines. A scalping knife could be made very easily from one of the chips of agate and could be ground to a very fine edge. Many crystals were used for jewelry and ornament also.

Howard Guilty.

As we went to press yesterday afternoon, the jury of in the case against Jim Howard for killing Goebel, had reported that they could not agree. But the judge refused to let them off till they tried once more. A dispatch last evening from Frankfort reads:

"Jim Howard was found guilty this morning of killing Governor Goebel. When Judge Cantrill opened court this morning he sent the jury out again, they having been unable to reach a verdict during the night. They staid out less than an hour coming back with a verdict of guilty. Howard was found guilty of firing the shot which killed Governor Goebel Jan. 30. The defense tried to prove an alibi, but failed. Howard is from the famous Clay county feud family and admitted on the stand the killing of Geo. Baker, for which he is under indictment. Howard's attorneys will immediately prepare an appeal. Howard is apparently unconcerned.

Stops The Cough and Works off the Cold.

Laxative Bromo-Quinine Tablets cure a cold in one day. No Cure, no Pay. Price 25 cents.

Foley's Honey and Tar heals lungs and stops the cough.

ROYAL Baking Powder

The strongest, purest, most efficient and wholesome of leavening agents. Not lowest in price, yet the most economical; indispensable to all who appreciate the best and most healthful food.

Our country is enjoying prosperity almost unsurpassed in its history.

For every one there is money enough to buy that to eat which is pure, sound, good, wholesome.

Why should we use cheap, impure, unhealthful articles of food? There is no economy in them; they endanger the health, they may cost life. There are reported almost daily cases of sickness caused by eating cake, puddings or biscuit made with the cheap, alum baking powders.

In all articles for food buy and use only the best. The good health of the family is of first consideration.

Alum is used in many baking powders because it makes them cheap. It costs less than two cents a pound. Alum is a corrosive poison. Think of feeding it to children! Yet the manufacturers of well-known alum powders are actually denying that their goods contain it.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 100 WILLIAM ST., NEW YORK.

Sheriff's Sale.

By virtue of an execution issued on a judgment rendered in the DeKalb Circuit Court, on the 24th day of January, 1898, and to me directed by the Clerk of said Court, I will offer for sale at public auction and outcry to the highest bidder, at the door of the Court House in Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana, on

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 6, 1900,

between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m., and 4 o'clock p. m. of said day, the rents and profits for a term not exceeding seven years, of the following described real estate, situated in DeKalb County, in the State of Indiana, towit: Southeast quarter of section thirty-four (34), township thirty-three (33) north of range thirteen (13) east. And in case the rents and profits fail to bring the amount demanded to satisfy the judgment and decree aforesaid, interest and costs, together with all accruing costs, I will, at the same time and place, and in like manner as aforesaid, offer for sale at public auction and outcry, to the highest bidder, all the right, title, interest and estate in fee simple of Andrew Metcalf, John Metcalf and Henry Metcalf, in and to the above described real estate, or so much and such part thereof as may be necessary to satisfy the judgment and decree aforesaid, which is in favor of William Kapp and David M. Karns; and against Andrew Metcalf, John Metcalf and Henry Metcalf. Said real estate will be sold without relief from valuation or appraisement laws, and subject to the redemption laws of the State of Indiana.

JOHN H. HATHAWAY,
Sheriff of DeKalb County, Indiana.

Chas. Emanuel, Attorney for Plaintiff.
Sept. 13, 1900.

To Stop a Cold.

After exposure or when you feel a cold coming on, take a dose of Foley's Honey and Tar. It never fails to stop a cold if taken in time. H. B. McCord.

Spanish-American War Veterans

Half-rates to Chattanooga, Tenn., via Baltimore & Ohio Railroad—Account General Encampment of the Spanish-American War Veterans, Oct. 8-12, and Reunion of the Society of Army of the Cumberland, Oct. 9 10, 1900.

October 7 and 8, the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company will sell excursion tickets from all local stations to Chattanooga, Tenn., at rate of one fare for the round trip, account Encampment of the Spanish-American War Veterans, Oct. 8 and 12, and Reunion of the Society of Army of the Cumberland, Oct. 9 and 10. Tickets will be good for return until Oct. 14, 1900.

For further information call on or address nearest Baltimore & Ohio Ticket Agent, or B. N. Austin, General Passenger Agent, Chicago, Ill.

Bright's Disease.

High living, intemperance, exposure and many other things bring on Bright's disease, Foley's Kidney Cure will prevent Bright's disease and all other kidney or bladder disorders if taken in time. Take nothing else. H B. McCord.

Notice to Non-Residents.

STATE OF INDIANA, } ss.
DEKALB, COUNTY.

In the DeKalb Circuit Court, October term, 1900.

Jacob M. Hook is hereby notified that an action has been commenced against him in said Court, for contribution and in attachment by John Grube, Gilbert L. Patterson, William J. Frederick, William Hayes, Frederick Bartles, Henry Bartles, Benjamin Casey, Allen Schultz, Daniel Tomlinson, Thomas Summers, Charles Comesky, Frederick Schulthess, Charles Gaede, J. William Wagner and Charles Hike, and that the same will be heard and determined on the 17th day of December, 1900, being the first judicial day of the next term of said Court, which commences December 17, 1900.

Witness, the Clerk of said Court, this 28th day of October, 1900.

MICHAEL F. LONG, Clerk.

W. C. T. U. NOTES.

MR. WARDWELL'S PREDICTION.

There was one remark made by Mr. Wm. T. Wardwell in accepting the nomination for Governor of New York, to which all can respond with a hearty Amen. It was this: "I say to you in all sincerity that some day a man will stand in my place ane say to the liquor traffic: 'You have gone far enough; you have caused misery enough, and stood long enough in the path of progress and the church. We have had enough of you.' That man will receive a majority of the votes of the people of this State. Whether he will be me or some one else does not matter."

The following extracts are from "Freedom," a daily paper published in Manila.

Forty American "gents" and twenty-five dissolute women congregated at 88 Calle Iris for a genuine Chicago civilized "time." Their drunken orgies made sleep impossible among the uncivilized native business men in the neighborhood. These complained to the native police who made a descent on the revel and bagged fifteen Americans. The others escaped.

A crowd of drunken American soldiers made a raid on a Filipino hurdy-gurdy, smashing all the furniture and throwing the pieces out of the window. An armed guard effected the arrest of the enthusiastic drunks who came from America to "protect the natives from the cruel Spaniards."

A drunken soldier of Co. A, 20th infantry, entered the home of a respectable native on Calle Juan de Juanes and tried to forcibly kiss the native's wife. When the husband objected, the armed prophet of "benevolent assimilation" assaulted him, pounding him in a frightful manner.

Prof. Henry Drummond has said, "It is given to some to work for immediate results, but those are not always the greatest in the kingdom of God. The men or the women who receive no stimulus from present results, whose lives pass while the objects for which they toil are too far away to comfort them, who hold themselves aloof from dazzling schemes, and win the misunderstanding of the crowd because they see remoter issues, who even oppose a seeming good because a deeper evil lurks behind it—these are the statesmen in the kingdom of God."

It Heals the Lungs.

When suffering from racking cough take a dose of Foley's Honey and Tar. The soreness will be relieved and a warm, grateful feeling and healing of the parts affected will be experianced. Take no substitute. H. B. McCord.

CASTORIA.

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, - Publisher.

1900. SEPTEMBER. 1900.

Su	Mo	Tu	We	Th	Fr	Sa
•	•	•	•	•	•	1
2	3	4	5	6	7	8
9	10	11	12	13	14	15
16	17	18	19	20	21	22
23	24	25	26	27	28	29
30	•	•	•	•	•	•

F. Q. 2nd. F. M 9th. L. Q 15th. N. M. 24th.

EVENTS OF INTEREST

THAT OCCURRED DURING THE PAST WEEK.

Tersely Told Telegraph Tales in Brief Paragraphs—Many Casualties—A Few Crimes—Some Fires—Political and Religious News.

Ate the Bark of Trees.

A Winnipeg, Manitoba, special says: G. F. Stevens, a Methodist missionary at Oxford house, in the district of Keewateen, in a letter dated Sept. 10, 1900, states that during the late winter and early spring of this year between twenty and thirty Indians of the Salteaux tribe, residing near Andy Lake, died of starvation. Rabbits and deer have failed these people, and although they ate even the bark of trees, they were not able to sustain life. The department of the interior is investigating the famine situation.

The Kaiser Recedes.

Apparently Germany's retreat from an untenable position has been virtually accomplished. The Paris correspondent of of the London Morning Post says:

"An agreement on the Chinese program has been arranged between France, Germany and Russia. It will be submitted to the other powers within a few days. The action recommended will be milder than Germany's original proposal and it is expected that all the powers will accept the program."

Capt. Shields and Fifty-two Men Lost

General McArthur cables as follows: "Sept. 11 Captain Devereaux Shields with fifty-one men of company F, 29th regiment of infantry, and one hospital corps man, left Santa Cruz at Marinduqua by the gunboat Villealodos for Porijos, intending to return overland to Santa Cruz. I have heard nothing since from Captain Shields and scarcely doubt that the entire party is captured with many killed and wounded, Captain Shields among the latter."

Mine Operators Weaken.

The Associated Press has secured from President Mitchell of the Coal Miners Union, the admission that he believes that the mine operators have agreed to make the striking mine workers an offer of 10 per cent. increase in wages. Further than this Mr. Mitchell declined to talk. He has been reticent on the subject, and several times declared that he knew nothing of the rumors of a settlement of the strike.

British Buy American Coal.

Halifax special: The steamer Fri is now discharging a cargo of American bituminous coal at the dock yard. The coal comes from Virginia. This is the first American coal ever purchased by the British admiralty for their warships here. The quantity to be landed at Halifax is $2,500 tons for the Bermuda station. The admiralty has purchased 5,000 tons of the same coal.

Watching for Bresci's Accomplice.

The New York barge office officials, at the request of the police of Milan, Italy, are watching every ship that comes in for Mauricio Magliala, whose alleged real name is Luigi Granotti, wanted by the police of Milan for alleged participation in King Humbert's murder. They say he sailed with Bresci from Paterson, N. J., to Italy on May 1 last and is a silk weaver.

America's Great Triumph.

Paris special: The jury of final appeal in exposition awards has finished its work. The statement prepared for the United States commission shows that America received the highest number of awards of any nation save France, and that she also received more awards in each classification, except grand prizes, in which Germany secured a greater number.

An Alaska Town Swept Away.

Seattle (Wash.) special: News has been received here that Solomon City, at the mouth of Solomon River, was devastated by the recent storm on the coast of Alaska. All buildings were either swept away by the waves or were wrecked by the wind. The town had a population of 200, all of whom are destitute and homeless.

Made a Rich Haul.

Cracksmen looted the private banking house of Wolfe Brothers in Centreville, Mich., some time during Friday night, securing nearly $10,000 in currency, and got away so successfully that there is not the slightest clue to either their identity or their whereabouts.

Fatal Wreck.

A fast train collided with a switch engine on the Detroit, Grand Haven and Milwaukee railroad at Durand, Mich. Two men were killed and one was injured. Twenty-four loaded cars were burned and both engines demolished.

Fort Wayne Masonic Temple Attractions.

For week of October 8.—Cumming's Stock Company.

Oct. 18.—"Because She Loved Him So."

Locked in a Vault All Night

The unconscious body of County Treasurer Bambisher was found the other morning in the vault of his office at Mercer, Cal., where he had been locked up all night. His frightful experience was the result of an encounter with robbers.

Missions Destroyed.

Hong Kong special: The American Presbyterian and Catholic missions at Shek-Lung, on the East river, have been destroyed. The priest in charge of the Catholic mission escaped and was protected by a Mandarin.

Michigan Town Swept by Flames.

The business portion of Omer, Mich., was practically destroyed by fire. The hotel, two drug stores, a saloon, furniture, hardware and jewelry stores, a photograph gallery, the postoffice and eight residences were burned. Losses about $50,000, with light insurance.

Ship Sinks with Men.

Four persons were drowned by the sinking of the schooner John Martin in the St. Clair river abreast of Port Huron, Mich., as a result of a collision with the steel steamer Yuma. The accident caused the drowning of three men and one woman.

TRANSPOSES DRUGGED BEER.

Indiana Boy Gets the Best of Three Chicago Sharpers.

Charles Whiteman, a mere boy, from New Albany, Ind., had an exciting experience in a Canal street tenement house in Chicago, after turning the tables upon three confidence men, who lured him there to get his money. A glass of beer had been drugged for him and he suspected this when the drinks were poured out. At the proper moment he shifted the glasses so that R. Guintzel, one of the confidence men, drank the drugged liquor instead of himself. Guintzel immediately grew drowsy and sank into a deep sleep, in which condition he was afterward found by the police. Sam Black and Sam Meyer, his two confederates, grew enraged when they discovered how the boy had outwitted them and drew revolvers. Young Whiteman sprang to the window like a cat. He had several hundred dollars sewed in the lining of his coat and he jumped to the ground, a distance of thirty feet, rather than be robbed. He hurried to Halsted street and told Policemen Quinlan and Finan of his experience. They hastened back to the tenement house and captured Black and Meyer as they were leaving the building. Guintzel was found in the room peacefully slumbering. The boy told Justice Sabath he suspected the men when they met him on Clark street and proposed to show him the sights. He said he just thought he'd see what they would do.

ENFORCED IDLENESS RARE.

Situation in Pennsylvania Mining Country Not Representative.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: "Outside of the anthracite industry enforced idleness of hands is an exception, and even in the Pennsylvania coal region other employers would gladly take on thousands of more intelligent miners. The Doscher sugar refinery closes down on account of the scarcity of raw sugar, but the Loraine Steel Company, idle three months, is starting its furnaces, with others to follow. Hesitation incident to the presidential campaign is reflected in bank clearings, which for New York show 38.8 per cent, and for other leading cities 7.8 per cent loss from last year. Sales of wool at the three chief markets were only 2,817,000 pounds, against 13,443,800 a year ago. Holders continue confident, and dullness fails to cause lower prices. In iron and steel products greater activity at former prices was the rule. Failures for the week were 211 in the United States, against 154 last year, and 33 in Canada, against 18 last year."

SAYS WEDDING WAS A JOKE.

Mock Marriage in Elite St. Louis Society Causes Serious Trouble.

A supposed mock marriage between Miss Mary B. Carrol and Joseph R. Hoffmann has resulted in a serious predicament for those two popular young society folks of St. Louis. The bride is generally considered the prettiest girl in Cabanne. The wedding ceremony was performed in one of the parlors of the Cabanne Club by Judge W. W. Henderson of the probate court in the presence of a number of friends of the contracting parties. The only thing lacking was a marriage license, but authorities on marriage laws, among whom are several circuit judges, declare that a license is not necessary and that a marriage ceremony such as occurred in this instance is strictly legal in every sense of the word and binding on both parties.

Farmer Shot by His Daughter.

John Loss, a farmer residing six miles south of Leavenworth, Kan., was shot and seriously wounded by his daughter, Annetta Loss, aged 25. The girl fired four times, each shot taking effect, but it is believed that none is fatal. The daughter charges that her father undertook to horsewhip her, when she shot in self-defense.

Wonders Far in a Daze.

P. Charles Murphy, a New York undertaker, has been missing since Aug. 6, when he went to Bath Beach for a swim. Nothing was heard of him and his friends gave him up for dead. The other day his wife received a telegram from the Denver police saying that her husband had walked into a station and claimed he had just "woke up."

Wage Scale Is Signed.

In Cincinnati the conference committee of the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers and of the manufacturers signed the wage scale that will be effective until July, 901. Immediately messages were sent in every direction ordering the furnace fires built at once.

Quickly Tires of Marriage.

Sarah Crunholz, a pretty girl who was married three days before to Max Miller of West Hoboken, N. J., tried to commit suicide at her home in Union Hill by taking the contents of two 5-cent boxes of paris green. Her life was saved.

Steal the County's Records.

The county seat war between Cloud Chief and Cordell, Washita County, O. T., has resulted in the theft of the judicial records from the court house at the former place. Cordell was recently chosen in place of Cloud Chief.

Murders an Entire Family.

An entire family, consisting of man, wife and daughter, living in Beaufort County, S. C., in the heart of the "black district," has been exterminated by Joseph Smalls, a negro. The murderer shot his victims.

Set Afire by a Cigarette.

Rose Kelly of 2128 Chestnut street, St. Louis, fell asleep with a lighted cigarette in her mouth. It dropped and set fire to the bed clothing. The fire was smothered by quilts, but the woman was terribly burned.

Wedding Follows Funeral.

Just one hour after his father, J. R. McIntyre, had been buried, John McIntyre was married to Miss Lena Glick at LaPorte, Ind. Rev. D. C. Shirk, who preached the funeral sermon, officiated at the wedding.

Attempt to Kill Mine Watchman.

Evan Davis, watchman at Hickory Ridge colliery, near Shamokin, Pa., was shot by an unknown person as he was patrolling the colliery. The bullet entered the left side, inflicting a serious, if not fatal, wound.

Deadly Storm in Minnesota.

The village of Morristown, Minn., was visited by a tornado Monday afternoon. Besides destroying several buildings eight persons were killed. The storm came without warning.

Powers Will Quit Pekin.

Military commanders of the powers find the holding of Pekin useless as a means to bring the dowager to terms, and are preparing to evacuate the city before winter.

Slain by a Posse.

Blood was shed for the first time Friday in the great anthracite miners' strike in Pennsylvania. A sheriff's posse fired into a crowd at Shenandoah, killing two and wounding many.

Lake Shore May Pension Employes.

The Lake Shore Railroad Company is taking steps to ascertain the opinion of its employes in regard to the establishment of a pension system similar to that on the Pennsylvania system. It has proposed to give $30,000 as the nucleus of a fund for the purpose and to raise the rest by a 1 per cent asse: ent on the monthly wages of the employes.

IRON MOUNTAIN SHOPS BURN.

Destructive Fire Sweeps Away Railroad Property Near Little Rock.

The Iron Mountain shops, located at Baring Cross, Ark., were totally destroyed by fire. No one seems to know how the fire originated, except that it started in the paint shops, which were located at the rear of the machine shops. The machine shops were burned, also the car shops, the mill shops and six locomotives and fifteen freight cars, which were being repaired. Four hundred men are thrown out of employment and their personal loss will be probably $10,000. The shops were the largest in that section of the country, and were the main shops of the Iron Mountain system, their other shops being at De Soto, Mo. The loss will reach $250,000. The buildings covered an acre of ground.

TEACHER KILLS INDIAN PUPIL.

In Punishing Boy He Deals a Blow That Results Fatally.

Arthur Cummons, a young man, small of stature, came to Duluth, Minn., from Tower and surrendered to the authorities, telling the story of an unusual and fatal encounter in the Indian school on the Vermilion reservation, where he has been teaching. Charles Eagle, an Indian about 17 years old and very large, was one of Cummons' pupils. The boy was disobedient and an attempt was made to put him in the guardhouse. The Indian fought violently, and in the scuffle with Cummons the latter used a four-ounce billy, which the teachers carry for protection. He struck the Indian over the head, the blow falling on the temple. Eagle dropped to the ground and died within a short while.

TOWN WRECKED BY A TORNADO.

Houses Demolished at Ferguson, Iowa—Four Dead and Others Hurt.

Four persons were killed and several severely injured in a waterspout and tornado at Ferguson, Iowa. The Milwaukee Railway station was wrecked, several cars were blown from the tracks and damaged and many houses were destroyed. Ferguson is on the main line of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad and fifteen miles southeast of Marshalltown. It has a population of 400 or 500.

Officers Kill a Crazy Negro.

Edward Gurley, a New Orleans negro, crazy over religion, cut the throat of his nephew, Oscar Montgomery. Corporal Paul Cowman and Supernumerary Joseph W. Bofill endeavored to arrest Gurley and he attacked them with savage ferocity. Cowman may die. Bofill was badly wounded. Gurley was killed.

Tramp Is Burned to Death.

Joseph Brennings, aged 40, was burned to death at the Morrill fruit farm, Benton Harbor, Mich. Brennings was a tramp who had been employed for the summer and had been given sleeping quarters in the farm packing house. He accidentally set fire to the packing house, which was burned to the ground.

Tornado Hits Kansas Town.

A tornado passed through Neodesha, Kan., wrecking two dwelling houses, three barns and slightly damaging half a dozen others. Mrs. John Ford was seriously injured and her little son was slightly hurt.

Five Killed in a Wreck.

In a freight wreck on the Queen and Crescent route at Sadieville, Ky., five men were killed and six badly injured. The dead and the injured were taken to Lexington, Ky. They were all workmen who were stealing rides.

Foremost Spanish Soldier Dies.

Marshal Arsenio Martinez de Campos is dead at Zaranz, near San Sebastian, Spain. For thirty years, as soldier and statesman, Marshal Campos has been the mainstay and preserver of the Castilian government.

Joint Trip to the Pole.

Dr. Nansen and the Duke of the Abruzzi, according to a dispatch from Christiana, have agreed to undertake a joint expedition into north polar regions.

Collapse of the Boer Army.

The British consul at Lorenzo Marques has, by a diplomatic move, secured the peaceful surrender of 2,500 men, practically the whole of the Boer army.

The Abbot Beats Old Record.

The Abbot, the sensational 7-year-old gelding owned by C. J. Hamlin of Buffalo, trotted a mile in 2:03¼ over the four-cornered track at Terre Haute, Ind.

Tailors Win in a Strike.

The strike of journeymen tailors in Cleveland has practically ended in favor the strikers.

Gen. Palmer Is Dead.

Gen. John M. Palmer died suddenly at his home in Springfield, Ill., in his eighty-third year.

Great Storm in Texas.

Great storm swept over Texas, causing loss of life and property. Three towns were reported to be under water.

THE MARKETS.

Chicago—Cattle, common to prime, $3.00 to $5.60; hogs, shipping grades, $3.00 to $5.50; sheep, fair to choice, $3.00 to $4.15; wheat, No. 2 red, 77c to 78c; corn, No. 2, 40c to 41c; oats, No. 2, 21c to 22c; rye, No. 2, 52c to 53c; butter, choice creamery, 18c to 21c; eggs, fresh, 13c to 16c; potatoes, 33c to 36c per bushel.

Indianapolis—Cattle, shipping, $3.00 to $5.80; hogs, choice light, $5.00 to $5.65; sheep, common to prime, $3.00 to $4.00; wheat, No. 2, 78c to 79c; corn, No. 2 white, 41c to 42c; oats, No. 2 white, 23c to 24c.

St. Louis—Cattle, $3.25 to $5.70; hogs, $3.00 to $5.50; sheep, $3.00 to $4.00; wheat, No. 2, 76c to 77c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 39c to 40c; oats, No. 2, 21c to 22c; rye, No. 2, 52c to 53c.

Cincinnati—Cattle, $3.00 to $5.50; hogs, $3.00 to $5.60; sheep, $3.00 to $4.00; wheat, No. 2, 76c to 77c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 43c to 44c; oats, No. 2 mixed, 22c to 23c; rye, No. 2, 56c to 57c.

Detroit—Cattle, $2.50 to $5.35; hogs, $3.00 to $5.50; sheep, $3.00 to $4.00; wheat, No. 2, 78c to 79c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 42c to 43c; oats, No. 2 white, 23c to 24c; rye, 53c to 54c.

Toledo—Wheat, No. 2 mixed, 80c to 81c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 42c to 43c; oats, No. 2 mixed, 22c to 23c; rye, No. 2, 53c to 54c; clover seed, prime, $5.80 to $6.75.

Milwaukee—Wheat, No. 2 northern, 78c to 79c; corn, No. 3, 40c to 41c; oats, No. 2 white, 25c to 26c; rye, No. 1, 55c to 56c; barley, No. 2, 55c to 56c; pork, mess, $11.50 to $12.00.

Buffalo—Cattle, choice shipping steers, $3.00 to $5.50; hogs, fair to prime, $3.00 to $5.80; sheep, fair to choice, $3.00 to $4.50; lambs, common to extra, $4.00 to $5.50.

New York—Cattle, $3.25 to $5.65; hogs, $3.00 to $5.80; sheep, $3.00 to $4.50; wheat, No. 2 red, 81c to 82c; corn, No. 2, 47c to 48c; oats, No. 2 white, 26c to 27c; butter, creamery, 20c to 22c; eggs, western, 18c to 20c.

GREAT CEREAL YIELD

FARMERS ARE TO REAP ENORMOUS GRAIN CROPS.

Estimates of the Harvest Indicate that This Season Will Closely Crowd Last Year's Unparalleled Record—Corn Is to Be the Leader.

Over 500,000,000 bushels of wheat, nearly 800,000,000 bushels of oats and fully 2,000,000,000 bushels of corn will be the result of this season's harvesting of these cereal products in the United States. In this respect last year's unparalleled record is to be closely crowded. The Agricultural Department is now receiving reports from its agents from all over the country and will be able to give the exact figures next December. The above figures have been obtained by a Washington correspondent from a collection of estimates made by experts in various parts of the country.

The wheat crop is naturally the center of most interest at this time. The highest estimate is 550,000,000 bushels, made by the Cincinnati Price Current on the 13th of September. The National Stockman also made a similar estimate on July 24. Bradstreet's estimate in July was 540,000,000 bushels. The lowest estimate yet made is that of C. Wood Davis in the Kansas City Journal last July, when he said the total crop would net 475,000,000 bushels.

Figures on Yield of Wheat.

Basing its figures on the government report for September, the Daily Trade Bulletin says the crop will foot up to 489,000,000 bushels. These are the most moderate of all the guesses so far made. The estimates made in September are, of course, the most likely to be correct. Most of these are based, in one way or another, on the government report for the month. The figures follow:

	Bushels.
Cincinnati Price Current	550,000,000
Snow's Forecast	510,000,000
Regina Flour Mills	521,000,000
New York Produce Exchange	508,733,000
Daily Trade Bulletin	489,000,000
Baltimore Produce Exchange	517,356,000
Duluth Record	510,000,000
Average estimate	515,155,571

The crop of wheat last year as shown by the official statistics in possession of the chief statistician of the Agricultural Department was 547,300,000 bushels. It is, therefore, quite plain that this year's fruitage in wheat is to be about as great as that of last season, which was heralded the world over as most remarkable.

Estimates of the Corn Crop.

As to corn, an immense yield for the year is forecasted. All the forecasts are close to the 2,000,000,000 point, so that it can be said that the total corn crop will certainly be as much as that. Last year's figures were slightly over that mark, being 2,078,000,000 bushels. The various estimates on corn follow, all being up to date:

	Bushels.
Daily Trade Bulletin	1,998,000,000
N. Y. Produce Exchange	2,015,800,000
Snow	2,100,000,000
Cincinnati Price Current	2,050,000,000
Baltimore Produce Ex.	2,049,376,000

The average of these figures is so close to 2,000,000,000 bushels that exact figures need not be given.

There is a great demand for all cereals now and this is to continue or to increase from present indications. Wars and turmoils in Asia and Africa and the necessity of European nations keeping large standing armies will have an influence to hold up prices, irrespective of natural causes and market vicissitudes, such as short yields in other countries.

PLAGUE FOLLOWS FAMINE.

Six and a Quarter Millions Are Suffering In India.

The official telegrams from India, though meant to be encouraging, fail to be so on examination. The returns from Bombay and Bengal are reported as incomplete, but all the same the numbers described as on the relief works are given at close on six and a quarter millions. What makes these figures so terribly significant—and the complete returns would make them more so—is that while the people at work earning wages are fewer in number, the number of those in receipt of gratuitous relief is increasing. Abundant rain is said to be falling throughout the country, but crops are backward, prices are high and there is a restricted demand for labor in the fields. Also, there are no means with which the fields can be tilled in the vast majority of cases and over large tracts of country.

Meanwhile pestilence in one form or another is running its course unchecked among the starving natives, and cholera has begun to attack the British garrison. One hundred and forty-seven cases of cholera, of which 88 were fatal, occurred in ten days in the various military stations, one cavalry regiment losing thirteen men. Owing to the abuses of various kinds that crept into the management of the segregation camps established with the object of staying the ravages of the plague, the resistance of the natives increased, and riots in which many lives are lost were becoming dangerously frequent.

SECOND TEXAS STORM.

Cloudburst Devastates the Country and Drowns Many Persons.

Another disastrous storm swept over the State of Texas, adding sorrow to the already overburdened people, not yet recovered from the horrors of the awful Galveston peril. Loss of life and much damage to property is reported from the points where the storm raged. All Saturday night and Sunday the storm wreaked its vengeance, covering a wide area, and fears are expressed that when the details are learned they will reveal another disaster.

Towns in the valley of the Concho and Colorado rivers are flooded to a depth of twenty feet by the overflowing of the treacherous streams in the locality, and the villagers, suddenly rendered homeless, are in retreat in the near-by hills and mountains. In the low country lying between the Nueces and Rio Grande rivers the list of dead numbers thus far eighteen, besides a camp of Italian emigrants, which was swept away.

The storm disturbances which have been manifest in West Texas for two days past culminated Saturday evening in a heavy rain and a thunderstorm over a vast stretch of country from Sabinal, seventy-four miles west of San Antonio on the Southern Pacific, to and beyond Del Rio, still farther west and on the same railroad. In the valley of the Nueces river and about twelve miles northwest of Uvalde the downpour was in the nature of a cloudburst, and the Nueces river at Uvalde rose twenty-five feet in two hours. The Sycamore, with its three 200-foot spans of Southern Pacific bridge, also rose to the bed of the bridge. Both structures trembled and cracked under the strain and were damaged. All wires went down in the flood, and the track was damaged in several places.

WILL RESUME WORK.

Steel Mills and Amalgamated Association Strike a Compromise.

Sixty thousand iron and steel mill men, who have been idle three months, will go back to work as a result of the signing of the yearly wage scale agreement in Cincinnati. The conferees of the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers and of the manufacturers usually sign the wage scale agreement for the ensuing year on July 1. The past season the condition of the iron market has been so unsettled that an agreement could not be reached as readily as usual. Five conferences have been held prior to the one just closed in Cincinnati, at New York, Detroit, Indianapolis and Youngstown, all without result.

The new wage scale is a compromise. Neither side got just what it asked for, but both are fairly well satisfied and eager to get back to business. The mills affected by the signing of the scale have been closed for three months and are located in the following cities, among others:

Youngstown, Ohio.	Muncie, Ind.
Birmingham, Ala.	Franklin, Ind.
Warren, Ohio.	Marion, Ind.
Pomeroy, Ohio.	Moline, Ill.
Girard, Ohio.	New Albany, Ind.
Ironton, Ohio.	Minneapolis.
East Chicago, Ind.	Covington, Ky.
Greenville, Ohio.	Brazil, Ind.
Terre Haute, Ind.	Alexandria, Ind.
Springfield, Ill.

NOW FOR THE FOOT-BALL SEASON.

WATCH IT GO UP.

Industrial Items.

In ten months of 1899 Bremen imported 1,045,635 bales of American cotton.

England received $525,242 worth of boots and shoes from this country last year.

Germany's pig iron output increased from 1,988,000 tons in 1872 to 7,215,000 in 1899.

In thirty years imports of crude rubber into the United States have increased 431 per cent.

Switzerland imported 5,027 bicycles in 1898, and the American wheels had the largest sale.

Bordeaux buys about 40,000,000 barrel staves a year, all but 2,000,000 of which come from Austria.

NO SIGHS FOR THE DEAD.

Survivors of Galveston Disaster Too Much Stunned for Grief.

Nowhere save in the presence of some dread calamity is a field offered to study man as he really is, without pretense or subterfuge. Such is the consensus of opinion among those who rushed to Galveston when the news of the disaster first startled the world and who have since remained in the charnel island amid the scenes of bitterness and grief, the ever-present odor of burning human flesh and the thousand and one terrors that were added to the grewsome situation as each succeeding day passed.

As soon as the danger from wind and water was over at Galveston and it became apparent that the thousands of dead were elements of greater danger than even the sweeping waves of the gulf, the festering and distorted masses of flesh that filled the streets and yards and floated about the bay were no longer regarded as the sacred dead, but as threatening monsters that bespoke the approach of pestilence of all kinds—perhaps the deadly and dreaded yellow fever. With the energy that only the spirit of self-preservation could awaken the survivors fell upon the forms that threatened their annihilation and dragged them from their resting place to where they could most readily be disposed of. After a battle no matter how desperate or how heavy the loss there is always time to dig a trench as the last resting place of those who fell. Manifold as are the terrors of such a situation there is usually a chaplain to pronounce a few words over the grave. But in Galveston there was no time for prayers or hymns. The clergymen of the city were too busy themselves hewing away at the mountains of wreckage and dragging forth bodies for the dead scow or the funeral pyre to conduct religious services, for the living were at the mercy of the dead and the preachers devoted their energy to helping the living.

Humanity may recoil at the thought of piling up corpses like so much cordwood and applying the torch to the oil-soaked mass, and sentiment may rebel at the idea of dragging the unidentified dead to sea to be consigned to the element that brought about their destruction, but there was no such sentiment to be found in Galveston. It was the living arrayed against the dead—one or the other was doomed to annihilation.

At first the leading citizens mingled with the more humble and the colored population, but as the situation improved the work fell to the poorest and most ignorant classes, while the more intelligent assumed the direction of affairs. Many are the stories that are told of fathers tearing away debris only to find their own children buried beneath, crushed almost beyond recognition. Sightseers from the mainland managed to evade the guards and their appearance was the sign for them to be pressed into service at the revolver point. Then the residents of Galveston who for any reason sought to escape their full share of the ghastly work were forced by the same means and the use of weapons as a convincing argument grew apace.

ROOSEVELT IN A MAD RUSH.

At Victor, Colo., He Is Made the Victim of a Riotous Crowd.

Probably because he was the most prominent person in the party, Gov. Theodore Roosevelt of New York was the central point of attack by a mob of irresponsible ruffians, who started a riot, just after the Governor had finished addressing a meeting in Armory Hall in Victor, Colo.

The trouble began with the arrival of the train carrying Gov. Roosevelt and his party, in which were Senator Wolcott, Sherman Bell, John Proctor Clark and several of his old Rough Riders. A trifling incident started the row. A drunken woman near the station when the train halted waved a banner and cried out cheers for Bryan. Gov. Roosevelt paid no attention, nor was it resented by any of his party. But some one tore the banner from the woman's hands, arousing the anger of her husband, a big Hungarian miner. He marched up and down the street, shouting and daring everybody to a fight.

Meantime Gov. Roosevelt had proceeded to Armory Hall. The meeting there was not interrupted, although many persons forced their way in. As Mr. Roosevelt left the hall a mob of 150 men, most of them inflamed by drink, faced him. Some boys in the crowd began throwing missiles. A man tried to prod members of the party with a pole, on which was fastened a banner. Gov. Roosevelt shouted to his supporters to preserve law and order. Eggs and lemons were thrown. Democrats of Victor and Cripple Creek deplore the incident. No one in Gov. Roosevelt's immediate party was injured.

CHURCH AND CLERGY.

The Rev. D. C. Greene, a missionary in Japan, says that the religious drift in Japan is toward pantheism.

The Bishop of Barcelona will soon publish a pastoral letter expressing his strong disapproval of bull fights.

Ira D. Sankey has been making a revival tour of Ireland, and receptions in his honor have been frequent throughout the island.

The Open Air Workers' Association of America has made a success with an organized effort for open air services in New York this summer.

There is to be a great Roman Catholic pilgrimage from England to Rome in October, headed by Cardinal Vaughan and the Duke of Norfolk.

The surpliced choir is making its way in England into Unitarian churches. It is to be seen in a new church in Liverpool and in several other places. The congregations are somewhat terrified by the sight.

The Church of the Epiphany, for years a landmark of Philadelphia, located at Chestnut and Fifteenth streets, is to be torn down. The growth of the city has driven many of the old members of the church to other and more desirable sections of the city, while the value of the property for business purposes has increased from year to year. The property has been sold to a syndicate for $1,000,000, and the church will be replaced by a modern business block. John Wanamaker represented the church corporation in the deal, and Anthony M. Kane acted for the syndicate.

Dr. John H. W. Chestnut of Philadelphia, who died at Dutch Harbor, Alaska, while temporarily residing there, bequeathed $3,000 to the Presbyterian Home for Widows and Single Women in Philadelphia for a memorial room to his parents.

The question as to whether women should wear hats in church came up for discussion among the trustees of a church in Lexington, Mo., and one ingenious man suggested that the matter might be adjusted by compelling the women to all sit together on one side of the auditorium, and thus "permit them to view the preacher through a jungle of ribbons, feathers and gewgaws."

RECORD OF THE WEEK

INDIANA INCIDENTS TERSELY TOLD.

Fruit Jar Factories Again in Operation—School Mistress Wants Damages for Breach of Promise—Burial Followed by Marriage—Hurt in Drama.

A conference at Muncie between fruit jar manufacturers and President Hayes of the Green Bottle-Blowers' Association resulted in the wage scale being settled, and fruit jar plants started on the same conditions as prevailed last year. This practically means the settlement of the flint glass scale, as to which a conference will be called at once. Fruit jar manufacturers, although having large stocks on hand, will start their factories at once. This affects thousands of workmen in Indiana, who are jubilant at the settlement.

Legislator Sued for $15,000.

Representative Leonidas H. Mull of Rushville, a prominent member of the last Legislature, was made a defendant in a sensational suit for $15,000 damages filed by Miss Floe Farlow, a prepossessing young school mistress living at Milroy. Miss Farlow says she has kept company with Mull for about three years. She alleges that she and the defendant on Sept. 1, 1900, signed a contract to marry within one year from date, but he refused to marry her. Mr. Mull is one of the wealthiest men in the county.

Mourners at a Wedding.

John McIntyre, son of J. P. McIntyre, who was found dead in his bed at his home near Michigan City, and Miss Lena Glick were married at Laporte. A peculiar feature of the marriage was that the bridal party which accompanied the happy couple back to their home near Michigan City formed, only an hour before, the mourners at the funeral of the groom's father. The minister who married the young couple had preached the funeral sermon over the remains of the father.

Injured by Stage Dagger.

Miss Florence Gear, a member of the Devonde stock company, was painfully cut in the hand by a dagger during a scene of "The Devil's Advocate" at the theater in Marion. Miss Alma Aiken, in the role of an Indian girl, attempts to strike Miss Gear, who is supposed to wrench the dagger from the Indian girl. In the struggle the dagger was driven through Miss Gear's hand.

Within Our Borders.

Crawfordsville match factory in operation.

Aloys Jergens, Michigan City, has a cat with two perfect heads.

Rudolph Hoberg, a wealthy farmer near Batesville, hanged himself.

Otis C. Newby, Greensboro, was killed in battle in the Philippines.

George and William Andrews, Osgood, soldiers stationed at Galveston, were drowned in the storm.

John Lightley, 15, Jacksonburg, while cutting corn, severed an artery in his leg and bled to death before physicians could reach him.

Judge Leffler, Muncie, sustains the weekly wage pay law, in the suits instituted by the State factory inspector against the Republic Iron Company.

Prof. James Hagerty, formerly of the public schools of La Porte, has accepted a call to fill the chair of political economy in Pennsylvania University at Philadelphia.

At a Democratic pole raising at Card Springs, Clarence Hay of Austin was killed and Thomas Weisman perhaps fatally injured. A rope broke, allowing the pole to fall.

Deputy Fish Commissioner Oscar Welty, Kokomo, has resigned. During his two years' service he caused more convictions than all other deputies in that part of the State combined.

The 2-year-old son of Albert Kuhn, Warrington, was killed while playing in a baby jumper. A spring broke and part of the apparatus fell, striking the baby on the head, crushing the skull.

Judge Morris decides that the Rushville ordinance confining the sale of intoxicating liquors to the business portion of the city is not legal, because it is too indefinite as to what is the business portion.

Pod Barnes, who attempted to shoot Chief of Police Bert White at Marion when the officer arrested him last June, was found guilty of attempt to murder and given fourteen years in the penitentiary.

Charles Dunbar, New Albany, who eloped with Mrs. Nora Bradley, is insane. Mrs. Bradley's husband also has lost his mind. Dunbar's mania is to buy all the daily papers and throw them away without reading them.

At Rockville the municipal light plant and Fickel & Graham's lumber yard burned from an unknown cause. Loss $20,000, with $2,500 insurance. A new light plant is almost finished and will be ready for use in thirty days.

Oscar Diltz, formerly of Chicago, and George Porter, his clerk, were badly burned in the former's store in Muncie. Two attempts to burn it caused the men to sleep there. They awoke to find the store in flames, oil having been poured over the floor. The telephone connection was cut to prevent calling assistance.

Mrs. S. R. Hicson of Muncie seized her 3-year-old child, supposed to be dead, and rushed about the room in a frenzy, insisting the child must live and refusing to have it prepared for burial. In a few minutes she exclaimed that it was alive, which was found to be true. A physician says the child was probably resuscitated from a comatose state by the mother's frantic action.

Mulberry is now without a saloon. The only license in the town expired recently, and on account of a remonstrance the board would not renew it.

Frank C. Lory, Petersburg, just returned from the Klondike, brought back $42,000 as the result of his summer's work. His 4-year-old daughter accompanied him.

Rev. E. R. Vest of the Methodist Church at Seymour is said to be the busiest preacher in Indiana. During the past year he has preached 107 sermons, joined 22 couples, attended 27 funerals and baptized 200 people.

The James Long packing house, Muncie's oldest industry, burned. The building had stood for more than fifty years.

William Harris, Henry County, was bitten on the hand by a horse. The Bundy madstone, New Castle, hung to the wound twenty-two hours.

W. B. Silvers, Marion, is one of the 1,200 heirs to the estate of Lord Townley, which is valued at $400,000,000. The real estate is in the United States, England and Germany.

John Underwood, 9, Elwood, while playing with a rifle, fired at the side of the house. The bullet passed through a partition and struck the 8-year-old daughter of Ernest Montgomery.

THE POWER OF LOVE.

As far as are the heavens from the earth
  In your own world from mine;
The world which you adorn by right of birth,
By right of beauty, womanhood and worth,
  In which your talents shine;
Wherein you nobly won what you've acquired,
  And now, as ne'er before,
Are loved by young and old, sought for, admired,
  Welcomed at every door.

And yet you tell me that you did not know
  The love that fills my heart—
The love for you I ever strive to show
From my own puny world so far below—
  From yours so far apart;
That were it not for this you could not be
  To others what you are;
That you are so from what you are to me;
  From my true love and care.

Such is the power of love, that like the rays
  Of summer's golden sun
Illumines our two worlds through all the days,
And though our lives may follow parted ways,
  Still keeps our hearts as one.
One heart in duty, sacrifice and love,
  One heart in truth and right,
Till in the happiness that lies above
  Our two worlds shall unite.
—Boston Transcript.

STYLISH GOWNS FOR FASHION'S LEADERS.

Country-house toilet of gray etamine. The skirt is made with plaits of various widths, the material being cut away to form open work embroidery between the plaits.

Walking dress in covert coating. Close-fitting skirt flowing out from plaits at the hem and trimmed with three bands of fancy silk stitched with white.

Saved by Her Voice.

IT was springtime and noonday in England, and the soft breath of the year seemed laden with fragrant promises of bloom and color, while over the woods was stealing a fairylike mantle of green.

On such a day, and in such a scene as this, Evangeline Rohan felt as though the world should hold nothing of strife or pain or ugliness; indeed, the particular world in which she moved and breathed and had her being held little but the surface knowledge that such things existed, for fate had favored Evangeline, and not content with bestowing on her beauty of person and mind, had dowered her with the great gift of song in its divine perfection.

Now she sauntered down the winding pathway that led from her castle terrace to a copse beneath.

A man followed her with hesitating steps, as though he feared a repulse if he presented himself too suddenly, took courage to approach when the trees veiled them from the castle windows, and, though she made him welcome by neither word nor sign, walked at her side until the whim seized her to seat herself on a bank and search for the desultory flowers that were beginning to peep here and there.

It was at this moment that a visitor who had driven up to the castle in a dogcart descended and asked for Mlle. Rohan.

"I am afraid she is unable to see anyone this morning," said the butler; "she is resting for to-night.

Dr. Harrowden knit his brows in perplexity. He remembered that the singer had generously offered to throw open her castle to the public on that night and to give the first entertainment in her new theater for the benefit of a fund for wounded soldiers.

All the country were clamoring for tickets. Fabulous prices had been paid even for standing room, and report said the diva, having spared no pains nor expense to make the occasion a success, was about to eclipse herself in a new part, specially written and composed for her, in an operatic adaptation of "Othello."

"The matter is a very urgent one," said Dr. Harrowden, after a pause. "I have a request to make of Mlle. Rohan that can only be made personally. If you will risk her displeasure and allow me to make my way to her I will take all the blame. I may say it is a question almost of life and death."

The man, who knew Dr. Harrowden as one whose reputation, even in a village practice, gave weight to his words, yielded, and, telling him that mademoiselle had taken the path toward the copse, led him through the conservatory and directed him to the shortest way.

He came so suddenly upon the little clearing where Evangeline was that neither she nor her companion perceived him. She was standing up, a singular look on her beautiful face, which was bereft of its usual color, and both her hands were outstretched before her as though to ward off something that she dreaded, and that yet fascinated her.

His face, a dark-eyed, brown-skinned one, with something in its southern intensity that marred its handsomeness, must have worn a threatening expression, for she recoiled with a little cry of alarm, and, turning, saw Dr. Harrowden as he stepped toward her.

"Ah, doctor!" she said, a little shaken still, but smiling, "it is a long time since I have seen you, which speaks well for my health, though not for my hospitality. But you are coming to-night, I hope?"

"You have asked me to the castle most kindly," he answered quietly, "but I am a busy man, as you know, mademoiselle, and have to deny myself many pleasures. I have ventured to intrude on you, for which you must please lay the blame solely on me, because I have a little patient down there in the village whose recovery seems to depend entirely on you."

"On me!"

"My patient is a little child who has been at death's door through fever, and whose one desire, night and day, has been to hear you sing. We thought it a delirious fancy that would pass, but it seems that, had she been well, she was to have come up to the castle one day when you sang to the villagers, and that she lost her chance through this illness. She raves and weeps alternately and will not sleep, begging always to be taken to you so that she might ask you to sing one little song to her."

"Where is she? Take me to her, doctor, and I will sing to her at once."

Half an hour later, with all her soul in her exquisite voice, she was standing in the cottage singing a song of life and love to the bewildered villagers, while the sick child, propped up by pillows to hear the desire of her heart, cried out that it was an angel who had come in answer to her prayers.

It was midnight, twelve hours since Eva had charmed away the shadow of death from the village home, and she was holding a great assembly hushed and spellbound, while her voice, no longer softened and subdued, rang with all its glorious power through the large opera hall which she had lately added to her castle.

It was the moment of her crowning triumph, the moment when Desdemona, realizing to the full her danger, and the inflexible purpose of Othello, transformed by jealousy into a murderer, ceased to plead for her life, and instead, proudly and passionately declared her innocence.

Count Devas, the Italian singer, who had already won universal applause for his wonderful rendering of Othello, faced her, the madness of rage that was consuming him portrayed vividly in every feature of his face, in every movement of his tense, nervous fingers.

There was silence, intense, dead silence for an instant as Eva's last note died away and then, as she covered her eyes with her hands, the Count, with one swift step, was at her side, pressing with ruthless hands the cushion on her upturned face, and the curtain began slowly to descend on the death scene.

An electric thrill ran through the audience, the horror and despair of the tragedy before them seemed suddenly real and tangible; the scream, strangled in its birth, that came from the beautiful singer seemed an appeal to them for help; and then an amazing thing occurred.

In the excitement of the scene no one had noticed the sudden arrival in the hall of Dr. Harrowden, who, pale and breathless, stood watching the descent of the curtain, until, apparently overpowered by impulse, he ran up the hall, leaped up to the stage, and, springing across the footlights, threw himself upon the Count.

In the desperate struggle that ensued, momentary as it was, before the paralyzed onlookers rushed to separate the combatants, no one noticed that Eva herself had not moved, and lay still under the cushions.

There was the flash of a knife, an exclamation from Dr. Harrowden, and then, as he dropped, stabbed in the shoulder, a dozen hands were on the Count, and, though he fought with the limitless strength of a madman, he was overpowered at last by numbers, and carried off the stage, bound and helpless.

Dr. Harrowden, whose faintness was only temporary, had risen already, and, disregarding the help offered him, hurried to the couch and raised the cushions.

Eva lay there insensible, with the marks on her white neck where the Count's fingers had gone near to suffocating her.

Dr. Harrowden bent and laid his ear to her lips and heart.

"She is not dead," he said briefly. "Carry her to her room. I will attend to her."

Wondering exclamations broke out on all sides. What had happened? Had the Count really attempted Eva's life? How had the doctor been aware of her danger? And a thousand other questions and surmises. Later, when Eva, very weak and ill, had recovered consciousness, she told the story of the Count's strange, wild love for her, an infatuation which had seized him when they first met in the Opera House at Milan, of her inability to shake off the influence which he exercised over her, in spite of her dread and dislike of him, of his appearance at the castle when she was arranging the cast of "Othello," and imperious demand to be allowed to remain there and to play the title role.

"How can I ever thank you enough?" she said to Dr. Harrowden, when, after many days of suffering from the Count's stiletto wound, he came, at her request, to see her. "It was a miracle that you should have saved me as you did. A moment longer, and it would have been too late. How did you guess that his acting was reality?"

"The thanks are due really to yourself," he said gently. "Your kindness in singing to that poor little child was the cause of your preservation. I went to see her that evening and found her just awakened from a strange dream of you, which had left the impression on her mind that you were in danger. 'The beautiful lady with the angel voice,' she called you. She would not be comforted until I promised to go up to the castle and assure myself that no harm threatened you. Her persistence gave me a touch of anxiety, and it came to me with a sort of tuition, as I watched the Count, that he was mad. I felt sure he meant mischief. It seems almost as if the child had second sight; but these coincidences do occur sometimes."

"And still," said Eva, "it is to you I owe my life. You risked yours for mine. Oh! tell me how to thank you."

"I dare ask nothing," he said, "since I dare not ask too much."

And they were both silent.

But in their silence a hope and a promise lay. And there are some who say that the most beautiful singer of the day will exercise the prerogative that her pre-eminence gives to her, and will make a romantic marriage.—Penny Pictorial Magazine.

Swiftest Vessel Afloat.

The highest speed ever attained by a steamer has just been recorded by the Viper, a torpedo boat destroyer of 380 tons, built to the order of the British Admiralty. This swift torpedo boat destroyer is the invention of Charles A. Parsons, who had already presaged his great triumph by the then unique performance of the Turbinia some years ago. The trial was made over the measured mile off the mouth of the Tyne. In her first run the Viper covered the measured mile at the rate of 36.585 knots; in the next run her speed was only 35.503 knots. Her highest rate was 37.113 knots, or 43 miles an hour, a speed at which only express trains travel.

Glass Dissolved in Water.

Every kind of glass at a sufficiently high temperature must eventually show complete solubility in water. Under the pressure glass dissolves in water heated to 410 degrees Fahrenheit. Sea water more than 600 feet beneath the surface will remain liquid at that temperature, and if it penetrates the earth's crust where the temperature is equally high it will, apart from the pressure, liquefy the silicates or glassy rocks. Prof. Barus concludes that at a depth of about five miles silicates in contact with water are virtually fluid, and that the level of aqueous fusion in the earth is five times nearer the surface than is that of igneous fusion.

Trade of Palestine.

The exports of Palestine for the last year amounted to a value of $1,580,000, the imports being $1,950,000. The whole trade of Palestine in 1899 exceeded the trade of 1898 by a little over $385,000, and exceeded the trade of 1897 by almost $500,000.

By the "refining influence of women" in a house, is meant that a boy learns to give up his rocking chair, and learns not to repeat to the neighbors what his women folks say about them.

HEIR TO THE BELGIAN THRONE AND HIS FIANCEE.

There has been quite an epidemic of royal engagements on the continent, the latest to be announced being that of the Duchess Elizabeth of Bavaria to Prince Albert of Flanders, the heir of the King of the Belgians. Prince Albert is the second son of the Count of Flanders, the younger brother of King Leopold II. As that monarch's only son and the count's first-born died, Prince Albert is the heir to the Belgian throne. The duchess, who has been brought up in a family where simplicity of taste is hereditary, is young, charming, and not ambitious, aspiring, it is said, only to become a happy and beloved wife. As she is making quite a love match, there is every reason to believe and hope that her ambition will be gratified.

OUR BUDGET OF FUN.

HUMOROUS SAYINGS AND DOINGS HERE AND THERE.

Jokes and Jokelets that Are Supposed to Have Been Recently Born—Sayings and Doings that Are Old, Curious and Laughable—The Week's Humor.

Ned—He looks miserable, doesn't he?

Bess—Yes; what's the matter with him?

Ned—Disappointed in love.

Bess—Why, he married the girl he wanted.

Ned—I know. That's just it.—Philadelphia Press.

Forced to Express Herself.

Mr. Telemachus Smith—Della, I didn't know your parrot could swear.

Mrs. Telemachus Smith—Poor Polly. I didn't think she knew it, either, until you fed her that ice cream.—Puck.

The Serpent's Tooth.

Auntie—Whom do you love best?

Dolly—Mamma.

Auntie—Who next?

Dolly—You.

Auntie—Who next?

Dolly—Baby.

Father (from the background)—And when does daddy come in?

Dolly—About 2 o'clock in the morning!—Sketch.

A Good Scheme.

Tourist—Do those scarecrows save your crops?

Farmer—They work first-rate. You see, every tramp that comes along crosses the fields to see if th' clothes is wu'th stealin', w'ch they ain't, an' that scares th' crows away.—New York Weekly.

Presence of Mind.

Physician—Now, sir, you must make up your mind to smoke less.

Patient—Why, I never smoke at all!

Physician (affecting to be annoyed)—H'm! Don't interrupt me, sir! As I was saying, you must make up your mind to smokeless powder shells, a fowling piece and all that sort of thing. In other words, take a gunning trip.—Philadelphia Press.

Two Forms of Abuse.

"My wife contradicts me continually."

"Well, my wife acts as if my ideas weren't worth discussion."—Chicago Record.

Prosaic Reason.

"So she has gone home to her mother, has she? Don't you know, it is the saddest thing on earth to think of a trusting, fond woman awakening to find her ideals have been shattered; that she loves him no longer; that her idol has feet of clay——"

"Oh, there was nothing of that sort in it. She loves him as well as ever, but she went back to ma because she was hungry!"—Indianapolis Press.

A Poor Advertising Medium.

Languid Louie—Say, dis is a bum news pape o' yourn. I put dis ad in for a pardner wid tree million dollars four days ago, an' I ain't got a blamed answer yet.

Indignantly Resented.

"Your milk seems to be well watered," remarked the summer boarder, facetiously.

"'Tain't no seech thing," remarked the farmer landlord; "we don't use well water. We've got a hydrant."—Philadelphia Record.

Braced to Endure.

"Were you in good health while you were abroad?"

"Oh, excellent; we couldn't drop out of our personally conducted party a day, you know, without losing big money."

Not Made for Use.

"What was the cause of the latest quarrel between Mr. and Mrs. Bickers?"

"Mrs. Bickers caught her husband lying on one of her soft cushions."—Harper's Bazar.

Rattled.

"Jerry, if you were the only man at that summer resort you must have had a rattling good time."

"Yes; it rattled me to keep up with the dollars those girls made me rattle out."

A Fad of the Times.

"Isn't Griggs marrying a girl much older than himself?"

"Oh, yes, but he wants her to be company for his mother."

The Summer Girl.

He—I love you.

She (dreamily)—It seems to me I've heard that before.

His Condiment.

Mrs. Starvem—Will you have some milk and sugar in your tea?

Grinshaw—If you please, madam; just a little drop of water and a little grain of sand.—Town Topics.

Poet's Love.

Tess—Young Aster, the poet, doesn't seem so fond of Dora since he met her cousin May.

Jess—No. It's much easier to write sonnets to May; there are so many more rhymes for her name.—Philadelphia Press.

Even in the Days of Yore.

"Where is the electrician?" yelled Noah, as he groped his way toward the engine-room. Thus, even in the days of yore, was there much commotion when the arc lights went out.—Brooklyn Life.

As It Usually Happens.

"I suppose you had careful rearing, Mr. Courthey?"

"No; I didn't have any rearing at all; my parents exhausted all their disciplinary enthusiasm on my elder brother Bill."

Too Much.

He—How do I know that your love for me will last?

She—What do you expect me to give you—a written recommendation from the last I loved?

No Loss.

"The boys are eating your green apples," said one of the guests.

"That's all right," replied the honest old farmer who was taking boarders for the summer. "Let them eat all they want. It'll keep 'em away from the table for the next two or three days, and I'll charge their daddies for the apples besides."—Chicago Tribune.

Not So Funny.

"No, Harry, I am sure we could not be happy together; you know I always want my own way in everything."

"But, darling, you could go on wanting it after we were married."—Brooklyn Life.

Sufficient Reason.

Warwick—Why is it that there are no real skyscrapers in London?

Wickwire—There is no sky.—Puck.

The Reason.

Askington—Why don't you get married, old fellow? Is it because you cannot afford it?

Borrowby (frankly)—No; it is because the girl's father cannot afford it.—Puck.

At the Art Institute.

"Uncle Eben, have you ever been done in oil?"

"Wal, not in oil, but I hev in gold bricks."

His Best Shot.

Officer (to straggler)—What are you standing behind that tree for? The enemy is flying.

Straggler—Hurrah! That's just the opportunity I've been waiting for; I'm a first-class wing shot.—Richmond Despatch.

Fool for Luck.

Quizzell—My wife's the luckiest goose; found a dollar bill to-day and ten cents last week.

Frizzell—Humph! Mine finds something every day.

Quizzell—That's so? What?

Frizzell—Fault.

A Version.

We were not surprised to find among these simple pastoral people of the Far East a beautiful poetic version of the story of the fall of man.

In this it was related that when the Serpent saw Eve with her mouth full of pins, fitting herself to clothes, his heart smote him.

"Can I be of any service?" he asked.

"Well, I don't know!" faltered Eve, and blushed violently.

It was in this way, they naively said, that the garter snake had origin.—Puck.

Just One's Luck.

Cobble—I wish I could stop playing poker.

Stone—Why don't you swear off?

Cobble—I do. But every single time I swear off I begin to win.—Life.

College Life.

First College Man—You say your arrest was a case of mistaken identity?

Second College Man—Yes. The cop had on citizen's clothes and I didn't know he belonged to the police in time to get away.—Puck.

Why He Wanted to Know.

A rather amusing story is told in connection with a certain learned professor. He had been asked to deliver a lecture—which he readily consented to do—in the village schoolroom, and on the important night the place was packed with an expectant audience.

The front seats were occupied by a few of the shining lights of the neighborhood, and apparently the lecturer was addressing the select few, for he talked completely over the heads of the rest of the audience.

At length, at the expiration of a couple of hours, the professor dropped his lofty style and blandly remarked:

"And now, friends, in conclusion, allow me to say that if anyone has a question to ask I will do my best to answer him."

It was a very old villager in the back seat who slowly rose to his feet and asked the first and only question.

"Aw'd be vurry mich obleeged, measter," he remarked, "if ye'd jest tell us wot on airth it is that ye've been praiching aboot."—London Spare Moments.

EXPENSIVE ALL AROUND.

Divorce Cost $1,000,000; Wedding $1,000,000; Total $2,000,000.

It is not on record that anybody ever wanted a divorce more than did William Bateman Leeds, of Chicago and New York. At all events nobody ever paid as much for one. One million dollars was the cost of Mr. Leeds' freedom.

There is some justification for the terms that Mrs. Leeds No. 1 insisted upon. She had been deserted for five years, and that is not flattering to a wife. And if she demanded as recompense for this humiliation a yearly salary of $200,000—four times as large as that of the President of the United States—who shall say that even this monument of hard cash adjusted the balance?

They believed sixteen years ago that they loved each other. He was then a clerk in an Indiana town, his sweetheart a serious girl with every domestic accomplishment. The first clash came when Leeds dared too much, as his wife thought in money-getting, while she clung to her narrower ideals. But fortune smiled on the man's ventures, and five years ago, though still young, he was held one of the biggest steel men in the country.

His business took him to Cleveland, while his family was in Indiana. He was rich, handsome and blessed with leisure to appear in society. And so it happened that four years ago he met Mrs. Nellie May Stewart Worthington. In a month they had confessed themselves madly in love. The obstacles were, it is true, formidable. They consisted of an extra wife, an extra husband and a group of children.

Mrs. Worthington obtained a divorce. Mr. Leeds was less successful. Having no ground on which to obtain a divorce of his own he described the situation to the woman in Indiana and invited her to divorce herself. "One million dollars," she said, "is my price. You can afford it. It will not pay me for what I have suffered. But I will accept it as a partial indemnity." "Only a million?" said Leeds, coolly—and paid it. Within thirty minutes the wife had stated her case in court—desertion—and obtained her divorce. To his new bride Leeds made gifts valued at a million. There was a pearl necklace valued at $65,000. The wedding ring cost $1,000 and a diamond necklace $5,000. An ermine coat cost $10,000. Several paintings purchased in Europe cost $75,000. The trousseau cost $6,000.

MRS. LEEDS NO. 2.

Bench and Bar.

From Fenimore Cooper and other authorities we have gained the impression that the Indian is a stolid, severe individual, with no sense of the white man's humor, but one red brother showed himself quite a civilized joker the other day in the United States Court at St. Paul. He was on the stand in a hotly contested case, and Attorney D. R. Bailey, of Sioux Falls, was after him in the most approved fashion of cross-examination. Finally, after apparently frightening the Indian with the awful consequences which would follow the slightest deviation from the truth, Mr. Bailey took his most portentous tone and solemn manner and demanded:

"Now, sir, I want you to tell me the exact truth, without any shuffling or evasion. I want you to look me square in the eye and tell me how you get your living, sir?"

The Indian looked straight at Mr. Bailey, and, with the imperturbable air familiar to all acquainted with the red men, simply said: "Eat."

The court room roared, even Judge Carland smiled, and Mr. Bailey let the witness go.

End-of-Century Fight.

He—Give me back my necktie.
She—I want my shirt waist.

The Natural Limit of Pain.

A famous Belgian surgeon stated recently that he thought suffering could not pass a certain limit and that most of us had reached that limit when having a tooth drawn. "I have been forced to the conclusion," he said, "that after a certain point a sort of stupefying insensibility to pain is produced in the patient and he suffers no more; his nerves refuse to transmit any more acute sensations. Therefore, the horrifying stories of agony which have been written are purely efforts of the imagination."—Brussels Gazette.

JOLLY JOKER.

"You seem to like his attentions. Why don't you marry him?" "Because I like his attentions."—Brooklyn Life.

"My wife is helping run one of these rummage sales." "Well, don't you like it?" "Like it? Oh, yes; I lived all last week on a ham bone, and this week I suppose I shall have to subsist on lettuce."—Indianapolis Press.

Automatic grand opera: Mrs. Brown (at Mrs. Smith's tea)—Oh, dear, that dreadful Miss Smith is singing again. I wonder what started her? Tom Brown (aged 7)—I dropped a penny down her back when she wasn't looking.—Chicago Journal.

"I must confess to a great deal of egotism," said Willie Wishington. "Indeed?" responded Miss Cayenne. "Yes. I think about myself entirely too much." "Oh, that isn't egotism. That's merely the usual human tendency to worry over trifles."—Washington Star.

"Where is the American section?" asked the visitor to the Paris show. "Oh, monsieur," replied the polite attendant, "so Americanes! Zey are such great peoples—and we lofe them so much—it is all yours—effery section!"—Philadelphia North American.

Solitary Angels: Mamma—It is very naughty to tell lies, Eva. People who do so don't go to heaven. Eva—Did yo uever tell a lie, mamma? Mamma—No, dear, never. Eva—Won't you be fearful lonely in heaven, mamma, with only George Washington?—Collier's Weekly.

The mature maiden who was preparing to go down-town to have her photograph taken, surveyed herself critically once more in the mirror. "I think I prefer to do my own retouching," she said, opening another jar, and reaching for the necessary implements.—Chicago Tribune.

"Were you interested in the piano recital?" asked the musician. "Well, answered Mr. Cumrox, "it was a little slow at first; but after I caught the spirit of it and got to guessing with the others whether it was time to applaud or only a rest, it got to be quite a game."—Washington Star.

"I'll tell you how you can find out," said her big brother. "Next Tuesday is his birthday; make him a present of a box of cigars like you gave me Christmas." "But how will that prove his love?" asked the innocent maid. "If he smokes them himself he loves you; if he gives them away he doesn't."—Chicago News.

"Did you say this was a comic opera war?" asked the Filipino soldier who came into camp with a flag of truce. "That remark has been made." "Well, our general says he's willing to take you at your word. He wants to know if you can fix the show up so there will be fewer marches and more dialogue."—Washington Star.

"Dear me!" she said, "I wonder what has become of that household journal?" He didn't say a word. "There was another recipe in it that I wanted to try." He smiled, for now he was assured that he had done wisely, when he burned it. Even a good-natured man, may grow weary of having experiments tried upon him.—Chicago Post.

"Now, boys," said the teacher to the juvenile class in history, "who can tell me what Gen. Washington said to his lieutenant while crossing the Delaware amid the floating ice?" "I can," replied a youngster at the foot of the class. "Well, Tommy, what did he say?" queried the teacher. "He said, 'How'd you like to be the ice man?'" replied the incorrigible Tommy.—Trained Motherhood.

"I don't see why people growl so about the crowds of shoppers," she said; "I have had no trouble at all." "How do you manage it?" they asked. "I take my two boys with me." "And can they really help you?" "Can they really help me!" she exclaimed; "well, I should say so. One of them played right tackle on his college foot-ball team and the other is champion catch-as-catch-can wrestler of his class."—Chicago Post.

"Yes, George, you very distinctly said in your sleep, 'Is it my aute?' Now, what did you mean by that?" "Mean? Why, that's simple. I was dreaming I was a boy again, waiting for Christmas. And when another boy asked me if I didn't know who Santa Claus was, I said, questioningly, 'Is it my auntie?' The dear old lady brought me up, you know." "Oh, you darling, big-hearted boy."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"I suppose," said the woman who had sampled every kind of candy she could reach by thrusting her arm over the protective railing, and finally had bargained for five cents' worth of butterscotch, "all this is adulterated. You couldn't sell it so cheap if it wasn't." "Yes, ma'am," returned the salesman, solemnly, "it's all adulterated. That butterscotch you're getting, for instance, has mighty little butter and not a bit of Scotch."—Chicago Tribune.

She had asked the advice of the family physician. "Old Mr. Kreesus has a weak heart, hasn't he?" she inquired. "Yes," replied the doctor. "A very weak heart. He is likely to drop off after the slightest excitement." "And there is no doubt about his wealth?" "None. He is a very rich man." "The reason I inquire is that he has asked me to be his wife," said the frank young woman. "Indeed!" "Yes. I am glad I sent for you. I know now just what to do." "Yes?" "Yes," said the noble girl. "We will have a very quiet wedding followed by a large and exciting reception. Thank you so much, doctor."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The Gray Matter Test.

"What did Aunt Minerva say about the shirt-waist man?"

"She said now he had to keep his belt in the right place all the time, he'd find out he wasn't any smarter than woman."—Indianapolis Journal.

Cycling Freak.

A cycling freak is to trim a piece of brown paper to fit the lens of the lamp, and in it cut eyes, nose and mouth. The effect is startling.

If a man lives in a little town, and wants to prosper, it gives him as much worry as a wayward son.

WHEN IT'S AUTUMN

The various wants come trooping along, the needs that the season makes important. If a careful buyer, you'll want to make your purchases when selections are best. When lowest margins govern the selling you'll want to give the longest stretch to the purchasing power of the money. We give the newest ideas in reliable fall and winter merchandise. Economical buying for you, as you'll readily believe when you note our prices.

Dress Goods.

Dress Goods in all the fall novelties, we can give you at from 12½c to 25c per yard.
Serges in black, a good one, per yard ..... 25 cents
We are selling a regular 65c quality, in all colors, at ..... 50 cents

Ladies' Capes.

Capes in Cloth and Plushes from the best manufacturers. We can sell you Capes at all prices.
A good cloth Cape for ..... $2.50 and up to $10.00
We have the best Plush Cape on the market to retail at $5.00, in plain, crushed plush or fancy braided. Extra length. See us on this line, as we are strong.

Furs.

In Boas and Collarettes our line was never better. The best of styles, and prices never more reasonable.
A nice Seal Boa with tails, for $1 50
We have them in the Black Marten, Coney, Seal, Stone Marten, and Beavers. Elegant furs at from ..... $3.50 to $5.00
We also have them at prices ranging as high as $18.00

Shirt Waists.

Ladies' Shirt Waists in the Flannels and Mercerized Silks, made up in the latest styles for fall wear, from ..... $1.00 to $2.00
Our line of Silk Taffetas are beauties; pretty new shades ...
Prices ..... from $3.50 to $4.75 each

Ladies' Skirts.

Ladies' Black Underskirts in heavy black skirting, made up with two small ruffles, each $1.00
One with fluted ruffles for 1.48
Mercerized silks for 1.50
Ladies' all-wool knit Skirts, the prettiest thing on the market; we have them at all prices—from 69 cents to $1.98. Ask to see them. They are beauties.

Outings and Hosiery.

We have outings at all prices and all colors; good values at 5 cents per yard and upward.
Chinchilla Outings, per yard ..... 8 to 10 cents
Children's and Misses' Fleece-lined hose, the best black ribbed hose on the market, in all sizes ..... 10 cents per pair

Underwear.

Children's and Misses' Underwear in the fleece-lined, ranging in price from 10 to 24 cents a garment.
Union Suits, in all sizes ..... 24 cents
Ladies' fleece-lined underwear, all sizes, for 24 cents per garment or 45 cents a suit.
Gentlemen's fleece-lined underwear for 24 cents a garment or 45 cents a suit; wool-fleeced at 45c a garment; 90c a suit.
Boys' wool-fleeced underwear, 24 cents per garment or 45 cents per suit, in all sizes.

Curtain Goods.

Curtain Goods, the new swell things for fall for your dining room or bed room. Ask to see them. Only ..... 15c per yard
In Lace Curtains our line was never better. You can buy an extra large curtain for ..... 98c to $1 24 a pair

Carpets.

Our fall line is complete. An elegant ingrain all-wool at from 45 cents to 65 cents a yard. Brussels, Velvets and Axminsters at ..... 98 cents per yard
Floor Oilcloth from ..... 25c to 98c per square yard

Hardware.

Here are a few articles in Hardware:
Dippers that sold for 5c—while they last for ..... 3 cents
Dippers that sold for 10c, now ..... 5 cents
Wash Basins that sold for 10c, now ..... 5 cents
Milk Strainers that sold for 24c, now ..... 14 cents
Milk Buckets with strainer attached ..... 24 cents
Fire Shovels ..... 5 and 8 cents
Wash Boiler with metallic bottoms, No. 9 ..... 89 cents
Fruit Presses or Potato Mashers, each ..... 25 cents

Groceries.

Salmon, per can ..... 10c | Sardines, per can ..... 5 cents
XXXX Coffee, per pound ..... 11c | Lion Coffee ..... 11 cents
Pancake Flour ..... 10c | Matches, per pkg ..... 10 cents
Cheese, full cream, per pound ..... 14 cents
Prunes, per pound ..... 5 and 8 cents
Key Soap, 10 cakes for ..... 25 cents
Santa Claus soap, 7 cakes for ..... 25 cents
Bulk Starch, per pound ..... 4 cents
Good Brooms, each ..... 25 cents
Try our Bulk Coffees for ..... 14c and 18c per pound

BAZAR STORE, - - F. J. NEBELUNG, Proprietor, - - AUBURN, INDIANA.

AUBURN WEEKLY COURIER.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, postoffice as second-class matter.

THURSDAY.....OCTOBER 4, 1900.

Political Notes.

Hon. J. M. Robinson had a big meeting at Ashley last Tuesday. The hall was too small and the meeting adjourned to the street, where he spoke to the great satisfaction of all. Mr. Robinson abuses no one, but appeals to their reason and judgment.

Charles H. Bruce, the democratic nominee for joint senator for the counties of DeKalb and Steuben was born and reared on a farm near the line of DeKalb and Noble counties. After attending district school he attended college at Fort Wayne and Oberlin, Ohio. Also studied law and is a member of the Steuben county bar. During his early life he was a telegraph operator and later has been chief clerk in the machinery department of the Wabash railroad, which company he has been a member for twenty years. During this time he has resided at Butler and Ashley. He has been elected town clerk at Ashley several terms which office he holds at present.

Bob Hanna and his friends are still claiming he established all the new rural delivery routes. This absurd claim of the more absurd Hanna, is believed by some, in spite of the fact that the COURIER and many other papers have published letters from the Department saying the credit is due to Hon. James M. Robinson. And all these officials are from republican office holders.

We have before us, many of these letters.

Perry S. Heath, first assistant postmaster-general writes February 20, that he has received Mr. Robinson's request for the Angola route and sent an agent to locate it. Francis M. Dice came, located it, and has also sent a letter stating that fact.

Another letter from Mr. Heath, January 18, gives a long statement of the valuable help Mr. Robinson gave in passing laws to get more rural routes. His name is attached to all his letters.

April 27, Mr. Heath writes another letter saying to Mr. Robinson:

"I thank you very much and sincerely for yours of the 20th enclosing a speech of Hon. J. W. Stokes. I appreciate your friendliness toward free rural delivery and the splendid and unself support you have given the service."—PERRY S. HEATH.

Similar letters lie before us. One is from A. W. Machen, superintendent of free delivery. Two other letters from Mr. Dice who is special agent of the middle division. There are two more from Mr. Machen. There is also one from Geo. M. Allen and two from G. W. Beavers, both acting as first assistant postmaster-general, after Mr. Heath was made secretary of the republican national committee where he now is. All these letters—more than we have space for, compliment Mr. Robinson highly. They allude to the Kendallville route, the Fremont route, those running out of Fort Wayne from Angola, from Cromwell and Columbia City. The route from Auburn was not then established. These letters cover July, August and September, and copies can be seen at this office. No comment is needed.

The determination of McKinley republicans to defy law and constitution is the great danger we must face. The army saloon, or canteen is one instance. Congress passed a law distinctly saying no civilian should sell liquor of any sort at an army post or camp. It also said no soldier should sell these things. McKinley signed the bill. But the army canteen in the camp of every regiment went right on, and still goes on. The attorney-general decides that beer and liquor can be sold in the army canteen by civilians if the goods is owned by the government. It is a trick, by which, making drunkards of our brave soldiers, they hope to catch the votes of the brewers. Ask your neighbors how they like this.

Again they break the constitution which is our highest law. In two places as we have recently shown, the constitution says, no tariff or duty shall be collected on goods sent from one part of the United States to another. Porto Rico is a part of the United States, but a resently enacted republican party measure compels them to pay a duty on articles from the United States and we pay on those from Porto Rico. Is this a stepping stone to further breaking over the constitution? It looks dangerously like it.

CASTORIA.
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

A Surprise Party.

A number of friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Miss Cora Miller at Cedar, Ind, in her absence Sept. 22. On her return she found that seventy of her friends were there to remind her that it was her fifteenth birthday. Her parents presented to her one of the famous Forrand & Votey organs, and her friends presented to her a very valuable ring. A supper was served and the rest of the evening was spent in games and music. After a time they returned to their homes glad they were there.—ONE WHO WAS THERE.

Good Advice.

When that distressing pain seems to grab you by the back of the head and neck and your eyes seem fixed on a given point straight ahead, do not make yourself sick by taking Drastic Cathartics, but take a small dose of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It relieves the pressure on the nerve centers of the brain and aids digestion by curing constipation permanently. In 10c, 50c and $1 sizes at H. B. MrCord's.

BUTLER.

Uncle Tom's Cabin held the bords at the opera house last week to a large audience.

Jacob Showalter was very low last week with meager hopes for improvement.

Gus Wolff had a car load of nice peaches in the market last week.

Our summer visitors are generally gone.

Cos Altenberg and family left last Saturday for their Little Rock home, and Stephen McCurdy on same train for his Kansas home.

J. A. Campbell, Dr. Campbell and wife spent last Sunday with Chicago friends.

Edith Wilson remains much the same—is possibly improving slowly.

The canning factory has had a moderately successful year.

The most of the Butler boys that went to Port Huron to work for the Grand Trunk, have returned.

The old Thiel property on Green street has been purchased recently by some one from out of town, who occupies it.

George Coffrin is still confined to his bed with rheumatism.

To Stop a Cold.

After exposure or when you feel a cold coming on, take a dose of Foley's Honey and Tar. It never fails to stop a cold if taken in time. H. B. McCord.

—For the next ten days I will sell roses at the following prices; ramblers, 35 cents each; hybrid perpetuals, 25 cents each or five for $1.—I. M. JOHNSON.

WHAT HAVE YOU TO TRADE.—If you have a farm you want to trade for town property and part cash we can make a deal for you. MOODY & RICKEL.

Nervous Dyspepsia.

A Common but Readily Cured Form of Stomach Trouble.

Dr. Stone always found that among people of nervous temperment, dyspepsia is apt to produce nervous symptoms which the patient often attributes to other causes. The common nervous symptoms are: A constant restless, "fidgety" sensation, alernating with lassitude or debility, depressiod of mind or melancholy, sleeplessness or restless sleep, a tired out feeling in the morning and gradual lessening of mental force or muscular energy. The cause is very simple. The imperfect indigestion robs the nerves of proper nutrition. The nervous system becomes badly disordered and the only cure is through the restoration of s tound digestion. Most sufferers from nervous dyspepsia will be amazed at the quick benefit received from Dr. Stone's New Dyspepsia Cure. Many express themselvet as feeling made over. You cannot realize how much indigestion effects the nerves until you cure it with this remedy. It will cure; cure quickly and thouroughly. If it fails yyur money is to be refunded. Price 50 cents. Sold by H. B. McCord.

To Weekly Subscribers.

Subscribers to the Weekly COURIER who are now on Free Rural Delivery Route No. 1, can have their papers changed so as to leave this office by that route by notifying us. Also should any prefer to have the Weekly changed to the Daily, it can be done by calling here. The Daily is published in the evening and could not be delivered till next day.

Half of Happiness

depends upon the stomach. If you have no constipation, indigestion, chronic sick headache, summer complaint or any other trouble of stomach or bowels, you ought to be happy—usually are. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin rids you of these ills. It's pleasant and powerful. It doesn't cost $1 to try it, 10 doses 10 cents, at H. B. McCord's.

Big Industry Comes.

The Garrett Gas Engine Company's plant will be moved to Auburn and located at the large brick factory that was the Auburn Foundry and Machine Works. More tomorrow.

Sheriff's Sale.

By virtue of a certified copy of a Decree to me directed from the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court, in a cause wherein Timothy J. Knisely, David H. Knisely, George E. Boots, Lyston C. Harding are plaintiffs, and Ezra E. Loutzenheiser, Elizabeth Loutzenheiser, Jacob Stotz, Henry W. Ellis, Publius V. Hoffman, Daniel M. Link and John A. Campbell are defandents requiring me to make the sum of Thirty-seven hundred and thirty-six dollars, and sixty cents, with interest on said Decree and cost, I will expose at public sale to the highest bidder, on

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 27, 1900,

between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m., and 4 o'clock p. m. of said day, at the door of the Court House of DeKalb County, Indiana, the rents and profits for a term not exceeding seven years of the following real estate, to-wit:

The north one-half of the northwest quarter and the northwest quarter of the northeast quarter of section nine (9) in township thirty-five (35) north of range fourteen east, except nine (9) rods off the south side of the northwest quarter of the northeast quarter of said section in the shape of a parallelogram and except the piece, commencing at the southeast corner of said north half of the northwest quarter of said section and running nine rods north, thence west to the Hamilton and Auburn road, thence with and along said road to the quarter post and thence along said line to the place of beginning; all in said township and range in DeKalb County, Indiana, containing 112 acres.

If such rents and profits will not sell for a sufficient sum to satisfy said decree, interest and costs, I will at the same time and place, expose at public sale the fee simple of said real estate, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to discharge said decree, interest and costs.

Sale will be made without any relief whatever from valuation or appraisement laws.

JOHN H. HATHAWAY,
Sheriff of DeKalb County,

E. B. Dunten, Attorney for Plaintiff.
Auburn, Indiana, October 3, 1900.

The Choicest Patterns....

Are always to be found at the opening of the season, when the stocks are full and unbroken.

Suits and Overcoats: Our showing for fall is now at its best. Our stock is complete so now is the advantageous time to select your purchases. Talk about Overcoats, we have the new shades in gray, black-mixed or Oxfords, made and trimmed out of sight at $11, $12, $13, $15 and $18. Look at the Youths' striped worsted Suits, sizes 14 to 19 years, very nobby, at $7. Men's worsted Suits, we show the very best at $7.50, 8,75, 9.00 and 10.50. Extra fine ones, $15, 17 and 18.

A Full line of sizes of those $1.50 men's wool pants.
Stripe worsted Trousers at $3.75 to $4.75.
Knee Pant suits, sizes from 3 to 16 years, start at $1.25 per suit. Extra heavy ones $1.50 to $2.25.

The extra vest suits at $3, 4, 5, 6, 7 and 8.
For wet weather those $1.50 and $2.00 rubber-lined coats are thethings to wear.
Knee Pants, good heavy ones at 25c to $1 a pair.

HATS AND CAPS.....

WHAT A GRAND OUTLAY WE HAVE IN THESE GOODS! WE HAVE NOT time to tell you all about it. We are selling the best 50-cent Cap in Auburn and no mistake; boys' and men's in any shape. We received our Mammoth Hat Stock last week. Stiff and Soft Hats in all the new shapes. Stiff Hats at $2 and $3. A good Fedora Hat for everyday at 50c, brown or black. Good values in Hats at 98c, $1.00, $1.50 and $2.00.

Our Merchant Tailoring Department

Is full of the new creations in piece goods. Select your Suit while our large stock is unbroken. They have already begun to move. We want every man, woman and child to consider this announcement and call at our store at the first opportunity. WE ARE HERE TO SHOW GOODS AND SAVE YOU MONEY.

G. H. YESBERA

AUBURN'S LARGEST CLOTHIER.

We have them.

Also square Blankets.

A handsome line to select from, neat patterns and large size.

Plush and Fur Robes

Chase and Bishop

makes, nothing better on the market. Come and see us before buying, we'll try and do you some good.

Eberle & Freygang,

Auburn, Ind.

LIVELY MUSIC.

for the Piano is enjoyable. It chases the blues so far that they will not speedily return. Our sheet music is popular and pleasing; all the go, in fact

PIANOS, ORGANS, VIOLINS,

and other musical insrruments from the finest makers, at prices about one-third off the usual. Make home heavenly with our music. It costs but little.

FOR SALE BY

F. V. CUTLER,

AUBURN, INDIANA.

Also up-to-date Funeral Directors and Embalmers.

"It's the Sign of a Well Made Suit."

"It" Means Good Honest Clothes that Fit."

"Do You See That Label?"

"It's too small to read" did you say? Look at it again very closely and you'll recognize the name of that well-known firm,

The International Tailoring Co.
Chicago

who make a specialty of pleasing every customer. They make only first-class clothes that fit and give satisfaction. The prices are surprisingly low. Look at their line of five hundred nice new Fall and Winter fabrics on exhibition with their resident dealers,

J. Y. W. McCLELLAN.

Auburn, Ind.

WHY COUGH

Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup cures Cough or Cold at once. Conquers Croup, Whooping-Cough and Measle-Cough without fail. All mothers praise it. Doctors prescribe it for Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Grippe, Pneumonia and Consumption. Quick, sure results. Price, 25 cents. Refuse the dealer's substitute.

Dr. Bull's COUGH SYRUP

Always cures when others fail.
Dr. Bull's Pills cure Constipation. 30 pills 10c.

From an Old Soldier.

KNOX, Ind., Jan. 14, 1899.

Gents:—I have every confidence in recommending your Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. I am 72 years of age and am broken down, the trouble having been brought on by my experience in the war. Your medicine has done me more good than a hundred doctors and I am just about well of my stomach troubles.

Yours truly, JEFFERSON WILHELM.
For sale by H. B. McCord.

Quo Vadis.

This superb play and grandest scenic production will be presented here at Henry's opera house, Friday October 12 in its entirety, with all the effects that characterized the Chicago performance, where this remarkable drama broke all records for attendance and receipts at McVicker's theater.

DON'T BE FOOLED!
Take the genuine, original
ROCKY MOUNTAIN TEA
Made only by Madison Medicine Co., Madison, Wis. It keeps you well. Our trade mark cut on each package. Price, 35 cents. Never sold in bulk. Accept no substitute. Ask your druggist.

—Subscribe for the COURIER.

Stylish Clothes

You've heard a great deal about the fit and fashion of Hart, Schaffner & Marx clothes. Come in and try on some of the new styles, see how becoming they are, how elegantly tailored and finished.

They fit, keep their shape, wear longer than other clothes and you will find we have prices to suit every purse.

H.S.&M.

Suits, overcoats, trousers, of the latest design and of guaranteed quality, for less than inferior goods cost elsewhere.

Copyright 1900 by Hart, Schaffner & Marx

A young man said to a member of our firm last Saturday: "I always like to bur my clothing of you people." Why? "Because I can rely on what I am told here."

This is but one in hundreds making similar statements during the year. Now we consider this kind of a reputation the best possible advertisement. It's not buying an article for the least money you are after; its buying the best article for the lowest price. What you want is value received. When you buy clothing from us (or anything else for that matter) you know positively that is just what you are getting. We haven't a garment in our stock that is not absolutely guaranteed in every respect. Not only quality, make and style, but price as well. When you couple these facts with the knowledge that we have by far the largest stock in the county, you can come to but one conclusion, and that is, such a store is an ideal store in which to trade.

We are selling stacks of Dress Goods, Ladies' Waists, Suits, Jackets, Furs, Outings, Shirtings, Muslins, Prints and Carpets and Curtains.

We have immense lines of these goods to show you, and invite you to see us often; we are saving you money.

Schaab&Bro.

Stoves

We invite you to call and examine our line of COOK and HEATING STOVES. We are again sole agents for the celebrated Wilson Heating Machines, the greatest fuel savers and fire holders on the marke.

STOVES

Don't be deceived by buying something just as good; be sure you get the Wilson Air Tight.

CULBERTSON & BOLAND.

We sell the celebrated Sherwin-Williams Family Paint.

Stoves

Do you want Shoes that will wear?

How would you like a shoe that you could wear eight or nine months, or a year, every day for general work on the farm or anywhere where a shoe of great strength or durability was required. A shoe you could put on in the morning, go out in the wet grass four or five hours and come in with

DRY SOX

You would like it, now, wouldn't you? Say! we have that same kind; they are called "Black Diamond Shoes." They cost you $2.25 and $2.50 a pair. They will out wear any two pair of $1.50 shoes ever made. (That is 50 or 75 cents saved.) They will be easier on your feet.

You wear one pair, you will never buy a pair of cheap shoes as long as you live.—FACT. Try them next pair you buy. We are the only people in Auburn that sell them.

BISHOP & BEIDLER,
Your Shoemakers.

—See, young maiden, that thou taketh the genuine Rocky Mountain Tea, made by the Madison Medicine Co., if thou likest thy fair face. 35c.

—A new remedy for biliousness is now on sale at H. B. McCord's drug store. It is called Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. It gives quick relief and will prevent the attack if given as soon as the first indications of the disease appears. Price, 25 cents per box. Samples free.

—The editor of the Fordville, Ky., Miscellaneous, writes as a postscript to a business letter: "I was cured of kidney trouble by taking Foley's Kidney Cure." Take nothing else. H. B. McCord.

—It is exasperating to one who knows Foley's Honey and Tar, and knows what it will do, to have a dealer recommend something else as "just the same" or "just as good" for colds, coughs, croup, la grippe, etc.

Monday's Daily.

—Fine line of cream candies at Had's.

—F. A. Hogue of LaOtto was a caller today.

—Homemade candies will soon be the go at Had's.

—Wm. Elson and wife spent Sunday in Jackson township.

—All work guaranteed by W. D. Chapman, the optician. o6

—See I. O. Hoffman for general repairs, south of Bachtel's mill. tf

—One good second hand phaeton for sale cheap.—Culbertson & Boland.

—Two good second hand grain drills for sale cheap at Culbertson & Boland's. 36tf

—Price of tea will advance 5 to 10 per cent on account of short crop in Japan.

—John Clark and family spent Sunday with Professor Sturgis and wife at Spencerville.

—Mrs. A. M. Caswell of Fremont visited her daughter, Mrs. Frank Hogue, over Sunday.

—Henry T. Myers of Butler township called today and went into the Weekly list 1901. Thanks.

—LOST.—Thursday morning, a pocketbook with a sum of money. A suitable reward will be given to finder by bringing to this office.

If you have a mortgage on your farm and can not pay it we can find a buyer for your equity. Call on us quick.
MOODY & RICKEL, Auburn.

—LOST:—At Hebel's store on Saturday evening, two $5 bills. Finder will be suitably rewarded by returning same to Hebel's store or to Mrs. Wm. C. Reed. o8

—FOR SALE:—Two good bedroom suits, and other second hand furniture, all in good condition. Call on Mrs. J. L. Davis at the residence by the Baptist church. o6

—You can dye your goods in one hour with Putnam Fadeless Dyes. All other dyes require from one to four hours. 10c per package. Sold by F. E. Davenport.

—Mrs. Zimmer, corner Main and 3rd streets, Auburn does all kinds of hair work, makes switches, etc, etc. Also dye hair. She is agent for toilet articles. Call on her. d&w —M. B. Masters is going to raise his house and put under it a new foundation of tile brick. This will be better for his house, and also enable him to have a better cellar.

—For late pears, M. B. Mastens holds the banner. He picked a bunch Saturday of seven fine ones from a small low limb and a small tree, all perfect, and in a close bunch.

—George Leigh and Salome Wastler were married Saturday at the office of Justice Walter. They will make their home for the present at the home of B. S. Kall on Joseph street.

—HUSTLING YOUNG MAN can make $60 per month and expenses. Permanent position. Experience unnecessary. Write quick for particulars. Clark & Co., Fourth & Locust sts., Phil., Pa. tf

—When you cannot sleep for coughing, it is hardly neccessary that anyone should tell you that you need a few doses of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to allay the irritation of the throat and make sleep possible. It is good. Try it. For sale by H. B. McCord.

—Don't be deceived or humbugged by people who claim the discovery of some hitherto unknown herb or root in swamps, or on some mountain or prairie for the cure of kidney or bladder troubles. Any doctor or druggist will tell you that such claims are fraudulent Foley's Kidney Cure simply contains remedies that are recognized by the most skillful physicians as best for the complaints, so don't be credulous or foolish. H. B. McCord.

Tuesday's Daily.

—Dr. Gibbs of Hamilton was here today.

—Bronson Snyder of Franklin was a caller today.

—C. J. Coats is in court and looking well which we are glad to see.

—If you want a second hand grain drill go to Culbertson & Boland. 36tf

—Rev. E. Johnson of St. Joe was at the prohibition meeting last evening

—Mrs. Worth Coats of Wilmington was a guest over night of the family of Frank Rose.

—Henry Swander of Richland was in town today, having business in the surveyor's office.

—If yor wish something delicious for breakfast, try Mrs. Austin's famous pancake flour. o6

—W. D. Chapman, the optician, is now ready for business, office over Lackey's dry good store. o6

—Dr. Nusbaum went today to Joplin, Mo. where he has mining interests He will will return Saturday.

—WANTED.—Elm Hub Timber. For dimensions and price call on the Montator Mfg. Co. of Auburn Junction. 8tw

—You will not miss it by buying a meal ticket at Had's; 21 meals $3.00, and for mostly Sunday meals $4.00.

—The Askew property north of Lutheran church for sale at a bargain. For particulars address Phil Plum, Waterloo, Ind. tf —'Squire Barker of Ashley was here yesterday and gave the old friends in the COURIER a brief talk. He says Old Smithfild is all right as usual.

—"This is too much, John, I wont stand it any longer. Tomorrow I leave for my mother's, unless you get me more Rocky Mountain Tea." Sensible woman. 35c.

—The night of Uncle Tom at the opera house some lady left a cape there and another dropped a handkerchief with a key attached. They can have those by calling on Manager Henry.

Wednesday's Daily.

—Eyes tested free by W. D. Chapman, the optician. o6

—Your wife will be happy if you take home Mrs. Austin's famous pancake flour. o6

—It's no joke but a fact that if you once try Had's salted peanuts you will want more.

—Raymond Rhodes and wife of Spencerville were here yesterday calling on friends.

—For a quick breakfast, use Mrs. Austins famous pancake flour. All grocers have it. o6

—Second hand stove for sale. Large size. In good condition. Inquire at Shull's shoe store.

—A GOOD CHANCE:—For a bright reliable boy to learn telegraphy. Call at the Postal telegraph Office. tf

—Mrs. James F. Reed and son returned to Fort Wayne today, Miss Gertie Lawhead accompanied them.

—The first real delivery on the new route started Tuesday, Oct. 2, 1900. It will be a date to be remembered.

—Cheap excursion to Chicago over Lake Shore Ry. October 20th. See bills or another column for particulars.

—Mrs Frank Kircher and her daughter were over from Garrett yesterday visiting the former's sister, Mrs. Sheriff Hathaway.

—Chicago excursion over Lake Shore October 20th. Extremely low rates. Particulars in another column, or ask agents.

—For pains, swellings and lameness there is nothing so good as Chamberlain's Pain Balm. Try it. For sale by H. B. McCord.

—Rev. Guild is in New Haven attending a meeting of ministers of this district. He will probably return home tomorrow.

—Miss Winegardner will be here next week and resume her work with her pupils in elocution. Please bear the date in mind.

—Miss Sadie Nickerson of Atkinson, Ill. is in the city, a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stamets. She will remain in Auburn a month or so.

—There will be a meeting of the Bryan and Stevenson club at their hall Friday evening at the usual hour. Good speakers will be present.

—Mrs. B. Metcalf of East Auburn entertained at dinner Sunday her son Philo, Clifton and wife and her granddaughter Miss Mary Richards.

—The choir that sang at Mr. Fluke's funeral yesterday, were Mrs. John Kruger, jr., Mrs. Simps Johnson, Mr. Bottenburg and Conrad Schomberg.

—Cures dizzy spells, tired feeling, stomach, kidney and liver troubles. Keeps you well all the year. Rocky Mountain Tea taken this month. 35c

—Mr. and Mrs. P. D. West started yesterday on a trip to Tennessee. He goes primarily for business we believe but both hope to be benefited in health.

—Parties having ordered strawberry plants of me can get them at any time, or any who desire fine plants. I have the choicest varieties.—A. G. LODEWICK.

—The date of the W. C. T. U. county convention has been changed. It will be held in the Lutheran church in Auburn on Saturday of next week, October 13.

—DO YOU WANT TO SELL YOUR PROPERTY?—We have several parties who want to buy property in Auburn. If you want to sell, call on us quick.—MOODY & RICKEL.

—Jacob Igenthron, president of the United German Societies of Illinois will address the people of Garrett from a democratic standpoint on the evening of Oct. 8, next Monday.

—"I have always used Foley's Honey and Tar cough medicine and think it the best in the world," says Charles Bender, a newsdealer of Erie, Pa. Take no substitute. H. B. McCord.

—Court is going right on but we are too much crowded today. Will try and get to it. Milo Husselman is court room bailiff and J. J. Latson is bailiff of the grand jury, which is still busy.

—When you have no appetite, do not relish your food and feel dull after eating you may know that you need a dose of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. Price 25 cents. Samples free at H. B. McCord's drug store.

—Today the Jacob Link golden wedding is held. We believe it is at the home of David Thomas, in Auburn, as Mr. Link's own home is occupied by a tenant who staid there while Mr. and Mrs. Link spent the summer in Michigan.

HANCOCK, Wis., Feb. 8, 1899.
Dr. J. H. McLean's Strenghtening Cordial and Blood Purifier will do all they claim for it. I recommend it to the public with great pleasure.
R. P. COBB.
For sale by Davenport the druggist.

—"For three days and nights I suffered untold agony from an attack of cholera morbus brought on by eating cucumbers," says M. E. Lowther, clerk of the district court, Centerville, Iowa. "I thought I should surely die, and tried a dozen different medicines but all to no purpose. I sent for a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and three doses relieved me entirely." This remedy is for sale by H. B. McCord.

—We have received from Ora Snyder at Los Angeles, a copy of the year book of the school he is attending. It is the "Harvard Military school for boys". It gets the name "Harvard" from the fact that the head master was many years in charge of a school in Boston, which prepared students for entering at Harvard. It has the reputation of being an excellent institution. One of the masters, S. C. Phipps is an Indiana man, a graduate of the state university at Bloomington.

October and cold weather are at hand, and you will want New Cloaks, Dress Goods, Blankets, Millinery, Silks and other Winter Goods. Our stocks were never more complete or prices more attractive. Thoughtful and economical people will see what a saving can be made at the BIG STORE.

NEW AUTUMN DRESS GOODS

New and beautiful Dress Goods at wonderful values. More New Dress Goods received this fall than ever before in the history of this store, and intending purchasers will find our prices lower and styles handsomer than ever.

Black Pebble Cheviot, very stylish, 52 inches wide, worth $1.35, per yard $1 00
Black and colored Homespun, 38 inches wide, good quality, 60c value 45c
Satin Berber in blue, black and cardinal, 46 inches wide, $1.25 value, per yard $1 00
Black, blue, brown and cardinal poplins, 48 inches wide, 90c value 75c
Golf Suiting, extra heavy, 56 inches wide, $1.25 value 98c
Black, Satin Soleil, the most popular weave of the season, 48 inches wide, $1.00 value 80c
Polka Dot Henriettas, most all colors, worth $1.10, per yd 95c
Nice line of plaids and figures suitable for children's school dress, quite a variety of styles double width, 15c values, per yard 12½c
Black and colored Crepons, small figures, $1.25 values, per yard $1 00
25 pieces plaid and plain dress goods, 38 inches wide, strictly all wool, 35c value, per yd 25c
French flannels in stripes and dots, per yard 70c
Rainy day Skirting plain and plaid back, extra heavy weight, per yard $1 00

HOSIERY AND UNDERWEAR

Here is a sale sure to be of interest to wide awake buyers of Hosiery and Underwear. Fully a car load of stock covering every size and almost every grade, go where you will you cannot beat our prices.

Women's heavy fleeced lined natural and Ecru colors, all sizes, a 35c garment 25c
Children's Vests and Pants, a good heavy winter garment, sizes 16 to 34, price start at per garment 8c
Full lines of Children's Fleeced Vest and Pants, all sizes, from 16 to 34, according to size. 15c & up
Children's Union Suits and Sleeping Garments. Infants' Wool Vests, etc., at LOWEST PRICES
Men's Fleeced Vests and Pants in Ecru and grey extra heavy, worth 60c, special price 48c
Men's Grey Natural Wool Vests and Pants 50c values, special price 35c
Women's extra size fleece Vest and Pants, sizes, 7, 8 and 9; a garment made for large people at a small price 50c

MULESKIN
(TRADE MARK.)

(THE RECORD BREAKER.)
HOSE FOR BOYS.

Ladies' Hygiene Fleeced Vests and Pants, 75c value, price 50c
Full lines of wool in single Vests and Pants and Combination Suits for ladies and children at ..... LOW PRICES
Ladies' Hose, seamless, fast black, fleeced worth 12½c, special price 8c
Heavy fleeced, Ladies' Hose, 15 cent values, special price 10c
Infants' black wool Hose, sizes 4½ to 5½. Special price 10c
Finer grades of Infant's and Children's Hose, all sizes at ..... 15, 20 and 25c
Ladies' Onita Union Suits, Ecru and Silver grey heavy fleeced lined garments usually sold for 75c special price 50c

MILLINERY

Our opening last week was a grand success, the department was thronged with visitors, much surprise was expressed at the wonderful difference in price and styles. There is reason for this, it pays to investigate. We are showing new designs almost every day as they appear in the Fashion Centers. Pheasants' Breasts, Amazon Plumes and Plumes made of Coque Feathers are leading ornaments.

In our medium priced trimmed hats we have everything new and chick, from ..... $2 00 to $6 00
Full lines of Infants' and Children's Caps, Hats and Bonnets, from ..... 25c up
Ready-to-wear Hats in all the new shapes. We have them Silk Draped, etc. ..... from 50c to $2 75
Street Turbans, in the new chenille effects, very stylish and pretty ..... $2 00 to $3 50

New Fall Gloves.

Here prices mean something. The prices are backed up by Gloves of the substantial kind that wear and give satisfaction.

Ladies' Kid Gloves, fine imported goods, new fall styles; come in and see the latest colorings, made with 2 clasp fastener, embroidered back; they look like $1.50 gloves and wear just as well. Special price $1 00
Ladies' Kid Gloves 2 empire clasp embroidered back, colors black, brown, pearl, dark green, etc, worth $1.00. Special price 65c
Ladies' all wool Cashimere Gloves, wide hem and silk point, 40c values. Price 25c
Men's Kid Gloves for street wear in tan and brown shades, equal in appearance to a $1.00 glove. Special price 75c
Full lines of Men's and Boys' Working and Dress Gloves from ..... 25c up

Flannels and Wash Goods.

All wool flannels, extra heavy quality in navy, scarlet, white and plaids, 35c values. Special price 25c
Skirt Patterns, size 40x84 inches, in various plaid combinations, 75c values. Our price 50c
34 in. French Flannelettes, in polka dots of loral and Persian effects, per yd 16c
Tennis and Outing Flannel, soft fleecy goods in stripes and checks, dark and light colors at ..... 5, 6, 8 and 10c
American Indigo, Mourning, Silver Grey and all Fancy Prints, worth 6 and 7c. Special price 5c
Heavy Unbleached Muslin, one yard wide, worth 7c, per yard 5c
Percale, wide, heavy goods in dark style worth 8c Special price 6c

WAISTS AND SKIRTS

Black Taffeta Silk Waists, tucked front and back cheap at $3.50. Special price $2 98
Black and Colored Taffeta Silk Waists, latest fall styles ..... $3 50, $3 75 and $4 98
Mercerized Silk Waists, all colors, tucked and braid trimmed, from ..... $1 00 up to $2 50
Ladies' Black Brilliantee, Crepon and Novelty Skirts, from ..... $2 00 to $7 00
French Flannel Waists, tucked front and back, in red, blue, black, etc., worth $2.00. Special price $1 50
French Flannel, fancy stripe, colors cardinal, navy and garnet, worth $3.50. Special price $2 98
Flannelette Waists, tucked front and back, good value at $1.35. Special price $1 00

Tailor Made Suits, Jackets, Furs, etc.

Our showing is decidedly interesting, both in variety and value. Its a facinating display of new and beautiful garments. We pride ourselves on the quality and styles. Nowhere else in this county can be found so wide a range of tasteful garments.

Ladies' Tailor Made Suits in cheviots, black, gray, castor and brown, made in various effects, handsomely stitched and finished. Jackets lined with taffeta silk, Skirts percaline lined, worth $12.00 to $15.00 Special price $10 00
Ladies' Black Kersey Suits, well made and lined, at ..... $5 00 to $18 00
Ladies' Jackets of fine black Kersey, storm collar, latest styles ..... $5 00 to $8 00
Ladies' Black Caster all wool Kersey Jackets, stitched collar, scalloped revears, silk lined ..... $10 00 to $18 00
Children's Reefer Jackets, two toned Boucle, red, blue and brown, large sailor collars, braid and applique trimmed, well lined ..... $3 75 to $7 50

Better grades of Suits, blouse effects, silk lined Jackets ..... $8 00 to $15 00
Silk Plush Capes, plain and crushed, fur trimmed 30 inches long. Mercerized and silk linings, from ..... $4 98 up to $15 00
Misses' Blue, Tan and Kersey Jackets, double breasted, tight fitting back, silk lined, ... $5 to $8 50
Fur capes and Collarettes in electric seal, stone martin, mouflon, etc., at ..... LOWEST PRICES.

Open evenings until 9 o'clock during October.

Trading Stamps Given with every purchase.

G. W. LACKEY, Auburn, Indiana.

MOTHER AND SIX CHILDREN WALKED 700 MILES.

Mrs. Elizabeth Burns, with six children, walked the 700 miles stretching between Grand Rapids, Mich., and Poplar Bluff, Mo., and holds the record for such pedestrianism. Poverty forced her to the task, as she was too proud to ask for help. Last May Mrs. Burns' husband died at Grand Rapids, and she wrote to her father at Odin, Ill., who asked her to come to him. She could not pay her fare, so she got a hand cart, packed some camp necessities into it, and started. Three children rode in the cart. When she got to Odin, however, her father, Eli Gray, had sold out and moved to Poplar Bluff, Mo. She plodded on sturdily, accepting such necessaries as the kind-hearted people along the way pressed upon her. As she reached the sparsely settled section of southeast Missouri it became harder for her to procure provisions, and she was obliged to part with her cart and some of her possessions to obtain money to get food. In this condition she reached Poplar Bluff.

Mrs. Burns does not seem to regard her long walk as unusual. She was not interfered with by any one in the long tramp, and often she and her little ones slept out with no covering but the sky. Mrs. Burns, beyond being tired and footsore, suffered no bad effects from her long walk. The woman is 36 years old. Her oldest child, a boy, is 11 years old, and the youngest 19 months.

W. R. C. HOME IN OHIO.

Country Residence Maintained for the Widows of Old Soldiers.

The only National Woman's Relief Corps' home is situated near the shores of Lake Erie, in the town of Madison, Ohio. Here sixty aged women are enjoying all the comforts of home. Among the number are eighteen octogenarians. Some are blind and infirm. Many of them are heroines who have seen the thick of battle or who have dashed through picket lines to carry important messages. A few were spies in the Civil War. Still others bandaged the wounds of the soldier boys in improvised hospitals.

The home, which is the only one of its kind in the United States, is beautifully situated, and it awakens widespread interest among American people. The average number of visitors each year is about 1,000. If the home were in a city this number might not be considered great, but when considered in connection with a country road a mile's drive from the nearest station these features are indicative of genuine concern regarding its welfare. Madison is not even a suburb of a city. It is situated forty miles east of Cleveland and about 144 miles west of Buffalo. The situation is one which affords to this happy family of old ladies the rural scenes and the country air which are soothing and healthful. Madison, too, has a bit of history. It was one of the first places on Lake Erie where vessels landed and was once the location of iron furnaces.

The main building which shelters this family is of brick and is three stories high. It is known as the Ohio cottage. This name is cut in the stone over the front entrance. The building was erected by the State of Ohio in 1881. The institution is supported by a per capita tax on each member of the Woman's Relief Corps in the United States. In the main building are numerous rooms which bear the names of the different States of the Union, and each room has been furnished by the State for which it is named. The capacity of the building is increased by two small frame buildings, one to the east and the other to the west of the brick structure.

A fine farm of ten acres is maintained in connection with the home. A herd of Jersey cows supplies milk, and a flock of 100 chickens provides eggs for the table of the home. There are fruits and vegetables in abundance. Shade trees shelter the home, and a smooth lawn affords pleasant resting places for the inmates. But while all the advantages of the country are enjoyed, all the conveniences of the city are at hand. A telephone hangs upon the wall of the main building, speaking tubes connect the different floors, gas is used for lighting, there are fire escapes and laundry chutes, and many other conveniences which were unknown when these old ladies were little girls or even young women.

The team of the horses and the surrey which the home possesses were purchased from the proceeds of a concert given at the home with that end in view. These horses, besides making daily trips to town and carrying the old ladies who care to go for a ride, work on the farm.

Up the country road a few hundred yards from the home is a country church. On Sabbath day those who wish to attend services may gather there, but those who are very old and infirm enjoy a meeting held in the Ohio cottage. On the third floor there is an audience room, and these meetings are made so interesting that it is a pleasure for every member to attend. On this floor, too, there is a library and reading-room.

The home is in charge of a board of directors, which is chosen by the National Woman's Relief Corps. The institution is directly in charge of a superintendent, Mrs. R. H. Frater, of Viroqua, Wis. Mrs. Frater has fourteen young women assisting her in the work of the home. These young women are much loved by the old ladies. A number of them are graduates of leading colleges.

NATIONAL HOME OF THE WOMAN'S RELIEF CORP.

CHICAGO'S HOME FOR CATS.

Felines to Receive the Care Many Human Beings Lack.

All the Thomas cats and Tabitha cats of Chicago that haven't back fences of their own will be accommodated by the largest in the world. She has in her kennels about forty cats of the Persian and Angora varieties, and fifty more on the Pacific, direct from the Orient, and the proceeds from the sales of these sleek-coated mousers will be devoted to the establishment of the hospital. She has also received generous donations to the institution, Mrs. C. L. Wagoner, of Sandusky, Ohio, sending a check for $50, stating in her letter that she is proud to be the first contributor to such a worthy enterprise.

MRS. NORTON.

Miss Leland Norton, president of the Chicago Cat Club, which will run an asylum in connection with a Salvation Army attachment of free milk and free meat. The institution will be called "The Chicago cat refuge."

Mrs. Norton is famous as a fancier of felines and has achieved wide distinction in this line. She has large kennels, and with the new buildings that she is erecting she will soon have Natural Shoe Polish.

Orange juice is one of the best dressings for black shoes or boots. Take a slice or quarter of an orange and rub it on the shoe or boot. Then, when dry, brush with a soft brush until the shoe shines like a looking glass. This is an English recipe. Another fruit dressing is for tan shoes, the inside of a banana skin. Rub the skin over the shoe thoroughly, wipe off carefully with a soft cloth briskly. Patent leather shoes should not be polished with blacking. These are the hardest kind of shoes to keep looking well and require constant care. They may be cleaned with a damp sponge, and immediately dried with a soft cloth, with occasionally a little vaseline or sweet oil. They must never be donned in cold weather without heating, or they will crack as soon as exposed to the cold air.—Baltimore American.

Every one hopes that Time will some day vindicate him, though Time has a bigger contract of vindication on hand now than he can ever finish.

Half a sofa is better than no bed.

COAL FROM AMERICA.

EUROPE COMES TO THIS COUNTRY FOR FUEL.

The Inadequate Supply Abroad Promotes Our Foreign Trade—Best Coal for Fighting Ships Now Comes from the United States.

Mine operators from the United States and their agents are all over the European continent in the interest of American coal and almost every day vessels loaded with the product of American mines are clearing for European ports, where they are to lay down bituminous coal at English prices. Great Britain, with an estimated coal supply for only 200 years, has been exporting 55,000,000 tons annually. The British public has been looking upon this with disfavor. An export tax upon the product is anticipated, and in the event of it the Mediterranean ports must draw upon the United States for their fuel. Already the United States has been supplying the best coal for use in naval vessels.

In Europe coal deposits cover 27,000 square miles in Russia, 9,000 in Great Britain, 3,600 in Germany, 1,800 in France, and in all the rest of Europe are only 1,400 square miles. In Great Britain, France, and Germany especially these fields have been drawn upon for hundrds of years. Every square mile of resource has been sounded. Some of the English veins are worked to a depth of 3,887 feet, with 4,000 the estimated maximum possible. Russia, of all these countries, may develop unexpected deposits. British India shows only 35,000 square miles of coal beds, and the total of all these is only 77,800 for Europe and India. As against this are the United States deposits of 194,000 square miles, with thousands of possible miles unexplored and undeveloped. To this Alaska is promising inexhaustible deposits of anthracite, which at least must replace the English coal that is now supplying the Pacific slope of the United States.

Aside from the United States in this coming world supply of fuel, only China and Japan can be looked to. These countries have deposits about as large as those of the United States, but are lacking in means of development. Their positions upon the map, too, are not favorable to the European trade.

World's Yield of Coal.

As to how the mines of the world have been drawn upon, the figures for 1898 are accurate enough for comparison. They show in long tons of 2,240 pounds:

	Tons.
Great Britain	202,042,000
United States	196,282,000
Germany	91,055,000
France	30,337,000
Belgium	21,720,000
Russia	9,229,000
Japan	5,080,000
India	4,060,000
New South Wales	3,750,000
Canada	3,380,000
Spain	1,850,000

It will be seen from this that Great Britain, with only 9,000 square miles of coal beds, already lean from long mining, is drawing more heavily on her resources than is the United States, with more than twenty times the deposits, and they scarcely sounded in comparison.

The exports of coal from the United States within the seven months ending July 31, aggregated 992,481 tons of anthracite and 3,609,274 tons of bituminous coal. The total exports showed an increase of 1,595,663 tons over the corresponding period of 1899. This increase was largely in shipments of bituminous coal. Export shipments of American coke during the seven months ending July 31, amounted to 240,253 tons, an increase of about 90,000 tons over the same period in 1899.

No Demand for Anthracite.

The United States coal which is to replace the product of England and Wales in the markets of the world is the soft coal of Pennsylvania, West Virginia, and Alabama. Anthracite coal has practically no opportunity for foreign exploitation at the present time or in the near future. It is a fuel so much different from the coal that foreign consumers have been accustomed to using that they are not at all inclined to take it up, necessitating, as it does, the use of new grates or new stoves and entirely different methods of firing. Only the several varieties of soft coal now finding a market abroad need be considered.

In Pennsylvania there is produced for the seaboard trade what is known as Clearfield coal, originating mostly on the line of the Pennsylvania railroad, but also reaching market over the Philadelphia and Reading railway. This general name includes the coal from several minor regions and is a comprehensive trade term.

Further to the westward is the Pittsburg district, closely centering about the metropolis of the western portion of the State. Some coal from the eastern portion of this district reaches tidewater by rail over the Pennsylvania, but the hopes of those who expect an export business in Pittsburg coal are based upon the fact that during certain portions of the year cheap transportation to the port of New Orleans may be by way of the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers.

In Maryland the famous Cumberland coal is produced, but this is decidedly soft, breaking into small pieces rather than crumbling, yet not in favor with foreign consumers notwithstanding its richness in fuel properties. The foreign trade demands a lumpy coal, and for that reason the Cumberland can be left out of calculations concerning export trade.

In West Virginia three important railroad lines handle the products of the Elk Garden and Fairmont regions—in which Senators Davis and Elkins are widely interested—the New River and Kanawha districts, and the Pocahontas regions. Of these sections the New River, the Fairmont, and the Elk Garden mines promise to contribute the greater share of the State's coal for export. The Pocahontas coal, however, will be in limited but strong demand for naval steaming. In Alabama the coal fields lie in the northern part of the State, near Birmingham, and the way of outlet will be through Mobile or Pensacola.

With these coals from these States, and paying even $5 a ton for ocean freights, the American shipper may have a margin of $1.56 profit at Gibraltar, $2.20 at Marseilles, and $2.68 at Naples, in addition to the profit in the home price of $2.50 a ton. Yet this freight charge is vastly greater than would hold if colliers, especially constructed, were to do the carrying.

All of the possibilities leading to this new exploiting of American coal have found source in the high rates of freight in Great Britain, the cost of mining, and in the unmistakable limitation of the coal supply. The foreign production of coal is not decreasing, of course; it is increasing steadily.

Freight Chief Factor.

With freight rates from the United States at $5 a ton, some one has figured the comparative showing that the United States product can make with that of Great Britain in continental ports. Bituminous coal, with the mines' profits already added, is worth $2.50 a ton. The freight to the Mediterranean is $5 a ton, making the cost, with only local profit to the mine, $7.50 a ton at the several ports on that sea.

Welsh coal is worth $7 a ton at Cardiff, and the freight to Gibraltar is $2.16, making it $9.16 a ton. These freights vary until this Welsh coal brings $9.70 a ton at Marseilles and $9.58 at Naples. Over this coal the American product has a margin of $1.56 a ton at Gibraltar, $2.20 at Marseilles, and $2.68 at Naples, even after the mine profit has been received on the American side.

These figures are reached, too, with the inadequate present means of transporting coal across the Atlantic. Most of the vessels now carrying coal were designed for package freight and are about as well adapted for the coal business as is a box car compared with one of the modern 100,000 pound steel coal cars. Colliers especially made for the coal trade will be indispensable to trans-atlantic business. It has been calculated that the cost of operating a 7,000-ton steamer to such an accessible port as Gibraltar, making the length of the voyage and time of unloading fifteen days, will be as follows:

Insurance, $875; interest on cost, $750; depreciation, $625; crew, $580; provisions, $168; port charges, $184; pilotage, $330; fuel, $2,025, allowing full selling price for company's coal used for steam. This, with $100 for incidentals, gives a total of $5,637, making 80.4 cents a ton the actual transportation cost on the coal. Vessel owners like to secure and count upon a return cargo, and coal men owning such a vessel would get more or less freight destined for the United States. But suppose that practically nothing could be secured and that the freight charge would be $1.50, it will be seen that American coal can be laid down in Cardiff, in the sent and center of the greatest coal industry in the world, at $4 a ton, $3 below the selling price of the Welsh coal.

Leads in Production.

As an index to what the United States may fall into in case the British coal trade may be encroached on to any great extent by American trade, the following tables are reproduced from the British official reports ending Dec. 31, 1899. They show the long tons of 2,240 pounds and show comparisons with the years 1898 and 1897. The figures are as nearly accurate as such figures can be:

	1897.	1898.	1899.
Russia	2,015,525	2,195,067	3,397,791
Sweden and Norway	3,460,974	3,612,445	4,493,586
Denmark	1,879,182	2,045,768	2,051,423
Germany	5,042,781	4,711,870	5,059,666
Holland	947,235	931,134	1,277,792
France	5,637,292	5,710,113	6,863,837
Portugal, the Azores and Maderia	683,002	741,623	755,363
Spain and Canaries	2,257,306	1,789,886	2,292,393
Italy	4,834,054	4,665,166	5,513,452
Turkey	554,355	510,683	490,688
Egypt	1,860,728	1,907,505	2,125,921
Brazil	1,046,075	1,010,109	967,778
Gibraltar	332,806	399,605	325,837
Malta	454,784	462,143	419,461
British East Indies	589,016	658,716	863,177
Other countries	5,441,808	5,211,483	6,240,349
Totals, gross tons	37,096,918	36,562,796	43,108,568
In addition, coal for steamers in foreign trade	10,455,758	11,264,204	12,226,801

Compared with these shipments are the 5,051,933 tons exported by the United States in the year ending June 30, 1899, and the 7,188,621 tons exported in the twelve months ending June 30, 1900.

Curious Cradles.

In the palm region of the Amazon River there is a tribe which cradles their infants in palm leaves. A single leaf, turned up around the edges by some native process, makes an excellent cradle, and now and then it is made to do service as a bath tub. Strong cords are formed from the fibers of another species of palm, and by these this natural cradle is swung alongside a tree, and the wind rocks the little one to sleep. Long ago the Amazonian mothers discovered that it was not wise to leave baby and cradle under a cocoa palm, for the mischievous monkey delighted to drop nuts downward with unerring precision. An older child is stationed near by to watch the baby during his siesta, and the chatter of monkeys overhead is enough to cause a speedy migration.

To Keep Cider Sweet.

Cider may be kept sweet indefinitely by bottling. Boil the cider thirty minutes, then bottle; stand the bottle in hot water (with a cloth at the bottom to prevent breaking), and boil thirty minutes longer; boil the corks also, to sterilize. Cork tightly and keep in a cool place.

If you once get into the habit of telling the truth you will find it much easier than lying.

AMERICA IS SUPPLYING EUROPE WITH COAL.

PROBLEM OF CHICAGO HOUSE-SHIFTING.

Moving a large church structure across elevated railroad tracks in Chicago.

BRYAN AS A BALL PLAYER.

He Was Considered a Good Amateur Pitcher in the Early '80s.

While moving his household goods at Denver, Colo., recently, John W. Springer, an old friend and fellow-campaigner of W. J. Bryan, unearthed a photograph depicting a phase of Bryan's life in the early '80s. Mr. Bryan was once an ardent ball player. This was in Jacksonville, Ill. The picture had been lost for ten years and its resurrection recalled to Mr. Springer's memory the existence of the Jacksonville base-ball club of the Morgan County bar. It also recalled the day when the picture was taken and the incident of Bryan's famous home run hit.

BRYAN AS A BALL PLAYER.

It was after the club had participated in a vigorously contested game, one of a series of charity games played in Jacksonville in the summer of 1884. Recalling this, Mr. Springer says:

"The score was 18 to 20 against us, for we were not in the habit of playing 1 to 0 games in those days. There were two men on bases when Bryan came to the bat. Bryan was not the sturdy-built man those days that he is now, but the way he swung his bat on the first ball pitched over the plate was a surprise to all the players and the 500 or 600 spectators who viewed the game from a point of vantage along the first and third base lines and the foul ground back of the catcher. Bryan knocked the ball clear over the center fielder's head and into another lot in the distant background. Around the bases he went, driving two other men ahead of him, and the game was won. He was looked upon as a good amateur pitcher in those days, and often after the game my swollen hands attested the speed he had. While it can hardly be said that the picture resembles Mr. Bryan as he looks to-day, it is he, however, as he appeared in a base-ball uniform along with the rest of us in 1884."

MACHINE MAN A BOGY.

New Yorker Has Invented a Giant Automaton That Walks.

Louis Perew, of Tonawanda, N. Y., has been trying for nine years to make a mechanical man. At last he has succeeded. His man stands 7 feet 5 inches high and is as strong as steel rods and wires can make it. The man wears a special suit of clothes, made to order because of its great size, and its wax face is as natural as such things ever are. When properly wound up and connected with an engine the man can walk at a great rate of speed and can pull a heavy load behind it. It is in this way that Mr. Perew proposes to make his invention useful as well as ornamental. He proposes to take the man and its wagon to New York and there start on a walking tour across the country. He claims that his man can be forced to walk at a steady rate of twenty miles an hour over ordinary country roads.

NEW AUTOMATIC MOTER.

The man's skin is composed largely of aluminum, and inside its chest a phonograph is located, so that when spoken to it can, as its creator presses the proper lever, make some sort of an answer.

Not Versed in Romance.

By way of practical joke a typewritten copy of Scott's "Ivanhoe" was recently sent the rounds of the London publishers, under the title, "When John Was England's King." It was returned in every case. The London Academy amuses itself by imagining the form taken by the letters of rejection. It thinks Messrs. Macmillan might have written somewhat like this:

"Messrs. Macmillan & Co. regret to have to return 'When John Was England's King,' but they fear that interest in historical fiction is diminishing. Their reader's report of the story is in the main favorable, but he points out that the charge of imitating 'The Forest Lovers' one of Messrs Macmillan's recent publications, might perhaps be difficult to rebut. In his opinion the author of 'When John Was England's King' would perhaps have made a better and more readable book had he studied Mr. Hewlett more carefully."

Here is another burlesque letter:

"Mr. John Murray begs to return the MS. of 'When John was England's King,' and to quote a passage from his reader's report thereon: 'I do not recommend this novel, although it is painstaking and thorough. The author would, I think, have been wiser had he chosen another name for his hero. Ivanhoe has already been used by Sir Walter Scott.'"

When as many as three members of a family are invited out to different society affairs in an evening, there is great excitement.

SERMONS OF THE WEEK

Thought.—The thinker's business is to conform his thought not to the spirit of any age, but to right reason and the facts of life.—Rev. George H. Trever, Methodist, Milwaukee, Wis.

Truth.—He will remember that a truth once established is established forever; that it does not become obsolete with the passing years.—Rev. Geo. H. Trever, Methodist, Milwaukee, Wis.

Sin.—God is for the sinner, not against him; God takes and bears the sin; God gets rid of sin, not by punishing it, but by loving and suffering it away.—Rev. D. N. Beach, Congregationalist, Denver, Col.

Selfishness.—One who lives wholly for self can not broaden out into a realization of the true spirit of upward and onward growth and development.—R. B. Gruelle, Spiritualist, Indianapolis, Ind.

Faith in God.—Mankind cherishes today, almost as generally as it did 2,000 years ago, this faith that there is a Supreme Judge who will do right.—Rev. Wm. F. Brown, Congregationalist, Rochester, N. Y.

Example.—God sets before men the example of the good, the strivings of the great, the lives of the saints, but chiefly the perfect pattern, his incarnate son.—Rev. R. T. Davidson, Baptist, Kansas City, Mo.

Prayer.—It is at the supreme moments of our life that we pray, at the moment of our highest happiness and at the moment of our deepest sorrow.—Rev. William T. Brown, Congregationalist, Rochester, N. Y.

Work with God.—If we are to co-operate with the Master we must bind our eyes upon him, and thus every man's life will harmonize and keep step with the plan of God.—Rev. J. J. Tigert, Methodist, New Orleans, La.

Good Literature.—I plead a better literature in our homes. We need not so much social sentiment as social sense. Social sentiments and social sense of heart, of mind, of soul.—Rev. Dr. Brown, Methodist, New Orleans, La.

Common Sense.—The workingmen want to listen to a preacher who preaches good common sense. There is no class of people on earth that has as little use for tomfoolery as the workingman.—Rev. R. H. Moore, Methodist, Indiapolis, Ind.

The Resurrection.—The resurrection is in harmony with the deepest principles and illuminating analogies of the world of nature. It chimes in with the profoundest instincts and desires of the human soul.—Bishop Fallows, Episcopalian, Chicago, Ill.

Punishment for Sin.—When Babylon refused to rise to the fulfillment of a divine mission God violently destroyed her resting place. China is now in the agony of beholding the destruction of her nest.—Rev. R. L. Davidson, Baptist, Kansas City, Mo.

Agnosticism.—It must acknowledge that there is a power behind all the operations of nature, and retire from the field to allow theology to enter with its all-sufficient answer, "In the beginning God created."—Rev. W. A. Hunter, D. D., Presbyterian, Denver, Col.

Mediocrity.—There is no more pernicious doctrine than the doctrine of averages. My proper concern is with my own liberty, opportunities, duties and responsibilities, and not to average them with those of my neighbor.—Rev. J. J. Tigert, Methodist, New Orleans, La.

Indifference to the Church.—The church stands silently, quietly by, exerting its influence, and still she is not recognized. She is in the midst of men, and still they see her not. Christ stood in the midst of his own, and his own received him not.—Rev. P. C. Yorke, R. C., San Francisco, Cal.

Belief in Practical Christianity.—Millions of people are convinced that a true Christian ought to follow the example of Jesus Christ, and millions are willing to listen to any teacher who has any practical suggestion to make as to how this can be done.—Rev. C. M. Coburn, Episcopalian, Denver, Colo.

Laws of Health.—A knowledge of the laws of health and of the laws of sanitation and the establishment of normal and just conditions of labor and recreation and leisure will, beyond all question, solve many another problem over which men and women in other days were accustomed to pray.—Rev. Wm. F. Brown, Congregationalist, Rochester, N. Y.

God's Will.—There must be a community of will. It is not enough to know God's will. We must do that will. With the same nature, knowledge, affection, will, and by thinking of God and communing with him we shall come into intimate knowledge of his presence and into the possession of his fellowship.—Rev. F. E. Smiley, Presbyterian, Denver, Colo.

Fearlessness.—We need to find men who are brave enough to think alone and decide whether the public voice is right or wrong, and then declare it; men who will dare in politics when the crisis comes, to defy party leaders, party machines and party slogans; men who will dare in society, when right demands, to do the unconventional and outrage polite opinion; men who will dare in religious circles to lift their necks from yokes and their faces above subservience, to do their thinking and their living, not as unto men, but humbly as unto God.—Rev. B. A. Jenkins, Independent, Indianapolis, Ind.

A Draw at the Very Worst.

Pepprey—That was a fierce fight you had with Gussie. He claims he licked you.

Cholly—Oh, the boastah! It's twue, he mumpled my cwavat dwendfully, but when it was all ovah his collah was twightfully wilted.—Philadelphia Press.

Recently a girl who had just acquired her first beau heard some one say that all the world loves a lover—and she has been jealous of the whole world ever since.

Mrs. Pinkham's Friends are everywhere.

Every woman knows some woman friend who has been helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. What does this friend say about it?

Read the letters from women being published in this paper. If you are ailing, don't try experiments. Rely on the reliable.

Mrs. Pinkham's great medicine has stood without a peer for thirty years.

Puzzled women write to Mrs. Pinkham for advice which she gives without charge. The advice is confidential and accurate. It has helped a million women. Mrs. Pinkham's address is Lynn, Mass.

Siberian Exiles.

The most conclusive evidence as to what the life of the average convict really is is furnished upon the best evidence by the convicts themselves, who certainly ought to know when and where they are well off. Not more than one-fourth of the exiles, when their time has expired, elect to return to Russia, whither they are attracted by that love and attachment to home so strong in every human breast, so particularly strong in the Slav. The fact is that they have found life in Siberia pleasanter, the road to ease, a competency, and even to wealth less rugged, less crowded with competitors; so they become colonists, and of their own free will and choice remain in Siberia, throwing their fortunes in with the destiny of the new land; and I, knowing something of the conditions of life which obtain in Russia, think they do well.—Harper's Magazine.

Lawyer as a Musician.

Only those who have enjoyed in his Surrey home the hospitality of Sir Richard Webster, the new master of the rolls, and on whom the Queen has just conferred a peerage, can really claim to know the grave, stolid, and often harassed-looking lawyer whose face has so long been familiar in the courts and in Parliament. At Winterfold he shakes all his official cares off his broad shoulders and enjoys life as heartily as when he was a Trinity undergraduate and a champion athlete. Here he spends his time in the varied delights of cricket, shooting and music. He spends many of his few spare hours with his organ, and he still can sing a song more effectively almost than any man at the bar, even including his great rival in law and song, Sir Edward Clarke.

The average cost of city houses in this country is estimated at $4,700; of country houses at $1,050.

Back-Ache?

If you have Backache you have Kidney Disease. If you neglect Backache it will develop into something worse—Bright's Disease or Diabetes. There is no use rubbing and doctoring your back. Cure the kidneys. There is only one kidney medicine but it cures Backache every time—

Dodd's Kidney Pills.

THE CLEANSING AND HEALING CURE FOR

CATARRH

is

Ely's Cream Balm

Easy and pleasant to use. Contains no injurious drug.
It is quickly absorbed.
Gives Relief at once.
It Opens and Cleanses the Nasal Passages.
Allays Inflammation.
Heals and Protects the Membrane. Restores the Senses of Taste and Smell. Large Size, 50 cents at Druggists or by mail; Trial Size, 10 cents by mail.
ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren Street, New York.

CATARRH

COLD IN HEAD

A Child Burned to Death

By its clothing catching fire, a lace curtain blown in by the lamp or gas jet, causing destruction of lives and property, are items daily seen in the newspapers. The next accident may happen to you or yours. BLAZEPROOF positively removes all danger by making every fabric absolutely non-inflammable. Used in the wash. Simple, harmless, economical. Send twenty-five cents for package. Liberal proposition to a live agent in every town.
AMERICAN BLAZEPROOF WORKS,
324 to 328 West Kinney Street, Newark, N.J.

WILL go further with the C. S. Co. than with any other reliable firm in buying useful articles, including Furniture, Beds, Mattresses, Stoves, Sewing Machines, Pianos, Organs, Watches, Bicycles, Safes, Blacksmiths' Tools, Mills, Lathes, Gasoline & Steam Engines, Plows, Scrapers, Carriages, Harness, Saddles, Wire Fencing and SCALES of all varieties. The Premium Wagon or Stock Scale, Steel Frames. Lists free. Chicago Scale Co. CHICAGO, ILL.

THE KISS AT THE DOOR.

In the days of the lance and the spur,
When the hero went forth to the fight,
Oft he carried a token from her
Whom he worshipped as lover and knight,
And when fierce surged the battle around,
And when close pressed the merciless foe,
'Twas that token that drove off despair
And gave victory's strength to his blow.

Not a hero of knighthood am I,
But a warrior in industry's strife,
Where the lance that I wield is my pen,
And the lady I serve is my wife.
Yet a token I carry each day,
Full as precious as any of yore,
And it stoutens my heart for the fray;
'Tis my love's morning kiss at the door.

For his faith will the martyr endure,
By the sunset the artist's inspir'd,
At the blast of the bugle and fire
Is the soldier to gallantry fired.
But whatever may others exalt,
For myself I shall ask nothing more
As a prompter to worthiest deeds
Than the kiss that I get at the door.
—Newark Advertiser.

Encounter With Maneaters

BY LIEUT. F. H. NEWCOMB.

When I was a boy of fifteen, my father, who was a government official, took me on a trip to Key West, and thence up the Florida Reef as far as Cape Florida. There I was left to spend a few days with the lighthouse keeper and his family, while my father went on up the coast, intending to stop for me on his return.

Dick, the eldest son of the keeper, told me so much about the hunting and fishing to be had in the vicinity that I was most eager to go out with him for a day's sport. So he promised to take me with him early the next morning to visit his turtle-net, which was stretched across a narrow channel leading up between two shoals into Biscayne Bay, about a mile from the lighthouse.

At the first dawn of day he routed me out, and after a hasty wash and a cup of hot coffee to keep off the malaria, we started, in the best of spirits. As we passed the lighthouse tower, the keeper called out to us from the top, where he had been on watch since midnight.

"Don't go near the man-eaters' hole, and be sure to get back in time for breakfast."

The man-eaters' hole, as Dick explained to me, was a large, deep basin, not far from where the turtle-net was set, in which a number of big sharks were usually lurking. It was considered dangerous to cross in their vicinity in a small boat, for they were likely to attack. Indeed, Dick and his father had several times been followed so closely by one or more of them that they had run their boat into shallow water to get rid of the annoyance. The sharks would bite savagely at the oars, or anything that might be trailing overboard. Upon one occasion a large shark had almost capsized their boat by rising up under it, and the creature was driven off only by repeated blows upon his back with the oars.

Out on the bay not a breath of air was stirring, but the water was alive with innumerable fishes of all kinds and sizes, that leaped flashing into the air, or darted to and fro in the clear depths below. Over them hovered myriads of noisy, expectant gulls, graceful man-o-war hawks and ponderous, flapping pelicans. As these birds chose their victims, they plunged one by one with unerring aim, to emerge shortly from the water with a writhing, glittering fish in each beak.

At the boat-landing we took a hurried glance into Dick's turtle-pen, with its score or more of large green turtles, awaiting an opportunity for shipment to Key West, whence they would go by steamer to New York. Then, launching Dick's small "Whitehall" boat, we jumped in and started off, each pulling a pair of short sculls. Across the main channel that leads by the cape into Biscayne Bay we rowed until our oars touched bottom on the shoal at the opposite side. Then following round the edge of it, keeping in shallow water, we soon reached the vicinity of the turtle-net.

As we drew near to it, Dick exclaimed: "What in the world is in that net? It must be an awfully big fish of some kind!"

Indeed, a large body was splashing and throwing the spray high in the air, while something that looked like the broad, flat blade of an ore was waving to and fro three or four feet above the surface. We approached with caution, until Dick saw the thing clearly. Then he said, excitedly, "It's a big sawfish, all wound up in the net! That's his saw sticking up in the air!"

Sure enough, a monster sawfish (Pristis pectinatus) had become entangled in the net, and in twisting and turning to free himself, had torn large holes by thrusting his saw and fins through it, and had wound it round his body in a large ball.

Dick said the sawfish was at least fifteen or sixteen feet in length, and we could see that his body would measure fully four feet across the widest part. His saw, on each side of which large, strong teeth were set at short distances apart, extended about four feet forward of his head.

"If we don't kill him pretty soon," said Dick, "he'll tear the net all to pieces and ruin it. But we haven't a thing in the boat to kill him with."

"Can't we pound him to death with the oars?" I inquired.

"No," replied Dick. "It is dangerous to go near him. He can strike a blow with his saw hard enough to smash through the boat anywhere; and besides, he might give us a slap with his tail. No, our best plan is to go back home and get our guns, and an axe to chop off his saw—you'll want his saw to carry home with you. We'll soon settle him."

So we quickly pulled back to the lighthouse and got our guns and the axe. Then, with a warning from the keeper to make sure that the sawfish was dead before we approached him too close, we went back to the scene. The sawfish was now resting quietly on the surface, with his back and the top of his head, including the whole length of his saw, out of water. He was held in position by the anchors fastened to the net. To Dick's satisfaction, I claimed the first shot at the sawfish. Then slipping a couple of buckshot cartridges into the No. 10 English breechloader which my father had kindly loaned me for the trip, I was ready. When within about twenty feet Dick stopped the boat, and I fired into the head of the sawfish.

For a few moments the sawfish lay quietly, and I thought he must be dead. But suddenly he began the most violent struggles, and for a short time made the water round him fairly foam, as he rolled about, lashing the surface with his fins and tail. But soon his struggles grew weaker and weaker, until finally he lay on the water motionless.

As soon as we were convinced that he was dead, we pulled the boat alongside of him, and made fast to his body with a small line. We then prepared to disentangle him from the net, the whole length of which, about seventy-five feet, was wound in an apparently inextricable snarl tightly round the body, with large rents in it through which his saw and fins protruded. From the wound in his head the blood was flowing, streaking the water with red as it was carried up the channel by the current, which was setting directly toward the man-eaters' hole. Seizing the axe, I first cut off the saw close to the head, and then laid it in the bottom of the boat. I then helped Dick to unwind the net by rolling the body over and over, and dipping the net over the head and fins where he had thrust them through it. In this manner we had recovered about twenty feet of one end of the net, when I heard a sharp, cutting sound in the water and saw it came from the gaff-topsail-like fin of a huge shark which was rapidly cleaving the surface close to us.

"A man-eater!" shouted Dick. "We'll have to get away from here right off, before he attacks the sawfish. The smell of the blood has brought him. Look, there's another one of the brutes!"

The two sharks slowly circled about us, as if uncertain whether to attack the boat or the sawfish.

"Throw the net overboard and cast off the line. They are going to eat the sawfish and us, too, if we don't hurry."

Dick was trembling all over, and seemingly unable to control his movements. Fortunately for both of us, I had not as yet realized the danger of our position, but remained perfectly cool anod collected. Hastily bundling the net over the side, I grabbed the axe and cut the line attaching the boat to the sawfish.

At that instant one of the sharks made a rush, and cleaving the water like lightning, ran his nose up over the back of the sawfish and fastened his jaws into the flesh. Tugging at it with all his might, like a huge bulldog, he tore a large piece out and gulped it down at one swallow. At this I experienced for the first time a realizing sense of the power and fierceness of the mosters.

"Get out your oars and help me pull up on the shoal where they can't get at us!" I shrieked to Dick.

There now appeared to be five or six of the maneaters round us, and they were gradually closing in on us, as if emboldened by numbers. Again there was a fierce rush at the sawfish; this time by two of the sharks, which fastened upon the carcass at the same instant and pulled in opposite directions. We sat as if spellbound, witnessing the horrible struggle without making an effort to escape, until suddenly there was a grating sound under the keel, and our boat was lifted bodily several inches out of the water. If Dick had not promptly fallen down in the bottom, we should in all probbility have been capsized.

One of the sharks had darted under the boat from the opposite side to attack the sawfish, and as he rose had struck the keel with his back.

An oar which I had put over the side and was holding on to mechanically, was torn from my grasp and snapped in two by one of the monsters.

At this I became enraged, and picking up my gun fired the remaining charge of buckshot into the exposed back of the nearest shark. It was another most successful shot. The charge evidently penetrated to the backbone, as the shark instantly became paralyzed and began to sink, slowly turning over and exposing his white belly to view.

He was almost immediately attacked by his companions, and in a few moments the sharks, living and dead, and the sawfish, or what remained of it, were all mixed up together in a whirling, tumultuous mass.

The water above them, as the horrible feast progressed, bubbled and boiled like a huge caldron, rocking our boat, and combining with the current to drive us farther away from our enemies.

"Now is our time, Dick!" I said, and we quietly took up an oar apiece and softly paddled up to where the water was only eight or ten inches deep. There we were safe from the attacks of the maneaters.

The reaction now set in, and I broke down completely. Burying my face in my hands, for I could no longer look on the horrible scene, I begged Dick to pull back to the lighthouse as fast as possible. I had been through a terrible experience, and the strain for the moment was too much for me. But by the time we reached the lighthouse I had somewhat recovered from my excitement and nervous exhaustion, and long before nightfall had completed arrangements with Dick to take a stroll up the beach in search of turtles' eggs.

Dick always insisted that my prompt action in throwing the net overboard and cutting the line made fast to the sawfish had saved our lives, and I became quite a hero with the keeper and his family in consequence. We afterward captured an immense man-eater, and I have his jaws and backbone, as well as the sawfish's snout, in my natural history collection at home.—Youth's Companion.

HUNTING THE CHINCHILLA.

Dynamite Used in the Capture of the Little Fur Bearing Rodent.

Killing chinchilla with the aid of dynamite is one of the lucrative pastimes of the South African Indians which enriches the commerce of the world very considerably. This season more than ever before chinchilla has been the fashionable fur used in the manufacture of cloaks, muffs and for the trimming of costly hats.

High in the mountains the nimble-footed chinchilla are caught and killed by half-savage Indians. Tact and skill are needed to allure the cautious little animal from its hole in the earth. Originally the Indians used to use cactus prongs, which are long and sharp, to capture them in their holes by impaling them on the end of this natural formed spear. This punctured the skin and impaired its value. The trappers tried to smoke the chinchilla out by making great fires near the entrance of the burrows, but the smoke, it was found, caused the skin to turn yellow, which seriously depreciated its value. Now the more progressive Indians use dynamite.

After locating the chinchilla they form a network of grass and hardy plants, which is placed around the hill on which the animal digs its holes. A dynamite cartridge, with a time fuse attached, is then discharged in the center of the net, which frightens the chinchilla so that they leave their holes and scamper inside the net. The Indians then dash into the arena with clubs and kill them by striking them over the head. This is considered the easiest and best method of killing them, as it does not in any way damage the skins, which vary in value from $3 to $15 each. When it is considered that as many as 100 animals are killed in one sortie of this character the value of the skins to the Indians, who are shrewd commercial traders, may be imagined.

Some of the tribes own ferrets, which they use to good advantage. They pay as much as $5 for one. The ferrets are taken to the mountain tops and sent through the furrows, chasing the chinchilla out into the open, where they are clubbed to death with celerity by the waiting Indians. The skins are removed immediately and placed on shrubs to dry. The evening meal of the trappers often consists of the bodies of the slain rodents, the meat of which is white and tender. The hearts of the latter are given to the ferrets as a requital for their work.

A great part of the trapping is done at night, the chinchilla seldom being visible in the day time. The nights are cool and clear, and there being but little vegetation at the height where the chinchilla are caught, the mountains are for a long period each month illuminated by the rays of the moon, enabling the Indians to move about with great agility for their prey. The chinchilla lives principally on herbs, and often when they come out to feed are trapped by the Indians.

Four times a year the tribes descend into the semi-civilized village at the base of the mountains with their skins. There they are met by the agents of the various European fur houses. One American house has its representative there, too. The occasion of the Indians' arrival is usually made a religious festival.

George Herzig, the only American agent there, says he paid one tribe of thirty Indians for the firm by whom he was employed as much as $80,000—in native money, which is equivalent to $30,000 in American money—last year for skins. This the Indians converted principally into mule and llama stocks, by which they estimate their wealth. — Chicago Times-Herald.

Cork Leg Illistory.

"The term 'cork leg' is a misnomer," said a man who used to be in the artificial limb business. "There never was any such thing, and a leg actually made of cork would be as unwieldy as a saw-log. The up to date artificial limb is a very thin shell of weeping willow covered with rawhide, and some of them that come clear up to the hip have been built as light as three pounds. It is a singular fact that a first class leg, which is supposed to have a life of about five years, will be more than paid for in the saving of shoes. Of course the false foot wears a shoe just the same as the real one, but for some reason that has never been fully explained it isn't as hard on leather. A flesh and blood leg will wear out four shoes while its mechanical mate is wearing out one, due perhaps to the footgear never being removed at night and the lack of elasticity in the tread.

The best customer of the makers is the Government, which pays for a new artificial limb once every five year for pensioners maimed in war. The price fixed by law is $75, but scores of old soldiers simply draw the money and make the same leg do for as long as fifteen years at a stretch.

"Artificial arms are made very successfully, and a certain amount of action is secured in the hand, even when the stump reaches only a few inches from the shoulder. With one of the styles, for example, a man can lift his hat and replace it on his head with a surprisingly natural movement. The mechanism by which the false hand is made to open and close is controlled by a strap, which reached to the opposite shoulder. A slight shrug does the work, and a little practice renders it imperceptible.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

$.00 a Day For Rooms.

The payment of from $75 to $100 a day for rooms, exclusive of meals, in New York hotels is by no means uncommon. There are people living in the Waldorf-Astoria who pay $100 a day for their rooms the year round.

The average depth of sand in the deserts of Africa is from thirty to forty feet.

Like Sherlock Holmes.

A most remarkable literary coincidence is pointed out by a writer in Literature, who says it would be interesting to know if Dr. Conan Doyle, before creating Sherlock Holmes, had read a certain anecdote related by the Jesuit traveler Charlevoix, who died in 1761. The story is of a red Indian from whose wigwam a piece of meat had been stolen, and who promptly set out in pursuit of the thief. He had not proceeded far before he met with some persons, of whom he inquired whether they had seen a little old white man with a short gun, accompanied by a small dog with a short tail. Asked how he could thus minutely describe a man whom he had never seen, the Indian answered:

"The thief I know is a little man by his having a pile of stone to stand upon in order to reach the venison; that he is an old man I know by his short steps, which I have traced over the leaves in the woods, and that he is a white man I know by his turning out his toes when he walks, which an Indian never does. His gun I know to be short by the mark the muzzle made in rubbing the bark off the tree on which it leaned; that his dog is small I know by his tracks, and that he has a short tail I discovered by the mark it made in the dust where he was sitting at the time his master was taking down the meat."

This certainly is so much like the ratiocination of Sherlock Holmes that it almost reads like a parody of it.—Philadelphia Press.

Taking Air Without Going Out.

Elderly people and others who may be temporarily house-bound and prevented from enjoying a regular daily stroll outdoors can devise a fair substitute as follows: Bundle up as if for the usual constitutional, select a large sunny room, preferably at the top of the house, open wide the windows, shut off the heat and move around briskly, going to the window and inhaling the fresh air deeply through the nostrils. We have often called attention to the fact that house air, with its many impurities, overheated condition and general lifelessness, is one of the principal predisposing causes to colds and catarrhal affections. Where a patient or invalid is confined to bed, if the shoulders are kept well covered and the head lightly protected, the windows may be opened and the room flushed with fresh air without any special risk, provided the current does not strike them too directly. The danger from want of proper ventilation is decidedly greater.

Deep inhalations of air at the open window, taken gently through the nose, impart an enlivening and tonic influence to the whole nervous system, which can soon be demonstrated by a personal experiment.—Health Magazine.

The Life of a Trolley Car Wheel.

What is the life of a trolley-car wheel? The United Traction Company of Pittsburg reports the average life of its wheels to be about 35,000 miles, and estimates that about one-third of this life is secured by prompt grinding when the wheels become flat. This company, as well as some others, buys its wheels with the guarantee of a 33,000-mile life, and if they should require renewing before that time the wheels are replaced at the expense of the manufacturing company, while if the life should prove to be longer the company receives a corresponding credit.

Gold Rings as Currency.

It is interesting to note that the early Egyptian custom of paying gold in the form of rings has not entirely died out in Africa at the present day, and that English merchants trading with the Kongo are quite accustomed to receiving gold in the form of rings, frequently ornamented with the signs of the zodiac in relief.

Exhibits at Paris.

There is a large exhibit from this country at the Paris exposition which will prove very interesting to all, but no more so than the news that the famous American remedy, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, will cure dyspepsia, indigestion and constipation. To all sufferers a trial is recommended.

How He Knew.

Sir Robert Finlay, the new attorney-general of England, was once engaged on a case of warranty of a horse, the age of the animal being the chief matter in dispute. Sir Robert was examining a hostler, who had every appearance of rustic simplicity.

"Upon what authority do you swear to the age of the mare?" Sir Robert asked.

"I am sure of it," was the reply.

Half a dozen more questions failed to elicit from the witness any more specific answer.

"But how do you know it?" thundered Sir Robert, at last.

"I had it from the mare's own mouth," replied the hostler.

What Do the Children Drink?

Don't give them tea or coffee. Have you tried the new food drink called GRAIN-O? It is delicious and nourishing, and takes the place of coffee. The more Grain-O you give the children the more health you distribute through their systems. Grain-O is made of pure grains, and when properly prepared tastes like the choice grades of coffee, but costs about ¼ as much. All grocers sel it. 15c and 25c.

Up-to-Date "Vet."

McJigger—Young Simpkins graduated from the veterinary college last month and his father presented him with a case of instruments.

Thingumbob—Surgical instruments, eh?

McJigger—Oh, no. Machinists' tools, for repairing automobiles.—Philadelphia Press.

PUTNAM FADELESS DYES are fast to sunlight, washing and rubbing.

The triangular bridge at Croyland, Lincolnshire, is the oldest bridge in England, and one of the greatest curiosities.

For a quick breakfast, use Mrs. Austin's famous pancake flour. All grocers have it.

Telegraphic Post Cards Wanted.

In Vienna the Chamber of Commerce is being besieged with demands for the introduction of telegraphic post cards.

Air Cushion Rubber Stamps—the Best—the Cheapest. Send your orders to Lock Box 210, Fort Wayne, Ind.

A Sad Mistake.

A good story comes from Irvine way, which may be taken with a pinch of salt. On one of the vessels at the harbor there is a young son of Erin who acts as cook, et cetera. The crew is not large, and evidently of a frugal turn of mind, and in consequence the cook's duties never varied, since his arrival a month ago, from the work of cleaning and gutting herring (at least so the story goes). The skipper when up town decided on a change, and purchased a quantity of sausages. These he handed over to the cook to prepare, and the crew waited with impatience for the dinner. At last it was ready, and the boy, proud of his efforts, served up the dainties. The captain looked for the sausages, but the pan contained only a mass of skins! The boy, following his usual custom, had treated them the same as herrings.

Hall's Catarrh Cure

Is taken internally. Price 75 cents.

Smart Alex.

A man being About to die summoned his four Sons to his side and said:

"My sons, I will leave to John one-third of my estate, to Alex one-fifth, to James one-half and to Thomas one-fourth, and thus you will all Share Equally."

John and James and Thomas took Paper and Pencil and began figuring, but Alex took his hat and started out.

"Where are you going?" the other Three asked. "Do you not Intend figuring out the Problem?"

"Not much," said Alex. "I am Going for a Lawyer to break the Will."

Moral—Sometimes the Lawyer can Believe the Heirs of Much of the Figuring.—Baltimore American.

Besides New Scales of all varieties, the Chicago Scale Co. have a number of Second-hand Wagon or Stock Scales in perfect order, which they will sell low for Cash. Send for their "Bargain List."

Oldest Bank Note.

The oldest bank note probably in existence is preserved in the Asiatic Museum, St. Petersburg. It dates from the year 1399 B. C., and bears the name of the Imperial Bank, date and number of issue, signature of a mandarin and contains a list of the punishments inflicted for forgery of notes. This relic is probably written, for printing from wooden tablets is said to have been introduced in China in the year 160 A. D.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. E. W. Grove's signature is on each box. 25c.

First Aid to the Impecunious.

Graphter—I left my pocketbook home, and I haven't a penny in my clothes. Say, lend me a fiver, will you? I'll return it to-morrow.

Phoxy—I'll do better. Here's a nickel; you can go home and get your pocketbook.—Philadelphia Press.

I do not believe Piso's Cure for Consumption has an equal for coughs and colds.—John F. Boyer, Trinity Springs, Ind., Feb. 15, 1900.

A Powerful Light.

Cape Grisnez, on the French coast opposite Dover, is to have a new electric light that will be visible forty-eight miles off. It will be of 3,000,000 candle power, and is expected to pierce fog for a distance of sixteen miles. It will give out a white flash.

Lane's Family Medicine

Moves the bowels each day. In order to be healthy this is necessary. Acts gently on the liver and kidneys. Cures sick headache. Price 25 and 50c.

Bound to Get Scared.

"Those first automobiles scared my horse dreadfully."

"Yes, they made so much noise."

"The new ones scare him, too; they don't make any noise at all."—Indianapolis Journal.

Carter's Ink Is the best ink that can be made. It costs you no more than poor stuff not fit to write with.

Strategy.

Hardacre—Heow did yeow git Mary Ann to polish them thar brass knobs so bright?

Crawfoot—Told her thar was microbes on 'em.

Jell-O. The New Dessert, pleases all the family. Four flavors:—Lemon, Orange, Raspberry and Strawberry. At your grocers. 10 cts.

Tea was cultivated in China 2,700 years before the Christian era, and in that country it was first used as a beverage.

If you wish something delicious for breakfast, try Mrs. Austin's famous pancake flour.

The fruit derived from labor is the sweetest of all pleasures.—Vanvenargues.

FITS Permanently Cured. No fits or nervousness after first day's use of Dr. Kline's Great Nerve Restorer. Send for FREE $2.00 trial bottle and treatise. DR. R. H. KLINE, Ltd., 931 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa.

A New York man advertises for a "stenographer who can cook."

If you want the Best there is, tell your Job Printer to use Eagle Linen for your Letter Heads and Envelopes.

BEST FOR THE BOWELS.

No matter what ails you, headache to a cancer, you will never get well until your bowels are put right. CASCARETS help nature, cure you without a gripe or pain, produce easy natural movements, cost you just 10 cents to start getting your health back. CASCARETS Candy Cathartic, the genuine, put up in metal boxes, every tablet has C. C. C. stamped on it. Beware of imitations.

Japan Has the Biggest Bell.

The great bell of Moscow is not the largest in the world. The distinction belongs to the bell hanging in the temple of Clara at Kinto, in Japan. It is peculiar in having no clapper, and is struck outside with a sort of wooden battering ram.

Try Grain-O! Try Grain-O!

Ask your Grocer to-day to show you a package of GRAIN-O, the new food drink that takes the place of coffee. The children may drink it without injury as well as the adult. All who try it like it. GRAIN-O has that rich seal brown of Mocha and Java, but it is made of pure grains, and the most delicate stomach receives it without distress. ¼ the price of coffee. 15c and 25c per package. Sold by all grocers.

The Antiquity of Wigs.

A passage in Polybius has been cited to prove that Hannibal wore a wig. Wigs were probably invented about the time of the first Roman emperors, for we are told that Otho had a scalp of fine leather with locks of hair upon it so well arranged as to seem natural.

What Shall We Have for Dessert?

This question arises in the family every day. Let us answer it to-day. Try Jell-O, a delicious and healthful dessert. Prepared in two minutes. No boiling! no baking! simply add a little hot water and set to cool. Flavors:—Lemon, Orange, Raspberry and Strawberry. At your grocers. 10 cts.

Put one tablespoonful of Ceylon or India tea into a large pitcher, and pour over one quart of boiling water; cover the pitcher, and stand it aside for ten minutes; strain and add a pound of sugar, the juice of six lemons and two oranges. Stand this aside until very cold. When ready to serve add ice and Apollinaris. — October Ladies' Home Journal.

Your wife will be happy if you take home Mrs. Austin's famous pancake flour.

Hoping for the Best.

Benham—Everybody says that baby looks like me.

Mrs. Benham—But he may outgrow it, dear.—Harper's Bazar.

A Very Bad Combine is that of
A Very Bad Sprain
and
A Very Black Bruise
It often happens, but just as often
St. Jacobs Oil makes a clean, sure, prompt cure of both.

WABASH

HOME SEEKERS' EXCURSIONS

To Western Points.

OCTOBER 16, 1900.

On the above dates the WABASH will sell from its principal stations East of Chicago and Toledo, Ill., LOW RATE HOME SEEKERS' EXCURSION Tickets to points West, South and Southwest, granting a liberal return limit. A postal card addressed to any Wabash Ticket Agent or to either of the following Passenger Representatives will bring you prompt and explicit information regarding rates, routes, time of trains, through car service, condition of tickets, etc., etc.

REMEMBER

The WABASH is the only line east of Chicago and St. Louis giving its patrons seats without extra charge, in ELEGANT RECLINING CHAIR CARS running through to St. Louis and Kansas City without change.

This is your chance to go West cheap. Communicate with us.

P. E. DONBAUGH, P. & T. A., Toledo, Ohio.
R. G. THOMPSON, P. & T. A., Fort Wayne, Ind.
A. F. WOLFSCHLAGER, P. & T. A., Detroit, Mich.
L. S. McCULLAN, D. P. A., St. Louis, Mo.
GEO. D. MAXFIELD, D. P. A., Indianapolis, Ind.
F. A. PALMER, A. G. P. A., Chicago, Ills.
C. S. Crane, G. P. & T. A., St. Louis, Mo.

F. W. N. U. - - No. 40—1900.

When Writing to Advertisers please say you saw the Advertisement in this paper

The man who smokes

Old Virginia Cheroots

has a satisfied, "glad I have got it" expression on his face from the time he lights one. He knows he will not be disappointed. No matter where he buys one—Maine or Texas, Florida or California—he knows they will be just the same as those he gets at home—clean—well made—burn even—taste good—satisfying!

Three hundred million Old Virginia Cheroots smoked this year. Ask your own dealer. Price, 3 for 5 cents.

TRUSTEE'S ANNUAL REPORT.

Record of Receipts and Disbursements made by W. S. Dancer, Trustee of Jackson Township, DeKalb County, during the year ending Sept. 4, 1900.

TOWNSHIP FUNDS.

RECEIPTS.

Sept. 5, 1899.	On hand as per last report	$ 299 52
Dec. 13, 1899.	From Farmer's Bank, borrowed	300 00
June 20, 1900.	F. M. Hines, County Treasurer	625 13
	Total Receipts	$1,224 65
	Total Expenditures	580 65
	Balance	$644 00

EXPENDITURES.

DATE.	VOUCHER.	TO WHOM AND FOR WHAT PAID.	AMOUNT.
Sept. 8	3	J. A. Barns, pub. estimates—6 receipt books, 100 tabulated statements and 50 supervisior's reports,	$ 6 05
14	6	Geo. Watson, services as supervisor, Dis. No. 5	18 00
16	10	T. C. Stafford, services as supervisor, Dis. No. 4	15 00
29	12	D. H. Goble, one record book, teacher's contract and four receipt books	15 65
29	14	W S Dancer, services trustee	148 05
29	15	J A Barns, publishing annual report	10 00
Nov. 4	49	J W Cool, services as supervisor, Dis. No 2	25 00
11	54	Will H William s, writing instruction	1 00
Dec. 14	105	T C Stafford, services as supervisor, Dis No 4	46 00
14	109	J H Farver, services as supervisor, Dis. No. 1	90 00
21	126	Fritz C Bartles, services as supervisor, Dis. No. 6	51 75
28	138	Geo Watson, services as supervisor, Dis No. 5	26 08
29	140	J F Reed, services as supervisor, Dis. No. 3	57 49
1900
Jan. 25	166	J W Cool, services as supervisor, Dis No. 2	30 58
June 28	248	Geo Watson, services as supervisor, Dis. No. 5	10 00
Aug. 16	270	J H Farver, services as supervisor. Dis. No. 1	20 00
31	280	Thos C Stafford, services as supervisor, Dis. No. 4	10 00
		Total	$580 65

TUITION FUND.

RECEIPTS.

	Amount on hand last report	$1,344 68
Jan. 2, 1900.	F M Hines, County Treasurer	413 81
31,	F M Hines, County Treasurer	693 60
Mar. 28,	F M Hines, "Dog" Fund	17 01
June 20,	F M Hines, County Treasurer	439 67
July 2,	From transfers	97 37
13,	F M Hines, County Treasurer	778 40
	Total Receipts	$3,764 04
	Total Expenditures	2,338 00
	Balance	$1,446 04

EXPENDITURES.

Sept. 30	16	F A Stafford.....Teaching district No. 7	$ 5 00
Oct. 4	19	W B Carper..... 6	15 00
26	40	W B Carper..... 6	25 00
28	42	Mary Provines ... 10	20 00
Nov. 11	53	Glen Henderson.. 8	25 00
25	60	Frank Nelson.... 2	15 00
25	63	Mae Provines.... 10	30 00
25	64	B W Carper..... 6	20 00
30	66	Glen Henderson.. 8	10 00
Dec. 2	77	Frank Nelson.... 2	5 00
16	112	Mae Provines.... 10	12 00
16	113	H Klopfenstine .. 1	80 00
16	117	Frank Nelson.... 2	15 00
20	118	Effie Stafford..... 7	75 00
20	119	B W Carper 6	25 00
28	134	A E Shilling..... 4	100 00
28	135	Frank Nelson.... 2	5 00
1900
Jan. 6	152	Glen Henderson.. 8	25 00
6	153	Frank Nelson.... 2	5 00
6	155	Mae Provines.... 10	25 00
22	165	B W Carper..... 6	10 00
Feb. 3	170	Mary Essig..... 3	10 00
	171	Glen Henderson.. 8	15 00
	172	Mae Provines.... 10	25 00
	173	Effie Stafford..... 7	10 00
	174	B W Carper..... 6	15 00
	175	Frank Nelson.... 2	15 00
	176	A E Shilling..... 4	40 00
	177	Eben Carnahan.. 9	25 00
20	184	Delia Kester..... 5	15 00
Mar. 3	186	B W Carper..... 6	20 00
19	190	Frank Nelson.... 2	15 00
29	196	Frank Nelson.... 2	30 00
31	197	Effie Stafford..... 7	5 00
April 4	200	Mae Provines.... 10	35 00
	201	B W Carper..... 6	20 00
7	204	Effie Stafford..... 7	186 00
	207	Glen Henderson.. 8	25 00
9	209	Delia Kester..... 5	216 00
	211	Eben Carnahan .. 9	213 00
12	213	Glen Henderson.. 8	131 00
17	217	A E Shilling..... 4	5 00
19	218	H Klopfenstine.. 1	151 00
	220	Frank Nelson.... 2	133 00
	222	B W Carper..... 6	81 00
20	224	Mae Provines.... 10	91 00
26	227	Mary Essig..... 3	221 00
	229	A E Shilling..... 4	93 00
		Total	$2,338 00

SPECIAL SCHOOL FUND.

RECEIPTS.

Sept. 5, 1899.	Balance on hand at last report	$2,144 38
Dec. 8, 1899.	S M High, old stove	50
Jan. 2, 1900.	F M Hines, County Treasurer	819 57
June 20, 1900.	F M Hines, County Treasurer	626 19
	Total Receipts	$3,590 61
	Total Expenditures	2,899 05
	Balance	$691 56

EXPENDITURES.

Sept. 4	1	B W Carper, cutting wood and crayon Dis. No. 1	$ 8 13
6	2	H E Green, express on registers	25
8	4	J A Barnes, 50 program card and 300 copies and publishing notice	6 00
16	7	C R Weatherhogg, specification of plans, Dis. No. 1.	25 00
	8	W I Work, 3 registers	3 00
	9	W S Purdy, repairing well No. 3	2 10
28	11	S J Andrews, cleaning No. 2 school-house	3 00
Oct. 4	18	C P Turner, 1 gal. liquid slating	3 00
7	21	Donaldson Bros., for well and ditching No. 1	48 50
	23	W D Miller, 125 4-inch tile 1-15 inch	4 50
	24	J M Culver, per J. S. Grubb, cleaning school-house No. 10	2 50
18	27	Daniel Gratz, cleaning school-house No. 7	2 00
19	31	Elias Washler, cleaning school-house No. 5	3 25
	33	S J Steward, repairing and cleaning school-house No. 6	4 75
21	35	Michael Long, County Clerk, cost in Openhamer case,	36 30
	36	Baxter & Brown, claim of Anna Openhamer	199 70
24	38	J J Zehenderer, material for platform and building same No. 8	5 00
26	39	A M Carr, cleaning school-house No. 3, glass and broom	4 25
28	45	McNamara & Copp, to apply on school-hodse No. 1	100 00
Nov. 18	50	" " " " "	500 00
25	59	Marion Dove, cleaning school-house No. 9, 2 brooms, glass and washing-towels	4 25
Dec. 6	83	J J Zehendner, repairing well Dis. No. 8	5 50
7	87	Robert Lung, cutting wood Dis. No. 10	1 50
	91	I N Thomas, lumber platform Dis. No. 3	1 89
8	92	Robert Lung, cutting wood Dis. No. 10	2 25
9	97	M E Smith, publishing notice for contract	4 00
11	99	E T DeLap, freights on clay tile Dis. No. 1 chimney.	95
15	111	W I Work, 6 dz erasers	4 76
21	125	J G Lawhead, 4-foot wood, 6 ch. Dis. No. 10	12 00
	127	Jas Dove, 15 ch wood Dis. No. 5	17 25
1900
Jan. 9	157	Jno Keister, 30½ ch wood Dis. No. 7	35 07
11	163	J G Lawhead, 11½ ch wood Dis. No. 4	14 37
15	164	McNamara & Copp. to apply on school-house No. 1	400 00
29	168	Trenman Co, 32 ft of flue lining	11 52
eb. 7	180	Creat Johnston, 20 ch wood Dis. No. 6	19 70
10	182	Viola Robbins, 14¾ ch wood Dis. No. 3	18 43
Mar. 5	187	Toledo Steel Furnace Co., 1 steel furnace Dis. No. 1.	100 00
22	191	Samuel Hilkey, wood Dis. No. 9	7 08
	192	Simeon Maurer, 15 ch wood Dis. No. 8	22 50
24	194	Sam Brown, cleaning school-house, two brooms, and washing towels, Dis. No. 1	4 70
28	29	Chas Comskey, 26½ ch wood Dis. No. 9	26 01
April 7	206	Effie Stafford, 6 days attending institute and two brooms	10 45
9	210	Delia Kester, 8 days attending institute	9 00
		Eben Carnahan..7 days attending institute	$ 11 90
April 9	212
12	214	Glen Henderson, 6 " " 1 br'ms,	10 15
19	219	H Klopfenstine, 6 " "	9 90
	221	Frank Nelson, 7 " "	11 90
	223	B W Carper, 7 " "	11 55
20	225	Mae Provines, 7 " "	11 90
26	226	T G McNamara, cleaning schoolhouse, washing towels and glass	2 85
	228	Mary Essig, 4½ days attending institute	7 45
	230	A E Shilling, 7 " "	11 90
27	231	Copp & McNamara, to apply on schoolhouse No. 1	104 00
28	232	A Lewis, to apply on schoolhouse No. 1	75 00
June 5	242	Jos E Miller, ditching schoolhouse yard No. 1	1 25
	243	Copp & McNamara, to apply on schoolhouse No. 1	200 00
19	245	J G Lawhead, 34¼ ch wood Dis. No. 4	48 21
21	246	Chas Clouse, 4½ ditching No. 1 schoolhouse yard	5 62
28	247	Chas Comskey, cleaning schoolhouse and repairing privy No. 9	5 00
July 3	251	H E Coe, expenses for commencing exercises	5 34
12	255	Bertha Henderson, washing towels Dis. No. 7	75
23	258	E T DeLapp, freight on castings for seats No. 1	1 37
	259	I M Zent, freight on castings for seats No. 1	3 64
25	260	Copp & McNamara, to apply on schoolhouse No. 1	385 72
26	262	Roy Provines, washing towels No. 2	1 90
Aug. 10	264	I M Zent, freight casting seats No. 1	32
	265	Auburn Lumber Co., lumber and moterial schoolhouse No. 1	82 92
	266	A Lewis & Co., lumber and material s h No. 1	55 00
	267	Jas H Farver, wood Dis. No. 2	21 05
16	268	Jas Dove, washing 23 towels Dis. No. 5	1 15
28	272	Jas Dove, repairing privy and mowing yard No. 5.	3 00
29	273	H C Shull, tuition for graduates	67 00
	274	G W Lackey, crash, comb ond brush	1 75
	275	Culberson & Boland, 11 joints of stove pipes and sundries	4 05
	277	W E Crittenden, kalsomining and painting, and putting in windows	14 70
	278	T H Sprott, insurance on schoolhouse No. 1	28 50
		Total	$2,899 05

ROAD FUND.

RECEIPTS.

Sept. 5, 1899.	Balance on hand last report	$ 493 54
Jan. 2, 1900.	F M Hines, County Treasurer	48 43
June 20, 1900.	F M Hines, County Treasurer	2,187 76
	Total Receipts	$2,729 73
	Total Expenditures	2,406 11
	Balance	$323 62

EXPENDITURES.

Oct. 6	20	Hiram H Cupp, 5 days hauling gravel Dis. No. 2	10 00
11	25	B F Bailey, road receipts	1 66
21	37	Jno M Hough.... 6 days hauling gravel Dis. No. 2	12 00
28	43	Gary Magginnis.11 " " "	22 00
	44	Fr'k Magginnis..½ " " "	1 00
Nov. 4	48	J J Cupp.....11 " " "	22 00
6	50	Harry J Keisler. 7 " " " 5	14 00
17	56	G H Bodette, per T. B. VanAuken, 22 ft 18-in and 22 ft 20-in sewer pipe	18 50
	57	Jacob Gall, 1¼ days hauling gravel	2 28
25	62	G R Vanaucken, 23 ft 18-in sewer pipe Dis. No. 4	4 00
Dec. 1	68	Daisy Walter, hauling gravel Dis. No. 1	8 86
2	72	Jos J Tarney, hauling and shoveling Dis. No. 1	21 50
	73	John Cobler, shoveling gravel Dis. No. 1	5 75
	74	N S Squires..... 4½ dys haul'g gravel Dis. No. 3,	8 25
	76	John Furgeson.... 2 " " " 3,	4 00
4	78	Geo F Reed.....15½ " " " 3,	31 00
7	86	Henry Bartles .... 3 " " " 6,	6 00
	89	C O Berry..... 3 " " " 1,	10 72
8	93	Aaron Carper..... 3 " " " 1,	7 60
14	102	Wm Carr..... 7¼ " " " 2 and 3,	14 65
	103	Wm Carr..... 8¼ " " " "	17 52
	107	Perry Provines... " " " 1 and 2,	8 76
16	115	S J Brandon..... " " " 2,	1 52
	116	Mandis Myers.... 4¾ " " " 2,	9 44
21	120	W S Freeman .... 2½ " " " 6,	4 66
	121	Samuel Hilkey ... 3 " " " 6,	6 00
	122	Herb Romine..... 3 " " " 6,	6 00
	123	F A Squires..... 2⅝ " " " 6,	5 32
	124	Elmer Wilderson, 2¾ " " " 2,	5 50
22	129	A Provines..... 2¼ " " " 2,	4 50
23	131	Frank Steffen .... 2¾ " " " 3,	5 50
	132	Ed Lockwood..... 8⅛ " " " 3,	16 25
28	133	S J Tarney..... 2¼ " " " 4,	4 60
	136	Dan Morr ..... 2¼ " " "	4 65
	137	A E Sponhower ..12 " " " 5,	24 00
	139	Geo Watson..... 5¾ " " " 5,	11 33
1900
Jan. 2	142	F M Hines, 4 road receipts	15 85
3	144	B E Walters....1 dys haul'g grav. Dis. No. 5	2 00
5	149	Bert Townley...1½ "	3 00
6	154	Jno Stafford ....1 "	2 00
8	156	Jas Bishop.....2 "	4 00
11	158	Sam Dove.....3 "	6 00
	160	A Dammann.... " 2....	15 02
Feb. 10	169	Perry Provines..1 1-16 " 2....	2 34
5	178	J G Lawhead...2¼ " 3....	5 00
10	181	A T Turner ....1½ " 1....	3 00
15	183	Geo Watson.....2 " 5....	4 00
Mar. 16	189	Moletus High ...1 " 4....	1 71
April 5	202	Clyde Craybill.. ¾ " 3....	1 50
June 20		F M Hines, County Treasurer, Road Receipts:
		District No. 1, 67	461 38
		" 2, 62	484 37
		" 3, 46	246 28
		" 4, 56	257 82
		" 5, 38	220 92
		" 6, 70	254 85
20	250	Flemming Mfg. Co., repairing grader, Dis. No. 6	30 00
July 21	257	Rena Davis, 2 dys hauling gravel Dis. No. 6	6 00
Aug. 6	263	Stewart & Bros., 692 ft of plank 148-in tile	16 63
16	269	J H Farver, one road receipt Dis. No. 4	1 12
		Total	$2,406 11

ADDITIONAL ROAD FUND.

RECEIPTS.

Sept. 5, 1899.	On hand last report	728 79
Jan. 2, 1900.	F M Hines, County Treasurer	404 47
June 20, 1900.	F M Hines, County Treasurer	878 18
	Total Receipts	$2,011 44
	Total Expenditures	1,298 31
	Balance	$713 13

EXPENDITURES.

Sept. 8	5	Jno Shugers, 1 dys hauling gravel	$ 2 50
29	13	Amos Friend, 22 8-in tile	88
Oct. 2	17	Chas Peter, ditching allot Jerry Davis drain	6 00
7	22	W D Miller, delivering 12-in tile 5 10-in and 50 6-in and 156 12-in	14 12
12	26	Martha A Ditmars, ½ acre gravel	25 00
14	28	T J Cool, 3 dys hauling gravel Dis. No. 2	6 00
	29	John Neff, ½ acre of gravel and road	45 00
19	32	Elias Wasler, cleaning twp allot Fred Bartles ditch.	1 50
28	36	A C Osburn 19¼ shoveling gravel Dis. No. 2	19 25
Nov. 1	47	W G Boren, plank for Dis. Nos. 1 and 4	6 41
9	51	W J Frederickson, ditching in Sam Hilkey drain	6 00
	42	Edmond M Meyers. 8 dys haul'g grav Dis. No. 5	16 00
16	55	Jos Goldsmith..... 4¼ " " "	8 68
25	61	Bishop & Beidler... 3 " " "	6 00
27	65	John Furgeson..... 6¼ " " " 3	12 50
Dec. 1	67	Thos. Dowell ..... 1½ " " " 5	3 00
2	69	A C Osburn .....10½ shovel'g " 3	10 50
	70	G H Lautzenhiser.. 5 " " " 2	5 00
	71	Jos J Farver..... haul'g " " 1	27 28
	75	Wm Magginnis .... 2½ " " " 2	4 73
		Jas Dove..... 7½ " " " 4	15 50
4		Elias Washler..... 5½ " " " 4	11 37
6		Jacob Powell ..... 4 " " " 6	8 00
	81	Ross McKinley, shovel'g and haul'g grav. 6	7 66
	82	Thos Shull ..... 5 dys " " 6	10 00
7	84	Thos Shull ..... 3 shovel'g " 6	3 00
	85	J H Farver ..... haul'g " 1	12 70
	88	I M Thomas, 932 ft plank Dis. No. 2	13 98
	90	Willar Watson..... 5 dys haul'g grav. Dis. No. 3	10 00
8	94	Jerry Davis..... 4 " " " 4	8 00
9	95	Aaron W Osburn.. 2 " " " 3	4 00
	96	Allvin Irvin..... 3 " " " 6	6 00
	98	Jas E and Jas H Rose, fees in case Schlauter and township	50 00
13	100	Alva Washler ..... ¾ d haul'g grav. Dis. No. 4	1 50
	101	T C Stafford..... 6 " " " 4	12 00
	105	T C Stafford, 458 ft plank Dis. No. 4	7 78
	106	Geo Powell, 3 dys hauling for Dis. No. 6	6 00
	108	Jno H Farver, sharpening and repairing grader and axle-grease, No. 1	2 25
	110	A Provines, appraising gr pit	1 00
14	114	B F Hilkey, 4 dys haul'g grav. Dis. No. 6	8 00
22	128	Hettie Lockwood, 178 yds grav. Dis. No. 3	8 90
	139	J F Reed, spikes, pick and handle	95
29	141
1900
Jan. 3	143	John J Cupp, 6¼ dys haul'g grav Dis. No. 3	12 50
4	145	Francis Shaffer, 219 yds grav Dis. No. 2	13 14
	146	W D Miller, 180 ft 12-in tile 300 ft 8-in, and haul'g,	26 60
	147	Stewart Bros, per E Peters, 859 ft of plank and 15 8-in tile	13 40
	148	John Shugers, 527 yds grav Dis. No. 2	31 62
6	151	DeKalb County, bridge at Jno Neffs	75 00

EXACT COPY OF WRAPPER.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

In Use For Over Thirty Years

CASTORIA

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

DATE.	VOUCHER.	TO WHOM AND FOR WHAT PAID.	AMOUNT.
Jan. 11	161	August Dammann, haul'g grav. Dis. No. 2	4 09
25	167	J W Cool, frt on grader blades and repair'g bridge.	1 25
Feb. 6	179	W W Carry, 656 yds grav Dis. Nos. 4, 5, 6	32 70
22	185	Wm Byers, 328 " " 6	32 80
Mar. 6	188	John A McClellan, haul'g grav Dis. No. 1	8 41
April 2	198	I D Boren, 2½ dys " " 2	5 00
3	199	T C Stafford, 32 10-in tile	1 05
5	203	B F Moffert, 1 dy haul'g gravel	2 00
7	206	Alex Culberson, haul'g gravel	7 00
	208	John Knoder, spring for grader and bolts Dis. No. 3,	50
12	215	Glen Henderson, sharpening grader Dis. No. 5	6 50
	216	A P Hartle, ½ dy haul'g gravel Dis. No. 2	1 00
28	233	Peter Lochner, plank for Dis. No. 6	11 51
May 5	234	Jno Hardenburgh, repair'g twp allot on Hilkey dr.	1 50
10	235	Henry Witt, clean'g twp allot W S Dancer ditch	7 00
14	236	F M Hines, taxes on Amstutes and Rawley drain	12 09
24	237	E J Armstrong, digging and putting in 500 ft of tile in Armstrong drain	8 00
	238	E J Armstrong, ½ dy haul'g gravel	3 30
25	240	Jno Hardnburgh, cleaning twp allot in Carnahan drain	3 00
31	241	Albert Shearer, ½ dy haul'g gravel	1 00
June 29	249	E T Clausmeyer & Co., 2 scraper blades and 3 books for ditch notices	11 50
July 3	252	M F Long, judgment of Schlatter	249 00
	253	Wm M Depew, repairing grader for Dis. No. 3	2 60
9	254	M F Long, county clerk cost in Schlatter case	195 83
19	256	John Amstutes, Jr., tile for twp	24 14
25	261	O S Hart, sharpen'g and repair'g grader Dis. No. 5.	2 40
Aug. 17	271	J G Lawhead, material 3 bridges	23 57
29	276	Culberson & Boland, plow points, nails, etc	12 37
30	279	Frank Depew, digging Amstutes allot in Amstutes drain	20 00
		Total	$1,298 31

DOG FUND.

RECEIPTS.

Sept. 5, 1899.	Amount on hand	$213 74
Jan. 2, 1900.	F M Hines, County Treasurer	1 88
June 2, 1900.	A M Furnish, Assessor	133 00
20, 1900.	F M Hines, County Treasurer	94
	Dog Fund paid to Trustee	8 00
	Total Receipts	$357 56
	Total Expenditures	208 62
	Balance	$148 94

EXPENDITURES.

Oct. 17	30	A E Frederick, 2 sheep killed and 2 maimed	$16 62
19	34	Wm Cruse..... 7 " 2 "	32 50
26	41	Jas D Rowley. 7 " 1 "	37 50
1900
Jan. 11	159	A Frederick... "	46 00
	162	J G Lawhead.. "	52 50
Mar. 24	193	Sam Brown.... 1 "	4 50
May 24	239	Geo. Powell... 2 "	9 00
June 5	244	Philip Carper. "	10 00
		Total	$208 62

POOR FUND.

RECEIPTS.

Sept. 5, 1899.	Balance on hand	$80 50
Jan. 2, 1900.	F M Hines, County Treasurer	30
June 20, 1900.	F M Hines, County Treasurer	41 67
	Total Receipts	$122 47

EXPENDITURES.

Jan. 6, 1900.	No. 150.	DeKalb County. for poor
		Balance on hand $54 26

RECEIPTS OF ALL FUNDS.

Balance on hand at last settlement	$5,305 15
Receipts	8,515 35
Total of balance and receipts	$13,820 50
Total Expenditures	9,798 95
Balance on hand	$4,021 55

STATE OF INDIANA, } ss.
DEKALB COUNTY.

The undersigned, being duly sworn upon his oath, says that the within is a true and complete showing of all the moneys received and paid out, as he verily believes; and that the various items of expenditures credited have been fully paid in the sums stated, and without express or implied agreement that any portion thereof shall be retained by or repaid to him or to any person; and that he has received no money nor article of value in consideration of any contract made by him as trustee.

W. S. DANCER,
Township Trustee.

Subscribed and sworn to before me, this 4th day of September, 1900.

THOS. PHILIPS,
Ch. of the Advisory Board.

—YOUNG MEN WANTED:—With fair education and good character, to learn telegraphy, railroad accounting and typewriting. This is endorsed by all leading railroad companies as the only perfect and reliable institution of its kind. All our graduates are assisted to positions. Ladies also admitted. Write for free catalogue. Fall term opens August 15th.—Globe Telegraph College, Lexington, Ky. 8

E. W. Grove

This signature is on every box of the genuine Laxative Bromo-Quinine Tablets the remedy that cures a cold in one day

—WANTED:—Black Walnut logs for timber. Highest cash prices paid for same. Address, The Sanders & Egbert Co., Goshen, Ind. 8

Thursday's Daily.

—Married at the residence of the bride, by Rev. W. O. Butler Sept. 26, 1900, Mr. Wm. McDonald to Mrs. Myrtle E. Ball.

—Mrs. Dr. Johnston came home yesterday after a visit of two weeks with her daughter, Miss E. S. Kandel, near Fort Wayne. She left them all well, but farmers were having hard work to do their seeding as the weather was too dry.

—Auburn and Waterloo readers will be interested to hear that J. B. Taylor, Lake Shore pumping-station engineer at Kendallville, fell into the big well there yesterday morning. His shoulder was dislocated and he was considerably bruised, though not seriously.

—J. J. Latson was in town today. He is still in pretty good health for one of his age. He reports his daughter, Mrs. Phil Plum, as very low. A stroke of paralysis coming on in her weakened condition after so much sickness will no doubt terminate fatally in a short time.

—M. D. Pierson and wife of Somerset Center, Mich., were callers today. They are taking advantage of their vacation to visit the old neighbors at New Era, where Mr. Pierson used to be station agent. He has now a similar position with the Lake Shore road now at Somerset Center which is in Hillsdale county.

—Henry Shull believes quail are plenty this year, and has good reasons. A day or two ago one flew into his house and Mrs. Shull caught it. And this week one flew against the house of his brother Jacob, but we believe it was not caught. Probably the little feather songsters will not be as familiar after the time for hunting comes. However, it appears that the law to protect them is doing good.

Friday's Daily.

—John Hamman paid into 1901 on the Weekly yesterday.

—Mrs. John Pyle east of Auburn, is reported seriously sick.

—George Hines and wife of DeKalb were in town today.

—Rear Admiral Sicard, who was put on the retired list in 1898, is dead.

—W. H. Brown reports some ears of corn more than thirteen inches long.

—B. F. Cornelius of Troy was here today to attend the meeting of the county council.

—"The Turkey Brand of Portland Cement" is what they call the cement made at Stroh, the new boom town of Lagrange county.

—J. A. Chapman and wife are the happy parents of a fine boy, born to them yesterday afternoon. Dr. Buchtel reports mother and child doing well.

—Fort Wayne was the 86th city in population in 1790. Now it is the 79th.

—The shortage this year in the tea crop of Japan will be about four and a half million pounds.

—The invitations are out for the wedding of two of Auburn's popular young people, Miss Pauline Rose and George Beugnot, October 10.

—Somehow or other the Boers who come down from the hills to surrender to "Bobs" are always so absent-minded as to leave their Long Toms at home.

—Geo. Foster was in town today, and reports Mrs. Clark, his wife's mother, as about the same as she has been for some time. She seems to be weak and worn out.

—Mrs. S. C. Snyder returned yesterday from Chicago, to which place she had accompanied her son, Ora, on his way to Los Angeles, California, where he resumes his studies. She also visited her brother and other friends.

—Engineer George Martin, known to railroad men all over the country as the fireman on the locomotive that hauled the Lincoln presidential train to Washington on the occasion of the martyred president's inauguration trip, died suddenly at Painesville, Ohio, yesterday.

—Mrs. Matt Zerwes has a letter from the War Department in answer to a question about her brother, Will Clark. She expected him to return home some weeks ago, but the Department writes he is still with his regiment, the 20th regulars at Manila, and that his enlistment will not expire till in December. So we cannot expect him home for some time.

Friday's Daily.

—B. F. Pence and his daughter, Mrs. Hollabaugh, of Spencerville called on the COURIER yesterday.

—Dr. Stamets reports a boy baby born this morning to John Scott and wife on South Van Buren Street.

—John Jackman of Waterloo is the latest addition to the weekly list. Thanks. There is always room for another.

—Jacob Christoffel of Stafford was here today. He and J. C. Hodges and G. I. Patterson were here to report on the Ben Casey ditch.

—A. B. Walsworth is going to take advantage of the new free rural delivery route and today changes his Weekly COURIER for the Daily. He is No. 1 in that list.

—Ninety-nine per cent of the people are pleased to hear that the merchants have agreed to close their stores three nights in a week at 6 o'clock. This is indeed encouraging.

—The new steel mill at Peru, Indiana, one of the largest concerns of its kind in the west, has posted a notice that no men who patronize or frequent saloons will be employed.

—L. Bowers and wife and Miss Lena Damon, Cyrus Olinger and wife, Ollie Clay and wife attended the Adrian fair yesterday. They say it was fairly good and a good crowd, though not as many people as the day before.

THE AUBURN COURIER.

Recorder's Office

Volume XXX | Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana, Thursday, October 11, 1900. | Number 41.

WHEN IT'S AUTUMN

The various wants come trooping along, the needs that the season makes important. If a careful buyer, you'll want to make your purchases when selections are best. When lowest margins govern the selling you'll want to give the longest stretch to the purchasing power of the money. We give the newest ideas in reliable fall and winter merchandise. Economical buying for you, as you'll readily believe when you note our prices.

Dress Goods.

Dress Goods in all the fall novelties, we can give you at from 12½c to 25c per yard.
Serges in black, a good one, per yard ..... 25 cents
We are selling a regular 65c quality, in all colors, at ..... 50 cents

Ladies' Capes.

Capes in Cloth and Plushes from the best manufacturers. We can sell you Capes at all prices.
A good cloth Cape for ..... $2.50 and up to $10.00
We have the best Plush Cape on the market to retail at $5.00, in plain, crushed plush or fancy braided. Extra length. See us on this line, as we are strong.

Furs.

In Boas and Collarettes our line was never better. The best of styles, and prices never more reasonable.
A nice Seal Boa with tails, for $1.50
We have them in the Black Marten, Coney, Seal, Stone Marten, and Beavers. Elegant furs at from ..... $3.50 to $5.00
We also have them at prices ranging as high as $18.00

Shirt Waists.

Ladies' Shirt Waists in the Flannels and Mercerized Silks, made up in the latest styles for fall wear, from ..... $1.00 to $2.00
Our line of Silk Taffetas are beauties; pretty new shades ....
Prices ..... from $3.50 to $4.75 each

Ladies' Skirts.

Ladies' Black Underskirts in heavy black skirting, made up with two small ruffles, each $1.00
One with fluted ruffles for 1.48
Mercerized silks for 1.50
Ladies' all-wool knit Skirts, the prettiest thing on the market; we have them at all prices—from 69 cents to $1.98. Ask to see them. They are beauties.

Outings and Hosiery.

We have outings at all prices and all colors; good values at 5 cents per yard and upward.
Chinchilla Outings, per yard ..... 8 to 10 cents
Children's and Misses' Fleece-lined hose, the best black ribbed hose on the market, in all sizes ..... 10 cents per pair

Underwear.

Children's and Misses' Underwear in the fleece-lined, ranging in price from 10 to 24 cents a garment.
Union Suits, in all sizes ..... 24 cents
Ladies' fleece-lined underwear, all sizes, for 24 cents per garment or 45 cents a suit.
Gentlemen's fleece-lined underwear for 24 cents a garment or 45 cents a suit; wool-fleeced at 45c a garment; 90c a suit.
Boys' wool-fleeced underwear, 24 cents per garment or 45 cents per suit, in all sizes.

Curtain Goods.

Curtain Goods, the new swell things for fall for your dining room or bed room. Ask to see them. Only ..... 15c per yard
In Lace Curtains our line was never better. You can buy an extra large curtain for ..... 98c to $1.24 a pair

Carpets.

Our fall line is complete. An elegant ingrain all-wool at from 45 cents to 65 cents a yard. Brussels, Velvets and Axminsters at ..... 98 cents per yard
Floor Oilcloth from ..... 25c to 98c per square yard

Hardware.

Here are a few articles in Hardware:
Dippers that sold for 5c—while they last for ..... 3 cents
Dippers that sold for 10c, now ..... 5 cents
Wash Basins that sold for 10c, now ..... 5 cents
Milk Strainers that sold for 24c, now ..... 14 cents
Milk Buckets with strainer attached ..... 24 cents
Fire Shovels ..... 5 and 8 cents
Wash Boiler with metallic bottoms, No. 9 ..... 89 cents
Fruit Presses or Potato Mashers, each ..... 25 cents

Groceries.

Salmon, per can ..... 10c | Sardines, per can ..... 5 cents
XXXX Coffee, per pound ..... 11c | Lion Coffee ..... 11 cents
Pancake Flour ..... 10c | Matches, per pkg ..... 10 cents
Cheese, full cream, per pound ..... 14 cents
Prunes, per pound ..... 5 and 8 cents
Key Soap, 10 cakes for ..... 25 cents
Santa Claus soap, 7 cakes for ..... 25 cents
Bulk Starch, per pound ..... 4 cents
Good Brooms, each ..... 25 cents
Try our Bulk Coffees for ..... 14c and 18c per pound

BAZAR STORE, - - F. J. NEBELUNG, Proprietor, - - AUBURN, INDIANA.

The Farmers Bank of Auburn,

Uunder State Supervision and Control.

Capital and Surplus $50,000.00
Assets at Last Official Statement $346,278.95

Pays interest on deposits if left four months; Loans money and transacts a general banking business.

YOUR BUSINESS IS SOLICITED!

ALBERT ROBBINS, President;
A. C. ROBBINS, Cashier

The McClellan Bank,

AUBURN, IND

Certificates of deposits issued, drawing interest if left six months. County and Town Orders bought and sold. Money Loaned on Farms, Personal Security, or Live Stock. Notes bought.

C. A. O. McCLELLAN, ESTATE
CHARLES McCLELLAN
D. A. GARWOOD
ISAAC HAGUE
} C. A. BENEDICT, Cashier

Physicians and SURGEONS

D. J. Swartz, M. D
Vesta W. Swartz, M D

Office at Auburn Sanitary Baths, corner Main and Sixth Streets,

Professional Calls Promptly Answered.

PHONES: Western ..... No. 19; Central Union ..... No. 19

Sprott & Knapp,

Abstracters of Titles to Land and Lots,

AUBURN, IND.

Office in Gandy Block, North of Court House.

J.E. Graham, D.D.S.

DENTIST

Over Davenport's Drugstore, Auburn, Ind.

CROWN AND BRIDGE WORK A SPECIALTY.

All Work Guaranteed } { Gas Administered.

CENTRAL 'PHONE 513.

Will be at Waterloo each Wednesday in Dr. Darby's Office

DENTIST F. W. HOFFMAN,

Auburn, Ind,

Office in Gandy Building, Northeast Corner of Court Square.

WESTERN 'PHONE 103.

Crown and Bridge Work a Specialty.

L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE—in Effect April 29, 1900.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Stations	Mail	Exp'ss	Fre'gt
Fort Wayne	11 45 am	5 00 pm	5 55 am
New Era	12 10 pm	5 20	6 40
Auburn Junction	12 20	5 43	7 10
Auburn	12 23	5 46	7 35
Waterloo	12 45	6 04	8 25
Summit	12 52	6 12	8 55
Steubenville	12 54	6 15
Pleasant Lake	1 03	6 22	9 20
Angola	1 13	6 32	9 33
Jackson	2 25	8 45	3 00

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations	Fre'gt	Exp'ss	Mail
Jackson dp	6 10 am	11 45 am	7 40 am
Angola	11 00	2 10 pm	9 16
Pleasant Lake	11 25	2 22	10 09
Steubenville	.....	2 32	10 16
Summit	11 50	2 39	10 25
Waterloo	12 43 pm	2 55	10 35
Auburn	1 20	3 05	10 44
Auburn - N.B.S Acc.	1 25	3 08	10 47
New Era	1 35	3 15	10 55
Fort Wayne	2 30	3 50	11 35

For rates on tickets or freight to all points call on or address E. T. DeLAPP, Agent Auburn.

A Soldier in China.

The Fort Wayne Journal has a letter from Jack Fromuth, a Ft. Wayne soldier, a member of the 28th Indiana Battery in the Spanish war, but now in the Fourteenth regulars in China. It is so natural and characteristic that we offer no excuse for giving it to our readers.

PEKIN, CHINA, Aug. 25. 1900.

Dear Comrade.—Well, we got here a few days ago but have been kept on the move ever since, "hiking" it all over the country doing outpost duty. We left Tien Tsin at 4 o'clock on the 4th day of August and arrived here on the 14th, after ten days' hard march over the hardest country I ever traveled. Fine sand all the way, and you sink into it at every step. We had a "scrap" on the 5th and one of the hardest battles, they say, that was ever fought in the three wars. On the 6th we were under a heavy artillery fire. For two hours we charged our enemy over three miles of ground under fire. The men had no water for five hours so we were in no shape for such a fight. Bud Carson got left at Tien Tsin and was very sick when we left. When we arrived at Pekin there was music I tell you. Five other men and myself, of Company G. scaled the outside wall and got inside where they were fighting hard. They had knocked the gate down when we went over and were the first Americans to plant a flag on the wall and that was the colors of the Fourteenth U. S. Infantry. Have no more for this time.

Your old comrade.
JACK FROMUTH.

P. S.—I looked all over for writing paper and failing to get any I went and bought this Chinese letter paper. It cost me $2 in Chinese money for the two pieces of paper, and 50 cents for the envelope. I have all the money I want but cannot spend it. Will write again as soon as I can get paper. J. F.

The New Route.

We had a talk last evening with Mort Wilson, the free rural route messenger. He had just completed his fourth day out and thinks he will like it. While he is gratified at the interest taken by the people along the route he finds there are some who do not seem to care whether Uncle Sam leaves their letters and papers at their door or not. He says this is the only draw back to the whole business. Of course he has easy and pleasant trips now, but with shorter days and worse weather in view he will not find it so pleasant. He now drives to town, about six miles, in the morning, and then goes back over his route, returning to Auburn in the evening and then finishing with the six miles home. This makes him twelve miles extra driving, and he may conclude to get some reliable man to care for things at the farm and he move to town and stay at least over winter. In the meantime we hope to see everyone along the route fall in with the new system and give it a full trial.

Good Advice.

When that distressing pain seems to grab you by the back of the head and neck and your eyes seem fixed on a given point straight ahead, do not make yourself sick by taking Drastic Cathartics, but take a small dose of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It relieves the pressure on the nerve centers of the brain and aids digestion by curing constipation permanently. In 10c, 50c and $1 sizes at H. B. McCord's.

Foley's Honey and Tar heals lungs and stops the cough.*

A Bad Accident.

Last evening toward six o'clock little Kenneth, the six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harpster Walter, met with a serious and what was at first feared would be a fatal accident. He and some other children of about the same age, had been playing at and near the intersection of Tenth and south Cedar streets, when a log wagon, heavily loaded with logs, came along. As too often is the case, the boys began to climb onto the load, but, we believe, little Kenneth did not get on top, but went around the rear and then in between the front and rear wheels and got onto the long beach. He rode but a little ways when he either jumped off or fell off, it is not known which. It is supposed he intended to run out between the wheels, but either fell or was struck by a hind wheel and thrown down. He fell in such a way that the wheel passed over his left leg, breaking it in two places two or three inches apart, between the thigh and knee. The other leg was bruised but no bone broken. Drs. Baxter and Casebeer were called, and an examination revealed the real condition, though up to that time it was believed one leg was hopelessly crushed. They set the broken parts and fixed the lad up as they could, and hope he may be, eventually as sound as ever.

Closing Notice.

We, the undersigned business firms of Auburn, Indiana, do hereby agree to close our respective places of business at 6 o'clock on Tuesday, Wednesday Friday evenings of each week, commencing November 1st, 1900.

M. E. Garrett	Hebel Brothers
Bishop & Beidler	Frank A. Hoff
John L. Kruger	Bates
E. M. Fischler
F. J. Nebelung	J. L. Till
Schaab & Brother	Schaab Furn. Co.
H. B. McCord	Trentman Sisters
Cowan Sisters	R. Shull
M. Jones & Son	Schaab & Murphy
A. N. Wilson	Culbertson & Boland
Pioneer Hdw. Co.	A. B. Olds
O. E. Clay	G. H. Yeobers
G. W. Lackey	F. E. Davenport
D. A. Hodge

7 p. m.

Joseph Rainier	W. C. McNabb
Sheffer & Chaney.

Her 73d.

Sunday, Sept. 30, was the 73d birthday of Mrs. George Chaney, and she had had her dinner as usual, when, to her surprise, her children came in bearing baskets filled with material for a bounteous and delicious dinner. The relatives at home and the Chaneys from Auburn were present as well as the two Mrs. Espys of Auburn. All enjoyed the meeting greatly, especially the worthy old lady they had called to honor.

A Strange Accident.

—One of the fine horses belonging to Joe Goodwin, the mill man at Pleasant Lake, cut its throat in a peculiar way last Friday. It laid down to roll in the pasture lot and struck its neck on a broken bottle which was partly buried in the ground, and cut its throat so badly that it bled to death during Friday night.

Bright's Disease.

High living, intemperance, exposure and many other things bring on Bright's disease, Foley's Kidney Cure will prevent Bright's disease and all other kidney or bladder disorders if taken in time. Take nothing else. H. B. McCord.

Our Saturday Evenings.

LI

By the merest accident, we opened this morning, Saturday, Oct. 6, 1900, an old book of notes, made while at college and largely given to items of interest connected with class-work and various recitations and lectures. At the page opened, the eye lighted first of all on this entry.

"Failed this morning on classification of algebraic curves in Calculus recitation."

This unfortunate entry was made in the spring of 1857, over forty-three years ago, and this book of notes has not been opened half a dozen times since. Yet here it comes up today and the first thing seen is the one bad error or rather failure, the worst of the session.

So it is. "The evil that we do lives after us" says Shakespeare, and he intimates that the good is more frequently buried with us or forgotten. We retain best and recall most frequently, the more disagreeable things we have experienced. Why the eye should have lighted on this especial thing is past finding.

In the same way, you pick up a list of candidates for office. The most of them are good men. But if there is one who has a black mark he is the one whose name strikes you first, and holds you longest. Not because you like to gloat over evil, but because it furnishes a salient point, and your attention is drawn thereby.

Looking over the names of our own county candidates this week, we at once recalled a case that had been in court some years ago in which one of them figured in a way that will seem as disagreeable to him now, as our own failure in an important detail of the recitation did to us, in that far off day.

The same thing is true as to newspapers, and many other things. Let us pick up the last paper and look it over. It may have much that is interesting and some things that are valuable, but a turned letter or a typographical error of any kind, or even a mis spelled word, catches the eye first and with double force.

And this calls up an article published several years ago in the Poughkeepsie N. Y. Eagle, in an article on how newspaper mistakes occur. It figures up the number of types used in a newspaper the size of the Eagle at 60,000, the actual number of bits of metal arranged and rearranged every day in preparing a newspaper the size of the Eagle for the press. We suppose few people think of the printing trade as the most exact and particular business, but it is. In making type any variations that might be allowed in the machinery of the finest watch would render the type useless. It is very rarely that type furnished by two separate foundries can be used together without a good deal of trouble, though they try to make it after the same standard. We read once in a while of a wonderful piece of cabinet work or mosaic work containing ten, twenty or fifty thousand pieces, the maker of which has spent months or even years of labor in producing it, and people go to see it as a great curiosity, but the most elaborate and carefully fitted piece of work of this kind ever made does not compare with that which the printer does every day. The man who does the first is looked upon as an artist—a marvel of skill, and if a hundred of his pieces are put in wrong side up or turned the wrong way it is not observed in the general effect—but if the printer in fitting ten times as many pieces together in the same day puts one where another should be, or turns one the wrong way everybody sees it, and is amazed at the "stupid carelessness of those stupid printers."

Home From the Capital.

Hon. C. M. Brown came home from Indianapolis this morning, feeling well over the two great meetings to which he had been a delegate. The National meeting of democratic clubs was a success, the attendance Wednesday and Thursday being immense. He was also a delegate to the grand lodge of the K. P. and took an active part in its proceedings. He was elected vice-grand commander for this district, the first, J. E. McDonald retires as grand chancellor and his place is taken by Daniel E. Storms of Lafayette. The vice-grand chancellor is Charles A. Bookwalter of Indianapolis.

Half of Happiness

depends upon the stomach. If you have no constipation, indigestion, chronic sick headache, summer complaint or any other trouble of stomach or bowels, you ought to be happy—usually are. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin rids you of these ills. It's pleasant and powerful. It doesn't cost $1 to try it, 10 doses 10 cents, at H. B. McCord's.

Finger Chopped Off.

Al. Geisinger, who is employed at the meat market of Sheffer & Chaney, chopped a finger off in the sausage chopper this forenoon. He was just finishidg the batch and was pushing the last remains of the grist up to the chopper to clean off the block, when his right forefinger came under the knife, clipping it off above the nail. He carries the piece in a vial of alcohol to prove that it is not in the sausage.

Telegraph to Skagway.

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 3.—The first telegram from Skagway to Seattle, marking an epoch in the history here today. The time occupied by the message in transit was seven hours, which, will however, be reduced.

The line over which it passed to Vancouver is that which the Canadian government has been engaged in constructing for the past four months.

CASTORIA.
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

A Card.

The manufactors of Banner Salve have authorized the undersigned to guarantee it for burns, cuts, sores, ulcers, tetter, eczema and all skin diseases. You have your money back if it does not do all it claims. H. B. McCord.

—Subscribe for the COURIER.

W. C. T. U. NOTES.

THE BREWERS IN THE LEAD.

The Labor Day parade in Indianapolis was quite a success. The various organized bodies of working men were well represented. Some of them made a good showing.

The part of the parade that was most striking was the order of arrangement. The great and important industry—the brewery—the workingman's greatest foe, was first in the procession. This was well planned. The brewery is supported very largely by the laboring men of all grades, and many have become slaves to its product. It was very fitting, therefore, that it should be in the lead, and that its victims should follow as being led by an invisible chain. Such an order of arrangement, however, is a disgrace to our civilization, and one which order-loving people should resent.

We saw more drunken men on the streets during the latter part of the day than we have ever seen in this city in any one day. Saloons were running wide open, and all received a generous patronage. The saloon is the laboring mand's greatest enemy.

PROF. ATWATER'S FOOD MONEY.

The Medical Journal, perhaps the leading authority on medicine and surgery in the United States, has the following in regard to the discussions of Prof. Atwater's alleged discovery that alcohol is a food. It says:

"During the past year much attention has been given to the question of the effects of alcohol on the system, as a result chiefly of Prof. Atwater's calorimeter experiments and the controversies regarding the army canteen. Prof. Atwater's conclusions have been favorably and unfavorably criticised by both medical and lay writers. His latest critic is Prof. W. S. Hall, of the Northwestern University (Journal of the American Association, July 14, 1900). Among other matters Hall calls attention to the following facts with regard to alcohol as compared with foods. More and more of it is required to produce the same effect, which is not the case with real foods. When used habitually it causes an uncontrollable desire for more; it is likely to produce serious derangement of the central nervous system; it is a product of decomposition and excretion, and in common with all excretions is poisonous; its use followed by an accumulation of fat, by decrease in activity of muscle cells and brain cells, and the brain action is less accurate after its use. Most of these criticisms are quite correct and deserve the attention of physicians who are in the habit of prescribing alcohol freely for their patients.

One of the reasons given by our government in favor of the canteen, that its proceeds procure for the soldiers better provisions for their table, is a shameful disgrace. If Uncle Sam is not able to furnish provisions for his soldiers without going into the saloon business he had better throw up the sponge, don his night robe and get into the bed oblivion.

From an Old Soldier.

KNOX, Ind., Jan. 14, 1899.

Gents:—I have every confidence in recommending your Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. I am 72 years of age and am broken down, the trouble having been brought on by my experience in the war. Your medicine has done me more good than a hundred doctors and I am just about well of my stomach troubles.

Yours truly, JEFFERSON WILHELM.
For sale by H. B. McCord.

DO YOU GET UP WITH A LAME BACK?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everybody who reads the newspapers is sure to know of the wonderful cures made by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It is the great medical triumph of the nineteenth century; discovered after years of scientific research by Dr. Kilmer, the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, and is wonderfully successful in promptly curing lame back, kidney, bladder, uric acid troubles and Bright's Disease, which is the worst form of kidney trouble.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been tested in so many ways, in hospital work, in private practice, among the helpless too poor to purchase relief and has proved so successful in every case that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The regular fifty cent and dollar sizes are sold by all good druggists.

It Happened in a Drugstore.

"One day last winter a lady came to my drug store and ask for a brand of cough medicine that I did not have in stock," says Mr. C. R. Grandon, the popular druggist of Ontario, N. Y. "She was disappointed and wanted to know to what cough preperation I could recommend. I said to her that I could freely recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and that she could take a bottle of the remedy and after giving it a fair trial if she did not find it worth the money to bring back the bottle and I would refund the price paid. In the course of a day or two the lady came back in company with a friend in need of a cough medicine and advised her to buy a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I consider that a very good recommendation for the remedy." It is for sale by H. B. McCord.

Judge Baker's Fish Story.

"When a lawyer tells fish stories," said Judge John H. Baker, who has just returned from an extended fishing trip in Minnesota, "people look askance. They must have the evidence before their own eyes. With that idea in view, I had the fish I caught photographed against a brick wall. Every one knows that a brick is two inches wide. In that way they can easily measure the length of the fish by the number of bricks that are covered by the fish.

"How do we know that you caught the fish, Judge," asked a friend.

"Oh, well, you will have to take my word for that," he replied.

It Heals the Lungs.

When suffering from racking cough take a dose of Foley's Honey and Tar. The soreness will be relieved and a warm, grateful feeling and healing of the parts affected will be experienced. Take no substitute. H. B. McCord.

To Stop a Cold.

After exposure or when you feel a cold coming on, take a dose of Foley's Honey and Tar. It never fails to stop a cold if taken in time. H. B. McCord.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, - Publisher.

1900. OCTOBER. 1900.

Su	Mo	Tu	We	Th	Fr	Sa
●	1	2	3	4	5	6
7	8	9	10	11	12	13
14	15	16	17	18	19	20
21	22	23	24	25	26	27
28	29	30	31	●	●	●
●	●	●	○	●	●	●

F. Q. 1st. F. M 8th. L. Q 15th. N. M. 24th.

EVENTS OF INTEREST

THAT OCCURRED DURING THE PAST WEEK.

Tersely Told Telegraph Tales in Brief Paragraphs—Many Casualties—A Few Crimes—Some Fires—Political and Religious News.

We Make a New Move.

The United States government has taken another decisive step in the development of the Chinese situation in a note delivered by Secretary Hay to the German charge d'affairs, Baron Speck Von Sternberg. In the note favorable action by this government on Germany's latest suggestion concerning the punishment of Chinese criminals is expressed and the announcement is made that the United States already has sent instructions to Minister Conger along the lines indicated. The instructions to Minister Conger are that he shall learn the names of the Chinese offenders who are to be punished; also whether the punishment to be administered is adquate to their offenses, and finally whether the punishments are actually administered. The American note is considered most important in the establishment of complete unity of action between the United States and Germany.

Fire Causes Heavy Losses.

Williamsport, Pa., experienced the most disastrous fire in its history early Thursday morning. Flames broke out shortly after midnight in the big four-story shoe factory of J. E. Dayton & Co., occupying almost the entire block, bounded by Neece, Fourth, Ekwin and Elmira streets. The factory building with its great stock of finished shoes and raw material was entirely destroyed. The loss is $300,0000, of which $250,000 falls on Dayton & Co. The property was only partly insured. Several firemen were hurt by the falling of a portion of the building. The stone chapel of the First Baptist church was partially destroyed and several other buildings adjoining the Dayton factory were badly damaged.

Heavy Storm in France.

Heavy storms throughout France have done much damage to property and live stock. Many of the rivers are overflowing and devasting wide tracts. The vine-growing districts are the greatest sufferers. Over a large area the vineyards have been injured. The vines have been beaten down and in many cases the crops are almost ruined

The damage in the Hante Pyrenees amounts to a disaster. The situation is so critical in Burgundy, Auvergne, The Rhine and the Saunde vine-yards, that in response to the urgent requests of the growers the minister of war, General Andre, is sending troops to aid in the harvesting.

Sugar Takes a Fall.

The truce in the war between the sugar trust and the independents has been declared off. The trust renewed the fight by announcing a reduction of 15 points for refined sugar and the Arbuckles immediately followed with a sharp cut of 20 points to 595 for fine granulated sugar. The market is demoralized as a result of the fight, and the other independent concerns are making reductions of 25 points. During the busy season the sugar interests got together and advanced prices all along the line, but business is dull now.

Driven Out of Germany.

Prof. A. E. Dachnowski, who occupied the chair of German in Taylor University, of Upland, Ind., returned to the Fatherland this summer to complete his education in the University of Berlin, but when his identity became known he was given thirteen days in which to get himself and his belongings out of the country or join the imperial army. He left and went to Switzerland to enter college.

Train Robber Killed.

Two men held up the Kansas City passenger train on the Burlington road, three miles south of Council Bluffs, Iowa. Express Messenger Baxter refused to open the door of his car, and when they blew it open with dynamite, he seized his gun and escaped from the door on the opposite. He crept around the front of the train and opened fire killing one of the robbers. The other escaped.

Gold from Klondike and Nome.

The receipts of Klondike gold at the San Francisco mint and Seattle assay office from July 1 to September 30, aggregated $16,047,555 and of Cape Nome gold $2,311,801. The total of all deposits at both offices during the three months was $38,234,810.

A Fierce Fight.

Word has been received of a fierce engagement between a German contingent and 2,000 Boxers at Kau Kau Men. The Chinese made an attack, but the Germans repulsed them, killing 400. The Germans lost five men.

Fort Wayne Masonic Temple Attractions.

October 15, 16, and 17.—Wilber Opera Co.
October 18.—"Shore Acres."
October 20.—"Miss Hobbs."

Gunboat Villalobos Safe.

Admirol Kempff cables the Navy Department denying the published reports that the gunboat Villalobos was captured at Mariduque by the insurgents, when Captain Shields and company was captured. He says the Manila paper of Sept. 28, published a false report.

Salisbury Approves German Note.

Lord Salisbury, according to the Berlin correspondent of the London Post, has replied to Germany's last note in terms of approval.

Atlanta Citizen Is Shot.

Charles A. Collier was found lying at the foot of the stairs in the yard back of his residence in Atlanta, Ga., with a bullet hole in his left side in the region of the heart. Before lapsing into unconsciousness Mr. Collier uttered but one word—"Burglars."

New Battleship Out in Storm.

The new battleship Wisconsin is now on a dry dock at Port Orchard. The big battleship bucked into a northwester as soon as it passed through the Golden gate on the voyage up to Washington. Those on board report that the vessel stood the storm splendidly.

CREW SAVED FROM A WRECK

Twenty-nine Men of the Nonpareil Are Brought Into Port.

Rescued from their foundering craft in midocean twenty-nine men who comprised the crew of the new steel ship Nonpareil were brought into New York on the British tramp steamship Glengoil, Capt. Davison of the Glengoil, for New York from Alexandria and other Mediterranean ports reported one man lost in the work of rescue. Several days ago First Mate Thirlaway, in charge of the Glengoil's bridge, made out two points forward of the starboard beam and ten miles distant what appeared to be a partially dismantled ship. The stranger was made out to be a three-masted steel ship, her main and mizzesn topmasts broken and bent over. In the maintop a sailor was wearily waving a flag. Clinging to the weather rail were the crew. The Glangoil took off all the crew of the wreck, which proved to be the Nonpareil. In the transfer Fred George was drowned. Newly launched in June at the yards of William Hamilton, at Glasgow, built for the Standard Oil Company for carrying case oil to the far East, the Nonpareil sailed from New York with 83,000 cases of oil for Sourabaya, Java.

COAL STRIKE AFFECTS TRADE.

Review of the Business of the Week as Made by Dun.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: "Not Wall street alone, but the entire business world as well, watched the progress of efforts to bring about a settlement of the anthracite coal strike with active interest. This week the paralysis of the anthracite industry was more complete than last, and the effect was seen upon the distribution of merchandise in the East and the placing of new orders with manufacturers. Aside from the expected reduction to $26 for steel rails and a sale of Bessemer pig at Pittsburg at $13.75 the whole list of iron and steel products is unchanged. The feeling grows stronger that bottom has been reached. Another increase of 5,970 cases in shipments of boots and shoes from Boston makes the outlook more encouraging for that industry. Sales of wool fall to about one-quarter of last year's. Failures for the week were 204 in the United States, against 157 last year, and 18 in Canada, against 21 last year."

MAN AS DRAFT HORSE.

Husband Hauls Wife and Children Many Miles in Wagon.

Thomas Burns arrived in Marion, Ohio, recently between the shafts of an old top wagon, in which he was hauling his wife and two children. He is en route from the northern part of the State to Chillicothe. North of Bucyrus his horse died. He is too poor to buy another animal and is himself doing duty as a draft horse. The family is in absolutely destitute circumstances.

Molders in Deadly Fight.

A bloody battle with revolvers, bricks and clubs was fought in the "tenderloin" district of Cleveland, between union and non-union molders. As a result Detective Sergeant Foulks and two others were killed, three men are in the hospitals with bullet wounds, one of them fatally wounded, and others known to have been wounded were carried away by friends. Over thirty shots were fired.

Killed in a Santa Fe Wreck.

Two men were killed and four persons seriously injured, and twenty others badly bruised, in a wreck on the Santa Fe fifteen miles south of Guthrie, O. T. The train was running forty-five miles an hour to make up forty minutes' lost time. The baggage, express, mail and smoking cars jumped the track and turned upside down in the ditch.

Mystery in a Man's Death.

The mangled body of Patrick Mullen was found on the track of the electric railroad at Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio. Discoveries were made which indicate that Mullen was murdered back of a blacksmith shop about a quarter of a mile away, and that the body was placed on the track by his murderers. He had considerable money when last seen alive.

Two Killed in Explosion.

While employes at the dyeing and cleaning establishment of Joseph Irlbacher in Pittsburg, were engaged in cleaning clothes a blaze generated by the brisk application of gasoline communicated to a tub of liquid standing near by, causing an explosion and fire, resulting in the death of two persons and badly injuring two others.

Solomon City Devastated.

News has been received that Solomon City, at the mouth of Solomon river, was devastated by the recent storm on the coast of Alaska. All buildings were either swept away by the waves or wrecked by the wind. The town had a population of 200, all of whom are destitute and homeless.

Mrs. Frank Lasile Steps Out.

Mrs. Frank Leslie officially announces that she has resigned from the editorship and has severed her connection with the management of Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly. She also intimates that she has been forced out by trickery.

Kansas Man Kills Himself.

George A. August, who registered as a clothing salesman from Topeka, Kan., and who was about 35 years old, committed suicide in his room on the third floor of the Hotel George in New York by shooting himself.

Lone Bandit Robs a Stage.

The Ontario and Burns stage was held up seventy miles out of Ontario, Idaho, by a lone highwayman, who fired a shot across the road and demanded the mail. This was thrown out and the stage was not further molested.

Broker Cottrell a Suicide.

Edwin Cottrell, once the heaviest plunger in the wheat pit, killed himself in Central Park, New York, by swallowing carbolic acid, a precedent having been established by his brother, T. D. Cottrell of Chicago.

Gives Her Nurse $1,000,000.

Mrs. Ora Horsman, a pretty nurse at Lynn, Mass., is worth perhaps $1,000,000, due to the beneficence of Mrs. William Porter of Boston. Mrs. Porter has been nursed and cared for by Mrs. Ora Horsman.

Fatal Wreck in Utah.

A disastrous wreck occurred on the Southern Pacific at Gartner Siding, near the Utah-Nevada line. Train No. 4 went into the ditch and one woman was killed and fifteen other persons more or less injured.

Murderer Is Hanged Twice.

After being twice dropped from the scaffold without breaking his neck, Archie Kinsauls died from strangulation in Charlotte, N. C. Kinsauls was a murderer.

Double Tragedy at Falmouth, Ky.

Charles Anderson, moved by domestic trouble, shot and killed his wife at Kock's Hotel at Falmouth, Ky., and then shot himself.

Will Fight the Box Trust.

E. J. Alsebrooke, F. C. Royal and P. W. Schenck of the National Box Company of Chicago have purchased a large tract of land near Paragould, Ark., and will establish there a big box factory. The concern will have a paid-up capital of $200,000 and its object in locating in the South is to be able to get plenty of timber at a very low price, so it may be able successfully to fight the box trust.

FOR LOVE OF WILHELMINA.

Prince Henri of Saxe-Weimar Said to Have Committed Suicide When Refused.

Is Queen Wilhelmina, the young ruler of the Netherlands, responsible for the death of her cousin, Prince Bernard Henri of Saxe-Weimar? That is the question that has been on every one's lips since the sudden death of the young man at Potsdam. Prince Henri was only 22 years of age and his sudden death is shrouded in mystery. No details of his end have been given out and everything is kept as secret as possible. It is openly hinted that the prince took his own life in despair over the delay which had been given to the answer to his request for the hand of his queen cousin. That the head of the house of Saxe-Weimar died of a broken heart no one doubts, and everything points to the theory that he hastened his end with his own hand. For more than a year Prince Henri had been an ardent suitor for the hand of Wilhelmina. He pressed his suit with all the ardor and strength characteristic of his house, and the denial of his most cherished hopes at last came, after he had been led on to expect that he was not unwelcome as a suitor for the hand of Holland's queen. He never recovered from the shock of the refusal.

WOMAN MURDERED BY ROBBER.

Tragedy and Theft at Kicking Horse, South Dakota.

Word has come from Garden City mining camp, west of Deadwood, S. D., that Mrs. N. M. Herdin, wife of the engineer at Kicking Horse mine, was shot and instantly killed by an unknown person who entered the house for robbery. A little son tells that an old man pushed open the front door and shot five times at his mother. The man then hunted for some money which had been saved and hidden in the house. About $200 was stolen. After the shooting the man stole a horse and buggy and escaped.

Court Order Gives Him Two Wives.

In St. Lous Judge Jacob Klein entered an order in the Circuit Court that leaves Robert William Blaisdell with two wives. The order sets aside a decree of divorce granted to Blaisdell by default in Judge Klein's court June 28, 1900. Since the divorce decree was granted Blaisdell has taken another wife.

Von Ketteler's Slayer Not Sentenced.

The Manchu assassin of Baron von Ketteler was tried by court martial in Pekin. No new evidence was presented and the court decided that it would be unjustified in pronouncing sentence upon the prisoner, who, however, will be held in the hope that further information will be obtained.

Bad Fire in Sheldon, Ill.

Fire destroyed four brick business buildings at Sheldon, Ill. Loss $25,000, insured. The fire started in a drug store from an unknown cause, and for a time threatened to destroy the entire business district. Help was summoned from Kankakee, but the local department succeeded in checking the fire.

Two Killed in a Wreck.

A fast freight train crashed into a switch engine on the Detroit, Grand Haven and Milwaukee Railroad at Durand, Mich., killing Engineer Thomas Hamlin of Detroit and Fireman John Linden of Ionia. Twenty-four loaded cars were burned and both engines were demolished.

Murdered in His Pulpit.

Pastors Young Reeder and Henry Williams were shot down in the pulpit of Belmont Baptist Church, Newberry County, S. C., during a prayer meeting. Rev. Mr. Reeder was bitterly opposed as pastor by one faction and as vigorously supported by the other. The fatal shots were fired through a window.

Lawton Killed by a Deserter.

Leon Mayhue, a private in Troop I, Eleventh United States Cavalry, who returned from the Philippines recently, was present when Gen. Henry W. Lawton was killed last December near San Mateo. He saw the shot fired and declares that the man who aimed the rifle was a deserter from the American army.

Gov. Beckham to Wed.

The announcement is made that Gov. J. C. Beckham and Miss Jean Fuqua of Owensboro, Ky., will be married at the First Presbyterian Church in Owensboro Nov. 21.

Roberts Made Commander-in-Chief.

Field Marshal Lord Frederick Sleigh Roberts has been appointed commander-in-chief of the British army, succeeding Field Marshal Sir Garnet Joseph Wolseley.

Rob a Safe in the Vatican.

Thieves entered the Vatican at Rome, forced a safe and carried off securities worth 357,000 lire and 3,000 lire in silver.

Parent Premier of Quebec.

S. N. Parent has accepted the premiership of Quebec, to succeed the late Premier Marchand.

THE MARKETS.

Chicago—Cattle, common to prime, $3.00 to $5.70; hogs, shipping grades, $3.00 to $5.47; sheep, fair to choice, $3.00 to $4.20; wheat, No. 2 red, 77c to 78c; corn, No. 2, 39c to 40c; oats, No. 2, 21c to 22c; rye, No. 2, 50c to 51c; butter, choice creamery, 18c to 21c; eggs, fresh, 13c to 16c; potatoes, 31c to 34c per bushel.

Indianapolis—Cattle, shipping, $3.00 to $5.80; hogs, choice light, $5.00 to $5.50; sheep, common to prime, $3.00 to $4.00; wheat, No. 2, 78c to 79c; corn, No. 2 white, 41c to 42c; oats, No. 2 white, 23c to 24c.

St. Louis—Cattle, $3.25 to $5.75; hogs, $3.00 to $5.40; sheep, $3.00 to $4.00; wheat, No. 2, 74c to 75c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 37c to 38c; oats, No. 2, 22c to 23c; rye, No. 2, 54c to 55c.

Cincinnati—Cattle, $3.00 to $5.25; hogs, $3.00 to $5.45; sheep, $3.00 to $3.65; wheat, No. 2, 77c to 78c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 42c to 43c; oats, No. 2 mixed, 22c to 23c; rye, No. 2, 56c to 57c.

Detroit—Cattle, $2.50 to $5.35; hogs, $3.00 to $5.45; sheep, $3.00 to $4.00; wheat, No. 2, 78c to 79c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 42c to 43c; oats, No. 2 white, 25c to 26c; rye, 53c to 54c.

Toledo—Wheat, No. 2 mixed, 78c to 79c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 40c to 41c; oats, No. 2 mixed, 22c to 23c; rye, No. 2, 54c to 55c; clover seed, prime, $5.80 to $7.00.

Milwaukee—Wheat, No. 2 northern, 78c to 79c; corn, No. 3, 40c to 41c; oats, No. 2 white, 25c to 26c; rye, No. 1, 54c to 55c; barley, No. 2, 56c to 57c; pork, mess, $11.70; to $12.20.

Buffalo—Cattle, choice shipping steers, $3.00 to $5.75; hogs, fair to prime, $3.00 to $5.70; sheep, fair to choice, $3.00 to $4.00; lambs, common to extra, $4.00 to $5.25.

New York—Cattle, $3.25 to $5.80; hogs, $3.00 to $5.85; sheep, $3.00 to $4.10; wheat, No. 2 red, 80c to 81c; corn, No. 2, 47c to 48c; oats, No. 2 white, 26c to 27c; butter, creamery, 20c to 22c; eggs, western, 20c to 21c.

MANY TRAINS ROBBED

BANDITS GET NEARLY $100,000 DURING THE YEAR.

Detectives Declare that the Work Has Been Done by Novices and that Veterans Are Quiescent—Very Few Captures Made.

Officials of railroad and express companies fear an epidemic of train and express car robberies. Though detectives profess to believe that holding up of trains is an industry that is rapidly going out of fashion, the men who make robbery a profession do not seem to be in accord with their views.

Within the last year five express cars were looted and the robbers secured $76,700. This is the loss as estimated by express companies, but it is a noted fact that officials of carrier companies are always inclined to withhold the real figures so as to discourage future attempts. In the same period of a year one express company has suffered a loss of $21,000 by packages which disappeared while in transit. Passengers on two trains and one stage line were relieved of money and valuables. Thus, despite all efforts to class the train robber and express thief as a personage of the past, the total profits to the followers of the profession for less than a year have summed up at least $100,000.

In addition to this two unsuccessful attempts were made to rob trains, which would have put the sum total away above that mark.

Robbery Record.

Following is the list of robberies which have taken place in the United States since Oct. 13, 1899:

Oct. 13, 1899—Chicago and Northwestern train held up at Tower W. Express safe blown up with dynamite. Proceeds of booty estimated at $10,000.

Oct. 13, 1899—Missouri, Kansas and Texas train near Sherman, Texas, looted by robbers. Express safe broken. Proceeds of robbery estimated at $10,000.

Nov. 16, 1899—Unsuccessful attempt to rob express car on Lake Shore Railroad at Dock Junction, near Erie, Pa.

Dec. 1, 1899—Lone robber held up messengers in Southern Express Company car near Brandsville, S. C. Proceeds of robbery, $1,700.

March 23, 1900—Kansas City, St. Joseph and Council Bluffs train held up by lone robber. Passengers relieved of money and jewelry. Total proceeds of booty, $300.

June 2, 1900—Yosemite stage coaches held up by the "Black Kid," who robbed twenty-seven men and five women. Proceeds, $250.

July 11, 1900—New Orleans train of Illinois Central held up near Mayfield Creek, Ky. Express car and safe blown up with dynamite. Estimated proceeds, $10,000.

Aug. 1, 1900—Unsuccessful attempt to hold up St. Paul train near Raymoor, Wis. Plan miscarried because train was late.

Aug. 5, 1900—Passengers on Union Pacific train No. 4 robbed of $200.

Aug. 10, 1900—Express car on Pennsylvania express train entered and Messenger John Lane killed. Express safe looted. Proceeds of robbery estimated at $45,000.

Aug. 17, 1900—Package consigned to National State Bank at Burlington, Iowa, from the Commercial National Bank, Chicago, lost. Adams Express Company's loss, $20,000.

Sept. 24, 1900—Package of currency disappeared from Adams Express Company's office at Keokuk. Loss of express company, $1,000.

The Chinese imbroglio is still within the diplomatic stage. The powers interested in the far East find the same difficulty in agreeing to the German proposals—i. e., that the leaders in the anti-foreign demonstrations in China shall be given over to the powers for punishment before negotiations for peace began—that they experienced in accepting the Russian plan for the withdrawal of all the troops from Pekin. Up to the present writing it appears that only Austria and Italy have accepted the Kaiser's plan without reservation. The United States and Great Britain have rejected it, but have committed themselves to the policy of demanding the punishment of the leaders responsible for the attacks on the foreigners. France and Russia have assented to the greater part of the German proposal, but do not insist upon punishment before negotiations are opened. Japan's position is similar to that of France and Russia. The German press has bitterly attacked the United States for refusing to accept the Kaiser's proposals. At the same time it is admitted that the proposals will be modified to meet the varied ideas of the powers.

-:—:-

There is nothing in the South African situation that warrants the belief that the Boer cause is any the less hopeless. The members of Kruger's cabinet have sailed for Europe. The Auditor of State has taken the public records and archives, and the treasurer has taken with him what funds are left in the strong box. There is no longer a Transvaal government. Seven thousand British troops occupy Koomatie Poort, the town on the railway at the frontier. The railway from Delagoa Bay to Pretoria is practically open. British railway experts declare that within a few weeks 20,000 soldiers will be ample to police the two republics.

-:—:-

President Loubet of France seems to have completely won the loyalty and affection of the French army. A year ago the army was supposed to have been intensely hostile to him. During the year Loubet treated the army with the utmost rigor. He ruled with an iron hand, and not until it was made to know that France had a President determined to rule did it realize that it was no longer a disturbing element in French politics. Having brought the army into submission, President Loubet seems to have drawn the glove of velvet over the hand of iron.

-:—:-

It is annaunced that Turkey has awarded an American company the contract for the steel rails for the proposed railroad from Constantinople to Mecca. The railroad, if it is ever built, will traverse western Asia Minor, Syria and Arabia. Aside from its utility for conveying the hundreds of thousands of pilgrims who annually visit the shrine of Mecca, the railroad will traverse the only territory left to the Sultan in Asia.

-:—:-

Russian and German commercial and political aggression in Asiatic Turkey and the vehement agitation for independence in all the European provinces of Turkey will unquestionably bring about the downfall of the Ottoman empire. Russia or Germany will some day sit in power at Constantinople.

-:—:-

The New Zealand government has decided to issue workmen's tickets from nearly all the principal towns to suburbs up to a twelve mile distance at a uniform charge of 2 shillings per week.

BLOCK A SETTLEMENT.

Independent Mine Operators Say Railroads Must First Yield.

A committee of the independent anthracite mine operators on Tuesday visited the presidents of the coal roads and protested against being coerced into granting higher wages and other concessions to their men, which they declare means their undoing, unless the coal carrying railroads give them better rates. All the coal roads Tuesday followed the example of the Reading and offered 10 per cent higher wages and powder at $1.70 a keg to their men, if they would return to work, but the independent operators would not follow their lead.

President Mitchell said "The tie-up is practically complete, and there will be no resumption of work without there first being a committee appointed from every colliery in the coal fields." At United Mine Workers' headquarters this statement is given out:

"What we want is:

"1. A better enforcement of existing mine laws.

"2. To obtain that which is fully our own, i. e., the value of labor actually performed and hitherto taken from us.

"3. To obtain the right to purchase our implements of labor at a fair market value and escape from the compulsory rule which forces us to pay the operators more than twice what the same material can be purchased for at retail in the open market.

"4. To allow a readjustment of the wage scale that will nearly conform to the normal conditions of the anthracite trade and establish as nearly as practicable a uniform price for each class of work in and around the mines."

The strikers say until these concessions are granted and the union recognized they will not return to work.

At Lattimer the miners adopted new tactics. When ordered to halt by the deputies they held their hands above their heads to show they were unarmed, and swept the guards aside. At Jeddo the miners were met by Sheriff Harvey, who gave each man a cigar, marched with them through the mining villages, and then advised them to go home. This they did. As a result of the demonstration, however, the Oneida colliery, employing 3,000 men, shut down.

Although the labor leaders positively said they did not fear a break in the ranks of the anthracite coal strikers, they were nevertheless pleased to learn that the 10 per cent advance granted by the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company in the Schuylkill valley was totally ignored by the striking mine workers.

It was predicted that many of the strikers would return to work under the belief that the 10 per cent increase would be the limit of the operators' concessions, but the unanimity of the men in deciding to stand out for a further advance caused many remarks of surprise. The strike situation in the Lehigh valley showed a change in favor of the men. Several hundred men quit work at the Calvin Pardee mines, and at Oneida and Cranberry the coal companies lost additional men. Organizer James informed President Mitchell that he anticipated a complete suspension of operations in the valley.

ROBERTS MADE ARMY CHIEF.

Hero of South Africa Gets a Promotion on His Birthday.

Lord Roberts is now commander-in-chief of the British army. The announcement, long expected, was officially made on the birthday of the hero of Kandahar. The formal announcement is hailed by the Unionist party as a pledge that the army reorganization will be carried out in the most effective manner. Gen. Buller should succeed Lord Roberts in South Africa. He will be the senior officer there when the field marshal leaves and there are several others who rank before Kitchener.

Lord Roberts commenced his military services as a lieutenant of a mountain battery of native artillerymen at Peshawar, India. His assignment to South Africa was a significent notice to the world that Britain meant once and for all to crush out the aspirations of the Dutch republics for separate and independent statehood. Lord Roberts is a remarkable personality. In the first place, he is, like the great Wellington, of Irish parentage, though born in India—the son of Gen. Sir Abraham Roberts—and never fails to awaken the enthusiasm of the sons of Erin. He never knows when he is defeated.

LORD ROBERTS.

News of Minor Note.

Lymph taken from the lymphatic glands of goats is now being tried in cases of apoplexy.

Road improvement has begun in the Philippines, with money collected from customs at Manila.

Over $1,000,000 worth of diamonds are stolen every year from the South African diamond mines.

Census returns: Sacramento, Cal., 29,282, increase 10.98 per cent; Pueblo, Colo., 28,157, increase 14.66 per cent.

Illinois sentiment against trusts will cause the Diamond Match Company to remove its offices to New York within six weeks.

E. A. Davis, Chicago, one of the legatees in the famous Davis will case and one of the heirs to millions, died of brain fever.

W. A. Clark, the mine owner of Montana, has purchased a one-half interest in the Los Angeles Terminal Railway, which will be extended to Salt Lake City.

Raphael Damuno of New York cut the throats of his wife and child because his wife refused to live with him.

Last year there were imported into the United States over 1,000,000,000 grains of quinine, costing over $1,500,000.

It was in the last weeks of July, just a century ago, that a Frenchman named Lebon made the first public demonstration of the use of gas for illuminating purposes.

In the course of a law suit in Liverpool recently the fact was developed that millions of eggs are annually imported to Belfast from Russia and then sent over to England and Scotland, and sold as "fresh Irish eggs."

Evolution of the Two-Minute Horse.

In connection with the great performance of The Abbott, when he lowered the world's trotting record at Terre Haute recently, the development of the trotter, as shown by the world's record from the beginning of the century, is interesting. All these marks were made in the United States:

1806—Yankee	2:59
1810—A horse from Boston	2:48½
1824—Topgallant (saddle)	2:40
1830—Burster (saddle)	2:32
1834—Edwin Forrest (saddle)	2:31½
1843—Lady Suffolk (saddle)	2:28
1844—Lady Suffolk (saddle)	2:26½
1852—Tacony (saddle	2:26
1852—Tacony (saddle)	2:25½
1856—Flora Temple	2:24½
1859—Flora Temple	2:19¾
1865—Dexter	2:18¾
1866—Dexter	2:18
1867—Dexter	2:17¼
1871—Goldsmith Maid	2:17
1872—Goldsmith Maid	2:16¾
1874—Goldsmith Maid	2:14
1878—Rarus	2:13¾
1879—St. Julien	2:12¾
1880—Maud S.	2:10¾
1881—Maud S.	2:10¾
1884—Jay-Eye-See	2:10
1884—Maud S.	2:09¾
1884—Maud S.	2:09¼
1885—Maud S.	2:08¾
1891—Sunol (kite track)	2:08¼
1892—Stamboul	2:08
1892—Kremlin	2:07¾
1893—Stamboul	2:07½
1892—Nancy Hanks	2:07¼
189.—Nancy Hanks	2:05¼
1892—Nancy Hanks	2:04
1894—Alix	2:03¾
1900—The Abbott	2:03¼

CONDITION OF CROPS.

Generally Favorable Outlook East of Mississippi River.

The weekly crop report gives the following summary of crop conditions: Rain is generally needed in the South Atlantic and east gulf States, and over portions of the upper Ohio valley, lower lake region and middle Atlantic States, while excessive moisture, due largely to the rains of the previous week, retarded farm work over the region extending from Arkansas and Oklahoma northward to Minnesota, and the Dakotas. Killing frosts occurred in Minnesota and upper Missouri valley, and over the northern Rocky Mountain and North Pacific coast regions, the principal damage being that done to late flax in Minnesota and the Dakotas. Very favorable conditions prevailed in the west gulf States, central Mississippi and lower Ohio valleys, and generally on the Pacific coast.

East of the Mississippi river the week has been very favorable for gathering corn, but in the principal corn States westward of the Mississippi this work has been interrupted by wet weather, and in portions of Iowa, Missouri and Kansas some damage has been done by heavy rains.

Except where interrupted by rains in portions of Arkansas, Oklahoma and Missouri cotton picking has progressed under exceptionally favorable conditions, and is unusually well advanced. In the central and eastern portions of the cotton belt the bulk of the crop will be gathered by Oct. 10. Picking is also progressing regularly in Texas, except in the lower Brazos bottoms, inundated by the rains of the previous week, where the crop is almost a failure.

Excellent progress has been made with plowing for fall seeding in the States west of the Mississippi river and in portions of the Ohio valley and middle Atlantic States, but in the South Atlantic and east gulf States the ground has been too dry for this work.

The Georgia ballot this year was the longest on record.

J. Sterling Morton replied to Bryan's speech on State issues.

Missouri Populists have indorsed the entire Democratic State ticket.

Gov. Roosevelt will begin his West Virginia tour at Wheeling Oct. 27.

Bourke Cockran addressed an audience of about 3,000 people at Aurora, Ill.

The Daly faction of the Montana Democrats nominated a full State ticket.

President McKinley is utilizing his stay at Canton, Ohio, to take much exercise.

Senator Beveridge addressed a large crowd at the corn carnival in Peoria.

Eugene V. Debs, Socialist Democratic nominee for President, spoke at Chicago.

Senator Hanna has made no definite arrangements about a trip to South Dakota.

Senator Allison discussed imperialism in a crowded meeting at Des Moines, Iowa.

Postmaster General Smith has returned to Washington from a campaign tour in West Virginia.

Senator Burrows of Michigan opened the Republican campaign in Lincoln, Neb., Bryan's home.

At a luncheon to business men in Chicago Hanna made a speech, warning them that they must wake up.

Cardinal Gibbons declines to state how he will vote on Nov. 6. It has always been his rule to refrain from expression on account of its influence.

Ex-Gov. Stone of Missouri, Democratic national vice-chairman, will make speeches in New York State with Mr. Stanchfield, nominee for Governor.

Perry Heath and Committeeman Dick Kerens are touring the West in the interests of the Republicans.

Congressman Charles K. Wheeler of Kentucky delivered a speech against the Republicans in the court house at Frankfort, Ky.

Theodore Roosevelt's name is so long that the official ballot of New York State must be widened a quarter inch to provide room for it.

Bourke Cockran strained his voice in Chicago in speaking to 12,000 people against imperialism, and has been forced to undergo treatment.

The Prohibitionists of Rhode Island have nominated W. E. Brightman and B. E. Holmes for Congress.

Congressman Sulzer of New York has been invited to accompany Mr. Bryan during the remainder of his campaign tour.

Negroes controlled the South Carolina Republican State convention at Columbia. They defeated every white nominated for temporary office. No ticket was named.

Ex-Senator Quay of Pennsylvania made the first of a series of Republican speeches at Westchester, Pa., before a large crowd. He devoted much of his attention to his personal enemies.

INDIANA INCIDENTS.

RECORD OF EVENTS OF THE PAST WEEK.

Opening Up Brown County to Outside World—Balloonist Falls in Front of Freight Engine—Suit for Alienation—Partner Skips with Firm's Cash.

Brown County has at last opened up communication with the outside world. Up to a few days ago the county was without telegraph or telephone service, and not a foot of railroad has ever been laid within the wild, mountainous district. Not long since, however, some one discovered an artesian well of water which is said to possess certain curative qualities, and this was followed by the building of a sanitarium. The institution has been connected by telephone with the city of Bloomington, and this, it is asserted, will be followed by other developments. The locomotive threatens to send a series of re-echoing toots over the hills and dales of the wildest and most awe-inspiring scenery of the Hoosier State. The people of Brown County, the descendants of the first white inhabitants, are said to be opposed to the invasion. They had built some first-class turnpikes to Nashville, the county seat, and other places, and they "allow" the railroads will come along and render all of this work needless.

Aeronaut Nearly Run Over.

Jennie Woodall of Terre Haute fell with her balloon and parachute on the track of the Southern Indiana road in front of a freight train, whose engineer stopped his engine in the nick of time to save her from instant death. The only injury the woman suffered was a drenching by passing through rain clouds. She made the ascension from the Pierson fair grounds and when she could not loosen the parachute and disappeared in the clouds women on the fair grounds fainted and men hurriedly started on horses in the direction the balloon had taken. She landed three miles from the fair grounds.

Rates His Wife at $15,000.

Herbert Emert, living near Belvidere, Ill., has brought suit for $15,000 in the Starke County Circuit Court against Velentine Awald and wife. The complaint charges the defendants with alienating the affections of Emert's wife, who is their daughter. Emert and Miss Awald were married about two years ago. The match was made in the face of strong parental objection and the estrangement is attributed to the interference of Awald and his wife with the domestic affairs of Emert and his spouse.

Skips with Firm's Cash.

Edward Boos of the tailoring firm of Boos & Vurpillat of Marion has disappeared. Charles Vurpillat, his partner, learned that Boos had drawn $300 from the bank, which was all the money on deposit, and had purchased a ticket for Canada.

State News in Brief.

Postoffice at Jalapa discontinued.

Myrtle Helm, 7, Marion, was burned to death.

Muncie iron and steel mills employ 1,600 men.

New co-operative window glass factory at Hartford City.

August Rile, Liberty, a soldier in the Philippines, is dead.

Barnhart Learner, 92, oldest pioneer of Howard County, is dead.

John Walter Lowry has been appointed postmaster at Knightstown.

Stanfield J. James, 81, Putnam County pioneer, died near Fillmore.

Muncie will have a tea saloon, to keep men from going to liquor saloons.

Chenial Rybolt, 87, who died near Elwood, is said to have 118 living descendants.

Muncie City Council decided against contemplated increase in natural gas rates.

Eureka Steel Company, Kokomo, started in opposition to the trust, has been closed.

Occupants of the home of J. B. Creek, Muncie, were chloroformed and the house robbed.

The 30-months-old child of George Hall, Medora, was killed by the accidental discharge of a rifle.

Mrs. Huffman, living near Dunkirk, was badly bitten about the arms and chest by four vicious hogs.

Frank Keil, farmer, living near Princeton, hanged himself because of failure of crops and business disappointments.

Charles Baker, 25, at Rising Sun, got from five to twenty-one years in the reformatory for firing barns, granaries and straw and hay stacks.

During a funeral at Muncie the team of William James became frightened at a band leading the cortege and ran away, dragging James half a mile. He sustained fatal injuries.

Seven cases of smallpox were discovered in Fulton County by the secretary of the Board of Health. The disease is confined to two families four miles apart in the country.

O. S. Anderson, near Lamb, has raised the largest melon ever produced in the Ohio valley. It measures four feet two and a half inches long, three feet eight inches around and weighs 58 pounds.

William Driscoll and wife, both about 60 years old, prominent and wealthy, were killed almost in the heart of Muncie by being struck by a Big Four incoming passenger train while driving across the track.

F. A. Walker of Anderson was appointed receiver for the Ingalls Zinc Company. The object is to effect a reorganization of the company. The liabilities amount to $20,000 and are liquidated by creditors taking new stock.

B. S. Kennett and Simon Haag, New Albany, both past 70, brothers-in-law, quarreled over household furniture, and Kennett was stabbed three times.

A play at the Muncie opera house was interrupted while an account of the arrest of the Keating brothers was read to the audience from the extra edition of a newspaper.

When Veedersburg changed from a town to a city last spring the Council elected a new school board, and the old town board sued to restrain the new board from acting. Court sustains new board.

Miss Aimie Rider, 16, Scottsburg, daughter of a prominent and wealthy citizen, killed herself. Cause unknown.

The $1,000,000 estate at South Bend said to have been left to Miss Grace Porter, telephone operator

SOME STYLES IN CHILDREN'S DRESSES FOR SCHOOL.

The reopening of school is a source of regret to the children, but to mothers it brings problems of perplexity. Children are no respecters of dress, and the question of wherewithal shall Katie, or Susie, or Rosie, be clothed is an ever-present one. Muslins and ginghams must soon be put away and flannels and serges be made up into pretty costumes for the little people. Durability and simplicity should be prominent characteristics of school garments, but the little dresses should be pretty as well as useful. Maternal pride is ever ready to assert itself, and, happily, mothers no longer cling to the Puritanical idea that to put a pretty dress on a child means to swell unduly its bump of vanity. On the other hand, pretty clothes do not mean elaborate nor extravagant clothes. There is no more pitiable sight than a much beruffled, bejeweled and befrizzled grown-up little girl.

Cashmere is to be in high favor. None of the substitutes has stood the wear and tear like cashmere. Nun's veiling and mohair are also being used for early fall school frocks. Cheviots and the serges are old standbys. Tucks, cords, plaits and machine stitching and braiding are the principal trimmings for school dresses. Silk and velvet are employed for trimming, and lace in slight quantities. There are the fancy gold and silver braids, but these are better reserved for best frocks. Narrow black velvet ribbon is always a pretty and very suitable and durable garniture for the little gowns, and its possibilities of application are unlimited. Bright-tinted embroideries will be in great favor among trimmings, and they are very effective and appropriate. The Russian dress will be a popular design, and on these Russian embroidery will be much used as a trimming.

Buttons are again fashionable, and they not only play a useful, but ornamental, part in the calculations for juvenile modes for the fall. Small gold and silver buttons give a very picturesque finishing touch to many of the little frocks, and a few very large ornamental buttons are used with good effect.

Guimpes and collars of many kinds will be used. The big white collars of lawn linen, pique, embroidery and lace will continue to be worn. The white wash fabrics with embroidery are the most serviceable.

PHYLLIS.

In powdered wig and silken hose,
Young Corydon as suitor kneels,
To offer Phyllis fair the rose
That in its tender tint reveals
The color of his beating heart,
Which Cupid shivered with a dart.

But Phyllis coyly hesitates;
She may—she can't—she won't—she will,
The while her patient lover waits,
With all his heart a-beating still.
For Doubt itself suggests a chance
Of waking up the rare romance.

His face is fair; his eyes are blue;
He kneels a suppliant at her feet;
And surely must his heart be true,
Thus, with a smile serene and sweet,
She gently takes the proffered rose—
And ends his hopes and fears and woes.

Then Corydon pursues his suit
With tender touch and facile phrase,
While Phyllis, for the moment mute,
With eyes cast down before his gaze,
Lists to the tale of love lifelong,
To echo the immortal song. . . .

How often Watteau limned the pair,
And won the praise of many pens!
But disillusion's in the air,
And here they pose before the lens.
Yet Phyllis in her rich brocade
Is Phyllis still—in tailor-made.

Be sure we love her just the same
As in the days of yore, when we
Were wont to play the wooing game
In buckled shoon, on bended knee.
The Heart that loves is still a Heart
In all the divers dreams of Art.
—The Sketch.

JOAN'S INEXPERIENCE.

RUTH, Ruth, it's important; I want you——" from the further side of my door.

I had resolved to devote the morning to study, but, mother being on the continent, I felt a certain responsibility for my beautiful younger sister. The "important" decided me.

"What is it?" I asked, as she entered the room.

"You'll never guess. Lord Avonmouth has proposed."

"But you haven't accepted him?" I asked, fearful that inexperienced Joan should trust her life to the man with the worst reputation in the county.

"Why not?"

"You don't know anything about him!"

"Don't I? He's the most charming man I ever met, and I certainly said 'yes.'"

"What will mother say?" I asked, as Joan, not at all discomfited at my cool reception of her news, left my room, humming the refrain of a song.

Perplexed with the situation that had suddenly arisen, I went down-stairs to find our old friend and neighbor, Jack Villiers, of whose presence the exigencies of the diplomatic service, to which he belonged, would soon deprive us. I told him of my trouble, and ended by asking his advice.

Ten minutes later he said:

"This is my idea. Joan is impressionable. I have an old friend in town who has a rare knack of fascinating girls; I'll get him down for a week's shoot. If he devotes his time to Joan it may destroy her inclination for Avonmouth."

The plan seemed feasible. I prayed that Joan's affections would be diverted from their objectionable object.

Two days later I received a note from Jack saying that his friend had accepted the invitation and was coming to-day.

When I descended about luncheon time, Jack and his friend were the only occupants of the drawing-room.

"Let me introduce you to my old friend, Claud Blackwood," said Jack.

I gave my hand mechanically. My thoughts were concerned with Joan's future.

Later, I noticed that he had fine eyes and there was plenty of him, but all the same I was disappointed. Perhaps I expected too much.

Soon Lord Avonmouth and Joan strolled in from the garden, and, after the usual commonplaces, we went in to luncheon. Before half an hour had passed, I discovered that Captain Blackwood fascinated me, and to such an extent that I almost forgot my fears with regard to Joan. She, too, seemed interested. Her white muslin dress, decorated with a red rose at her waist, showed off to advantage her rich, young beauty.

After lunch, while Joan and I waited the men in the rose garden, I was strangely silent. I had only thought for Jack's friend.

When the men had been with us some few minutes Jack maneuvered so that Captain Blackwood and Joan strolled off to inspect some ruins at the farther end of the park.

"Well contrived," whispered Jack as they disappeared from our sight.

"Well contrived!" I echoed absently.

The next morning we assembled for a ride previously arranged. Jack again managed that Captain Blackwood accompanied Joan.

Though the knowledge that he left my side reluctantly gave me intense secret pleasure, I found myself surrendering to a desire for isolation; and soon I was alone with the softly whispering trees. Their sadness had never seemed so attuned to my mood before.

Horses hoofs, a beating of my heart, and Jack's friend drew rein beside me. The whispering of the trees was so beautiful I wondered I had not noticed it before.

He did not speak. I summoned courage to glance at his face—only for a moment.

"I think we had better find the

I ONLY SHOOK MY HEAD.

others," I said, "I want to speak to Jack."

"Have I offended you?"

He never knew the effort it cost me to curb his ardor when he reminded me of my self-imposed duty to Joan.

Ten minutes later Jack was beside me.

"Blackwood said you wanted me."

"I want him to give all his time to Joan. Have you forgotten our compact?"

He was so confused that I said to him: "What's the matter?" Then as he did not answer, "Surely you can tell me," I said.

"I love Joan, have always loved her, and you know it's hopeless, hopeless, hopeless."

I did not contradict him.

A week passed, and Captain Blackwood, happily, was still among us. Our scheme, as far as Joan was concerned, had answered admirably. She had been so distant to Lord Avonmouth that he had betaken himself to Paris. But I had saved Joan by compromising my life's happiness. I loved Captain Blackwood, and I feared with a great fear the day on which he would take his imminent departure.

While he was near I could be almost happy. But I knew the blackness that would supervene when he had gone.

At last the moment of the dreaded day arrived when we were to say good-by.

He stood before me. I could not look at him.

"Ruth!"

"Good-by!" I whispered.

"Not good-by. Never good-by."

"Why?" I timidly whispered.

"I love you, I love you." Then, after a pause. "Have you no word for me?"

Duty to Joan alone restrained me from throwing my arms about his neck.

"Have you no word for me?"

I could not speak, I only shook my head.

When I next had a consciousness of things he was gone.

"Where's Ruth?" cried a voice.

It was Joan's. I dried my eyes and summoned the ghost of a smile.

"Here she is!" cried Jack's voice.

They entered together.

"Why didn't you come with us to the station? Captain Blackwood was in such a bad temper we left him before the train started," said Joan.

"A good job, too," from Jack.

"Jack!" from Joan.

"It is. Joan and I are engaged. I should never have asked if we hadn't found ourselves alone on the way——"

"What?" I gasped.

For answer Joan took Jack's hand in hers.

"What about Lord Avonmouth?" I asked when a few moments later Joan and I were alone together.

"I hate him. I always loved Jack, and I knew he loved me, but he wouldn't speak. I pretended to care for Lord Avonmouth as Jack was going away, and—what is the matter, Ruth?"

I had no time and less inclination to explain. I seized a hat and hurried toward the station.

Half way there I paused for breath.

The warning whistle of a train seemed to stab my heart.

"Come back, come back, my love," I cried.

For answer a cloud of white smoke that told me of the departure of the man I loved. All the same I pressed on. Arrived at the station I almost fell into the arms of the stationmaster, who prided himself on the flowers that decorated his station.

"What's happened, miss?"

"I want a gentleman, but he's gone."

"There's a lunatic here, if that's him, miss."

My attention was drawn to a knot of officials who were watching a tall, well-built man who was viciously striking the heads from the flowers with a walking cane.

"A lunatic," I gasped.

"Well, miss, he drove for a certain train, but didn't go by it. Ever since he's been spoiling my flowers, and he looked so savage none of us liked to interfere."

At that moment the lunatic caught my eyes.

He approached.

It was the man I loved.

"You!"

"Yes, dear."

Our eyes said all that was left unspoken.—Mainly About People.

The Telephone in Russia.

The telephone has not made much progress in Russia. Last year there were only 8,331 subscribers to the state lines, and 10,164 subscribers to private lines.

SUPPOSE WE SMILE.

HUMOROUS PARAGRAPHS FROM THE COMIC PAPERS.

Pleasant Incidents Occurring the World Over—Sayings that Are Cheerful to Old or Young—Funny Selections that Everybody Will Enjoy.

Mrs. Jimson—My dear, we must go to the seaside, and the mountains, and the springs.

Mr. Jimson—We are comfortable enough here at home.

Mrs. Jimson—Yes, we are now, but you men are so short-sighted! Just think how uncomfortable we will be when people come back and begin to tell where they've been.—New York Weekly.

Ruin in Its Wake.

Bighead—War is a terrible curse, isn't it?

Critic—I should say so. I have noticed that every war adds a new dialect to our magazine literature.—Life.

No Good Beds There.

Weary Willie—Let's bunk in dat coal yard.

Tired Timothy—What fer? Dat ain't a soft-coal firm.

Mutual Recognition.

"Bless my soul!" exclaimed the man with the iron gray beard, cordially extending his hand. "Ain't you the tow-headed boy that used to worry the life out of me twenty-five years ago, back in old Chemung County, by climbing my orchard fence and stealing my apples?"

"If you're the infernally mean and stingy old hunks who owned that orchard and used to set your dog on any boy who came within half a mile of it, I am," replied the younger man, grasping the proffered hand and shaking it heartily.—Chicago Tribune.

A Sure Thing.

He—Wasn't that you on the piazza last night?

She—No.

"Then I wonder who in the world it was I kissed?"

"You can probably tell by going there to-night at the same time."—Life.

He Knew Him.

"I am a man with a history," began the visitor; "and——"

"Yes; I know. You're selling it on subscription to only the best people. Don't want it. Good day."—Philadelphia Record.

Would Change It Himself.

"It's a woman's privilege to change her mind, you know," she said.

"That's right," he replied brutally, "and I don't blame her a bit. If I had the average feminine mind I'd change it myself."—Chicago Evening Post.

Volumes Implied.

"It takes a woman to find the words to say mean things about other women."

"Yes, but she can make meaner slaps by not finding the words. For instance, when she says: 'Of course, I don't exactly know anything about her, but——' "—Philadelphia Press.

Had Been Punished Enough.

